Bells Tradition Of Christmas; Legends Built Around Them

Bells are now so traditionally a sign of Christmas that one can scarcely think of the season without them. In all parts of the world bells at Christmas don't mean merely a call to worship Jesus, whose birth is being commemorated; they have a special legendary meaning.

The first Christmas bells date back to the eve of the Nativity when the wisemen were following the star across the desert, to keep themselves together in the night, and to make a joyful music the wisemen hung bells around the necks of their camels.

In parts of England it is believed that when Christ was born, Satan died; so the bells toiled the death of Satan, and were called "the old Lad's passing bell." These bells tolled for an hour as the Devil's death knell, but at midnight they became the joyous announcement of the birth of Christ.

According to a legend of Lochen, Holland, long ago the people purchased two beautiful bells to be hung in the church tower, but because they failed to have the bells baptized, Satan carried the bells off and dropped them into a nearby pond. The villagers of Lochen still claim to hear those bells ringing from the depths of the pond at exactly 12 o'clock on Christmas Eve.

The Scandinavian people are said to have been the first to hang ornaments on their Christmas trees. Small silver bells adding much gaiety to the season were the earliest of these ornaments.

Santa Claus and his reindeer probably display the joy of the holiday better than any other thing. Not only to children, but to all have these jingling bells brought anticipation and joy. Even though they are only bells of the imagination, they will always remain a part of Christmas.

In America one of the most beloved customs is the playing of old hymns and carols on Christmas morning on the carillon. Practically every large city in the United States has a set of these tuned bells.

Hi-Y Splash Party Saturday At YMCA

The Hi-Y Club of South Side has been functioning in many different ways for the last few weeks.

Among their activities was a special religious service for Thanksgiving. Participating in this service were Ron Taylor, Dave Dunstone, and Bob Simmons. Dave Roderick played the piano for the program.

Last week the business meeting consisted of a discussion on plans for the splash party next Saturday. The entertainment of the meeting was provided by slides taken by Mr. Robert Weber, the club's sponsor. The slides were on several tours of the United States taken by Mr. Weber and former members on Hi-Y trips.

Monday night, the remainder of the plans for the splash party were discussed. John Meyerholtz, president, said that nominations will soon be made for the officers of next semester. The entertainment was provided by the YMCA. The members had access to all of their gymnasium facilities.

The Bible reading Monday morning was presented by Tom Graham.

Girls To Lead Tours Through New Gym

"This is the girls' gym!"

This is what 12 girls will be telling the student body on Monday, January 5, during the tour of the new building. These girls will stand throughout the section of the building designated for girls' gym work and serve as guides.

The girls selected to do this work are Alberta Bonnell, Barbara Brown, Shelba Cox, Connie Denis, Judy Garrison, Susan Getty, Jane Glass, Susan Kuroski, Pat Igney, Jeanette Lynn, Ruby Martin, and Ann Walton.

Though not quite finished, the new building is very spacious and beautiful. The girls' gym is large and has its own needed equipment. The dance and exercise room has several mirrored walls with balancing bars on the other walls. The dressing rooms are very practical, with plenty of dressing space, lockers, and shower rooms.

In addition, there are private offices for the girls' gym instructors, an equipment room, and a first-aid office.

The Vesta annual Christmas party was held December 10 at 3:30 p.m. in Room 75.

Because it is composed of 20 vocalists, South Side's Madrigal Choir which was started approximately eight years ago by Mr. Lester Hostetler, vocal director, is now referred to as "Top 20."

Originating in family singing around the dinner table, a strict Madrigal used no instrumental accompaniment. Growing to include neighborhood circles, it was still entirely unaccompanied. Strict Madrigals today are composed of from 16 to 20 singers, who perform a cappella.

Hand-picked by Mr. Hostetler for ability and attitude, our Madrigal Choir includes: sopranos, Judy Bastian, Joyce Brittenham, Carol Kenner, Kay Krause, and Judy Rumple; altos, Nancy Hickman, Ann Keirns, Margo Martindale, Barb Miser, and Alice Weddle; tenors, Judy Boyer, Mary Kay Hall, John Hendricksen, Martha Milnor, and Mary Sue Robertson; basses, Dave Dunstone, Chuck Jellison, Don Kern, Dave Roderick, and Dick Rothberg.

These terms, although unfamiliar to many, are a great part of South Side majorettes' vocabulary. They add a great deal to the basketball halftime intermissions. The majorettes practice every Tuesday and every other Thursday after school in the bandroom. Barbara Lewandowski is the leader elected in September.

Approximately 30 girls try out for the honor of being a majorette. The girls are required to know how to march. They start trying out at the beginning of October. The older majorettes take the new girls and teach them how to march. There are three eliminations, before Mr. R. T. Drummond, sponsor, picks the top 16 girls who will march at the games.

Girls who have joined this organization are Tomma Arnold, Nancy Bain, Brenda Dull, Connie Franz, Mary Beth Foote, Mary Ellen Fritz, Leanne Keokuk, Anita Keller, Mary Lou Koehler, Sue Kolkman, Susie Knight, Pat LaLone, Barb Lewandowski, Martha McChesney, Carol Maners, Marsha Melching, Barbara Miller, Janice Nahrwold, Beverly Potts, Judy Ramey, Judy Reitz, Nancy Rose, Bobbie Jo Ross, Bernice Sherman, Dawn Stevens, Sharon Stevens, Nancy Stillwell, Marsha Stirne, Janice Thiele, Ann Walton, and Sandy Walton.

Council Chooses Two Kelly Teachers

Miss Erma Dochterman, a former art teacher at South Side, died last Monday morning while a patient at the Lutheran Hospital.

Miss Dochterman taught art for 20 years, from 1930 to 1950. She then retired from teaching, but took charge of the study halls and attendance until 1953. Since then, she substituted frequently for absent teachers.

Miss Dochterman resided at 640 W. Washington until last winter, when she became a patient at the Lutheran Hospital. Mr. R. Nelson Snider, Mr. George Collyer, and Mr. Wayne Scott acted as pallbearers at the funeral last Tuesday at the First Presbyterian Church at 4 p.m.

Student Body Collects 12,820 Cans In Annual Christmas Food Drive

Exactly 12,820 cans of food were collected during the annual Lettermen's Food Drive. This total exceeded the goal by more than 4,000 cans.

Once again the seniors won the race between the classes with 3,713. Likewise, once again the freshmen, with 3,522 cans, ran a close second.

An outstanding collection of 917 cans came from Mr. Ward Gilbert's homeroom. Room 146 followed with the high total of 669 cans.

Letterman Steve Smith said, "It was a great thrill to take part in such a drive and to know that several families had a much nicer Christmas because of it."

MR. ORA DAVIS, Lettermen sponsor, wishes to thank each and every person who helped make the drive such a huge success.

The results of the collection by classes and homerooms are:

FOOD QUOTA SURPASSED—A total of 12,840 cans of food were presented to the Lettermen's Club of South Side, who in turn presented the food to the Christmas Bureau. The quota for this year was exceeded by 4,000 cans. Bill Sutter and Joe Roth hold the doors open so that lettermen Steve Meyers, Dick Tipton, Terry Burke, Carl Johnson, and Mel Smith can carry the food to waiting cars.

Archer Varsity Cheerleaders State Opinions On Uniforms

THE NEW LOOK—John Hendricksen eyes the new outfits being worn by the varsity cheerleaders. John's subjects include, left to right, Judy Thompson, Janet Lawry, Carol Lockwood, Janis Mitchell, and Janet Hicks. The new outfits were designed by the cheerleaders, and the necessary alterations were made by the T & T Tailoring Company.

The South Side cheerleading staff, sponsored by Mr. Raymond Quance, plays an important part in backing the basketball team by leading the students in cheers throughout each game.

The varsity cheerleaders have recently acquired new uniforms, and each member of the staff had comments on both the outfits and the spirit of the student body.

Janet Hicks, the captain of the varsity cheerleaders, stated that she thought it was quite a compliment when several of the college students said that the new outfits were "collegiate looking."

Janet commented, "There is always room for improvement when backing the team. This backing must start with the cheerleaders, and they in turn need the backing of the student body."

z z z

SINCE CAROL LOCKWOOD, the secretary and point recorder of the squad, had been sick previously, she had this to say: "I'm looking forward to cheering again, and I'm anxious to wear my new outfit for the first time." Carol also said that the students should really support the team when they are able to. "When I was sick," states Carol, "I realized how much I missed going to the games."

Janet Lawry, the only junior on the squad, stated that she thought the new uniforms were very stylish. She also commented, "The students are doing a good job in backing the team; however, they must remember that the boys need support during the second half just as much as the first half, and everyone should try to be back in his seat and ready to yell when the last half begins."

Janis Mitchell stated that she liked the outfits very much because they were different, and she was glad to hear favorable comments from the college students. Concerning the support of the team, Janis commented, "It's great that the kids turn out for games as well as they do, and they have really been backing the team."

Judy Thompson also liked the new outfits very much, and she hopes that the kids keep up the good spirit. However, Judy believes that the students should yell louder to really back the team, and she wished that they would follow the cheerleaders at times instead of trying to lead them.

z z z

JOHN HENDRICKSEN'S only comment was: "I hate the danskins." However, John does enjoy cheerleading very much, and has been a cheerleader since he was in grade school.

The varsity cheerleaders met together several times and designed the new outfits. The white pleated skirts and the green vests of the new uniforms were both made by T.&T. Tailoring.

Each of the varsity cheerleaders have preciously been cheerleaders in grade school. Carol, Judy, and John worked together on the Hoagland Grade School staff. "We still stand up when we hear the band play 'On Wisconsin'," states John. Janet, Janis, and Janet were cheerleaders at Harrison Hill.

The cheerleading squad has regular practice every Tuesday after school, and they also meet before each pep session. The cheerleaders all agreed that this sport is "great for teaching self-confidence," and requires a great deal of co-ordination.

The entire squad believes that the alternate supervision of the pep sessions has proved both enjoyable and educational. This supervision has been arranged so that one varsity and one reserve cheerleader together plan each pep session.

The reserve cheerleaders consist of Barb Wallace, Margo Dixon, Merle Baldwin, Sharon Zelt, and Sally Dill.

z z z

THE VARSITY AND the reserve cheerleaders enjoy working on new cheers very much. Mr. Quance checks all the cheers and has them mimeographed for the students.

Mr. Quance has taken the cheerleaders to two cheerleading clinics at Portland, Ind. The cheerleaders said that they were thrilled to go to Portland and have everyone awe at their being from the school of the state champs.

All of the cheerleaders have agreed that cheering in the state championship game and seeing South win that game has been their biggest event. They are now anxiously looking forward to Sectionals.

The cheerleaders are also very willing to teach others what they have learned through experience. Before the spring cheerleading tryouts, they spend a great deal of their time teaching cheers and cheerleading techniques to other students.

Each of the varsity cheerleaders subscribes to "Megaphone," the national cheerleading magazine; and they all are members of The National Cheerleading Association.

z z z

THE QUALIFICATIONS for a cheerleader, as listed in this nationwide magazine are: a magnetic personality; limitless spirit; unbounded enthusiasm; strong, compelling, resonate voice; distinct sense of rhythm; a poised and relaxed attitude before the audience; good sportsmanship; leadership abilities; showmanship; and good physical health. So cheerleading isn't nearly as easy as it appears to the audience.

The "Megaphone" sums everything up by saying: "Cheerleading is not an easy job. To be a good cheerleader one has to work hard. It takes long hours of practice and means sometimes losing one's voice for three or four days after a game. It is up to the cheerleader to always do a good job."

Familiar Sayings Prove Dangerous

Have you ever caught yourself saying some of these familiar expressions? Then "hang yourself" in shame. "Rise and shine" (like a light bulb) and "Keep your eyes peeled" for these amusing sayings.

You've got to be sharp to get the point—Ouch!

That color brings your eyes out—very far?

His face fell—did it break?

My sides are simply splitting—r-i-p.

My nose ran—it has legs?

Her eye was glued to the window—what did she do with the other one?

There are butterflies in my stomach—unusual diet.

She batted her eyelashes at him—did he catch them?

Hit the road—but don't hurt your hand.

That's beside the point—which side?

A man, while driving down the street, turned into a garage—like magic.

His eyes met mine—how do you do.

Hold my place—heavy, isn't it?

The sun is in my eyes—so, that's where it went.

The robber held up the bank—who—Atlas?

It's written all over your face—go wash.

This tastes flat—better than tasting pointed.

I came back to earth—been up in a space ship, huh?

We think that you're really a gem—pearl or ruby—if our article "had you in stitches."

That's neither here nor there—where?

This about sews it up—what is this, a sewing circle?

Archer Homemakers Create New Recipes

Betty Crocker and Ann Pillsbury are eternally coming up with new recipes. Perhaps our own girls are potential famous homemakers. Here are their ideas of "perfect" recipes.

Judy Chapman: Black strap molasses, pineapple chunks, diced marshmallow ice cream, and strained cooked tomatoes. Combine for spaghetti sauce.

Carole Fischer: "Suicide Treat" (serves four), 1 can cheese dip, 1 can pizza sauce, 3 cans ripe olives, and 2 cans asparagus. Simmer at 375 degrees and serve. Be sure a doctor is one of the four people.

Ruby Martin: Buttermilk with chocolate-covered pizza.

Pat LaLone: Cottage cheese with chocolate syrup over cabbage.

Brenda Dull: Baked apples with grapefruit.

Sandy Ditton: Chip Dip. Tomato catsup, mustard, and chopped dill pickles. Be sure to season with salt, pepper, sugar, and cinnamon.

Susan Getty: Dagwood Sandwiches. Peanut butter on bread, sliced bananas laid across the peanut butter, and sliced dill pickles on top of the bananas. Top with Karo Syrup.

Joan LeChot: Rock and Roll Pie. Take five stale rolls (cinnamon) and grind into small crumbs. Then mix with Pepsi and roll into crust. For filling use small green peppers (hot). Top with mixture of dill pickle juice and whip cream. Garnish with small grey stones from Lake James.

Sheri DeYoung: Jello Strawberry Chiffon. Stir in chopped sardines and ripe olives. Spread on Nabisco Sugar Honey Grahams. Top with meringue and brown in 450 degree oven for a while. Garnish with paprika and sliced hard-boiled eggs.

Marcia Eaton: Breakfast Menu. Orange juice, salami, watermelon, and dill pickles.

Carol Szink: Midnight Snack. Pizza sauce and ice cream mixed together with chopped nuts and dill pickles over raw duck. Two hours later . . . 2 aspirins.

Sandy Landree: Horseradish and Limburger cheese sauce over chopped liver and dried eggplant. Add tobasco sauce for seasoning. Alka-Seltzer for the drink and after effects.

Seniors Remember Vivid Experiences

Almost all of us have had something happen to use which we have never forgotten. Such is the case with Archer seniors.

Janet Rupp: The tree five girls made for the Junior Prom—We goofed.

Sandy Houser: Falling down the steps in the gym in front of the mob during fifth period.

Sandy Hoover: The secret joke about the "Candy Kane."

Susie Holmes: The tree Janet took the blame for—We really goofed.

Tom Bolyard: Winning State in basketball.

Sharon Hubbell: Having Mono!

Craig Bradley: Passing the M.E. Test.

Mary Lou Koehler: Becoming a senior at last!

Janet Hicks: Not getting expelled . . . yet!

Frances Riddle: Passing journalism.

Linda LeVay: Riding around in Marijo's LaSalle.

Cheri Henry: The day both Mr. Snider and Miss Van Gorder called me to their offices.

Sharon Ruhl: Government 2.

Alice Weddle: Losing my bones (chicken bones for a chem experiment).

Millie Demetre: When I was told I was getting dyed blue flowers for the Junior Prom, but I got white orchids instead.

Archer Couples Follow Rage; Ice Skate At Various Rinks

Because of the mad rage to go ice-skating, nearly everyone is found (when you want to find them) in a skating rink like McMillen or a small lake like the Reservoir. Of course there is always the Coliseum, if you are especially talented.

Upon arriving at one of these places (which one, we won't say) we were greeted by Pat Harmeyer and Steve Clemner (C.C.) who accidentally (?) banged into us as we came in. Peggy Floyd and Tom Lee (N.S. '57) are trying to figure out a new figure which Bob Bolyard and Sheri DeYoung are executing.

Watch out, Tom! Oh, ho! He stuck his elbow in Steve Burton's hot cocoa just as Steve was yelling to Marijane Tobey to hurry up and to bring Tom Bolyard, Sylvia Ehrman, Steve Smith, Macy Galbreath, Lola McLaughlin, and Dean Rice along with her. By the way, what was Steve doing with his cocoa on the ice, anyway?

Diane Hall and Kenny Robinson have been trying vainly to stay on their feet. There they go again! Thud! Gretchen Meister is supposed to be learning how to skate, but her teacher, Fred VanFossen, is certainly receiving most of the attention. Now she's waving to Bill Meyer and Linda Wightman who just came in. At this rate, she'll never learn.

Since it is the Christmas season, a few of the better skaters have tried to look slightly Christmasy in look-alike outfits. Linda Amos and Gene Menze are skating (waltzing is more like it) slowly by in their red and pink sweater outfits. The colors are brighter this year you know, and we must get away from those old Christmas standbys, red and green.

Crack! Someone has just banged into a wall. It looks like Mike Lehman and Sandy Miller. It is! Nicky Demetre and Marty Clark rush over to see how they are. No broken bones! Bill Kerley, Gonda Rider, Carolyn Devore, Mike Collins, Bob Mann, and Mary Sue Robertson are, rather were, in a string across the ice, but as they were blocking traffic slightly and Mary Sue, being on the end got knocked down, they decided to disband.

Bob King and Sue Sappenfield have been greeting everyone with, "Would you like to buy a ticket to . . . " By this time the people they were speaking to are already lost in the rush.

Suddenly, seeming to have gained an enormous appetite, we decide to go off the ice and gourge ourselves with food. Dick Rothberg and Carolyn Isch are drinking some orange pop, but some of it is already gone, having dribbled accidentally (?) into Dan Bill's shoe, while Dan is now trying to explain to Camille Luther why his shoes are damp and he can't ice skate.

Sharon Collins and John Shannahan have just come in and we say hello to them, but it's getting late and we'd better leave, so good-bye!

No Glue on Seats

It seems there wasn't any glue on the seats during that great South Side-Huntington game, although a good many spectators had their eyes glued on the terrific performance of Tom Bolyard.

The whole affair began when about five grade school boys selected some choice seats for the game on the 50-yard line. A few minutes before the game started, the seats were mysteriously vacated; and a few minutes after that they were ably refilled by some patriotic Archer gentlemen.

At the halftime of the game, the seats were once again vacated; and were soon filled by the original occupants. By some coincidence the second party then returned and met the first party face to face.

After about five minutes of very gentlemanly persuasion, the second party once again resumed their seats. By this time a nice little man in a little blue suit had taken interest in the case, and after some more persuasion the party of Archers graciously gave up their seats. By the way, how was the game, Bill Lentz, Win Moses, Don Wirick, and Dan Tritch?

Typical History Conversation

"Where were your forefathers born?"
"I've only got one father."
"Your business?"
"Rotten."
"Where is Washington?"
"He's dead."
"I mean the capital of the U.S."
"They loaned it all to Europe!"

z z z

Another Seat

The first day he took his seat in the House of Representatives, Henry Clay was elected Speaker! This happened on November 4, 1811, and he was re-elected to the House and Speakership five more times!

z z z

He Sees All

Have you ever noticed a pair of mysterious eyes watching you from overhead in Room 92? The eyes are located about 10 feet above the floor on the front wall of the room, and they seem to belong to a mysterious man wearing some kind of square hat.

I'm rather sure I've never heard his name mentioned before, and I think we ought to have a "Name That Person" contest. What should we call him, just in case we ever meet him? A name like Rochambeau, De-Soto, or Von Steuben would never be acceptable in modern times, so we need a name that's really practical.

Any suggestions will be warmly appreciated and I'm sure Mr. X will be very happy with his new name!

New Year's Eve

Starkle, starkle, little twink,
Who the what you are I think.
I'm not under what you call
The affluence of incohol;
I'm not drunk as thinkle peep,
I'm just a little slort of sheep.
Tee martoonis make a guy
Fool so feelish—Don't know why.
Really don't know who's me yet,
The drunker I say, the longer I get.
So just one more to fill my cup,
I've all day Sober to sunday up!

Operation Drop-In

The other day I noticed a cute little guy in a red and white overcoat parked on the illustrious roof of the greatest high school this side of Calhoun, and you know which I mean. Well, I understand the man with the beard is trying to find a way to get into school (for what reason I know not).

Don't be surprised if he drops in through one of those hatches above study hall, and when he does be sure and report him. He goes by the aliases of Old St. Nick, Santa Claus, and many others; and he's currently wanted on charges of reindeer stealing, so keep an eye out!

Mysterious Coincidence

Have you ever had the experience of talking to someone you've never seen over the telephone and then having to meet this person somewhere? It probably happens all the time, and people are always embarrassed when it does.

One day Diane Fredrick, a freshman, had arranged to meet a certain Barb Richey in the Times Room. Diane had often talked to Barb over the phone, but the time had now come when they had to meet. Arriving at the meeting place, Diane saw a lot of unfamiliar faces; and not knowing who her mysterious friend was, she decided to find additional information about her in the card files.

Diane finally found the right card with Barb Richey's name on it, but by this time someone was using the adjacent file. Much to Diane's surprise she noticed that this person next to her had turned to her name, and I imagine you can guess the rest of this coincidental meeting!

Procrastination Causes Serious Consequences

Johnny failed English five because he put off getting a book for the required report. Thus, he wasted an entire semester retaking the course, and a black mark was placed on his permanent record card; consequently, this mark influenced his summer job because bosses don't want "lazy boys" on the payroll.

This is an example of procrastination and its results. As this bad habit becomes more deeply rooted in one's actions, it leads to far bigger and more serious mistakes than a failure in English. It may cause the loss of a job or the dislike or mistrust of someone who was promised something, and, because it was put off and neglected did not receive fulfillment of the promise.

People procrastinate mainly because of sheer laziness. The unwillingness to put forth a little effort may cause serious consequences. "There is plenty of time" or "This really isn't very important so I'll just let it slip by" are some of the most common excuses given by the lazy person.

Another reason many people put things off is because the tasks are unpleasant. They may range from doing the dishes to telling a good friend some bad news. Putting them off will not make them go away, and eventually the jobs will have to be done.

One who never does accomplish the distasteful things in life shows a great weakness in character, which must be cured in order for the person to reach full mental maturity.

Procrastination becomes such a habit that a person may not recognize the fact that he is putting things off. He may sincerely believe the excuses mentioned above. Therefore, the first step in "curing" procrastination is realizing that one is procrastinating.

Then, when one finds himself saying "I have plenty of time," he should force himself to do the job and get it over with. A great satisfaction is gained when will-power wins over procrastination and a job is done.

Procrastination is an easy habit to latch on to, and a hard one to get rid of. Beware the symptoms, and when you find yourself giving excuses for not getting things done, summon all your will power and do them.

Archers Work Hard To Finish Semester

Dan O'Bryant Successfully Makes 7 Bombs, Owns Chemistry Lab

Seven out of 35 bombs made by Dan O'Bryant, junior, were successful. Naturally, these inventions were meant for experience and pleasure, not for destruction. One hundred and twenty dollars have been expended for Dan's basement chemistry laboratory, which he received in crude form from a neighbor about five years ago.

"I nearly suffocated once," commented Dan. Following instructions in an old chemistry book, he had begun to seat some chemicals. Chlorine, a poisonous gas, was the result of his experiment. Used in World War I to poison enemy soldiers, Chlorine would kill anyone who might get a whiff of it. "I guess I only got half a whiff," laughed Dan.

STUDYING EFFECTS of different gases on insects is another of Dan's hobbies. "Carbon dioxide applied for three or four hours will put ants in a jar asleep. When I follow this gas with doses of oxygen, the ants wake up and become very lively." Dan has a collection of between 300 and 400 ants which he uses in his experiments.

Through use of a telescope, Dan has viewed stars and planets, galaxies, an eclipse of the moon, and Haley's Comet. "Because my friends were interested in outer space," Dan commented, "I began to study astronomy about eight years ago." Often he and his friends read books concerning space study and then discuss the information. His 90-book library includes books on astronomy, science fiction, and chemistry. While traveling to California, Dan visited Yerkes Observatory in Wisconsin, where he gained more information.

IN BOY SCOUTS, a merit badge was awarded to Dan for passing a test on astronomy. Otherwise, his hobby has afforded him more pleasure than recognition. To keep astronomy an avocation rather than a vocation is his intent.

On the college prep course, Dan plans to study engineering at Purdue University. In addition to his experimenting and space study, football and intramurals occupy most of Dan's extra time.

Soph Diana Meyer Pursues Music Since Age Seven

Diana Meyer, 10B, is a kelly student endowed with a desire to know everything about music. The piano, flute, violin, percussion, and organ have been targets of this desire.

"I first became interested in music at the age of seven," said Diana. "At that time I began piano lessons. This is still my favorite instrument." The piano has become more or less a part of Diana's life. She has turned her knowledge of the piano into a money making proposition. Diana is now teaching the basics of piano to two aspiring musicians.

Percussion instruments are comparatively new to Diana. "I had been interested in the numerous percussion instruments so I decided to try them. These instruments are peculiar to girls; however, I find them very interesting.

Diana has entered the various city contests and has won thirteen medals in all.

LIKE MANY PEOPLE, Diana has decided to delve further into her hobby. While still in fifth grade, Diana decided she wanted to become a junior high teacher. She is attaining valuable experience in this field already, as she is directing the children's choir at church.

Even though Diana likes rock and roll, she favors classical and semi-classical music. Her favorite composer is Bethoven, her favorite piece is Rachmaninoff's Prelude in C Minor.

"I believe many of the teenagers of today appreciate classical music," stated Diana, "however, the trend of conformity forces many of them to deny it. Fort Wayne is very fortunate having the Philharmonic Orchestra here. The youth concerts have been a great inspiration for young people."

WHEN ASKED why she spent so much time on music, Diana replied: "Music gives you a great personal satisfaction, it is a wonderful way to express yourself. The language of music is country understood and appreciated."

Besides directing the children's choir, Diana sings in the church youth choir. She is also secretary-treasurer of the Luther League. Diana also has this position with Pi Mu, a national music society.

Here at school Diana is sports manager for GAA and is piano accompanist for occasional choir.

Three Kelly Girls Enjoy 6 Days At Naval Academy In Annapolis

A college week end is the ultimate of every high school girl. Beyond this lies an even more fantabulous dream —a week end at the Annapolis Naval Academy. This is exactly what happened to three Archer lasses, Joan Littlejohn, Macy Galbreath, and Susie Rothert.

Their departure date was Tuesday, November 23. They drove in what was described as "the worst rain storm we've ever seen" to Youngstown, O., where they spent the night. They arrived in Annapolis four hours late because of an accident that had occurred in the Laurel Hill Tunnel on the Pennsylvania Turnpike. By the time the two miles of tunnel were cleared of debris and poisonous fumes, which had held up the six lanes of traffic, they had lost quite a bit of time.

THE THANKSGIVING HOP at Macdonaugh Hall was the big event of the week end. "Every girl you saw there was neater than the next one," stated Joan Littlejohn. One of the things that impressed the girls was at the end of the hop when all the midshipmen stood at attention and sang the National Anthem. This is a custom observed at the end of every dance or hop.

Their guided tour of Annapolis included a tour of the Yard, Crypt of John Paul Jones, the Severn River, Bancroft Hall, the largest dormitory in the world, which houses 3,800 boys. The Chapel impressed them most with its stained glass window depicting an ensign dedicating his life to God. Also intriguing in the Chapel were the two huge anchors which flanked the altar. They also attended a huge Pep Rally which was held before the Army-Navy game.

Next on the agenda was an excursion to Washington, D. C. They visited the White House, Supreme Court, and all the other historical monuments that contribute to make Washington the American place it is. The girls were impressed and somewhat awed by the Changing of the Guard in Arlington National Cemetery.

Philadelphia was next for the annual Army-Navy game. Some 102,000 people crowded into the Municipal Stadium for the annual battle. An awesome sight for the girls occurred when all the midshipmen took off their hats and sang their school song. Navy had plenty of spirit, but it wasn't enough—Army won.

MAYBE MALES DO understand the fair sex better than we think. Joan, Susie, and Macy are ready to believe this. Their "drags" instructed them to go to the 30-yard line and wait. Soon the three "mids" came trotting over, laughing that they knew the girls would go to the wrong 30-yard line.

Walking, spike heels, and cobbled lanes didn't seem to agree with the trio. Because of a Naval rule which states that the midshipmen can't have the use of a car out of a seven-mile radius of the Academy, the sextet had to use the motivation of their own feet to get where they wanted to go. From the football stadium, they had to walk two miles to get to the subway that would take them to their hotel.

While they were residing at the Broadwood Hotel, they attended the cotillion which had been given the name of "Le Sete de Paris." Travel posters carried out the theme of the dance. The girls described it as a beautiful sight, especially when they viewed the dance floor from the balcony overlooking it.

EVENINGS END all too quickly and at 12:30 the girls had to drive the boys to the station to catch their train back to the Academy. Since everyone else had the same idea, a "minor" traffic jam was created. Finally 10 minutes from train departure time and seven blocks from the station, all the midshipmen in the surrounding cars decided to make a run for it. "Bidding" their drags goodby, the boys ran the remaining blocks. Just imagine how the station attendants reacted when they saw several hundred boys, attired in blue and white, pouring in through the entrances. Incidentally, they made it 10 seconds before train time.

Everything rated tops with the girls. One thing that had them puzzled for a while was the language. Steps were ladders; floors were decks; downstairs was below; left was port; right was starboard; dates were drags; and roommates were wives.

There were six days of enchantment soon over, but never to be forgotten.

South Defeats Michigan City 64-56, Loses 49-48 To Gerstmeyer's Cats

Tom Bolyard Hits 28 Points In Archer Win

Imps Rated Sixth Best On State Basketball Poll; Big Victory For South

South Side's Archers pulled a "big" victory from the clutches of Michigan City's Imps Saturday night, December 20. The Imps were previously rated No. 6 in the Associnted Press poll of Indiana basketball teams, and the win added prestive to the Archers' name as they downed them, 64-56.

Once again Tom (The Bomb) Bolyard led the Green as he tallied 28 points to take the game's scoring honors. Bolyard opened up slowly but finished one point below his 29 point average with 12 field goals and four free throws.

COACH DON REICHERT used only six men in the game as the Archers came from behind to pull it out of the fire late in the third quarter. Nick Demetre, looking somewhat in the form of his 20-point performance in the Green's opener with Bluffton, hit for 12 points, the only other Archer in double figures. Bill Meyer and Mike Simmons each added six points; while Dave Barrett and bench man Ken Howe connected for eight and four points, respectively.

The game was a hectic, well-played contest that saw the Green pull ahead, fall behind, and finally fire past the Imps to stay in front. The Kellys led by four at the quarter only to come up on the short end at the half, 27-26.

THE THIRD PERIOD saw some rugged action, and not until Dave Barrett's three-pointed late in that period were the Archers ahead to stay, 41-40. The Green led 45-42 at the end of the quarter and began to build up a 10-point lead to coast to the finish.

South's zone defense kept Michigan City worried throughout the contest as the Green defense forced the Imps to shoot from well out. The Kellys actually riddled the Imp press, breaking through for many quick baskets. The Archers returned to action Tuesday against Terre Haute Gerstmeyer's Black Cats.

Kellys Lose Final Game Of Holiday Tournament

Led by the scoring of John Roshel, who poured in 18 points, the Terre Haute Gerstmeyer Black Cats spoiled South's bid for revenge by defeating them in the final game of the Elkhart Invitational Holiday Tourney by a score of 54-50.

Indianapolis Scecina took consolation honors by defeating the host, Elkhart's Blue Blazers, 60-55.

It was the second time in one week that the Black Cats had beaten the Archers. They nosed out South by one point, December 23, at Terre Haute.

The Archers got into the final game by beating Elkhart in Friday's second game, 66-59. Gerstmeyer had tougher going; needing an overtime period to nip the Crusaders of Scecina by the score of 65-63.

IN THE OPENING game, the Cats were ahead at the first stop, 19-13. But the Crusaders fought back quickly and with big Dick Cook working under the boards and Ray Johns and Tom Morgan doing the outside shooting, they took a 37-32 halftime lead.

Scecina was able to stay ahead through the third period; although Gerstmeyer narrowed the gap to two points once at 47-45. The period ended with the Crusaders leading 52-47. With 3:48 to play, the Cats caught up, when Smith hit a jump shot for a 56-56 tie. Then, with one minute left, Johns scored from the outside to forge Scecina ahead again. But Hester tied it up with a lay-up.

In the overtime, Cook's free throw gave the Crusaders a one-point lead; but a basket and a free throw by Hester meant victory for the Cats.

Scecina had a better field goal percentage; .400 to .338 for Gerstmeyer. But they lost out on the foul line hitting only a .407 mark to an .833 of the Cats.

ELKHART'S BLUE BLAZERS had a good shooting percentage against the Archers; but their .440 mark was not good enough to better South's .510 clip from the field.

Summers, Gary Mann, and Steve Fonner combined to give the Blazers a 20-16 first-period lead. The count was tied three times in the second quarter before South went ahead to stay at 39-30. Jim Saylor's two free throws gave the Archers that margin after he was fouled by Summers.

Elkhart suffered badly on rebounds during the second and third periods, when the Archers built an 11-point lead. The Bellmen cut down that lead in the fourth quarter but then it was too late.

As usual, Tom Bolyard led the Archers with 29 points, to be the only Kelly to score in double figures. Fonner and Summers led the Blazers with 12 and 17 points.

IN THE GAME for third-place honors, the Crusaders of Scecina handed the hosting Blazers their second setback of the tourney by defeating them by the score of 60-55. In this thrilling game, the Blazers were ahead most of the time, but a foul shot and two baskets by Cook and Ray gave the victory to Scecina.

Some excellent foul shooting on the side of the Cats and a bad first quarter by the Archers were the reasons for the Black Cats' second victory. South outscored Coach Sharpe's men in field goals, but lost the game on free throws when the Cats connected on 18 of 26, while the Archers hit eight out of 10.

A bad first quarter, in which the Archers were able to hit only one field goal, paved the way for the defeat at the hands of the Cats. Gerstmeyer was ahead by scores of 10-3, and 17-5 at the end of the first period.

In the second quarter, South continued to hit more field goals than the Cats, but again this was made up by Gerstmeyer on the foul line so that at the end of the first half the Kellymen were behind by 10 points.

The third quarter showed the same picture. Any Archer rally was stopped by the deadly foul shooting of Howard Sharpe's men. At the end of the third period, the Green and White trailed by 10 points.

Then, in the last quarter, when the Archers started a rally, it was too late. Tom Bolyard hit 15 of his 27 points in this period to bring the Archers closer and closer; but then the Cats started stalling with the ball and time ran out for South. With this victory, Gerstmeyer is the only team to beat the Archers twice in the last four years.

This was the Archers' third loss in 10 games. They will be idle until they take on North Side in a City Series clash tomorrow.

Juniors Capture Two GAA Games

The Juniors defeated the Seniors in volleyball in Upperclass GAA Monday in the gym, with a score of 26-15. The Sophomore 2 team beat the Sophomore 1's with a score of 27-23.

Both games were played at 3:30 p.m.

The Juniors then defeated the Sopromore 2's with a score of 27-25 in the game played at 4 p.m. The Sophomore 1 team beat the Seniors by a score of 25-18.

In the first set of games, high scorers for the Junior team, captained by Luann Uhl, were Pat Brown, 13; and Barb Burdick, 4. The captain of the Senio rteam, Pat Igney, was the high scorer with 7 points. The high scorers for the Sophomore 2's were Valerie Callahan, 6; and Susan Getty, 7. The team is captained by Diana Meyers. Rita Hessert, Dixie Piercy, Melodie Potts, and Lois Wartenbe scored high for the Sophomore I team, captained by Melodie Potts.

In the second set of games, four girls scored high for the Junior team: Barb Brown, 4; Judy Garrison, 5; Peggy Markin, 6; and Luann Uhl, 4. Karol Wise, 8; Donna Barnes, 5; and Shirley Stahlhut,4; all scored high for the Sophomore 2 team. Melodie Potts made a high score of 17 points for the Sophomore 1's. Pat Igney, Jean Motley, and Ann Walton scored high for the Seniors.

Mrs. Alice Keegan, gymnasium instructor, and Jan Spuller refereed and scored the games.

Winning Streak Of Five Games Brought To End

Tom Bolyard Scores 20; Dave Barrett Misses Game Because Of Injury

After accumulating a string of five consecutive victories, South Side's Archers met their second defeat of the season at the hands of Terre Haute Gerstmeyer, 49-48, at Terre Haute on December 23.

The Green and White efficiency was seriously impaired by the loss of 6-4 center Dave Barrett. Barrett, a junior who has been improving rapidly during the early games of the season, was not able to see action because of a back injury which was incurred while he was ice skating.

Even without him and on the foes' floor, the Archers almost won it. Tom Bolyard scored 20 points, a high total for anyone else, but below average for big Tom. Bill Meyer and Nick Demetre also contributed stellar performances, particularly in the first half.

SOUTH SIDE led the Black Cats at the quarter by a slim 15-13 margin, and they led at the half by a score of 27-23. However, Gerstmeyer roared back after the intermission behind Frank Joza, who took scoring honors with 22 points, to outscore the Archers, 13-7. This put Howard Sharpe's boys back on the long end of a 36-34 score at the end of stanza three.

The Green staged a rally, and they pulled into a 48-45 lead with only 80 seconds remaining to be played. Dick Lawson hit a fielder for the Cats, and George Hester sent them ahead with a pair of free throws. South regained possession, and Bolyard tried a desperate shot with 17 seconds remaining. The shot missed, and the home forces grabbed the ball and stalled out the victory.

Gerstmeyer played a very deliberate game and took only five shots from the field in the last period, connecting on three of them. They hit 15 of 53 shots overall, thereby chalking up a .283 percentage.

THE ARCHERS outscored the opposition from the field, dropping in 19 of 61 attempts for .312. However, the game was won by Gerstmeyer at the foul stripe, where they sank 19 of 26 chances while South hit only a dismal 10 out of 20.

South Side scoring was as follows:

Name	FG	FT	T
Demetre	3	1	7
Meyer	5	2	12
Bolyard	7	6	20
Simmons	1	1	3
Lebrecht	1	0	2
Roderick	2	0	4
Totals	19	10	48

Score by quarters:

South Side	15	12	7	14—48
Gerstmeyer	13	10	13	13—49

Schmitz On Sports

South Side's role in the complicated prep basketball scene found the Archers only worthy of an "oscar" as far as trophies for the current campiagn. Although they have displayed some colorful hardwood action, the Green and White faltered during the Christmas vacation after drawing widespread attention by topping Michigan City, 54-46.

By upsetting the Imps, South Side rocketed to the tenth spot on the weekly Associated Press rankings; but then the following Tuesday the mighty Archers became the second straight power to stumble before pesky, crafty Terre Haute Gerstmeyer.

The underdog Black Cats, nursing wounds from a smashing 83-56 slaughter at the hands of East Chicago Washington's relentless Senators, capitalized on the absence of Archer center Dave Barrett in their nip and tuck 49-48 triumph.

South became perennial power Gerstmeyer's second upset vicitm. The week before they scratched city foe Schulte from the unbeaten ranks. The loss dropped the Terre Haute squad from the ratings.

Still moaning over a poor showing down south, the ailing, practice-limited Archers headed to Elkhart with high hopes of getting a second crack at Gerstmeyer.

Harold Sharpe's boys obliged by taking the measure of Indianapolis Scecina in overtime. The Kellys fought their way into the finals with a poor showing in a typical win paced by Tom Bolyard. But the Kellys still showed their dependency on Dave Barrett as they fell behind the sharpshooting Cats early in losing their third game of the progressing season.

Paced by the great outside shooting of Ken Roshel, the Black Cats managed to build up a lead that even Tom Bolyard could ont overcome. Bolyard did hit 15 points in the final quarter and five in the space of three seconds.

Dave Roderick saw much action during the vacation action in the absence of Barrett, who sprained his back while skating. Roderick's performance deemed him worthy of seeing more action. Jim Saylors, who had seen only limited action, was given his big chance and also looked well, especially his accurate field play and passing.

Although the two losses suffered since school was adjourned did better than to equalize a win over powerful Michigan City, the Big Green should be cited for their play in that contest. In this one the Green ran well, shot beautifully from out, and moved the ball with deadly accuracy, but sacrificed speed and many good plays.

When the Green met Gestmeyer, they were shown that that slow deliberate passing game is not always potent. Gerstmeyer utilized a fast-passing game that left them with easy long shots on many occasions. If the back court would speed up the passes, the front court would have many more opportunities.

In the Elkhart Tourney with Gerstmeyer South switched to a switching man-to-man defense. This proved much less satisfactory than the customary zone that the Green usually employs.

The Green and White is rapidly developing into a squad that resembles Kokomo. The Wildcats are a powerful offensive unit paced by one standby, Jim Rayl. The Wildcats produce a fine show every time they meet a team that plays their type ball; but when some crafty coach slows down the game into a defense dominated contest, Kokomo is hapless. Thus also is the Archers' present predicament.

Although held to a mere 20 points, Tom Bolyard continued to close in on all local prep records. With half the season history Bolyards is just 17 points shy of the school record of 304 points in one season held by Terry Miller. In this next game with North Side tomorrow evening, Bolyard should crack the mark.

By averaging just 15 points in the remaining 10 games (Tom is presently ripping the nets for 28.27 points per game), he will crack Johnny Flowers' city season total mark.

Remember, South Side has a record streak of 23 straight City Series wins at stake tomorrow against North Side and we hope Wednesday against Central, so back the squad on to the victory trail.

Archer Freshmen Trounce Elmhurst

South Side's freshman five turned back Elmhurst by the score of 38-25 on December 18, in the Elmhurst gym. Elmhurst was beaten by Central by only 15 points while South was trounced by well over 20 points.

Ken Robinson pitched in 18 points for the winners to lead the offensive attack. Robinson's effort was an individual high for a South Side freshman.

Junior Nick Demetre Believes Teamwork Will Improve Squad

An outstanding personality on this year's fine basketball team is junior Nick Demetre.

Nick is a holdover from last year's fabulous State Championship team, so he has had much experience on the hardwood. Nick spent his first year on the varsity squad last year while only a sophomore. In last year's IHSAA tournament Nick saw quite a bit of action and looked very good against the bigger boys who had much more experience.

This year Nick has a tough job ahead of him for he must help fill the shoes of graduated Carl Stavreti. Nick is noted for his quick movements and expert ball-handling. His jump shot is superior.

Nick feels that our squad this year falls short in a few ways of the 1958 state champs. He believes that with a lot of hard work and teamwork our team will prove stiff competition for each team they face.

As a junior, Nick is taking English, Latin, physics, and United States history. He is looking forward to participating in college athletics, but has not chosen the college he will attend.

Three Teachers Kids Reveal Advantages Of Unusual Situation

Three students at South Side are "T-K's" (Teachers' Kids)! This isn't as bad as it seems; in fact, it even has its advantages, admit Jo Ellen Bobay, daughter of Mr. Jack Bobay, industrial arts teacher; Dave Redmond, son of Mrs. Anne Redmond, Latin teacher; and Bill Harader, son of Mr. LaVerne Harader, English teacher.

A survey that was taken among these "T-K's" revealed that they didn't feel their parents were extra hard on them as far as homework was concerned.

One student said, "My father would expect me to get high grades whether he was a teacher or not."

Another student mentioned that although to his classmates it made no difference that his father was a teacher, occasionally some of his teachers would bring this up. "However," he added, "all my teachers are impartial toward me."

"One disadvantage," pointed out one student, "is the difficulty of explaining eighth periods!"

Green To Play North's Indians Friday Night

Archers Are Expected To Be In Good Condition For City Series Clash

The slumping South Side Archers will take on North Side's Redskins Friday night at North's gym. The Archers will be after the Redskins' scalps after two losses to Terre Haute Gerstmeyer and an unimpressive victory over Elkhart.

North is battling Concordia for the Summit City cellar. Before the holidays in a game against a very poor Auburn squad, North trailed 20-14 at the quarter and only tied them 38-up at the half. A good pinch-hit job by Ron Latham and sharp shooting by Allen Tew gained them a 73-63 victory.

SOUTH, BEHIND Tom Bolyard, is expected to be in good condition. Dave Barrett should regain his fine play after recovering from an injury. He looked good on offense and defense against Michigan City. Bill Meyer, who recently became eligible, has yet to hit full stride. The rest of the team has improved steadily since the first of the season.

North Side, who can get hot, but usually doesn't, is not only weak in the starting five, but has little bench strength. Jack Hollenbeck, Allen Tew, and Mike Dafforn will be on the front line with Jim Lang and Pat Riley probables as guards. Latham's fine work of late may earn him a starting job.

In the night league, the Cane Shiners suffered their second defeat at the hands of the Wreckers, 48-27. Bob Lee and Steve Leininger split the nets for 16 points each, while Bruce Berlein tallied 10. Tom Graham and Jerry Fritz made eight points each for the losers, while Steve Pohl had seven.

The Russian Ball-Pounders defeated the Net Burners, 51-49. Joe Roth poured 28 points through for the winners to take scoring honors for both teams. Doug Geller added seven to the cause of the winners. Bill Berning tallied 15 for the losers, and Bob Foltz had 14 points.

Congratulations to Steve Longenberger, the 1958 Middleweight Handball Singles Champion. Steve won in an odd way. He lost his first game to Ted Von Gunten, then won the second. In the rubber game Ted was ahead, when he sprained his ankle. Steve won the match by default. He then defeated Bill Zehender, 15-2, 15-0. In the final round he defeated Bob Engleman, 15-7, 15-5. Bob, on his way to the top, beat Tom Troop, 15-4, 15-6, and Max Van Fossen, 15-5, 15-12. Congratulations, all you guys.

Kellys Victor Last Year 54-45 Score

By Chuck Weinraub

Playing great basketball, the Green and White rival the invading Mishawaka Cavemen on the home floor Saturday night at 8 p.m. The Archer team hopes to make it the second win in that week end's schedule, meeting North Side Friday night.

The visiting Cavemen have had their hard luck during the '58-'59 campaign and have stressed a building year in hopes of outstanding campaigns for the future, although Coach Bob Smith and the 1,740 population of the school are backing the team for a big upset against the Archers.

ON PAPER THE Mishawaka team seems weak, forcing Head Coach Bob Smith to rotate the positions of his players as six men maintain at least two different spots. This shows that the young (four seniors, nine juniors, and one sophomore) invading team is lacking in experience and hope to be molded into a fine team throughout future games.

Thus far the once-powerful Cavemen have been struggling through a down-heartened season. Only South Bend Riley fell victim to the slumping Cavemen. C.C. is one of the squads that thumped Mishawaka. The Irish did it, 74-53.

Although the team is young they have good size with many players being six feet or over. The tallest man for the Cavemen is six-foot, four-inch senior center Larry Boone, while the rest of the squad averages around six feet in height.

# # #

THE ARCHER starting positions are still not stable as seven men fight for those top five berths. Since it is generally felt that Coach Reichert and his crew are quite sound in their team play, we can expect a hard-fought ball game with the Green and White eventually coming out the victor because of their greater experience.

Following are the probable starters for Mishawaka:

Name	Pos.	Ht.	Cl.
August Baetsle	F-G	6-1	Jr.
John Baker	G	5-8	Sr.
Don Bidelman	G-F	6-0	Sr.
Larry Boone	C	6-4	Sr.
Barry Boulanger	G	5-10	Jr.

Kelly Bowmen To Host Tigers In 97th Contest

All-Time Series Record Stands Even At 48-48; Game To Be Wednesday

South Side's Archers will meet the Tigers of Central for the 97th time in regular season play at 8 p.m., on Wednesday at the Coliseum. The all-time series record between these two teams now stands even at 48-48.

The Kellys will be the home team as they host Central in the first of their two games played each year. The Archers won both scheduled games last year in two close, hard-fought contests, 72-63 and 77-67. Mike McCoy and mates then returned to defeat the Bengals 60-56 in overtime in that sensational semi-final Sectional game which proved to be the closest scare the Archers received on their trail to the State Championship. The Green also defeated the Blue three times in 1957.

# # #

ALTHOUGH COACH Herb Banet lost such stalwarts as sensational John Kelso, Ben Hawkins, Ron Brubaker, Norm Beer, and Steve Hatch from last year's tremendous team, he has assembled another notable aggregation this season. Probable starting forwards will be Willie Curry and Tharnell Hollins, and first-string center is Percy Moore. This year's front court is lacking in height, but it makes up for that in speed and jumping ability.

The prolific Tiger back court consists of T. C. Williams and Bill Boyd. Boyd, a six-foot guard, is now third in the city in scoring.

Bob Tilker and big Don Linton are important reserve front line men, and Jim Keim and sensational sophomore Willie Rozier bolster the back court.

THE 1958-59 BENGALS have compiled an 8-2 record thus far, their only defeats coming at the hands of Anderson and Central Catholic. The eight victories include a win over highly-regarded South Bend Central and the championship in the Vincennes Holiday Tourney. Central has a 2-1 record in city play, with wins over North and Concordia. The Tigers have won their last four games, and they were ranked ninth in a recent Associated Press poll.

Although the Banetmen have a very potent attack and plenty of speed, their shooting and ball handling has been extremely erratic at times. It was this inability to get the ball through the hoop which was largely responsible for the defeat by Central Catholic. Central was also hard-pressed to beat North Side's fired-up Redskins, 58-54, in an overtime because of their terrible shooting from the field.

The Tigers have a game with Elkhart, a previous Archer victim, before the battle with South, and the Kellys meet North Side and Mishawaka before the Wednesday night clash.

Freshmen Lose Two Contests In Holiday Tourney At North

Failing in a valiant effort to salvage a consolation victory from host North Side, the South Side frosh found themselves the goats of the annual City Freshman Holiday Tourney held at North Side gym, December 20.

Central Catholic downed the Kellys by the score of 38-24 in the opening round, and later in the afternoon contest North Side nipped the Green, 43-41, for consolation honors of the four-squad affair.

Central's favored Tigers won the tourney by mowing down North Side, 37-13, and Central Catholic by a 47-32 score for the championship.

Central Catholic, North Side, and South Side followed Central in that order as tourney finishers.

# # #

IN THEIR FIRST GAME South could not get started, either offensively or defensively, making their poorest showing of the year. The contest was marred by poor ball handling and rebounding, lack of aggressiveness, and a wire netting over the Irish defensive hoop for South.

Tom McMahan starred for the Green, netting 11 points. The other starters made meager showings in the scoring column.

Central Catholic played their finest game capitalizing on the frequent Archer errors. Bubb, Dullaghan, and Meier, scoring 12, 11, and 8 points respectively, gave the Purple and Gold yeomen's services.

The final score of 38-24 was almost a complete reversal of the Archer season opener. South beat Central Catholic then by a 39-24 score.

IN SOUTH'S SECOND game the Archers led North with only two minutes remaining. However, they felt the strain of playing two games within four hours and could not retain the lead. The Redskins finally squeaked out a 43-41 victory.

Tom Martin was the hero of the game for North Side when he dropped in three vital charity tosses and a field goal. Martin, Hoor, Kreig, and Larimer combined for 34 points to carry the scoring burden for the winners.

Coach "Porky" Holt stated that South played perhaps their best game of this campaign. With a little rest the Green and White may have come up with a victory. The starters felt that they were too tired throughout the game to give their best performance.

Ken Robinson did a fine job for the Archers, scoring 13 points. Leaky pitched in nine points and Meek, eight in the losing cause.

The first quarter was close with every indication of a tremendous game. In the second period South found the range for four straight field goals. McMahan topped this well-played stanza with a fancy last-second shot.

North gained two points in the evenly-played third quarter, but in the hectic fourth period South kept the lead until the closing minutes. Then they could not go on; and North Side, led by Martin, came up on the long end of a 43-41 score.

SOUTH HIT FOR 11 of 19 shots from the field in the sizzling first half; however, they could not find the range as well in the second half. The Green and White netted 16 of 41 for a .390 percentage for the game.

The game was won at the charity line. North Side dropped in two more free throws than South did to make the different of victory.

In the curtain-lifter of the tourney Central blasted North Side by a 37-13 score. Tiger Howard Craig was high scorer with 13 points.

Central Catholic gave Central a hard time in the championship game; however, Central just had too much speed and height for the Irish. Craig's uncanny jump shot helped him to account for 15 points, high for the tourney. Beachem gunned in 11 points to back Craig.

The Irish had no trouble with Central's press. They did a fine job on defense and under the boards. Badders led the offensive punch with 10 points.

TOURNEY TALK: Surprise team of the tourney was Central Catholic. The Purple and Gold turned the tables on South Side in their first game. They trampled the Archers to the tune of a 38-24 score to gain a chance for the championship.

In the final game the Fighting Irish met their downtown neighbors, Central. The Tigers were highly favored, but Central Catholic put up a very good battle. They forced the Bengals to make wild passes and, by scrappy playing, made the score somewhat close.

No prestige can be taken away from Central, however. The 15-point margin by which they downed the Irish tied for their smallest margin of victory. They beat this same Central Catholic team earlier, winning by 43 points.

Craig of Central was probably the outstanding player of the frosh tourney. His two-game total of 27 points was by far the highest. Craig also did more than his team's share of work under the boards. Teammate Beachem scored 19 points for the day.

# # #

FOR SOUTH SIDE Robinson netted 17 tallies and McMahan potted 15 points. Meek did a good job on rebounds.

Central Catholic got fine performances from Bubb and Dullaghan who scored 17 and 16 points, respectively. The latter always did a tremendous rebounding job.

Kreig, Larimer, and Martin evenly divided 30 points for both games for North Side.

Attendance for the tourney was low. Every school except South Side participating was represented formidably by students. The only Archer rooters on hand were the parents, and their children, of Kelly players.

South could have used some moral support to get them started out right against the Irish. A little cheering in the neck-and-neck North Side contest surely would have helped.

In the coming games let's see the stands full of Archer rooters. The team truly needs your support.

Tickets for the dance may be purchased from any member or Dick McGaw or Steve Meyers, ticket chairmen, for 50 cents until 4 p.m. Friday, January 30. Tickets will not be sold at the door.

Music will be furnished by the Hi-Fi until the end of the dance at 11:30 p.m.

Other chairmen for the event include: Tom White and Bill Meyer, program committee; Terry Berk and Bill Lentz, refreshment committee; John Somers and Bob Bolyard, cloak room; and John Hendricksen, chaperones.

Frosh, Soph Girls Invited To Meterites

"We cordially invite freshmen and sophomore girls to come to the first Meterite meeting of the semester, Tuesday, January 27," stated Miss Susen Peck, sponsor of the club.

The meeting will be an organization meeting. Cards will be passed out to all girls present, and the aims and requirements for membership will be explained.

Meterites is an English club for freshmen and sophomore girls. The officers of the club are Evi Lou North, president; Sharon Carrel, vice-president; Lisa Hoffman, secretary; and Margie Mercer, treasurer.

Times Praised For 1958 Issues By Columbia University Magazine

The South Side Times has been cited for having a "staff trained to perfection," in the December issue of the School Press Review, a magazine published by the Columbia University in New York.

The praise was offered for the February 26 through March 28 issues of 1958. These editions covered the period of the regional basketball tourney and ended when the Archers were victorious at State.

MISS ROWENA HARVEY, adviser, was attending a convention in New York while some of the work of getting the papers out was going on. "If her staff had not been trained to perfection, something would have slipped up—but nothing did," the article stressed.

"The staff did a very good job, and I was glad to see that they were recognized for doing so magnificently," was Miss Harvey's reaction to the article. "That the staff could and would work was shown when Phil Shriner, former sports editor, drove across Indiana to secure a picture for the last issue," she added. "Sally Chapman, who was then general manager, also did ■ great job of seeing that everything was taken care of, and planning the paper," she said.

THE FIRST ISSUE of the month-long seige was eight pages, the last, 20. These issues devoted pages to group, game, or individual pictures. They required weeks of work, and long hours on the telephone. Although much of the work was done in advance, the final job required close co-ordination of all members of the staff to put it over successfully.

"It was a continuous and sustained effort, and it demonstrates that responsibility can be assumed by the staff if they know what is expected of them," the article concluded.

So-Si-Y Invites Girls To Meeting Today

The So-Si-Y Club will hold their first meeting of the new semester today in the Greeley Room at 3:30 p.m. All junior and senior girls are invited to attend.

The high point of the meeting will be the announcement of the committee chairmen for the semester. The club will also fill out three club cards, one for Miss Perkins, the club's sponsor, one for Miss Van Gorder, and one for the YWCA. A social hour will follow.

The officers are Sharon Kidwell, president; Karen Randall, vice-president and program chairman; Barbara Bailey, secretary; and Diane Beams, point recorder.

Six Pupils Leave School

Since Christmas vacation South Side has lost six students. Carol and Bob Rice have moved to Zanesville, O., and Walter Hawkins to Michigan. Joyce Bentley now resides in Tennessee, while Cynthia Gale lives in New York. Harlan now claims Sally Henry. Tom Sherman now lives in Ohio.

Who's Who?

Mistaken identity is a common cause of many disappointments. An example of this disappointment was recently experienced by Crissie Ferguson, senior.

As a freshman, Crissie diligently worked on the Times staff as a reporter and has worked her way up to being freshman class editor for the 1959 Totem.

When Quill and Scroll, honorary journalism organization, nominations were announced, Crissie's name was accidentally overlooked since she appeared on the list of those eligible as Dorthy Christina Ferguson and not Crissie Ferguson.

In all apologies, Miss Rowena Harvey, publications adviser, is adding the name of Crissie Ferguson to those selected for Quill and Scroll.

Miss Mellen Falls, Cracks Arm Bone

Miss Lucy Mellen, cafeteria head, cracked the bone in her upper arm last December 23, when she tripped in her own living room.

"Being right-handed, I was fortunate that it was my left arm that I injured," said Miss Mellen. "It is very inconvenient during the setting up of the new cafeteria."

The break did not require a cast, but she has to wear a sling for three weeks.

Bob Mann Elected President By Hi-Y

To install the new officers, the Hi-Y Club met last Monday night at 7:30 p.m. in the Assembly Room of the YMCA. The recently elected officers are Bob Mann, president; John Shannahan, vice-president; Eddie Hartman, secretary; Byron White, treasurer; and Tom Graham, sergeant-at-arms.

The remainder of the meeting consisted of a discussion concerning the annual dance, "Queen of Hearts." John Meyerholtz, the fall semester president, is the general chairman of the dance. Other committee heads have not yet been appointed.

A short planning session was held concerning the trip the club takes every spring vacation. The members are now debating on whether to go on a camping trip or to a big city. Those cities now being considered are New York, New Orleans, and Washington, D.C.

A continuation of the plans for the dance and trip composed the meeting last Monday night.

USA Will Choose Officers Wednesday

"Since everyone was having finals last week, we decided to have a regular business meeting and elect our new officers Wednesday," stated Ellen McCarron, president.

The nominees for election are as follows: President, Pam Hines, Carol Lewis, Karol Wise; vice-president, Emily Traylor, Linda Brubaker, Barb Markiton; secretary, Barb Uhl, Dian Leath, and Sally Smart.

Pupils To Get Books Today; Can Either Rent Or Buy

Everyone may either rent or buy books. Books will be rented by the teachers. Books may be purchased from Mrs. Charlene Young in the south entrance to the gymnasium.

Rental cards will be given to each student by his homeroom teacher. After each student receives his rental card he will give the card to each teacher he rents a book from in order for the teacher to sign the card. These rental cards will then be collected in the second homeroom period.

At the end of the school year fines will be collected on damaged books.

Below is a list of books, rental prices, and sale prices for this semester.

P.S. from PENNY

By Penny Hunt

South Side High School
January 9, 1959

Good Morning!

I made a very violent New Year's resolution. Of course I've already broken it, but it was a wonderful thought. I was going to have my column planned two days before it was due; so I wouldn't be stuck like I am now. Now that the year is half-way over, does everyone feel half-way learned (?) in every subject?

One thing that always catches me about the changing of the years is the writing of 1959 instead of 1958. I constantly write 1958. The other day I actually caught myself writing 1956. Talk about confused!

Welcome all new freshmen! The words of the day are: "Tempus fugit!" So start now.

Wasn't that semester vacation wonderful? Now that everyone is all rested up, I don't expect to see anyone sleeping in study hall. Of course, this is impossible, but it's worth a try. Isn't it??? No, I guess it isn't.

Snow's out, sure is cold
I just got a frost-bitten nose;
Molly Dixon's very bold,
She's got frost-bitten toes.

While out skating one night
She forgot about her feet,
When she came in, oh, what a sight,
They required plenty of heat!

Don't try to figure out the rhythm for the rhyme scheme of my little poem, I don't believe in them. Actually the poem tells the truth; Molly did have frozen toes.

Did you hear about Steve Tracey? He tried to run away from home. Isn't that terrible? He really wasn't doing exactly that, but a policeman sure did think so. After returning one night from the Purdue Speech Meet, Steve decided to walk home, bag and all.

While strolling along a lonely road, Steve was suddenly joined by a policeman. "Running away from home?" greeted the policeman. "No," replied Steve, "running to home!" I wonder what the policeman thought of that?

THERE ARE a few things that newcomers should never do. For instance, don't get locked in the school building as JoAnn High did. After a particularly hard day at school, until 6 o'clock, JoAnn discovered that she was completely behind bars, school bars, of course. After a few cries for help JoAnn's sentence was lessened by a guardian angel in the form of a janitor; so she was paroled.

Boys really can be helpful if they want to. Take Mike Millikan and Bill Lentz as examples. When they discovered Margo Dixon washing dishes they were very, very eager to take over. Margo and Katie Rastetter wanted to compare their dishwashing ability; so set up a system of merits and demerits. Bill won with the most merits and demerits. I wonder if the boys have dishpan hands?

Did you know that when South Side was built, it was the largest high school on one floor? See, I do tell all sorts of valuable and interesting information.

Why is it that all teachers decide to give tests on the same day? I've never been able to figure that out.

Well, I really must run, enough of this idle chatter.

Bye!

P.S.—I almost forgot. There is a certain girl in school who is just dying to see her name in print; so just to satisfy her inner inhibitions, here it is: LINDA WIGHTMAN.

Kelly Boy Experts Give Male Opinion On Girls' Perfume

As powerful as the A bomb! A terrific new force; scent-triffical force (spelled centrifugal by illiterates) . . . the force executed on boys by perfume.

In order to do the proper amount of damage with this new "weapon," we asked some Archer males their opinion of the various stages of Operation Smelldown.

1. Should girls wear perfume all the time, or just on special occasions?

Terry Berk: I don't know because I always have a cold.

Bob King: Eh!

Dick Rothberg: No—yes (undecided?)

Chuck Weinraub: Aren't girls always a special occasion?

Charlie Lampel: If they wash, they won't need it.

Dick Taylor: Only on special occasions, unless they use it for cover-up.

Stan Redding: Special occasions only.

Steve Pohl: They should wear perfume only when they haven't hit the shower or tub for a while. You know, like the people of the Middle Ages.

Bob Shine: I'm for letting everyone think for themselves.

John Sommers: Yes.

Jim Sommers: Yes, for special occasions.

2. Is perfume a necessary part of dressing up to you?

Charlie Lampel: If they don't wash, it is.

Dick Taylor: It smells bad.

Stan Redding: Yes.

John Sommers: Yes.

Steve Pohl: I use it extensively to get rid of it.

Dick Rothberg: Not for me, but maybe for a girl.

Chuck Weinraub: I just smell the same all the time.

3. Do you notice perfume or a lack of it when you first meet a girl?

Dave Stuart: You're darn right!!

Mike Skinner: Yes, I have a sensitive nose.

Charlie Lampel: Yes, if it smells.

Stan Redding: Circumstances make a difference.

Chuck Weinraub: That smell gets me all the time.

Bob King: Only Chanel No. 5.

Bob Shine: I didn't know that you could see perfume.

4. Do you feel that certain scents for certain occasions help to create a mood ?

Steve Pohl: I really wouldn't know. I have a cold.

Chuck Weinraub: You should see the moods I get in!

Dick Rothberg: When matched properly.

Charlie Lampel: Corral No. 9 makes me think of horses.

Dick Taylor: A smelly mood, man!

Dave Stewart: You bet I do!

John Sommers: Ask Shine, he knows.

Bob Shine: How should I know?

Terry Berk: NO!

Mike Skinners: What kind of mood?

5. Do you think perfume should be noticeable or just a part of the girl?

Terry Berk: Just a part of the girl.

Bob King: I agree with Terry.

Dick Rothberg: No—yes (Really confused, Aye!)

Chuck Weinraub: One part is as good as another.

Steve Pohl: On some it should be noticeable because it's the only attribute they have.

John Shopoff: It makes a boy notice a girl more.

Dave Stewart: Just a part of the little old girl.

Jim Sommers: Just a part of the girl(the toe).

Charlie Lampel: Yes, if she looks miserable.

Stan Redding: Questionable.

Bob Shine: I like to see them drown themselves in it.

6. Do you think perfume makes a girl more feminine?

Bob Shine: NO!!

Stan Redding: Depends on circumstances.

Charlie Lampel: Yes, if it sprays on.

Jim Sommers: Yea!

Terry Berk: NO.

Dick Rothberg: At times.

Steve Pohl: In my opinion, it makes a boy more feminine.

Dave Stewart: It sure doesn't.

Helpful Hints Given To Incoming Frosh

After three years in high school, our Archer seniors have gained quite a bit of experience in every field imaginable. If you read between the lines, you could almost imagine that their answers reflect something they wish they had or hadn't done. Listed below are some of the present seniors' pearls of wisdom.

Nancy Jones: Be sure to ride the elevator to the second floor and buy all your pep session tickets from me.

Pat Forehand: Work like a dog and do your homework every night so you can have a ball over the week end.

Carole Fischer: Avoid me and my polls and don't take shorthand.

Dorothy Major: Don't come in.

Dick McGaw: Don't date!!!

Nancy Ryan: Be sure to follow all this advice!

Frank Lude: Buy your pep session tickets from me—not faker Jones.

Steve Feustel: Avoid Fischer's polls.

Les Fairweather: In case you get lost, just wave your yellow card and you will immediately be surrounded by helpful seniors.

Carol Downhour: Stay away from Carole Fischer.

Karen Brumm: Join as many clubs as you can and still have time for homework.

Steve Bash: Good luck, we'll be waiting.

Linda Tomson: Better study every night, because you won't when you get to be an upperclassman, and don't join too many clubs.

Cheri Henry: Have a riot and work hard.

Judy Bastian: Work hard, have a ball, and obey everyone—including seniors. Also get plenty of sleep.

Phyllis Springer: Get used to studying right at first. Otherwise you never will try to take an interest in everything that you do at South Side.

Do You Lead Life Of Danskin? Stretching Qualities Included

People are said to live the lives of dogs, kings, and mice, but never danskins. Have you ever stopped to consider the reason for this horrible omission? Why! Why! Why! aren't danskins compared to people, or vice-versa?

Heaven knows that they live exciting and colorful lives. Imagine being taken out of the drawer every morning to see the world. Of course, the color may have something to do with the kind of life the danskin leads. Plain reds, blues, olives, and blacks are good to offset outfits, but the stripes are the most exciting. They might be called the Brigot Bardot of the danskin world.

They have uses, too. Why, they keep more people warm every day than one can count, if one can count. They can either dress up or down an outfit, depending on the wearer's choice. They may get a little bored, sitting in a drawer while the owner gets up enough nerve to wear them, but, Oh! the excitement when she does. Not too many people are shy of them now, anyway.

WHEN WE SAY people, we mean girls; not to insinuate that boys are not people, but that they don't wear danskins. This is one of the saddest facts of life; boys simply will not wear danskins. Really, boys, they aren't so bad after you get used to them. Start a fad; be the first boy to wear danskins to school.

Danskins have just as much personality as people. Think how effective it is to say "Ooooo, she looks just like an olive-green danskin." Now doesn't that bring a picture to mind immediately? How would you like to be compared to an olive-green danskin? The other colors have their own individual characteristics, too. Blues, depending on the shade, are either soft or sad; reds are gay and bright; golds, exatic, and right down the line.

DANSKINS have one quality which people do not possess. They stretch. This leads to many morning miseries for danskins. After all, how would you like someone to stick their foot in you each morning and pull, and pull, and pull! You bet it's pretty darned uncomfortable.

Danskins have one use, most important, that wasn't mentioned before. They make excellent mouse traps. They seem to attract adventurous mice, who crawl in and start wandering around. Eventually they wind up in the foot. Then they panic and try to get out. This only gets them tangled and more frightened. They search so hard for a way out that they die from sheer exhaustion. Very effective, don't you think.

With this clear (?) presentation of the problem, you can readily see why we are indignant that danskins do not receive more credit in the field of being people.

Problems!

Posy is having a problem. She is not receiving any problems to answer. Did you hear that? No problems! Now, how can Posy possibly have a column and get "tons" of points if she has nothing to write about? Posy is certain that you will come to her rescue and is depending on everyone to tell her their troubles or to recommend her counseling to others. If you have a problem, write it out, put it in a sealed envelope (to be confidential) and put it in the Editorial Editor's desk in the Times room. Thank you!

Archerland Students Judge Yell Leaders

Who? Me? This was the common reply received when Archers were asked what they thought of our cheerleaders. Some altogether different answers were given as you can see below.

Pam Holtzberg: Charming!

Sharon Carrel: They are the cheerleadingest(?)

Jack Winder: Simply—Tremendous!

Steve Meyers: An improvement over last year.

Susi Phillips: They are better than the run-of-the-mill cheerleaders, but they could have a better variety of yells.

John Hendricksen: Well—what do you think?

Susi Vesey: Really, really great!

Charlie Lampel: Could stand improvement.

Susi Horth: Well . . . a . . .

Kenny Howe: I never see 'em.

Karen Simmons: Great—cute outfits!

Carolyn Sievers: Could be more together on cheers. Love the outfits, though.

Linda Silverman: Dig those crazy danskins.

Barb Steiner: I agree with Carolyn.

Couples Start Investigation; Rocket Mouse Landed On Tree

News flash: We interrupt this program to bring you a special report from a place in Indiana called Fort Wayne. It seems that the mouse sent up in the last rocket has plummeted to a position on top of the Christmas tree on the roof of South Side High School in Fort Wayne. Our special news correspondents, Lawson White, (Ohio), and Judy Chapman, are at the scene to bring you all the news. Come in, Lawson and Judy.

"Hello, World." Well, for such a small animal, this mouse is causing a big sensation. He landed on the star at the top of the tree, just after Bob King and Sue Sappenfield had finished undecorating it. Ruth Dill and Bob Duncan, who had stayed on to turn off the lights heard outraged squeaks. When they looked upward, the mouse came into view.

Bob Mann got a ladder and brought the mouse down while Mary Sue Robertson waited anxiously below. She was afraid that the ladder would fall, and that the mouse would be hurt.

The mouse, which Sharon Probst has named GW after a certain someone whose initials are Gus Wade, is now reposing in a silk lined box, provided by Bob Sheray and Diane DeVincent.

A research team, Carolyn DeVore and Mike Collins, is coming in from the Nation's capitol to determine if GW really is the mouse from the rocket. "It is apparent by certain identification marks," said experts Bill Meyer and Linda Wightman, "that GW is the famed mouse."

Mimi Hinman and Jim Spuller are gazing at the mouse in wonder, while Bev Stanton and Billy Neilson (Marion) explain why GW wasn't hurt after his 66,000-mile plunge through space. It seems that the metabolism and blood pressure, plus the lack of HOH and CO3 . . . oh, well.

Cindy Miller and Dave Crapo are now trying to repair the tree. When GW landed, he caused a short in the lights and only the best electricians will be able to fix it. That's why they called Camille Luther and Dan Bill to come and fix the faulty wire.

Meanwhile, back in the lab, expert scientists John Shannahan and Sharon Collins are trying to figure out how the mouse could have possibly fallen out of the rocket. Gretchen Meister and Fred Van Fossen, '58, argue that the whole thing is a joke engineered by Val Callahan and Larry Miller, '58. Larry and Val just say, "Who, us?"

Well, anywoy, GW is here to stay because Judy Dunlap and Pierre Eicher saw him gazing wistfully at another mouse . . . and we all know what that means. Love at first squeak.

Today's People Angered When Offered Criticism

The word, "criticism," as it is today, means some rude or unjust remark; and although many people may openly ask for criticism, they rarely take it. Thus it is the writer's opinion that people in the present day feel perfect. Others may disagree, but if the idea is contemplated, how many people can be counted who honestly admit their faults and try to correct them?

Most criticism is meant to do good, but it takes a certain amount of ability to accomplish the right effect. Sometimes after a person has recovered from being angered by criticism he takes it seriously and corrects himself, but more often he forgets it in the process of feeling indignation.

Often it is not the way in which the criticism is taken, but the way it is given that causes trouble. There are few people who are discreet in giving constructive criticism and even fewer are those that can give it so discreetly that it is barely recognized as criticism.

Some people are frequently critical, but they soon find themselves disliked, for the most popular people are the complimentary ones, the ones who make others feel perfect.

Buy The Times!

As ▮ new semester comes upon us, many changes are being made. One of the very important changes is the migrating of new freshmen into South Side.

For all those freshmen to be really up to date, they must buy The Times. Our school paper has the highest circulation rating in the city, and the beautiful circulation cup has been in our possession sixteen semesters. Our school has an excellent paper and we are very proud of it.

Freshmen! Subscribe for The Times!

Our paper is filled with all the important news of the week. After once reading The Times, you won't want to be without it.

This message does not apply only to the freshmen, but also to the whole student body. One dollar will buy one full semester of pleasure, enjoyment, and up to the minute news.

Remember to subscribe to the Times — today!

The world would be happier if men had the same capacity to be silent that they have to speak.

There are four kinds of people, three of which are to be avoided and the fourth cultivated: those who don't know that they don't know; those who don't know that they know; and those who know that they don't know; those who don't know that they know; and those who know that they know.

A faithful friend is a strong defense: and he that hath found such an one hath found a treasure.

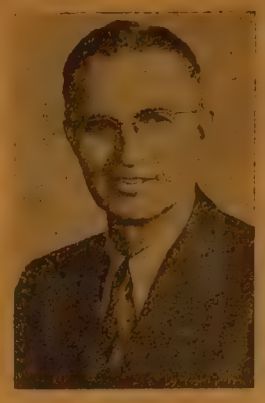
Principal, Dean, Guidance Director Offer Greetings To New Students

Pauline Van Gorder

Greetings to the freshmen and to other newcomers to the South Side High School. To have the opportunity of attending a school like South Side is a privilege of which anyone should be proud. The school offers an excellent program of studies. It is staffed by competent teachers, and the student body is extremely friendly. What you as an individual get from South Side High School depends largely on what you put in it.

My best wishes to each of you for a happy and successful semester. If I can help you in any way, please come to my office, Room 104.

Pauline Van Gorder



R. Nelson Snider

South Side High School always receives its new students with high hope, and a hearty welcome. We confidently expect that in the new group will be boys and girls who will carry on the tradition of fine work and enthusiastic play which former students have established.

The new members of our student body will find in our school many opporunities for personal development, and many ways in which they can be of help to others.

It is my personal wish that each of the new people may develop to his greatest capacity, and that each may enjoy his years in our school.

R. Nelson Snider

Ora M. Davis

The Guidance Department wishes to welcome all new students. We want you to become acquainted with the services which we offer and are eager that you avail yourself of these services.

We are here to help you in any way we can. Feel free to come to the Guidance Office with any of your problems.

If you expect others to be friendly to you, you must be friendly yourself. If you expect the school to give you a richer life, you must in turn be loyal to its standards, rules, and traditions.

Linda Benton Looks Forward To 3 Year Stay In Sumatra

As soon as the red tape is cleared, probably next March, Linda Benton, South Side senior, and her parents will be off for a three-year stay in Sumatra. Although the trip means a step backward in civilization, the Bentons are eagerly looking forward to it.

The journey, however, will take approximately a month because the Bentons are traveling by ship. The route which they will follow will take them across the Atlantic Ocean, across the Mediterranean Sea, and through the Suez Canal. Their destination, when they finally reach it, will be a small American village near the city of Kasaran.

Mr. Benton, who is an employee of the United States Rubber Company, will hold an executive position on the United States Rubber Plantation at Kasaran.

KASARAN IS A small village on the east coast of Sumatra, about 100 miles north of Medan, the capitol city of North Sumatra. Medan is a fair-sized city with a population in excess of 300,000. It has a modern airport about two miles from the center of town. Its seaport is at Belawan, about 20 miles north.

Is this to be a pleasure trip for Linda? She is going to combine sightseeing with the occupation of teaching English to the local people under the supervision of missionaries. In Sumatra, neither a license nor any other degree is necessary for teaching.

The Benton family is now taking lessons in the Indonesian language from a local couple who have just returned from a three-year stay at Kasaran. The Indonesian language, since it is not based on the Romance Languages, is difficult for English speaking people to learn, but the Bentons seem to be coming right along.

TO SOME PEOPLE, the prospect of moving to a primitive country wtih few modern conveniences may sound dull. But Linda can look forward to golf, tennis, and social activities at the local Country Club for the Americans in the area and visiting a famous art school in Java.

At the Country Club, Linda has plans for organizing a swimming and diving club as swimming is one of her favorite sports. The family also plans to take their car into the jungle area. They will employ Indonesian servants, including a chauffeur, a house boy, a cook and a laundress.

Dull? Not at all! The Bentons are anxiously anticipating their future years in Sumatra and are sure they will be filled with new adventures and excitement.

Room S Lists Simple Rules

Room S, commonly known as study hall, is the place where most pupils do their daily studying. Since the enrollment is increasing rapidly each year, the study hall is filled to capacity almost every period.

To maintain order, each pupil must do his part by following these simple rules stated by Mrs. Roy Stuart, supervisor:

1. Students are to be in their seats when the bell rings.
2. No student is to leave his seat during the study period until he has secured permission from the supervisor.
3. No talking or visiting is permitted.
4. Student messengers bringing messages to the students must give them to the supervisor, or secure permission from the supervisor to deliver them.
5. The taking of attendance will be done by students selected by Mrs. stuart.
6. Students are not to be excused from study hall for work in teachers' rooms unless they present requests for such excuses before the period starts.
7. Any student who is sent back to study hall because of misconduct in the library is to be deprived of the library privilege for the remainder of the semester.

Custodians Receive Annual Uniforms

The custodians of the Fort Wayne public schools have received their new annual uniforms.

The janitors' new outfits consist of gray trousers and shirts. On the left side of the shirts are round, gold emblems which state: Fort Wayne Community Schools. On the right side their names are written in gold lettering. Each janitor received five of these outfits.

The matrons' uniforms are pale green dresses. These dresses also have the gold emblems on the left and their names above the pocket on the right. Each matron received five dresses.

There were nine janitors, two firemen and one engineer who received the outfits. They are Russel Seltenwright, Gene Royer, Adolph Frankenstein, Archie Jones, John Kowal, Martin Reilly, Dwight Williams, Earl Downey, Kenneth Buchmaster, and Dick Arney.

The two matrons who received the outfits are Desie Spears and Helen Carlo.

Rebels Trounce Redskins 62-33, Take 78-58 Win Over Mishawaka

South Captures 24th Straight Over City Foes

Archers' Excellent Play Contains North's Indians; Use Man-To-Man Defense

Applying a crushing man-to-man defense which almost completely contained the North Side Redskins, South Side coasted to a 62-33 victory at North Side January 9.

The Archers thus ran their City Series winning streak to 24 games. The last time the Green were defeated was during the 1955-56 campaign when Central was on the top end of a 59-55 score.

The victory, which marked the 16th meeting between these two cross-town foes left the Archers with an overall record of 47 wins and 29 losses against the 'Skins.

The Redskins led only once, when the scoreboard read 2-0. After that the Archers took a 4-2 lead and were never behind.

# # #

VICTORY WAS THE result of an exceptionally good team effort for the Archers. The first five, which was composed of Barrett, Bolyard, Demetre, Simmons, and Meyer, helped to make the team look better than at any previous time in this season.

Bill Meyer along with Tom Bolyards who scored 27 points pulled down rebound after rebound; while Mike Simmons played alert ball and stole many a Redskin pass.

Perhaps the most beautiful shot of the game was in the last quarter when Nick Demetre leaped high to make a tip-in with a show of perfect co-ordination.

The Archers were working together so well that Coach Reichert did not make a substitution in the lineup until the fourth quarter.

# # #

THE ARCHERS' switching man-to-man defense was executed so well that it was able to hold the Redskins scoreless for the first six minutes of the second quarter.

When Tom Bolyard, who had broken the game wide open in the first quarter with four field goals left the game with 3:32 remaining in the final period, he had outscored the Redskins, 27-23.

Dave Barrett played a fine game and demonstrated the unselfish attitude that makes a team work together when he assisted Bolyard for the first basket of the third quarter and later performed the same play again.

# # #

DAVE RODERICK rebounded well when he was sent into the game and continued to show improvement over earlier games.

Being second high with eight tallies Nick Demetre tightened his grip on the runner-up spot in team scoring, although his ball handling overshadows his proficient scoring punch.

The only department that the Green seemed weak in was the rebounding under their own basket which had been consistent in earlier games; however, Bill Meyer and Bolyard helped to remedy this situation in the second and third periods.

Archers Score Easy Victory Over Cavemen

Tom Bolyard Scores 28; Nick Demetre Hits 21; Sparkling Defensive Play

The spectacular was the order of the night last Saturday as Coach Don Reichert's State Champion South Side Archers rolled over a hustling, but outclassed, Mishawaka crew, 78-58, at the South Side gym.

Spectacular was Tom Bolyard as he cleaned the boards for 17 rebounds and pumped through 28 points in his all-out assault on the city scoring record presently held by John Flowers.

SPECTACULAR also was the play of junior Nick Demetre as he, in the second and third periods, put on a one-man show of shooting prowess by bombing the meshes for eight straight field goals, all coming from 25 to 35 feet out.

While these two players were constantly outstanding, the spot playing of the Archers gave the spectators numerous thrills in what was originally predicted to be a comparatively dull contest.

The sparkling defensive play of Mike Simmons gave Mishawaka rooters enough headaches to keep aspirin in business.

The close-in play and offensive rebounding of Bill Meyer really brought the gym to life. And Dave Roderick's commendable performance, substituting for Dave Barrett, was also well worth mention.

The Green started the evening off right as they jumped into a 19-8 lead in the first period of play. Only brilliant scoring spurts, however, got them into the van as their play was very spotty and at times a bit sluggish.

# # #

THE SECOND STANZA was an entirely different story. The Archer quintet came to life and really poured it on, leaving the floor at half-time with a 20-point bulge, 44-24. It was here that Bolyard treated the fans to some of the best drives seen this year. The Cavemen just couldn't cope with the polish and superior playing that the Bowmen showed in this quarter.

Nick Demetre took over in the third quarter and put down the majority of his 10 field goals, eight coming in a row.

With these scores went the speculation of many that the Archers had no outside shot.

It was also in the third period that possibly the prettiest individual play of the night was made. It was a tip-in by Bill Meyer going high and fading away, timing his leap perfectly.

The Mishawaka team got hot in the final period. However, it was incidental as the Green had already piled up an insurmountable lead.

In the shooting department Bill Meyer led, making all four attempts from the floor. Demetre was second, converting on 10 for 15. The Archers overall were also quite accurate, cashing in on 34 of 63 attempts for a .539 percentage. Enough to make any coach happy. The Green did just fair from the foul stripe, making eight for 15.

# # #

ALONG WITH BOLYARD, who took rebounding honors, Meyer and Barrett did well, each grabbing seven and six, respectively.

If this game is indicative of the play of South in future games against rougher competition, they can be expected to fare quite well by the time the Sectional rolls around.

Dave Barrett Faces Hard Task; Already Proven Valuable Asset

Filling the shoes of seven foot Mike McCoy is certainly no easy task as junior center Dave Barrett can readily testify! But, stepping into those shoes, Dave has already proven himself as a valuable asset to Coach Don Reichert's Archers through timely scoring and rebounding.

Dave started playing organized basketball at Smart Junior High and became property of South Side following his graduation. As a freshman, he was a starter on the team coached by Bob Gernand, present head football and track coach.

Dave Barrett

IN HIS SOPHOMORE YEAR, Dave saw very little action playing reserve ball. Used sparingly, he played behind four juniors (now seniors) who remained on the reserves the entire season. Dave was afford very little experience last season.

But this year is quite different for the 6-4 junior. Barrett started the season on the "right foot" as he ran on the reserve cross country squad and placed first in nearly every reserve meet. Coach Reichert believes that "the cross country has improved Dave's jumping ability and endurance tremendously."

Dave surprised everyone this season as he landed a starting berth on the defending State Champion Archers but amply proved Coach Reichert's choice in the Green's opener against Bluffton. Dave now holds a seven point average in this year's competition; even more of a surprise is the fact that Dave had so very little experience before playing varsity ball!

# # #

DAVE'S GOAL this season is impressive as the Kelly's defend their City, Sectional, Regional, Semi-State, and State titles. He has placed two thoughts in the back of his mind. The first is an undefeated season in City Series play, and the second is the Sectional crown. Dave believes the team can accomplish both if they can manage to get past city rival Central.

As for playing alongside Tom Bolyard, Dave thinks he's great. "So long as he keeps scoring, everything's O.K. with me," Barrett assents.

Dave has a fine season to look forward to. His improvement has been steady, and he is already a valuable team member (fans will remember South's 49-48 loss to Terre Haute Gerstmeyer when Dave was injured). Not only can Dave look to a fine year in defense of South's state crown, but his senior year promises to be his most important as a basketball player.

Reserves Beat RedskinQuintet

Burton Sparks Kellys To 42-35 Triumph

South Side's reserves dropped North Side, 42-35, last Friday at North's gym. South, sparked by Steve Burton, moved the ball well against a poor North squad.

The Redskins couldn't get a solid attack rolling. Even when South slumped, the Redskins were unable to take advantage.

Carl Johnson, a promising sophomore, came up with five points, rebounded well, and looked good on defense. Coach Bill Geyer emptied the bench as they played. Every South player scored.

North fell behind in the first quarter. South controlled the boards with reasonable success, and several Redskin passes went astray. The Archers controlled the ball most of the time; and even when North was on offense, mistakes and poor shooting repeatedly lost them the ball.

Steve Matthias showed good ball handling at guard; Jim Saylors and Gary Gardner also starred. Dave Hickman and Dave Anderson tied Carl Johnson for high point honors with five each.

Johnson	5

South Will Face Muncie Burris, Elmhurst

Kellys To Play Burris Owls Friday Night

Archers Won Last Year 71-45; Final Road Game Outside Allen County

South Side's Archers will make their final road appearance of the 1958-59 season outside Allen County on Friday against Muncie Burris. Although the remaining contests are not all home games, the Kellys will play these games within easy driving distance for the Archer faithful.

Last year South Side trounced the Blue and Gold of Burris by a 71-45 count, with the second stringers playing half the game. The record shows the present edition of the Owls to be better than their predecessors, but they still do not have overpowering strength. Muncie's record for the season is 7-2, the only defeats coming at the hands of Hartford City, 71-65, and Huntington, an early-season Archer victim, 61-54. The win side of the ledger shows victories over Wabash, 67-55, and the conqueror of Fort Wayne Central Catholic, Peru, by a lopsided 63-37 margin. Although their record is impressive, it should be pointed out that the Owls do not play any other team of the Archers' caliber.

THE OWLS of Muncie have two regulars returning from last year. They are seniors Rich Porter, a 6-2 forward, and Alan Marsh, a 5-11 guard.

Other letter winners are Fred Coton, a 6-2½ forward, Carter Sims, 5-10, who alternates at center and forward, and Pat Tovatt, 6-1, who is listed as a guard. They are all seniors.

Seniors make up the bulk of the squad, as the Owls carry a total of seven. Other performers in their last year are Skipper Bracken, 5-11½ center, and John Primmer, 5-10 guard.

The three juniors on the squad are Randy Casey, 5-11, who plays center and forward, Frank Schwartz, 5-10 forward, and guard Tom Stick, the shortest man on the squad at 5-8½.

Two tall sophomores who figure heavily in Burris' plans for the future are Bob Terhune, 6-2½ center, and Tom Johnson, a 6-0 forward.

ALTHOUGH THE OWLS do not have an abundance of height, they do have three 6-2 players and one who checks in at 6-1. It is interesting to note that they do not utilize this height at the center post. Coton and Porter are both listed as forwards, leaving only sophomore Terhune as a 6-foot center. Tovatt, the 6-1 man, plays guard. The tallest centers with varsity experience are Bracken, 5-11½, and Casey, 5-11.

LAST MET—1957-1958; Score 71-45 South Side.

GAA Girls Gain Outside Points

GAA girls have earned extra points this fall by participating in outside events. The categories consisted of hiking, skating, bowling, and swimming.

Since freezing weather, many of the girls have taken up skating. They earn one GAA point per hour. The skaters are Barbara Brown, 18 points; Pat Brown, 9; Valerie Callahan, 2; Jane Glass, 21; Sandy Grodrian, 5; Pat Igney, 4½; Susan Jones, 2; Val Kachiamenis, 10; Sue Kuroski, 2; Jan Kessler, 5; Jeannette Lynn, 13; Barbara Nahrwold, 6; Janice Nahrwold, 6; Dianne Pinkham, 22; Jenny Slater, 10; Luann Uhl, 13; Ann Walton, 2; and Sandy Walton, 2 points.

Exactly 15 girls earned points in bowling. Each received a point per game played. The bowlers include Barbara Brown, 50; Pat Brown, 29; Barbara Burdick, 3; Valerie Callahan, 50; Michele Flaig, 3; Judy Garrison, 36; Jane Glass, 31; Sandy Grodrian, 6; Carol Hofer, 3; Pat Igney, 50; Martha Jacobs, 25; Jan Kessler, 46; Jane Ladig, 3; Joan Motley, 41; and Nancy Nichols, 4.

Even though hiking takes more time and energy, several girls earned extra points. They received a point per mile. The outstanding hikers are Jane Glass, 17 points; and Jan Kessler, 10 points; Sandy Dolson, 3; Judy English, 3; Macy Follis, 3; Karen Johnson, 3; Jeannette Lynn, 5; Ruby Martin, 3; Susan Merchant, 5; Nancy Nichols, 5; and Luann Uhl, 5 points.

Because of cold weather, swimming is more difficult. Gretchen Brumm and Louise Jackson, however, succeeded in finding a warm pool. They each received one point for an hour of swimming.

GAA Welcome Freshmen Girls

All freshmen girls are cordially invited to join the Girls' Athletic Association, an outstanding club for all girls interested in sports. Volleyball, softball, tumbling, and track will make up this semester's program.

Anyone may join by seeing Miss Helen Pohlmeyer, Freshman GAA instructor, in the girls' gym office. Freshman GAA meets on Friday nights at 3:30 p.m. in the gym. The first organization meeting will be January 23.

It is our hope you will take advantage of the opportunities GAA offers.

Sincerely,
Miss Helen Pohlmeyer,
Mrs. Alice Keegan,

Schmitz On Sports

Indiana take notice! Your defending State Basketball Champs aren't about to relinquish any of their titles including the coveted state crown. The rampaging Archers proved this in a convincing manner against North Side with a smashing 62-33 win for their 24th consecutive City Series victory, and with a routine 78-58 breeze past once-respected Mishawaka.

Expected to be the closest of the last six North-South tussles, the contest, marked by two new records, turned out to be North's most humiliating loss to South since the home and home series began in the '20's.

Bolyard Sets Record

South's surprising triumph (South was a slight favorite) pushed the Archers' mark to 24 consecutive wins over city foes. In pacing the Kellys with 27 points, Tom Bolyard came within 15 points of establishing the new school season scoring record. Then against Mishawaka, he added 27 to set a new mark of 342 points, erasing Mike McCoy's record set last season at 328. Last issue this column mistakenly reported that Terry Miller's record of 304 was doomed in the North contest.

Several weeks ago this column presented a concise table of all the records within Tom Bolyard's reach. Two marks have already fallen. Take a look and see how close Bolyard is to most of the records with the season just over the half-way mark.

In past weeks choosing the player of the week in Archer contests has been the simple matter of selecting Bolyard. For the first 10 games he has been this corner's choice; but for the first time in the campaign, my choice for the most valuable player must turn elsewhere.

Although accounting for only six points, nothing to herald, this consistent Kelly not only kept North Side's leading scorer from attempting but three shots over the first 16 minutes, not only broke up numerous North Side passes and plays with an alert, quick defense, not only cleared the boards an extraordinary number of times for a back court man, but genred, engineered, and ran a tremendous passing game that splintered the opposing defense despite numerous defense patterns.

Still wonder who my most valuable player is for the North Side game? He's senior guard Mike Simmons. Going into Friday's game, Jim Lang, flashy North guard, was sporting a 14.25 per game average in leading all Redskin scorers. Lang hit North's third and fourth points by converting two charity tosses that followed a foul by Simmons. From then on Lang tried vainly to find the mark while Simmons yielded no more than breathing room.

Last issue the column commented on the slow deliberate game that South found overshadowed by a fast passing game. Against North the Kellys looked like a completely revamped squad when Simmons and Nick Demetre took charge of a fast passing attack that has proven to be the Kellys' most effective.

North Side should have concentrated on passing while dreaming of the big upset. During a spree in the second stanza, the Redskins were guilty of five consecutive passing errors, paving the road for the Archer rally that netted the stunning triumph.

As we go to press the Central-South battle is still a thing of the future. The Archers risked their long winning skein in this hot contest and the outcome most certainly determined which Fort Wayne team will appear on the A.P. and U.P.I. Top Ten Polls.

As an after-thought, North forced Central into an overtime in their meeting while South overwhelmed the Redskins, 62-33, and the Archers, in the Green's most unimpressive victory, turned back Elkhart's Blue Blazers, the squad that handed Central its third loss of 1958-1959.

Saturday evening's "contest" was one of those routine Bolyard-hit-over-25 games; but the tussle proved most valuable and pleasing for Archer mentor Don Reichert.

The Kelly runaway opened opportunities for the practice-hungry reserve hands. In the third period, Reichert felt enough insurance by removing three of the starters for eager subs. High scoring Tom Bolyard (28) and Nick Demetre (21) continued after the Kelly margin in period three expanded to over 30.

Dave Roderick has shown promise ever since his big break in the Terre Haute Gerstmeyer game that found South without the services of stalwart Dave Barrett. Roderick again bedazzled a near-capacity crowd with great board work that netted him two goals on his way to nine points.

Ball handling again augmented the Archers' vulnerable one-two scoring punch. A sticky defense coupled with the Archers' sudden inspiring passing game could pace the way to another City and Sectional championship. The Kelly squad sure looked like a different team than the squad that placed second in the Elkhart Christmas Tourney.

Archers In Headlines

Colleges infiltrated by recent ex-Archer mainstays have been sharing basketball headlines bringing back memories to Archer fans and smiles to Don Reichert and his staff. Seniors are sure to remember the boys who put the Kellys on top three years back.

Of course last year's State Champion center, Mike McCoy, has played the chief role in being Fort Wayne's most renowned collegiate competitor. McCoy's attention is functioned chiefly around his leaving Northwestern University in Chicago for the sunny confines of Miami University in Miami, Fla. But two ex-mates from the 1954-55 Sectional semi-finalist squad, Bill Gerig and Terry Miller, are being constantly recognized for their superior play.

Gerig is captain of Wheaton College in Illinois, one of the top five small college teams in the nation. He was recently selected to appear on the Missionary team that tours the East annually.

Terry Miller earned a permanent berth on Michigan's top-notch Wolverines. Saturday against Ohio State Miller pushed through 14 points in addition to starting many scoring plays with timely, needle-threading passes.

The Citadel, in Charleston, S.C., is currently enjoying the services of ex-Kellys George Wehrmeister and Bob Blackledge on the varsity and Kip Ormerod, Dan Howe, and Rich Miller on the freshman team.

Freshmen Beat Redskins 33-29

South Side's freshman basketball team earned sweet revenge against arch rival North Side by beating the Redskins by a score of 33-29 on January 8 at the Redskin girls' gym. The Red and White squeaked out a 43-41 victory over the Archers in the Frosh Holiday Tourney. This time the Redmen bit the dust in a well-played game.

A high average offensive balance spelled victory for South Side. The Kelly first five went all the way scoring the burden of points in the low-scoring contest.

MEEK, FROM HIS post position, dropped in 10 points for scoring honors. Backing him were Leaky and Dunn, the two guards, with eight and seven tallies, respectively.

South worked both a 3-2 and 2-3 offensive pattern. On the narrow court the 2-3 set-up proved more effective. The boys would feed Meek at center who would pass to the guards driving in or would turn and shoot himself. Although North had plenty of height in the front line, they could not stop this maneuver.

Hoar paced the cross-town team by hitting for seven points. Reeves, Kreig, and Kelly divided 18 points evenly.

Although close all the way South was never behind in the game. The Archers started the game with a deadly assault on the hoop, grabbing the first six points and a 14-8 lead at the start.

Fine shooting on both teams' part prevailed in the second stanza. The Kellys walked off the floor at half-time with a 21-18 lead.

In the third period neither team could find the range. It was still a close game going into the final six minutes.

SOUTH'S COACH, "Porky" Holt, elected to have his team control the ball. In the last minutes the Archers went into a modified stall. With 14 seconds left and three points behind, North sent in five guards in hope of stealing the ball from South and possibly drawing a foul while driving for the basket.

Instead, North fouled and Robinson dropped in the free throw with two seconds left to make the winning margin four points.

The win pushed the Archers above the .500 mark. South's record is now 4-3.

Trojans Receive Loss From City Teams Faced; "Beaten On Rebounds"

After meeting Muncie Burris at Muncie, Friday night, the live and able Archer basketball team will make its first trip to Elmhurst High School in many years for a match against the up-and-coming Trojan team of that school Saturday night at 8 p.m.

Being a chance that Elmhurst High might compete in the city series next year with the other city schools, many teams have scheduled games with the Trojans for this year. Although the Elmhurst netters have been beaten by every city school they have played, the Archers can expect a pepper-hot battle from the Red and White coached by John Petrick.

"WE WERE BEATEN on the rebounds," are the words of likeable coach Petrick concerning his defeats to the city squads. This is clearly proven as his team has only two boys 6 feet or over of the top ten players. Griffith 6 foot and Waldrop 6 feet 1 inch are the tall men while the rest of the team averages about 5 feet 10½ inches.

Another factor to be noticed about the Elmhurst cagers is that of their starting five; only one is a junior and the other four are seniors. To add to this, of the next five players only two are juniors while the remaining three are seniors. This points out that if the Trojans wish to keep up with the other city and county squads in the next years they had better have a strong reserve team.

The Archers are looking forward to this game as they will have their chance to look over this new foe, and also the Trojan personnel.

Eight Intramural Managers Guests At Michigan University

Being guests of one of the finest Big Ten basketball players was the distinguished position of eight intramural managers last Saturday. Terry Miller, ex-South Side standout invited Mr. Clair Motz and his aides to spend the day at the University of Michigan campus where U. of M. hosted conference foe Ohio State in the hectic Big Ten title chase.

Wendell Rose, Max VanFossen, Jon Heavin, Tom Wible, Tom Schwartz, Dave Morrell, Bill Houk, and Steve Longenberger made the trip to Ann Arbor with Mr. Motz and Mr. Coats, who volunteered to help transport the group.

EARLY SATURDAY morning, the eight fortunate lads started their trip to the Big Ten campus. When they arrived, a trip around the grounds was on schedule followed by a tour through the Intramural Building and lunch at the massive university Union Building. The library was another highlight of a tour through the campus' prominent buildings.

Terry chose an excellent day for the invitation. The Big Ten Conference Swim Meet was on tap in the early afternoon. Then later in the afternoon the group went to the Yost Field House for the trip's highlight.

As the pattern in almost all conference games this season a rugged well fought game chock-full of excitement. Terry put on quite a demonstration for his hometown friends as well as for a large regional television audience.

His performance was perhaps his best of the season as he netted 14 points and paced the Wolverines to a 78-74 win with timely and accurate playmaking from his guard slot. Mr. Moats was thoroughly thrilled with Terry's showing, commenting, "It was a fine game in which Terry Miller never played better."

After the game the group returned home arriving in the early evening after a memorable and exciting day at Ann Arbor. Mr. Motz was very glad that the group was able to make the trip and also expressed his appreciation of Terry Miller's thoughtfulness in inviting the managers to witness a fine collegiate contest.

Instructors Note Science's Importance In Life; Space Age Opens New Frontiers To Be Conquered

Through the day one comes face to face with many conflicts—conflicts which serve to change a person's life by making him able to choose the right answers. These questions range from what a person is going to wear to school to what career he should choose for the future.

Because each individual faces these conflicts, it is inevitable that our country and the entire world should also be confronted with them. For example, one of the most recent conflicts in our country concerns the Space Age. This, naturally, has put more emphasis on the study of science.

However, science has long been a subject valuable to a person's life; for, as Mr. Robert Weber, botany teacher, explains, "Science is, more than anything else, a way of thinking and a way of working. It demands a kind of approach toward problem solving that one doesn't usually encounter in the study of such things as languages, history, art, etc. In science there are no 'sacred cows,' or at least there shouldn't be. That is to say, any and all sorts of things are studied, and no man's findings are taken as absolute or unchangeable."

LET US BREAK DOWN the values of science and South Side's science department into three parts. First of all, the value of science to a student's personal life is explained by Mr. Ward Gilbert this way: "Science not only teaches us what the world is made up of; but it teaches us clear, analytical thinking, step by step mental processes, and a further insight into the physical world."

Mr. Albert Heine says, "Science consists of attitudes and methods. Attitude is a pattern of thought, or the way you regard things. Scientific thinking replaces superstition. An idea is never accepted until it has become a proved fact."

Mr. Max Hauk remarks that, "In general, a study of science helps to increase public understanding and appreciation of the importance and promise of the methods of science in human progress."

"To one who has learned to think analytically and to put things in time-perspective, even personal life problems will seem much less foreboding. Such attitudes are a part of the learning of every good science course. Then, too, there are the fascinating ideas one picks up in science courses which launch new hobbies and add new life to old ones," states Mr. Weber.

WHEN ASKED HIS opinion on the second value, to a person as a citizen of this country, Mr. Hauk replied, "To the average citizen science is a means of security, a way of life, a healthful existence."

On the same question Mr. Gilbert commented, "As a scientist one can be invaluable to his country by making new discoveries and advancements, thereby bettering both himself and his fellow man."

Mr. Heine remarked that through science a person "develops open-mindedness, always seeking the truth. A scientist does not accept any idea until he has proved or disproved it."

Mr. Weber said about the third value, to a student in the study of other subjects, that "In his study of other subjects the student should generously use his knowledge of the scientific metod. Take cause and effect, for example. Every author was caused to write his book or his poem. Learn why and gain a new interest. Every event in history was caused. The study of the causes and their effects upon the people to follow the event are the 'real stuff' of history studies. How does this fit in with science? Well, a science course just wouldn't be a complete one if it neglected to train the student to understand the difference between cause and effect—betwen data collcted in an experiment and the causes for its being that way."

"One is able to analyze critically and challenge the written word," concludes Mr. Don Weaver on the same question.

Furthermore, "Science teaches the student to use the scientific method, which replaces superstition," stated Mr. Heine.

MR. HAUK ADDS these specific values of science:

Science increases our knowledge. It helps us understand the 'why of things.' We want to know what makes them 'tick,' what they're made of, and why they act the way they do.

Science aids us in broadening our outlook and increases our ability to do things more scientifically.

A study of science aids in removing fear and superstition.

Science makes better citizens—better citizens make wiser decisions. In this modern world science is a must.

Science aids in the betterment of, and maintenance of good health.

Mr. Gilbert listed the strong points of South Side's science department thusly:

We have good chemistry, physics, any botany labs.

We have good materials with which to work.

We have a plentiful chemistry supply, thereby enabling students to learn above and beyond.

Mr. Weber remarks that "At South Side we have attempted to handle instruction on two levels. Botany, chemistry, and physics are presented for those students of college preparatory calibre who should have a background of fairly intensive laboratory work in their courses. General biology, physical geography, and general science are offered primarily for students who cannot meet the college prep standards but who, nevertheless, need some background in science. This plan is, of course, not entirely satisfactory, but it is far superior to many science curriculums in high schools.

"BOTANY OFFERS THE student an opportunity to learn fundamental laboratory procedure, to analyze problems, to take logical and organized notes, and to learn many other facts of the world we call science. He learns these techniques and methods while delving into the structures and functions of plants and, consequently, learns a great deal about living things."

The goal of the science department is "To give each student a firm foundation for future work," stated Mr. Gilbert.

Mr. Weber lists these two goals of the department:

1. To teach students to be more observant, more careful in making statements of opinion, to be more systematic and analytical in problem-solving, and to form any other habits which denote orderly and reasonable thought.
2. To acquire specific knowldege about the patterns of behavior for matter—chemical reactions, laws of motion, functions of living protoplasms, etc.

LAST OF ALL, the question, "How has the Space Age affected the teaching of high school science?" arises. Mr. Gilbert remarks, "Since more emphasis has been placed on Russian and American progress in science, more pupils have enrolled in science courses throughout the U.S. Naturally, more interest has been developed in our subject."

"The Space Age has opened new frontiers to be conquered. I'm sure science will do just that. Probably more emphasis will be placed on science as a means of conquering this new frontier," stated Mr. Hauk.

More emphasis has been placed in science because of the Space Age. The conflict over whether our country has put enough emphasis or too much emphasis on science may not be fully answered for quite some time. Though this is one of the most serious problems of our time, it becomes another question to be contemplated by each individual and to be thought about, analyzed, and acted upon.

New Rules Made For Cafeteria

South Side is very fortunate in having a new addition which was so badly needed. One of the most beautiful parts of this addition is the cafeteria. To keep this room lovely, and make it acceptable to all, we must remember some rules:

(1) This room is to be used as a well-regulated dining room, not a place for hasty food grabbing.
(2) Students may take one book to the cafeteria, and no books or equipment will be allowed on the tables.
(3) Students are asked to dispose of milk cartons, etc., in the containers placed by the cafeteria doors.
(4) Trays, dishes, silverware, milk bottles are to be taken to the window of the dishwashing room.
(5) Chairs are to be placed carefully by the tables. Garbage should not be left on the floor.

If students are careful to obey these rules the cafeteria's appearance should be preserved for many years.

The school board did not include the draperies in the contract. Mr. Leon Smith and the Art Club shopped for these which were purchased by South Side. It is hoped to have several good pictures added to the room in the near future. This would add still more to the looks and value of our newest school facility.

YMCA To Give Birthday Party Hop

The YMCA of Fort Wayne and Allen County this year is witnessing the birth of a second century of service to the community. Likes American Schools Better, States U. S. Born Linda Hard

"I like the American school system better, but I'm not sure it is the better," stated American-born Linda Hard, a new Senior A at South.

Linda knows what she's talking about, for she and her family moved to England when she was nine years old. Her father, who is with International Harvester, was transferred home this December.

Imagine what it would be like to wear uniforms. At Putney High School for Girls, the students had to wear full gray skirts with no crenolines, white blouses, purple ties with white stripes, black or brown shoes, gray or purple sweaters, and purple blazers with oak tree emblems. With this, navy blue general wear coats and navy blue hats with wide brims and emblems are worn.

Girls are not allowed to wear any make-up, nail polish or jewelry. Hair longer than shoulder-length must be tied back.

At the age of 11, English students take an "eleven plus" exam, of which less than [illegible] per cent pass. Those who do pass go on to a secondary grammar school, while the others enter a secondary modern school, which is a vocational school. At the age of 16, the GCE (General Certificate of Education) is given at an ordinary level. Later at 18 it is again given at an advanced level.

English schools place all emphasis on scholastic life rather than the social aspect. To illustrate this, Linda has already had five years of French, algebra, and geometry, four years of Latin, three years of chemistry and English history, and one year of trig and calculus. Also English schools and universities have no sororities or fraternities whatsoever.

Although juke boxes are looked down upon and are seen in disreputable places, records are becoming increasingly popular. They are six shillings or 85 cents apiece.

Even though Elvis reigns here as King of Rock and Roll, he shares the spot with Pat Boone in England. Teenage dancing is very similar to ours, except the English like to go around more, while we concentrate on the fancy footwork.

Every American has the idea that the first thing a "furriner" should try is the American hamburger. This is not true of the English, because just recently they have been introduced as "wimpey-burgers." Linda's favorite foods, however, are Big Boys and Southern fried chicken.

Linda and her family sailed from England the 16th of December on the S.S. United States. After they arrived in New York, they flew to Cleveland and then took a train to Columbus. There they picked up their '59 Chevy and drove to Washington Court House and Gallipigos, O., to spend Christmas with their relatives. The arrived in Fort Wayne on the 26th of December. For the time being, they are staying at the Hotel Keenan, but will soon reside at 2022 Kensington Boulevard.

Hobbies occupy a lot of Linda's spare time. Listed among her favorites are traveling, cycling, riding horses, and sports, especially field hockey and tennis.

To point out how much America's wealth is exaggerated, Linda recalls an experience that happened to her soon after they arrived in England. Word had spread around the school that there was a new American. A girl came up to her in the hall and asked if she was the one. When Linda replied yes, the girl said, "Your father must be a millionaire—all Americans are rich."

In the near future Linda wants to go back to England, "but just to visit," she hastily adds. She has several friends who are planning to visit her, two of whom will probably come next summer.

One thing that irritates Linda no end is when kids speak of her as "English." She emphasizes the fact that she was born in Springfield, O., and raised in Indianapolis. If you get close enough to her, listen to her speak. She has one of the most beautiful and accented voices this writer has ever heard.

After that, all we can say is "Welcome home, Linda!"

Iva Anspach To Relate Missionary Experiences

Iva Dell Anspach will be the speaker at the next Philo meeting one week from today, January 26, at 3:30 p.m. in the Greeley Room. The topic of her talk will be her missionary experiences. Installation of officers will take place at this meeting.

Help Wanted: See Head Of Cafeteria

Any girl wishing to work in the school cafeteria at the counter or dishwashing machine is to contact Miss Lucy Mellen, cafeteria head, in Room 77.

This job requires at least one hour, five days a week. It is also required by the Board of Health that anyone working in connection with food or dishes must have a chest X-ray and a blood test.

For each day's work, the girl will be given her lunch free of charge.

Room Agents To Have Meetings In Room S

Meetings for Times room agents will be conducted on Wednesdays, January 21 and 28, and February 4 and 11, at 3:30 p.m. in the Study Hall.

Agents are asked to attend these meetings because they are very important ones.

Stamp Club Discontinues

The Stamp Club has been discontinued because most of the members are seniors and need to go to the chemistry laboratory on Wednesday after school, and they can find no other suitable time to meet.

Archer Couples Play In Snow; Take Advantage Of Winter Fun

Winter is definitely here. Let's go outdoors and join the Kelly lads and lasses in some winter fun.

Macy Galbreath, Sandy Miller, and Marti Clark are wearily pulling a toboggan uphill. Naturally, Steve Smith, Mike Lehman, and Nick Demetre are riding. Waiting at the top of the hill, cheering the girls on are Julie Carr and Lowell Dickmeyer (River Forest). Diane Hall, Kenny Robinson, Margo Dixon, and John Cooper (N.S.) go sailing by on a sled.

Building snow forts is fun, as Karen Curley, Judy Wilburn, and Bev Liggett can testify. The girls are troubled though, because Murray Munger, Chuck Putt, and Bob Rice keep trying to tear their snow fort down.

As Dan O'Laughlin throws a snowball at Marian McCallaster, we decide to go inside. Things are getting dangerous.

Inside, Dave Rinne (N.S.) is giving Merle Baldwin some cocoa. Linda Wightman, Bill Meyer, Sharon Probst, Gus Wade, Sue Sappenfield, and Bob King are gathering around the fire for some much-needed warmth.

Dick McGaw and Dick Green (Hartford City) are helping Beth Curley and Sandy Thorn take off their ice skates.

As we leave this happy scene, Evie North, Bonnie Bender, and Elaine Snow are dancing with Chris Parrot, Jimmy King (Army) and Larry Thompson (N.S.). No wonder they have so much energy! They never went outside!

Don Uetrecht Draws Diagram Of New Wing

The diagram of the new wing and the re-arranged shop and the room above have been drawn to scale by Don Uetrecht, 12-B. It took Don approximately three hours to accomplish this. The main problem was the size of the paper, as it was only six inches square.

Don has also relabeled some other rooms here at South Side, such as the General Office.

Archer Students Now Using Recently Dedicated Classrooms

New Equipment, Rooms Are Helpful, Attractive

By Geri Geller

The construction on the newly opened east wing addition to South Side began last spring, and since then, its development has been watched by everyone.

Building on an addition of this kind is far from being an easy task, and the work and planning involved is almost unimaginable.

W. W. Spurling Construction Company, Shambaugh and Son Plumbing and Heating Company, and Central Electric Contracting Company worked to finish the building. Without their help, our building would have not been completed until next fall. The School Board of the Fort Wayne Community Schools was not able to afford the expense of finishing the building this year. However, the contractors were willing to pay for the building until next year when the School Board will be able to pay them.

EVERYTHING, from the installation of new oil-burning boilers to the decoration and design of the spacious cafeteria, took much planning.

The new shops provide much more space, thus making learning facilities more useful. This is quite a change from the small and poorly-arranged shops that existed before. Much new equipment has been furnished to add to the convenience and educational value of the shops.

The girls' gym certainly adds a note of attractiveness and definite usefulness. These facilities eliminate the crowded conditions of the old gym, which the girls had to share with the boys. The new gym will provide more storage room for equipment and will also make smaller classes possible.

The convenience of the modern shower and dressing rooms will certainly be appreciated by gym students as well as by dance students.

THE DANCE and exercise room is a vast improvement over the previous room provided for dance classes. In the new addition, the dance room is equipped with dance bars, exercise ladders, and full length mirrors to aid in the classes.

Mrs. Alice Keegan and Miss Helen Pohlmeyer, girls' gym instructors, both agree that the new gym and dance rooms are the best to be found, and that the storage room, absent in the old gym, will certainly be helpful and appreciated.

The boys have their pride about their new athletic and dressing rooms, too. They provide ample room for basketball, track, and football players.

THE CORRIDORS, with green walls and tan-colored lockers, brighten the school. Most of these lockers are occupied by new freshmen.

The cafeteria, which most students have had the chance to take advantage of, is certainly one of the most attractive rooms in the new addition. It was planned to provide more room in order to cut serving time in half. Its spaciousness and lighting makes the room pleasant to be in.

The contemporary decorating of the cafeteria seems to appeal to most students, and the convenience of being able to convert it to a dance floor or banquet room is useful.

MR. LEON SMITH, art teacher, planned, with the aid of a few art students, the bamboo drapes which grace the cafeteria. "They were purchased from Sears and Roebuck Company because of their useful and economical value," stated Mr. Smith. "We plan to also purchase side drapes when our funds can afford it," he added.

Plans to purchase original oil and print paintings are being devised by part of the Art Club. These paintings will be kept in contemporary design so as to continue with the present modern design of the cafeteria.

THE HONORARY ART CLUB, which consists of students who have taken Art 4 and who have a B average, is forming plans for an Italian glass mosaic panel to be hung above the lockers outside of the cafeteria. This will also add to the attractiveness of the new addition.

It takes many people to plan a building like the new east wing, and their efforts are rewarded when they see the finished product of their planning. Everyone who had a part in the planning and building of it, can stand back and look at it with self-satisfaction and pride.

Kellys Give Ideas On New Building

By Linda Silverman

A letter to the editor, smashing South's new addition as "an extravagance," appeared in the News-Sentinel last Saturday. In answer to this letter, those who use the new building, the teachers and students of South Side, have stated their true opinions concerning it.

Mr. Glen Stebing: The building looks nice and is something that South really needed. However, I wish there was more room. I think the boys' locker room is inadequate; there are only eight showers and one lavatory for the 150 lockers.

Mr. Jack Arnold: (Supervisor of study halls in the cafeteria) The new building is very beautiful and well planned, especially the coloring in the cafeteria. This is used for study hall all day, and it certainly is a bright and cheerful room for the students to study.

Mr. Ronald Gersmehl: We all appreciate having the additional space, a cheerful and inviting cafeteria, more classrooms and physical education facilities. I suppose there are some weaknesses, some mistakes in planning, but the new addition certainly is a marvelous asset to South Side.

Mr. C. J. Murray: I think it's wonderful. It is not only beautiful, but very functional.

Miss Lucy Mellen: The new addition is filling our need for space for additional high school

James Jackson Declares South's Addition A Lasting Influence In Dedicatory Ceremonies Of 'Needed Implement Of Education'

Orchestra Performs; Choir Sings; Mr. Snider Describes Building

By Sally Burton

"The influence of this new addition will continue for many years," said Attorney James Jackson at the dedication ceremony for the new addition, Sunday at 3 p.m., in the school gymnasium.

Mr. Jackson said that the addition is very important because "it is a utility, it is beautiful, it is an implement in education, it is a modern facility, and it is a very much needed addition."

He went on to say that it is a symbol of hope for the future, and the progressive optimism of mankind. There are many present-day threats and fears, such as economic problems, war; but these have been faced by all generations and all centuries. We are, nevertheless, marching along the highway of human growth and possibilities. The trend of civilization is forever upward and our building is symbolic of this.

IN THE COURSE of his speech, he called attention to the fact that while part of the schools in this country are closed because of problems, we are dedicating a new addition.

Mr. Jackson dedicated the new addition to several things. He first dedicated it to the youth, for their enjoyment, for their use, and for their growth. It was dedicated to the parents "whose noble love is expressed by sacrifices for their children." It was then dedicated to the "patient, loyal teachers who have taught and understood through the years." He dedicated the addition to "all things kind and good in our community, and to God and His divine light."

He finished by saying that our new addition will be a "strong light for all the years to come."

# # #

THE PROGRAM OPENED with a welcome to the guests by Mr. Sol Rothberg, chairman of the program. This was followed by the introduction of the orchestra, which played "Fantasia on Greensleeves" under the direction of Mr. Robert Drummond. The choir, under the direction of Mr. Lester Hostetler, sang "Bless This House," "No Man Is an Island," and "Halls of Ivy."

Mr. Joseph Hulfeld, architect of the new addition and president of the A. M. Strauss Associated Co., thanked all the contractors and others who co-operated so fully that the east wing was finished five months ahead of time. He said that the new remodeled area altogether equals 46,000 square feet, and cost $396,000.

Mr. Rothberg said a few words in appreciation of Mr. Willard Shambaugh, president of the board of school trustees, and then introduced other members of the board.

Mr. Aaron T. Lindley, superintendent of schools, gave the building acceptance talk. He first commended the architects and the contractors for a wonderful job. He said that South Side was very fortunate to have such an addition because it has beautiful colors, good materials, and much-needed facilities for a better educa-

60 Men Construct Our New Section

By Linda Silverman

As pupils of South Side, we use and enjoy the facilities of the new addition without realizing the amount of man-hours and materials that went into it. The building will be more appreciated when pupils think of the amount of toil that made it possible.

Actual construction began two weeks before school was dismissed last June and continued until January. As many as 60 men worked on the building at one time. The addition totals eight months' work, several thousand feet of pipes, and tons of concrete and brick.

The building is in use now through the efforts of Shambaugh and Son, the heating and plumbing contractors. By putting on extra men, the building was readied by the first of the year instead of September, the expected date.

Fifteen to twenty men at a time have worked on the heating and plumbing since the beginning of the summer.

# # #

THE CAFETERIA contains very progressive equipment. The equipment is all stainless steel, making sanitation easier. The dishwashing room is centrally located and makes it possible to keep a clean flow of plates to serving lines on each side.

The dishwasher is a conveyor type, working on the same principle as assembly line manufacturing does. It is seven feet long and the dishes are air dried.

A new exhaust system, the first of its kind to be used here, was installed. It carries kitchen odors away before they get into the actual kitchen area.

A large walk-in cooler, which contains 640 cubic feet of space, two freezers, with 30 cubic feet of space each, and two 70 cubic foot reach-in-refrigerators keep food fresh. Together these units contain 33,600 pounds of food.

MR. LOUIS RHOADS, of the Rhoads Equipment Company which installed the units, complimented the school system on its progressive attitudes toward food service. Shambaugh also installed 16 showers and 30 lavatories.

The amount of materials and manpower used by Spurling Construction in construction is hard to visualize. Twenty to 30 men worked on the construction for the eight month period.

The foundation took about six weeks to complete. Part of the street and five trees had to be dug up. The foundation of poured concrete reenforced with steel is 10 to 12 feet deep.

# # #

EQUIPMENT numbered six trucks, three bulldozers and three dump trucks, an air compressor, and an elevator. The elevator was used to raise materials to the second floor.

The face bricks numbered 80,000; cement blocks 48,000; masolite bricks and blocks 12,000. This adds up to a grand total of 140,000 bricks in the building.

The plans by A. M. Strauss Inc. were 19 regular pages plus about 30 pages of shop drawings.

Sports Facilities Are Ready For Use

By Diane Fredrick

A welcome beginning for the new semester was the opening of the new east wing addition with everything ready and awaiting classes.

Problems of moving were overcome on Wednesday, January 14, with the help of two janitors and three service workers, Shelba Cox, Susan Kuroski, and Pat Igney. All furniture, dance costumes, and gym equipment were transferred into their proper places in the new section by the helpers.

"By 5 p.m. that night we were completely prepared to hold regular classes in the new gym if it had been necessary," stated Miss Helen Pohlmeyer, girls' gym and dance instructor.

Thursday was spent cleaning and arranging the gym office. Two new desks and chairs are on order, but meanwhile furniture brought over from the old office is being utilized.

Upon being settled, about the only particular circumstance which arose was when the office occupants were partially frozen for a couple of days. Then it was discovered that turning on a heat duct would solve the problem.

When asked to comment on the girls' division of the addition Miss Pohlmeyer remarked, "I am very thrilled with our new addition and better organization, and I believe that the new facilities and increased space will be much nicer for the girls. I'm sure we'll be very, very happy in our new home."

With these new accommodations, girls' gym or dance classes can be held every hour. Gym classes having approximately 50 girls in each and dance classes with around 30 in each will be assigned baskets for their gym clothes and dance costumes.

During activity all girls will keep their street clothes and purses in lockers which will be patrolled by service workers, so there should be no reason for anything being stolen from the lockers.

The locker room houses 64 lockers and there are eight new shower stalls. The small number of shower stalls is one of the few disadvantages because of the number of girls and the limited time for showering and dressing (15 minutes). Storage space is also at a minimum.

"It's all quite wonderful and beautiful and I especially like our new dance room," stated Mrs. Alice Keegan, instructor for girls' gym and dance.

In the basement are located the new boys' locker rooms, equipment storage rooms, a first aid room, and offices for the boys' athletic instructors. The large locker room contains approximately 170 lockers which are used by varsity and reserve teams during basketball and

Kelly Junior, Ann Plogsterth, Makes Use Of Creativeness

TALENT UNLIMITED—Ann Plogsterth is seen with a few examples of her beautiful art work. Ann is now taking her fourth semester of art. (Picture by Thompson)

If South Side lays claim to a Rembrant. Ann Plogsterth could well deserve the honor. With a little equipment and a lot of imagination, Ann can create an oil painting, a sketch, or an ink drawing in no time at all. Creative, artistic, and talented well describe this lass who "just always seemed to draw." For as long as she can remember Ann enjoyed drawing and spent her free minutes developing her talent.

The only guidance Ann has received was a painting course at the Art School and direction in art classes at school.

Easter egg decorating was Ann's first boon to fame. When only 10, Ann won a contest sponsored by the Philharmonic based on the originality and skill with which an Easter egg was decorated. But Ann's talent doesn't stop there; only last year she won $25 in a Junior Scholastic contest for her scratch board picture in ink. For its Christmas issue the Junior Scholastic Magazine chose Ann's drawing. School exhibits and those at the Art Museum have displayed Ann's creations.

Contests aren't the only way to display one's talents, as Ann well knows. South Side's halls have been decorated and enlivened by posters from Ann's imagination and brush, advertising events for various clubs; and our artist's church employed her ability for one of its booklets. People receiving one of the Plogsterth's Christmas cards probably marveled at its originality and cleverness. Why? It was one of Ann's creations.

Art isn't merely a hobby for Ann, as she plans to devote all her time to it after graduation. An art school or a college with an art course will further the development in Ann's profession of the brush and palette. As an artist Ann will probably do most of her work in oils, although she enjoys all mediums equally well.

Creativeness in art must influence creativeness in other fields because Ann's talent runs through to writing. The subject, "Why you should own your home" was easily covered for first prize by Ann in the fifth grade when entering a city-wide essay contest.

To commemorate its twenty-fifth anniversary, Camp Logan chose Ann to write a poem fitting the occasion. As a member of Meterites in high school Ann placed second and third in a poetry and a short story contest.

With these honors behind her and others ahead in writing, Ann still desires to be a professional artist; so in future years she hopes the name Plogsterth will appear in the corner of more and more paintings, and if it does, one aspiring artist's dreams will be fulfilled.

Skiing Is Believing

That Colorado countryside is really beautiful, as I recently discovered on a prospecting expedition in Denver over vacation. I was very surprised to find Dan Bill's footprints, while looking for gold out in the wilds. As I traveled "About Town" I ran into John Hillman, former Archer and columnist for the Times.

Naturally I couldn't escape trying that great sport with the six-foot skates called skiing after some friendly persuasion from John. After I'd been skiing for hours on END, I decided maybe it was time to take some lessons! I really enjoyed doing it, and of course it was nice having a real pro like John around to show me some of the little tricks that keep you from breaking your neck!

Have you ever had one of those "it-never - happens - to-me" experiences? Mine happened as I was taking the last run of the day on my last day of skiing. I was half-way up Loveland Mountain on a double chair lift, which was suspended about 50 feet above the mountainside, when the lift momentarily stopped. This shook one of my poles loose and as I looked down-n-n I saw my pole standing in about 30 inches of snow. If you ever go skiing, don't miss this kind of thrilling experience!

Open Season

Did you know that right now is open season for hunting cows? These animals may be recognized by their long tails and short ears. Cows are often noted for their clever camouflaging and hiding—just ask Dan Tritch or Ken Howe! These courageous boys, after tracking one of those ferocious creatures, managed to fire their great big guns at it. Unfortunately, the way I hear it, the shells bounced off the cow—oh, well.

Modern Home Sweet Home

At breakfast in their bright new house
Sat John Q. Modern and his spouse,
And while he munched a bowl of cereal,
Of course, but vitamined material,
She poured herself a generous sluice
Of imitation carrot juice,
And breathed with deep content the clear
And air-conditioned atmosphere.
"Oh, John," she said, "I love this home,
All duroplex and fibrofoam.
The walls and ceiling look so bright
In that transparent chromocite."
Her husband took a final gulp
Of coffee ground from soybean pulp;
Went out the ferralumin door
To catch the 7:54.

Small World

My journey to Colorado was surely scenic along the 1,000 and some miles. As I was admiring the scenery in ski country I spotted two fabulous skiers and upon closer inspection discovered them to be two other Archers, Sue and Bonnie Brenn. Did you ever travel about a thousand miles from home and then meet your next-door neighbors?

Pockets Lighter?

Well, the second semester is now underway and quite a few Archers will discover their pockets are lighter, due to book fines! Do you realize that right now dangerous air particles are striking the surfaces of your books? A leading book doctor suggests lead shielding, but that might be kind of heavy. At least be sure at the end of this semester that the teacher charges you before she sees the book!

Optimistic Welcome?

A group of citizens were on hand the other day to welcome a visitor to Fort Wayne. The spokesman for the group stepped forward and said, "Welcome to our mist!"

Archer Students State Fondest Wish

Hmmm . . . ? Was the reply most often made by Kelly students who were asked the question: "If you found Aladdin's lamp and could make only one wish, what would it be?" After some further (much further) concentration, a few of them came up with these interesting statements.

Sally Bash: I wish I could think of a witty wish.

Steve Bash: My only wish is that they would stop taking polls.

Bonnie Russell: Third, fourth, and fifth off—any study hall seat except P-18 and Q-17.

Bob Loman: Sixth, seventh, and eighth (???) periods off.

Janet Hicks: Plane ticket to VMI.

Larry Lee: Take state again!

Bill Whitmer: To be a senior.

Mary Keegan: Inadequate space to print this intellectualist's intelligent enunciative remark.

Sue Horth: Wish I went to New Haven.

John Hendricksen: Go to Jackson, Mich.

Debby Brooke: I wish that everything that I wish would come true.

Janet Davies: Wish I could make my own schedule.

Marijane Tobey: Coke in the drinking fountains . . . hot dogs in the milk machine.

Dave Terrill: Wouldn't say it in public.

Sue Phillips: Same as Sue.

Steve Myers: I wish I could keep it so I could keep on wishing.

Lois Lerch: I wish there was world peace.

Sheri DeYoung: That some guy who needs some culture would take me to the Civic.

Marilyn Cole: I wish all Archer students would be ready with smart, witty remarks, so poll takers like me would have an easier time of it.

Archers Discuss Sloppy Handwriting Personality Effects

What do you think of your handwriting and how does it show your personality?

Edee White: Lousy! What's it supposed to do to my personality?

Bob Ramage: It stinks. Both of them, yeah!

Ann Cupp: My handwriting's little. It shows I'm conservative.

Bob Lohman: It's sloppy. It doesn't show my personality.

Marijane Tobey: It's pretty stupid, terrible, and crazy. No one can read my backhand but me.

Larry Gerig: I wouldn't know if my handwriting shows my personality or not. I can't write.

Elaine Snow: Gee! I always thought mine was pretty good, but since Bob Lohman says his is sloppy, I'm not sure about mine.

Dave Anderson: I don't know. (I think he's afraid to admit it.)

Lynn Neiman: When I'm ina bad mood I make my writing small. When I'm in a good mood I make it larger.

Dean Rice: I always change my writing. I'm a schizophrenic. (You look it up; I had to.)

Peggy Floyd: I write sloppy so . . .

Brian Ronan: I write lousy. I guess it means I must have a lousy personality.

Carolyn Pio: I write anyway I like. What personality?

Steve Tharp: It stinks. Personality . . . Well??

Linda Silverman: My handwriting I'd rather not discuss. As for showing my personality, how can you tell if I print?

Jim Hill: I have good handwriting but it doesn't show my personality.

Jane Ladig: My writing is horrible but my personality . . ,

Bill Alfeld: It's sloppy. I have a neat personality.

Kaylene Gebert: My handwriting is a mystery to everyone. So is my personality.

Ken Robinson: I'm odd. My personality changes and my writing stays the same.

Jenny Manth: I think every man should think for himself. Anyway, who writes? I print.

Marcia Melching: Well, you write neat, you look neat, so . . .

Dave Wallace: Gee! It's terrible, a scrawly mess. It's supposed to match my personality?

Janet Hicks: My handwriting shows I'm confused 24 hours a day.

Roger Acton: I don't know about my personality but my handwriting is crummy.

Brenda Arnold: Rotten handwriting. It's hopeless.

Jim Jackson: My own handwriting is messy and it shows I'm a bum.

Linda Wightman: The more I write, the messier it gets. That's why I'm taking typing.

Larry Lee: It's sloppy, so it must show my personality.

Ann Golden: My mother says it looks like a third graders! I can't read it myself.

Lola McLaughlin: I don't even pay attention to the way I write, so it doesn't show my personality.

Bob Bechert: My handwriting looks like Shakespeare's. If that means anything to anyone, tell me.

Nancy Pfeiffer: It looks like the Leaning Tower of Pisa. I also have a towering personality.

How would you answer this question? Does your handwriting have anything to do with your personality?

Archer Lass Writes Kelly About Journey

Dear Kelly,

I'm Back Home Again in Indiana. We had a Sentimental Journey through Philadelphia, U.S.A. to New York. It's Wonderful, but I'd still like to visit Bimbombay! Smog wasn't too common, but near the factories the Smoke Gets in Your Eyes. Oh, Problems! Well, I really had only one problem. While walking through the park, I sniffed a tulip and got Stung by a bee. With a Little Bit of Luck the swelling will go down before my big night, I hoped. (It did!)

I Love a Parade! Who doesn't? We saw the cutest Little Drummer Boy, leading 76 Trombones, a real Surrey With the Fringe on Top, and a float labeled Purple People Eater. Oh, What a Beautiful Morning!

Right after the parade we went back to the hotel to celebrate my birthday. Naturally, there were 16 Candles on the cake. Among my gifts were Blue Suede Shoes, a Chantilly Lace blouse, a mystery novel entitled That Old Black Magic, and a record of the Chipmunk Song.

I went to see Oklahoma. That was my best gift, because it's So Rare that I ever see a stage production. I left thinking There's No Business Like Show Business. We then went to a large restaurant where Les Elgart's band was playing. I Could Have Danced All Night, but Mother reminded me I had a full day ahead of me and needed my sleep. As you can gather, I had Some Enchanted Evening and a glorious vacation!

The Archer Lassie

Archer Couples In Disaster; Enveloped By Huge Bubble

Disaster has struck South Side! Some of the school's population has been enveloped in a huge bubble. How did this happen? How can they be freed from their prison? These and other questions have been taken up by a panel of experts. They are in session now, but seem to be accomplishing nothing.

After we meet the panel, let's examine some of the theories with them. Left to right they are Marie Rohn and Ron Heymann, Barb Frederick and Dick Erb, Dan Bill and Camille Luther.

The experts have advanced several theories about how this misfortune may have occurred. One is that Linda Meyers, Carolyn Isch, Bob LeFever, and Dick Rothberg were in the gym blowing bubbles with that new super-duper bubble gum, and all four bubbles united to form one big bubble. This unified bubble spread, engulfing about half the school.

Another is that Beth Curley and Dick McGaw were in the cafeteria with Sally Dill and Dick Johnson washing dishes. They were using that new super-duper soap with bigger bubbles. Bigger is right; so big that it swallowed some of the pupils.

Another states that Carolyn DeVore and Mike Collins were in the lab developing a new detergent when Gus Wade and Sharon Probst walked in, upsetting the delicate instruments. The instruments went crazy and produced the bubble. As you can see, our panel can't seem to agree about the cause. Perhaps they can think of a way to get the trapped Archers free.

Karen Curley, Murray Monger, Sheri DeYoung and Bob Bolyard are presently working on a serum that will open the bubble when poured on top of it. However, Judy Dunlap and Wendell Eicher are afraid that the serum will explode before it can be placed on the bubble.

Tom Bolyard and Kay Augspurger have almost convinced the panel that citric acid mixed with energine fluid will eat a whole in the bubble. They have not taken into consideration that it will also eat away the bottle it would be mixed in. This fact was called to their attention by Evi North and Chris Parrott.

Judy Wilburn and Chuck Putt feel that a combination of ingredients, medically proven, will be able to melt the bubble away. Carolyn Sievers and Nick Roembke have come up with a good question; medically proven to what?

Mimi Hinman and Jim Spuller, Ball State, have also come up with a good idea. If someone could just blow the balloon bigger, everyone could get inside and find out how to get out again. This, Bev Stanton and Billy Neilson say, is looking at the situation subjectively.

Margo Dixon and John Cooper (N.S.) are for calling in the cavalry, but this has been vetoed by Bill Meyer and Linda Wightman as over-doing it a little. It depends on whether or not the school wants the publicity such a move would create. However, as Bonnie Strutz and Kelly Johnson (Columbia City) put it, South is already so famous, one more incident wouldn't hurt.

Judie Welty and Mike Ferverda are agreed on one thing. Somebody better stop fooling around with theories and get those Archers out. As a result of this positive thinking, Bob Sheray and Diane DeVincent have brought out ladders and are trying to find an opening which could be enlarged. After examining the entire surface of the bubble, they called to Posy Weilemann and John Slick that there are no holes.

Someone has reported that Sharon Carrel and Bob Duncan, who were active on the panel, are missing. Oh, here they come. They seem to have a giant hat pin. The rest of the panel is rushing to them to warn them not to stick it in the bubble.

The explosion could cause the Russians to think that America is exploding more nuclear bombs. Steve Meyers and Diane Fredrick have reached them and are explaining what the consequences of such a move would be.

Too late! There goes Marty Clark and Nick Demetre with a small hat pin . . . duck, everybody!!!!

. . . Why, nothing happened. The bubble just melted away. And here come some relieved Archers who were trapped in the balloon. Let's ask some questions.

Bill Spindler and Janet Lawry say that it was a terrible experience; the air inside the bubble was hot and sticky, and made it very difficult to breathe properly. Diane Irmscher and Gene Krause, on the other hand, thought that it was "kind of fun." It seems somebody had a deck of cards and they invented a new type of bridge which involves 19 players.

Susie Hoard is still frightened by the experience. Harry Trosin, Judy Robinson, and Dave Bosselmann are trying to reassure her. Steve Komito, Miami, and Lynne Goldman are bringing some cookies and coke to relax the foursome.

Meanwhile, back at the panel, a method of keeping this from happening again has been introduced by Fred Van Fossen, '57, and Gretchen Meister. They believe that the banning of all chewing gum inside school should go into effect.

If this rule is broken, 5¼ eighth periods will be assigned per person. Kathy Schwalm and Jack Lehman think that this is a little bit strict, especially since no one knows if gum was really the cause. Most of the panel are torn with indecision in this vital matter.

Judy Cramer just made a revolutionary statement. "Why not let it happen again? If it would, they would give us a medal for doing the impossible twice!" This has won with the full approval of Dave Hickman.

Dave Roderick and Linda Lutton (North) have a thought of a good question. Who would give us a medal? Doesn't that kind of a thought-provoking question stir your brain cells?

When some Archer students were asked what their goal in high school was, they replied with different answers.

Posy's Pointers

By Posy Weilemann

Dear Posy,

I'm a deaf mute and have to give a junior-senior speech at school. If I don't give it I will flunk, and if I flunk my father will kill me. I'm too young and handsome to die. Any suggestions?

The Quiet Man

Dear Quiet,

Become a sophomore.

Posy

Dear Posy,

I go to a private school near Detroit. I just learned that I have to stay here over Easter Vacation. This will about kill me! What can I do?

Iva Demerit

Dear Iva,

Become a Buddhist and you won't have any Easter Vacation to worry about.

Posy

Dear Posy,

I just can't spel. My techers say I will flunke if I dont lern how. They say all you famus peopl can spel and therfor I shul no how. What do yus think?

Willie Duh

Dear Willie,

Your probly write. Look at me. I'm not to well at speling eiter.

Posy

Confidential:

Dear Lucy Life,

Thanks for your help. I'd have been sunk without you.

Posy

Dear Posy,

Is my sister balmy? She's a freshman and thinks she's in love with her English teacher. He doesn't know she's alive. How long will this last?

Bewildered

Dear Bewildered,

I suppose we could send out an alert to all men English teachers to beware of your sister, but I doubt if that will do much good. Don't worry about your sister, next week it will probably be her math teacher! . . . If it really bothers you, why don't you fix her up with one of your boy friends? That should take her mind off her teacher!

Dear Posy,

We are two lonely girls. We just can't seem to hook a guy. We consider ourselves attractive, intelligent, and desperate. Our only problem is that we are both slightly overweight; since we are only 5-foot-2 and weigh 175 pounds. If you could think of any boys who would be interested in us, please encourage them to meet us by the trophy case Thursday at 3:30. Thank you.

L.B. and C.B.

Dear L.B. and C.B.,

I can't think of any boys myself, but maybe someone will read about it in the paper. You said that your only problem was that you were overweight. Why don't you two get together and go on a strict diet? I know it's hard work, but with two of you it would be more fun. If you would lose 30 or 40 pounds you wouldn't have to worry about "hooking" a boy. You'd probably have to fight them off! Try real hard, you'll be glad you did.

Dear Posy,

I'm a girl of 15. The boys I've dated have wanted to be too physical. Does a girl have to be a wrestler to be popular?

V.C.

Dear V.C.,

Not if you're dating the right kind of boys! Look at the popular girls in your class that don't. You'll find boys who understand and respect you.

Archers Express Themselves; Tell Thoughts To World

Have you ever read a poll and noticed all the people who were in it, and the witty (?) things they said? Well, some people at South feel that they should be able to express themselves too, so they were given the opportunity to tell the world whatever they liked in this poll. However, when asked what they wanted to say, some of them "hemmed" and "hawed" around so much that some of their answers turned out slightly crooked. Anyway, the results are below.

Elana Stepanek: Hello! all you wonderful, wonderful people out there in never, never land. Keep up the good work.

Pam Stech: Take me to your leader.

John Richardson: The South will rise again!

Geri Geller: Buy the Times!! Please!

Sue Springer: Hello, World.

Janet Terry: Drop dead!

Sandy Landree: I'm not very ingenious. I can't think of anything.

Ann Golden: I hate polls!

Bob Thompson: Ho, ho, ho-ooo, ho!

Sue Kelly: My name is Sue Kelly.

Joyce Lockwood: Go comb your hair and throw the snarls away. (P.S.—This was to the world, not to the reporter . . . at least the reporter thinks so!)

Karen Roehm: It's a nice, big, wonderful world.

Terry Twitchell: Now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of me.

Susy Stauffer: I want my Maypo! Now!

Katie Rastetter: Helpa! Helpa!

Mr. Clair Motz: If you give the best to the world, the best will come back to you.

Carolyn Sievers: Carolyn Sievers needs you!! (She has already been in a poll, but was simply dying to say something.)

Barb Frederick: Why say something, it will only be - - - -*/!

Alice Weddle: I don't know.

Bobbi Ross: I wouldn't put it in print.

Dian Spencer: I haven't got anything to say.

Allen Steere: Howdy, pa'dners! How are things dawn at the Bar SSHS?

Todd Thompson: What, me worry?

Dave Schwalm: It's crackers to slip a rozer the dropsy in snide.

Judie Welty: The world is crashing because I exist.

Grant Osborne: Ah, fooey on you!

John Von Gunten: Comment faitevous, Wendell?

Wendell Eicher: It will be too incriminating.

Welcome Extended To New Kelly Frosh

Welcome new frosh! Well, how do you like it? Would you like a few strong words of advice? If so, please stand by. First of all, let us get in a pensive and thoughtful mood. All set? O.K.

The W in welcome stands for welcome! We, the upper classmen, aren't as bad as you might imagine. Very few of us in fact, will ask you to shine our shoes, bow down to us, or take an elevator ticket. After all, we were freshmen once too!

The E in welcome stands for enthusiasm. This is one of the key notes to success in high school; for you must tackle everything with complete enthusiasm. This, plus initiative combined with the active output of energy in your work, makes for an well-done job.

The L in welcome stands for loyalty. This should be shown at the football and basketball games, and at the track meets. It can also be shown at speech meets and regular attendance of club meetings. Loyalty should be displayed through your actions. It is more than saying, "I am proud to be an Archer."

The C in welcome could very well stand for consideration. Consideration of fellow students, the faculty, and the other various employes around the school. Ralph Waldo Emerson once said, "Consideration is the soil in which wisdom may be expected to grow, and strength be given to every uprising plant of duty."

The O in welcome stands for opportunity. The secret for success in life is for a man to be ready for his opportunity when it comes. Great opportunities come to all, but many do not know when they meet them. The only way to take advantage of them, is simple fidelity to what each day brings. The sure way to miss success in high school is to miss the opportunity. Opportunities for scholarships are passed up every year, and many a student who could go to college does not because he has no way.

The M in welcome stands for manners. Manners are of more importance than laws. Upon them, in a great measure, the laws depend. They give form and color to our lives. According to their quality, they aid morals, they supply them, or they totally destroy them.

The E in welcome might stand for estimation. What will the estimation of yourself be when you graduate? Seniors should not be judged because they are seniors, but the actual deeds they have done in these four years. Spend your four years well! There is not a single moment in your four years that you can afford to lose.

Addition Shows Hope For Future

Top: Participating in dedication ceremonies for the new addition last Sunday is Attorney James Jackson. Mr. Jackson formally dedicated the new facilities to the enjoyment and use of the youth. Other speakers who participated in the ceremonies are Mr. Joseph Hulfeld, Mr. Sol Rothberg, Supt. Aaron T. Lindley, Mr. R. Nelson Snider, Mr. Ora Davis, and the Rev. John W. Meister. tional program. "It will be very functional and usable for years to come." Mr. Lindley ended by saying it was a great pleasure to accept the building on behalf of the school city.

MR. R. NELSON SNIDER, principal, was then introduced; he described the building and gave an explanation of the tour. He told the guests of something that most people wouldn't notice, the new system of heating. The shop rooms had been adequate when the school was built, he said, but in the past few years they had become too small and the equipment had become inadequate. Two shop rooms were added and the old ones remodeled. One of the new ones is in use and the other is being used as an academic classroom.

Mr. Snider explained about the old athletic facilities being inadequate. "The showers, lockers, and equipment rooms were like tunnels without ventilation and with no way to keep them dry." These have been remodeled and are excellent for keeping athletic equipment.

He continued by saying that due to our increase in enrollment, a new cafeteria was needed, and since we've had the new one, the number of pupils eating in the cafeteria has doubled. The new girls' gym was also much-needed as the other gym was used all day for almost everything.

Mr. Snider finished his speech by saying that he was delighted that so many people came to the dedication, and he invited those who missed the ceremony to come any time to tour the new building.

# # #

THE BENEDICTION was given by the Rev. John W. Meister, pastor of First Presbyterian Church.

The invocation was given by the Rev. Charles Hartman, of St. John's Evangelical and Reformed Church.

The guests then toured the new addition and students and teachers helped by answering questions. After the tour the guests were invited by the PTA to come to the cafeteria for a social hour with punch, coffee, and cookies.

The PTA wishes to thank all the mothers who baked cookies for the reception.

Joan Littlejohn Rotary Winner

The date was January 12; the occasion was the Sectional Rotarian Speech Contest held at the Chamber of Commerce. The winner was Joan Littlejohn, senior here at South Side. Accompanied by Robert Storey and Mr. Snider, Joan proudly accepted this award. This winning gives her a chance to participate in the Regional contest, which will be held in February. No definite date has yet been set.

The means by which Joan won the Sectional contest was a 10-minute original oratory on Education. This was the topic which all participants were to write on. They were required to complete this sentence in their speech as their theme: "Education is the answer to . . ." Joan chose the word "freedom."

This Kelly lassie is on the college prep course, taking Concert Choir, Chemistry 2, English 8, and Personal Typing. Of these four, chemistry is her favorite. Joan also finds time to belong to Wranglers and Safety Council, of which she is president; and besides all this, she is publicity manager of the 1959 Totem.

Agents To Meet Feb. 4 In Room S

A room agent's meeting of the South Side Times will be conducted next Wednesday in the Study Hall. All agents are requested to be there. Twenty-five points and candy bars will be given to agents that are there. 25 points will be deducted if an agent is not present.

Engagements Set For Concert Choir

Engagements for South Side's Concert Choir through February have been announced by Mr. Lester Hostetler, vocal director. The choir will perform at the Senior Banquet, February 6, and has planned a program for Lincolnshire Church, February 16. To entertain PTA Study Groups, the choir will sing February 3, 10, 17, and 24.

For the dedication of South Side's addition, January 25, the Outgoing Choir sang three selections: "Bless This House," "No Man Is An Island," and "Halls of Ivy." Madrigal Choir sang at the Lutheran Church of Our Saviour at 7 p.m. Sunday.

Mrs. Jon Clark Joins Faculty

Mrs. Jon Clark

There is one addition to the ranks of South's faculty this semester. She is Mrs. Jon Clark who has joined the Mathematics and Science Department. Mrs. Clark was graduated from Ball State Teachers College and received her B.S. degree in education. She taught school at Elmhurst in the fall of 1956, and now teaches algebra, geometry, and general math at South.

Her spare time is spent adding to her stamp collection and refinishing furniture with her husband.

When asked her opinion of South, Mrs. Clark said, "I think it's a lovely school, and as a whole, the students are very nice and well-behaved."

9B Totem Payment Due February 16

Our annual yearbook, the Totem, may still be purchased by the freshman B's. The deadline for down payments is February 16. To get their name engraved on the cover they must make the total payment of three dollars by March 6.

The 9B pictures and other underclass retakes will be taken February 6. Anyone who wants his picture put in the Totem must pay 35 cents one week after the pictures come back from the photographers.

Alice Weddle, Totem editor, announced that all senior and faculty pictures have been sent to the engravers; while the opening pages of the Totem are finished and are ready to be sent. The club and class poll pictures are being taken daily and copy is being written for them as soon as the pictures are taken.

1,508 Times Subscriptions Sold In First Week Of Campaign; Only One More Free Issue Left

Carole Fischer Makes 42 Sales Initial Day; Diane Irmscher Second

A satisfactory total of 1,508 subscriptions for The Times was sold the first week of the circulation campaign. However, Barb Frederick, circulation manager, stated, "It is important that all students remember that only one more free issue will be given to them after today, so everyone who hasn't subscribed should do so as soon as possible."

Barb also said that, if anyone knew of someone outside the school who wished to subscribe, he should contact either a Times agent or a bookhead. During the circulation campaign a bookhead will be in the Times room before school, after school, and at noon.

MISS ROWENA HARVEY, adviser, remarked: "The campaign started well; however, there are a lot of stragglers."

Almost 1,000 Times subscriptions were sold the first day of the campaign. Carole Fischer was high salesman, Monday, January 19, with 42 subscriptions. She was awarded $1.

Diane Irmscher, who sold 28 subscriptions the first day, received the second place award of 50 cents. Merle Baldwin was the third highest salesman, selling 26 subscriptions.

THREE OF THE TIMES agents achieved 100 per cent homerooms on the first day of the campaign. These were: Carol Szink and Janet Terry, 156; Bessie Ferguson, 77, and Diane Fredrick, 146.

By the end of the first week of the campaign eight agents had added their names to the 100 per cent list. These include Diane Decker, 36; Carole Fischer, 120; Merle Baldwin, 58; Bill Stellhorn, 66; Bob King, 80; Geri Geller, 90; Judy Robinson, 92, and Judy Thompson, 140.

All homerooms will receive their 100 per cent signs as soon as they attain this goal. Candy bars will be given to each member of a 100 per cent homeroom who has subscribed for The Times as soon as all its promissory notes are paid.

THE CIRCULATION campaign ends February 13, so three more agents' meetings will be held in the study hall. These will be on February 4, 11, and

Mr. Richard Sage Teaches Calculus

To help establish a better understanding in the field of mathematics, a new calculus class has been developed at South Side this year.

This class, instructed by Mr. Richard Sage, includes instruction for both calculus and analytic geometry.

The class is for interested students, both boys and girls, and started this Monday, January 26. The class will meet at 7:15 a.m. every morning for approximately one-half hour in Room 118.

Those students who signed up are Bob Schmitz, Jerry Berger, Hoy McConnell, Bob Simmons, Mike Simmons, Pat Dougherty, Larry Skow, John Shannahan, Bob Mann, John Meyerholtz, Don Stedge, and Stan Hoover.

2 Kellys To Appear On TV Elektra Club

Two students will represent South Side on the I&M Elektra Club Sunday at 6:00 p.m. on WANE-TV. They are Beth Golden and Ann Cupp.

Ann will represent South as a panelist and Beth will represent South as a reporter.

"How do movies, radio and television influence our behavior?" This is the question that will be discussed on the panel.

South Defeats Burris Owls 58-45, Conquers Elmhurst By 50-41 Score

Kellys Out Shot In Second Half; Hold Lead, Win

Free Throws Decide Game; Archers' Record Now Stands At 12-3

By Jim Carter

South Side's favored Archers, although outscored 26-21 in the second half, held onto an early lead to preserve a 50-41 win over Elmhurst at the Elmhurst gym Saturday night. The Kellys led 29-15 at the half-way mark, but the fine play of John Petrick's Trojans, combined with an ineffective South Side offense, gave Archer fans a few hectic moments.

The Archers turned in a sub-par performance as compared with most of their previous efforts, hitting only 16 of 53 attempts for a meager .302 percentage. The Trojans also scored 16 field goals, so the game was actually decided at the charity stripe, where South outscored the opposition 18-9.

z z z

TOM BOLYARD grabbed the opening tip and promptly pounded a lay-up through the hoop to put the Archers in front, 2-0, where they stayed throughout the contest. Employing a collapsing zone defense which worked to perfection, and with Bolyard and Dave Barrett sweeping both boards, the Green and White surged to a large early lead.

Elmhurst was so completely shut out that they did not hit from the field until there was only 1:25 remaining in the quarter. Several Archers passed up shots to feed Bolyard under the basket, who led the attack with eight points. However, the score at the end of the quarter showed the Kellys ahead only 14-7.

The second stanza proved to be more of the same, as the Archers, although playing below their capabilities, continued to dominate play. The Green's long artillery had trouble finding the range, but it was of little consequence, since the rebounding was usually there to take care of it. The Trojans put up a game fight, but the Archers, hitting nearly .400 of their shots, continued to score rather easily, leading, 29-15, at the intermission.

z z z

THEN CAME THE disastrous second half. The Trojan defense suddenly stiffened and rebounders appeared everywhere; the Kellys found little resemblance to the play of the easy first half. South could no longer get the ball inside, as Bolyard was double-teamed most of the time. As Elmhurst got hot, South got steadily colder. No one could find the range, and the offensive rebounding was poor.

However, the Archer defense still proved effective against the cautious Elmhurst play, and the Trojans were able to gain only four points. They scored 10 in the quarter, while the Green scored a mere six.

The fourth period held more of the same, as the Archers simply could not find the range. Both defenses proved sticky, and most of the shots were taken from well out on the floor. Elmhurst came to life and began banging the shots through, but South continued to miss. Both teams were strong off the defensive boards, but they just traded shots on offense. Nevertheless, the Archers drew far more fouls, enabling them to keep their lead in that manner. However, Nick Demetre and Mike Simmons both ran into foul trouble with four each.

WITH FIVE MINUTES left to play, Elmhurst started hitting. The South Side lead was quickly narrowed to 39-31, and the Elmhurst partisans saw signs of a tremendous upset in the making. The Archers took the situation in stride, however, and moved back into a 10-point lead. With 2:30 to play the Trojans moved to within seven points at 42-36.

Tom Bolyard finally broke the ice for the Kellys with 2:08 remaining, as he hit the first field goal of the quarter, which proved to be the third of only four made by the Archers in the second half. Demetre then put it away as he calmly sank two free throws, the last of the six straight charity tosses he made in the fourth stanza. Elmhurst once again narrowed the gap to seven, but the time was too short for any hope of victory for the Trojans.

The win was the Archers' fifth straight, and their record now stands at 12-3.

Schmitz On Sports

Three down and 23 from another! That sums up vulnerable Tom Bolyard's assault on all-time school and city scoring marks. The well-proportioned Archer senior forward sent 45 markers through the hoops in weekend contests to up his season total to 412, just 23 points shy of the standing city mark held by Johnny Flowers, an ex-Central stalwart.

z z z

With 412 added to his points accumulated during his sophomore and junior years, Bolyard has upped his career total to 1,029, just 110 shy of Johnny Kelso's regular season and tourney play total point record of 1,139. With five games remaining on the Kelly schedule, Bolyard could easily crack the existing mark, discounting tourney play.

z z z

Several school records have fallen this year. In the Burris contest, Tom became the first Archer ever to surpass the 1,000 mark, the third in Fort Wayne, and the sixth in Allen County to reach prep basketball's elite class.

z z z

At present Bolyard is clipping the nets for 27½ points per game. He has yet to be held under 20 points. His rampaging scoring pase, coupled with his mates' devastating defense, has helped the eighth-ranked Kellys swamp their opponents by an average of 12 points a game. In City Series contests the Green and White are winning by an average of close to 19 points per game.

z z z

The Green and White emerged in first place in the torrid three-way race for the coveted city crown when Central, tenth-ranked in the state, avenged an earlier loss by swamping touted Central Catholic, 75-59, behind an impregnable fourth quarter scoring drive paced by T. C. Williams, which netted the Tigers 23 points as compared to the Irish's seven over the same eight minutes of action.

z z z

South now rests aloof, needing only a win over either Central or Central Catholic to guarantee a share of the city title. A win over both, assuming that all three teams produce wins over remaining games with weaker foes North and Concordia, would net the Green their fourth consecutive city championship, their third straight undefeated.

z z z

With the '58-'59 campaign three-quarters over, the Green and White are again sporting the most impressive defensive average. In 15 contests, Reichert's charges have befuddled foes, allowing them to score only 51 points a game while the Kellys have hit from all angles to average 62.6 points a game.

z z z

Looking back to its pre-season predictions, this column found that it wasn't doing too bad. If you remember, this corner said South would post a 16-4 record on the season. With five games left, all indications bear out that South's season record will be 16-4! Of course, I didn't hit all the individual games on the button, but at this stage the column's pre-season picks are right 11 out of 15 times for 73 per cent correct. Most prognosticators wouldn't complain, and I'm not.

z z z

For the first time since the loss to Terre Haute Gerstmeyer, the Green and White have climbed back into the A.P. ratings, resting in the number eight slot. That is no surprise at all. Of three games that the Archers have lost, two were in a row to the same team. The defeats were by margins of five, one, and four points, respectively.

z z z

The most enlightening development since we reported to you last was the quick, thorough improvement of the back court in the persons of Mike Simmons and Nick Demetre. Simmons poured through 14 points each against Central and Burris to develop the Archers' newest scoring punch. Of course, he has continued his great defensive work that is keeping the Archers' machine in orderly working condition.

z z z

Shortridge has a big price tag that the upset-minded Kellys would love to have for nothing. Don't be surprised if South rises to the occasion and sends the third-ranked Satans back to Naptown with their second defeat.

z z z

In the past few seasons the South Side Gym has earned the reputation as the death bed for the visiting favorites. Just three years ago, touted Gary Froebel was dropped from the lofty ratings after being stunned by their hosts. Michigan City felt the same impact earlier this campaign when the unrated Archers dropped the eighth-ranked Imps to make their first appearance on the A.P. and UPI listings.

Archers Rally To Top Muncie For 12th Win

Tom Bolyard Becomes 3rd Fort Wayne Player To Pass 1,000 Mark

Rallying from a 24-21 half-time deficit, the Archers, due to the scoring of Tom Bolyard, came from behind to win game number 12, by beating the Owls from Muncie Burris last Friday by a score of 58-45.

An outside shot by Jim Porter forged the Owls ahead, the score being 12-11 at the first stop. In the next period the hosts again outscored the Archers 12-10 to make it 24-21 in their favor at half-time. The underrated Burris team seemed to be on its way to an upset victory over the heavily-favored Archers.

However, in the third quarter the Kellys staged a big rally. Led by guards Nick Demetre and Mike Simmons, who each hit three field goals in this period, the Reichertmen outscored the Owls, 19-9, to take a 40-33 lead at the end of the third stanza.

z z z

IN THE FINAL period, the Archers were still in the lead. The big Green had again outscored the hosts, 18-12, to capture the 12th victory of the season by the score of 58-45.

Tom Bolyard, who scored 23 points to lead both teams in scoring, became the third player in Fort Wayne history to pass the 1,000-point mark. He joined North's Henry Chapman and Central's John Kelso in this exclusive club.

Tom Bolyard got some fine help from guards Nick Demetre and Mike Simmons, who scored 11 and 14 points, respectively. Jim Porter led the losers with 18 points. Dave Barrett, who scored only four points for the Green, did a fine rebounding job.

The hotly-contested game was highlighted by disputing officiating that angered the Archers. Mike Simmons was charged with a technical foul in the final minute for yelling for time after failing to successfully attract the officials' attention. Tom Bolyard also received a technical for failing to hand a dead ball to the referee.

South Side easily outscored the Owls from the field, getting 20 out of 61 tries for a .327 mark while the Owls hit for a low .241 clip.

Mural Men

By Stan Rupnow

Welcome, all you freshman boys! When you entered South Side, you entered into one of the best and complete Intramural systems in the nation. The motto of Intramurals is "Sports for All." This is true at South. Last year there were approximately 75 per cent of the eligible boys in Intramurals. Who is eligible? Well, here are the rules:

1. A boy who is participating in a varsity sport is ineligible to play in the same intramural sport. For example, a boy playing varsity or reserve football cannot play Intramural tag football, but he can play in any other sport.
2. There are no scholastic requirements.
3. A player can't play on more than one team in the same sport during a season. He can't play in both noon and night leagues.
4. Having played on one team that was eliminated, he can't join another.
5. There are three weight divisions: heavyweigth (over 146 pounds); middleweight (126-145 pounds); and lightweight (126 pounds and under). A boy who plays out of his weight division will be dropped.
6. A player may be ruled ineligible for unsportsmanlike attitude or conduct, abusive conduct toward an official or vulgar language.
7. Parent's consent card must go on file in the Gym Office.
8. A boy or team that fails to appear when scheduled to play will be ruled ineligible, unless a valid excuse is given.
9. In inside activities, all participants must wear regulation white suits and gym shoes. No spiked shoes may be worn in outside activities.
10. Any boy with an eighth period in gym classes that isn't made up, is ineligible until it is made up.

You boys may wonder what a Parent's Consent Card is. It is a card signed by your parents and your family doctor, giving their permission for you to play. However, you don't need to get your doctor's signature if your parents think you are fit enough to play.

I hope all of you boys realize that the gym office has been shifted! It is no longer in the northwest entrance. Since the girls moved to their own gym, the boys have taken over the office at the south entrance of the gym. Remember, the new base of operations is at the south etnrance to the gym.

In a basketball game played for the show fifth period, the Macking All-Stars defeated the Wool-E-D's, 38-31. Willie Raines was hot for the All-Stars as he poured through 19 points for the victors. His teammate, Fred Dixie, hit for eight points. Wayne Colpetzer tallied 12 points for the losing cause.

In the night league, the Rinky Dinks squeaked out a victory over the Stars, 42-40. The victors, sparked by Steve Smith's 10-point splurge in the last quarter, came from nine points behind to win. Jerry George poured through 14 points, and also scored the winning basket for the victors with 15 seconds left to play. Jack Macey tallied 13 points for the losers, and Dave Smith 10.

In the other game, the Basketeers rolled over the Blue Ribbon Boys, 40-21. Don Denis scored 14 points for the victors, while Bob Mann had 12. Frank Lude made nine for the losers.

Things to Remember!

Volleyball will start tomorrow! Get your team cards in. The deadline for teams is Friday, February 6. Each team must have at least eight men. After School Free Throw Tourney for boys with fifth period classes. Check in Gym Office for rules and regulations.

Attention! For the first time there will be an After School Volleyball League. It will be for boys with fifth period classes; there will be no weight divisions. Games will be played after school in the gym. They will be on Friday until basketball is finished.

Frosh GAA Girls Run Relay Games

Various games were played by GAA Freshman girls Friday. Miss Helen Pohlmeyer, instructor, divided the girls into two groups.

Games that were played with a volleyball were Over and Under Relay, Toss and Catch Relay, and Run and Touch Relay. Games played with a cage ball were Overhead and Overlegs. Group 2 won all except one.

Volleyball teams and captains were chosen a few weeks ago. Captain and members for Team 1 are Bella Depon, Shirley Davis, Betty Ensley, Ann Heckler, Sondra McKee, Flora Reynolds, and Jan Spuller.

New members of Team 1 are Toni Sorenson, Elaine Edwards, Susan Shinbeckler, and Sharon Todd. Team 2 captain, Joyce Cossairt; members are Alice Ashton, Tamara Beaty, Pam Buzzard, Sheryl Hall, Virginia Kachiamenis, Jane Ludig, Maggie Lehman, Nancy Nichols, and Susan Merchant.

New members of Team 2 are Sandra Petrie, Marvina Van Styock, and Jane Prill. Team 3, captain, Gretchen Brumm; members are Marjorie Bloom, Nancy Byers, Sharon DeBaille, Mary Jane Hake, Louise Jackson, Jennifer Slater, Sandy Walton, and Judy Welty. New members are Susan Burlage, Florence Stevenson, and Joyce Moore.

Team 4, captain, Alice Bailey; members Dayna Harader, Kay Heemsoth, Sandy Heidbrink, Martha Jacobs, Janice Nahrwold, and Sharon Uhl. New members are Diane Summers, Mary Zimmerman, Cynthia Russel, Susan Lotz, and Sandra Stouder.

South Side Will Meet North Side, Third-Ranked Shortridge

Kellys Victor Last Year By 70-63 Score

By Bob King

Indianapolis Shortridge's high-ranked Blue Devils invade South Side's gym tomorrow night looking for a victory over the up-and-coming South Side Archers. The Satans, ranked third in both the UPI and A.P. Indiana rating polls, risk their seven-game win skien when they challenge the eighth-ranked Kellys at an 8 p.m. tipoff time.

# # #

THE ONCE-BEATEN (wins include victories over city foes Scecina and Attucks, as well as over Richmond and Anderson; their loss was to Kokomo) Blue Devils hope to avenge last year's defeat at the hands of the State Champion South Side five. Averaging a starting lineup of six feet, the Satans have 207-pound, 6-5 Tom Pritchard starting at center.

Bill "Bo" Crain, a 6-2, 160-pounder, is likely to get the nod at one forward slot with 5-11 Kenny Keltner as his probable running mate. Joe McKay and Gerald Williams will fill the guard posts for the Blue and White.

Probable lineups:

South Side
Tom Bolyard	(6-4)	F
Bill Meyer	(6-1)	F
Dave Barrett	(6-4)	C
Nick Demetre	(6-0)	G
Mike Simmons	(5-11)	G
Shortridge
Bill Crain	(6-0)	F
Kenny Keltner	(5-11)	F
Tom Pritchard	(6-5)	C
Joe McKay	(6-4)	G
Gerald Williams	(5-8)	G

Tipoff time—8 p.m.

Coach Don Reichert will probably start his usual five, topped by ace Tom Bolyard, the Green's only returning regular from last year's state championship squad.

# # #

OPPOSITE BOLYARD at the other forward will be Bill Meyer, the steadily improving senior. Dave Barrett, South's "surprise of the season," is Reichert's choice at center, while Nick Demetre and Mike Simmons will start at the guard posts.

Both teams have impressive benches. South has Ken Howe and Dave Roderick backing up the front line with Ted Lebrecht ready to go in a guard position. Lou Williams, a six-foot, three-inch center, and six-foot Paul Henny are reserve strength for Shortridge.

Prestige is greatly involved in this game. If the Kellys can defeat the Satans, the two teams will rise and drop respectively in the polls. The Green have been waiting for this chance all season and it seems that the "opportunity is knocking at the door."

So-Si-Y Welcomes Junior, Senior Girls

"We cordially invite all junior and senior girls to attend the Tuesday meeting of So-Si-Y in the Greeley Room, as memberships are still available," stated Miss Olive Perkins, sponsor of the club.

Karen Randall, program chairman and vice-president, will show the members the relationship between the Y-Teen program and the YWCA. Program cards will also be filled out.

Archers To Try For 26th Win Over City Foes

South Triumphed 62-33 Earlier This Season; Game Is Friday Night

By Bob Shine

Hoping to make a clean sweep against the North Side Redskins this season, the South Side Archers will be the guests of the Redskins in North Side's gym at 8 p.m. tomorrow night.

The Archers have already romped to a 62-33 victory against the Redskins, and they will be after their twenty-sixth consecutive City Series win in this engagement.

Although the Kellys shouldn't have to fret too much about the outcome of this game, North should be taken seriously since it has been steadily improving.

Furthermore, no one can expect to see the Redskins as far "off" as they were in the previous game.

# # #

MANY MEMBERS of North Side's squad have been getting better. Mike Dafforn, who at 6-4, is the Redskins' starting center, has developed rapidly and gave Central Catholic some real headaches in their recent game.

Jack Hallenback has also developed since the Redskins' loss against South and has been giving North the outside shooting which they needed.

Even though the Red and White are 0-3 in City Series competition, their recent game with Central Catholic demonstrated that they would not allow themselves to sit around and be defeated. In fact, the Redskins had a five-point lead on the Irish before going down to lose by a 49-46 score.

Therefore, this contest will more than likely offer much more competition than before, and it could prove to be the biggest upset of the City Series if the Archers take North too lightly.

School Policy Concerning Sale Of Basketball Tourney Tickets Officially Announced By Principal

Students To Receive First Chance To Buy '59 Tournament Seats

Principal R. Nelson Snider has officially announced the school policy on the distribution and sale of basketball tourney tickets for the '59 Sectional, Regional, Semi-State, and State Final tourneys.

For the locally held Sectional, Regional, and Semi-State tourneys, Mr. Snider will act as head of host South Side. The principal announced the following in a bulletin:

The demand for tournament tickets is usually much greater than the supply we receive, so for many years it has been necessary to have—in advance—some plan by which the tickets would be distributed.

The plan was originally worked out by a committee of teachers, students, and parents, and has been followed exactly each year. A complete record is kept of all tickets so that we are able to show exactly where all tickets have gone. Of course, no plan will serve to satisfy those who are so unfortunate as not to secure tickets; but if we have a plan that is fair, and then follow it exactly, we have done all that is possible.

WE BELIEVE THAT the game of high school basketball should be conducted for the benefit of the boys and girls of the school; and, therefore, the students of the school should have the first chance to purchase tickets for the tournaments. The only exception to this is the provision for the members of the Athletic Department, who handle games during the year, and for the parents of the members of the tournament squad.

Every effort is made to discourage the practice of purchasing tickets of the school with the idea of reselling them.

Sectional Tourney

In order to clear up any misunderstandings, the following manner of ticket distribution is listed in order of recipients: Athletic Department, parents of team members, Booster Club, yell leaders, and band. The above group will account for approximately 190 tickets.

The rest of our allotment will go on sale as follows, with preference being given in a specific order. Students and teachers with full season tickets will receive one ticket each. This group includes members of Lettermen, football squad, band, and Booster members not covered by above.

Others who will receive one ticket each are, in order, students and teachers with basketball season tickets, adults with full season tickets, adults with basketball season tickets, students and teachers without season tickets, adults without season tickets.

Regional Tournament

The number of tickets available for this tournament depends, of course, upon our participation in it. If we do not participate, we shall receive only 12 tickets. If we do participate, the same method as used in the Sectional Tourney shall apply.

State Tournament

For the State Tourney, the school will receive tickets for four per cent of its enrollment (or 83 tickets) plus 25 if we are a Semi-State participant and plus 950 if we are a State Finalist.

Sectional Tourney tickets will be valid for games on Wednesday evening, February 25; games Thursday evening, February 26; two sessions Friday, February 27; and two sessions Saturday, February 28.

Following is a concise table for future reference on ticket sales, telling time and place of sale as well as cost of tickets.

For Sectional Tourney: All tickets $3; students with season tickets February 19, in the homerooms; adult season ticket holders on February 20, in Room 114, starting at 8:05 a.m.; students and teachers without season tickets February 21 in the homerooms; general public February 4, in Room 114.

For Regional Tourney: All tickets $1.75; student season ticket holders March 2, in the homerooms; adults season ticket holders March 3, in Room 114; students and teachers without season tickets March 4, in the homerooms; general public March 4, in Room 114.

Semi-State: All tickets $2.25; the order of sale will be the same as for preceding tourney. Dates in that order are March 9, 10, 11.

Sure State: All tickets $3; purchase dates same as for Semi-State Tourney.

State: All tickets $3; the order of sale of tickets will be the same as for preceding tourneys. Dates of sale will be March 16, 17, and 18.

CERTAIN GROUPS of citizens of the community sometimes seem to have claim to preferential treatment in the distribution of tickets for the tourneys. The committee members who made this plan decided that the officials of the school system were entitled to listing in the preferred class, but that no other group should be so listed. All of the others fall into the plan as outlined above.

A detailed record is kept of the tournament tickets which are alloted to us. This record gives the name of each person who purchases a ticket, and in most instances the number of the ticket is indicated. The only group to secure tickets for which we do not keep a detailed listing is the band. A block of tickets is assigned to the band, without listing names. These records are available for scrutiny at all times by any interested party.

Freshmen Beat Bishop Luers

South Side's freshman basketball squad climbed back on the victory trail by clipping new Bishop Luers by a 42-36 score. The contest was played at the beautiful Luers gym on January 19 before a large, partisan Luers crowd.

The victory pushed the Archers over the .500 mark again. The Kellys' record now stands at 5-4.

Greater rebounding strength and sparkling performances on Ken Leaky's and Ken Robinson's part paced the Bowmen to victory. Luers' greenness made the course of victory easier.

South's taller players had things pretty much their own way under the boards. Many points were scored on tip-ins or follow-throughs on the many missed shots while one hurried shot was the extent of the Luers' scoring opportunities on many occasions.

# # #

GUARD KEN LEAKY took scoring honors for both teams. He netted 13 points, eight of these coming in a brilliant third quarter. Most of his tallies came on 20-foot jump shots.

Able support came from cornerman Robinson, who pumped in 12 points and did a fine rebounding job. His four field goals in the first half kept the Green and White ahead.

Aggressive Dave Meek was a thorn in Luers' side under the boards before fouling out in the closing minutes.

GAA Issues Awards At Recognition Fete

Eighty-four girls attended the GAA Recognition Party, January 12, in the gym. Jeannette Lynn announced the awards to seven girls receiving either a numeral, letter, or pin. Girls who received numerals and their points are Karen Johnson, 308; Ruby Martin, 398; and Betty Byrne, 400. Girls receiving letters are Jan Kessler, 1,614; and Betty Harter, 1,576. Two girls received gold pins; Judy Garrison, 2,095; and Jeannette Lynn, 2,203.

The girls with the highest points were also announced. Two sophomores, Sandy Dolson and Shirley Stahlhut have 1,114 and 1,150 points, respectively. Judy Garrison, 2,095, and Jane Glass, 1,835, are the top juniors. Two seniors, Jeannette Lynn and Pat Igney have 2,203 and 1,194 points, respectively. The senior with the highest number of points has her name engraved on the high point plaque.

Following the awards, Rita Hessert announced the games. The girls were divided into teams and paddle ball, ring toss, and volleyball were played. The Blues won two games; the Yellow, three games; the Black, two games; the Orange, one game; and the Tan, one game. The Yellows received candy bars for winning all three games.

Following the games, refreshments of cokes and potato chips were served in the handball court.

PTA Study Programs Scheduled For February

"What kind of teachers do you want?" will be the topic for discussion at the first in a series of four PTA Study Groups to be presented in February.

February 3, at 7:30 p.m., Mr. Wendell Lanning, attorney at Lincoln National Life Insurance Company, Mr. William Borgman, president of Allied Mortgages, and Mrs. R. C. Roderick, mother of a South Side boy, will lead the discussion on the question, "What kind of teachers do you want?"

O. W. Lanning

Preceding the discussion, the Clarinet Quartet, consisting of Tom Cooper, Judy Eisenhut, Dave Flanigan, and Sharon Collins, will entertain.

Short talks will be presented by each parent on the panel, and then a question and answer period will follow.

Through these programs, it is hoped that a better understanding of South Side and its course of study will be obtained. Parents and teachers are urged to be frank and specific in their discussions.

"FEBRUARY 10, 17, and 24 are the dates for the next Study Group Programs," stated Mrs. Myrtle Grimshaw, co-chairman of the planning committee. Dr. and Mrs. Gerald McMurtry are also co-chairmen for the event.

Mrs. R. C. Roderick

Mr. William Borgman

The meetings will be held on Tuesday nights throughout the month at 7:30 p.m. Each program will begin with entertainment presented by the South Side Music Department.

In the discussions that follow, each speaker will present his personal views in a short talk. An informal question and answer period will follow all discussions.

Parents and teachers are urged to be frank and specific, so that workable suggestions for the betterment of South Side can be obtained.

Mrs. Curtis Stein, Mr. John Hoffman, and Mr. Charles Billiard will discuss the question, "What kind of a program do you want?" at the February 10 meeting.

"What kind of facilities do you want?" will be the topic of discussion at the February 17 meeting. Mr. Robert Parrott, Mrs. John D. Martindale, Mrs. William C. Rastetter, Jr., and Mr. Robert Drummond will discuss this question. Mrs. Rastetter is also a member of the Board of Education.

The February 24 program will be presented by students under the direction of Miss Pauline Van Gorder, dean of girls. Plans for this program will be announced at a later time.

Archers Edge Central In Overtime Battle, 73-68

By Steve Rothberg

Behind a brilliant team effort, the State Champion South Side Archers pulled their twenty-fifth consecutive City Series contest out of the fire and into the win column, by topping a game, scrapping Central unit in overtime, 73-68, on the Memorial Coliseum hardwood, January 14.

The team effort of all five players accounted for the win. Tom Bolyard, prolific scorer, personally accounted for 27 points, and Nick Demetre bagged 13 points, getting them when they were most desperately needed. Mike Simmons played by far the best game of his career, splitting the nets for 14 big markers and acting as field general for the Archer quintet. Bill Meyer got eight timely points and 12 important rebounds; and Dave Barrett, junior center, looking better with every game, hit for 13 points but pulled down a total of 19 rebounds, high for either team.

IT WAS A TYPICAL South-Central affair, thrilling right down to the wire. With Bill Boyd putting on a fabulous scoring show, Bill Curry and T. C. Williams both getting in double figures, the Green were constantly under pressure from beginning to end. But refusing to crack, they tied it all up after four quarters and forced an overtime in which they finally broke the Tigers.

The game started off at a quick pace with the Green getting six points before Central knew what happened. However, the Blue, casually tossing up free throws, came back to lead at the first stop, 15-14. Toward the end of the first quarter the Bowmen were plagued with shaky ball handling, and on numerous occasions, lost possession as a result.

The second stanza can best be described by one word: wild. And wild it was indeed, with Bill Boyd pouring in points from everywhere but the press box, and South retaliating in scoring spurts coming from all five players. Coach Don Reichert's crew might have captured a sizable lead, but were missing many shots from the floor. As it was, the Tigers entered the dressing room at half-time with a slim 33-32 edge.

In the third period, the Archers slowed play down a bit but not the scoring. The two teams pounded up and down the floor trading bucket for bucket to the delight and sorrow of both contingencies. The beginning of the final quarter saw Central at the head by a 53-51 count.

THE TIGER FIVE held their precious lead until there was 3:03 remaining, when Bill Meyer tied it up. Simmons put the Archers in front, but Central quickly knotted up the score once more. Herb Banet's boys then put on a stall, looking for that last shot. It came with seconds remaining, but was missed by T. C. Williams, sending the game into overtime.

Things were looking darkest for the Green when Boyd canned his twenty-ninth point to open the three-minute overtime period. But the Green rose to the task and field goals by Bolyard, Simmons, and Meyer, and a pair of charity tosses by Barrett put South ahead to stay.

This game once more confirmed that when called upon the Archers still have that little extra that it takes to win the important ones. The only area of concern was that the Green generally did not hit well, that probably due to the fact that they were not used to the Coliseum baskets.

Kelly Freshmen Lose To CC, Central Tigers

With a gallant closing rush falling just short, the South Side freshmen dropped a 39-34 decision to a much-improved Central Catholic quintet. The Irish gym was the site of the exciting battle played on January 22.

This was the rubber game of the South-Irish three-game series. South rocked C.C. in their first meeting, 39-24; the Irish came back strong to even things up with a 38-24 win over the Kellys in the Holiday Tourney.

SOUTH SIDE'S frosh team was dealth its second straight defeat at the hands of Central when the Tigers dumped the Archers by a 51-25 score. The downtown lads showed their strength before a South home crowd on January 7.

HY TAYLIN SAYS:

"YOU REALLY HAVE TO MOVE FAST TO KEEP UP WITH FT. WAYNE SCHOOLS"

Congratulations to the Fort Wayne Community Schools for their far-sighted plan to cope with increasing student enrollment. Fort Wayne is setting the pace in providing educational facilities. South Side High School's new addition stands as a symbol of a basic American principle: education for every child.

This is Hy Taylin, the pioneer boy from "Old Fort" representing the generations of Fort Wayne youth.

Everyone has seen these big red transit mix concrete trucks. They are a symbol, too . . . a symbol of a growing Fort Wayne that is building to serve future generations.

The Old Fort Supply Company is proud to have participated in the creation of this symbol . . . . in the building of brick and concrete classrooms realizing that it takes more than mere classrooms to make a school. It takes eager students and dedicated teachers. It takes knowledge and determination. If each classroom has these, then its cost will be repaid many times.

"Scapades" Is Theme Of Lettermen's Dance To Be Saturday Night

Lettermen's Heads, Swinging "S" Door To Decorate Room 144

"Scapades," Lettermen's after-game dance will be Saturday after the Shortridge-South Side game in Room 114 and the old cafeteria.

A big green S in the form of the swinging doors in a western bar room will be placed at the entrance to carry out the theme. The cardboard S will reach from the top of the door into Room 114 to the bottom. Those entering will push the novel swinging S, which will be split down the center, to get through.

Lettermen's heads will be placed around the room in the form of silhouettes in a staggered pattern. Lettermen posed for the cut-outs Wednesday, January 14.

TABLE DECORATIONS for the cafeteria and decorations for the west end of Room 114 have not yet been decided.

"Decoration will be in progress all day Saturday, and all Lettermen are hereby invited to come bright and early that morning to help," announced Tom Lerch, Steve Smith, Steve Gaskill, and Carl Johnson, who are in charge of decorations.

Tickets have been printed and are on sale now for 50 cents. They are purchasable from any Letterman up to the time of the hop.

"LETTER JACKETS were the inspiration for the programs. They are green and white, with the word 'Lettermen' down the left side and 'Scapades' down the right side," announced Bill Meyer and Tom White, co-chairmen of the program committee.

7-Up will be sold all evening in the cafeteria for 10 cents. Tho boys who have come close to earning their letters will run the machine. They are Dave Barrett, Gus Wade, Bob Griffitan, Bob Haag, Chris Parrott, and Bill Hertel. Terry Berk and Bill Lentz are in charge of the refreshments.

Music from the Hi-Fi will be heard until 11:30 p.m., when the dance will end.

Chairmen of the other committees for the event are John Hendricksen, chaperones, and Bob Bolyard and John Sommers, cloak room.

Miss Harvey Speaks At Ball State College

Miss Rowena Harvey, publications adviser, was a consultant at a state meeting of the Indiana School Public Relations Association workshop at Ball State Teachers College January 16. Miss Harvey discussed the publishing of the Intercom with people from different parts of the state who are in the same line of work.

Miss Harvey also answered questions concerning school public relations.

Kellys Give Ideas

population. The new cafeteria can now accommodate the entire student body at one time. The faculty is finding more efficient teaching easier in the new rooms.

Mrs. Roy Stuart: I feel that the addition is something that South needed. It is beautiful and functional.

Mr. George Davis: I think that the addition was inevitable. The gym, cafeteria and shops were extremely necessary.

Barb Steiner: I think the idea of having a new addition is sharp and the building itself is great, but it's so far from any of my other classes that I have to rush like mad to get there on time.

Jan Shopoff: It's real neat, and the locker rooms are the best.

Nancy Vanderford: It looks too beautiful to belong to the old South Side.

Sue Hiller: I really think that the new addition is both a beautiful and practical asset, despite any uncalled for cracks about living in luxury. It was very definitely needed. I also feel that the students appreciate its facilities to the extent that they will do their utmost to protect its beauty.

Larry Levy: I think the new building is a really beautiful building and much more suited to the student's needs than the old part.

Chuck Jellison: Nice, if you don't have any classes in it. (118, what a drag!)

Sandy Thorn: The new addition is lovely but I don't like having classes there. It is too far out of the way and it takes forever to reach your destination.

Jenny Manth: I think it is the greatest thing that's happened to South.

Chris Parrott: I think it's swell, and I only wish that the rest of the building was that nice.

Pam Brown: I think the new building is absolutely marvelous. It's what we've always needed, especially the girls. I'm sure everyone will agree with me that it really does a lot for the school.

Carolyn Sievers: As a member of the special dance group, I use the dance room often. I love the bars and mirrors, but the floor catches dust and is hard on you when you are kneeling. The rest of the building is real sharp.

Margie Mercer: I think it's terrific, especially the gym offices and new dance room.

Sue Pfeifer: I think it is a wonderful addition and feel it is a privilege to have a class in the dance room.

Sports Facilities Are Ready

football seasons and for cross-country and track meets. Better ventilation which prevents lockers from being wet and damp and new showers have replaced the old facilities.

All types of injuries can be treated in the thoroughly equipped first aid room. The coaches have their own room in which they can help the boys.

"Scotty" remarked that he was "very happy with the increased space and would liked to have had this addition for a long time." He said that all this will help improve the sports program and will have a certain effect on the boys' morale since they take pride in their new rooms and facilities.

With everyone taking his share of the new responsibilities we can keep our new addition and its improved sports facilities a place to be proud of for the classes to follow and the years to come.

Vesta Club Extends Invitation To Girls

"All girls interested in some phase of home economics are invited to join the Vesta Club. No one must be in a home economics class to join," stated Susan VanFossen, president.

On February 4, Vesta members and all those girls that wish to join will hear a panel discussion on teenage problems. The club will meet in the Greeley Room instead of Room 75 at 3:30 p.m. From this time on, Vesta meetings will be held in the Greeley Room because of the increase in membership.

The program planned for this semester includes talks by a fashion designer and a dietitian, a style show sponsored by a local department store, and, ending the year, a picnic.

The officers of the club for this year are Susan VanFossen, president; Susan Parady, vice-president; Linda Tomson, secretary; Marianne Pinkham, sergeant-at-arms; Carol Oxenrider, house chairman; and Judy Garrison, publicity chairman. The sponsors are Mrs. Robert Gernand and Miss Schaeffer.

Movies To Be Shown

Two classes will view five films this week. Tomorrow the biology students will see "How Nature Protects Animals," "Fine Feathers," and "Canary." The Physical Geography students will be shown the educating films, "The Moon" and "Exploring Universe."

Mr. Weicker To Talk To Know Your City Club

"We extend an invitation to students interested in Fort Wayne history to come to the first meeting of Know-Your-City Club next Tuesday," stated Mr. Jack Weicker, sponsor of the club.

The meeting will be one of organization in Room 110 at 3:30 p.m. Mr. Weicker will speak on Fort Wayne industry before the Civil War, and light refreshments will be served.

The officers of the club are Jim Drummond, president; Gary Leips, vice-president; Lee Jackson, secretary; and Steve Wolf, treasurer.

Members of the class of 1959, their homeroom teachers, class advisers, and school officials are the invited guests for the evening.

Other committees to be chosen include menu, tickets, invitations to guests, music set-up, and clean-up.

Iva Dell Anspach Speaks To Philo

Iva Dell Anspach spoke on her experiences last summer with the Navajo Indians. She stated that there were two things which impressed her the most. One of these was that she had to be careful of every word she said because they were so easily offended; and the other, they worship many gods, instead of one. These Indians feel that their gods are gods of wrath, not of love.

Mary Lou Koehler was installed as vice-president; Crissie Ferguson as secretary, Linda Wightman as program chairman, and Judy Rumple as sergeant-at-arms at the Philo meeting Monday.

'What Kind Of Program Wanted,' PTA Study Group's Question To Be Discussed February 10

Mr. Robert Lee

Mrs. Curtis Stein

Mr. Charles Billiard

By Geri Geller

"What kind of program do you want?" will be the topic of discussion at the February 10 meeting of the Study Club. This meeting will be the second in a series of four presented in February.

The purpose of these discussions is to stimulate the interest of parents to the curriculum of South Side.

Highlighting this second program will be a panel consisting of two parents and a South Side teacher. Mrs. Curtis Stein, mother of John Stein, South Side junior, will be on the panel. Mrs. Stein was former president of the Citizen Educational Committee.

MR. ROBERT E. LEE, father of Pat Lee, freshman at South Side, will also be on the panel. Mr. Lee is superintendent of the Branch Office of Lincoln National Life Insurance Company.

The South Side faculty will be represented by Mr. Charles Billiard, head of the South Side English Department.

The South Side String Quartet Number 4, consisting of Nancy Swaim and Karen Good, violins, Becky Hostetler, viola, and Janice Ferber, cello, will entertain the group before the panel discussion takes place.

Each member of the panel will give a short talk on the topic. This will be followed by an informal question and answer period open to all attending persons.

AT THE FEBRUARY 17 meeting, Mr. Robert Parrott, Mrs. John D. Martindale, Mrs. William C. Rastetter, Jr., and Mr. Robert T. Drummond will discuss the question of "What kind of facilities do you want?"

The February 24 program will be presented by South Side students under the direction of Miss Pauline Van Gorder, dean of girls. Further information on this program will be announced at a later time.

It is the sincere hope of Dr. and Mrs. Gerald McMurtry and Mrs. Myrtle Grimshaw, co-chairmen for these study groups, that these meetings will be well attended, and that the information from the panel discussion will prove helpful in the aim to improve South Side and its course of study.

THE WINNER!—Sylvia Ehrman, right, is being presented with the Meterite Cup by Susie Slick. This cup is given each year to the member earning the most points in Meterites. Sylvia has compiled a total of 685 points during the past two years in the club. (Picture by Thompson)

Sylvia Ehrman Wins Award

Every semester Meterite Club gives an award for the member who has earned the most points. This semester the cup was won by Sylvia Ehrman, 10A. Sylvia has earned 685 points during her past two years in Meterites. Ellen McCarron was second with 660 points. These points were obtained by working many hours on the various activities sponsored by Meterites.

During her freshman year, Sylvia earned points by straightening chairs after meetings, helping at the Meterite after-game dance, and working on various committees. This year Sylvia spoke at the sophomore banquet, explaining Meterites.

Sylvia's main accomplishments in Meterites were being voted vice-president, then president.

"Meterites is an English club for freshman and sophomore girls," explained Sylvia. "The club was founded by girls who were writers of meter, a poetry term."

"The club sponsors poetry and short story contests," stated Sylvia. "At some meetings we have speakers or panel discussions. The members also take teachers to the Quarter Century Banquet."

Besides being a member of Meterites, Sylvia is an active member of 36 Workshop, the Times staff, and the Service Club.

Two Archers Receive Honors

Two South Side students, John Richardson, senior, and Allen Steere, sophomore, were winners in the preliminary contest of the statewide Young Instrumentalists Contest sponsored by the Women's Committee of the Indiana State Symphony Society. John, a senior, and Allen, a sophomore, were chosen to perform in the finals.

These boys were two out of four picked from a field of 20 contestants from throughout Indiana. The winner will perform as soloist with Izler Solomon and the Indianapolis Symphony Orchestra at the last of the Youth Concerts in Indianapolis on February 15.

John has been entering various contests for the past five years. He plays in South Side's orchestra and band. Last year, he also entered the contest and was one of the four finalists, as this year.

Allen participates in the orchestra, and he entered the contest for the first time this year.

The other two finalists picked were Marilyn Heuring, from Michigan City, and Pam Gamble, from Indianapolis.

Lincoln Honor To Be Feb. 12

"The Lincoln Assembly is in its formative stages, but has potential of working into a very impressive tribute to Lincoln," stated Mrs. Keith Darby, one of the chairmen of the assembly.

Judy Rumple, Mary Sue Robertson, and Gregory Avdakov worked on typing and mimeographing.

Police Show Judo To Hi-Y Members

To demonstrate judo, members of the Fort Wayne Police Department were present at the Monday meeting of the Hi-Y Club held at the YMCA. The members could participate if they brought old clothes. The entire club enjoyed the demonstration.

Monday's meeting was the second of three meetings that new members could join. Stan Hoover and Bob Simmons are in charge of the new memberships. These new members are required to fill out application blanks.

Upon entering the club, they must pass a test. This test contains questions on the purpose, officers, history, and some fine points of the Hi-Y constitution.

Plans both for their dance, "Queen of Hearts," and for their spring vacation trip, were completed.

Terry Berk was chosen as the club's Safety Council representative.

South Extends Sympathy

The faculty and students of South Side wish to express sincere sympathy to Mr. Ralph Erhardt on the death of his mother. She died in the Robert Long Hospital, Indianapolis, Indiana, after a long illness.

Mary Robertson Named Homemaker Of Tomorrow

Mary Sue Robertson

Mary Sue Robertson has won the title of Betty Crocker Homemaker of Tomorrow at South by receiving the highest score on a 50 minute test on homemaking taken by ten senior girls.

"I was very surprised, honored, and happy to win," was Mary Sue's reaction.

"Mary Sue's use of a large vocabulary and correct English was one of the reasons she came out on top," said Miss Lucy Mellen, administrator of the test for the school. "Her wording and expression were excellent," Miss Mellen continued.

A heart-shaped gold pin, representing the slogan "The Home Is Where the Heart Is," designates Mary Sue as a school winner. On the pin are a heart and a wheat stalk.

MARY SUE felt that the test, which was open to all senior girls, was different from the others she had taken.

Archer Girls Participate In Nursette Program; Gained Experience Is Beneficial To Community

Today's teenagers are often associated with the word delinquent. The delinquents, the minority group, classify the rest; while in reality the majority of young people are worthwhile and useful citizens.

There are many beneficial organizations to which teens devote their time; included in this group is the hospital nursette program in which teenage girls voluntarily give their time and service.

Participating in the nursette program at Parkview Memorial Hospital are South Siders, Joyce Brittenham, Marge Bauer, Kathy Lee, Jean Schott, Sue Ringenberg, Phyllis Cozmas, and Carol Abramson.

Nursettes, in red and white striped uniforms are a familiar sight to the personnel and patients of the hospital. Although these teens perform necessary services without pay, they are rewarded with pins for the number of hours they spend working in the hospital.

REALIZING THAT many persons are unacquainted with the nursette program, Joyce Brittenham explained, "The sections of the hospital in which a nursette may serve are surgery, central supply, laboratory, pharmacy, nursery, business office, pediatrics, and the Gift Shop."

Joyce further related that the various divisions of the nursette program demand various little jobs. In surgery, napkins and doctors' gowns are folded; while in central supply, a nursette cleans needles and bottles. In addition, girls in the laboratory label test tubes; and in pharmacy, a nursette counts pills.

The pediatrics division, which is a favorite of many girls, deals with feeding and amusing the children. Closely related to pediatrics is the nursery, where a volunteer secures clean linen for the baby-beds. One who works in the medical records files; and, lastly, waiting on customers from behind the counter is the duty of the nursette in the Gift Shop.

SOUTH SIDE NURSETTE Kathy Lee explained the procedure in which a girl must participate before becoming a part of the nursette program. Kathy states, "First a person who is interested in becoming a nursette is interviewed by Miss Bowen, director of the program at Parkview Hospital. If the girl, between the ages of 15 and 18, passes the requirements, one of which is good grades, she is then accepted into the organization."

Kathy further related, "An orientation meeting is the next step. This meeting, a tour of the hospital is on the agenda; also, at this time, the nursettes take a pledge in which they promise to keep confidential anything important which they might overhear." Kathy also stated that a girl promises to take criticism wisely, to treat everyone with respect, and to do her best at all times.

After having serviced a number of years as a nursette, a senior in high school may take a scholarship test. If a high grade is scored upon the test, the nursette is then eligible for a scholarship to the Parkview Hospital Nursing School.

NURSETTES who devote many hours out of their crowded schedule to public service feel they are gaining a beneficial experience while benefiting the community.

Marge Bauer sums up the nursette program by saying, "Being a nursette is a very worthwhile activity; one becomes acquainted with the hospital and the personnel. I also am sure it will be beneficial to us in our future careers."

South Side Hombres Give Their Opinions On Adult Westerns

Draw Blackie! Bang, bang!—and another black-hatted, dark mustached villain with a 5 o'clock shadow bites the dust. To get opinions on this type of drama known as the adult western, this reporter roped several hombres and corralled their comments.

Dian Spencer: They're original!

Bobbi Jo Ross: They're phony!

Bob Sheray: I'm voting for the Indians . . .

Suzy Stauffer: You can have them!

Ann Erickson: Just my sister watches them!

Ellen Crowder: Bring back the easterns!

Marie Rohn: I wish they would kill the good guys once in a while!

Stan Redding: Have western, will watch!

Barb Steiner: Ugh!

Mary Spindler: They're all the same.

Gwen Langdoc: I like them—as long as the guy on the black horse shoots the guy on the white horse.

Nancy Swain: Ha!

Valerie Callahan: I would like to rope a couple of westerns for myself.

Ed Sarver: I like that gunman who passes out business cards.

Annette Plesniak: I dig them the most!

Carolyn Seivers: They should all be buried on Boot Hill!

Gretchen Meister: Three cheers for "Maverick"!

Joan Stanton: Western TV shows have got to go!

Barb Seely: What else is on?

Marilyn Masters: I dig Roy Rogers!

Mickey Flaig: Well, personally, I, well, ah, ho, hum, YEA!

Jan Welborn: They are O.K. if I have nothing better to do!

Karen Curley: Zulchumphrahj!

Pam Brown: "Wyatt Earp," "Maverick," WOW!

Judy Koontz: Never touch the stuff myself!

Nancy (Tex) Vanderford: Sharp like a cactus, pardner!

Karol Wise: I think they are crummy . . .

Karen Johnson: You don't see them very often!

Jean Simpson: They don't tell the true story of the old west.

Linda Silverman: Three cheers for "Howdy Doody."

Jan Martindale: Hate them all with one exception—I get a big bang out of "Maverick!"

Chuck Weinraub: How can you say anything against them with so many of them?

Dianne Meyer: Who's got time to watch TV?

Pat Tyler: Sugar Foot is real sweet.

Teachers, Pupils Spout Pearls Of Wisdom In Archer Classes

Learning can be fun! Especially with the zany Archers that inhabit some of our classes. Teachers wonder what the world is coming to when those crazy Kellys spout their pearls of wisdom.

For instance, geometry teacher Miss Lutie Young asked Chris Parrott to go to the board and draw a figure involving things like circles and arcs. After struggling through the drawing, Chris turned innocently to Miss Young and asked, "Did you mean a circle with a hole in it?"

Mr. Collyer very sincerely asked his General History 2 class why Magellan made so many stops along the South American coast. Gretchen Meister dubiously asked, "Was it because he wanted to see how far down South America goes?"

MRS. DONNA JEAN DARBY was acting out the difference between being young and being youthful for her English 3 class when Margie Mercer raised her hand and lowered her grade by saying, "You mean that being youthful like you were means that you act young but you're really old?"

Mrs. Darby's classes were also discussing the possibility that Queen Elizabeth was a man (?) when the light dawned and Jane Hunter said, "So that's why she had a beard!"

In Mr. Hemmer's general history classes, acts, not words are more in use. Pam Olson experienced an unusual feeling one day when she felt herself being drawn out of her seat by her ponytail. There was nothing there but empty space, until she realized that someone, whose initials are Fred Musser, had tied the cord on a window blind around her tempting tail.

MR. GERSMEHL'S English class was pondering the question of what color results when blue and gold are mixed. After several minutes of deep thought, Carl Johnson said, as if he were taking the last step off a pirate's plank, "Blue-gold?"

Mr. Feasel let Bob Shine and Iraq know where he stands when Bob asked about the slaughter of King Faisel. Mr. Feasel leaned back in his chair and comfortable announced, "I'd prefer the pronunciation 'Fisal'."

Until recently, history teacher Mr. Weickert has had a wooden stick with a metal hook on the end to pull down his many maps. When the little hook persistently evaded the small ring attached to the map, Mr. Weicker was very patient until the feat was accomplished.

Giving a triumphant yank downward, he was shocked to find nothing on the end of his stick but air. Looking frustratedly upward, he saw, far above his head, the little metal hook swinging peacefully from the little metal ring. It's enough to drive one mentally unbalanced.

MRS. GRIMSHAW'S Spanish class was translating an extremely dramatic story. The fair damsel is awaiting her lover on a point by the ocean where a ghost has often appeared. Suddenly, in the deep shadows, an obscured figure is seen. Who can it be; the ghost, the lover . . . "Zorro!" shouts Gene Krause in inspired tones.

A person whom we shall refer to as Stupid made a booboo in Latin which only an imbecile or a genius could accomplish. Mr. Sterner asked for a sentence, the translation of which was "The soldier injured his foot in the battle." Stupid raised her hand and offered this version to the world: "The soldier loved two toes in his bottle."

Basil Rathbone recently entertained and horrified one of Mr. Gersmehl's classes by reading one of Edgar Allen Poe's horror stories. After the recording was over and people were recuperating from the dramatic experience, Sue Pfeiffer breathed, "That Basil Rathbone is some actor!"

Salvete!

Who says Latin is dead? Certainly not I. If Latin is dead, what would I use as a greeting for my letter?

Here is the announcement you've all been waiting for: We have now reached the point in the school year of 1958-59 where the total number of days remaining in which we must rack our dear little brains is 77½.

This is approximately, and I did say approximately, 542½ hours; which is, even more approximately, 32,550 minutes. If my figures are too large, please correct me; but if they are too small, don't mention it. This would only discourage me.

With a little effort you can learn interesting bits of information anywhere; right, Janet Lawry? On a recent tour of the Chicago Museum of Natural History, Janet ran across a display of eggs of all sizes and descriptions. The largest egg was labeled "Elephant Bird egg." After pondering the situation for a few minutes, Janet exclaimed, "Why, I didn't know elephants laid eggs; I thought they were mammals!" After relating this statement to several people, I almost always received the question, "Well, elephants don't lay eggs, do they?"

For a moment Carole Fischer thought she was going crazy, for there in the doorway to the library were two legs with no body to be seen. Much to her surprise and relief, upon closer observation she discovered that the legs belonged to Dick McGaw who was simply sprawled in the doorway! What else could it be?

Because of the many requests for more, and the glorious praise I received on my first poem, I have decided to compose another one. So, on behalf of all you poetry lovers, here it is. Very sorry, out of inspiration.

Members of Miss Fortney's period 7, Algebra 3 were greeted by a strange surprise upon entering their class one day. There, looking very alert and attentive, was a new member of their class. The only trouble was, the poor boy seemed to be sound asleep!

Miss Fortney informed the class not to wake the lad; after all, he must be awfully tired to be able to sleep clear through two bells and the commotion before a class begins. After about 10 minutes of snoozing, the boy awoke and sat up, all ready to continue his lesson.

When a loud burst of laughter arose from the class, our tired friend realized he was amongst complete strangers, a lone freshman in a class of juniors. Imagine his surprise! After a short explanation, very short, he rushed from the room to continue seventh period 10 minutes late.

Have you ever heard of a neutralized citizen? I haven't, but according to Charlie Hall, that's a person who moves to the United States and becomes a citizen. I always thought that was a naturalized citizen, but maybe I'm wrong.

Well, that's about all the news from here. Why don't you write for a change?

So, as they say in Latin, "Valete."

P.S.—According to a recent statement made by the honorable junior class officers, all juniors must begin now to think of names for the Junior Prom! That's an order!

Post Archer Couples Revealed In Spring 1957 Diary Letter

Dear Diary,

Well, today was another usual day. It hardly seems possible that Spring Vacation (1957) is here already! This noon as I made a mad dash through the study hall on my way to Miller's, I saw Merle Baldwin and Buz Miller ('58) studying. (Probably each other by the look on their faces!)

Right behind them slaving away were Sharon Ruhl and Steve Komito. As I tore out of study hall I ran into Gene Kraus and Linda LeVay. Gene has a broken foot and Linda has to carry his books around for him. What a life!

During lunch at Miller's, I was mashed back into a corner only to find I wasn't alone. With me were Bev Liggett, Jim King, Anna Mae Chen, and Bob Rice. Bob was eating a sandwich that looked terribly familiar. Oh well, anything can happen at Miller's!

After lunch I had to run down to Lehman's where I found Barb Wallace, Ron Hamilton ('58), Kay Augspurger, and Tom Bolyard busy getting "school supplies" . . . gum, candy bars, etc. When I finally made it to the gym, I decided to stop at the sophomore section and see what the commotion was.

In a large circle surrounding something or someone were Margo Martindale, Joe Winder ('57), Susan Van Fossen, Harry Trosin, Marsha Rolf, and Jim Stier ('57). After a few minutes of squeezing and wiggling, I finally got close enough to see. It seems that Mike Simmons and Ruth Dill were just having a "friendly" argument. After all that!

Since there wasn't anything I could do to help, I proceeded to the freshman section. In the top row Marty Clark, Fred Van Fossen ('58), Sue Siebel, Ken Howe, Nancy Baily, and Mike Millikin seemed to be going into convulsions . . . Marty must be up to something again!

Farther down I found Sunny Kaade, Bing Gilardi, Sue Sappenfield, Larry Miller ('58), Bessie Ferguson, Bob Duncan, Judy Robinson, and Terry Berk watching the fifth period Intramural games. I wonder who's winning?

About five minutes before the bell rang, I started to the library. As I went bombing down the ramp I about ran Bill Harmison ('57) and Crissie Ferguson down. Boy, these ramps are getting dangerous!

In the middle of center hall, sitting Indian-style, were Margo Dixon and Carol Lockwood. It seems that Hoy McConnell and Jerry George got lost in the locker room. I wished the girls luck in finding the boys, and left.

At the side door I saw three people jumping up and down. It turned out to be Kate Rastetter, Ted Despos ('58), and Posy Weilemann frantically wave good-bye to Rusty McKay (Lake Forest Academy), who was leaving for school.

As I entered the library and collopsed in a chair I wondered what would be going on around South Side at this time in 1959. I guess I'll have to wait and see . . . I'll bet a lot of things will have changed!

New Archer Fads Given By Students

As nearly everyone knows, present-day fads are controversial and constantly changing. As if we weren't already mortgaged to the hilt in trying to "keep up with the Joneses," certain fellow Archers felt that they must add to our misery by suggesting a few more.

So, just to show the nice people that you aren't really serious about using that dagger in your grubby little paw, get into your best spirits and smile as you read our panel of experts' opinions on: "What new fads would you like to see around South?"

Linda Silverman: Boys with rings in their noses and light bulbs in their ears. The light bulbs should light up when they see . . . well, you know.

Barb Steiner: Pink danskins on boys with earmuffs and mittens to match.

Bonnie Adams: Boys with pixie cuts and Scotch plaid kilts.

Joan LeChot: Boys with pleated pants and dyed to match bulky knits.

Jan Martindale: All the little kiddies and their hula hoops in fifth period lunch.

Dave Dill: I feel that girls should wear matching clothing, no matter what type, to make them look more feminine.

Sharon Longenberger: Boys with bells in their hair and bows on their toes.

Cindy Miller: Beanies and knickers would be ideal for boys! Just imagine how cute Dave Dill would look!

Molly Dixon: I think that boys should wear their hockey uniforms to school, and curl their eyelashes like Charlie Hall.

Bonnie Brenn: Exotic perfume?

Sue Hiller: I think that the green and white cave man outfits (made from zebras suffering from an overdose of chlorophyl) would be an excellent idea for Jim Somers when he tears his pants. The idea is not only patriotic, but practical, too.

Steve Holmes: Seven-up in the drinking fountains, 10-minute periods, girls not wearing danskins, matching shoes.

Sharon Bricker: Boys wearing knickers and argyle danskins.

Extra Time A Rarity Say These Archers

"If only there were a few more hours in each day!" We all hear this phrase quite frequently. There must be some way to have a few free minutes once in a while. Some Archers don't seem to think so though. When asked, "How do you arrange your day so that you have a little extra time," they responded:

Rick Busch: I've never heard of such a thing called extra time.

Val Callahan: I haven't been that lucky in having any extra time.

Bob Bolyard: Right now I have all the extra time I can handle.

Karl Biewald: Time, time, got all the time in the world.

John Biteman: I do just the opposite. I waste my time first, then hurry to get my work done. I want time, time, and more time!

Susie Scott: Who does have extra time—not me!

Chuck Weinraub: I just hope for study periods.

Sally Dill: If anyone can figure out how to have extra time, I wish they would let me in on the secret.

Lesley Malone: Spare time went out with the bustle.

Sally Capps: Extra time—what's that?

Merilyn Masters: Let me in on the secret, too.

Al Steere: If anyone would happen to discover what spare time is, I wish they would tell me. Gun ho! Somebody.

Diana Meyer: I agree with Sally.

Sue Hiller: Believe me, my little feather friends, I don't know what having extra time means—unless maybe skipping Geometry 2!

Chris Parrott: Never heard of spare time. I wish I had.

Molly Dixon: Spare time? That's all I have! All I do is lay around. I eat, eat, eat, and sleep, sleep, sleep. RE-LAX-A-SHUN man, I mean like RE-LAX-A-Shun is the word.

Don't Be A Litterbug!

How many times during this past summer did you hear the "Litterbug Song" played over the radio? While it was playing how many of you were laughing? Maybe you were even throwing items out on the highway while the jingle was playing; however, the jingle in the song was meant to put forth a message, not to entertain you while you were riding along.

You may say, "Why should I worry about the roads and highways?" There is an answer. To begin with, it is your responsibility to clean up around your own home and around South Side. These belong to you in a way, even more so than roads and highways.

As you grow older, the latter will grow more important, but right now your responsibilities are those you are in contact with every day.

Doing this leads to a cleaner neighborhood, a nicer looking city, a better looking state, and to head the list a beautiful country that you can be proud of.

First of all, make your own home and school neat and clean in appearance, then start to work with your neighbors. Probably, if you start to clean up the litter around your own home, your neighbors will do the same. If they don't, why don't you do something about it? Why don't you go to your neighbors' house and ask if you might clean their yard.

If you have trouble getting the point across, here are a few facts to make the suggestion seem more important. Ask them if they know that over 50 million tax dollars are spent each year to remove litter from our primary highways alone. Not to mention the additional millions spent cleaning up parks, benches, streams, city streets, and other public areas.

The rate of Americans being killed on the highways seems to be increasing more and more each day. Did you know that between 750 and 1,000 Americans are needlessly killed and nearly 100,000 seriously injured each year as a result of cars striking or swerving to avoid hitting objects thoughtlessly thrown on the highway?

Fire is a very disastrous thing to happen to any home or building. Yet, if litter were removed from the buildings, the chance of fire wouldn't be so great. The cost of litter-caused fires throughout the country is more than 70 million dollars annually.

Maybe during this past summer you enjoyed a trip through beautiful, wooded country. Last year, the U. S. Forest Service budgeted three million dollars just to clean up litter from our national forests.

The reason that litter has grown to be a national problem is due to one main fact, individual thoughtlessness. Americans have felt no personal responsibility for the appearance of our public areas. They have felt no feeling of guilt when tossing trash about. Also, they have not realized the staggering amount of litter collected, or the cost and effort required to remove it. You now know the facts, so the rest is up to you. Will you do something about this great national problem?

9 Seniors Win Honors In National Poetry Contest

Mike Lehman Receives "Special Mention" Award For Poem "Sunset"

Nine seniors have placed in the National Anthrology Poetry Contest. Mike Lehman received "Special Mention" for his poem called "Sunset."

The other seniors were Jack Lehman, Susan Kuroski, Mary Lou Koehler, Judy Pfeiffer, Mickey McClead, Ann Cupp, Kathy Dunigan, and Kay MacDanel.

To be eligible for this contest a student must be in high school, write his poem for classwork, and have it accepted by his teacher and the head of the English Department. The poem is usually 20 or less lines in length. South Side has had winners for the past five years in the contest.

The nine seniors qualifying this year are from Miss Mary Graham's English 7, period 6 class of last semester. The poems are:

Sunset

Dark clouds are massing in the west
Like purple mountains; on them rest
A smoky fringe of shredded mist
As old lace, sooty, darkly kissed
By evening shadows; high above
Small downy clouds reflect the light
Of dying sun, all silv'ry white,
With azure edging, where the blue
Of western heavens filters through;
And large vents in the dusky mass
Glow ruddy red as through them pass
The last red rays of setting sun
Who gathers homeward, one by one,
His darting arrows, burning bright;
The sun has set; we have deep night.

"Special Mention"—Mike Lehman

The Grand Teton

(First Impression)

There it stands,
A majestic rock, pointing
Like a pinnacle to the sky.
It is a massive thing,
Tall in stature, mighty in size.

It stands alone,
Unequal in size of beauty
It looks cold and treacherous;
Yet it is tame like a kitten
Playing with a ball of yarn.

Looking at it,
I am held by its beauty.
Nothing is more spectacular
Because of nature's care
To make something so rare.

Jack Lehman

The Season

Autumn:
Arsenal of colors—
Red, yellow, orange;
Of many colors,
Autumn's color.

Autumn:
Abode of the brisk wind
A chilling, biting wind,
The autumn wind.

Autumn:
Herald of the winter cold
With a white frost
The first white frost,
Autumn's frost.

Autumn:
Helen of the seasons,
A spectacular season
My season.

Susan Kuroski

Music Moods

Good music masters all my moods.
It comforts like a mother's words
Or lifts me high upon a cloud
To live with God or fly with birds.

My feet feel free to walk alone
When jazz or swing they hear;
And all my thoughts are carefree now,
For what have I to fear?

A booming band or caroling choir
Instills in me the joy of life,
But quiet music makes me cry
Or think about life's awful strife.

A single song or symphony
Can change my every thought,
For only music molds a mood
As only God has taught.

Mary Lou Koehler

Remorse

Love died last night,
Faded as a dying flame.
And try as I might,
I know I'll never be the same.

Love came and went;
Such heat I've never known
But loneliness it sent,
And I now walk alone.

Torn to shreds I feel
Life has lot all meaning.
Oh, to be able to steal
Away to God and His understanding.

I put all trust in man:
I loved with all my heart.
Now only with God I stand
From man I'll stand apart.

Judy Pfeiffer

The Maestro

Sometimes a Jekyll, sometimes a Hyde,
To watch him leaves you goggle-eyed.
A small mustached man with eyes of steel
Searching your soul with strange appeal;
But this man was powerful, he was great,
He could make his orchestra fascinate.
You knew he loved music very much;
This was shown by his master-touch.
He had gone to school in Paris, France;
'Twas there he gained predominance.
An impresario, very impressive.
This is a man all should know,
Recognized simply as The Maestro.

Michael McClead

You

All words can describe you.
No one can deny you.
Anyone can buy you.
But just who can use you?

We all find use for you.
Many prosper through you.
We've many kinds of you.
Dictionary, that's you!

Ann Cupp

A Gift of Beauty

This beauty about me was made by One.
He created this earth and the rising sun,
And scattered the waters out o'er the land,
And then gave life unto man.
I've wandered this country, both hilly and flat,
I've seen man's attempts, but ne'er one that Could ever compare with these treasures divine;
For this is one gift each man can call "Mine."

Kathy Dunigan

God So Loved

To this our world
Of hate and greed
God gave His Son.
He knew our need.

In stable bare
The babe was born;
A child so fair,
For an earth forlorn.

And thus He grew
In body, mind,
On faith, and love
Toward all mankind.

He taught of sin
And God above,
Of peace within
And human love.

His life He gave
That man might be
From hell's dark grave,
Forever free!

It covered not only home economics, but all common sense phases of a good homemaker's life. There were questions on everything from mortgages to meals. Mary Sue thought the easiest was a question on the education of children in the home.

Although Mary is not planning a career in the field of home economics, it was one of her junior courses. She also took it in the eighth grade. Mary Sue's homeroom teacher urged her to sign up for the test which was given last October.

Mary Sue's examination paper will be entered in a contest to determine the state winner. A $1,500 scholarship from General Mills, an educational trip April 4 through 10, with her school adviser, to Washington, D.C., Williamsburg, Virginia, New York City, and Minneapolis, Minnesota, and a chance for the title of All-American Homemaker of Tomorrow will be Mary Sue's if she wins the state competition.

THE SCHOOL of each state winner will receive a set of the Encyclopedia Britannica. General Mills will award a $500 scholarship to each state runner-up.

Winners are being chosen for 12,260 schools throughout the nation which enrolled 349,150 senior girls, the largest number of participants in the five-year history of this $106,000 scholarship program. Growth has been steady since 1955 when 187,463 girls in 8,040 schools participated.

The scholarship of the All-American Homemaker of Tomorrow will be increased to $5,000. The national runner-up will receive a $4,000 grant, third place winner a $3,000 award, and fourth place winner, a $2,000 scholarship.

Mary Sue is taking English, Spanish, chemistry, government and choir. She finds time to be active in Philo, Know-Your-City, Washington Fellowship, and 36 Workshop. Mary Sue is planning on the career of a teacher.

Robert Dreisbach Gives Talk To Hi-Y

Mr. Robert Dreisbach, who gave a talk on Cuba, provided the entertainment for the Hi-Y Club's regular meeting Monday night in the Assembly Room of the YMCA. Mr. Dreisbach also showed the members some slides of Cuba.

The business meeting consisted of a continuation of the plans for their trip during spring vacation. Also, committee members were established for the club's annual Queen of Hearts Dance, February 7.

The Bible reading was given Monday morning by Mike Simmons.

Hi-Y wishes to welcome all junior and senior boys to join their club. Hi-Y is designed to create, maintain, and extend throughout the home, school, and community high standards of Christian character.

Its platform includes four planks: Clean Scholarship, Clean Speech, Clean Living, and Clean Sportsmanship. Its outstanding function is to carry out the service projects for the school, YMCA, and Fort Wayne. All junior and senior boys who subscribe to the purpose of the club are eligible for membership.

The sponsor is Mr. Robert Weber. Meetings are held every Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the Assembly Room of the YMCA. Dues are 50 cents a semester.

Gym, Dance Classes Have New Schedule

Since the new girl's gym has been completed, a new schedule for the meeting of the gym and dance classes has been put into effect.

Each period a gym class and a dance class meet. As a result of some of the dance classes being combined, they meet every other day in the new dance room.

The gym classes meet every day all periods except fifth, which is a free period. Dance classes meet every period every other day except fifth. The gym classes are divided into two groups, each group meeting on alternate days.

Heart Queen To Reign At Hi-Y's Stereo Dance

Hi-Y, Hi-Fi and now, Stereo! Did you know the entire idea of after-game dances was started by the Hi-Y Club?

When the idea began, a simple record player was used to provide the music. Later, the club had access to the Hi-Fi record player purchased by the school. Now the club has a stereophonic record player which they will use for their annual Queen of Hearts dance to give a new and wonderfully different effect.

The majesty of the Queen's throne will be the main attraction of the decorations. The Valentine theme will be carried out for the other decorations. The programs will look like playing cards, signifying the theme.

THE "QUEEN OF HEARTS," a title proudly bestowed upon any senior girl, will be chosen at the dance by the boys present. The Queen and her traditional four attendants will be presented at the dance by two of the officers, John Meyerholtz and Bob Mann. The Queen will receive a crown, robe, scepter, and orchid. Her attendants will also receive orchids.

Hi-Y has announced the nominees as such: Nancy Bailey, Mary Sue Robertson, Janis Mitchell, Margo Martindale, Barbara Ronan, Janet Hicks, Ann Kerns, Susie Starr, Judy Thompson, Sharon Collins, Carol Lockwood, Marijo Edwards, Ruth Ann Farlow, Kathy Schwalm, and Kay Augsburger.

THE COMMITTEE heads have already started their various functions and are: General Chairman, John Meyerholtz; decorations, Gene Krause and Tom Cooper; publicity, Dave Dunstone and Sam DeHaven; tickets, George Pifer and Dick Boergert; chaperones, Steve Tracey; Cokes, Ron Taylor; cloak room, Terry Berk; programs, Jack Fitzgerald and Dave Redmond; music, Mike Millikan and Bill Lentz; and master of ceremonies, Dick McGaw and Steve Meyers, who will present the Queen's awards.

The following chaperons will be present: Mrs. Theodore Meyerholtz, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mann, Mr. and Mrs. F. H. McClead, Mr. and Mrs. Mentor Kraus, Mr. and Mrs. John Boerger, Mr. and Mrs. Al Simmons, Mr. and Mrs. H. K. Shannahan, Mr. and Mrs. Ansel Graham, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond White, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hartman.

"Queen of Hearts," a name to remember, will be held February 7 after the Froebel game. The dance will be held in the old cafeteria until 11:30 p.m.; no one is permitted to leave before that time.

Tickets may be purchased from any Hi-Y member or in Mr. Robert Weber's room, Room 76. The ticket cost is 50 cents per person. No tickets will be sold at the dance.

Bowmen Will Take On Gary Froebel Saturday

Froebel Beat Top Team On Indiana State Poll, East Chicago Washington

South Side gym will be the scene of action for Saturday night's ball game as the state champion Archers entertain Gary Froebel's Devils.

The Blue Devils are still "cooling their heels" from their upset victory over the state's number one ranked team, East Chicago Washington. The Senators' unbeaten record was ended at 13 as the Devils humbled them by a 76-71 count.

Coach Mike Sofiak has four of five regulars returning from last year's Sectional champs. Heading the list is leaping Turner Tarver, a 6-5 junior center, who hauls in Froebel's greatest percentage of rebounds. Andy Sakes is the top Devil guard at 5-7, and is buddied by J. D. Smith, a 5-9 senior. Arthur Artis, a 6-2 senior, is the other hold-over at forward. Ray

Froebel

Place—South Side Gym.
Time—Saturday, 8 p.m.
Last Met—1957-1958. Score 69-64, South.

Thompson and Nathaniel Gaines have been alternating at the other forward as Sofiak substitutes the two freely.

z z z

THE WIN OVER East Chicago is Froebel's outstanding performance this season. The Devils are currently ranked seventeenth in the UPI Indiana high school basketball poll in which Washington's Senators held the top position. A victory over ninth-ranked South coupled with the Washington triumph, would certainly add prestige and recognition to the Blue Devils' name. The Devils come from the basketball-rich Gary area where they have played second fiddle to city foe Roosevelt while mastering the city's darkhorse Tolleston.

Probable lineups:

South Side
Bolyard	6-4	F
Meyer	6-2	F
Barrett	6-4	C
Demetre	6-1	G
Simmons	5-11	G
Froebel
Thompson	6-2	F
Artis	6-2	F
Turner	6-5	C
Sakes	5-7	G
Smith	5-9	G

z z z

SOUTH SIDE, coached by Don Reichert, looks for its second straight victory over the Gary foes. Reichert will probably start his usual starting lineup, topped by Tom "The Bomb" Bolyard, only returning starter from last year's state championship five. Bill Meyer is Tom's likely running mate, while Dave Barrett at center rounds out the front court. Nick Demetre and Mike Simmons are the choices in the guard posts.

Both teams have fairly strong benches. The substitution of players will be a key point for this seemingly well-matched contest. If the Archers can pull off this match, the Green will gain a "feather in their cap" and another notch in their defense of the State Championship.

Bill Meyer Adds Experience, Talent To Archer Front Court

By Jim Carter

After shaking off a football injury which kept him out of the lineup during the early part of the season, in recent games senior forward Bill Meyer has shown Archer fans the high caliber performance which they have come to expect from him.

Bill's return gives the Kelly front court added height, talent, and experience, which has been very evident in recent victories. Although he stands "only" 6-2, short in comparison to some of the giants of previous years, he is aided by good jumping ability, which makes him an extremely effective rebounder.

Since his freshman year, when he entered South Side from James Smart, Bill has taken part in sports. Besides frosh competition, he has played three years of varsity football, alternating between end and halfback. In the fall of 1958 he was shifted to the backfield slot permanently, largely due to his speed and fast starting ability. Bill was such a standout in the grid sport that he was selected as one of the first-string all-city halfbacks.

TRACK OCCUPIES Bill's time in the spring, and he has put in two varsity years on the cinder squad. During that time he has run the quarter mile and the hurdles, and, most recently, the 100 and 220 yard dashes.

On the hardwood, he was the number six man on the 1958 State Championship squad, alternating between forward and center behind Mike McCoy. This season Bill has spent most of his time at forward, and he performed so admirably that he soon took over one of the starting roles. If his play continues to improve still further as it has done in recent contests, Archer fans can expect great things of Bill Meyer.

z z z

AFTER PLAYING on one State Championship squad, Bill believes that this year's team can also go all the way if the boys play as they are capable of playing and get a few breaks. He picks Central as the team to beat in the city and the sectional.

Although he is undecided upon what college he will attend next year, Bill is looking forward to playing collegiate football.

Freshmen Beat Wildcats, 49-27

Led by big Ken Robinson, plus a fine team effort, South's frosh hardwood quintet trounced an unpolished Huntertown five, 49-27. The lopsided contest was played at the Wildcat gym on January 26.

South Side just had too much class and finesse for their hosts. For three-fourths of the game Huntertown looked like a mediocre junior high team. The Yellow and Black did manage to score 14 points in the third stanza to keep a little prestige.

On the other hand the Archers did not look as fabulous as the score sounds. The Green looked good in every department but against an adequate foe the final outcome would have been closer.

z z z

INDIVIDUAL stalwart was Ken Robinson, who snapped out of a scoring slump. The all-around athlete pumped in eight field goals and two free throws for an 18-point total. This ties his own and Archer team high for the current season. Robby did a fine rebounding job and was a major cog in the defensive pattern that paralyzed the Wildcats.

The victory, however, was a team effort. The entire starting five turned in a great job under the boards. They really had their work cut out for them, too; the Wildcat front line averages 6-1½.The Bowmen actually outrebounded their sky-scraping opponents, 3-2.

Ken Leaky had a field day on assists for the Archers. He beautifully fed teammate Robinson for three easy lay-ups and must have made four other assists to scoring mates. This is quite a feat to accomplish within 18 minutes. He still found time to score eight points.

z z z

SOUTH WAS GUILTY of several pressing miscues in the frantic third quarter in which a total of 27 points were scored. Huntertown took advantage of the stray passes to edge within 11 points of the stumbling Greenies. Coach Holt pulled his team together and the Wildcats never threatened again.

Play was rather wild and wooly toward the end with plenty of fouls being called. One player from each squad committed five fouls to leave the game. One over-anxious Wildcat player was asked to leave the game for intentionally tripping a South player.

z z z

CHARITY LINE SHOOTING was frigid on both teams' part. The Green and White sank nine of 23 for a .391 percentage. The field goal accuracy of .360 was almost as good. Huntertown missed their first eight free throws on the way to a miserable five for 23 night.

The 22-point victory margin is South's largest of the year. At 6-5 the "Porky" Holt-led Archers are again over the .600 mark. The Bowmen have found it difficult to win two consecutive games. Five games remain on the Archer schedule in the current campaign.

Only five boys qualified for the final round.

Sheldon Sheray emerged victorious from the 19 boys that entered the Lightweight Division. He made 60 out of 80 shots. Reserves Lose To Redskins By 41-35 Score

Carl Johnson Shows Good Game, Scoring 12, Grabbing Rebounds

Being unable to crack a well-executed zone defense that the North Side Redskins were using, the South reserve squad ended on the short side of a 41-35 score at North gym last Friday.

The Archers were forced to take shots a good distance from the basket, and they were not able to connect on many of them. Coach Bill Geyer tried many different guards in a futile attempt to find an outside shooter.

z z z

ALTHOUGH THE Archer team as a whole did not work well together, some of the individual team members looked very good at times. Carl Johnson was by far the only consistent Archer, hitting 12 points and grabbing many rebounds. Dave Hickman also helped off the boards and tallied seven points.

One big trouble for the reserve team was their inability to get more than one shot under the offensive boards; and because the Archers were practically stone cold at times, they found that the Redskins were building a sizable lead.

Although the score was tied at 12-12 at the end of the first period, the Redskins quickly jumped to a four-point lead and were never headed afterwards.

z z z

STEVE BURTON and Jim Saylor each sunk beautiful driving lay-ups, but the Archers couldn't come any closer than four points after the first quarter.

In a desperate attempt to close the gap in the final period, the Green went into an all-court press, and Carl Johnson made a beautiful defensive play when he leaped high to block a Redskin shot.

The officiating was nothing short of terrible, and when things began to get rough in the final quarter, Steve Burton had a large cut on his face.

Scoring:

Gardner	0	2	2
Hickman	3	1	7
Howe	2	0	4
Johnson	4	4	12

Reserves Lose To Tigers 45-39

The South Side Reserves dropped a 45-39 decision to Central, January 14, at the Coliseum. South started very slowly, and at one time trailed by 21 points.

Central had everything their way in the first quarter. The Archers were fortunate to get the ball past the 10-second line. Central dominated the boards, intercepted Archer passes, and stole the ball frequently. The Tiger fast break took its toll and Central emerged with a 15-7 lead.

The second quarter went much the same way, and the third quarter was worse. Central led 26-14 at the half and 38-17 at the end of the third quarter. Steve Banet's field goal and free throw were the only Archer tallies in the third quarter.

z z z

EVERYTHING went wild in the fourth quarter, starting when South had six men playing at the same time; someone had fouled up the substitution, and South was called for a technical foul.

Steve Burton, who was previously scoreless, sank a jump shot. Five seconds later he stole the ball and was fouled; he made both charity tosses. Seven seconds after that he again stole the ball and scored on a jumper.

South was fired up now, and things started to click. Gus Wade, John Somers, and Burton started to pull down rebounds; Central made mistakes and missed shots. The clock ran out with the Kellys only six points behind. They had scored 22 points in the last quarter to seven for Central.

The Archers ended up with 15 out of 40 field goal attempts for a 37.5 percentage. They dropped nine of 13 charity tosses for 69 per cent in that department.

Reserves Top Elmhurst, Muncie Five

By Chuck Weinraub

Improvement against stiff odds was the cry of the Archer reserves in two games last week end. The Archer sophomores and juniors took on an old foe, Muncie Burris, Friday night, January 23, and the newest opposition, the Elmhurst Trojans, Saturday, January 24, winning both contests.

With both games being away tests, the South squad was hard pressed in the scoring race, although never trailing in the Burris game. The final score of that contest was 34-28. In the Trojan meet Saturday night, the Archer netters had to come from behind in the third period to win by a 29-24 score.

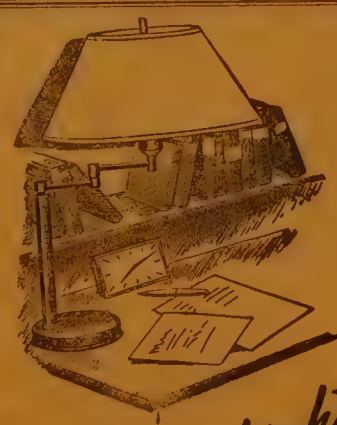
z z z

IN THE MUNCIE game, Coach Geyer started his sophomores: Acie Eldridge, Carl Johnson, Steve Burton, Bob Bolyard, and Steve Matthias. This group started the lead which was never deflated. The high point man for the game was Jim Saylors, with a total of seven points.

In the Elmhurst-South contest, Coach Geyer again started his sophomore five, who with a definite height disadvantage trailed at the quarter stop, 6-5. Although after a complete change of crew during the second period, the Archers were unable to gain and were still trailing at halftime, 14-10.

z z z

DURING THE SECOND half the Archer defense was unbeatable. Forging ahead after three minutes in the third period, this defense held the Elmhurst five to one field goal in the third and only two in the fourth periods, to go away winning, 29-24.



Bob Bolyard led in rebounding for the Kellys with a total of six, and Steve Burton led in scoring with 13 points. The reserve squad drew 18 fouls while Elmhurst took advantage for 12 points.

Archers Lose Hard-Fought Basketball Game To Shortridge

Bolyard Scores 31 As Kellys Drop 4th Game

South's First Loss On Their Home Floor Since 1956-57 Season

By Jim Carter

After playing mighty Indianapolis Shortridge to a draw in the first half of Saturday night's encounter, the South Side Archers lost momentum and dropped their fourth decision of the season, 62-51. The game was played before a packed house at South Side gym.

The Blue Devils of Shortridge, ranked third in the state by the polls of both the Associated Press and the United Press International, gave ample evidence in support of their high recommendation. The Satans of Coach Cleon Reynolds were not spectacular in their play, but their consistency, together with terrific shooting and an excellent defense, enabled them to outdistance the Green.

THE GAME WAS lost in the third quarter when the Kellys got off to a slow start, enabling the Satans to race to a nine-point lead. The Blue Devils hit an unbelievable eight of 11 during this stretch, which South failed to match.

Shortridge started to control the boards at the outset of the contest. The Satans sped to the fore, 5-0, and they remained in the lead most of the quarter. However, tremendous Tom Bolyard hit three straight baskets to put the home forces back into contention. Both teams showed good defenses, and the Archers soon began to grab their share of the rebounds. Bolyard hit again with two seconds remaining to make it 15-13 in favor of South at the quarter.

In the second stanza, Shortridge employed an all-court press, which the Archers soon solved with little trouble. The Blue Devils played a very fast game, and in pressing to combat this, several Archers ran into foul trouble. Coach Don Reichert had to lift Bill Meyer in spite of his good board work, and Mike Simmons soon picked up his third and fourth fouls.

Dave Roderick and Ted Lebrecht did very creditable jobs in the places of the starters, but Shortridge continued to roll up the score relentlessly. After the Naptown boys had led most of the quarter, Nick Demetre and Roderick hit in quick succession, and Lebrecht canned a fielder with 15 seconds left to knot the score at 31-all.

AFTER THE intermission, the Green returned to the floor cold. Only Bolyard could find the range, and the Satans ran to a nine-point lead midway in the quarter before the Kellys came to life. Dave Barrett began to hit after an ineffective first half on offense. A fast finish enabled South to draw to within six points at 48-42.

Then Shortridge closed the door. Suddenly changing from their fast break to a slow, deliberate offense, the Devils began to move away again. They continued to employ a continual all-court press, and soon the bulge was 10. The Archers had sufficient rebounding, and although they took what seemed to be myriad shots, they could not find the range.

Bolyard was South's only effective weapon, as he scored eight of the nine points in the quarter. Tom again narrowed the gap to six with a fielder at 1:55, and the Archer faithful saw hope. However, the Satans remained calm and came back to sew it up with a three-point play a few seconds later. They hit again at the gun to make the score 62-51, their widest margin.

BOLYARD LED THE Archers in rebounding as usual, but Bill Meyer, who fouled out in the fourth quarter, ever-improving Dave Roderick, and Dave Barrett also contributed some fine efforts.

South Side hit 22 of 61 attempts from the field for a .361 percentage, which is good enough to win most games. Nevertheless, Shortridge was hotter, as they hit 24 of 54 for a tremendous .444 average. Neither squad was outstanding from the charity stripe, as the Kellys canned seven of 12 for .583, and the visitors 14 of 21 for .667.

Bolyard was the only player in double figures for South, as he got 31 of the 51 points. In getting his 14 field goals, he took 33 shots. This was also over half of the squad's total of 61.

The loss, the Archers' first on their home floor since the 1956-57 season, ended a six-game winning streak. Their record now stands at 13-4, while Shortridge's is 14-1.

South's Rebels Strike Again! Crush North Side Redskins 55-To-44

S. O. S.

Schmitz On Sports

Those press ratings really have some authenticity! Shortridge's Satans showed enough class to live up to their lofty state ratings. They are surrently rated third; but by this time the 'Ridge should be the number two team in the state since number one East Chicago Washington fell to Gary Froebel and the Blue Devils tripped eighth-rated South Side.

At this late stage in the season the loss might demoralize the confident Kellys who were up for the BIG game and highly disappointed that they lost by 11. Mike Simmons and Bill Meyer, who never played a better game this season, felt the greatest brunt of letdown in that both were in serious foul trouble in the initial stanza.

Both played their hearts out in the first quarter and were the backbone of a great Archer defense that held the hot-shooting Blue Devils back. Their loss early in the contest dealt the Kellys a big blow. However, Dave Roderick and Teddy Lebrecht took in the slack for the reason of the first and second stanzas.

But inexperience caught the Archer seconds and Shortridge finally cracked the Kellys' faltering defense. Don Reichert should be extended all congratulations for giving Shortridge such a battle.

During last week's practice sessions, Reichert stressed defense. His work showed great results. It was the Archers' switching defensive patterns that kept the Kellys in contention in the game's earlier stages.

South Side's shooting from out was not as accurate as the Satans,' but the Kellys shut Shortridge's big boys out from close under in the initial half.

Billy "Bo" Crain certainly proved that he can be tough when the chips are down, but Tom "The Bomb" far outshone his Naptown rival.

Making no excuses for a loss to a team that certainly deserves its number three rating, this corner feels that had Meyer and Simmons seen more action in the contest the final verdict would have been by a narrower margin.

One new lad came off the Green and White bench last Saturday to attempt to thwart the Blue Devils' stall. This new face, Acie Eldridge, who made his second appearance of the season, displayed definite signs of future prospects. Acie is a fine investment for the upcoming tourneys if the Archers should face another stall-conscious squad like Shortridge. He could prove to be a definite asset.

Not only did the loss snap the Kellys' win skien at six games, but also brought an end to several other streaks. It halted the Green's win streak on their home floor at 14. The last previous loss in the South Side gym came on January 14, 1957, to Mishawaka, 54-51. It ended the Green and White's streak of consecutive regular season wins on county courts. They had won 28 straight on local courts during the regular season. It also marked the first that South has lost by more than five points since losing to South Bend Central's eventual State Champs in the '57 Semi-State.

The loss was the second that South received on a county court (including tourney play) in the last 44 games!

To offset their publicized loss to Shortridge the Archers dumped city foe North Side, 55-44, to extend their only existing streak, that being 26 consecutive wins over city competition.

In this one Tom Bolyard added one more record to his hilt when he sent home 34 points, eclipsing the one-season scoring mark held by Central's Johnny Flowers. Bolyard needed only 24 to set the mark.

Including the Shortridge game Tom now has 477 points for an amazing 28.1 average. Bolyard is just 46 shy of establishing a new Fort Wayne high school career mark currently held by Johnny Kelso. Kelso, incidentally, set his record in 3½ years of varsity competition. Bolyard is now finishing his third.

The win over North boosted the Kellys into a full game lead over second-place Central Catholic in the city chase. With a 4-0 record they stand aloft and threaten to capture their fourth straight city crown, third in a row undefeated.

For anyone who enjoyed that Shortridge game, don't fail to see the Kellys in action this Saturday. They face thrice-defeated Gary Froebel, the only team to down second-rated East Chicago Washington. Frobel has a six-man scoring punch and also stun their opponents with a devastating board control, led by Turner Tarver, a lanky lad, who could easily put on as good a show as did Billy "Bo" Crain.

Concerning the city race in which the battles for each position are torrid, North Side had better not count on finally emerging from the cellar. From all present indications and past performances against city foes the Cadets from Concordia looked like a sure bet to roll over dead before the 'Skins.

But the Cadets rose and smote a rugged Bluffton squad last Friday. Maybe new coach John Mader finally has his charges organized. An upset over North would be no shock to this corner.

A lot of talk arose as to East Chicago's power after a loss to 17th-ranked Froebel. Despite this loss the Senators are still tough and in my estimation the team to beat. Ask Hammond, one of the state's top ten. They felt the Senators rebound from defeat when East Chicago trounced them 73-44.

Freshmen Beat New Haven

Aided by high-scoring Ken Leaky and a definite height advantage, South Side's freshman basketball squad rolled to its second straight victory, downing New Haven by a 28-24 count before an Archer home crowd on January 29.

Defense was the strong point of both teams. South employed a switching man-to-man pattern, forcing the Bulldogs to the outside. Hoping to throw the Kelly machine off balance, the out-of-town lads used an all-court press. However, the Archers had no trouble getting the ball into the offensive court.

KEN LEAKY played fine ball for the Archers, gunning in 14 points. He sank eight of ten charity tosses and three long jump shots, none of which touched the rim. The 5-11 guard proved to be a good ball handler as South rise against the Bulldog press.

New Haven's Kummer and Grotrian almost upset the Kelly applecart. Kummer, younger brother of Bulldog varsity player Gary Kummer, tallied 10 points, swishing two 30-foot set shots on the way to this total. Grotrian connected for nine points in the losing cause.

South's rebounding strength offset the sharp sniping of youthful Bill Ewing's quintet. The former North Side track star's boys could not quite cope with their taller hosts, but did give them a good battle. The Kelly front line of Robinson, Meek, and Platupe pulled down more than their share of the rebounds to lead the Green under the boards.

At first New Haven jumped out to an 8-6 lead. South's Leaky saw almost single-handedly that this lead would melt away completely before halftime. In the second stanza he sank 10 of his team's 12 points to give the Archers an 18-14 lead.

THE SECOND 12 minutes proved to be a defensive battle. It saw the Bulldogs fall farther behind in the first nine and one-half minutes and then come rushing back in the last two and a half.

South withstood the charge to chalk up victory number 7. The Green has lost five. Four games remain on their 1958-59 schedule.

Archers Score 26th Triumph Over City Foes

Tom Bolyard Scores 34; Kellys Hit 22 Out Of 53 For .415 Shooting Mark

The South Side Archers, behind the history-making performance of Tom Bolyard, strung their line of consecutive City Series victories to 26 last Friday as they ripped their rival, the Redskins of North Side, 55-44.

Bolyard, who is now well on his way to becoming the author of many chapters of Fort Wayne record books, came through with a tremendous 34-point effort, setting an all-time season scoring mark for a local ball player.

The contest started with Bolyard needing 23 to tie the mark set by John Flowers of Central. He quickly narrowed that down to 12 in the first quarter alone. The Archers as a team meanwhile were looking crisp at times while sluggish at others. On the other hand, the Redskins appeared to be way up and, until Coach Don Reichert called time out with 3:41 to go, the Red and White were commanding the action.

THE SECOND quarter continued with the tension rising on every shot taken by the 6-4 senior. The gun sounded at half-time seeing him four short of the record.

The big one came at 3:38 of the third period. It was a one-handed jump shot taken along the end line from 12 to 15 feet away.

In the final stanza he continued to scorch North's nets by putting nine more points in the poke.

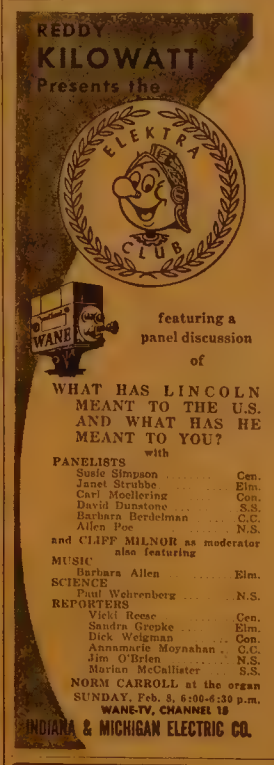
THE GAME WAS a hard-fought contest throughout, with play becoming ragged at times. Matters came to a head in the fourth quarter when North's Mike Dafforn, who had been giving out his share of lumps all night, tackled Dave Barrett in the process of recovering a loose ball. This apparently was the straw that broke the camel's back and Dafforn came up swinging. The officials could do nothing but banish both players from the game, even though Barrett was not responsible, for they had not seen the entire happening.



Archer defense was at its best as was exhibited in the last quarter when the Green bottled up the Red so tightly that they could not even get a shot off. Realizing this, North started to clutch and the Archers just kept on boring in, destroying the Redskins offensive machine completely.

The Reichert crew was commendable from the floor, converting on 22 out of 52 for a .415 shooting percentage. Their free throwing wasn't quite up to par as they cashed in on only nine for 16 from the charity stripe.

Bolyard headed the rebounding column gathering in 12 with Nick Demetre, following closely, grabbing nine.

Scoring:

Player	G	F	T
Bolyard	13	8	34
Simmons	1	0	2
Barrett	4	0	8
Roderick	1	0	2

Senior Mike Simmons Becomes Playmaking Spark For Archers

By Chuck Weinraub

Aggressiveness, determination, and hard work is what makes a good basketball player a better one; and out of this aggressiveness, determination, and hard work comes Mike Simmons, the playmaking spark of the Archer netters.

Mike, standing 5-11, and weighing 165 pounds, has come up throughout the '58-'59 season to prove that his fight is necessary to the Archer cause. This is easily shown by his outstanding effort in the past Central-South game at the Coliseum.

Mike Simmons

"The Central game was my greatest personal thrill," says Mike. He was able to lead his team throughout crucial periods in gaining 14 points.

During his junior high days, Mike started on the Harrison Hill team. Upon coming to South, he was used periodically in his freshman and sophomore years; but during his junior year at South, Mike gained much experience on the reserve and varsity squads. Now as a senior, Mike has attained the goal of being a starter for the varsity.

The co-captain of the squad would like to go to either Yale or DePauw upon graduating. As to further athletic competition, he feels that in college it will probably be limited to intramurals. During the summer Mike will get in as much basketball as possible.

Mike's goal for this season is to see his team go down to Butler Fieldhouse. He feels that this year's team does not have as much manpower as last year's, but thinks that with more and more team play, the Archer squad should be unbeatable in this area.

Mike expects Muncie Central and East Chicago Washington to advance to Indianapolis, and hopes South survives from its Semi-State. He feels that he is playing with one of the greatest baseketball players to come from Indiana, and is counting on him to help the team through the tough spots.

"Coach Reichert has the knack for teaching excellent basketball," are Mike's words in praise of his fine coach.

Archer fans are hoping to see more of Mike's spirited play in better and stiffer competition as the season wears on.

Track Plans Set For Spring

Plans for the 1959 South Side track season were laid out by new head coach, Mr. Bob Gernand. He called two meetings last week, the first for boys that ran track last season and the second for newcomers to the sport. Track members also on the basketball teams will start practice at the end of the basketball season. A freshman meeting will be called in the future.

With a loss of Room 24, the exercise room; Room 114, for hurdles; and also the use of the ramps, Mr. Gernand will lead his first group around the top of the gym for warm-up, outside, and also in the handball court. About March 1, the track men will be able to use the new girls' gym. Later in the season the boys will be outside for practice.

National Honor Society Claims 54 Seniors

Kellys Tagged In Classrooms On February 5

Character, Leadership, Scholarship, Service Are Judged Qualities

Wednesday, February 5, climaxed an anxious wait for many seniors. Fifty-four seniors were tagged for National Honor Society that day.

Character, leadership, scholarship, and service are the criteria for the judging of candidates for National Honor Society.

To be eligible for the honor a student must, first of all, be in the upper third of his class. A list of those eligible is sent to all teachers, who are requested to submit recommendations for those they believe should be in the Society and non-recommendations for any they don't think should be members.

These recommendations are sent to a committee of teachers which makes the final choice. Fifteen per cent of the class may be elected.

R. NELSON SNIDER, principal, stated that up to the time that National Honor Society was begun, recognition had only been given to outstanding students in athletics and scholarship.

It was the opinion of many people that the characteristics of leadership, service, and good character, as well as scholarship, in a student should

Senior Play Tryouts To Be February 16-20

"The Man Who Came to Dinner," considered to be the greatest theatrical comedy of this era by many persons, will be presented this year.

With nine female and 17 male parts, the entire play includes 26 available speaking parts.

The female parts range in age from 15 to 50 years, and in type from straight roles to the zaniest in theatrical literature, including an actress who is a take-off on Gertrude Lawrence. A number of girls will also get walk-on parts as singers.

The male parts consist of 10 two-or-three-line bits for the ones who don't want to tackle a big part, and the major roles. "The man" himself was patterned after Alexander Woolcott, an author, world-famous wit, and story-teller; a comedy character of the show, after Groucho Marx. Valentine's Day Brings Cupid; Warning Issued To Kelly Males

With Valentine's Day coming up, I would like to issue a warning to all Kelly males to be on the lookout for a certain shady character who goes by the name of Cupid. Be careful! This fiend has been accused of such inexcusable crimes as shooting innocent persons with love-tipped arrows and promoting love in center hall. He is armed and is to be considered dangerous.

Well, it looks as if some people just never learn. Here come the Bolyard brothers, Tom and Bob, looking cheery and happy to be alive. Little do they know that Cupid and love are just around the corner. Cackle, cackle. Run fellas!! Oh well, all is not lost, for they fall right into the arms of Kay Augspurger and Sheri DeYoung.—Sigh

Cupid is having himself a ball while chasing Mike Collins and Dan Bill, but it looks as if the boys are going to win this one. They just ran into the open elevator shoft. Too bad! They forgot to wait for the elevator though. Splat! Never worry, never fear, here come a few members of the Ladies' Aid Society, namely Carolyn DeVore and Camille Luther.

z z z

ZOOM! THERE GOES that Cupid again. Wonder what he's up to now? Why, isn't that Jeff George and Larry Miller trying to evade Cupid? Twang. Well, at any rate, Diana Meyers and Valerie Callahan can always administer the smelling salts.

Gordy Meyers thinks he's wise to this Cupid bit, and tries to pass himself off as Zorro, but Stupid Cupid isn't that stupid, and soon Gordy is seeing little birdies, while Barb Andrews tries to revive the poor boy.

Sput, sput, ker-plooey!! It seems that Cupid has just borrowed Dave Bosselman's hopped-up, double-engine tricycle, and has left Dave with Judy Robinson at Miller's eating their strawberry-ripple ice cream cones served by those absolutely fantabulous soda-jerks, Mimi Hinman and Jim Spuller (Ball State).

z z z

REALLY KEYED-UP by this time, Stupid Cupid spots none other than Chris Parrott, Nick Roembke, and Murray Munger trying to scramble up the columns in an attempt to escape their fate. Cupid, however, not to be out-done, loads his double-barreled shotgun, and is about to fire when he spots Evie North, Carolyn Sievers, and Karen Curley running up to him.

The girls ask him to have mercy on the boys, and shortens their sentence to three dates at Cardones, and exclusive dating rights for two whole frantic months. Cool man, nothing but cool.

Cupid, his double-barreled cross-bow in hand, spots Nick Demetre and Fred VanFossen trying to sneak by under the camouflage of the shrubbery, but it is all in vain, for Cupid just fired. It's a hit as Marty Clark and Gretch Meister can tell you.

z z z

MAKING LIKE a deep-sea diver, Jack Winder thinks he will foil the master-mind by ducking down one of the drains in center hall, but finds that he is just a teensy bit too big, despite the combined efforts of Sally Dill and Dick Johnson on the plumber's plunger. Finally giving up on going down, he decides that he'd better come back up, but finds he is stuck. He finally got himself out, though looking a bit pinched and haggard, but all in one piece, just the same. Diane Irmscher thinks it's immensely funny though, and all she can do is giggle.

Susie Knight and Gary McClure (Concordin) go walking by as if in a dream. There's no problem there.

Stupid Cupid is going absolutely insane while chasing Dick McGaw down the ramps, but Dick isn't having fun; he's just plain scared! In the next moment, he rushes into a door that he could have sworn read: Girls' Locker Room.

Following a series of feminine shrieks, fainting fits, and swoons, he rushes back out again, only to be mowed down by Cupid's rapid-fire arrow machine gun. Suffering from shock and arrow wounds, Beth Curley calls the stretcher-bearers to come and pick up the remains of the poor afflicted lover.

z z z

IN CAHOOTS with Stupid Cupid, Sue Hoard helps him set up his long-range arrow rocket. Inscribed on the nose cone is the name of Harry Trosin. (Wonder who he could be?) Nearing the count-down, Sue notices that Toni Halley and Rick Busch are messing around the rocket, apparently tinkering with the apparatus.

Stupid Cupid warns them away, and watches the blast-off with glee. Cupid, however, is soon to be notified by the on-the-spot reporters, Bill Spindler and Janet Lawry, that Chuck Putt and Judy Wilburn, Max Lane and Cindy Hart, and Diane Kimble and Ron Johnson are all inside, playing a made little game of bridge. The national government was immediately notified, and Cupid's license was suspended for a year, and he had a fine of $50,000 to pay.

This is all slightly exaggerated, but it all goes to prove that love is blind, Stupid Cupid really is stupid, and this little author had better shut her little mouth before she gets into any more trouble. This is possible? Eh bien, au revoir mes amies, a demain.

Archers Express Views Concerning Going Dutch Dating

What do you think of going dutch? This is a question which comes up in many teenage discussions. Below some Archers express their opinions concerning this subject.

Sharon Hubbell: Not unless you are going together and understand each other's financial situation.

Maria Hilsmier: I think it's occasionally a very good idea especially if you're dating steadily.

Barbara Brown: I think it is all right only if the couples are going steady; but don't make a habit of it.

Carolyn King: It's O.K. once in a while if you are going steady—or he's broke at the time!

Susie Hoard: It's a good way, if it is done tactfully, to help a poor boy out. I think many boys spend way too much money on us. Anyway, money isn't everything.

Sandy Grodrian: Sometimes, yes. Pity the poor boy. Girls don't need to be expensive anyway and like Susie said, "Money isn't everything."

Linda Benton: It is fine once in a while, but it can get to be habit forming.

Lonnie Kimble: I very rarely do because I'm always broke. I think dutch dating is all right for a sports activity, like bowling or golf, but not for a show or a dance. There should be a positive understanding between the boy and girl on dutch dating before it is suggested, because many boys resent it.

Linda Tobey: I think it's a good idea once in a while if you are going steady. Otherwise the guy should be able to afford it. If he can't he shouldn't have asked the girl out in the first place.

John Hendricksen: Dutch dating is good and fun sometimes. It can really be fun if it isn't done often. Some activities are O.K. for dutch dating, but shows and dances the boy should pay for. If you are good friends and are just going out to have fun it is all right.

Several Theories On Valentine's Day; None Proved Valid

Why do you send Valentines? Why do all you otherwise stuffy and reserved males blossom forth and spend your money on pieces of pretty colored paper with sentimental verses, to send to that special she? Where did this annual February 14 custom begin? Why it is called St. Valentine's Day?

There are several theories on the origin of the day as we know it now, but none can be proved perfectly valid. One of the possibilities is that two early Christian martrys named Valentine, one a priest from Rome, the other a Bishop of Interamna, were declared saints after their deaths in the third century.

The fourteenth of February was dedicated to them as the day when they should be remembered—hence called St. Valentine's Day.

Our custom, on the other hand, may have evolved from the Roman feast of Lupercalia. It was the custom then for all the eligible maidens to place their names in a box, from which the young hopefuls of the village, on February 14, would withdraw a name—his partner for the next year.

With the advent of Christianity, the clergy regarded this with suspicion, as well they might, and began to substitute the young misses' names for those of saints,' the idea being that the saint should be imitated throughout the coming year.

The beginning of this explanation sounds possible, but exactly how, when, or why we changed partially back to the same idea is not known, and can only be guessed by the alert minded.

Chaucer once wrote:

"For this was Seynt Valentyne's day.
When every foul cometh ther to choose his mate."

This idea of February 14 being the day birds choose their mates may well be reflected in the fact that this same day humans show their affection for one another.

People used to exchange gifts; later only the youths gave to the girls of their choice; finally valentines were started. When Post Offices were established and postal rates lowered, there was a tremendous increase in mail during February. In the early 1900's, 1,250,000 valentines passed through Philadelphia's Post Office and another 750,000 had to be rejected as "not fit to be carried through the mail."

When you buy your valentines this year, remember with nostalgia that the very first ones cost only one cent each and reflect upon all the pennies that you spend.

Posy's Pointers

By Posy Wellemann

Dear Posy,

I am a lonely boy and am in need of a lonely girl. The girl I am looking for would have to be of good moral character. I am a Freshman A, and it really depresses me to see the way the senior girls carry on at Miller's; smoking, swearing, and all that rot. Tell me, are there any nice girls left? Please help me find one. Thank you.

Bob B.

Dear Bob,

Sure, there are plenty of the kind of girls that you are looking for if you try to find them as much as you seem to be trying to find fault in the seniors. I'm not siding with the senior girls, and I don't believe in smoking myself, but they've got a right to do what they want as much as anyone else. You'll find out in life that if you look hard enough you'll find "something" wrong in everything. Why not spend your time looking for the good things in people? I'm sure you'll be a lot happier and will soon find the girl you're looking for.

Dear Posy,

Would you please give me a few tips on how to flirt with a boy without feeling silly? I have tried to drop a few hints that I would like to have a date with him, but I feel I'm being too obvious and forward. Would you please help me?

Puzzled

Dear Puzzled,

How would I know, I'm shy! . . . Seriously though, just be yourself and be friendly. Get in a conversation you know he's interested in. Also, (this is confidential to the girls) try flattering him. Tell him you like his sweater, car, or you think he's terribly smart, etc. I've never seen a boy that doesn't eat up compliments. I hope it works!

P.S.—If anyone else has any flirting techniques for "Puzzled," please send them in.

Dear Posy,

Please answer this in a hurry! Today I found a strange note in my locker. It was signed K.H. and said for me to meet this person in the right corner of center hall (front) next Tuesday, fifth period. The question is . . . should I go?

"Hustle"

Dear Hustle,

Why not? You can always run if things look bad!

Dear Posy,

My problem is a boy called "Cool Buhl." He can't seem to get it through his thick head that I don't want to date him. He follows me around and every time I even look at another boy he comes running. How can I get rid of this jerk?

"In Need of a Change"

Dear Needy,

He doesn't seem to be the kind that takes a hint so come right out and tell him to leave you alone. Make sure he understands, too!

Dear Posy,

My steady is on the basketball team. Whenever he loses a game he calls up very depressed! Sometimes he even breaks a date. What can I do?

A.F.

Dear A.F.,

He seems to be acting very childish about losing a game, and doesn't seem to be a very good sport. Do any of his close friends play on the team? If they do, ask one of them to talk to him about it. He'd better grow up and learn how to lose gracefully as well as win.

Dear Posy,

My last name is Zuriviblis. Nobody knows how to spell or pronounce it. Is there anything I can do? When I meet boys it brings complications . . . they can't find my telephone number in the book.

"Z"

Dear "Z,"

Why don't we start a club? Don't feel bad, I couldn't even spell my own last name until about fifth grade. I wish I had an answer!

Confidential:

Dear Ann,

You have my sympathy! Keep your chin up, and good luck.

Kellys Give Their Valentine Wishes

Of course everyone knows that February 14 is Valentine's Day. But when it comes to knowing what one wants for Valentine's, that's a slightly different matter. After much mooning on the girl's part and much deliberate thinking on the boy's, several Archers finally gave their heartfelt longings and desires. The question was "What do you want the most for Valentine's Day?"

Ron Carlo: A blue-eyed little space girl with a blond pony tail.

Carole Fischer: A certain outcast from New Haven.

Steve Leitz: Me.

Mary Jane Hake: Bob Lee, and a big box of chocolates.

Steve Cook: Ken Robinson to do my English.

Kay Falb: Ricky Nelson.

Wendell Eicher: Wouldn't you like to know? (Some people would!)

Ron Schwartz: My sixteenth birthday, I guess.

Sharon Eitman: An Easter egg.

Brenda Dull: A yum-yum.

Susie Mayer: Jack Sanderson.

Bill Rastetter: A five-pound box of chocolates and a valentine.

Larry Lee: A sports article in the Times that someone did not cut!

Judie Welty: A certain blond haired, blue eyed Senior boy.

Linda Winklemann: Mike Havert.

Jim Ahlersmeyer: Rony Zigler to do all my physics.

Rony Zigler: Jim Ahlersmeyer to do all my physics.

Denny Cook: A big kiss from a certain girl named Connie.

Nancy DeBrular: A great big box of candy. Hint, hint, hint!

Alice Weddle: Bobby Buckles.

Judy Riping: Blue eyed guy in a tan Cadillac convertible.

Abe Lincoln Is Symbol Of Man's Determination

Abraham Lincoln. Why does this one man, above millions of others of history, live today in the hearts of the masses just as though he walked among us? Why is he so long remembered and held in such great esteem?

Not because his profile is on our common penny, no, not because his picture is on the five dollar bill. He means more than that. He's a symbol. A symbol of man's determination, of man's honor; yes, even a symbol of man's faith.

As we celebrate the 150th anniversary of Abraham Lincoln's birthday, it is well that we look back at him as a man.

Many of Lincoln's ideals and characteristics could well be a part of every teenager and every adult of today. How many of us have Lincoln's determination? Who ever thought that a poor backwoodsman from Illinois would some day occupy the White House and lead our country through one of the most trying times of history?

Lincoln knew God had some plan for him, and he was determined to follow that plan. With that purpose in mind, he labored constantly, ever searching for knowledge and experience, even if it included splitting rails.

But Lincoln wasn't above heartbreak and tragedy. When his sweetheart, Ann Rutledge, died, Abe saw no reason to live and was ready to abandon his desires. Only a man like Lincoln could decide for himself not to die within, but to live and follow his star no matter through what thorns and troubles it may lead. How many of us could do that?

In the White House, Lincoln was assailed from all sides by political and personal opponents. Great decisions faced him every day. It would have been easier and more favorable for him to foresake his principles and do as these men requested.

Abandon his honor? Not Abraham Lincoln. He stood by his ideals through thick and thin, often a man against a multitude. Despised by many, Lincoln was determined to maintain one definite thing: the Union.

In his famous Gettysburg Address, Lincoln honored the victims of that fateful battle saying that they gave "their last full measure of devotion"; but how completely Lincoln himself gave his "last full measure." He did everything in his power to preserve the Union, and how was he repaid? By a lashing bullet in the dark during one of his seldom moments of relaxation.

Even though criticized and abused, Lincoln never lost faith in the good of man. He knew that eventually this good would shine through the darkness, bringing beams of hope to the people he loved. As the South bombarded Union forts and slowly edged their way toward Washington, Abe still refused to recognize it as an alien government, he thought of it only as one in rebellion. The Union was preserved, partly through the faith and determination of one man.

Lincoln was only human; he had weaknesses and made mistakes just like everyone else. He was often too trusting, thinking that everyone's honor was just as high as his own. He refused bodyguards even when he knew his assassination was being plotted. He had faith in everyone.

Determination, honor, and faith. How our hurried world of today needs more of these things. With a man like Lincoln to follow we ought to be able to attain these goals, for now "he belongs to the ages" to be remembered for years to come.

Our thanks goes to the policeman who has directed traffic during this miserable weather..

Thanks to the workmen who worked extra hard to finish our new cafeteria for this semester.

Get your studying done early, and then you'll have time to do other important things.

Homeroom Highlights

Marijo Edwards, Editor

The teacher's desk and bookcase in Homeroom 150 have been getting confused. They seem to get turned around in the morning with no apparent reason . . . "Why won't you buy the Times?" is a question Bonnie Brenn keeps asking. Why don't you surprise her and say yes? . . . Ron Buesking spends his spare time working at Maloley's Supermarket . . . Bonnie Brenn busily chases her sisters around to keep them from burning down the house . . . Caroline Baughman's father is going to Iceland.—Sharon Bricker, reporter

Homeroom 50 is a musical class. Ronnie King plays the drums in a dance band called the "Verves." They recently cut an LP record album down at WOWO studio . . . Pete Moore is in a newly organized band called "The Echoes." Pete plays the guitar. Pete is also in charge of the record hops in Room 114 here at South . . . A new student recently joined our homeroom. His name is Barry McMillan. Barry came from Culver Military Academy.—Marilyn Miner, reporter

Why is English important? In what way does history help you throughout your life? Is mathematics really essential? These questions and many others are going to be answered in weekly discussion periods. Every Wednesday, one person will try to explain to the remaining members of Homeroom 90 why a certain course is required of high school students. Sandy Grodrian will give her opinion on English, and Karen Good will give her speech on social studies next Wednesday.—Karen Good, reporter

z z z

In Homeroom 152 we are loyal "Maverick" fans; we have gone so far as to post his picture on the bulletin board . . . Richard Rothberg's father had the impudence to call Richard "Dickie" in front of 800 people at the dedication of the new building . . . Sue Sappenfield tells us when driving on ice you should always put the car in "park" to slow it down. I'm sure you'd slow it down, too . . . "Dickie" Rothberg and Joyce Rondot gave very interesting ideas about college life during our discussion period Wednesday.—Marsha Rolf, reporter

The crisp air and the slick coating of ice seem to have lured many members of Homeroom 144 to try their skill at ice-skating . . . Among these winter-sport enthusiasts are Bonnie Nahrwold, Karen Myers, Pat Motter, Ward Miller, and Jim Mills (who is quite willing to vouch for the quality of the ice found on the tennis courts at Weisser Park!) . . . Using his ice-skating ability to another advantage is Neil Mieras, a member of the Blue Blades, which is an ice hockey team in the McMillen Park League . . . Appearing on Dance Date has been occupying the time of Joe Kraick, while John Musser has been busily testing his new camera with interesting subjects (!).—Carol Miller, reporter

Homeroom 56 welcomes four students from Mr. Furst's dissolved homeroom. They are Selim Dere, Phil Gallmier, James Steed, and Gus Wade . . . Don Harman, who was a member of our homeroom, left to serve six-month tour of duty with the United States Army . . . Since this is basketball season, I think we should recognize the people in our homeroom who help make it a success. We have two tall centers, Dave Barrett and Gus Wade. We have two band members, Nancy Baltes and Bruce Berlein. Merle Baldwin is cheerleader and Tomma Arnold is a majorette. The rest of us are "faithful fans."—Marjorie Bauer, reporter

Six Kelly Seniors Commended By National Merit Scholarships

These Archers Chosen As Indiana Runner-Ups In Testing Competition

Thomas Graham, Hoy McConnell, Susan Kuroski, Eugene Kraus, William Sutter, and Stephen Komito are the six Archer seniors who have been commended by the National Merit Scholarship Corporation as the Indiana runner-up in the 1958-59 Merit Scholarship competition.

Mr. John M. Stalnaker, president of NMSC, commented on the 10,000 students who received the commendation rank by saying; "While the students receiving this commendation did not quite reach the finals of the 1958-59 Merit Scholarship competition, each of them has demonstrated highly superior ability and outstanding promise to benefit from college training."

THIS COMPETITION program is open to all high school seniors in the U.S. and its possessions. Over 478,000 students in 14,600 schools entered the 1958-59 competition, which began with the qualifying test on April 29, 1958. Another group of 10,000 students were chosen in October, and from these, the finalists from this group will be announced about May 1. The students receiving Certificates of Commendation are the next highest scorers, after the finalists, in each state.

The NMSC was established in 1955 through grants of $20.5 million from the Ford Foundation and the Carnegie Corporation of New York. About 75 companies direct their scholarship funds through the Merit Program. A total of $12 million in scholarship funds has been committed in the past three annual programs.

STUDY! STUDY!—Runner-ups in the 1958-59 National Merit Scholarship examinations laboriously concentrate on the subjects at hand. Mrs. Roy Stuart Names Helpers

Mrs. Roy Stuart, study hall teacher, has many doing service for her in the study hall. The main purpose of having the study hall is to keep a quiet place for the students to study and to take attendance for the whole school, by periods, all day.

Sylvia Ehrman and Julie Dedman, at the beginning of the first period, go to every room gathering the teachers' homeroom absent lists. Then they go back to the study hall and make up the day sheet.

Every student who is on the homeroom absent list is alphabetized and added to this sheet. This must be done quickly.

It usually takes them about 15 minutes to finish. By this time, Julie Favorite and Diane Reiff, who have been taking attendance in the study hall, are ready to record their absences on the sheet. They must check all "outs," library tickets, gym days, driving schedule, music, band, and dispensary.

Judy Bastian, Linda Baughman, and Linda Wightman take the study attendance the same as usual for the second period. Study hall absence is recorded on the sheets by periods with an S or if assigned to the cafeteria with a C. All other classes are recorded with a straight mark. This makes it possible for Mrs. Stuart to know exactly what the student is missing.

Attendance in the study hall is taken by Sue Seibel, Fran Whitbread, and Judy Weber during the third period. Barbara Lewandowski works in the cafeteria helping Mrs. Arnold during this period.

Sixth period service workers are Barbara Bailey and Janice Favorite. Margaret Tsuleff checks the attendance files.

Susie Starr and Susan Kuroski gather the teachers' all-day absence slips at the beginning of the seventh period. Then they go back to the study hall and record the absence by the periods. This takes most of the period. During this period, Sharon Hubbell and Heidy Hess are taking study attendance.

Tom Glass is the door guard. His job includes stamping Mrs. Stuart's admit slips and running emergency errands.

Projectionists Named

The operators of the movie projectors this semester are Robert Lerch, Dick Camp, Herschel Case, T. Watson, Jerry Clayton, Rex Patterson, Nick Miller, Paul Frechill, Mike Hogg, Maurine Marquart, Jack Meese, John Byer, Max Lane, Barb Dennis, Nadine Wilson, Don Disher, Betty Pherson, and David Katzenmaier.

Bruce Winn is the equipment manager and Claudia Bradley is the student secretary.

Each member will receive a pin after 40 hours and two semesters of work.

KYC's Hear Speech On Early Ft. Wayne

"Fort Wayne is one of the most historic spots in the nation," stated Mr. Jack Weicker in an address to the Know Your City Club at the February meeting.

Mr. Weicker, who wrote a thesis in 1950 about Fort Wayne industry before 1850, talked about early Fort Wayne.

Mr. Weicker told about the first fort in the three-rivers area, which was built by the French in 1719 near the present site of Fort Wayne State School. The English took over the fort in 1763 after the French and Indian War. A big Indian attack in 1763 wiped out almost the entire settlement and for 30 years Fort Wayne was a wild area.

In 1793 the American government sent Anthony Wayne to settle the Indian trouble. General Wayne came to Fort Wayne in 1794 and built a fort. When one of his men suggested the garrison be named after him, General Wayne did not decline the honor.

The first records of any Fort Wayne industry that Mr. Weicker could find were those concerning a Frenchman named Bouraie. He was commissioned by the government to deliver loaves of bread to the fort in 1814.

Benjamin Archer built a brick factory in 1824. Later Samuel Hanna built Fort Wayne's first gristmill. In 1833 the Fort Wayne Sentinel was published. By 1837 Fort Wayne had six lawyers, eight doctors, 14 drygoods stores, 12 taverns, six preachers, one banking house, three painters, two churches, and one print shop.

Mr. Weicker, in concluding his talk, said that he hoped his audience had learned more about Fort Wayne and invited anyone interest in Fort Wayne history to join Know Your City Club.

Student Teachers Come To South Side

Miss Mary Giles

Miss Marene Newton

Mrs. Delmar Arnold

Three student teachers, Miss Marlene Newton, and Miss Mary Giles are studying at South Side in the Business and English Departments, resspectively. Miss Newton is teaching with Mr. Ernest Walker and Miss Giles is teaching with Miss Lucy Osborne. In addition to these, Mrs. Delmar Arnold is helping Mrs. Roy Stuart with the overflow of study hall students.

Miss Newton is a senior at Indiana State Teachers College in Terre Haute, Ind. She has been here one week and will stay for a total of eight weeks. After teaching marketing with Mr. Walker, she will teach Typing 2 with Miss Nell Covalt, Shorthand 2 with Mr. Earl Murch, and Bookkeeping 1 with Mr. Hanley Post.

When asked about her first impression of South Side, she said, "I think I was especially impressed with the largeness of the school." She went on to say that the minute she walked in she noticed how well the school was organized in spite of its size.

z z z

MISS NEWTON was very much surprised at how well-behaved and polite the students are. "There doesn't seem to be much of a discipline problem as I expected," she said. She mentioned that she hadn't come in contact with too many students as yet, but that she was impressed with the ones she had met.

Miss Newton thoroughly enjoys teenagers, and claims this is one of the reasons she decided to teach high school business courses. She liked commercial subjects in high school and thought that even if she didn't teach, or if she doesn't like teaching, she could fall back on her business training in getting a job.

Water-skiing is a favorite pastime of Miss Newton's, and she enjoys all sports and also enjoys music and reading.

Miss Newton's home town is Terre Haute, Ind. She attended St. Bernice High School.

After her stay at South Side, she will return to college to finish the term and graduate in June. After graduation she will teach, but doesn't know where her position will be.

The only comment she had on Fort Wayne was, "Oh, it's so cold; I certainly do notice the bad weather."

z z z

MISS GILES IS a senior at Ball State Teachers College. She has been here since December 15 and will be here until February 20.

Her first impression of South Side was that of friendliness. Three people stopped her on the first day to direct her. She added that she must have looked like she was lost.

In her opinion the students are very co-operative and respectful for the most part. The pride in South Side that the students and teachers possess is one of the things Miss Giles likes most about the school.

"The intelligence and good judgment of teenagers is somewhat under-rated due to the fact that they are classified so generally," said Miss Giles when asked about her opinion of teenagers as a whole.

Miss Giles claims that she decided to teach English since it had been her favorite subject in high school and college. She feels that there is "something for everyone" in literature.

She said she is enjoying her experience of teaching in as large and progressive a school as South Side.

Miss Giles' home town is Muncie, Ind., and she graduated from Muncie Central High School in 1954.

After her student teaching she will go back to college to finish the semester and graduate in June with an A.B. in Language Arts. She plans to teach next fall but isn't sure where her position will be.

z z z

MRS. ARNOLD, supervisor of the cafeteria study hall, is here for the spring semester. She does the same things that Mrs. Stuart does, except for taking care of attendance records.

Mrs. Arnold said that her first impression of South Side was excellent. She thinks it is a large and very well organized high school. "South Side has a very studious group of students with lots of ambition," said Mrs. Arnold. Her opinion of teenagers as a whole is that they are well behaved, kind, and ambitious.

She is now attending Indiana University evening classes, and before that she went to the University of Cincinnati.

Her family consists of three children, a daughter Brenda, who is a sophomore here at South Side, and two smaller children who attend South Calhoun Elementary School.

Business Pupils To Visit NOMA

Three South Side students, Sharon Schlamersdorf, Richard Baxter, and Ron Kolkman have been selected to attend the next two meetings of the Junior National Office Management Association.

To help those outstanding business students who have potential business leadership is the main goal of the NOMA Club.

Each of the city high schools select those outstanding students who have potential business leadership abilities, and who are likely to enter the business field either upon graduation from high school or college.

Three students from each high school are selected to attend two successive meetings in a session. This permits a maximum of twelve students to be selected from each high school.

The composite group of students for each session will meet once a month from 4 p.m. to 5:30 p.m. at the offices of the sponsoring companies.

During each series, the three students from each high school will participate in an informal panel discussion based on eight topics which will be of help to business students who will eventually enter the business field.

NOMA started their schedule of meetings last October. The schedule is divided into four sessions, each consisting of two meetings. The next meeting, which will be on February 16, will have as their host the General Telephone Company.

The panel will consist of William Dyk from Reynolds and Reynolds Company; H. O. Luepke from General Telephone Company of Indiana; Robert Kearney from Peter Eckrich and Sons; and Dale Houts from Phelps Dodge Copper Produucts Corp. The topics to be discussed are "Planning an Office Career," "How to Apply for a Job," and "Attributes of a Good Employee and Employer."

Those who have turned in these items are Susan Kuroski, Mr. Storey, Howard Koal, Mike Lehman, Sharon Schlamersdorf, Nancy Hickman, Fred Von Gunten, Miss E. USA To Install Officers, Has Valentine Party

Installation of officers and a Valentine party will be the highlights of the USA meeting today. The new officers are Carol Lewis, president; Emily Taylor, vice-president; and Barbara Uhl, secretary.

The party mentioned will consist of games planned by the officers.

Wranglers Name Award Winners

A one-act play workshop will comprise the program of Wranglers February 16 at 3:30 p.m. in the Greeley Room. Among those who will give reports on one-act plays are Geri Geller, Diane Mertens, Judy Thompson, Sara Lou Miller, and Ann Kierns.

The business meeting will include announcements on approaching speech meets. March 1 Wranglers will hold its own humorous declamation contest.

March 5 is the date for the sectional speech meet at North Side High School. The three top winners in each division will compete in the regional speech meet April 4. The state finals will be held April 25 at Indianapolis. This contest might be compared to a basketball tournament with the winners advancing to state finals.

Peru High School, Peru, Ind., will be the scene of a speech meet on March 14. The final meet of the year will take place at Howe Military School on April 25. All those interested in attending any of these speech meets should sign up in Mr. Robert Storey's room, 190.

Awards to those who had earned them were presented at the February 2 meeting. Those receiving pins included Janice Leist, Janis Mitchell, Carolyn Dinius, Joyce Brittenham, Sara Lou Miller, Dick Rothberg, and Steve Tracey. Pins are awarded when members have earned 400 points, 150 of which must be speech points.

When 800 points have been earned, including at least 400 speech points, guards are awarded. Janice Leist, Sharon Hubbell, and Kay Kreachbaum received guards.

A special trophy was presented to Patti Arnold, past president and now secretary of the club, for distinguished service "that points could never express."

Patti awarded Janice Leist, new president, the president's gavel.

New officers this semester include Janice Leist, president; Sharon Hubbell, vice-president; Patti Arnold, secretary; Nancy Bailey, treasurer; Kay Kreachbaum and Steve Tracey, co-program chairmen; Geri Geller, point recorder; and Joyce Brittenham and Janet Terry, co-publicity chairmen.

Pictures To Be Taken

Freshman B pictures and retakes of underclass pictures are to be taken on February 19.

Art Develops Creativity, Opens New Perspectives, Experiences Democratic Thinking: Art Teachers

By Janet Terry

"The study of art promotes individualism because people learn to work by themselves, develops one's imagination, and gives him background and understanding of art and artists," stated Janice Leist, senior, representing the views of those studying art at South Side.

Mrs. Ruth Fleck and Mr. Leon Smith, art teachers, also have many ideas on the value of art to a person. Mrs. Fleck states, "Art experiences are a democratic way of thinking. It is a very personal and creative process; experimental, yet involves principles; therefore, it is a democratic way of life and natural means for the development of an individual's unique self.

"This view of the value of study of art certainly can make it of inestimable value to a teenager, who needs opportunity at this age to explore his creative self and express it. This view also infers that it would be of benefit to any student and not just a select few who are highly talented. Likewise, it would be of value in later life, but only insofar as an individual has succeeded in establishing the patterns of individual decisions graciously stated and abhoring the stale pattern of being 'like the Joneses'."

MR. SMITH BELIEVES art "enables the student to view things with a new perspective, an awareness that is non-existent until he has achieved some background. It is my thought that a person, any person, is unable to pass judgment, objectively, on anything until he has a basis for judgment. Because so many of us overlook this, I believe this is the reason we are plagued by the mediocrity we find ourselves in today. Art is one place to look in finding a basis for criticism."

Mr. Smith continues with a second value. "If a student shows that he has some latent artistic talent, the art room is the obvious place for him to explore and develop his talent."

Progressing from the values of art we come to the strong points in South Side's art department.

"It is very evident," says Mrs. Fleck, "that we have many students enrolled in the art department at South Side who are not highly talented, but are of moderate ability. They especially need this study and development of personal decisions.

"This is, I believe, a strong point in the art department at South, since we are not striving just to serve a select few but a cross section of students who need art for daily living; and we hope also a few who will be professional artists and get further training on a college level, which affords special laboratories."

Mr. Smith goes on to say, "I believe that by offering this type of leadership to the student we have found our strongest program in this department. This is not to say that these are the only points that are stressed in our program, but they are certainly some of the most important."

THE ART DEPARTMENT uses many materials each year, including about 18 types of paper, nine types of paint, and 13 items for sculpture and modeling. Mrs. Fleck listed the following examples of projects used most often: prints, design, drawing, lettering, posters, painting, sculpture, modeling, collage, fashions, illustration, textiles, ceramics, mosaic, and jewelry.

Every school teacher has his or her goals when he begins to teach a course. Art is no different, and when asked his goals, Mr. Smith replied, "I think I can say that if my students have realized some level of being 'informed,' then my time has been worth while. I do not mean to imply that the final project—the picture, the drawing, the construction—is not important; but it only achieves importance if the student knows not only what but why he is doing it.

"We have a fault, sometimes, of placing too much emphasis on the final product and not enough on the interval from the time the idea is born in abstract thought to the time of completion of the act."

Mrs. Fleck was asked the same question, to which she replied, "First, a goal of most importance in teaching art is that all art students may be led to establish more orderly, creative, and artistic homes. There can be no greater goal than betterment of our home life. I do not mean more abundance of luxuries, but ability to follow principles of design and make a limited budget afford an atmosphere of charm.

"A SECOND GOAL is that students become aware of the world of the past and its art treasures as they relate to our contemporary age and its art expression. So a goal has been to include art appreciation in relation to our creative endeavors. We want students to be aware of all the senses so that they have ears that hear, eyes that see the beauty about them in life, in books, magazines, and even regularly seek for it in an art museum. Humanity does not live by bread, hamburgers, French fries, and cakes alone, but by greater intellectual and aesthetic curiosity which can arouse souls from this materialistic age.

"I sincerely hope that we may not continue to live in Fort Wayne or travel in U.S. or abroad and by-pass art museums and centers of art interest, for when we do it is really 'small town,' and we cannot regard ourselves as having culture."

In every subject the teacher and student both have goals—certain things they hope to gain from the course. When these goals are somewhat the same the course is a success. This seems to be the case in the art department.

Citizens Tape Lincoln Eulogy

Mr. R. Nelson Snider, principal, is one of a group of five prominent citizens who have made a tape recording of the only official eulogy in honor of Abe Lincoln made in Indiana.

The eulogy was made in June of 1865 in the Indiana Supreme Court and live sagain in the voices of Mr. Snider; Dr. John Meister, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church; Edwin R. Thomas, a local attorney; and Dr. Fredrick Schminke, a professor at the Indiana Extension Center.

The recording was made by radio station WOWO in collaboration with Bessie Roberts, a member of Indiana's Lincoln Sesquicentennial Commission. The recording has been offered to Tri-State high schools on a loan basis for use in schools. Tapes are being made for use in historical and educational organizations.

Science Books Come To South

Units E and F of the "Traveling High School Science Library," each unit consisting of 25 books, arrived this week in the library.

Some of these books are Soil Conservation, Man, Time, and Fossils, Survival in the Sky, Mathematics in Western Culture, The Conquest of Space, Albert Schweitzer, The Story of Metals, Physics in the Modern World, The Changing Universe, Nobel Prize Winners in Medicine and Physiology, The Story of Glass, Fun with Mathematics, and Story of the Oceans.

The general purposes of the traveling science library are to stimulate an interest in reading science and mathematics books, to broaden the science background of high school students, and to assist students who have interests in science and mathematics with their choice of careers.

Units E and F will be in the library for student use until April 3. On April 6 the library will receive another set which will remain in the library until June 5.

CBS Broadcaster Robert Trout Relates Russian Experience

By Marilyn Cole and John Hendricksen

Recently the city of Fort Wayne had a famed broadcaster by the name of Robert Trout visit the city. His purpose for the visit was to help open the new Wolf and Dessauer department store. During his stay the staff of Radio Station and Television Station WANE conducted a press conference in behalf of Robert Trout for the city's high school newspapers. Marilyn Cole and John Hendricksen attended from South Side. At the conference questions were asked concerning his life and his work.

Robert Trout went to work for CBS network in 1932. He has since received the title of The First Electronic Journalist, which means he went right into radio work without previous journalism experience. Trout was the first, followed by other famed broadcasters, such as Douglas Edwards, Edward R. Murrow, and John Daly.

Mr. Trout said that one of the biggest events in his career was having the honor of being the only American broadcaster to attend the coronation of King George of England in 1932. He compared this to the coronation of Queen Elizabeth when all the networks in the United States sent at least one plane load of broadcasters and technicians—which shows the difference the development of television has made.

Other exciting times, he feels, are political conventions. He said, "The conventions are hectic while going on but I really miss all the excitement when they are over."

He said one of his most unusual moments was when a man at the Washington, D.C., dog pound felt so sorry for the dogs he decided to give them a party. When CBS found this out ,they sent Mr. Trout to cover the event. The advance was so outstanding that on the day of the party, all the dogs were gone. It seems that all the dogs were adopted by different people.

Mr. Trout's recent trip to Russia seemed to dominate most of the press conference. When asked if he got to see more than the average tourist, he answered, "No." He also said that anyone could get into Russia by applying for a travel visa, but you must pay for everything before entering.

While in Moscow he had the services of an American-born Russian interpreter hired by CBS. The interpreter was a devoted Communist. "He was a very good worker and very helpful," was the comment of Mr. Trout.

He also said that the Russian news service, Tas, is government-controlled. All the so-called "news" is propaganda. The only papers they have are papers from the satellite countries or from Russia itself. An interesting thing about the papers is that they are displayed behind glass for the general public to read. Books also were very plentiful and cheap.

"The people of Russia are very friendly," stated Mr. Trout; they do not consider the United States citizen and the United States government as the same. The people were very helpful, because whenever they saw one in trouble they were always ready to help out.

Just recently CBS was banned from Russia, and the reason given was that the CBS network in the United States produced a play on "Playhouse 90" called "A Plot to Kill Stalin," but Mr. Trout felt that the Moscow correspondent would be allowed to go back soon.

When asked about his job, he said he liked it very much and especially in the special events part. He always writes his own shows and gathers his information from the wire services and correspondents. He said his job has always been a constant education because he is always traveling and learning many new things. When asked if he preferred radio or television, he answered humorously, "I prefer radio when I'm on TV, and I prefer TV when I'm on radio because they both serve different purposes."

John Fitzgerald, a one-time colleague of Mr. Trout, was also present at the press conference and said that Mr. Trout was the greatest adlibber in the business today. For an example, he told us about a time when Trout was to broadcast a part of a bowling show, and the bowlers failed to show up; he had to ad-lib for 15 minutes. The radio technicians and the pin boys provided the sound effects by rolling bowling balls down the alleys. After about one hour, Mr. Trout had to leave.

Tom Bolyard Scores 48 Points As South Side Whips Froebel

Archer Breaks 2 City Records In 90-62 Win

Nick Demetre Hits 18; Bench Strength Shines As Barrett Grabs 9

By Steve Rothberg

If our missile experts at Cape Canaveral were as proficient at putting rockets into space as Tom Bolyard is at putting a ball through a rim, we'd have been to Mars a long time ago.

The fabulous senior pounded through 48 points last Saturday establishing two all time records and leading his state champion South Side Archers to a 90-62 mauling over a highly-thought-of Gary Froebel quintet.

Bolyard, dealing with a very hot hand, smashed his own one game scoring mark by a healthy five points. In doing this he also broke record total points scored in varsity competition for a local athlete. 1,139 points scored by John Kelso of Central was the retired record.

But Bolyard was definitely not the whole show as the Green looked great from every aspect, stymiing the Froebel offensive attack and burning up opposing nets. A third record overshadowed by Bolyard's tremendous performance was the 90 points, high for the Archers in a single game, erasing the old mark of 84 set in a game with Concordia in the 1953-54 season.

z z z

NICK DEMETRE, who fouled out midway through the third quarter, contributed 18 points to the Archer cause and left South Side fans wishing he was "on" the night of the Shortridge game.

Mike Simmons, playing his typical aggressive ball game, was wonderful to watch on defense, pilfering the ball on numerous occasions to the bewilderment of the Froebel five.

Dave Barrett played admirably off the boards grabbing 10 rebounds, second only to that man Bolyard again who pulled down 17.

Because of the lopsided score coach Don Reichert had a golden opportunity to test reserve strength and was well pleased with the fine effort put forth by such players as Dave Roderick, Ted Lebrecht, Hoy McConnell, Ken Howe, Gary Gardner, Acie Eldridge, and Steve Burton.

The Archer crew went to work immediately and ran up a 25-12 lead in the initial period. Using their deliberate pattern of play they looked sharp at all times.

The Bowmen went wild in the second stanza with Demetre connecting on four consecutive jump shots from both corners and Bolyard exploding through Gary defense on spectacular drive-ins. The Green, being keen on defense, made numerous steals only to miss the easy lay-up. But there always seemed to be someone following up the play to stuff the ball through. The half ended with South on the long end of a 49-28 count.

The third quarter saw more of Bolyard, maneuvering into position and getting the easy shot. In this period particularly, Simmons shone on defense.

z z z

IN THE FINAL QUARTER with 4:49 remaining Bolyard pumped through a jump shot raising his total to 44 and a new record. He added two more free throws and then with 1:24 to go on a fast break and a fine pass from Ted Lebrecht, he not only dunked it but literally pounded the ball through the hoop to the ecstatic joy of the South Side rooters. These were the two points needed to break the record and a moment later Coach Reichert removed him from the game amidst a standing ovation.

Statistics-wise the Archers were really tops, making 34 out of 73 for a .463 percentage. Their showing on the foul line was equally as great as they cashed in on 22 out of 28 attempts, the total further exhibiting the importance of the foul shot.

In a sense this contest was similar to the Terre Haute Gerstmeyer game of last season. Both teams were very highly touted and both were overpowered from the start by a tremendous South Side scoring surge. Froebel had beaten earlier this season the number one team in the state East Chicago Washington. This, coupled with the overwhelming score of the Archer triumph, presents a prominent question: What exactly is the caliber of basketball being played around the state as compared to this area and how valid are the statewide ratings now being published weekly?

But whatever the state of affairs the Archers can be counted on to be ready to give any team a real run for their money.

Junior Dave Roderick Provides Strong Defense To Kelly Team

A welcome surprise to South's Archers this year has been the steady play of junior forward Dave Roderick. The 6-3 Archer has provided solid rebounding and strong defense to bolster South's front line.

Dave has shown steady improvement since the first of the year. His poise and sharp-shooting have made him a valuable player in the high-flying Archer attack.

Before coming to South last year, Dave lettered in football and basketball at Rocky River High School. Rocky River is a suburb of Cleveland, O. Their basketball team finished third in their conference and their football team, second. Dave chipped in an average of 14 points a game as a sophomore for their basketball team.

z z z

DAVE THINKS the Archers can go a long way if they can keep doing the job they did against Gary Froebel. He says Bill Meyer and Dave Barrett are just hitting their stride and should keep up their excellent work.

"Tom Bolyard is the best basketball player I've seen anywhere," he says. "Mike Simmons is an excellent ball handler and Nick Demetre can pump them in on any night."

z z z

HE COMPARES Ohio football to Indiana basketball. Indiana is much better than the Buckeyes in basketball. It moves faster and there is better ball control. Football is just the opposite. Ohio puts the emphasis on football and turns out powers that would humble Hoosier squads.

Coach Don Reichert has been using Dave much more frequently lately. When Bill Meyer got in foul trouble against Shortridge, Dave filled in extremely well in a losing cause. Dave will play a big part in South's defense of their State Crown.

It seems the boys have a queer sense of humor concerning girls and sports. One morning I chanced to open the assignment book used to assign stories in the Times room and the following story had been assigned: "Bloomer Sale." I wonder if a certain guy whose initials are B.S. had anything to do with this?

Well, girls, how do you like the new gym? Mrs. Alice Keegan's reply to this question was, "I think it is very beautiful. I enjoy my small gym classes and it is so peaceful and quiet here." Miss Helen Pohlmeyer's comment was, "I'm crazy about it! It is so clean and quiet and the exercise room is tops. The locker rooms are really great!" I'm sure we all have to agree—it's the greatest!

Congratulations, honor students! Four GAA senior girls were chosen for honor society: Pat Igney, Betty Byrne, Donna Zelt, and Jeannette Lynn. Susan Kuroski and Bonnie Lane were eligible. I guess this is proof that any effort put forth is never wasted.

This year, GAA boasts five swell girls as officers. President is Jeannette Lynn; vice-president, Susan Kuroski; secretary, Judy Garrison; sports manager, Diana Meyer; and freshman representative, Sondra McKee.

These girls and our wonderful sponsors, Mrs. Alice Keegan and Miss Pohlmeyer, invite all girls to join GAA.

Archers Make Up State Champ Team Of YMCA League

South Side had a hand in another state basketball title. This time it was the Fort Wayne West Side YMCA that took the Indiana YMCA basketball crown.

Among the members of the team attending South Side are players Willie Raines, Charles Hayden, James Porter, Mat Jackson, Jim Yerger, and Stanly Robinson, manager.

The Fort Wayne representatives played a total of four games to win the title. One game was played in Fort Wayne while the other three were in Marion. On their road to victory, the Esquire Club, the team's chosen name, downed Connersville, Kokomo, Vincennes, and the Muncie YMCA teams.

The team, coached by Bob Ware, topped Kokomo, 69-54, in Fort Wayne to determine who would travel to Marion. At Marion, in the morning round, the Esquires downed Connersville, 34-32, the afternoon match was won over Vincennes, 59-46, and the final game was won over the Muncie YMCA, 54-53.

South Sider Lionel Dickey and Willie Raines led in scoring, while Charles Hayden was the big factor in the rebounding department. In the final game, Dickey led the scoring with 22, and Raines followed with 21 points.

Concordia, South To Shoot At Meet

Concordia's rifle team will meet with South's Boys' Rifle Club in a shooting match next Monday at 3:30 p.m. on South's range. Dues of 25 cents for the new semester will be collected.

To shoot the January postal matches, Mr. Stephen Berg, sponsor, called a special meeting of the riflers Wednesday on the range at 3:30 p.m.

Kenny Howe, Senior Forward, Is Reliable, Good Bench Strength

The framework of any ball team is its reliable bench strength, and part of that strength in the South Side lineup is Senior B, Ken Howe.

Ken, with another year as an Archer netter, has proven himself by his hard work in earlier starting assignments and fill-in jobs as a competent forward.

Standing six feet, two inches, and weighing 170 pounds, Ken has shown his abilities not only in basketball, but also in football as a lineman and track as a hurdler. In Harrison Hill Junior High, Ken was a starter. While a freshman, he started for the frosh, and as a sophomore, started for the reserves. Last year, Ken was a member of the state title winners, while playing both reserve and varsity ball.

Ken Howe

As a Senior B, Ken has another year as an Archer and is undecided about future college preferences. While at South he hopes to see his team go to the state tournament once again.

z z z

KEN FEELS that the team isn't as closely knit as it could be, but hopes for more team play which will produce a much stronger squad. Mr. Reichert has impressed Ken with his religious ideals.

"He has faith in each boy and each boy has faith in him as a coach," are Ken's words.

Ken has decidedly improved with every game played this season, and with plenty of time and experience in the future, he will be an added threat to any Archer foe. Along with the improvement this year, all South Side basketball fans will see a great starter next year in the person of Ken Howe.

Two Archers Elected To Y-Teen Club Council

Two Archers were elected as officers of the Y-Teen Inter-Club Council. Pat Krebs, junior, will work this semester as secretary and Barbara Uhl will be the corresponding secretary. Other officers are Karen Trubey, Central, president; Alberta Berg, Elmhurst, vice-president; Janice Johnson, Huntertown, devotions; and Karen Knispel, North Side, historian.

South To Play Central At Coliseum Friday

This Is 99th Game Between Archers-Tigers; Kellys Hold 50-48 Edge

By Jim Carter

Tomorrow night, the South Side Archers will meet the Tigers of Central for the 99th time. The Kellys now hold a 50-48 edge. The contest is Central's home game, and due to the large drawing power of the city rivals, it will be played at the Memorial Coliseum.

The "Friday the 13th" jinx should be more harmful to the Tigers, since they will lose their star player, Bill Boyd. The sensational Boyd, currently third in city scoring, will turn 20 on February 12, the day before the game. He will then be ineligible for further IHSAA play.

Boyd's tremendous effort almost defeated the Archers in their first meeting this season. Hitting with deadly accuracy from all over the floor, he sparked the Bengals as they forced South to go into overtime to pull out a 73-68 win.

THIS WAS JUST one in a long line of great South-Central thrillers. The 1958 State Champs defeated the Tigers in three hard-fought battles last year, and many other sensational battles have gone before. The Archers will go into the game with a string of 26 consecutive victories over city foes.

The loss of Boyd will hurt Coach Herb Banet's charges severely, for he was the spark, as well as the most prolific scorer on the squad. However, the Tigers must still be taken very seriously. They are rated tied for 12th and 13th positions respectively in the wire service polls.

Also, they feature several other top performers. Among these are T. C. Williams, a great back court standout; talented forwards Willie Curry and Tharnell Hollins; and a good pivot man, Percy Moore. Furthermore, Bob Tilker, Don Linton, Jim Keim, sophomore Willie Rozier, and others provide good depth.

CENTRAL CAN BE expected to throw their usual style of play against the Green's outstanding shifting defense. The Tigers usually play "racehorse basketball," and this year is no exception. They can run with any team in the state; when their fast break is working and they are hitting their shots, they can be almost unbeatable.

However, when they have an off-night everything generally goes wrong. When they are not hitting, they lose the ball consistently on errors; and it has been this inconsistency that has cost them several games and some other close calls.

Although the Tigers will be hampered by the loss of Boyd, fans can look forward to another fine battle tomorrow night in keeping with the rich tradition of the long line of South-Central contests.

Kelly Freshmen Trounce Cadets By 41-20 Count

Sparkling Performance On Defense; Robinson Leads Offensive Attack

Turning in their finest showing of the current campaign, South Side's freshman hardwood five trounced out a 41-20 decision over the Concordia Cadets. An Archer home crowd enjoyed the fine performance February 5.

South played alert ball at all times. Their offense and defense was equally good. Play off the boards and ball handling was crisp, also.

Lacking the speed and polish of their foe, the Cadets could not cope with the Archer guns. Archer Greenclads broke up many Concordia plays and forced the Maroons to make a number of mistakes.

Much credit must be given to Coach "Porky" Holt for having South so well prepared. The alert Archers seemed to be in their proper places at the right time. They broke up Cadet fast breaks and stole the ball on numerous occasions.

Employing a switching man to man defense the Bowmen prevented their foe from warming up from the field. Getting a minimum of shots away, Concordia connected on only five from the field. So adequate was the Kelly defense that Concordia's high point man, Markey, had a mere five points.

On offense the Green shone just as brightly. Working the ball well, they found the route on 18 of 50 shots, a .360 percentage. Assaulting the hoop most was big Ken Robinson, who sank eight goals for 16 points.

Coach Holt emptied his bench in the latter stages of the game. The "Chinese Bandits" gained eight points while holding Concordia to four to enable South to double the Cadet score at the outcome.

South has now won three in a row to raise their mark to 8-5 for the season.

Following is the Archer individual scoring summary:

Rules Emphasized For New Cafeteria

Our new cafeteria is one of the finest in the city. We want to make its use acceptable to all, and to preserve its appearance for many years. It should be used as a well-regulated dining room, and not as a place of hasty food grabbing.

Students may take one book to the cafeteria to have work to do while there, but piles of books and other equipment are not to be put on the tables. Containers for paper, milk cartons, etc., are placed by the doors of the cafeteria, and each student is asked to be sure to take all such material to these containers.

Trays, dishes, silverware, milk bottles, etc., are to be taken to the window of the dishwashing room. Chairs are to be placed carefully by the tables. Care should be exercised to see that refuse and trash are not left on the floor.

Students will be interested to know that South Side High School purchased the draperies for the windows; the School Board did not include these in the contract. They add much to the usefulness and appearance of the room. Mr. Leon Smith and the Art Club group shopped for these. We hope to have several good pictures in the room in the near future to add still more to the looks and value of our newest school facility.

There will be no after-game dances held in the new cafeteria. However, if the juniors and seniors wish to, they may both hold their proms in this room.

So-Si-Y New Members To Be Initiated In Club

Initiation of new members will be the highlight of the Tuesday meeting of the So-Si-Y Club at 3:30 p.m. in the Greeley Room. The initiations will be both humorous and serious. Refreshments will follow the meeting.

The dues of 25 cents must be paid by this meeting.

The officers are Sharon Kidwell, president; Karen Randall, vice-president and program chairman; Barb Bailey, secretary; Pat Krebs, treasurer; and Diane Beams, point recorder.

Hockey Leagues Attract Archer Participation; Popular Sport Supervised By Mr. Gernand

Hockey has done far more than its share of attracting Archer participation this year in winter sports. Fifty-five South Siders are a part of this popular pastime. They are members of the Fort Wayne Park Hockey League, which is supervised by Mr. Robert Gernand, football coach at South Side. This is the second year of the organization which is sponsored by the Park Board.

It consists of two leagues; the American League, composed of seventh, eighth, and ninth graders, and the National League, which is made up of tenth, eleventh, and twelfth graders. The National League is comprised of five teams: The Blue Blades, Meteors, Clods, Rebels, and Blackhawks; the fourth team American League is made up of the Komets, Flying Blades, Canadians, and Red Wings.

EACH LEAGUE plays 12 regular season contests, followed by a big play-off at the close of the season to determine the league champions.

In addition to Mr. Gernand and three officials, a Fort Wayne Komet player coaches each team. In the National League, Shorty Melanchek helps train the Meteors; Norm Waslowsky, the Clods; Bob McCrusker, the Rebels; Glen Ramsay, the Blackhawks; and Dwain Rupp, the Blue Blades.

The games are played Saturday mornings and Monday night at the McMillen Park ice rink. The new skating rink at McMillen is a valuable asset to furthering of this Canadian sport that currently has its roots firmly established in the hearts of sports-minded Americans, especially in the Summit City area.

Archer team captains in the National League are Bob Haag and Charlie Hall, of the Blue Blades, and Gene Jacobs of the Meteors. In the American League, Buddy Rodgers captains the Canadians, and Chuck Hohman, the Flying Blades.

In the National League the Blackhawks hold first place, the Blue Blades second place, the Rebels third place, the Clods fourth place, and the Meteors last place. In the American League the Komets are in first place, the Flying Blades second place, the Red Wings third place, and the Canadians last place. These are the South Siders that play hockey:

Schmitz On Sports

As long as there is Tom Bolyard, there are new records to be entered in the official books. And last Saturday against highly-regarded Gary Froebel, Tom "The Bomb" Bolyard led his Archer mates on a record-smashing spree that caused the tabulators to ink three new marks.

# # #

Two were personal standards that were added to Bolyard's collection of all-time records. Tom finally cracked the career record of Johnny Kelso. By ramming 48 points through the hoops, re-setting the mark that he set earlier for a single game, Bolyard was able to eclipse Kelso's record of 1,139 on the 45th point.

# # #

At this stage all city records are credited to Bolyard. They are individual records: for the most points in one game, most points in one season, and most points in a career.

# # #

His 48 points helped the Green and White to establish a new single game school record as the Green loped to an easy 90-62 win over Gary Froebel. Against Concordia in 1953, South set the old mark of 84, and duplicated it against Leo in the 1955 Sectionals.

# # #

Being overshadowed was the Archer prestige that rocketed upward as the Kellys crushed the only team that managed to dump highly-touted East Chicago Washington.

# # #

With this win the Kellys' rating should carry them back into the Top Ten. Judging from Gary's performance Saturday, either Gary had their worst game of the campaign or East Chicago's Senators had their worst showing in their loss to Froebel.

# # #

As a team South looked better than ever before. We passed well, making few mistakes, looked alert on defense, intercepted passes, and capitalized on Froebel errors.

# # #

C.C. posted a win over Concordia and thus remained on the Archers' heels in that torrid City Series race. Last week this corner pointed out Concordia's rising strength. Now more than ever it looks as if the rapidly-improving Cadets have enough power to send North Side to another cellar finish in the city scramble.

# # #

The Cadets ran even with Central Catholic until the closing minutes, when the Irish emerged with a close 65-64 win. C.C. remained in contention with the triumph, but crowned themselves heavy underdogs for their climactic showdown with Series pace-setter South Side.

# # #

With the current season hitting the stretch position, the South Side Archers seem ready to emerge as Sectional favorites, as well as city leaders in several departments. For the fourth consecutive season the Green and White should capture the city title.

# # #

It once again appears as if the Kellys will close the season as the best defensive team in the Summit City. Don Reichert's boys are yielding 51.8 points per game compared to their nearest rival's, Central Catholic's, 52.5 average; the Green offensive mark at 63.2 is five and a half points shy of Central's pace-setting mark. In city play the defensive mark is lower. Local foes have managed to score only 47.8 points per game while the Archers have routed these teams by pumping in 64.5 points every game.

# # #

Should the Archers sweep their remaining two contests, the Green and White will emerge as the winningest team in Fort Wayne for the fourth straight season. At present the Archers and Central are 14-4. C.C. is 13-4.

# # #

The big three local prep squads continue to hold the local prestige high. Together they have won 41 and lost but 12, a winning percentage of .770. Of the 12 losses three were contests battled between the three squads. Should these three squads and powerful New Haven draw into the same bracket, the Fort Wayne Sectional could be a thriller.

# # #

Tomorrow evening's return match with Central will lack the luster of Bill Boyd's fabulous play. As well known by this time, Central's top scoring ace became ineligible for athletic competition today. Since the first South-Central meeting, T. C. Williams has gone along to fill Boyd's shoes and Willie Curry and Willie Rozier are vastly improved.

# # #

Scouting Around—Beginning with Froebel's upset of East Chicago Washington, the state scene has gone haywire. Washington dropped to second, but now has a chance to regain the top slot as it waltzed to wins over highly-touted Gary Tolleston and Hammond while East Chicago's adversaries, Muncie Central and Indianapolis Shortridge, fell by the wayside.

# # #

Muncie met defeat when Kokomo's Jim Rayl warmed up with 45 points to pace the Wildcats to a two-point decision. Shortridge lost to city foe Manual by 60-58. This turn of events leaves once-defeated Kokomo, conqueror of two of the top three, with a chance to assume the number one rating. Madison's Cubs, featuring Buster Briley, are also watching for their chance to enter the top three.

Homeroom Representatives Chosen For Sophomore Party

"In order to let each sophomore have a part in the Sophomore Party, the new idea of having homeroom representatives has been put into effect," announced Chris Parrott, president of the class of '61. The idea evolved from a meeting of class officers and advisers and has not been used in previous years.

The 16 representatives, who were chosen by their homeroom agents, act as "go-betweens" for the officers and the rest of the soph population.

This and other duties were explained to the representatives in a meeting, Monday, February 9. The middle men are to return to their homerooms and explain certain rules, gather ideas for themes and entertainment, other a talent show, and ask those interested to sign up for the decoration, refreshment, ticket, program, or publicity committees.

This information will be presented, sorted out and discussed at a future date. During this future meeting, the theme will probably be decided and chairmen and committees appointed.

"Since the class was not able to have a party last year, there isn't any money for one this year. However, Mr. Snider has agreed to loan us the money for it from the school's general fund," Chris stated. He also added that it will be repaid from the parties' profits.

The price of the tickets for the April 24 affair has been set at 60 cents. The dance will last from 8-11:15 p.m. in the boys' gym.

Sophs will have to abide by certain rules: the party will not be a dated affair because it is for the whole class and anyone should come; it will be restricted to 10A's and 11B's: girls are asked to wear dressy cottons and the boys, suits.

The "middle men" are representing the following homerooms: Joan Rothschild, 45—Mr. Murray; Steve Pohl, 94—Mrs. Luse; Bob Bechert, cafe—Mr. Berg; Tom Felger, 188—Mr. Geyer; Linda Vollmer, 66—Mr. Gersmehl; Sue Getty, 12—Mr. Arnold; Barb Keller, 38—Mr. Hostetler; Pat Shuler, 64—Mr. Gernand; Linda McNeal, 79—Miss Leif; Val Callahan, 150—Mr. Coats; Jody Reiff, 138—Miss Rehorst; Nancy Vanderford, 14—Mr. Whelan; Katherine Misegades, 50—Mr. Drummond; Sandra Tracy, 34—Miss Welty; Karen Curley, 184—Miss Covalt; Bonnie Bender, 61—Miss Pohlmeyer.

Red Cross To See Film On Swimming

A film, "The Fundamentals of Swimming," will highlight the meeting of Junior Red Cross Wednesday at 3:30 p.m. in the Greeley Room. The film is the property of the Red Cross Center and is being loaned for this showing. Refreshments will be served at the conclusion of the meeting.

This semester's officers are: Beth Golden, president; Carol Jekel, vice-president; Susan Getty, secretary; Marilyn Budd, treasurer; and Brenda Harper, sergeant-at-arms. Susie Hoard is serving as publicity chairman, and Judy Cramer is food chairman.

The club has completed its membership drive and will now launch into the planned programs for the year. Outside projects are being considered at this time. Possibilities include the purchase of a television set for a needy family and a bake sale to raise money for the club treasury.

School To Be Closed

School will be in session on Friday, a week from tomorrow, until 12:20 p.m., compared to no school on that Friday last year. The fifth period may be slightly shifted depending on the Sectional draw.

Colleges Offer Many Awards

"It is possible for many a boy or girl to go to college if he wants to," said Mr. R. Nelson Snider, principal.

Every college gives scholarships. Some of those mentioned by Mr. Snider are NROTC (Naval Reserve Officer Training Course), which gives tuition, fees, books, room and board, and better than $600 a year; another is the National Merit Scholarship Foundation. This test is taken in May. Last May 8, students at South Side placed in the top one per cent of 4,790 students taking the test. Eight hundred scholarships were given, which reduced the odds to one to six. One student out of the eight from South Side received a $100 scholarship.

All colleges in Indiana go together to give a Scholarship Qualifying Test, taken in the fall. All students wishing to go to a college in Indiana on a scholarship must take this test.

Kap Kilbourne, a Fort Wayne businessman, gives $10,000 annually to graduates of high schools in Fort Wayne and Allen County in the form of scholarships.

However, Mr. Snider says, "There are very few scholarships that make it possible to go to college, and pay for room, food, etc., without extra money from home.

"A student doesn't have much chance to get a scholarship unless high in the class, seldom less than the top five per cent."

The Griffin Scholarship to Yale University is provided by Mr. Griffin, who gives $1,200 annually to each student who has won the scholarship. He does this in memory of his son, who was killed in a car accident while attending the university.

Linda Hard Speaks At Philo Meeting

Living in England was the topic of the guest speaker, Linda Hard, at the last Philo meeting. Linda talked about English schools, historical England, and social life there.

Carolyn Dinius presented a new constitution to the club, discussing each article and section. Judy Rumple typed and mimeographed the constitution so that each member could have a copy.

A literary contest which will last the whole semester was announced by program chairman, Linda Wightman. The best short story, essay, or poem will be announced at the last meeting of the semester, at which time an award will be given.

The members signed up to work on the various committees for the annual Philo banquet, which will be conducted March 14.

Five Boys Become Junior Rotarians

Each month a student from all the six city schools is chosen by his high school principal as Junior Rotarian.

Now presiding in South Side's place is Mike Simmons. John Shannahan was Rotarian in October; Dave Dunstone, November; John Richardson, December; and Jack Lehman, January.

These students are the guests of the Rotary Club and attend their meeting every Monday noon at the Chamber of Commerce.

Sectional Tickets Go On Sale Today

Just a reminder that Sectional tickets go on sale in the homeroom this morning. The ducats priced at $3 will be available to only student or teacher season ticket holders.

At 8:05 a.m. tomorrow morning adult season ticket holders may purchase their tickets.

Monday and Tuesday of next week the following groups will be able to purchase a set of tickets: on Monday, Students; and on Tuesday, any adults.

South Offers Kuder Exams

Kuder Preference Tests are now being given by Mr. Ora Davis, guidance director. The Kuder tests are published by the Science Research Associates, one of the well-known publishers of this type of test. They also publish the Iowa tests taken by the seniors.

A pupil taking the test has a choice of two types, personal and vocational. The personal test tells about the individual, and the vocational has to do with professions.

The test goes by a series of choices. There are three activities mentioned in each group. The person taking the test chooses two out of three answers. The first choice is the activity he would most like to do, and the second choice is the activity he would least like to do. In all, there are 624 activities to choose from. After the answers are put together, the student is told the interpretation of the test.

Mr. Davis stresses that the Kuder test is one that tells preference of interest, not aptitude. This test tells the profession a person is most interested in, not if he is capable of doing it. On the other hand, an aptitude test tells what you are best fitted to do.

Anyone wishing to take this test should see Mr. Davis. It costs 20 cents and takes one hour to complete a test.

March 6 Deadline For Totem Payments

Everyone who has not completely paid for their Totem should do so by March 6. Totem payments must be made by then.

Barb Miser, circulation manager, reported that over 1,800 Totems had been sold by the deadline, February 16. She said that all freshman pictures have to be paid for one week after the pictures come back from the photographers.

"The Totem progress is coming along on schedule," reported Alice Weddle, Totem editor.

Talented Margie Bauer Likes Drawing, Sewing, 36 Workshop

"Variety is the spice of life" and Margie Bauer certainly typifies this statement—she's a human dynamo! Her "activities," excluding homework, include nursing, drawing, sewing, and working. Plus this, she is a top-notch student!

Her artistic ability was first recognized in the eighth grade when she was awarded a scholarship to the Fort Wayne Art School on Saturday mornings. She attended Art School for the entire year and gained much valuable experience from the expert training offered. Her specialty is drawing. She chooses as her favorite "models," cartoon characters and country scenes.

However, now she is devoting time to making posters commemmorating the sesquicentennial anniversary of Lincoln's birth. These posters are to be hung in the halls as soon as they are completed; they will serve as a special exhibit promoted by the history department.

Continuing along the creative line, Margie also lists sewing as one of her favorite pastimes. She just finished a major project, that being a formal for the Christmas dances. She also makes skirts, blouses, slacks, Bermuda shorts, and blazers. Since 1951 she has been working on a quilt.

She is embroidering 24 characters, 12 boys and 12 girls, to go into illustrative pictures of each month of the year. She has completed 16 and as soon as the final eight are done she will begin sewing them together into a quilt.

Three years ago she began training to be a nurse and will probably go into the field after she completes school. Margie loves being a Nursette at Parkview Memorial Hospital and has contributed many hours of service. Just recently she earned her 300-hour pin. Her service has been primarily at the information desk sorting and distributing mail, taking telephone messages, and getting room numbers, or in the pharmacy. Right now she is "on call." This means that she is not working regularly, but is ready to at any time. In the summer, however, she is a regular worker.

This fall energetic Margie decided to get a job. She secured employment at the Ann Addams School of the Dance where she acted as a receptionist. Her duties included answering the phone and taking money for lessons. This meant working every night after school from 4 p.m. to 8:30 p.m., and on Saturdays from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Since this did not enable her to join any clubs, she terminated her association with the organization at the end of October.

ALWAYS WORK TO BE DONE—Margie Bauer in this picture demonstrates a small part of her vast abilities. She is wearing her uniform which identifies her as a member of the nursette program of the Parkview Memorial Hospital, and a sample of her excellent art work is displayed behind her. The telephone symbolizes the many other activities she devotes her time to throughout the week.

Now, being able to join clubs, she belongs to 36 Workshop, in which she is very active, and Philo. She also sings in the choir and participates as junior class representative in the Methodist Youth Fellowship of Simpson Methodist Church.

A Junior A, Margie is on the college course taking Physics 2, English 6 and 7, United States History 2, and Home Economics 3.

Orchids . . .

To the neat ice skating weather we have had.

Archers Give Ideas About Perfect Date; Personality Is First

Recently a group of Archers were asked to give their idea of a perfect date. Their answers were many, and varied a great deal, with looks being of least importance Here are their answers:

Tom Lerch: The girl must act as if she wanted to go on the date, have a good personality, and be able to carry on a conversation.

Janet Gareiss: A boy should not only act like a gentleman, but dress as one. He should have a good personality, and respect the girl with whom he has the date.

Jeanne Hessert: He must have a personality, a sense of humor, and be respectful of his date. In other words, just like Bob (N.S.).

Barb Keller: He must be TALL, have a good sense of humor, and a personality must be there (somewhere!).

Debbie Brooke: The more personality, the better. If he has that, he has to be a lot of fun. If it so happens that he's cute, that's O.K., too. (That's not at all important, though.)

Jim Jackson: To me, a perfect date is the girl who goes out because she likes the boy, not just for a date. She must have a good personality, be a fair to a good dancer, and be a good conversationalist.

Dave Roderick: June 4 is O.K.

Penny Thorne: A MAN!!!!

Steve Smith: My idea of a perfect date is a girl who is easy to talk to, good looking, likes a lot of fun, and isn't moody.

Carol Lockwood: First of all, a boy should be a gentleman. This means he will be respectful of the girl's feelings, and mannerly. If a boy treats a girl as if he were really glad he asked her out, and if the girl goes because she likes the boy, then the date is apt to be near perfect.

Nick Arnold: A girl

Bob Rice: Bev Liggett.

Carolyn Kennedy: A guy I can respect and who respects me. He can be tall (or short!!) and looks don't matter that much, but he should be a fairly sharp dresser, and have a good personality with a sense of humor to match. Good manners also help a lot.

Barb Wallace: To me, a perfect date would be one in which the boy and girl like each other and enjoy each other's company. If this is the situation, the evening is bound to be perfect—providing the boy is a gentleman!

Archer Couples Attend Game; Season's Wildest Hoop Contest

"Go, beat those Lions!" scream the Beanshooters at the season's wildest basketball contest. The arch rivals are battling it out once again. With such great skill on both teams, even reporters and newscasters hesitate to make any predictions.

Susie Vesey, Linda Wightman, Judy Cramer, Marty Clark, and Kay Augspurger are on the edges of their seats watching Gary Gardner, Bill Meyer-Dave Hickman, Nick Demetre, and Tom Bolyard match moves with their opponents.

Sylvia Ehrman cheers the boys on as John Hendricksen directs the fans with his famous "Go, Fight, Win!" Susan Springer and Fred Smith, Dan Bill and Camille Luther, Jim Richardson and Jan Curtis, and Susan Hines and Lee Crowell are passing popcorn back and forth; but, of course, intently watching the game at the same time.

The breach between scores is lessened and tension mounts on the faces of Linda Tobey and Gary Anderson (I.U.), arden basketball lovers. Bob Mann just made a pass—oops, he's not even on the team! All's well, though—the pass was to Mary Sue Robertson.

The teams are neck and neck and the score is tied. Margo Dixon motions for John Cooper to yell louder for the Beanshooters, even if he is from North Side. Then Mike Simmons gets the ball and tears down the floor for a basket! The crowd and Margo Martindale go wild.

In the lead, the Beanshooters have just a few seconds until the end of the half. BZZZZZZ! There's the buzzer ending the half, but before the signal began Ken Howe made a pass (he is on the team and his pass is legal!) and scores an additional two points. Sue Seibel joins in a resounding cheer.

Dick Tipton and Vicki Sheldon race from the band section to spend a few minutes with Carolyn DeVore and Mike Collins. Sliding down the ramp, Cathy Miller and Doug Geller head for the coke stand where they meet Nancy Hickman, Marc Speelmon, Dick Boergert, and Marijo Edwards.

Carole Fischer shows Mike Cummins (New Haven) some of our school's points of interest. Mmm—it looks like Sonny Kaade and Bob Miller (C.C.), and Barb Collier and John Brown (Albion) have the same idea.

Game time! Scurrying back to their seats, Marian McCallister and Dan O'Laughlin bump into Nancy Bailey and John Meyerholz. They each reach their seats in one piece and just in time for the new half. The Lions get the ball! But not for long! Hoy McConnell retrieves it for the Beanshooters amid joyous cries from the stands —led by Carol Lockwood.

Mahmour Abouzeid comments to Ruth Ann Farlow that good old American basketball surely is exciting. (Is it really just the basketball game, Mahmoud?)

Of all the luck! Imagine getting seats practically on the rafters. Debby Brooke and Stan Alfeld were a little late and have to peer around a pillar to see the scoreboard. Kathy Schwalm and Jack Lehman, and Carolyn King and Freddie Banks assure them that the score is in the Beanshooters' favor.

Five-four-three . . . Terry Berk and even Martha Grant (N.S.) start counting the final seconds . . . two-one — Yippy! We've done it again! Tom Graham swings Susie Starr while the Beanshooters proudly praise their "team that has no equal."

Several Archers Tell What Animal They Want To Be

Because of some odd quality or possible imperfection in the human race, most of us, at one time or another, have wished to become a member of the animal kingdom. Although this is not too frequent an occurrence, a few fellow Archers felt that certain irrepressible urge, and responded to ths poll in a witty and truly humorous fashion. (In several instances, another word might be more appropriate.)

Put on a great big smile, and prepare to laugh yourself silly (and believe me, you'd have to be silly to laugh at this), as some of your friends and mine answer this question: "What kind of animal would you like to be, and why?"

Joan LeChot: I'd like to be a swinging cat, so I wouldn't have to answer any more crazy TIMES POLLS.

In Trouble: Maybe a kangaroo; then I could defend myself against Mr. Coats.

Barb Steiner: A ladybug; don't ask me why.

Jan Martindale: A gazelle; don't ask me why, either.

Barb Andrews: A teddy bear; my mommy was expecting another boy.

Diane Irmscher: I'd like to be an elephant; then I could eat, eat, eat, and nobody could make any cracks about my weight.

Val Callahan: I'd like to be a giraffe; because I'm so short.

Dave Dill: I'd like to be a grizzly bear; then I could lumber down the halls, and everybody would get out of my way. (Good idea.)

Bobbi Ross: An alligator; then I could sit and bask in the sun all day.

Bob Bechert: I want to be a kangaroo; I've always wanted to be a high jumper.

Steve Holmes: I'd like to be a kangaroo; so I can outjump Bob.

Larry Christman: I want to be a baby kangaroo; so I can ride in Bechert's pouch.

Rich Busch: I'd like to be an ape; they're the closest thing to human beings, and I'm a being. (That's all according to the point of view.)

Annette Plesniak: I'd like to be a chimpanzee; then I could climb trees all day, and live in a tree house.

Rita Hessert: I'd like to be a rhinoceros; then I could wallow in the mud, and make mud-pies all day without getting bawled out for it.

Marilyn Masters: I might as well want to be a bird; I already have a bird's brain.

Nancy Swaim: I'd like to be an amoeba; then I could do lots of devilish things, and nobody could see me to bawl me out.

Chuck Weinraub: I'd like to be a lion; then I could be the king of the beasts.

Sue Hiller: I'd like to be a skunk; then I could truthfully claim to have a scent that knocks the fellas flat!!!!

Teeny Times

The handsome boy above
Has first period in study hall.
In 32 he has history, second,
And in third period English, he learns it all.

College algebra wracks his brain
In 144, fourth period,
And lunch occupies his nibbles
On the next occurring period.

Sixth period he has physics in 96,
Almost in center hall,
And seventh he does service
In Room 32, going on many a call.

If by now you don't know our subject,
And you think the poem is rot,
Then look in the ads to find his name,
For you didn't know such a lot.

South Side High School

Hi!

Recession . . . war . . . revolution . . . inflation . . . school. How am I supposed to remain half-way sane? I mean really! Of course, I'm just kidding. Where would we be without school? No place, absolutely no place.

On a brighter note—watch out, boys! The once all-male sport of ice hockey is now being taken over by girls. Beware, the Blonde Blades have invaded the ice. Ten Archers, all blondes, of course, have instigated this revolutionary movement.

Led by Molly Dixon, these hockey enthusiasts practice every Saturday, almost; have official uniforms and membership cards; are sponsored by 7-Up; and have a coach in the form of another hockey fan, Jim Griffin. The Blonde Blades haven't experienced any defeats, mainly because they can't find any team willing to challenge them. With the spirit of these girls, some day the game of hockey may be all female. Who knows?

This definition of leisure might interest people crammed down by extra-curricular activities: leisure—the time you spend on jobs you don't get paid for. Awfully true, isn't it?

"Water, water everywhere, and not a drop to drink." Samuel Taylor Coleridge's immortal cry could well apply to Homeroom 77. Rain, snow, sleet, hail, it makes no difference; there's always a slight flood of water; but pans, buckets, and pails have saved the day; at least no one's standing in the leakage.

Bob Shine has been at it again. I'm beginning to think he likes having a broken nose. Twice in five months. I'll bet that's a new record. Last time Bob's downfall was basketball; this time it was hockey. I wonder what will be next?

Attention all job-seekers! Miss Harvey, Times adviser, has a dandy chore for any really ambitious laborer. The job is really quite simple; the worker merely removes all the awards in the Times Room, cleans them thoroughly, and replaces them.

According to Miss Harvey, a really speedy laborer can complete the work in approximately two weeks. You see, The Times has quite a few awards. Oh, one other thing, don't apply for the job until 1964; the awards are cleaned every six years!

Sorry this is so short, but "How the Time Flies." Bye!

P.S.—Are you ready for Sectionals? Can't you hardly wait to stand out in the cold so you can get front row seats? Isn't that a ball?

Busy Archers Wish For A Compliment

At one time or another in our busy lives, we hear a compliment that we wish could have been said to us. Although we can't really influence people to compliment us without due reason, many dream of the day when someone will endow our little souls with a bit of cheer in the form of a compliment. Such is the case with these Kelly lads and lassies. Listen now as these dreamers respond to this question: "What is your favorite compliment?"

Linda Silverman: You're smart, beautiful, and witty . . . where's your Latin paper?

Jim Somers: What do you know? I'm announcing here and now that I don't know anything, and never will!

Chris Parrott: Chris, you passed Latin.—Surprise.

Molly Dixon: You look just like your sister!!!

Mike Millikan: Do you think that Vokavich will win again?

Sunny Kaade: What a nut!

Sue Hiller: Molly Dixon always saying: "O-O-O-O-O-O! Sue, you look so gorgeous!!!

Jody Reiff: Are you a Blonde Blade?

Bonnie Brenn: I simply adore your outfit! It looks better this year than last. Slam.

Dave Dill: That after-shave lotion smells so-o-o-o good, Dave. What is it called . . . Corral No. 9?

Pam Olson: According to the boys, they like to hear: "You look tough." As far as the girls are concerned, they like: "Your hair is really sharp" or "You look alive today." As far as I'm concerned, I like, "What do you know?"; "Kill it before it multiplies"; "Gadfrey, it's alive"; and other not mentionable in this column. I can't think of a thing more, except, "Nuh."

Karl Biewald: "Next to me, you're the smartest kid in the world."

Many Elements Aided Washington's Character

"The great men of earth and the shadowy men, who having lived and died, now live again and forever through their undying thoughts. Thus living, though their footfalls are heard no more, their voices are louder than the thunder and unceasing as the flow of tides or air." This quotation by the American, Henry Ward Beecher, exemplifies George Washington, for he was a man who ranks among the greatest of men.

On February 22, 1732, George Washington was born in America, destined to become a renowned leader of the American people. What elements contributed to the greatness of character which the "Father of Our Country" possessed?

Perhaps it was environment. Washington was born and lived in America, a frontier land, a land of thirteen colonies, a land where education was scarce and Indian savages a constant threat. Washington met these challenges successfully.

Perhaps it was the acquaintance he had with many walks of life. He was a surveyor, farmer, soldier, and pioneer. His station in life was one of prosperity. Although he had wealth, his endurance for hardships didn't become lost in luxury.

Women many times contribute to the greatness of a man. Perhaps Martha Curtis, married to Washington on January 6, 1759, was a vital asset in the making of this remarkable man.

Whatever components made up his character, no one can deny that Washington had a outstanding and admirable one. In July 1776, when his country was engaged in strife and turmoil connected with a revolutionary war, George Washington arose and accepted the leadership of the forces of thirteen little colonies. His spirit of nationalism, great leadership quality, patience, and endurance piloted the colonies to victory.

At the birth of our nation, in 1787, at the Constitutional Convention, Washington was again called upon to serve his country. Our forefathers many years ago realized Washington was an extraordinary person; they unanimously elected him president of the newly founded United States of America.

George Washington was a truly admirable man. Maybe if he hadn't "fathered" the new land called America, our United States would not be what it is today. In 1799 when Washington died, as do all mortal men, he did not die in the minds of Americans. As Henry Ward Beecher stated he will "Live again and forever."

Four Musicians Are Members Of 'Silhouettes,' Local Band

FRANTIC FOURSOME—Sitting, lying, standing, or kneeling, these four musicians can do almost anything. The four talented Archers are members of the popular musical group known as the Silhouettes. Foreground, Tom Cooper, sax and clarinet; Dave Dill, trombone; Mike Collins, trumpet; and Mickey McClead, drums. This is one of few groups which doesn't play rock and roll. (Picture by DeHaven)

Four Archer students, among others, are talented in the musical field. These boys are members of the Silhouettes, popular dance band in this area. They are Mike Collins, 11B, who plays trumpet; Dave Dill, 10A, who plays trombone; Mickey McClead, 12A, who plays drums; and Tom Cooper, 11A, who plays tenor sax and clarinet.

The Silhouettes' busiest times are around Christmas and in the early fall. At these times the boys play from one to four engagements a week. Now, however, they are busy about once every two weeks.

"The kids often come up and ask for rock and roll numbers," said Tom Cooper, "but we find that swing numbers such as 'In the Mood' or 'Tuxedo Junction' go over just as well or better." The Silhouettes use the standard arrangements, and have a few arranged especially for the group.

The Silhouettes do not play any rock and roll numbers. They usually do one swing number for every three slow numbers.

"We feel that rock and roll music is for the straight singer or the small band whose only purpose is to play rock and roll," said Tom.

z z z

THE SILHOUETTES believe that the big bands are definitely coming back into popularity. However, they believe that the big bands and one-night stands will never again be as popular as they were 20 years ago.

The development of radio, television, and high-fidelity has definitely made its imprint on the big band tours. However, people still enjoy going to see and listen or dance to a well-known musical group.

The four Archer members of the Silhouettes are very active in school organizations. All of the boys are members of the band and orchestra. They are also participants in various clubs and sports activities here at South Side.

The boys have no definite plan for the future of their music careers, except continuing with the Silhouettes, then joining a band or orchestra in college.

Mr. Cramer Tells Students His Ideas On Chewing Gum

Most teachers have a definite aversion to gum. Mr. David Cramer, a math teacher at South Side, is no exception, but he has a different approach to the subject. He merely tells his students the story of gum.

The basis of gum is chicle juice, which is tapped from the sapodilla tree much as rubber is. The sapodilla tree grows in warm tropical climates. Climates such as these breed all sorts of flies and insects. Flies and insects are likely to fall, drop, or get caught in the chicle juice, which is very, very sticky. Every effort is made to remove the insects, but because of the great stickiness of the juice, this is sometimes hard.

After this story, Mr. Cramer asks his students if they have ever, while chewing some gum, come across a hard object.

Yes, they answer.

It is Mr. Cramer's profound theory that the hard object was an unfortunate fly that got caught in some chicle juice.

Anne Sherbondy, Archer First Cellist, Accepted To Play In Fort Wayne Philharmonic Orchestra

Anne Sherbondy, cellist, is one of the few students to ever play with the Fort Wayne Philharmonic Orchestra.

The news of her achievement was revealed to Anne shortly before Christmas. The arrangements had been made by her private teacher, Miss Marcia Barbour, and Mr. Robert Drummond, South orchestra leader, before anything was said to Anne.

A great deal of work as well as ability is required of the orchestra members. Three-hour rehearsals are scheduled on the average of three a week.

Anne commented, "You must match the tone as well as the intonation in order to fit in."

z z z

THIS TALENTED lass has always wanted to devote her life to music, and that is just what she is doing this semester.

As a post-grad, she is taking music appreciation, concert orchestra, occasional band, and personal typing. Three of these subjects apply to music.

Anne's afternoons are spent in practicing from three to four hours and in studying music theory.

Evenings find her at rehearsals or teaching one of her five cello students. By teaching these pupils, she can earn money to go to college.

Besides all these musical activities, Anne still finds time to be events' editor of the Totem and a diligent worker on the Times.

When asked how she first became interested in music, Anne replied, "I have always been around music because my mother is a piano teacher. I began to study the piano at the age of six. In the fourth grade, I studied song flute; and at the end of the year, when it was time to choose an instrument, I chose the violin."

In the fall a new instrumental teacher, who played cello herself, wanted to promote the instrument. She urged Anne to study cello. Not knowing what a cello was, Anne consulted her mother on the subject and finally agreed to try it.

z z z

SHE LATER BEGAN private study with Miss Marilyn Buchanan, the teacher who convinced her to play cello. She is now studying under Miss Marcia Barbour, the principal cellist in the Fort Wayne Philharmonic Orchestra.

Since beginning her study of the cello, Anne has won three medals for solos and two for ensembles in the State Music Contest. She has played in the orchestra for the Festival Theater productions at Franke Park for the past four years, and she is a member of the South Side String Quartet.

The string quartet appeared on the "Make Mine Music" show in September and was featured at the last Philharmonic Teen-Age Concert, which was presented January 10 at Concordia College.

z z z

ANNE FEELS SHE owes a lot to the quartet for her achievements in music. They have inspired her to attain higher goals and have proven that it is possible to have fun while working.

Now that Anne has become a very talented musician, she has said, "The cello is a good instrument because it is rather rare, which gives the musician more chances to perform. These opportunities make up for the awkward size of the instrument."

The future will probably find Anne at Indiana University studying music education which she may combine with applied music.

Indiana's Lincoln State Park Preserves Land Abe Walked

(Editor's Note: The following is the first of two articles written by Mr. Hemmer, a member of the Social Studies Department. This and a following article have to do with the Indiana period of Abraham Lincoln's life. Mr. Hemmer is a native of Spencer County, Indiana—the heart of the Lincoln country.)

Indiana has many beautiful and interesting state parks. Every year our citizens attain hours of physical pleasure and many educational experiences from their visitations to these parks.

This year state and even national attention will be directed to one of these parks in particular, the Lincoln State Park in Spencer County—the county in which Abraham Lincoln lived for 14 years. In 1932, the State of Indiana procured 1,540 acres on which to establish this park. Many of Abraham Lincoln's boyhood experiences and experiments in human nature which were so important in shaping his adult life, ideas, and ideals occurred on these acres.

z z z

IN DECEMBER of 1816, Indiana entered the Union, and a Kentuckian named Thomas Lincoln crossed the Ohio River with his wife, Nancy, his nine-year-old daughter, Sarah, and his seven-year-old son, Abraham. After landing their flatboat near the present town of Troy, Ind., they proceeded approximately 16 miles in a northwesterly direction to a 160-acre tract of land which Thomas Lincoln had staked out on a previous visit.

There was no road for the Lincolns to follow on their overland trip in the wilds of Southern Indiana. Two days filled with chopping thick vines and clearing heavy underbrush were needed to travel the relatively short distance from the river to their homestead.

z z z

OUR MANY MODERN conveniences make it hard for us today to imagine the hardships which the Lincoln family endured those first few winters in Indiana.

In order for one to relive some of their experiences, he would have to do the following: Purchase a wild, wooded area; take along a rifle, an ax, a few pieces of extra clothing, several necessary housekeeping utensils, and a small amount of food; cut some young trees; build himself a log cabin with one side open; and supply the greater part of his needs from the surrounding land and its wild animals.

Since this is hardly practical (if not impossible) in the midst of the twentieth century, perhaps one might at least be able to mentally relive some of Lincoln's early Indiana experiences by visiting the scene of his boyhood.

USA Club To Discuss George Washington Today

George Washington will be the topic of discussion of the USA Club meeting tonight. Carol Lewis, president, announced that a comparison of the clothing and food of George Washington's time will be compared with our life today. Reports will be made on the subject.

Kelly Reserve Team Takes Loss By 53-35 Score To Centralites

Ken Robinson, Ken Howe Both Score Eight Points

It was obvious that although Bill Boyd's birthday might have helped South's varsity, it certainly had no effect on the Archer reserves last Friday evening as the Green was soundly trounced by a superior Central quintet in a 53-35 rout.

Being outclassed in every department, the reserves never led in the entire game although they managed to tie the score twice in the early stages of the contest. However, it was actually the miserable defense which the Green used that spelled their defeat. Time after time the Tigers went in alone for easy lay-ups after tearing an early South press apart, and the Archers committed many fouls in a vain attempt to stop the superior Central squad.

Actually, it was Kenny Robinson, who entered the game in the second quarter, that saved what was left of the reserves' prestige. Kenny hit on four out of eight shots to tie Ken Howe for scoring honors wtih eight points. Robinson also looked good on defense; and along with Carl Johnson, who came up with a beautiful block in the second quarter, helped to hold down Central's ever-increasing score.

THE ARCHERS remained in contention until early in the second quarter, when everything seemed to go the wrong way for the beleaguered reserve quintet. The score was 12-11, Central at the end of the first quarter; and the starting five which was composed of Dave Hickman, Ken Howe, Bob Bolyard, John Somers, and Steve Mathias was having trouble in working the ball.

Furthermore, they managed to pull down only five rebounds in the entire quarter; therefore, Coach Bill Geyer sent in Steve Burton, Acie Eldridge, Ken Robinson, and Carl Johnson in hope that the Archers could pull ahead. But Central, who out-ran the Archers on offense all night, went into a full-court press which stymied the Archers' attack. At the half, Central led by a 32-20 score.

The Archers came out fighting in the third stanza, and they did succeed in establishing a better defense. Bob Bolyard and Steve Mathias gave it the "old college try," but the Archers lost offensively what they gained defensively.

THROUGHOUT the game, the reserves obtained very few second shots at the basket, and they were able to grab 22 rebounds away from the greedy Centralites. John Somers, Ken Howe, and Dave Hickman amassed a total of four rebounds each to lead the Archers in this department.

At the start of the fourth quarter, Central had a 41-27 bulge as the Archers were only able to tally seven points in the third quarter. The game had become so monotonous from a South Side viewpoint, that one of our cheerleaders thought it was only the start of the second half (Wake up, girls)! By the end of the game, the Tigers had built up a 21-point lead; and they waltzed away with an 18-point, 53-35, victory.

Bruce Staltz defeated Vaughn Correll, 15-9, 15-11. John Biteman outscored Kenny Hialinger, 15-4, 15-2. And Dieter Hillerbrand defeated Roy Hieber, 15-13, 15-6.

In night league basketball, the Blockbusters edged out the Stars, 36-35. Larry Brown connected for 11 points for the victors, while Mike Albersmeyer and Don Campbell hit for seven each. Dick Butzow canned 14 points for the losers, while Wendell Rose and Doug Smith each had two.

GAA Tumbling Performs Stunts

GAA tumbling was last Friday in the girls' gym at 3:30 p.m. under the direction of Miss Helen Pohlmeyer. The session was divided into three groups of activities.

The first division consisted of a forward roll, backward roll, headstand, and cartwheel. In the second group the girls did balances, and spring dive over one, two and three persons. Single and double stunts made up the last group.

Twenty-six freshmen attended. They are Susan Burlage, Elaine Edwards, Susan Lotz, Sandy Petrie, Jane Prill, Sydney Schinbeckler, Ione Sorensev, Florence Stevenson, Sondra Stouder, Marvina Van Skyock, Pam Buzzard, Gretchen Brumm, Sharon Debaillie, Jean Hatfield, Ann Hechler, Kay Heemsoth, Sandra Heidbrink, Ginny Kachiamenis, Margie Lehman, Janice Nahrwold, Flora Reynolds, Cynthia Russell, Jenny Slater, Sandy Walton, Marg Zimmerman, and Louise Jackson.

Bella Dyson, Sondra McKee, Barb Markiton, Marilyn Dauscher, and Mickey Flaig are the sophomores who attended.

Six juniors signed up: Connie Denis, Shirley Stahlhut, Judy Garrison, Jane Glass, Sandy Grodrian, and Peggy Markin. Shelba Cox and Judi Thompson are the only seniors who attended tumbling.

Freshmen Beat Redskins 43-42

Withstanding a violent closing rush, South Side's freshman roundball quintet oaked out a 43-42 victory over the North Side Redskins. The thriller played on February 12 had an Archer home crowd holding its breath until the final buzzer sounded.

The hero for South in this offensive battle was guard Mart Platupe. Mart dropped in six straight free throws, including two which gave the Green a 43-40 lead with eight seconds remaining in the game.

At this point, however, the Redskins were not ready to bite the dust. They called time out in order to pass the ball in from mid-court. North filtered through the careful-not-to-foul Archer defense for the basket with two seconds to go. The final gun sounded before the Bowmen could pass the ball in bounds.

BOTH TEAMS appeared to have equal strength; rebounding and ball-handling skill was about even. In the earlier minutes, South connected from the field more often to build up a comfortable lead. Seeing their lead melt completely, they were forced to score five points in the final minute to pull the game "out of the fire."

South had a well-balanced offensive attack, and all seven of those who played managed to tally at least two points. Robinson and Leakey divided 20 points evenly and played a good all-around game for the Archers.

Robinson was a demon under the boards against North while Leakey started the offensive attack rolling. Sub Mike Dun scored five points in the final stanza to help the Archer cause when it needed it most. Forward Tom McMahan gunned for an eight-point total to aid the punch. In all, the Kellys hit a respectable .395 percentage from the field.

KELLY SANK 11 of 13 free throws and added two fielders for a 15-point night to spark the cross-town cagers. Reeves and Kreig supported him amply, tallying nine points each.

The well-played contest was a tough one to lose, a sweet one to win. South proved it had that extra "something" needed to conquer a foe when the chips are down.

By winning, "Porky" Holt's boys extended their winning streak to four straight. Their record now stands at 9-5 for a .643 percentage.

Scoring:

	G	F	T
Robinson	5	0	10
Ramage	1	0	2
McMahan	4	0	8
Meek	1	0	2
Leakey	4	2	10
Dunn	2	1	5
Platupe	0	6	6

Ted Lebrecht, Archer Guard, Puts In Fine Performances

Ted Lebrecht

"Big things come in little packages!" This statement certainly applies to Ted Lebrecht, the South Side Archers' diminutive guard. The 5-9 senior is a main reason for the defending State Champs' exceptionally strong bench this season.

Ted has proven his value in an Archer uniform this campaign by often spelling for a tired starter and always turning in a creditable performance. Kelly fans will remember Teddy's six points in less than a quarter's time in the Shortridge game to keep the Green even with the Naptown boys for the first half.

Quiet Ted became interested in basketball in his childhood because "everyone played it, so—." While a seventh grader at Hoagland, Teddy did not receive much hardwood experience, but in eighth grade he captured a starting five berth.

After graduating from junior high he started for a great Archer frosh team. Up to this campaign Ted played mostly reserve ball. Last year he saw limited varsity action but did manage to make the select tournament 12 which went on to take the state crown.

WHEN BILL MEYER was out of the Kelly lineup for the first few weeks of this season, the modest 155-pounder saw plenty of action. Since Big Bill has returned, Ted hasn't played quite as much.

Teddy praises Kelly Coach Don Reichert and credits the coaching staff with teaching him everything he knows about Hoosier Hysteria. Idolizing Carl Stavreti, guard for the 1958 State Champs, he tells, "Carl did everything right; he had all the moves, good hands, and that soft touch."

When asked if he thought South might repeat as State Champs in 1959, Ted replies, "In a tournament anything can happen." Taking the case of tiny Milan a few years back, one can see that he speaks the truth.

Ted confidentl yadds, "We have a really good team. Possessing aggressiveness and a tremendous desire to win," Ted will surely do his part in defending the coveted state crown.

South's winning state last season was Ted's biggest thrill.

ASIDE FROM HIS roundball talents Ted has proved to be quite a pole-vaulter, clearing 11 feet last year. Now that Rich Miller, his overshadowing teammate, has graduated, muscular Ted should come "into his own" this track season.

Taking the college course, the Senior A plans to further his education after graduation. Which college to attend is his present problem. Wanting to play college ball, he modestly feels he "may not be good enough for the higher ranks."

Ted has shown fine sportsmanship on and off the hardwood, remaining cool and calm at all times. He is very well liked by his teammates and all the fans.

A bright and promising future lies ahead for this very fine boy.

Lincoln's 1st Winter In Indiana Was Harsh, Cruel Frontier Life

Upon arriving at their Indiana homestead in 1816, the Lincoln's hastily erected an "open-faced" cabin which was to be their home that first winter. Frontier life was very harsh and cruel, epidemics were frequent, and the death rate was high.

After two years of life in the Southern Indiana wilderness, Nancy Hanks Lincoln succumbed to the milk-sickness. She was laid to rest in a small community graveyard about a quarter of a mile south of their cabin site. Her casket was a simple wooden box constructed by her husband and young Abraham.

This was a tragic event in Lincoln's life. Not only had she been a loving mother to her young son, she had also been an inspiring teacher. Her teachings and guidance remained alive in the heart and mind of her nine-year-old son.

A YEAR LATER, a new "teacher-mother" moved into the Lincoln cabin. Abraham's step-mother, Sarah Bush Lincoln, gave sympathy and understanding to him in his hours of need. During his adolescent years, she constantly encouraged and helped him to satisfy his great thirst for knowledge.

Certainly many of Lincoln's personal qualities and ideas which later helped him rise to one of the highest levels of greatness can be attributed to the early training received from his mother and step-mother.

Nancy Hanks Lincoln's grave is one of the few facts concerning Lincoln's 14 years in Indiana which has never been seriously disputed by historians. In 1879, a new town in Spencer County was christened Lincoln City—some of the town's property had once been a part of Thomas Lincoln's original 160-acre homestead. This aroused a new interest in Abraham Lincoln's almost-forgotten mother. The grave was located and marked with an appropriate monument. Today the cabin site, the grave, and approximately 20 acres of the Lincoln homestead lie within the boundaries of Lincoln State Park.

South To Face C. C. For City Championship Tomorrow Night

Kellys Top Irish Last Year 45-39

Game To Be Conducted At Memorial Coliseum

Terry Coonan's Central Catholic Irish, the only team standing between the South Side Archers and their fourth straight city championship, will host the State Champion Archers in the Coliseum tomorrow night. As the Green have made successful their last 27 City Series attempts makes the contest all the most important.

Their last clash was staged under almost the same conditions and the Archers came home with a 45-39 win.

But this year things could be very different as the Irish have come a long way, blossoming into a tough ball club, as is exemplified by their 4-1 city record and 13-4 overall.

z z z

PERSONNEL-WISE the Purple are led by giant Bob Pelkington, who has been their top threat in averaging 17 points a game, and can be expected to give the Green a rough time on the boards and from the floor. The Archers, however, have a giant killer in the person of fabulous Tom Bolyard, who will no doubt give Pelkington the toughest competition he has seen all year.

At the other two front line posts are Jay Bail, a slim junior, and John Sorg, a senior with plenty of scrap. But again the Reichert quintet are equal to and perhaps above Central Catholic in that category. The two Archers, Bill Meyer and Dave Barrett, will be giving Coonan headaches all night.

z z z

MIKE GATTON and Tim Walsh round out the Irish five in the guard slots. On the other side of the fence, two Archer mainstays, Nick Demetre and Mike Simmons, will probably provide their toughest assignments this year.

In the statistic department the Green has a distinct edge. The Archers' overall offensive average is around 62 points a game as opposed to a 52-point defensive mark. The Irish boast a 59-point offensive and a 52-point defensive average.

Considering City Series play alone, the Green is way out in front with 63-47 as opposed to 58-53 on offensive and defensive averages respectively.

With both teams up as they will be and the great importance of the contest, an exciting and hard-fought game can be expected from start to finish.

South's Archers Defeat Central Tigers 54-To-48 In Overtime Game

Kellys Score 27th Triumph Over City Foes

Third Straight Battle Between South-Central That Was Overtime

By Jim Carter

For the third consecutive time, South and Central played a full 32 minutes without one outscoring the other. Amazing as it may seem, the Archers played their third straight overtime contest with Central on Friday night before pulling it out of the fire, 54-48, to clinch at least a share of the city crown.

The game was the 99th encounter between the two rivals over the last 37 years, and South now holds a 51-48 edge as they eye the Sectionals and a possible 100th meeting. The victory was the 27th in a row for the Kellys over city foes, and it was the ninth time that the Tigers have been the victims.

South Side, defending champion, has now ensured at least a tie for the city championship with a 5-0 city record and 15-4 overall. If the Archers can defeat Central Catholic tomorrow, they will again gain an undisputed title.

Central was playing its first game without star Bill Boyd, but T. C. Williams took up the scoring slack in fine style with 21 points. However, he was topped in this department by terrific Tom Bolyard, who sets new records every time he puts a shot through the hoop, with 26. Nick Demetre also looked very good in scoring 18 to follow up his fine performance against Gary Froebel.

z z z

ALTHOUGH NEITHER team played up to the potential it had shown in earlier performances, both had some fine moments on the way to the thrilling climax. The Green looked particularly ragged in spots, as Central's man-to-man defense caused them to commit a total of 19 ball-handling errors, while they committed only eight themselves. Nevertheless, South controlled the boards, as they brought down 43 rebounds, 15 by Bolyard, to the Blue's 36.

The game was actually won at the foul line. Each team scored 22 field goals; South in 56 attempts for .393, and Central in 70 for .314. At the charity stripe, however, the Kellys canned 10 of 22, while the Bengals could hit only a miserable .222 percentage on four of 18. In fact, the Tigers missed 12 in a row and did not score the first of their four free tosses until the fourth quarter.

Both teams started the game cold, and a minute and a half elapsed before Central hit the first basket for a 2-0 lead. It was the last time that they were destined to be in front until the overtime. Mike Simmons tied it up for South a full minute later, and the Archers soon surged into the lead. Both teams showed sticky defenses, but the Archers, behind Bolyard and Demetre, were almost as deadly from the field as they had been against Froebel, and they soon raced to a good 13-6 lead as the quarter ended.

MORE OF THE same followed in the second stanza, as South's two big guns cleared the boards and hit consistently from the field. Bill Meyer and Dave Barrett also contributed some fine rebounding, and the Kellys soon threatened to make it a runaway. With three minutes elapsed, they pulled to a 13-point lead at 21-8.

Then Banet's Bengals came to life. Behind Williams and Willie Curry, they started a rally which netted the next eight points. South suddenly went cold, and, except for two free throws by Bolyard, they were unable to score again in the final five minutes. Central had things going their way, and they didn't stop hitting until they came to within one point, 23-22, at the half.

As the second half commenced, the pressure was evident on both teams. Neither was accurate, and both looked ragged. However, the Archers managed to hold their slim lead. Only seven field goals were scored in the quarter by both sides. Bolyard and Demetre, accounting for all the South Side scoring in the period, managed to post a 32-28 lead. The only outstanding Kelly effort was Bolyard's seven rebounds; however, the Tigers out-rebounded him with 12.

z z z

IN THE FINAL stanza the offense began to pick up. The Green and Blue spent the first half of the period trading baskets, but the Archers were slowly and surely inching ahead again. Finally, they regained an eight-point advantage at 39-31. Then the Tigers, sparked by J. C. Lapsley, a sophomore just up from the reserves, staged their second rally. They got hot, and with 2:15 remaining, they drew within two at 42-40.

Then Demetre hit two straight jump shots, and since the second came with 0:55 remaining, some of the fans thought it was all over. Central then scored two free throws, threw on a press, got possession, and scored again at 0:18. The score now read 46-44, South.

The Tigers got the ball again on a traveling violation and set up Williams, whose shot fell through with two seconds remaining for the tie. After a time-out, Bolyard tried a desperate heave from the center circle. The ball hit the back of the rim, but it did not go in.

Central made the first basket of the overtime to send them ahead for the first time since the initial period. However, the Archers kept their poise and shut the door. Bolyard tied it up, and Demetre hit two long jumps to build a 52-48 lead with 1:17 remaining. Bolyard then hit again at the horn for a six-point bulge.

A crowd of 4,269 was on hand to witness the presentation of an award to News-Sentinel sports editor Ben Tenny at half-time for his faithful attendance of all 99 games.

S. O. S.

Schmitz On Sports

As Demetre goes, so goes South Side. That was the story once again when South Side's sluggish Archers finally opened up in the final stanza to up-end a rejuvenated Central squad.

z z z

Nick proved his value to the Green and White cog against Central with an 18-point performance that, although outshined by teammate Tom Bolyard's 26-point contribution, and a 21-point showing by the Tigers' T. C. Williams, was the deciding factor in the Archers' third straight overtime triumph over city arch-rival Central.

z z z

Demetre spotted his game with sudden offensive outbursts that kept the Green and White in front until the extra session's early stages.

z z z

Demetre came through for the Kellys for the second consecutive contest with a superb showing that boosted the Kellys to a triumph.

z z z

Nick has proved to be Reichert's most effective weapon against the opposition's double or sometimes triple teaming defense on Tom "The Terrific" Bolyard. Demetre, the anti-anti-Bolyard, caused Central to abandon their concentrations on stopping Tom. By taking a pass from Bolyard in the extra session Nick hit his patented jumper to send the Green ahead for keeps.

z z z

If one play stands aloof as the turning point, it was Demetre's jumper on a pass from Bolyard. But Ken Howe's sensational defensive work in the final period proved to be the most outstanding, and without a doubt, very valuable.

z z z

With South's lead shaved to 39-36, Willie Rozier stole a loose ball and drove the length of the court only to be stopped by fleet Ken Howe. After the Green and White had their crack at upping their margin, Howe stepped in the path of a perfect peg intended for Percy Moore under the hoop. Thus Ken thrwarted four sure points which aided the Archers in staying ahead until the closing seconds of the contest.

But to offset these scattered individual performances, the Archers looked like the same team that was nipped twice in a row by Terre Haute Gerstmeyer. They were way off the form that thrilled the champs' followers a week prior in the record-smashing showing against Gary Froebel.

z z z

With the finale on tap for Friday at the Coliseum with Central Catholic, Reichert will have the detailed task of feverishly working to set the Kellys in top physical and MENTAL condition for the contest that will determine the 1959 Fort Wayne City Champions and for the speedily-approaching Sectional Tourney.

z z z

One observation of coaching maneuvers during the 99th South-Central game was a contributing factor in the Archers' win; but unfortunately, with all amends to the coaching profession it was one of their classic blunders. Because T. C. Williams foolishly shot a jumper with his defender close enough for an easy task of blocking, Williams was lifted.

z z z

Banet undoubtedly regretted his rash action because Williams ignited the drive that brought the Blue and White bounding back from a deficit that was accumulated during the stretch that Williams spent on the bench.

z z z

Central's surprise sophomore, J. C. Lapsley, opened the eyes of Tiger followers and had them dreaming about the next two seasons.

z z z

With such surprises this year as T. C. Williams, Willie Curry, and Rozier, along with newcomer Lapsley, the Tigers have the potential of being state champs in 1960. Besides this season's returnees, Central's coaching staff will be endowed with one of the greatest freshman aggregations in Fort Wayne history.

z z z

South Side's tournament 12 has now been officially announced following the IHSAA's tourney team entry deadline last week. They are as follows: Tom Bolyard, Nick Demetre, Dave Roderick, Bill Meyer, Ken Howe, Ted Lebrecht, Dave Barrett, Mike Simmons, Hoy McConnell, Acie Eldridge, Steve Burton, and Gary Gardner. Eldridge and Burton just recently were promoted to the varsity squad, but have looked outstanding in reserve action.

z z z

Should South emerge victorious Friday, it will mark number 28 straight over the five locals on the hardwood. The Archers will be heavily favored to be on the long end of the score in the South-C.C. struggle.

z z z

Going into the game the Green has a guarantee of at least gaining a share of the city title. A loss, however, would create a tie and thus end the Green and White's long (four years) monopolistic domination over city foes.

z z z

After those week-end contests, city and county coaches were beginning to wonder how tough the Sectional contests will be. First, unheralded Concordia rose up to nearly send North Side back to the City Series cellar. Then to complicate the odds-makers, North Side rose up to smite highly-regarded South Bend Central.

z z z

Now all the 14 coaches who will lead their respective squads down the tourney trail starting in the Summit City, can only regard every team as a strong threat as the Fort Wayne tourney looks ready to defend its reputation as one of the most competitive Sectional centers.

Archers' Attitude Important For Good Tournament Manners

"Sectionals, Regionals, Semi-State!" The frantic familiar cry of South Siders will soon be heard again, and along with this "Hoosier Hysteria" comes a companion called ATTITUDE. Webster defines attitude as such: ". . . position indicating feeling, opinion or mood . . ." And, although most of us seldom stop to think about what the actual definition of the word might be, all of us should stop and consider our own personal attitudes toward our team, school, and other people. So, let's take the word itself and see what it really means in terms of our own experiences.

A—Attention! Don't be an "attention getter." Help our team by giving them your undivided attention. Your attention should center on them and not on your friends. Half-time is for socializing!

T—Time! No one appreciates an untimely "time bug." Get to the games on time! Nothing is so distracting and disturbing as a person who comes late and edges his or her way through 20 people.

T—Tolerate! Be tolerant of the referee's decisions. Remember, he knows a little more about the situation than you do. Be tolerant of other school's bad sportsmanship—don't be so ready to yell something back.

I—Initiative! Have initiative to yell for your team. You are the sixth man on the team and you can make or break a school spirit. It doesn't matter if your team is behind or ahead, yell and show them "We're Proud of Our Team!"

T—Of course, T stands for a great big TEAM! South Side's team, one of the best in the entire state. So, let's show them we are all behind them by going to all their games and supporting them.

U—Unworthy! Don't be unworthy of the high standards set by previous South Siders. Use your best manners. Be polite and considerate and don't display bad sportsmanship.

D—Don't:

1. throw things on the floor!
2. boo or yell when the referee makes a decision you don't agree with!
3. run around—stay in your seats while the game is in progress!
4. shove, push, or be inconsiderate of other people or other schools!
5. try to "take-over" other people's seats!

Do:

1. show good, clean sportsmanship!
2. show respect for your team and school!
3. support your team!
4. get to the games on time!
5. dress properly. Wear school clothes for all night games,; bermudas, etc., are all right for afternoon games.

E—Everyone should follow these simple suggestions. South Side has always been known to display good sportsmanship, manners, and consideration. Let's keep this wonderful record up!

New Cafeteria Staff, Facilities Serve 500 Archers Each Day

If you have ever tried to prepare a meal for one family and thought it was confusing, how would you like to do it for 500 daily?

This is the job of the seven adults and ten students who make up the cafeteria staff at South Side. The job of organizing these meals is managed by Miss Lucy Mellen, who does the buying, special ordering, hiring, finances, and works at the cash register. Acting as head cook, Mrs. Edna Hunter does the daily ordering.

Mrs. Mary Watson keeps busy baking cakes and making pastry. Responsible for the salads is Miss Mabel Billiard. Mrs. Sellers, Mrs. Koehler, Mrs. Woeber, and Mrs. Huffman assist in the kitchen.

Serving at the north counter are Mrs. Sellers and Mrs. Watson. Mrs. Koehler and Mrs. Billiard handle the south counter. Mrs. Woeber operates the cash register at the south counter and Miss Mellen at the north. Mrs. Hunter supervises in the kitchen.

The ten students who work an hour every day are Ruth Beyerlein, Ilene Ray, Pat Merehart, Pat Arnett, Pat Simmers, Sandy Tracy, Gertrude Giradot, Sherry Kock, Louise Jackson, and Lucille Wagner. They earn their lunch by assisting at the dishwasher and doing messenger work.

Food is food the world over so the saying goes, but put it in a beautiful new environment and, presto, you have added new customers! This is just what has happened at our new cafeteria. Attendance has increased 30 per cent. In order to keep these hungry people happy, 500 pounds of potatoes and 60 dozen eggs are ordered every week, 312 cartons of milk, 35 to 50 pounds of hamburger and other kinds of meat, 55 loaves of bread, about 192 candy bars, and 180 ice cream cups are consumed in one day.

Miss Mellen says that kitchen and dining room cupboards are needed, and that the counters aren't workable enough. She states that these are offset by many improvements. Besides being attractive and restful, the cafeteria accommodates new added equipment.

The walk-in cooler, vegetable steamer, electric potato peeler, three garbage disposals, and stainless steel counters help to make the new cafeteria a more economical place to work. Along with these added conveniences, work has been decreased. The dishwasher in a separate room helps a great deal. Two counters and garbage deliveries on the ground floor add to these conveniences.

Coliseum Head Has Big Responsibilities At Sectional Time

As the Sectional basketball games come, along with them come the heavy responsibilities. And these responsibilities are placed on the shoulders of Don Myers, the Coliseum head, and his committee of men.

The date of the Sectional Tourney is February 25-28, and throughout these days the work of these men will be put to full force. These jobs start from the parking-lot attendants, ushers, construction workers, and office staffs, right through to Mr. Myers' own job of arranging insurance to gaining a contract with Mr. Snider, the representative of the IHSAA.

The fans can greatly ease the load that these men maintain by co-operating fully to any request asked of them.

"It would be a great help if the fans would stay in school or at home until the doors open at the Coliseum," are Mr. Myers' words.

His rightful thoughts are that the high school fans not only crowd out the personnel going in and out, but also after bringing their lunch for the long stay, many fans dispose of their wastes in the wrong places.

Therefore, co-operation with the officials can easily go hand-in-hand with the loyalty for any school team, bringing about a more easily handled and a more enjoyable tournament.

Paul Says:

To Do A Great and important work, two things are necessary; a plan, and not quite enough time.

COACHES' CONFERENCE—Archer coaches talk over key strategy plays to be used in the Sectional Tournament, which starts today. They are Don Reichert, Wayne Scott, Bill Geyer, and Porky Holt.

VICTORY CLIMB—Climbing the basketball victory steps to success, are the mighty Archers of South Side who are Gary Gardner, Nick Demetre, Ken Howe, Bill Meyer, Mike Simmons, Dave Roderick, Acie Eldridge, Ted Lebrecht, Steve Burton, Hoy McConnell, Dave Barrett, and Tom Bolyard. Demetre, Howe, Meyer, Simmons, and Bolyard are appearing on the tourney team for the second straight year.

Archers Start Long Climb To Retain Coveted State Crown

Nick Demetre

Nick Demetre, a versatile six-footer, will figure prominently in Coach Don Reichert's Sectional plans. The sharp-shooting junior has tallied 187 points this season, being second in South Side team scoring, averaging around 10 points a game.

Although Demetre is not of overpowering size, he possesses the spring of a cat and can be counted on to pull down his share of rebounds, both offensive and defensive.

Because of his versatility, Demetre probably will be switched around either at guard or forward as the occasion demands. If Nick's scoring is consistent the Green will give any team a real run for their money.

Dave Barrett

Another pleasant surprise to all concerned with the Archer cause is ■ promising junior in Dave Barrett.

Barrett, through hard work and determination, has blossomed into a fine ball player, gaining knowledge, experience, and polish every game—invaluable in playing good basketball.

The big center is third in South Side scoring and a close second to Bolyard in rebounds where he has been most impressive.

At 6-4, Barrett possesses ■ serious threat to any coach's defensive plans. Besides rebounding well, Dave is a demon on defense, blocking numerous attempts by opposing centers to send the ball goalward.

Barrett, looking better with each game, will definitely be a real threat in tournament play, as well as regular games, both this year and next, providing a good 1-2-3 nucleus, along with Roderick and Demetre, for Coach Reichert to build around in 1960.

Tom Bolyard

Tom Bolyard is the nucleus of the Archer team. This will be Bolyard's third year of Sectional competition. The brunt of carrying the Green through the Sectionals will unquestionably be placed on Tom's broad shoulders. This season Tom has led the Archers in scoring and rebounds. He has set several scoring records this season, including the 48-point one-game record, and the city season and career scoring record. On top of this, Tom has been a hawk on defense, and his brilliant defensive plays have proven as exciting as his scoring sprees. There is no doubt but that Bolyard will be the target of all rival teams, but for Tom this is merely ■ challenge which he has met more than once this past season. In 19 games Bolyard has tallied 551 points, never scoring less than 20 in one game.

Bill Meyer

Bill Meyer not only adds speed and hustle to the Archer line-up, but he also pulls down a good share of the Archer rebounds. Although Bill is no "gun" on offense, he is one of the mainstays in the rugged Archer defense. The sixth man on South's championship team of last season, Bill had some early-season knee trouble; but he has deservingly gained a starting forward position along with Tom Bolyard. A rugged halfback in football, Bill can always be depended on to be in there fighting for possession of the ball; and he will certainly be a credit to South in the coming Sectional.

Mike Simmons

Scrapping and battling his way into the first five this year was Mike Simmons, a senior with ■ never-say-die attitude and ■ spirit of leadership that has carried his fellow teammates through many a tight spot.

Simmons, like Lebrecht, not of exceptional height, has overcome that and other obstacles with a determination and hustle, a shining example showing how much "will" means in this game of basketball.

Although scoring was not considered to be his main attribute, Mike has developed an eye from far out and has come through when goals were most needed. It is his defensive play and fine assists that have caught the eye of spectators as well as opposing coaches—much to their chagrin and bewilderment.

Ted Lebrecht

In an age where a lot of ball players are shooting the ball "down" into the basket, Teddy Lebrecht is an unusual, but very pleasing, change to the eyes of many Archer rooters.

Standing only 5-7, but endowed with ■ wonderful physique and steel springs for legs, Teddy played a commendable starting role at the beginning of the campaign, filling in for the ineligible Bill Meyer.

On numerous occasions he has been called upon to replace one of the first five in foul trouble and has always been an asset to the Archer machine.

A gifted driver with plenty of spunk, Ted should be seeing plenty of action in the Archers' quest for the state crown.

Ken Howe

One of the most determined ball players on the Archer squad is pinch-hitting Kenny Howe, who has steadily improved since his season with the reserves last season. Ken has a soft jump shot, and he has been called on many times during the past season to fire up the Archer quintet when it has been stalled. At his forward position, Ken grabs off many rebounds in spite of his relatively small size for his position. Because of his continued hustle and spirit as well as his playing ability, Ken will more than likely see plenty of action in the Sectional Tournament.

Dave Roderick

Tall, lanky Dave Roderick has given the Archer front line the extra scoring punch and height that it has needed during the past season. Dave, who arrived at South from the state of Ohio last year, has shown well for Coach Don Reichert in previous games. Many times Dave can be seen leaping high to capture a rebound off the boards. Although Dave has not been ■ regular starter in the South Side lineup, he has developed rapidly during his first basketball season at Kellyville; and he can be readily counted on when he is sent into Sectional play.

Gary Gardner

At 5-6½, Gary Gardner, South's scrappy guard, is the smallest member of the Tournament Twelve. However, what he lacks in size is made up in speed and ability.

This has been the Junior A's finest year so far in an Archer uniform. He has played mainly varsity ball this campaign, although appearing in several reserve contests. Gary played for the Archer freshman team two years back and last year saw little action for the reserves.

Gary is confident that South will win the Sectional and Regional and will have a good chance to go all the way. "Semi-State will be tough, but I think we can take it."

Endowed with a good jump shot and plenty of hustle, Gary will be a valuable asset to the Archer band for the state tourney.

Hoy McConnell

Senior member of the Tournament Twelve is hustling forward Hoy McConnell. The six-foot 170-pounder has won the favor of Archer rooters with his aggressive play and desire to win.

Hoy thinks, "Winning State can be done if we play the way we did against

Eight Senior Class Members Are National Merit Finalists

Eight South Side seniors are among 10,000 who reached the finals and were awarded Certificates of Merit in the National Merit Scholarship program. About six-tenths of one per cent of the seniors in each state received awards, but South's eight finalists constituted 2.16 per cent.

Mike Gilsdorf, Ed Hartman, Alice Hawk, Mary Sue Robertson, Sharon Ruhl, John Shannahan, Mike Simmons, and Judith Walter received certificates which attest to their high academic promise. All eight that qualified for the semi-finals were finalists in the competition.

The 10,000 seniors received the highest scores on two college aptitude tests. This number will be pared down to 700 actual winners, who will be determined from the judging now in progress. The Merit Scholars will be announced around May 1, 1959.

THEY, AND THE COLLEGES they have chosen, will share in $3.5 million in Merit Scholarship funds offered by over 80 different organizations and individuals.

The names of the Certificate of Merit winners are being sent to over 1,500 colleges, universities, and other scholarship-granting agencies. In this manner, they are also under consideration for the thousands of other privately-financed scholarships offered outside the Merit Scholarship program.

Previous experience has indicated that the finalist will be offered some $2.5 million worth of freshman-year scholarship assistance from these outside sources.

"The Certificate of Merit winners number 10,000 this year, an increase of 2,500 over previous years," stated Mr. John M. Stalnaker, president of National Merit Scholarship Corporation, the non-profit organization that conducts the annual competition.

"EACH YEAR WE try to focus the attention of the nation's scholarship donors upon a limited group of high school graduates with the highest demonstrated potential to benefit from college training. These are the Certificate of Merit winners, the top performers in our national testing. We provide as many of them with direct assistance as our funds permit and encourage a great variety of independent donors to do the same," Mr. Stalnaker said in explanation of the corporation.

TO IMPROVE CHARACTER — To help students to improve their speech and to thus better develop their personalities is one of the major objectives behind the Speech Therapy Department. Miss Barbara Bailey, student teacher, and Mr. Lloyd Way consult with a student of the therapy course. (Picture by DeHaven)

The selection of the 700 finalists who will be awarded Merit Scholarships, is performed by the Merit Scholarship Selection Committee, a panel of experts in academic selection, and by special judging teams convened by various donors of Merit Scholarships. Grades, leadership, citizenship, and extra-curricular activities are considered as well as test scores.

THE MERIT SCHOLARSHIPS are four-year awards, and carry stipends that range from $100 a year to $1,500 a year. Each stipend is individually determined on the basis of the need of the individual recipient. The amount is based on family resources, summer earnings, and college costs, all of which vary with each winner.

No Merit Scholar may accept other major scholarships in addition to his Merit Scholarship stipend. This rule, followed by most private donors, is to allow the available funds to be spread to as many outstanding students as possible.

Each student chooses his college and course of study, and admission to college is the responsibility of each student.

OVER 80 CORPORATIONS, foundations, and other organizations will be offering Merit Scholarships to the '58-'59 winners. Four of them—the Sears Foundation, IBM Corporation, Shell Companies Foundation, Inc., and Lilly Endowment, Inc.—will together offer 135 Merit Scholarships.

The National Merit Scholarship Corporation was established in 1955 through grants of $20.5 million from Ford Foundation and the Carnegie Corporation of New York. The current program is the fourth that has been conducted. Nearly one million students have been tested to date.

The next program will begin April 28, 1959, with the Qualifying Test, to be given in an estimated 15,000 high schools.

Riflers To Shoot In Prone Position

Shooting in the prone position will be practiced by the new members of the Girls' Rifle Club next Tuesday on the range at 3:30 p.m.

South's rifle team will exchange a postal match with Round Lake Rangers' rifle team. When the scores have been compiled, the results will be returned to the respective schools and placed on record.

Targets for ten cents per round, which includes ten shots, were purchased at Tuesday's meeting at 3:30 p.m. on the range.

Diane Petznik To Give Piano Recital Saturday

Diane Petznik, 9B, will present a piano recital for teenagers only from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m. this Saturday at the studio of her teacher, Mr. Loren Yaggy at 2402 South Harrison Street.

She will play composition by Bach, Beethoven, Heller, Chopin, and Schumann. All teenagers are invited to come but are asked to call H-2277 for reservations. The recital is free of charge.

KYC To Tour Facilities For Helping The Blind

"We are diverting on March 3 from our usual activities and we will tour the Allen County League for the Blind facilities," stated Mr. Jack Weicker, sponsor of Know-Your-City Club.

The tour is being arranged by Milton J. Rosenthal, a member of the board of directors of the League for the Blind. The members will see methods used in rehabilitation of the blind on their tour of the facilities and refreshments will be served later.

KYC's are to meet in Room 110 at 3:30 p.m. "Members must not forget their permission papers and bus money," reminded Mr. Weicker.

Archers Hope To Be Awarded Sportsmanship Trophy Again

"Last year the conduct of South Side High School was so fine that they were awarded the best conduct award. I hope the conduct this year will deserve the same recognition," stated R. Nelson Snider, principal.

In order that the students of South Side may put forth their best conduct they are asked to follow a few requests or rules.

The first rule is that students are asked not to show favoritism toward one school, for they are all our guests.

The second rule is that students are asked not to bring confetti or mechanical noise makers into the Coliseum.

Just as students are not allowed to walk on the gym floor here at the school, spectators are requested to be careful not to "cut corners" or walk on the playing floor at the Coliseum.

To safeguard against the injury of players, spectators are asked not to throw coke cups or other waste material on the playing floor, for an action of this sort could result in a serious injury to a player.

Since the Coliseum belongs to all, students are asked to remember to treat it as if it were his home, for it will be for a few days.

While the game is in session students are asked to remain in their seats and not roam the corridors.

Students are requested not to arrive too early at the Coliseum. The reason for this is that spectators who come early usually bring snacks and throw the remains on the grounds.

If a person has to come early he is asked to remain in his car till the doors open.

AAUW Invites Senior Girls To 'Plan Your Future' Sunday

To interest, to inform, and to inspire high school girls to continue their education, the Fort Wayne Branch of the American Association of University Women invites all senior high school girls to attend the annual "Plan Your Future Party" Sunday, March 1, at 2:30 p.m. at the IOOF Building, 210 East Jefferson Street.

"Find Your Orbit" will be discussed by the panel, composed of Mrs. Robert Wight, panel moderator, and five panelists including Mrs. Thomas Gilmer, Jr., and the Misses Margaret Albersmeyer, Ellen Mitchell, Jo Marie Walsh, and Celeste Roudebush.

A BOOKLET entitled "Soaring Ahead," of which the title article has been written by Mrs. D. L. Musselman, chairman of the Secondary Education Committee, will be presented to each girl. Miss Salle Kemp and Miss Dorothy Burdick were responsible for designing and making the booklets.

An introduction will be made by Mrs. Lloyd Dockal, president of the Fort Wayne Branch of AAUW. Miss Opal Stech, head of the Home Economics Department at Manchester College, will make the closing remarks.

Assisting the general chairman, Mrs. Edwin H. Perkins, are Mrs. John Krueckeberg and Mrs. Musselman.

Mrs. Robert Cummins and Miss Ruth Holzworth will serve refreshments, and Mrs. Dockal and Mrs. Krueckeberg will preside at the table. Hostesses will be Mrs. Edward Sparrow, Mrs. Robert Fabish, Mrs. Charles Momper, II, Mrs. David Burroff, and the Misses Kemp and Burdick. Arrangements for the program were made by Mrs. Krueckeberg.

Invitations have been issued to all high school senior girls enrolled in college preparatory classes in the Fort Wayne area.

Speech Therapy Comes To South

The Speech and Hearing Therapy program here at the present time, has nine students enrolled. Teaching at present is shared by Lloyd C. Way, Supervisor of Speech and Hearing Therapy, and Miss Barbara Bailey, student teacher, Ball State Teacher's College.

The therapy class is to help students with speech problems, such as stuttering, lisping, abnormal voice quality, foreign dialect, oral inactivity, and hearing loss. The students are referred to the school personnel and parents. The students themselves may ask for help.

There is individual instruction every Thursday in which the students use their study period for this purpose.

The training procedure is done by giving tests on errors in speech, hearing differences, producing accurate sounds, using drill material, and giving practice in correct word usage.

This speech and hearing program is for anyone who is interested in bettering themselves. If you are interested and want help, you may contact Mr. Lloyd Way in Room 106.

South To Be Host School For Sectional Tourney

"Be exceptionally gracious at the tournament," says R. Nelson Snider, principal, "since we are the host school."

Mr. Snider is the manager of the tournament this year; therefore, South Side is called the host school.

Before Fort Wayne had the Coliseum, the tournaments were played at the three public high schools, each school holding it every three years. The school that held the tournament was called the "host" school and this term has remained, even though the tournaments are conducted at the Coliseum. The last time a tournament was held at South Side was in the year 1938, the year South won the State Championship.

SOUTH WAS THE FIRST "host" school for the tournaments when they began being conducted at the Coliseum in 1958. This year marks the third year South has been "host" school at a tourney.

Mr. Snider is the manager for the regional and semi-state tournaments also; thus, South is the most for these tournaments too.

Early in the fall, the Indiana High School Athletic Association announces that the tournaments will be conducted in the spring and gives a chance for schools to put their application in signifying they would like to host them. An Allen County school could be a host, but so far just the Fort Wayne public high schools have been in charge of the tournaments.

THE SOUTH SIDE BAND will be the official band and participate in the games that the Archers will play, though there will be other bands at the tournaments.

Mr. Snider has assigned sections to a school according to its size. South Side will sit in sections 51, 52, 54, and 55 for the Wednesday evening game.

Health Scholarships Offered To Students

Graduating seniors planning to study for an A.B. degree at fully accredited schools of nursing, occupational, or physical therapy are eligible to apply for scholarships under the new Health Scholarship Program of the National Foundation.

The National Foundation is offering scholarships at $500 for four years. They are planning to award a minimum of $101 in each of the fields, nursing, occupational, and physical therapy.

Interested students are to see Mr. R. Nelson Snider, principal.

Members To Be Listed During 36 Tomorrow

A short business meeting will be conducted for the 36 Workshop Club Thursday at 3:30 p.m. in the Greeley Room. At this meeting the membership list will be posted.

Dave Dunstone, president, announced that anyone whose name did not appear on the list, and who felt it should be there may feel free to ask any of the officers about it.

Central YMCA Youth To Sponsor Dance

The Youth Department of the Central YMCA has announced plans to hold an After-Sectional dance in the YMCA Gym. The dance will be on Saturday evening, February 28, from 9:30 to 12 p.m. Music will be on record with Al Russell, of WGL, serving as disc jockey. There will be an admission charge of 50 cents.

Pupils May Use Advanced Texts

"It seems to me that there might be some value in a plan of securing for our school some advanced books, and other materials, in the various field of study, for our academically talented students," stated Mr. R. Nelson Snider, principal.

Next year with more suitable physical facilities available, it is hoped that this plan will come into effect.

Students who are seriously and deeply interested in a subject and who excel academically in that subject, would find this available material challenging and educational.

Mr. Snider commented that for thirty years, South Side has tried to classify students in classes where they could progress at their own rate. At present South Side has classes both for slower students, who have difficulty in keeping up with the normal pace, and for advanced students, whose learning ability requires a faster pace.

The proposal of these educational facilities would be available to students by specific assignment.

To put this plan into effect, Mr. Snider feels that two steps will need to be taken. First, the various departments will have to decide if the plan would have any value. Second, the departments would have to make lists of books and any other materials which would be needed.

The South Side faculty has been asked to think this proposal over and express their views on the subject.

Music Concert To Be Tuesday

Accompanied by the South Side Choir, Mr. Alfred Hemmer, a history teacher at South, will sing "That Lucky Old Sun" in the Music Assembly next Tuesday in the school gymnasium.

Included in the medley of songs from musical shows which the vocal department will perform are "If I Loved You," "It's a Grand Night for Singing," and "Can't Help Lovin' Dat Man."

"This program may be subject to change without notice," concluded Mr. Lester Hostetler, vocal director.

Selections from the Broadway musical, "Music Man" will be presented by the instrumental department. "Belle of Chicago March" by Sousa, "Dance of Comedians" from "Bartered Bride" by Smetana, and "Moto Perpetuo" by Laube, featuring the first violin section, will complete the assembly.

Boost The Team!

Sectionals are coming around, and we will soon be at the games, supposedly boosting the team. We are proud of our team, and we are pinning our hopes on them to win state this year. We are also proud of our school, but we don't always stick up so well for South Side.

If a few of us do not measure up in sportsmanship, onlookers will decide that all Archers are poor sports. Each of us has to do his bit to keep up our reputation.

It helps the team to know we are behind them all the way. If the fellow with the ball looks up and sees his supporters wandering around in the aisles and hears a feeble little "fight, team, fight," what is he going to think? What is he going to do? Just who is supposed to cheer, anyway . . . . the opposition?

It shows some real nobleness of spirit when a couple of loudmouths start to boo. The players, the school, and everyone who likes basketball is embarrassed. The referees' decisions are final. If the referees could not make their decisions stick, there could not be any basketball games.

If we should, by any remote chance, lose a game, all is not a total loss. You can bet people will remember how well South Siders backed their team. Let's take the Sportsmanship Trophy again this year . . . it really shines.

Be nice to others in a nice way and they'll be nice to you.

Archers Capture Circulation Cup For Seventeenth Straight Semester

61 Homerooms Conquer Goal Of 100 Per Cent

2,107 Subscriptions Sold By Friday, February 20; Whole School Is 100%

By Katie Rastetter

South Side High School is 100 per cent for The Times!!!

For the seventeenth consecutive semester, The South Side Times cinched the circulation cup by gaining 100 per cent for the entire school on Friday, February 20.

South Side's enrollment is 2,165 pupils, plus 92 faculty members, making a total gross enrollment of 2,257. From this is subtracted 152 brother-sister reports, making the final net enrollment of 2,105.

Of these 2,105 members of South Side, 1,918 subscribed for The Times. Exactly 195 outside subscriptions were sold, plus 16 subscriptions bought by members of the faculty without homerooms. The total amount of subscriptions sold for The South Side Times by Friday, February 20, was 2,107, two over the exact number of our net enrollment.

MISS ROWENA HARVEY, adviser, commented, "The kids who worked hard put on a good campaign, for the second semester is always more difficult than the first."

Exactly 61 out of the 73 South Side homerooms had attained their goal of 100 per cent by Friday, February 13, the end of the circulation campaign.

All homerooms will receive their 100 per cent signs as soon as they reach this goal. Candy bars will be given to each member of a 100 per cent homeroom who has subscribed for The Times as soon as all its promissory notes are paid.

Subscriptions for The South Side Times may still be bought from the homeroom agent or in the Times room until the close of the semester. Agents should see Miss Harvey if they are in doubt about the cost of The Times for the remainder of the semester.

"OUTSIDE SUBSCRIPTIONS may still be obtained from one of the agents or a member of the circulation staff," states Beth Golden, outside circulation manager, "but they should be turned in as soon as possible to assure prompt mailing."

Barb Frederick, circulation manager, and her bookheads, Phyllis Springer, Geri Geller, Ann Golden, Julie Carr, Katie Rastetter, Janet Terry, Carole Fischer, and Linda Wightman, want to thank all the agents who acquired a 100 per cent homeroom before the end of the campaign.

Bookheads who had a 100 per cent book by the end of the circulation campaign were Janet Terry, Julie Carr, and Katie Rastetter.

February 26 is also the deadline which has been set for all the pictures to be sent to the engravers.

DeMolay To Have Tournament Dance

The Fort Wayne Chapter, Order of DeMolay, will stage its annual Tournament Trot Dance on Friday night, March 6. The dance will be held at the Masonic Temple, 216 E. Washington Boulevard, from 9 to 12 midnight.

Highlighting the affair will be dancing to Hi-Fi music by Wayne Palmer. Decorations will center around the school colors of the area high schools represented in the local chapter: South Side, North Side, Central, Elmhurst, New Haven, and Huntertown. Special favors will be given to each girl and all dates will enter a drawing for a door prize.

DeMolays may be admitted on their 1959 dues card, while friends may purchase tickets for $1 per couple. Ticket chairman at South Side is Bob King and he is assisted by co-chairmen Dave Dunstone, John Hendricksen, Jim King, Jim Carter, Chris Parrott, and Chuck Jellison. Ticket chairmen at the five other schools are: John Johnson, North Side; Mike Doherty, Central; Max Louden, New Haven; Sam Baker, Huntertown; and Dick Colberg, Elmhurst.

Committees will play an important part in the success of the dance. Chairman and co-chairman of the decorations committee are John Kepler, North Side, and Chuck Jellison, South Side, respectively. Head of the publicity committee is John Johnson, North Side.

Kelly Personalities Publicize 'Fine Arts'

Two South Siders, Sheri DeYoung and Jean Hessert, appeared on the Harry Blair Show over WGL radio last Wednesday. They were interviewed regarding the "Fine Arts in Miniature" series. They discussed the content and purpose of the series, and their particular duties in the coming program which was presented Sunday at Plymouth Congregational Church.

On Thursday, Geri Geller publicized the program on the Jane Weston Show over WOWO.

Last Saturday night Barbara Lewandowski and Mary Lou Koehler were interviewed on "Club 21" regarding "Fine Arts in Miniature."

Lincoln's Assembly Shows Abe's Life By Flashbacks

Abraham Lincoln was an important man in the world as well as in the United States! This was one of the main features of Lincoln's life brought out in the impressive Lincoln assembly last Wednesday.

The program consisted of three parts—Lincoln as a boy in Indiana, Lincoln as a politician, and Lincoln as a man; it was conducted by a flashback method.

Dick McGaw and David Allen portrayed the parts of a father and son admiring a statue of Lincoln, which was acted by Tom Bolyard.

The son wanted to know how Lincoln spent his childhood days; so the father explained.

Here, the first flash-back was played. A square dance was one of the social events that was shown in Lincoln's boyhood days. A typical "hoe down" of the day was demonstrated by a group of square dancers who danced to music of the "fiddlers," Vickie Sheldon and Carol Purdy and the "piano plunker," Sharon Possell.

THE SECOND flash-back concerned Lincoln as a politician. It included the Lincoln-Douglas debates and some of his famous political speeches.

Lincoln in this part was portrayed by Bob Duncan and Steven Douglas was played by Dan Tritch.

The last portion of the program explained the great importance of Lincoln in the world. It also explained the many outstanding characteristics of Lincoln as a man.

To climax the program and to show that Lincoln had malice toward none, students of different races and nationalities stood before the incoln statue.

THREE NARRATORS, Joan Littlejohn, Jim Jackson, and Dave Redmond, explained the action in the flash-backs.

Throughout the program, the concert choir sang songs that were connected with that period. They wehe "The Battle Hymn of the Republic," "Greenfields," "Old Abe Lincoln," and "Hoosen Johnny."

The script for the program was written by Mary Ann Soles, Karen Brumm, Jim Jackson, Dan Tritch, Steve Adair, Judy Garrison, Ron Bogan, Richard Spencer, Barbara Frederick, Katie Rastetter, and Chuck Jellison.

Advisers for the program were Miss Lucy Osborne, Mrs. Keith Darby, Miss Mary Crowe, Mr. John Arnold, Mr. Marion Feasel, Mr. Jake McClure, Mr. Wilbur Wilson, Miss Helen Pohlmeyer, Mr. Harvey Knigge, Mr. Roland Smith, Mr. James Morey, and Mr. William Applegate.

Archers Nip C.C. 60-52, Win Fourth Straight City Crown

Kellys Score 28th Triumph Over City Foes

South Wins 6th Straight Over Central Catholic; Tom Bolyard Scores 32

By Steve Rothberg

The numbers 28, 4, and 6 unfolded as magic last Friday as South Side's Archers achieved their 28th straight City Series win, their fourth consecutive city championship, and their sixth successive victory over one city foe, in downing the Irish of Central Catholic, 60-52.

Led by fabulous Tom Bolyard, the Green amassed a spectacular shooting average, proving too much for the Central Catholic quintet. The Green potted 25 field goals out of 49 attempts for a torrid .510 percentage.

Bolyard, contributing 32 points to his team's cause, established just one more in a long list of marks for which he has been responsible. He now holds the most points scored, excluding tournament play, eradicating the old high set by Central's Johnny Kelso in 1958.

z z z

BOLYARD, HOWEVER, did not capture all the applause as there were three other Archers who played outstanding ball throughout the contest. Mike Simmons, rising to the fore scoring-wise when he was most needed, cashed in 10 points and played sterling defense from the opening tip to the final buzzer.

Bill Meyer finally came into his own, getting eight points and keeping the Irish dizzy with his favorite driving style of play. Dave Barrett, although he did not score so highly, was indispensible off the boards, grabbing 16 important rebounds to lead everybody in that department.

The Irish only had Bob Pelkington and John Sorg who were hitting to any degree of proficiency.

The first quarter did not see too much scoring due to the fact that the Purple could not penetrate South's defense; and while the Archers were breaking loose on offense, they were not warmed up sufficiently and missed numerous good shots. The stanza ended with South on the long end of an 8-6 count.

z z z

THE OFFICIALS, who incidentally called a fine ball game, nullified two South Side foul conversions, one in each of the first two periods, permitting Central Catholic to tie the score at 13-all in the second period. But senior guard Mike Simmons and Tom Bolyard took over, pushing the Green into the lead and at the half the scoreboard showed South ahead, 28-21.

The third quarter was highlighted by more of Meyer's drive-in shots.

In the final period, the Irish felt the full wrath of Bolyard as he pasted the hoop for five baskets out of six tries with Terry Coonan, Irish coach, trying everything he knew, unsuccessfully, to stop the tremendous senior.

The Central Catholic fans did have their thrill for a short time as at one stage of the game the Irish pulled within four points at 49-45 with Pelkington setting a school scoring record. The Irish elation was short-lived as Don Reichert's crew surged ahead to their sixth city crown.

Mike Simmons was top man as far as shooting percentages go making four out of five. Bolyard was second with 14 for 21.

About the only great point of concern in the Archer camp is that Nick Demetre played a very sub-par game, getting only two points; but then every ball player has his off nights.

Scoring:

	G	F	T
Bolyard	14	4	32
Meyer	3	2	8
Barrett	2	2	6
Simmons	4	2	10
McConnell	1	0	2
Totals	25	10	60

South Side-Central Sectional Game To Mark Centennial; Series Is Thirty-Seven Years Old; Began Back In 1923

If both teams are successful in advancing to the Sectional finals, South Side and Central will meet on the hardwood for the 100th time. Of their 99 previous meetings, South has won 51 and Central 48.

The ancient rivalry began 37 years ago in 1923. The Archers were under Ward O. Gilbert in the first years of their campaigning. Gilbert was succeeded in 1927 by Lundy Welborn, who coached for one year.

J. H. "Jake" McClure followed Welborn in 1928. He coached for seven years, and in that length of time, his charges won three Sectional titles. This era saw some of the better aggregations which have represented South Side. In 1929 the first team to represent the school made the trip to Indianapolis. Some of the standouts of this period were names such as Fleming, Wilson, Dickey, Miner, and Ralston. Many great games were played with the pesky Tigers of Central, who could always be expected to come up with a tough team.

z z z

McCLURE WAS succeeded in 1935 by Burl Friddle. Under his guidance, the Kellys rose to their highest athletic achievements thus far in their history. The 1937 team had an excellent season, and it paved the way for still better years. One of the members of this squad was a boy named Reichert. The 1938 team compiled a sensational 19-3 record in regular-season play, beating Central 30-28 and 41-36 in regular season games. In the Sectional Tourney, the Green defeated the Blue, 23-15, for the title.

The Kellys then stormed on through to the finals, where they won the school's first state championship, which was also the first for the city of Fort Wayne. Famous names from this championship team include two all-state performers, 6-8 Jim Glass, and Dale Hamilton. Other familiar names were Hines, Roth, and Bolyard.

In 1939, all eyes were on the Archers. They breezed through their entire schedule undefeated and in doing so topped Central 43-36 and 31-27, picking up the city and Sectional championships to boot. However, they were upset on the trail to Naptown in the Regionals. The culprits were a game little Ossian team.

z z z

AGAIN IN 1940 South Side returned to Indianapolis. On their third venture, nevertheless, they were defeated by Mitchell.

Friddle was followed by Wayne Scott, present South Side athletic director. His tenure saw some of the greatest South-Central tilts. One which will never be forgotten occured in 1943. The Tigers and the Archers both had tremendous teams that year. In their first game of the season, the Tigers were victorious, 26-22. The Archers evened the score a few weeks later by winning, 36-30. When they met for the third time, in the Sectional finals, the tension was high. Central pulled out one of those now-famous overtime wins, 25-24. This was the closest they came to defeat the rest of the way, as they waltzed to their first, and Fort Wayne's second, state championship.

AFTER SCOTTY, Glen Stebing coached for one year. The next coach was Don Reichert. During the late 1940's and early 1950's, the Tigers made it a habit to beat almost everyone in sight, including the Archers. Therefore, they had run up a nice lead in the all-time series.

Under Reichert, however, a new Archer dynasty was born. They finally succeeded in upending a long Central string in 1956. With such names as Terry Miller and Bob Blackledge, they also took the city, Sectional, and Regional. The tourney trail ended at the Semi-State, with a defeat by Elkhart.

In the 1956-57 season, South pasted Central three times running. These games, all close, featured players such as Mike McCoy, Chris and Carl Stavreti, Danny Howe, and a sophomore named Bolyard. Central had the services of greats such as John Kelso and Ben Hawkins. The Archers again captured city, Sectional and Regional crowns before losing to South Bend Central, eventual state champs.

z z z

THE YEAR 1958 was a year which will be remembered for a long time. South and Central were rated 1-2 in the state, and both were eyed as championship prospects. Central had Kelso, one of the best individual performers in the state, as well as Bill Boyd and others. South, of course, had its iron five of Howe, Bolyard, McCoy, Stavreti, and Miller. In their first meeting the Archers, down by 10 points at half-time, rallied to win 72-64. They also took the second encounter, 77-67.

When they met in the afternoon round of the Sectional, the stage was set for a great game, and the fans were not disappointed. South won, 60-56, in an overtime thriller. This proved to be the only time the Kellys were pressed to win, as they breezed to the Green's second state championship.

This year has already seen two overtime battles, with South winning both to run its string to nine straight over the Bengals. The stage is once again set for a championship game meeting between the two powerhouses, and local fans are looking forward to another thriller in the great South-Central series.

Schmitz On Sports

It's tournament time again—time to forget the completed season (hard to do; the Archers fooled everyone with their splendid showings this season), time for the coaches to start speculating about their chances and time for the sports writers to climb on the limbs to make those annual seemingly-radical prognostications.

z z z

Picking a Sectional champ will be the least of the problems. I'll string along with South Side. Of course, this year's balanced field will present the defending champs with many obstacles to by-pass.

z z z

They're favorites again and that seems to be an appropriate position after annexing their fourth consecutive City Series championship with a routine win from the improving Irish of Central Catholic last Friday.

z z z

But after last week's developments local fans are wondering about the outcome of every game no matter how lopsided the match seems to be.

z z z

North Side trounced South Bend Central to definitely place themselves on the contenders' list. But the surprise was Concordia's showing against Central. Johnny Mader's fast-coming Cadets established themselves as a serious threat by staying with Central for 28 minutes before bowing, 77-69, in a late Central rush.

z z z

Then Elmhurst, whom no one considered one week ago, came along to upset the county's "favorite son," New Haven, by 48-47. And Huntertown, the leading ACAC contingent, had trouble downing Woodburn while recording its seventh win in conference action.

z z z

Attention all basketball fans! Don't miss the Huntertown-North and Central-C.C. contests; these two are the toss-up games. Another interesting one will be the possible Elmhurst vs. Huntertown or North Side game.

z z z

Of course, that anticipated 100th South-Central battle is bound to be a dilly. Aren't all South vs. Central games?

z z z

Now to pick a state titlist. This was quite a task to pick a favorite, but I finally decided on one hardwood squad. I liked Muncie Central because of their size and offense. I also considered Valpo's fast-coming club.

z z z

Shortridge looked good in a game here; but the one team that has created the greatest impression on me is the Senators from East Chicago Washington, so I'll go out on the limb and pick East Chicago to dethrone South Side's defending state champs.

z z z

Being an Archer fan, nothing will be conceded. It looks like the Green can make a return trip to the Butler Fieldhouse, because Kokomo, the biggest power in the path, can be stopped if Rayl is; and that's been done several times this year. Once to the finish line, anything's possible.

z z z

Other less noticed teams to watch this year are Bainbridge, Noblesville, Attucks, and Shawswick.

z z z

Reichert Predicts

Coach Reichert's taste for tourney participation is far from satisfied. Reichert is hoping for a chance to return to Indianapolis and must have a slight bit of optimism toward the chances. For the Sectionals Reichert wishes to take them one one at a time; but commented on the outcome thusly, "The team that scores the most points Saturday night will win the Sectional and that team will be South Side."

z z z

The coveted city trophy seems to be enjoying its stay at South Side and was given a new one-year lease as the Kellys swept past a city foe for the 28th consecutive time.

z z z

Tom Bolyard's brilliance could not be overemphasized in this contest as he hit two clutch shots in the fourth period to send the Green soaring home to a triumph. His 32-point production set his season total at 583, thus placing the record on the books which Archer fans hope can remain for years to come.

z z z

He used half this total to set the only previous remaining unbroken record. Against C.C. he eclipsed the career scoring record for games excluding tourney play.

z z z

Now that the "rebuilding season" is history, it's time to take out the pre-season predictions and gloat for a while. This column prognosticated that the Kellys would be victorious in 16 of their 20 contests, and that's exactly what the big Green accomplished. The only mistake we made was to go one step further and select the winners of each game; but, regardless, the results were far from unsatisfactory.

z z z

For the first six games, I was right on schedule; and then South upset Michigan City, and were upset twice by Terre Haute Gerstmeyer. Central, a slight favorite to win their bout with the Kellys, fell victim to the Green's patented late rush. Thus four misses by mid-January.

z z z

Shortridge and Froebel provided two misses when the former nipped South and the latter rolled over dead before the offense-minded Archers. So in summary, this corner missed six times in 20 tries; that's good for 70 per cent correct. Not complaining!

z z z

Also recall back in November we had South pegged for seventh on the final ratings; they were. Speaking of ratings, this column went on the end of the limb to select the top teams by the season's end. Only five were on the final Top Ten listings, but two of the other five made frequent appearances during the season. Two of my misses, Huntingburg and Noblesville, warrant some watching in the tourney.

South 7th And 9th In Final Ratings

The highly-considered, but not always so valid, United Press International coaches' poll and the Associated Press poll were published for the last time this current season.

Muncie Central's Bearcats got the nod over East Chicago Washington for first-place honors with Indianapolis Shortridge in the third slot.

A surprise came to South Side in the pegging of the squads as the Archers placed seventh and ninth in the A.P. and UPI polls, respectively. However, the main fact that is causing wonder is how was the Michigan City quintet rated above them after the sound licking they suffered at the hands of the Green.

The Archers' only city companion in the top 10, Fort Wayne Central, was replaced by Indianapolis Crispus Attucks, with the Tigers dropping to a twelfth place tie with Indianapolis Manual, a dark horse in the rough Indianapolis Sectional.

Kokomo, led by high-scoring Jim Rayl, grabbed a fifth behind Madison in the A.P. and fourth in the UPI choices.

Rounding out the 10 are Valparaiso and New Castle filling in the seventh and eighth A.P. slots and the eighth and tenth spots in the UPI poll.

Tourney Trail Set For Champs

South's Defense Path Blocked By Tough Foes

The past of the Fort Wayne Sectional winner could lead straight to the Butler Fieldhouse, March 21. Should South Side win the local Sectional, here is the course of probable obstacles the Archers would take.

In the Regional Tournament in Fort Wayne, the Archers would tackle the Adams Central Sectional winner, possibly Berne or Decatur, in the second game of the afternoon. The evening finale would send the Kellys against the winner of the Kendallville-Churubusco Sectional winner, Howe Military or Garrett the likely team.

Should South Side win their Regional, the Fort Wayne Semi-State Tournament would pair up this way. Headlining the first game would be Kokomo's Wildcats, led by high-scoring Jimmy Rayl, and South Side's Archers, who have Tom Bolyard, holder of three city scoring records. Kokomo was ranked fourth and South seventh in the final A.P. ratings. Presuming that South's defending state champs would win this contest, they would meet the winner of Elkhart and Marion regionals winners, who play in game two.

Should South Side win the Semi-State Tournament, the Archers would journey to Butler Fieldhouse to play the winner of the Evansille Semi-State Tournament, possibly Springs Valley, Huntingburg, or Evansville in the second game. Playing game one will be the Lafayette-Indianapolis Semi-State winners, possibly East Chicago Washington versus Muncie Central, Madison, or Indianapolis Shortridge. The winners of the two games will meet in the evening to decide the 1959 State Champions!

Archers Start Climb

(Gary) Froebel and Michigan City. A few good breaks and the fans' support will surely come in handy."

He feels confident that South will move to Semi-State without difficulty, but that there "the going will be tougher. By grooming a closely-knit team by then, we could go on to grab the crown."

McConnell made the starting five for the freshman team and the next two years were spent on the reserve five. During his sophomore year he dislocated a shoulder and sat out one-half of that season. Hoy still wears a brace to aid his injured shoulder.

Hoy's favorite weapon is his jump shot, although he is a very hard driver. With his speed and ability, Archer fans will probably be seeing plenty of him at the Coliseum and maybe at Butler Fieldhouse.

Steve Burton

By impressing the Kelly coaching staff with his fine reserve performance, guard Steve Burton has captured a spot on the select Archer Tournament Twelve. The 5-10 junior has not seen much varsity action, but he was the main stalwart for the reserve quintet during the regular campaign.

Last year the jump and set shot artist started for a fine freshman team. He will have a chance to assault the Archer nets for two full years following this campaign.

Steve feels, "There are plenty of good teams in Indiana this year, more than last year perhaps. However, at tournament time it is just like starting a new season."

The 140-pound back court ace adds that with a few breaks and the fans' loyal support, the Archers could go all the way.

When Coach Don Reichert scans the bench for a sub to aid a tired starter during the tourney, he'll find Burton ready and willing to help bring another State Crown back to Archerland.

Acie Eldridge

Winning the coach's admiration for aggressiveness and ball-handling ability, flashy guard Acie Eldridge will see plenty of action in the approaching state tourney.

The 5-8 jumping-jack feels that South can bring home the state crown "with a couple of good breaks. We'll have to win just one at a time."

Acie has already proven his worth in several varsity games this season. With his great ball-handling, the Junior B has been and will be especially valuable in the later stages of the game when South chooses to stall the ball, or if their foe wishes to employ these tactics.

Although standing only 5-8, Eldridge can out-jump a man a half-foot taller than he. Acie does about everything for the team except keep score. He grabs his share of points and rebounds, brings the ball into the offensive zone, and stymies foes on defense.

This season Acie played in both a reserve and varsity role. He started last year on a good freshman team and dressed for a few reserve games.

Bulldogs Have Tough Quintet

Out of all the non-city competition, New Haven is probably the strongest threat to capture the 1959 Sectional crown. The Bulldogs have been very impressive during the entire basketball campaign; and in addition to their fine regular season record, they went undefeated in the County Tournament to win the county crown without much difficulty.

Unlike most of the other county teams, New Haven has a rather tall and impressive forward line. The Bulldogs also have their famous back court ace, Al Herman, who gave the South Side Archers a really bad time in an earlier meeting last fall.

Another New Haven advantage is the fact that since they have already played in a big tournament at the Coliseum, the pressure and playing atmosphere will probably not be as great as on other teams.

WITH TWO GAMES remaining, the Bulldogs have a fine 15-5 record, and New Haven coach Norm Ellenberger is sure to have his team fired-up for this Sectional series.

New Haven's starting lineup is Bill Fritcha, a -2 forward who is tied for the number two team scorer position; Dave Dumford, the other forward at 6-2 and their number four scorer; Roger Wisely, new Haven's rugged center at 6-3, and the number three scorer; Gary Kummer, at guard at 5-10 and tied for second-place scoring honors; and Al Herman, who at six-foot, is the team's and ACAC's leading scorer by averaging close to 20 points a game.

# # #

AGAINST CITY FOES they have done surprisingly well. Of three teams only South was able to derail the Bulldogs, and the Archers did that with the aid of serious foul trouble that the key 'Dogs were in throughout the contest.

They dumped C.C., 50-43, and then trounced Concordia, 77-56, a victory that earned them an honorary berth on the A.P. Top Ten Poll; however, they appeared on the state listings only one week.

If any power received a decided break by the draw, it was New Haven. They were chosen to oppose Woodburn in the finale of the opening round games. A victory in this one should be expected. Then either Leo or Hoagland wait for their chance to play the Bulldogs.

If Ellenberger's lads can (and they are expected to by the odds-makers) advance this far, their probable foe will be defending champion South Side in the semi-final round.

Conference Champs Will Meet North

Donning the title of Allen County Athletic Conference champs, the Huntertown Wildcats, under the direction of Head Coach George Cherry, will definitely be out to uphold their distinction when they face North Side in the Sectional Tourney this evening.

The Wildcats will find North rugged competition, but are entirely capable of stopping the Redskins as they did last year. Cherry's boys have earned the reputation as the county's spoilers and would like to add to their reputation in eliminating North Side for the second straight time.

With big 6-4 Bob Blanchard leading the way, anything can be expected from the county quintet. At the forwards, Phil Albright and 6-1 Dick Bauer will operate. Backing them up will be two flashy guards, 5-10 Ross Gross and 5-7 Gay Martin. The second squad is composed of six worthy subs, Bill Garman, Ned Miller, Bob Archer, Larry Smith, Bob Shank, and Louis Alday.

Of any school in the tourney, Huntertown has by far the most impressive season record, 17-3. In ACAC they were topped only by Harlan, 58-51; but lost to New Haven in the County Tourney. Huntertown, Harlan, Lafayette Central, and New Haven are the county's leading contingents this year. By posting a 6-1 mark (exclusive of last Friday's contest), they captured the ACAC championship after fighting off three contenders.

Two losses were previously mentioned, the third came at the hands of Garrett by a 62-58 measure. They have sent all county foes except New Haven and Harlan to defeat.

If they dump North Side, which would be no surprise to any basketball followers around here, they would meet either Elmhurst or Arcola. Both were defeated by the Wildcats aerlier in the year. So should Huntertown dump North, it is most likely that they will meet Central in the semi-final round.

Monroeville First To Test Favored Kellys

Reichertmen Will Face Cubs At 8:30 Tonight In First Round Play

The Monroeville Cubs will face the South Side Archers in their first game of the Sectional Tournament and their position appears to be worse than one of the accused in the Castro war trials in Cuba.

The game will begin at 8:30 p.m. tonight, and it will open the defense of South Side's 1958 State Championship. The Cubs, who are coached by Bob Cruse, will have to come up with some sensational play to drop the taller Archers. There is a good chance that Monroeville may play a control game in hopes that this might stall the Archer attack and unnerve the Green and White of South Side.

As of last Wednesday, the Cubs had attained an 11-8 record, but most of their wins came against weaker county competition; however, there are three indicative scores that might foretell the fortune of the Cubs. The two scores are these: South Side over New Haven, 63-51, and New Haven over Monroeville in regular season play, 83-71, and in the County Tourney again by an 81-51 score.

The Monroeville lineup is as follows:

*Dick Bailey	*Bill Carpenter
Gene Beauchot	Neal Elliot
*Larry Cagnet	*Wayne Ertel
Bob Hart	*Tom Martin
Larry Oman	Steve Sipe
Garry Witte	Harry Yoguelet

Will South Retain Sectional Championship?

Ban On Basketball Playing

Any student who plays a game of basketball, on any team other than within the school, after Saturday, February 28, becomes ineligible for all inter-school competition for one year, and also jeopardizes the standing of the school in the State Athletic Association.

Refs Have Hard Job Conducting Games At Sectional Time

Always supplementing the wild exciting atmosphere of the notly-contested Sectional tourneys are those nasty demons of the hardwood, the referees.

This year's tourney picture will surely not lack that necessary element that adds to the bellowing rings of the huge Coliseum crowds.

The IHSAA head office has released the assignments for the Fort Wayne Sectionals to Thomas Dean, Marion Acton, William Findling, and Gene Butts to work the games at the War Memorial Coliseum tonight, tomorrow evening, Friday, and Saturday.

Local sports dignitaries in the Fort Wayne area expressed different feelings when the news was heard. Most, however, felt that the four officials as a group are just average officials. It is believed that in past years a more select group was chosen for this site.

Two of the four, Dean and Findling, have worked in South Side games this campaign. Findling should be remembered because of his activity in the second South-Central tussle. He was the referee that charged Herb Banet, Central coach, with a technical foul.

Tom Dean worked in the South Side-Gary Froebel contest that went along smoothly but was accented by a few poor calls. But on the whole, Dean is a good referee.

It remains to be seen how well the officiating of the '59 Sectionals will be; but no matter how, it is always well to remember that the referees have a task in which errors are commonplace. Also, remember that the refs work under adverse conditions and can't change their decisions even if they realize that a mistake has been made.

Trojans Could Be Tourney Dark Horse

Inconsistency has plagued Elmhurst's basketball season this year. The Trojans have played up-and-down ball throughout the season, looking good on specific occasions. Coach John Petrick's lads are playing at a .333 overall clip, slightly better than their 3-5 pace in ACAC competition.

The Trojans, who are to be included in the City Series in the near future (one or two years), on the whole have played good ball against the city teams. Concordia nipped the Red by only one point in a real thriller at the Coliseum. As South fans remember, the Trojan crew gave the Green a real battle right down to the wire, finally losing, 50-41. But against much easier competition Elmhurst has shown quite poorly, their 3-5 ACAC record serving as an example.

The Red and White have a short crew that can really hustle on any night they desire. Up front the Trojans have 6-1 Don Waldrop, six-foot Jack Griffith, and 5-9 Don McClean. Backing them up are two senior guards, Mike Scott and Russ Allison, both measuring 5-9½. An excellent reserve bench backs up Petrick's starters. With the exception of McLean, the starting five is an all-senior aggregation.

The Trojans face Arcola in the tourney's opener Wednesday, but after a possible win will have to face fast-coming North Side. If they meet the 'Skins' upset looms as a possibility, for the Trojans have displayed power against the tough squads they faced since last Novembere.

Leo Lions To Try For Important Upset

Leo's Lions, holding the lonely Allen County Athletic Conference cellar position, seem to be the county's weakest team this season. Coach Whitey Heller's boys own a poor 5-13 overall record and an even more sorrowful 2-6 slate in ACAC competition.

Perhaps the only feather in the Lions' cap is their recent showing against Central Catholic.

Although they didn't defeat the Irish, the Lions gave C.C. a good run for their money and did not smell defeat until the final 90 seconds when the Purple caught fire to ice the thriller. The night before the Lions had defeated Elmhurst's Trojans by a 64-58 count.

Coach Heller's front line averages 6-2, but two short guards drop the height advantage. Phil Stucky, a fine 6-3 sophomore center, leads the squad in rebounds and has a promising future. Terry Garman and Karon Mock, 6-3 and 6-1, respectively, are Stucky's running mates at the forward posts. Two juniors, 5-10 Al Richards and 5-8 Dave Neuhouser, are the Lions' starting guards, averaging nearly 14 points between them.

Although the Lions are in the ACAC basement, they will fight their Sectional draw until the final buzzer. Their poor record does not show the close games the Lions have lost throughout the season as Leo looks upset-minded toward the tournament.

Arcola To Depend Upon Big Bob Bell

Hoping to regain its early season form, the Arcola Aces will enter the Fort Wayne Sectional in top physical condition for its game with the Elmhurst Trojans.

Willie Doehrman, head coach, had his squad on top of the Allen County Athletic Conference in the early weeks of the basketball season but slumped of their winning form, and now rest in sixth place in the league. In 18 contests they have split even but are not considered a tough enough match for their country cousins, Elmhurst.

Big Bob Bell was the individual most responsible for the Aces' sudden rise. Bell at 6-2 is a fine defensive man and is one of the county's prolific scorers. Backing him up are Roger Abel, Bill Shanks, Mike Kurtz, and John Henschen. Bill Brumbaugh, who started out as a pinch-hitter, is a fine scorer who sees frequent action.

Should Arcola survive the Elmhurst test the winner of the Huntertown-North Side contest would be their second-round foe. In either case the foe would have more than enough to spill the Aces.

Cadets To Meet Harlan Hawks

Concordia Compiles 4-15 Season Record

Concordia's Cadets, now in a rebuilding year under new coach John Mader, stand at four wins and 15 losses for the season. The Cadets are cellar-dwellers in NEIC competition with a 1-6 record and also are in the basement of the City Series race with on 0-5 slate. Concordia's best showing this season was their 74-72 victory over Bluffton's Tigers.

The Cadets lost all five of last year's starters via graduation. Two sophomores have been looking very good lately. Gary Novak and Bob Stockamp have been crucial point performers. Mader has used a variety of others. Up front, Carl Dahling, Paul Heine, and Rowle Rohlfing have seen much action. Jerry Widenhofer, who has been one of the top 10 city scorers all season, and Steve Wilson have been used a great deal in the back court.

Concordia's closest brush to a City Series win was against North Side in their meeting of three weeks ago. The Redskins beat the Cadets by a mere two-point margin in the closing minutes of the game.

The Maroon seems to be the city's weakest team. The Cadets certainly know they have little chance for the Sectional crown, but they will be looking to knock off a powerhouse if given the chance.

Harlan will be first on the Cadets' Sectional schedule and should give the Maroon all the trouble they want. If the first test is passed, South Side will be waiting and will undoubtedly stop Concordia's rush to their first Sectional title. South topped Concordia early last fall by a comfortable 68-46 count.

The Cadets have improved vastly since that time, but aren't expected to present too dangerous of a threat to the Green.

Times Sports Staff Selects City-Wide All-Star Teams

Bolyard, Three Others Are Unanimous Choices Of Archer Sports Staff

Featured by four unanimous first-string choices, the South Side Times sports staff announced their city All-Star basketball team. The '59 dream team was studded by two South Side hardwood aces, two from Central, and one from Central Catholic.

For their efforts against city and foreign foes, Bob Pelkington, Tom Bolyard, T. C. Williams, Bill Boyd, and Nick Demetre were named to the first-string squad. Chosen to back them up were Dave Barrett, South Side; Ron Latham, North Side; Willie Curry, Central; Jim Lang, North Side; and Mike Simmons, South Side.

Pelkington, C.C.'s first-string center, was voted to appear on the Times' team at the high post. Bob, younger brother of Jay, has come a long way in one season to establish himself as one of the Irish all-time greats. In 20 games this season, Bob tallied 375 points to capture second place in the city scoring race, while erasing the one-season school scoring record set by Johnny Fleischman three years ago. At 6-5, Pelkington is always dangerous, being the possessor of an accurate corner jump shot. In addition, his rebounding strength has been most valuable to the Irish this year.

BOLYARD, WHO NOT only has exhausted the supply of records to be smashed but all the descriptive adjectives from which sports writers have to describe him, scored 583 points this year; and is without any doubt the most fabulous high school ball player in Fort Wayne this year or in the city's history. His uncanny shooting from anywhere on the floor and his astounding rebounding ability make him the dream player for any coach.

Boyd who missed three games because of over-age, did enough in those first 17 to make him worthy of the honor. He was one of the four players that received all eight first-place votes to receive 40 out of a possible 40 points.

In the back court, T. C. Williams, a fast, deadly shooter from the Central back court, was placed on the team by receiving eight first-team votes. Thus two Centralites were selected as unanimous choices. His mate is Nick Demetre, the Archer jump shot artist. Demetre polled 28 points to nose out Jim Lang of North Side for the honor. Lang received 24 points on a 5-3-1-point basis for first, second, and third teams, respectively.

WILLIE CURRY polled 27 points, one less than Demetre, but received one more first-place vote. Since Curry is a forward he missed the first team by failing to out-poll the 40-point totals accumulated by Bolyard and Williams, the two lads selected for the forward slots, Curry's normal post.

So Curry and Lang were elected to the second team. The only other boy able to poll 20 points was second-team center Dave Barrett, who received an even 20. Barrett had a fine year in his first varsity season. His scoring, which accounted for 130 points, was nothing to rave about; but was backed up by strong play off the boards and the ability to soar above the rim and tap stray shots through the hoop on numerous occasions and at clutch times.

The other forward slot went to lanky Ron Latham, North Side's junior forward, who progressed steadily all season and has given North that needed punch in their late-season surprises. And Mike Simmons rounded off the second team by nudging out John Sorg and Jerry Widenhofer for the last spot.

Eight others received honorable mention. They are as follows: South Side, Bill Meyer; North Side, Mike Dafforn; Central, Willie Rozier, Percy Moore; Central Catholic, Tim Walsh, John Sorg, Bill Mueller; and Concordia, Jerry Widenhofer.

Following are the results of the poll:

Archers Seek 52nd Win In Possible 100th Game

Fast-Breaking Bengals Hope To Put Skids On South Side's Jinx

The next Archer basketball test against the ferocious fury of five Tigers will probably mark the highlight of the coming Sectional Tourney. As in the contest during last year's Sectional match between South Side and Central, when the tickets were scalped and the Tigers were too, this coming game will be a top thriller.

During the past season the Archers showed their artistry while pulling through both games in overtime contests. The first was a thrilling 73-69 win, and the second a 54-48 victory. This next contest (the 100th meeting) will bring out the top talent from both squads.

After losing Bill Boyd, who was good for 18 points per game, the day before the Friday, February 13, contest, Central has been relying on T. C. Williams and Willie Curry, two big guns in the last Archer-Tiger duel. Along with them are the top sophomore Willie Rozier, a regular; Percy Moore, agile center; and J. Lapsley, a new-found Central hope.

# # #

AFTER SLOWLY starting the campaign with a loss to Anderson, 69-59, the Tigers rebounded to send South Bend Central on the skids with a 63-57 triumph. Most impressive was their trouncing of Richmond, 91-53. The main startling comparison of common foes is Elkhart. South nipped the Blazers, 66-59, but Central bowled over to Max Bell's charges, 57-53.

But bench strength seems to be the Tigers' chief problem. Reserves have seen limited action during the season, and have taken a back seat to Lapsley, the Tiger find, since Boyd was forced to hang up his uniform.

Although there is a chance that a meeting will not roll around, with all of the other powers in the Fort Wayne Sectional, it is most likely that the century mark in competition will be reached in the most thrilling game of the tournament.

The Tigers open, after a bye, against C.C., which should prove to be their most serious challenge before the finals.

Woodburn Receives Hard Tourney Draw

Despite a poor ACAC showing the Woodburn Warriors look to the Sectionals with some hope of an excellent showing. Although their conference record is only 2-5 they stand 9-9 on the season discounting a conference contest with Huntertown last week end.

The started the season off slowly but worked their way back to the .500 mark. In county play they started off at an even clip but were suddenly stimied when they dropped three straight conference games in the last two weeks.

Hyrle Ivy, Jr., coach, will probably send DeWayne Scheiman at center, Lester Rekeweg at one forward, John Murphy at the other front court post, and Larry Lengacher and Tom Schumachen in the back court.

Jerry Clossen, the Warriors' flashy back court man and number three player, was stricken ill this season and will miss Sectional action, a definite loss to the Woodburn cause. Since his departure the team has headed into a tailspin and dropped from contention in the county race.

New Haven, winners of the County Tourney, will afford too much competition for the injury-plagued Warriors. If they do survive, Leo or Hoagland will be waiting and if they are fortunate, mighty South Side will be in the way most likely. So it appears that the draw did little to benefit the Warriors.

CC's 1st Game Is Crucial One

Pelkington Maintains 18.8 Scoring Average

Central Catholic will enter the Fort Wayne Sectional Tournament in a good position to carry away all honors if they can win their first game which is with the Central Tigers.

As of last Wednesday, the Irish had a 14-5 record, and three of their losses came early in the season. The Central Catholic squad has enough height to beleaguer any team, and they also have extra-tall Bob Pelkington, who is the city's second highest scorer this season with an 18.8 average.

Central Catholic's starting five will most likely be composed of Pelkington at center, Jay Bail and John Sorg at the forward spots, and Mike Gatton and Tim Walsh holding down the guard positions.

The Irish received one of their setbacks against New Haven in what was considered an upset by a 50-43 score. On the other hand, the Archers defeated the Bulldogs to the tune of 63-51. However, the Archers had a hard time defeating Elmhurst by nine points, while the Irish walked off with a much easier 10-point victory.

If the Irish get by rugged Central, it is quite possible that they will meet the Archers in the final game of the tournament. Thus far the Archers have a 62.7 offensive average compared to C.C.'s 59.1. The Archers also hold a slim 51.6-51.8 defensive average over the Purple and Gold.

Harlan Boosts Balanced Team

Hawks Will Be Led By Senior Jon Closser

The Harlan Hawks, a well-balanced scoring club, seemed to have the schedule break this year. The team has a record of 12 wins and six losses and in a recent game with Bellefountaine, the Harlan team ran up a score of 90 points in which four of its players were in double figures.

This year in Allen County Athletic Conference standings, the Hawks have six wins and three losses compared to last year's five wins and three losses which assures them another third place for the second year.

The Hawks are led by mighty Jon Closser, a senior in his third year. He had a big year as a junior and is expected to really help in the coming tourney.

Ed DeLong has been a big helper on both offense and defense. Other members of the team are Dole Dean, Dave Heastor, Joe Fogle, Steve Stiver, Randy Yontz, Steve DeLong, and Dave York.

The Hawks, coached by Elmer Strautman, first delighted area fans when they lost to powerful Lafayette Central, 74-73.

Since the Hawks are in the position to finish high in the ACAC standings it is likely that they will display some rugged ball and are likely to spill some of their favored opponents, like opening-round foe Concordia. Their possible second-game foe will be either Leo or Hoagland. So from all indications Harlan received one of the better breaks from the draw.

'Skins Are Ready For Huntertown

North Side, still shining from its victory over South Bend Central's Bears, head into the Sectional Tourney hoping for the best. The Redskins own a 7-12 overall record prior to last week end's contest, and have finished their schedule in the Eastern Division of the Northern Indiana Conference with a 2-8 slate. The Red also finished fourth in the City Series, marking the first time in three years that they finished out of the cellar.

The 'Skins have improved over the season and their winning of the Huntington Holiday Tourney stands out as their outstanding performance this year. North looked well, when they were able to hit as illustrated in their close defeat at the hands of Central in their first outing. Their only victory over a city foe was the 48-46 comeback win over Concordia's Cadets.

COACH DON BRUICK has a never-say-die group of players on his starting five. Mike Dafforn, big lumbering center, is the Redskins' top rebounder. "Big Mike," standing at 6-5, is known throughout the city for his aggressiveness on the boards and on the floor. Playing alongside Mike are his two junior forwards. Ron Latham, who is North's most improved player, is one forward, and Jack Hallenback, the six-footer who produced the winning field goal in the Concordia game, is the other forward.

In the back court are Pat Riley and Jim Lang. Riley, quarterback of North's football teams, acts as the Redskins' playmaker with his accurate left-handed passing. Lang, sharp-shooting junior, has carried the brunt of the Red scoring attack as the leading Indian scorer by scoring 259 points in his first 19 games to sport a 13.6 per game average.

North's bench strength is quite impressive. Junior Larry Soucie is the leading reserve, but he and classmate Tom Lindenberg are used interchangably by Coach Bruick. Blond-headed Allen Tew has a dead shot when called upon from the bench.

The Redskins meet Huntertown in the second game Wednesday evening for what should prove to be a rugged contest. If they survive, the winner of the Arcola-Elmhurst game will afford the competition which should be a slight rest before facing either C.C. or Central in the Saturday semi-final.

The Red and White would like to score some upsets in the Sectional, shooting for the championship. The Redskins have the power, but must combine it with teamwork in order to add Sectional victories to their record.

Hoagland Wildcats Maintain 12-6 Mark

The Hoagland Wildcats in their so-called rebuilding year have been very successful as a team. Their record is 12 wins and six losses which is not a bad record at all.

The Wildcats are coached by Mark Schoeff in his first year as the head coach at Hoagland. Schoeff has done a wonderful job with the team. In Allen County Athletic Conference play the Wildcats stand with five wins and three losses to be tied for second place.

Roger Scheuman seems to be the head man on the team. Roger is a very fine offensive and defensive player. He is among the top 10 scorers in ACAC this year. Bob Saalfrank also is on the starting five and a fine offensive and defensive player. Other members of the team are Tom Grotrian, Dave Hochemeyer, Al Selking, Stan Behrman, John Braun, Don Shifferly, Don Reisgies, Leroy Lepper, Bob Dietrich, and Dan Perry.

The team is looking forward to much success in the coming Sectional Tourney when they meet Leo in the last first-round activity. A victory in this contest would earn the 'Cats a crack at County Tourney Champs New Haven.

Times Staff Puts In Hard Work Every Week To Publish Paper

As you open your Times this morning and begin to review the events of the week, the thought farthest from your mind could be the steps through which this paper passes until it reaches you in its finished form every Thursday morning. But in case you have ever wondered about this, here is the story of the life of the Times.

First, in order to have the funds for publishing the paper, many people must subscribe for the Times. It costs a lot of money to print a paper, especially one of the quality of ours. Advertisements are the main source of money for publication.

Next [illegible] the staff of the paper. It consists partly of the feature writers, who write stories of current interest to all; and news writers, who tell us what's new around the school. The photographers add much to the usefulness and appearance of the paper by letting us see who or what the story is about. Ad solicitors have the job of calling on business organizations to solicit ads. Sports writers and editorial writers are other important staffs of the paper.

A WRITER IS given an assignment, written in the assignment book. The writers check the assignment book frequently to see if they have a story. If they do, they check it out, find out when it is due, and begin work on the story.

When the story is finished it is put in the copy box. It is then copyread, or edited to correct errors. Then the stories and ads are set in type and printed on long strips of paper called galley proofs. These are proofread and any mistakes in printing are corrected. Then the make-up editor, with the help of the other editors, cuts up the galley proofs into separate articles and pastes them on a sheet of paper according to the way they are to appear in the paper. The type is then arranged accordingly.

On Wednesday morning the paper goes to press. After the papers are printed, they are folded and counted into bundles under the direction of book heads and room agents.

The final step in the life of the Times is when it is picked up in the Times room on Thursday morning and delivered straight to you for your enjoyment.

Ronny King Gains Knowledge As Member Of Civil Air Patrol

It all started one day in August of 1956—the twenty-fifth, to be exact. On that eventful day, Ronny King, through the guidance of friends, first ventured out to Baer Field and caught his very first glimpse of the Civil Air Patrol. CAP, as it is termed by its members, is open to all boys from the age of 14 to 21. Being a direct auxiliary of the United States Air Force with the same ranks and functions, it first and foremost emphasizes the furthering of aviation knowledge.

Ronny became interested immediately, as he had always been fascinated by planes and anything involving them. He began attending the meetings every Thursday night from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. at the airport. The first hour of this session was devoted to military drill and the second to aviation, radio theory, and other topics of general interest.

WITHIN A FEW months, due to avid enthusiasm and qualities of leadership, Ronny was promoted to the rank of commander of his flight. When it came time for Senior Commander Second Lieutenant Harold Andrews and Cadet Commander Captain Michael Brett to choose someone to represent Fort Wayne and area at the Indiana Wing Officers Candidate School at Bunker Hill Air Force Base, their choice was Archer Ronny King.

After spending the first two weeks of July, 1957, there, Ronny gained much valuable information concerning military drill and training techniques and was able to bring this experience back home to his fellow CAP's. During his time at Bunker Hill, Ronny showed such outstanding leadership qualities that he was promoted to the rank of Second Lieutenant, a position which he still retains.

Shortly after he returned home he received another award of merit. He had earned his radio telephone communications license.

RONNY KING, recently appointed Director of Administrations, has this to say about the CAP, "The Civil Air Patrol teaches leadership, a knowledge of aviation nomenclature, a sense of responsibility, radio theory, military drill, and the ability to get along with others. Anyone who is interested may come out to Baer Field."

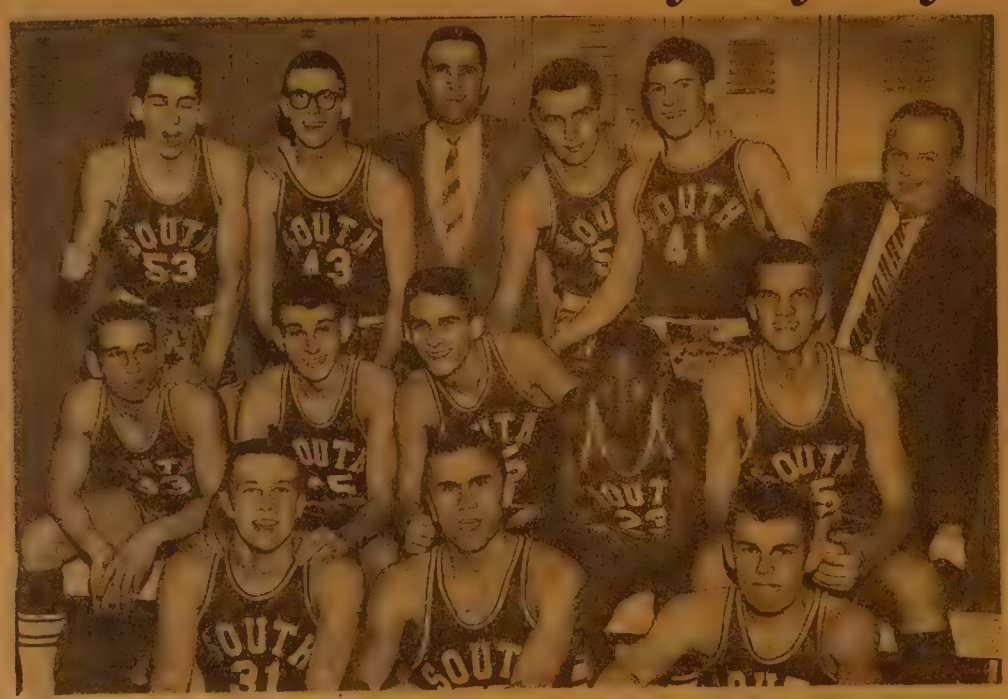
3 Archers To Appear On TV Elektra Club

Three students from South will appear on the I&M Elektra Club on Sunday at 6 p.m. over WANE-TV. They are Betty Byrne, Nancy Hickman, and Sara Lou Miller.

Betty will be interviewed concerning her work in shorthand and typing here at school. Nancy will represent South as a reporter and Sara will represent South on the panel.

"What are some of the social adjustment problems of a high school student?"

This is the question that will be discussed by the panel.



One Pupil Enters School; Eight Pupils Withdraw

South Side would like to welcome Connie Caley from Dayton, O. She is our only new student this week.

Those withdrawing are Jim Marlery who is going to school in Indianapolis, Denis Meyers who has moved to Rhode Island, and Tom Cartwright who is planning to work. Roger Call moved to Ohio, Tim O'Hara moved to Missouri, and Lloyd Miller moved to Peru, Ind. Judy Fields has gone to North Side. Don Stanton has planned to work.

Sectional Champions,

Archers Win Fourth Straight Sectional; Prime For Regional

South Defeats Central 73-61 In Final Game

Senior Tom Bolyard Sets Tourney One Game Mark Scoring 39 Points

By Bob Schmitz

We're in again!

That sums up South Side's part in the Sectional Tourney in a nutshell as the Green eased past Central in the title game, 73-61. The Kellys rode to an unprecedented fourth straight Sectional championship behind the incomparable Tom (The Bomb) Bolyard. In the finale Tom blasted the hoops for 39 points, a new Sectional single game mark as the Archers won their 16th straight game from Fort Wayne Sectional foes.

The Kellys advanced to the finale with easy wins over some of the weaker tourney hopefuls. Wednesday Monroeville's Cubs threw a stall at their taller foes for the first quarter and a half before the Archer guns (mainly Bolyard) blasted away to an easy 63-33 triumph. The win was climaxed by a 29-point final quarter.

Next to feel the Archer sting were Concordia's rebuilding Cadets. The margin was again noteworthy and gave the Green starters a chance to rest nearly half the contest in anticipation of the rugged play in store for Saturday's two games.

Rest in the opening two contests as well as in the Leo contest, in which South emerged victor by 79-56, proved most valuable against the pesky Tigers in the centennial meeting between the two teams.

In the Leo engagement, the starting string took a shower about three minutes before the final buzzer officially declared the Kellys victors.

Then came that much anticipated 100th meeting. And as expected the two arch rivals, Central and South, slugged it out for 32 minutes and had the some 8,000 fans on hand screaming throughout.

The caliber of play through the tourney was typically tops as it always is in Allen County. Two little schools threw many big surprises and scares over the four-day basketball festival.

LEO UPSET HOAGLAND and then miraculously New Haven before running up against the polished Archers. Huntertown, expected to be rugged, went just a step further. They topped North in what was rated a toss-up and then topped Arcola before giving Central a run for their money with their offensive, defensive, and rebounding power, Bob Blanchard, riding the bench, foul-stricken.

South's win was expected in most circles but Central lived up to its expectations by giving the Green and White a close call. In fact the Tigers, who trailed throughout the contest, were within a single point when Tom Bolyard picked up his fourth personal. This probably was the turning point for the Green, realizing that Bolyard's services could well terminate before the end, went to work in a hurry building a big lead and playing a deliberate-type ball. This possession game South went into in the late stages hurt Central, a team that is most effective when running.

The win was South's 52nd in the long series, putting the Green four games up in the overall series. It also marked win number 30 in a row over Fort Wayne competition.

Bolyard's 39 points in the night-cap boasted his season total to 708. He scored 125 points in four tourney contests for a 31.3 per game average. For the season he is averaging 29.5 points per game.

The Archers whipped their foes by an average of 25 points a game, a feat that would make any team shudder, even Kokomo.

FROM THE SPECTATOR'S view the tourney was great, but play was slowed down by 46 fouls. The calls were evenly distributed on both squads so their are no gripes about partility. From the line the Kellys hit 25, Central 23.

Conduct in the Coliseum was far from desirable last week as officials were forced to close several of the lavatories because of unwarranted damage. This was entirely unnecessary and should be discontinued.

One missing factor was the big city school enthusiasm. It was amazing to see that the county schools not only came close to beating their big foes on the floor but also out-yell them from the stands.

Kellys To Face Decatur Quintet In Regionals

Yellow Jackets Down Hartford Center 50-34 To Be Sectional Victors

The "yellow" of the Yellow Jackets will have to be glowing next Saturday afternoon as the Decatur Yellow Jackets match their power against the mighty South Side Archer team.

The South Side squad will be going in defense of their past Regional title in the second game of Saturday's three-game tourney. The Green will be shooting for win number seven in a row in Regional activity.

Decatur, in winning their first Sectional since 1952, had to down Hartford Center, 50-34, in the Adams Central Sectional Saturday night. Larry Daniels was high point man for Decatur with 14, and Bob Shraluka added 13. In their afternoon contest, Decatur topped Decatur Catholic, 72-61, with Shraluka adding 23 to his total.

THE PURPLE and Gold, coached by Paul Bevelheimer, tied for fourth place with Angola, another Regional entrant in the NEIAC. In the regular season, Decatur was defeated by the Angola squad.

The school, with an enrollment of 365, moved back into the Regional limelight after a just-average season in which they won eight and lost 12. With three tourney triumphs under their belt the Jackets hope to get win number 12 of the year. A victory over South in the second tilt of the afternoon would send Decatur to the .500 mark overall.

Bob Shraluka, a 6-3 senior, leads the Decatur attack. During the regular season, he tallied 324 points in 20 games for a 16.2 point per game average. Last week he ripped the nets for 44 points which was second to senior Larry Daniels. Daniels, at 5-10 and in the guard slot, was responsible for 315 points in the regular season games. Thus Daniels moved ahead of Shraluka in the team scoring race last Saturday.

ROUNDING OFF THE starting five are Bill Bischoff, 5-10; Dick Canalas, 5-10; and either Jim Gay, 6-0, or Jim Reidenbach.

The bench has good height and vast experience and should do an excellent job backing up the varsity. Decatur is not too strong and completed an average season. Nonetheless, in tourney play, anything can happen.

Library Shows Lincoln Books

The South Side Library is now displaying various books concerning Abraham Lincoln, in honor of the sesquicentennial anniversary of Lincoln's birth.

Although the display is actually in the trophy case next to Room 104, the library will have the same books on display downstairs and available for rental to any student.

A bibliography of magazine material pertaining to Lincoln has been compiled through the efforts of South Side's librarian, Miss Willodeen Price. The library also has 25 biographies of Lincoln available.

Four pictures will serve as the background for the cabinet display. These are entitled: The Rail Splitter, Lincoln at Independence Hall, The Gettysburg Address, and Father Abraham. This last one portrays Lincoln as he pardoned some prisoners directly before his death.

The books on display fall into two categories: Books Abraham Lincoln read as a boy, and Abraham Lincoln —In fact and fiction.

The books to be found under the first section are "The Bible," "Aesop's Fables," "Robinson Crusoe," "Pilgrim's Progress," and a geography of 1855.

In the second section, containing books about Lincoln, is included "The Gettysburg Address," "Lincoln Autobiography," Lincoln's Devotional," "The Lincoln Nobody Knows" by Richard N. Current, "Abraham Lincoln" by Benjamin U. Thamac, "The Day Lincoln Was Shot" by Jim Bishop, "Abraham Lincoln—The Prairie Years" by Carl Sandburg, "Perfect Tribute" by Mary R. S. Andrews, and "The Courtship of Mr. Lincoln," "Lincoln's Sons," and "Mary Lincoln" by Ruth Painter Randall.

Shop Products Exhibition To Be At Purdue Center

An exhibition of shop products made in Northeastern Indiana will be held March 13, 14, 15 at the Purdue University Center. It will be sponsored by Purdue Center and the Indiana Industrial Education Association. The latter is an association of industrial arts teachers throughout Fort Wayne.

Its purpose is to encourage and develop good workmanship in high school boys and to bring to the public things that are done in high school industrial arts and vocational classes.

"Any student in one of these classes may enter if they wish. However, it depends on who gets their projects done in time," said Mr. Thomas Polite, shop teacher. Mr. Jack Bobay added that it would be a good place to go between the semi-final basketball games.

Philo Sets Plans For Annual Banquet

A contest in matching authors and book titles emceed by Barbara Eggeman was the program at the last Philo meeting. Sharon Ruhl, missing only one, was the winner. Second place was filled by Marcia Swathwood. Also, a booby prize was awarded to Bessie Ferguson for missing the most.

A reading taken from "Ben Hur" given by Judy Thompson was the talent number.

The date for the annual St. Patrick's Day banquet is March 23. Unlike any other, this banquet will be held in the new cafeteria, buffet style. A cutting from "The Music Man" will highlight the banquet.

Three Pupils Enter South; One Student Withdraws

South Side would like to welcome Donald Gribler from Central, Tom Liby from St. Joseph, Michigan, and Richard Roesner from New Haven, Indiana.

One person withdrew this week. Harold Girardot is planning to work.

'59 Class Places In 98th Percentile In Nation-Wide Iowa Scholastic Tests

South Side stands up to the critical attention directed at the American school system ever since the launching of the first Russian satellite. As proof of this statement, along with the class of '58, whose composite score of the Iowa Tests in the 98th percentile, highest of any large comprehensive high school in the country, the class of '59 again placed in the 98th percentile.

The Iowa Tests, made up by the Research Department of Iowa University, is given to thousands of students at the eighth and ninth grade levels and again in the twelfth grade to determine the progress made by a high school student.

The before-hand estimate of the student body scores was lower than the actual tally. One per cent of the class was expected to rank in the top 99 per cent, but South Side had 5.9 per cent in that category; 1 per cent were expected to rank in the top 5 per cent, but 14.3 per cent were in the 5 per cent group; lastly, South Side had 93 per cent of the student body in the top 10 per cent.

Mr. R. Nelson Snider, principal, stated that he considered three things responsible for such a high composite score at South: 1. The type of student body. 2. The program offered, and 3. The excellent faculty.

He also states, "My opinion is that when we achieve a 99 per cent rating, we may feel pleased with ourselves, but only if we do not have serious dips in our level of accomplishment." In addition, he adds, "The study body record is an exceptional one, and every teacher deserves sincere thanks."

Accompanying is the tabulation of scores by the 12B and A students and the score they made as 9B's and A's.

Kathryn Misegades Wins Top Prize In Sewing Contest

Stay stitch! Face! Seam!

To most of us, especially boys, these terms mean absolutely nothing, but to one junior girl they represent rungs to the ladder of success. The girl is Kathryn Misegades and the ladder of success was the top prize in the Fort Wayne Singer Sewing Machine Contest for 1958.

Each year the Singer people sponsor a contest open to all teenage girls in the country. It is operated much the same as our basketball tournament is with sectional, state and national winners.

Kathryn's winning outfit was a charcoal gray suit with a fitted jacket and a circle skirt worn with pink accessories. Her prize was a patent leather hat box and the chance to enter in the state contest.

The judges for the event were Miss Pearl Rehorst and a representative from Gass's Ladies Shop. Even though she was awarded the top prize, fate played a hand, too, for the day before Kathryn fell off a horse and broke her arm, which meant she couldn't model her outfit.

Kathryn's interest in sewing started from two sources: her mother and the sewing program in junior high. It developed until now she makes practically all of her clothes.

The number one hobby on Kathryn's list is writing to famous people. The three she prizes most are from Sir Winston Churchill, President Eisenhower's secretary, and author Emil Leires. Next listed are swimming and reading.

Kathryn is on the college course taking physics, English, public speaking, U. S. history, dance and drivers' training. Her outside activities include Job's Daughters and Pilgrim Fellowship at Plymouth Congregational Church.

Semi-State Tickets To Be On Sale

If South wins the Regional, orders for Semi-State tickets will be taken in the homerooms next Monday. The price of these tickets will be $2.25.

But if South loses, the school will get 12 tickets only.

Sure State tickets for students will be taken on March 9. We are entitled to four per cent of our enrollment as reported last fall. That means we shall get 83 tickets. But if we are eliminated in the Semi-State we shall get 25 additional tickets, or a total of 108 sure tickets.

If we win the Semi-State and go to the State Tourney, ticket orders for an additional 950 tickets will be taken in the homerooms March 16. The price of State tickets is $3.

Spring Show, 'The Gay Nineties,' To Be Presented March 20

"The Gay Nineties" is the dance theme of this year's annual Spring Show. The event will take place March 20 at 8 p.m. in the school gymnasium. The review is presented by the girl's physical education department, under the direction of Mrs. Helen Pohlmeyer. The gym and dance classes, modern dance group, and the advanced tumblers will participate.

Tickets for the show will go on sale March 12 and 13. They can be purchased from members of the gym and dance classes, or from the girl's gym office. The price is 30 cents.

The costuming will follow the theme, with derby hats, straw hats, flowing gowns and old fashioned bathing suits.

The dance will be done to gay nineties tunes such as "Take Me Out to the Ball Game," "By the Beautiful Sea," "Strolling Through the Park," "The Band Played On," "Little Brown Jug," and "After the Ball."

The pianists for the show will be Carolyn De Vore and Sharon Possell.

Beverly Stanton Chosen Times General Manager

Beverly Stanton, senior, will succeed Janet Hicks as general manager of The South Side Times for the following two issues.

"Having been appointed general manager of The South Side Times, even for the short period of two weeks, is a truly great honor, and I shall try to carry on in the same excellent manner as my predecessor, Janet Hicks," said Beverly.

Miss Rowena Harvey, adviser of The Times, states, "Due to the good work Bev has done on the publications, she should have the honor of being head of one of the school publications. Since she is associate-editor of the yearbook, the only top position open is on The Times. I decided that being appointed general manager of The South Side Times would give her the top honor, but I had to limit the tenure in office in order not to interfere with her Totem work."

Bev has been active on The Times since her junior year, holding the positions of exchange editor, feature editor, news writer, ad solicitor, and copy reader. Recently, she was appointed a member of the honorary journalistic society, Quill and Scroll.

In addition to her activities on the Times and Totem, Bev is also a member of Wranglers, Service, and National Honor Society.

Miss Harvey also announced that Janet Hicks will become student adviser, and that John Richardson will follow Bev in two weeks as general manager.

Kelly Couples Take Advantage Of Games; Camp At Coliseum

As always, the weather during the Sectionals was cold with rain now and then for flavor, and as always there were hundreds of eager students camping at the Coliseum, waiting for the door to open so they can make a mad dash for floor seats.

Camped right up in front of the line were Sally Dill, Diane Meyer, Judy Dunlap, and Beth Curley, who are waiting for Dick Johnson, Geoff George, Ronnie Sprunger, and Dick McGaw to bring back some food (hot). But before they return, Gretchen Meister, Fred Van Fossen, Sally McDonald and Bing Gilardi come to their rescue and offer to share a thermos of hot chocolate with them.

At the same time, Judy Wilburn and Marijane Tobey come up to share a bag of potato chips and ask if they have seen the wandering Chuck Putt and Steve Burton lately. The reply is negative, but soon the lost souls return and all is peaches and cream. A few minutes later, a red convertible comes to a stop at the door and who should hop out but John Sommers, Judy Tillbury, Pam Olson, and Jim Sommers.

BY THIS TIME the line is growing rapidly, and, of course, it starts to rain. With a shriek of fear that their hair will go straight, Sharon Longenberger and Diane Irmscher scurry to find shelter under the roof and Neil Mieras and Jack Winder follow close behind, laughing at the girls' worries.

They come upon Mimi Hinman, Carl Johnson, Bob Haag, and Judy English and offer use of a transistor radio in return for a part of their blanket to sit on. They tune in some good music, and to liven up the long wait, Sally Mieras, Bill Lentz, Judy Robinson, Dave Bosselman, Sue Phillips, Bob Duncan, Karen Curley, and Murray Munger start to dance. This doesn't last long because there isn't much space, so everyone sits down to think of something else to do.

Soon screams of laughter are heard from Nancy Bailey and Margo Martindale, who are laughing at the wild antics of John Meyerholtz and Mike Simmons. When the laughing has subsided, Marcia Mosel points out to Chuck Jellison, Marilyn Bugg, and Tom Shoaff (N.S.) that Nick Demetre and Tom Bolyard are trudging toward the Coliseum with cokes which must be for Marty Clark and Kay Augspurger.

z z z

AS THE TIME draws near for the doors to open, Helen Robinson, Don Campbell, Ken Howe, and Sue Seibel arrive and try to get in line with Sharon Ruhl and Bob Oeschle, but right behind them they hear a kind but determined "no" and turn around only to see Mary Sue Robertson, Bob Mann, Carol Lockwood, and Hoy McConnell, who were among the first to arrive and are not about to give up their place in line.

Finally the doors open, and everyone makes a final plunge in the direction of the door. Once inside, they grab the first seats they can find and settle down for an exciting game.

Archer Pupils Tell Their Secret Desires

What with all these newfangled complexes and repressed emotions, that brand of doctors known as head shrinkers are running out of people to analyze. It seems that South is just full of happy people, so the doctors have invaded. They just want to find out certain Archers' secret desires.

Nadine Wilson: That would be telling!
Diane Carpenter: To make a million dollars this year.
Carol Miller: To be a flagpole sitter.
Linda Silverman: To chase beetle bugs in darkest Africa.
Bob Schmitz: To join the Mau Mau revolution.
Linda Benton: To be tall, so I can defeat John Richardson in the Times Room.
Jim Monroe: To join the WAC's.
Barb Dicker: To eat snails.
Margo Dixon: To have a baby raccoon for a pet.
Nancy Vanderford: To walk across the top of the desks in study hall.
Stan Redding: To end Times polls forever (not really).
Jan Martindale: That South had a school hockey team (boy and girl).
Martha Milnor: To burn the Totem before it gets to press.
Sam DeHaven: To end all editors!! Hint! Hint!
Laura Rhodes: To be five feet, two inches.
Alice Weddle: To kill all photographers.
Pam Stech: To be like Rip Van Winkle (what bliss!!).
Barb Steiner: I'm not telling, it might incriminate me if something happens to certain people! (And I certainly hope they realize their danger!) I also wish to put an end to people who do stupid things or are hypocrites, like me.

P.S. from PENNY

South Side High School
March 5, 1959

Hi folks,

If you think that's a corny salutation, you try to think of a better one. Personally, I'm running out. I guess I'll run through my regular list again.

Do you think spring will ever come? I'm beginning to wonder. Maybe the ground-hog got lost and forgot to come out on Ground-Hog Day; so we're a few weeks behind.

I've heard of excuses, but really! This is the limit. What I can't figure out is—it's true, honest! When preparing to hand in their book reports, Mr. Knigge's English class had their chuckle for the day, when Marty Clark raised her hand and said, "I don't mean to complain, but I just dropped my book report down the ventilator!"

Well, there really wasn't anything to do but laugh, and laugh they did. I mean, after all, who wants to climb down a ventilator for a silly little book report. I haven't heard of the results of the loss, but somwhere in the depths of the school lies a lone piece of yellow paper.

Students in Mr. Hemmer's U.S. History 2, period 7 aspiring to be missionaries in China have decided to switch jobs, or locations. It seems Mr. Hemmer was describing in very gory and vivid details the favorite method of torture used on the missionaries by the Boxers during the Boxer Rebellion.

I will attempt to describe the method in as delicate a manner as possible, but it really is hard. The Boxers would cut out a piece of skin below the victim's neck, and take both layers of skin and dispose of it by ripping it off clear down your back. After this statement, the future missionaries decided to change to Africa—there they'll only get burned.

It has been brought to my attention that I made a very horrible grammatical error in my last letter. I said, pardon my uneducated self, "Can't you hardly." Upon analysis I discovered, with the help of several others, that this is what is commonly known as a "double negative," but you have to admit, it really does sound pretty good. My apologies, if you promise not to tell my English teacher.

ATTENTION, GIRLS! Tread lightly in the Girls' Locker Room for traps have been set. This ingenious work, instigated by Beth Golden and Molly Dixon, is a violent attempt to capture several pesty creatures known as mice. After one encounter with the beasts, they are taking no chances. From now on mice will be taken care of. Actually there aren't any traps, but the girls threaten to use them.

Why do trees just happen to be right in your path when you come zooming down a steep hill on a sled? The one Katie Rastetter met on her downward treck didn't even bother to move, in fact it just stood there. The result—nothing happened to the tree, but I wish I could say the same for Katie. Having the tree hit her head on, or depending on how you look at it, hitting the tree head on, ended in one lost day from school and a slightly noticeable limp.

Everyone has her bad day. Right, Sally Burton? Sally had quite a scare when she couldn't find the key to her chemistry locker, which means: pay for all the equipment in the locker. After a frantic call to Mr. Davis, who was no help at all, Sally thought she'd give the locker one more try. Did she ever feel foolish when she discovered, much to her surprise, that the key was in the locker's lock. Well, anyway, Mr. Davis thought the whole affair was very funny, even if you don't.

KATHY SOSINSKI would like everyone to take notice of the spelling of her last name: S-O-S-I-N-S-K-I. She has been called everything from Soosinsk to Sos-ah-heck (somebody apparently gave up); so everyone write that name down.

Well, I "Gotta Travel On," you know how it is, homework. I'll write again soon! Bye!

Spring Styles, Lines Add Newness Touch To Winter Clothing

After the long, cold winter, many girls are eagerly awaiting the appearance of spring; which, when it comes, will bring with it new fashion creations.

"The girls this season will wear soft shades," stated Mr. Golden, proprietor of the women's fashion store, House of Golden's. The new shade, iris, an off-lilac color will be a dominant hue this spring along with other colors derived from pink. Accessories of navy blue will be worn in order to accentuate the muted tones.

"Seventeen" Magazine, an authority on styles, reveals that hemlines and waistlines are on the rise. Although the empire line is the rage, Mr. Golden reports that the line of clothes is gradually reverting back to the natural contour of the body.

The fabrics which will appear on the scene will add a touch of newness to the tired winter wardrobes. The previews of spring fabrics show that pebbly tweeds, mohair, and waffly cotton will prevail among the garments. The large weave and unusual design will also figure as important fabric fashion notes.

The word from "Seventeen" is that the spring suit and coat will be slightly flared, featuring the horizontal lines. Mr. Golden also states that the box, fitted, and fingertip-length styles of suit jackets are still popular. Both suits and coats will predominately be seen in large and unusual plaids. Blouses of contrasting colors will be worn with the Italian fabric design suits.

The fad of wearing colored hose, which come in all colors, will make news more than ever this spring. The shades, usually selected to match the rest of the outfit, enhance one's outfit by adding more color.

Italian shoes with unusual heels and flowery hats will complete the fashion scene.

Posy's Pointers

By Posy Weilemann

Dear Posy,

There is a girl that sits at the same table as I in study hall. She is very attractive, but I don't know her too well. She is very popular in her class, and I am afraid my chances are very slim. Please try to help me. I would give anything for a date with her! Her boyfriend is the only drawback. He is big and tough, and played on the football team this year. If I could just get him uninterested in her, I might have a chance.

Troubled.

Dear Troubled,

The easiest way to get a date with someone is to ask them. Are you sure it's her boyfriend you're worried about? Most people don't go steady with one girl when they want to date another, do they?

Dear Posy,

If a boy isn't an athlete, he isn't anything! I've been dating a girl, and last night she stood me up for a football player. I get good grades and I have brains. The other guy is stupid. Why should he rate higher than I do?

A.G.

Dear A.G.,

Probably it isn't fair, but in high school, athletes usually out-rate non-athletes. If there isn't any sport you might be interested in, you might try to join a school club. After graduation you'll find the really dumb athletes fade out of the scene. Among adults, brains are more respected than brawn.

Dear Posy,

I'm 14 and smoke. My girl says cigarettes make me seem like a "juve." She won't go out with me when I smell of smoke. Should I stop on her account?

A.H.

There are many good reasons for stopping. Her opinion is one of them. Do stop!

Dear Posy,

I'm almost 15, and I think pretty grown up. My father will not even let me get into a car with a boy. The boy I date is 16 and a good driver. My girlfriends have no such rules. Should I stand up for my rights?

Sally

Dear Sally,

Your parents do have a right to decide such things. Why don't you have them talk to one of your friend's parents, though? Maybe after you have dated this boy a little longer, your parents will have more confidence in him.

Dear Posy,

I have a ghastly problem. I am mad, mad, mad over my chemistry teacher, but he doesn't seem to notice me over the test tube fumes. I think my experiments bother him because he won't even let me experiment anymore!! What, oh, what am I going to do?

Frantic

Dear Frantic,

Why don't you take botany? You could work on Mr. Weber then!

Proper Manners Towards Parents Show Poise, Grace

Do you treat your parents as well as you treat yourself? Do you know how to act suave with your parents in public?

Always call them "Mother" and "Father." "Mom" and "Pop" may sound fine around the house, but they're a little homespun for a public appearance.

When your parents introduce people to you, do them proud. Stand up for the introduction, and acknowledge it with the friend's name: "How do you do, Mrs. Carter." Don't sit down while either your mother or Mrs. Carter is still standing.

Always introduce people to your mother. No matter how important the other person is, begin: "Mother, I'd like you to know . . ."

If your parents' friends ask questions, even though they seem a little foolish, answer. Do not say, "I dunno," or just giggle. Admittedly, you've grown so, haven't you? is silly but it becomes a sensible conversation if you answer, "Yes, I'm nearly two inches taller than I was last year."

If your dad tells a story involving you and gets some of the facts wrong, let it go. Setting him straight in front of an audience just sounds quarrelsome and childish.

Let your mother precede you into a train, bus, or down a theater aisle. In these places, walk ahead of your father.

Let your father open doors and hold chairs for you. Take his arm when you cross the street.

Treat your mother like a lady and your father like a gentleman, and you can't help impressing the world with your own charm and poise.

Teeny Times

The subject of my poem today
Is a girl, a Sophomore A,
Who has special and advanced
Classes twice each day.
For she has English 4 and Geometry,
First and sixth,
Respectively.
Second period she has history
With Mr. Collyer in Room 8,
And Latin 4, each day,
Is next in 28.
She has choir fifth period
And her fourth period is free,
But in choir she never sings.
Her row in Study is E,
When she goes there seventh
On every other day.
And if you want her name,
Scan the ads today.

Songs And Sayings

"I'll Wait for You"—Eighth periods are over at 4, aren't they?
"My Happiness"—Look, Mom, I passed Chem!
"The Lonely One"—A boy who doesn't have a car.
"Children's Marching Song"—Archers' song as they file out for fire drills.
"The Diary"—Reading his girl's would be every boy's ultimate goal.
"Early to Bed"—Makes teens healthy, wealthy, and dateless.
"Let's Love"—Out with homework.
"Philadelphia, U.S.A." —"American Bandstand," anyone?
"Poor Boy"—He can't have the car this week end.
"Problems"—Who doesn't?
"Lonely Teardrops"—I got grounded for a week.
"Donna"—Oh, well, I had my glory when "Carol" came out.
"I Talk to the Trees"—Are you sure he's "all there"?
"C'mon Everybody"—Open House!
"A Lover's Question"—Will you write my theme?

Rudiments Of Cheating Explained For Amateurs

Nowadays everybody seems to be putting his native wit to work by exploiting "Do It Yourself" articles, in a great range of subjects from "How to Clean Canary Cages" to "How to Construct Crustacean Counters." This literary morsel, however, does not penetrate the mysteries of cage cleaning or crustacean counters, but acquaints its readers with the rudiments of Cheating.

Cheating is a very general classification; it includes elements from Sneakiness to Downright Dishonesty. This short article could not possibly delve into all the fine details of the art of Cheating, but it will light on a few of the more interesting methods.

The technique of Cheating varies with the desired end result. An amateur cheater who simply wants a little help should not bother with the more serious aspects of Downright Dishonesty. Downright Dishonesty is reserved for those individuals who, through no fault of their own, do not have the natural inclination to pursue academic objectives; i.e. lazy clucks. But let us turn our thoughts from the general theory of the Art to specific applications.

We have already noted the Cheater who desires a little help. In some instances this Cheater will have difficulty in obtaining a little help. He may encounter an Eagle-Eyed Instructor or, worse yet, an Honest Classmate. He should not let this discourage him; he may easily adopt the Neck-stretching Technique.

This method has proven to be effective during tests if the Eagle-eyed Instructor is not perched near the Cheater's desk. There are, of course, many variations of this method: The Sneaky Sidelong Stare, the Pop-pupiled Peer, the Hunched-over Heist, and so on.

As essential to the art of Cheating as Cheaters are those Cheated From. There are many different types: the Brain, the One who has Had It all Before, Older Brothers and Sisters, the One who has cards with all the answers, and many others too numerous to mention. They can be all classified under the group name—Sucker.

This species is obliged to study and absorb the material presented in their classes. Why would anyone bother to learn solid geometry when he can easily cheat on a test? Teachers who Try to Discourage Cheating will tell Cheaters that there will come a day when they cannot cheat and they will have to stand on their own two legs, but this is all beside the point.

A Cheater who makes use of ready-made cards, books, etc., really has a professional touch. He will be the wonder of all his friends, and they will perpetuate him in their memories as the One Who Got Away with It (if he gets away with it.)

There was once a Cheater who laid his notes on the floor during tests. When he became nearsighted, he wrote the answers on his desk in invisible ink. He spent an hour on every solid subject every night, figuring out new ways to cheat. He was a master of the art. He is now about fifty-two and works in the finest truck-stop a three-time loser ever worked in.

A Cheater may never master English or Latin; it may be impossible for him to do math or remember who Bismarck was, but he will have one asset to show for his education. He will be a skilled Cheater, with experience at Stealthy Sneakiness. This really ought to impress his future employer.

Out of the 395 pieces of art work in the Fort Wayne contest, the judges selected 100 pieces for the 32nd National High School Art Exhibit, to be conducted in the New York Coliseum, April 9 through 19. From the 100 pieces of art work, 22 pieces were the work of South Side students.

The purpose of the Scholastic Art Awards is to encourage student achievement in creative art.

Awards in the regional exhibitions were gold achievement keys and certificates of merit. From these awards, the judges selected "blue ribbon" finalists, which will be forwarded to the National Art Exhibition in New York.

Archers Give Tips To Improve Manners

Nowadays, there is much controversy on the subject of teenage manners. Some adults seem to feel that the manners in this age bracket are atrocious and have made many comments to that effect; however, teenagers too are concerned about their reputation and several Archers gave some tips on improving manners, which are below.

Linda LeVay—Boys shouldn't lead girls on, and should respect them and vice-versa.

Lonnie Kimble—Both boys and girls should strive to have proper manners, but some people overdo it. Everyone should know when and where to be mannerly as well as when and where manners aren't required.

Pat Parks—Boys should behave as if they have some manners on a date, but very few do.

Barb Richey—Boys should always have good manners on a date whether they are going to a dance, show, or just a party.

Dave Dunstone—Boys should try to remember their manners on dates at all times. However, girls should remember they also have an obligation to fulfill on a date. The boy has spent at least some time and money for the date, and deserves some respect. Girls shouldn't duck old flames at Hall's, scream and wave to friends, etc. They should respect their date, give him a chance to show good manners, and try to help him have a good time.

Janet Gareiss—Manners are not just for the boy to remember on a date, but girls as well. If both the boy and girl have manners and respect each other, their evening is bound to be a success. Manners should be shown everywhere and with anyone, not just on a date!

Millie Demetre—If you happen to find a boy with manners, hang on to him, girls, for there are few boys around who have manners and use them in the right way.

Big Red Brown—I believe both boys and girls could improve their manners. Remember, it's the little things that count. A few of the simple details boys should remember are (1) don't pick your nose while sharing your French fries with your date. When you're alone it's perfectly okay providing you've learned how to "pick" from Jane Northwestern. (2) Boy! Definitely don't put 50,000 volts in your glove compartment button just for a little joke. If you can't think of a better way to give her a charge . . . give it up. As for the girls: (1) Girls, remember, the best way to a man's heart is through his stomach. But also keep in mind that he is usually paying for what goes in his stomach, and yours.

11 Earn 1st For Solos; 4 String Quartets, Trio, Duet Among Winners

"The state music contest at Indianapolis February 21 gave me good experience coupled with the satisfaction of a job well done," stated Merle Baldwin after the contest.

Twenty-six Archers received first division, or superior, ratings at Indianapolis. Mr. Robert Drummond and Mr. Lester Hostetler, music instructors, stated they were very proud of the competing students.

Mr. Hostetler said, "The contest is good because it helps discipline the students in their practice, though oftentimes the ratings are not too valuable."

Those placing first in violin solo work were Marilyn Sexton, Allen Steere, Carolyn DeVore, Vicki Sheldon, Carol Purdy, and Karen Good. Anne Sherbondy rated first in cello solo competition.

A cello trio composed of Anne Sherbondy, Mike Church, and Joan Motley received a first division rating. Four string quartets left Indianapolis with medals. The first was comprised of Marylin Sexton, Allen Steere, Cindy Miller, and Anne Sherbondy. Carolyn DeVore, Gretchen Meister, Bethany Bond, and Mike Church were another quartet. Vicki Sheldon, Carol Purdy, Susan Bond, and Joan Motley played in the third quartet; and Nancy Swain, Karen Good, Becky Hostetler, and Janice Ferber the fourth.

The clarinet quartet with Tom Cooper, Judy Eisenhut, Dave Flanigan, and Sharon Collins rated first. Nancy Stauffer and Diana Meyer won first place medals for their piano duet.

Finishing out the list of first division winners were Merle Baldwin, flute; John McNett, saxophone; Bill Mueller, voice; John Richardson, French horn and piano; and Allen Steere, piano.

Second division or excellent ratings were given to Karen Rahden, voice; Sandra Yaggy, piano; Carol Downhour and Lynne Goldman, piano duet; Jim Feustel, clarinet; Judy Eisenhut, clarinet; Sally Franklin, flute; Tom McMahan, French horn; and Byron White, trombone.

Warren Burns received a third division rating on the trombone and Steve Pratt the same rating on the trumpet.

2 Archers To Appear On TV Elektra Club

Two students from South Side will appear on the I&M Elektra Club over WANE-TV Sunday at 6 p.m. They are Ruth Dill and John Meyerholz.

Ruth will represent South as a reporter and John will represent South on the panel.

"What is the most important qualification of a good teacher?"

This is the question that will be discussed on the panel.

South Meets Dr. Conant's Educational Standards Compares Well With American High Schools

By Cheryl Summers

How does South Side compare with other American high schools? Are the educational opportunities good, mediocre, or poor, and are the students taking advantage of them? What are the requirements and aims of our school?

In an attempt to find the answers to these questions, Mr. R. Nelson Snider, principal, was interviewed.

When asked how he thought South Side compared with other high schools, he replied, "I don't think, I know. Last year our seniors took the Iowa Standard Achievement Tests and their grades were among the highest in the country."

A study of American high schools was recently made by Dr. James Conant. Dr. Conant was a president of Harvard University, ambassador to West Germany, and a renowned chemist, having played a key administrative role in the development of the atomic bomb. He is obviously well qualified to make such a study, and his findings are worthy of careful consideration.

TO SCHOOL BOARDS and high school principals he offers the following suggestions:

1. Counsel students to plan their high school programs on an individual basis. Do not fit students into rigid curriculums.

2. Require all students to take certain courses as general education for citizenship. These should include four years of English, three or four years of social studies including two of history, one year of mathematics and one year of science.

3. Place all students in their required courses in class sections according to their ability, subject by subject. The same pupil may be in a fast English section but in a middle section in history. Such divisions should be flexible and individual.

4. Enable students not going on to college to elect vocational courses of direct use in their communities. Do not separate these students from others taking academic courses.

5. Encourage the top 15 per cent of students to take more challenging academic courses, including four years of mathematics, four years of one foreign language, and three years of science, in addition to the English and social studies required of all.

6. Give special attention to the highly gifted three per cent of the school population and to pupils whose reading ability is particularly low.

MR. SNIDER WAS found to be well acquainted with these recommendations. When questioned concerning how well South Side met the standards and requirements set by Dr. Conant, Mr. Snider indicated that our school meets practically all these requirements and has done so for many years.

South Side has the advantage of unusually capable guidance counselors. Most incoming students are interviewed by Miss Van Gorder, Mr. Davis, or occasionally, Mr. Snider. A student may, at any time, request counseling concerning his present course of studies or any valid change which circumstances or his ability warrant.

Concerning point two, regarding required subjects, Mr. Snider said that we follow it except on the four years of English.

"For 32 years we have done just that," Mr. Snider said in connection with the third point. No doubt South Side pioneered in this method of classification of pupils according to scholastic ability, and the results are evident in the splendid showing that the South Side seniors made on the Iowa Tests.

THE FOURTH recommendation, concerning vocational courses, has also been followed at South for many years. Every student, no matter what course he's on, must take the Minimum Essentials Test. All are required to pass this test in order to receive credit for English. The passing grade is 70. South Side is the only school in Fort Wayne which gives these tests.

On one point in the fifth recommendation, the foreign language, Mr. Snider feels there could be some improvement. South Side does not require that four years of one foreign language be taken, although Mr. Snider has suggested it for many years. In order to master a language, one must take at least four years of it, which most students do not do.

The sixth and last point is taken care of very effectively at South Side. Our school has special classes for exceptional students, and developmental reading classes are available to those students wishing to increase their reading speed and ability.

In conclusion, Mr. Snider said, "I feel that our program is as good as it could be. For 32 years we have offered everything Dr. Conant has suggested. The only thing we might improve on is foreign language. Four years of one language would be much better."

STATISTICS COVERING the top 20 per cent of this year's graduating class are interesting to note here. The figures show the number of boys and girls who have taken either three or four years of each of the subjects listed.

	Boys	Girls
4 Years English	26	43
3 Years English	0	4
4 Years Language	4	12
3 Years Language	0	1
4 Years Mathematics	20	4
3 Years Mathematics	3	8
4 Years Science	1	0
3 Years Science	18	10

These figures indicate that many of our students have taken all of Dr. Conant's required courses. South Side offers the educational opportunity and these students have availed themselves of it.

The tragedy of the lack of high standards in education is eloquently stated by Headmaster Paul Cruikshank of the Taft School in Connecticut. He says, "The result is that now, when competition for higher-education opportunities is vastly magnified as a by-product of our population growth, thousands of potentially able students cannot qualify. The wastage is inexcusable. The loss to the nation is tragic."

We here at South Side can be very proud of the way our school compares with other American high schools. We are fortunate in having a school with unusually high standards. South Side is far superior to many and is one of the best. South Side offers the challenge. It is the responsibility and privilege of the students to accept it.

South Trounces Central 73-61 In Final Game

Bolyard Scores 39; Establishes Tourney Mark

Archers Win 30th Game Over City Opponents; Conquer Tigers 52nd Time

By Steve Rothberg

Wails of despair and shouts of joy resounded through the halls of the Memorial Coliseum last Saturday night as the State Champion South Side Archers rolled over the Central Tigers, 73-61, to triumph for the fourth consecutive year in Sectional competition.

Led by the fabulous 39-point effort of the fabulous Tom Bolyard, the Big Green made it 30 straight over city opponents and their 52nd win out of 100 games with the Tigers.

Bolyard put his name in the record book once again as those 39 points established a new individual high for ball players in Fort Wayne Sectional competition, retiring the mark set by Sammy Kreigh of 36 in 1957.

But a championship team is usually not a one-man team and the Archers are no exception to that rule. Mike Simmons played easily the best ball game of his career getting 12 points and acting as field general, setting up numerous Archer scores.

Dave Barrett, although only getting four points, brought the ball off the boards 13 times, second only to somebody by the name of Bolyard, who grabbed 17.

Ken Howe did a fine fill-in job for Bill Meyer, who got into foul trouble early in the contest. He got six points and captured five rebounds to aid the Archer cause immeasurably.

Nick Demetre played steady ball and was responsible for the Archers' opening punch, getting two early baskets.

All of Don Reichert's charges were stalwarts on defense holding the shooting experts of Central down, when the chips were down.

# # #

AT THE OUTSET, things appeared to be turning into a runaway as the Bowmen vaulted to an 11-2 lead. Behind Bolyard, Demetre, and Simmons, the Green had the Bengals so shaky they were hesitant about shooting even when open.

However, Central roared back as they connected on foul shot after foul shot, narrowing the gap to 16-13 at the end of the period.

During the final half of the quarter, because of the incessant fouls being called, the Green could not score, further permitting the Tigers to close in.

Nick Demetre ended the dry spell early in the second stanza by connecting with a long jumper. T. C. Williams, Central's big point man for the night (20), countered to keep the game tight.

Then South pulled away once more with Bolyard being busy from the charity stripe as well as the rest of the floor. He cashed in on eight of 10 from the foul line and three out of five field-goal attempts.

Costly ball-handling errors plagued the Green somewhat in this period but they ironed them out in the last half.

Things looked darkest for the Archers in the third quarter as Bolyard picked up his fourth foul and Central, fired up, returned to outscore the Green, 24-13, pulling within one point of tying. The fourth quarter was to tell the story, the score being 52-51 at the end of the third.

# # #

BOLYARD WENT WILD in the final period netting six field goals, more than the whole Central aggregation could come up with. The big senior cannoned them in from everywhere, the big one coming with 40 seconds remaining, breaking Kreigh's record of two years ago.

Once again credit must also be given where due and Mike Simmons was an important cog in the wheel as he cooly sunk four pressure-packed free throws to insure an Archer victory. He and Demetre executed flawless passes, many responsible for Bolyard's scores. Bill Meyer also did himself proud, coming off the bench to put down two important field goals in the final quarter.

As in previous contests, the Archers did not crack when the strain became great and when victory or defeat rode on every shot.

A great amount of the honor should go to Coach Don Reichert and those assisting him for they have truly done a great job of developing and cultivating the players' potential and talents, making the Archers a championship team.

Archers Crush Leo 79-56 In Sectional Semi-Finals

Bolyard Hits 28 Points To Top Scoring Column, All Reserves Used

By Jim Carter

In the third contest on the road to the Sectional title, the South Side Archers crushed a game Leo squad, 79-56. Leo, a surprise member of the Sectional final four, advanced to the Saturday afternoon round by virtue of a 64-60 upset of county champs New Haven.

The Lions stuck with the Kellys in the early stages of the game, but the Green soon showed its class and almost ran them out of the Coliseum.

Tom "Terrific" Bolyard drew first blood for South when he took the tip and put it in with only five seconds gone. Then Leo, playing cautiously, strung together five straight points, to take a 5-2 lead. Bolyard and Dave Barrett, who together accounted for all but two of South's points in the quarter, put the Archers back in the lead, 8-5. However, the Kellys were having trouble finding the range, and they led by only 12-9 at the quarter stop.

# # #

IN THE SECOND period, the Lions, rebounding well and taking advantage of several Archer errors, pulled ahead, 17-16, at 6:05. The Green then came alive and scored the next 13 points, nine of them by Bolyard, to hold a comfortable 29-17 edge at the intermission.

As the third stanza commenced, the Archers continued their fine shooting of the preceding quarter. Combining this with a superb defense, and paced by Bolyard's 10 points, they rapidly began to pull away. At one point the Green, completely dominating play, scored 14 straight points. As the period ended, Coach Don Reichert had already begun to make substitutions for the starters. The three-quarter score read 54-28.

Even as Reichert cleared the bench the Kellys continued to roll up the total. The Archer reserves had things just about as they pleased, since their superior height gave them a large rebounding advantage over the Leo bench. All 10 men who dressed for the game saw action, and each of them scored. Ken Howe and Ted Lebrecht looked particularly impressive. The only happening out of the ordinary was a double technical foul on Reichert.

High scorer for the Lions was Mike Roth, a 5-6 guard. He accumulated 16 points, 10 of them at the charity stripe.

BOLYARD WAS THE only Archer in double figures, as he scored 28 points in around 26 minutes of play.

South hit 28 of 53 field-goal attempts, for a tremendous .528 percentage, and 23 of 34 free throws for .676. Leo dropped only 17 of 51 against a stout Archer defense for a .333 percentage. The Lions also hit 22 of 32 charity tosses for .688.

South Side Unheralded Sextet Officiate At Basketball Tourney

Unheralded heroes for the 1959 Fort Wayne Sectional, Regional, and Semi-State tourneys are the timekeeper, officicial scorer, scoreboard attendant, and the three announcers. This sextet's home is South Side, since the Archers are host team for the three tournament sessions held at the Coliseum.

By name, they are Mr. Ray Quance, Mr. Jack Bobay, both shop instructors; Mr. David Cramer, algebra teacher; Mr. Clair Motz, gym instructor; Mr. Marion Feasel, history teacher, and Bob Shine, student.

Remaining alert is a "must" for Mr. Quance, whose job is keeping time. Twice trouble arose during the Sectionals when the clock could not be stopped.

In the tourney's first game, the Arcola-Elmhurst battle, the huge time-piece had to be run down to three minutes for an overtime period. However, the over-anxious ticker would not halt at that time. Consequently, Mr. Quance was forced to let it run to 0:00, and then set it back to the proper time.

While time was out during the last few moments of the New Haven-Leo thriller, two seconds managed to fly free. A conference with the referees resulted in holding back the clock two seconds before starting it.

These two difficulties were mechanical and Mr. Quance, of course, was not at fault.

Mr. Bobay is official scorer for the tournaments. His scoring and only his scoring data is official and final. He must be both attentive and accurate to keep the books correct. In order to cover the play more accurately, Mr. Bobay sits near the playing surface.

Sophomore Bob Shine's task, to post the score on the Coliseum's huge scoreboard for the benefit of the players and fans, was performed commendably during the entire Sectionals.

To do his job Bob modestly admits, "You must know how to count and how to flick a lever; that's about all." To avoid confusion and hot tempers, Bob has to be ever-watchful of the referees' signals.

Mr. Motz, Mr. Feasel, and Mr. Cramer are announcers for the tourney sessions; and in general, make a more enjoyable time for the fans. The trio's pleasant voices may be heard giving the name of the basket-making player, who is on the free-throw line, who is the substitute, and giving other tournament scores of interest to the audience.

The three must be familiar with the names of all the players participating in the tournament. They do not make side comments on any action of the game that would play up or play down any player, team, or official. This probably is quite hard to do since South Side is playing, and feelings rise at tournament time.

These six Archer officials who make this year's tournament more interesting and enjoyable, volunteered their services, not receiving any reward for their fine work. Every person in the schools participating in the Fort Wayne Sectional, Regional, and Semi-State tournaments should be grateful to these hard, conscientious workers.

Kellys Beat Cadets 79-44 In 2nd Game

Concordia's Cadets fell victim to South Side for the second time this season by a score of 79-44 in second-round Sectional action last Friday. South, paced by Tom Bolyard with 25 points, coasted to an early lead to post their 29th straight win over city competition.

The Archers were never in trouble in the game. They hit 10 of 13 shots from the field in the first quarter to jump into a 23-7 lead. After this, the Kellys substituted freely and played their entire second string most of the second quarter and all of the third.

Tom Bolyard connected on 11 field goals and three free throws for a 25-point game to become the county's all-time leading scorer.

Nick Demetre also broke into double figures with 15 points, as did Ken Howe, who scored 12.

# # #

AN IMPRESSIVE defense kept Concordia shackled through most of the game. In a desperate attempt to narrow the score, they tried a "lone-some-end" or "sleeper" player; but this only gave the Archers the advantage of an extra man on their offensive court, and Concordia was forced to discontinue their effort. The Cadets also tried to stymie the Kellys with a full-court press, but this was a futile attempt.

Both Ted Lebrecht and Steve Burton executed a pair of fine lay-ups when the first five was being rested, and Ken Howe looked better than ever as he pulled down many rebounds in addition to his 12 points.

Dave Barrett and Mike Simmons contributed eight points each to the Archer cause, and they both played an excellent defensive game.

Scoring:

	G-A	F-A	P	T
Bolyard	11-18	3-4	0	25
Meyer	0-2	1-2	1	1
Barrett	4-7	0-0	2	8

South Dumps Monroeville

Tom Bolyard Scores 33 In Archers' 63-33 Win

Led by Tom "Terrific" Bolyard, South Side's Archers trounced Monroeville's Cubs to open defense of the Green's 1958 State Championship. Tom's individual performance of 33 points, just three off of the Sectional single-game mark, came as the result of 11 field goals and 11 charity tosses; and equaled the entire Cub output as the Kellys downed the Black, 63-33, last Wednesday. The game was the third of the evening as Arcola topped Elmhurst in an overtime tilt, and Huntertown stamped North Side to start the Fort Wayne Sectional rolling.

South was never behind and never in doubt as they led at all stops, 7-6, 20-7, and 34-21. The game proved to be an uneventful contest marked by poor marksmanship and shoddy ball-handling. South made 25 of 64 attempts from the field and 13 of 19 from the 15-foot stripe. Monroeville did much worse, hitting 11 of 42 from out, and 11 of 18 free throws. Monroeville committed nine errors, while South committed eight.

Coach Reichert substituted freely as the Archers looked far from the seventh ranked team in the state. Ken Howe saw considerable action at center grabbing numerous rebounds and netting six points. Ted Lebrecht also sparkled off the bench at the guard post to tally five points.

The Green were certainly "holding back" in anticipation of the upcoming games, which could be the reason for their poor caliber of ball. Poor competition was definitely a factor for the Kelly sluggishness. The only bright spot for the Cubs was Neil Elliot's 15-point performance.

Following is a complete summary of the South Side individual and team scoring:

	G	F	T
Bolyard	11	11	33
Meyer	2	0	4
Barrett	1	0	2
Demetre	2	0	4
Simmons	2	1	5
Roderick	1	0	2

Mr. Stebing Makes Good Score In Teachers Bowling League

Mr. Glen Stebing, driving training instructor, had the most memorable experience of his bowling career when he bowled 641 in a three game series. This was the first time he had bowled over 200 in the Teachers League, and the team is now in first place in league standings.

The Teacher's League is a combination of approximately 25 teams, made up of teachers and school personnel from the various city schools. The league was started about 15 years ago with only eight teams of interested teachers. It has now advanced to a point where 21 teams bowl at Berry Lanes, and the other four at Kessen's. The teams bowl every Tuesday night.

Mr. Stebing began bowling ten years ago. "I have always been sports minded, liking golf, basketball, baseball, and football," commented Mr. Stebing. "To be a good bowler you naturally have to have some sports ability, and be interested in the sport. With hard work skills will develop. Bowling is a wonderful way to relax and have fun."

Each participating school has one or more teams made up of four bowlers. South Side has two teams. On one team are Mr. Thomas Polite, Mr. Jack Bobay, Mr. Robert Storey, and Mr. Richard Sage. Members of the other team are Mr. Clyde Peirce, Mr. Russell Seltenright, Mr. Don Weaver, and Mr. Glen Stebing. This team averages two wins out of every three games, and usually finishes first or second in league standings.

Besides bowling in the Teacher's League, Mr. Stebing is a member of the Lion's Club team. His average is 163 compared to 173 in the Teacher's League.

Brighton, Angola To Battle For Right To Meet Archers

Angola Attains Mark Of 16-8

Hornets Beat Bellfontaine To Be Victors In Tourney

By Bob Shine

Angola will journey to the Fort Wayne Regional for the first time since they won their last Sectional title in 1934.

The Hornets, who had a season record of 12-8 and a Sectional record of 4-0, managed to tie Decatur for fourth place in the NEIC during the regular season.

During the regular season, the Hornets compiled wins over Decatur and Concordia; but they were defeated by the New Haven Bulldogs.

# # #

THE ANGOLA TEAM, which represents a student body of 451 pupils, will meet Brighton in the first game of the Fort Wayne Regional Tournament at 1 p.m. Saturday.

The Hornets are coached by John Hamilton, who has advanced and developed them to a point where they cannot be regarded lightly.

A. B. Barkdull, the Angola athletic director, feels that the Hornets are much improved; and, he was quoted to say, "I think our team can play in the last game."

Angola, whose school colors are purple and gold, does not have a tall squad. Their tallest man is Jerry Hoffman, who stands at 6-2. The Hornets' leading scorer is 5-10 Gordon Van Marter, who has a season total of 352 points and 58 in the Sectional. Next comes 6-1 Don Waymire and Don Powers with 218 and 213 points, respectively.

# # #

AT THE CHURUBUSCO Sectional, the Hornets defeated Auburn, 51-40, Waterloo, 47-42, Butler, 81-68, and Bellefountaine, 62-50. The highest scorer on the team during the Sectionals was Gordon Van Marter with 58. Next were Don Waymire and Don Powers, who compiled 43 points each.

Roster:

	No.	Ht.	Sea. Tot.	Sec. Tot.
Gary Chapman	53	6-0	122	18
Don Powers	34	6-0	213	43

Gor. Van Marter	44	5-10	352	58
Howard Crum	40	6-0	150	30
Dave Dygert	54	6-0	35	3
Don Waymire	55	6-1	218	43
Jeff Heier	33	6-1	17	0
Mike Stohler	35	6-1	44	11

Freshmen Beat Adams Central, Lose To 'Dogs

Archers Suffer Setback From New Haven 27-22, Beat Adams Team 41-29

Enjoying the sweet taste of victory for the fifth straight time South Side's freshman hardwood five rolled to a 41-29 verdict over an outplayed Adams Central quintet. An Archer home crowd saw their favorites add another notch in their belt in the February 14 contest.

The final score does not indicate the easiness of victory once the Kellys started to roll. Coach "Porky" Holt emptied his bench during the later stages in order to keep the margin fairly small.

Ragged, loosely-played ball marked the conjure of the opening 12 minutes. The Archers could not start their offense clicking and found themselves on a short end of a 18-15 score at intermission time.

Coach Holt pulled his team together during the rest period and South looked like a different team in the last two periods. They had things their own way on offense and under the boards, rolling up 26 points to the Red and White's 11 tallies.

Big Dave Meek and crafty Mike Dunn netted nine points each for Kelly scoring honors. The bench, the "Chinese Bandits," turned in a very creditable performance.

# # #

SOUTH SIDE'S freshman roundball quintet rounded out their 1958-59 campaign on a sour note by dropping a 27-22 decision to New Haven. A partisan Bulldog home crowd watched the slow moving contest on February 19.

Kummer was a naughty word in the Archer camp after the game. The shifty Bulldog guard filtered through the porous Archer defense for 16 points. He single-handedly meant the difference in the outcome of the game.

New Haven chose to control the ball and did so effectively. It took advantage of every scoring opportunity and an Archer off-night to pile the victory.

Hitting only three out of 16 shots, South still managed to stay in the game going into the third period. Then Kummer ran wild and the Purple and Yellow built up a 13 point lead at one point in the fourth quarter.

Teams' Optimism Runs Very High As Regionals Near

Optimism has proved itself one of the chief ingredients in the topsy-turvy state basketball scene. The little underdogs express great hope for that big upset and their big city brothers do their share of dreaming about that state crown.

This high optimistic feeling runs strong through the heads of the schools being represented in this Saturday's Fort Wayne Regional Tourney. The three visiting schools' principals talked about their teams' chances in an interview last Sunday afternoon.

Hugh Andrews, principal at Decatur High School, spoke on behalf of his school, whose Yellow Jackets surprised entrants at Adams Central by emerging that Sectional site's 1959 champs. Mr. Andrews commented on his school's chance in a slightly pessimistic view. "It looks like South's the team to beat." He went on to say that Decatur did not have too good a season but capitalized on several breaks.

The feeling about the tourney Saturday ran in a different light for the Angola heads. Principal F. K. McCutchan and athletic director A. B. Barkdull listed their team's aspirations. Barkdull said, "I think our team can play in the last game." He and McCutchan expressed confidence that the Hornets would eliminate Brighton and get a crack at South Side, but as other coaches and principals, whose teams advanced to the Regional last year, had high respect for the mighty Archers and slight hope of derailing the Kellys.

Brighton's principal, Robert Kramming, very happy with his school's first Sectional win, expressed hope that his crossroads school could upset Angola and get a crack at South Side. He summed up his team's chances thusly, "I think we have a chance in the first game since we play Angola, but against South it is a foregone conclusion as to the outcome." He felt South would have little difficulty in capturing the Regional.

For the Archers' viewpoint, Don Reichert was called upon to comment. Reichert expressed thankfulness at being still in the running. He said that South should advance through the Regionals and expressed hope that the squad keeps up its fine play.

Brighton Boasts 15-7 Record

Wildcats Win Sectional By Beating Howe 64-60

By Bob King

Replacing Springs Valley as one of the "people's choices" this year are Brighton's Wildcats, who advanced to the Fort Wayne Regional after slashing Howe Military, 64-60, in the final game of the Kendallville Sectional.

Springs Valley, 1958 state finalists, was eliminted from this year's tourney in the first week of competition. So Brighton's 70-pupil enrollment places the Wildcats as the "people's choice."

The Blue and Gold are coached by Robert Halford, now in his second year at Brighton. Halford owns a 27-15 overall record at this time as he has had two winning seasons with the Wildcats.

BRIGHTON OWNS A 15-7 record upon entering the Fort Wayne Regional. The Blue defeated Wolcottville and LaGrange en route to their Sectional victory over the Howe Cadets. The victory was the Wildcats' first Sectional championship as they beat Howe's defending Kendallville Sectional champions.

Coach Halford has a starting lineup which averages nearly six feet even. Jim Grove, six-foot senior mainstay, will start at one forward slot with 6-1 junior Bob Fanning at the other. Larry Lehmer, Brighton's tallest man at 6-1½, is Halford's choice at center; while sophomore Dave Boggs at 6-1 and senior Earl Hachett at 5-10 are likely starters at the guard posts.

The Blue's number six man is a familiar face to South fans. George Griffith, who attended South in his freshman and sophomore years, plays guard for the Wildcats. George was high point man for the Gold in their crucial semi-final victory over LaGrange in the Sectional. "Griff" played varsity football for the Archers during his sophomore year.

Principal Robert Kraming plans to have nearly 300 followers on hand for the Brighton-Angola (Churubusco Sectional winner) game, the first afternoon game in the local Regional.

As for personal comments on the up-coming tourney, Principal Kraming said, "We think we have pretty good chances for the first game, but Fort Wayne South looks like the probable winner to me."

31 Champions Retain Crown

Of the 64 1959 Sectional champs only 31 were able to repeat from last year. Defending State Champs South Side, Muncie Central, East Chicago Washington, and Kokomo were the most outstanding winners.

Fort Wayne South Side beat Central, 73-61, in one of the more thrilling games in the state. Tom Bolyard set a Sectional scoring record with 39 points.

Other Sectional records were set by Muncie Central with a 99-51 win over DeSoto, and Valparaiso's victory over Chesterton, 109-74.

Third-ranked Indianapolis Shortridge was knocked off in an afternoon contest by Indianapolis Attucks, 63-62. The Attucks went on to beat Indianapolis Tech that night, 78-68.

One of the two undefeated teams in the regular season, Bainbridge, was able to come through with its 23rd straight victory, 69-53, over Reelsville.

Gary Roosevelt took the Gary Sectional, 72-63, over Gary Froebel, and Terre Haute Gerstmeyer took the final game from Terre Haute Wiley, 68-53, in toss-up tournaments.

High scorers were Pete Auksel with 34 in East Chicago Washington's 77-51 victory over Crown Point, Jimmy Rayl's 33 for Kokomo in a 78-52 victory over Northwestern, and Buster Briley hitting 30 for Madison over Austin, 73-49.

Last year's "people's choice," Springs Valley, went down in defeat in a heart-breaker, 40-37. Marvin Pruett hit 24 points in losing 41-39 to Huntingburg. Brighton, Odon, and Nashville were small team winners.

Only four of last year's Regional champions were missing after Sectional play: Princeton, Bluffton, Anderson, and Springs Valley.

Tom Bolyard Becomes Best Sectional Player

Many Outstanding Boys Participate In Tourney Which South Side Won

Although the South Side Archers were able to win the Fort Wayne Sectional Tourney, many outstanding games were played which brought out the top individuals in Allen County basketball.

In the most thrilling game of the tournament, South Side won the final game over Central, 73-61.

Tom Bolyard's 39 points broke the one-game scoring record of 36 set by Sammy Kreigh. South has won 52 of the 100 meetings between the two teams in defense of the Sectional crown. Although Tom Bolyard was riding with four fouls in the last period, he lasted out the game. T. C. Williams scored 20 and Willie Curry 14 for Central. Mike Simmons gained 12 points for the Archers.

To get the tournament started, Arcola and Elmhurst gave the crowd an overtime thriller with Arcola coming out the victor, 52-50.

After being knotted up at 48-all at the end of regulation play, Arcola, coached by Willie Doehrman, forged ahead at 50-48 with a basket by Bob Bell. Elmhurst's Warren Stevenson tied it up at 50-all. Arcola called time with 16 seconds left to play and sent Bill Brumbaugh out to fire the winning basket.

The Trojans called time with four seconds remaining, but found out too late that it was one too many.

Although Arcola missed the free shot for that technical, they retained the ball at midcourt and ran out the time. Bill Shanks paced the Aces with 15 points and Don McLean had the same number for the Trojans.

THE SECOND GAME of that evening matched North Side and Huntertown with the Wildcats topping North Side, 66-61. Huntertown was led by their outstanding 6-4, 170-pound senior center, Bob Blanchard, who scored 24 points on nine field goals and six free throws.

Although the Redskins were able to hit a .522 percentage from the field, they got into foul trouble and lost the game. Three North ball players fouled out; Tom Lindenberg, Jim Lang, and Mike Dafforn. Huntertown dropped North for the second straight year. Allen Tew paced North with 15 points, and Lindenberg had 12.

In the final match of the evening, South Side gained an easy victory over Monroeville, 63-33. Although Monroeville tried a stall to stop the Green and White, South, led by Tom Bolyard's 33 points, handled the opposition easily as Coach Reichert substituted freely.

DURING THE SECOND night of action the games were put in the hands of three men: Bobby Stockamp, Mike Roth, and Al Herman. Stockamp hit for 22 points in leading the Concordia Cadets over Harlan in a thrilling finish. Behind 47-41, Stockamp hit nine points in leading the Cadets in a rally to win, 54-51.

Mike Roth, a 5-5 junior, led the Leo Lions over the favored Hoagland squad, 58-50. Roth hit for 13 points and guided his team around the big opponents.

Al Herman, the big gun for New Haven all year, paced his team with 26 points in an easy victory over Woodburn, 81-51. Herman gained 20 points in the first half, and only six in the second before being pulled by his coach.

ONE OF THE best games of the tourney was played between the Central Tigers and Central Catholic Irish. Although neither team would give an inch in this match, Willie Curry came through with three long jump shots in the last quarter to clinch the game. Bob Pelkington was the high scorer for C.C. with 28 points. Willie Rozier and T. C. Williams both had 26 points for the Tigers.

Huntertown and South Side pulled off easy wins in 89-53 and 79-44 victories over Arcola and Concordia, respectively. For Huntertown, Bob Blanchard was the outstanding player, although he came through with only 14 points. Tom Bolyard, who played only half the game, scored 25 points.

In the greatest upset of the tourney, Leo topped New Haven. Although the Lions were down eight points in the fourth quarter, they came through strong after Al Herman had fouled out with only 16 points. Mike Roth and Terry Garman were the outstanding players for Leo.

In the semi-final round, Central topped Huntertown, 52-37, and South Side won over Leo, 79-56. Bob Blanchard was removed with four fouls before half-time, and Central went away winning. South Side gained its victory after being stalled for most of the first half.

Schmitz On Sports

No looking back now, but the Archers cleared that first hurdle in defense of their State Title last week and accomplished the feat with the form and grace of true champs. Winning their fourth title set off the annual celebration calamity for Archer fans. This corner has been around for all four, and knows that that victory taste hasn't soured.

After that 100th South-Central tussle, a second-guesser's paradise, the critics were howling about the officiating, Archer fans were saying I told you so, and Hoosier basketball fans were wondering, "Are they that tough again?"

They aren't; but it's not every year that a school floors a team like '58's State Champs.

Enough reminiscing. The Archer team that successfully defended its Sectional crown for the third consecutive time last Saturday has a lot to be desired, but at the same time, has a lot for which any South Sider can be proud.

* * *

The Kellys, behind the incomparable Tom Bolyard, coasted past four foes on the way to the title. Only Central was able to boast about their ability to stay with the Archers until the final minutes.

* * *

Monroeville battled the Kelly subs a good deal of the way; and Concordia, second-round opponent, saw Bolyard and Company (Simmons, Barrett, Demetre, and Meyer) for most of the first half and a little of the second half. In fact with three minutes to go, the Green starters made the victorious jaunt to the showers.

Leo also had many chances to capitalize on the appearance of the reserves. But as is usually the case the seconds went a long way in all three contests before yielding to experience.

Lebrecht, Howe, and McConnell did exceptional jobs in pinch-hitting for the starters, whose many vaccines could do nothing for the foul epidemic. In the finale against Central, these three came in especially handy.

* * *

The first games were far from spectators' delights because of the ease the Archers had in disposing of their foes. They won the first three by an average of 29.3 points per contest. Overall they won by 25 per game, sixth best in the state. Only surprising Leo was able to put any life in the opposition's attack.

* * *

Against Central the subs saw limited action as the first five stuck it out in a tight game heavily accented with fouls. Bolyard's 39 points in this one set the Sectional record and a similar performance plus one Saturday would bring Bolyard another record.

Norm Wittie, of Monmouth, now one of Branch McCracken's Hurrying Hoosiers, and protege of South's freshman coach, Porky Holt, holds the Regional mark of 39 points.

There seems little doubt in Bolyard's ability to set the mark but the question lies in the fact that if Coach Reichert acts as he did last week Tom may be removed early since the Archers are expected to breeze to victory in the Regionals.

* * *

As usual the Regional competition is far below that in most other Sectionals. Brighton is making its initial Regional appearance and Angola is returning for the first time since 1934. Decatur made it here last in 1950. Prior to that they were in the Regional Tourney for four straight years.

* * *

The Archer backing from the stands was of the highest caliber again, and Coach Reichert expressed his thanks for their support; but it seemed a little sluggish before the South-Central game when the Tigers supporters were continuously out-yelling South for their favorites.

* * *

Tourney Tid-Bits

John Petrick, head coach at Elmhurst, diagrammed a play on the end of the press bench late in the opening game Wednesday night.

Don Reichert did the near impossible by being charged with a double technical in the Leo contest Saturday afternoon.

Herb Banet, disgusted with his team's efforts in the early part of the game first shed his suit coat and then—during a time-out huddle—walked from the conference leaving Waveland "Snitz" Snider, Banet's assistant to take over. His boys weren't doing the right things, and Herb was undoubtedly angry.

With Sammy Kreigh at Huntington, the tourney was looking for that little guy to thrill the crowd. Along came two, Arcola's Brumbaugh, and Leo's Mike Roth. Brumbaugh's game-winning shot will be talked about for several weeks.

Many exciting games were on hand for Allen County fans during the completed Sectional. With the pleasant memories of the tourney are the players who stood above the field. And here is my choice for an All-Sectional team.

Scouting Around—Muncie's Bearcats kept right on rolling, but hesitated before city-rival Burris. East Chicago, Michigan City and Valparaiso won handily. The latter's coach played basketball at Covington, Ind., under Don Reichert.

This corner said to keep an eye on Shwaswick, Huntingburg, and Noblesville. They all came through, the former two causing excitement with their wins. Huntingburg's Happy Hunters upset favored Springs Valley, 1958 state finalist. Noblesville won its Sectional in a routine tournament. This week, still keep an eye on them. They are just the team to upset Kokomo!

* * *

One local surprise was Ossian, winner of their first Sectional since 1953. Their win was of special interest to superstitious Archer old-timers. Ossian was the squad that derailed South when the Archers were defending their crown in 1939.

Frosh End Season With 10-6 Record

South Side's freshman basketball squad ended its 1958-59 schedule with a fine 10-6 record. Although reaching a .625 percentage, the frosh crop did not reach the heights of some great first year teams at South the last few years.

Starting out on the right foot, the Archers trounced C.C. by a 38-24 count. They also met success on their second outing, whipping Concordia's Cadets to the tune of a 39-23 score. Ken Robinson placed himself as a stalwart in this game by tallying 17 points.

Central handed the Green lads their first defeat on a 40-14 trouncing. South came right back to beat Elmhurst in a tremendous game. Robinson and Mike Dunn scored 18 and 12 points respectively, to lead the Bowmen to a 41-26 verdict.

IN THE DISASTROUS Holiday Tourney, South crumbled before both Central Catholic and host North Side, the latter game a real thriller.

The Green and White rebounded against the Redskins in South's next contest, 33-29.

Central returned to Archerland and sent the Kellys sprawling over a 51-25 score. South then visited Bishop Luers and defeated the all-freshman school by a 42-25 count.

After losing to an improved C.C. five for a second time, South Side owned a mediocre 5-5 record. "Porky" Holt's forces then began to roll, clicking off five straight victories before ending the season by losing to New Haven.

HUNTERTOWN was the Kelly's first victim in the skein. Robinson scored 18 points to pace his team to a 49-27 win. New Haven was next to fall; South, behind Leakey's 14 points, nipped the Bulldogs, 24-28.

The Archers made Concordia victim number 3, when they tramped out a 41-20 victory over the Cadets. South was hard pressed before edging archrival North Side, 43-42 in the season's thriller.

The fifth consecutive win came at at the expense of Adams Central, enroute to a 41-29 score. New Haven jolted Archer dreams of ending the season with a 11-5 record by beating South, 27-22 in the finale.

Coach "Porky" Holt is proud of this team. He says, "Overall, the team did a fine job. We could have done a little better here and there, but all in all I am well satisfied with the boys."

MR. HOLT HAS DONE a very fine job as an Archer coach with the freshman team this year. Not only did Mr. Holt coach the boys to be a well-playing team, but he expertly taught them how to act as gentlemen, on and off the court.

"Porky," the type of coach one couldn't dislike, is looking forward to harvesting a fine crop of Freshman B's next year.

Ken Robinson led the Archers offensively, holding a total of 157 points or a 9.8 per game average. Ken Leakey and Dave Meek were next in line, totaling 114 and 95 points respectively.

The team as a whole scored an average of 35.5 points per game. They held their foe to a 32.4 average.

FAMILIAR SCENE—This picture captures the daily routine of many Archers. Miss Lucy Mellen, cafeteria adviser, takes money at the end of the long serving line. The new facilities provide speedier service plus a more pleasant atmosphere.

Mr. Hemmer, With Bob Hope, Entertains Troops In Alaska

Mr. Ray Hemmer, South Side history teacher, recently told his class how he became an authority on Eskimos.

Mr. Hemmer explained that every year around Christmas, Bob Hope entertains the servicemen throughout the world; in 1956, the Purdue Glee Club, under the direction of Mr. Albert P. Stuart, of which Mr. Hemmer was a member, was contracted by Mr. Hope to perform in Alaska.

An Air Force base in Illinois was the starting point for the glee club. They made one stop in Washington in order to be equipped with gear with which to brave the winter weather, and they then continued on to Anchorage. The Air Force traveled by plane the entire round trip, which was about 5,000 miles.

After arriving in Anchorage, the entire troup was housed in the Army camp outside the city. Mr. Hemmer jokingly remarked that he compared the barracks with a prison. It seems that a thick frost formed over all the windows making it impossible to see out. When it came time to rehearse, the performers would run out to the bus, which took them across town; but they still couldn't see. When they arrived at the school where the rehearsals were held, they'd again jump out of the bus and into the windowless auditorium. All in all, they didn't see too much of Anchorage; but they were taken on guide tours of the surrounding posts, where they were shown the Ski Bowl. The Ski Bowl is a mountain where the men are trained to ski.

The rehearsals and filming of the entire show were held in the new $5 million school in Anchorage. The school also accommodates a junior college and adult education for the city's population.

Mr. Hemmer got a chance to meet and talk with the rest of the cast. Among them were Jerry Colonga, Ginger Rodgers, Peggy King, Mickey Mantle, Miss Universe of '56, and a few other combined acts. He had much to say about Bob Hope which was complimentary. He said that Bob's personality is the same on and off stage. He's as funny and energetic as we see him on television. Jerry Colonga changes off stage to a very quiet, friendly gentleman.

One of the extraordinary things he found in Alaska was the sight of wild animals on the outskirts of town and in the camp. Among these were wild moose.

With the weather at 30 degrees below zero, travel was hard. Mr. Hemmer said that with the weather like it is in Fort Wayne, he's been complaining, but then he thinks about the weather in Alaska, and stops complaining.

After the filming of the show, the Air Force flew the group back to Illinois without one mishap over the entire 5,000 miles covered. But, when they got 50 miles from Lafayette the second bus, which he was on, broke down. The bus driver hitch-hiked back to the base to get another bus. Three hours passed, and then they were on their way, reaching home for Christmas.

In conslusion, Mr. Hemmer said it was a very educational trip with its tours and meetings, even though he didn't see any igloos.

Cafeteria Head Names Helpers

With the addition of a new cafeteria, twice the size of the old one, many students were added to the staff.

"Before these girls could obtain a position, a blood test and chest x-ray were required," said Miss Lucy Mellen, cafeteria adviser.

"A student has to be willing to work an entire period and take many responsibilities for a position in the cafeteria," she said.

The students who were chosen for the various jobs are: Period 3, Pat Arnett, who waits on students who supplement their home lunches by buying milk;

Period 4, Ruth Ann Beyerlein, Pat Hofer, and Eileen Ray, dishwasher assistants; Louise Jackson, in charge of service at the milk and ice cream counter;

Period 5, Gertrude Girardot, Sherry Kock, dishwasher assistants; Pat Mertens, counter assistant; Lucille Wagner, in charge of service at the milk and ice cream counter; and Sandra Tracy, who picks up dishes in the dining room.

Miss Mellen feels the girls are doing a needed service for the school. For this work they earn free lunches.

Miss Mellen has found the girls willing to work and learn, and conducting themselves as they should in a public dining room.

"I believe the experience the girls receive in this kind of work will be useful when applying for a future position," commented Miss Mellen.

Fine Arts Fund Drive Starts, Shoots For Goal Of $80,000

By Marilyn Cole

"Fine Arts—A Family Affair." This is the slogan for the 1959 Fine Arts fund drive. The campaign, running from February 16 through March 8, will be united, with all members of the Fine Arts Foundation participating as one central unit. This plan was announced at a high school press conference attended by Marilyn Cole and John Hendricksen.

The main purpose of the drive is to obtain enough money to meet the members' various operating expenses. By doing this it will help the Fine Arts' organizations function more effectively and grow in strength and artistic excellence.

By having one combined effort it is hoped to eliminate the need for various separate solicitations. In the past, all members of the Foundation had separate campaigns. Since the various forms of art appeal to different people, the entire community was not reached, making the drives not as successful as hoped.

THE FINE ARTS Foundation executive director, Richard Gibeau, prepared the ground work for the forthcoming campaign. A budget committee was selected, and Fred Shoaff was named chairman. The committee reviewed the needs of the organizations. All expenses were cut to the absolute minimum.

The goal decided on was $80,000, with these allottments: Art School and Museum, $21,000; Fort Wayne Ballet and School of Ballet, $5,000; Civic Theater, $1,500; Festival Music Theater, $1,500; Fine Arts Foundation, $10,000; Fine Arts Festival, $1,000; Historical Society, $1,500; Philharmonic Orchestra, $28,000; Fund Campaign, $4,500; Contingency and Shrinkage, $1,850.

The campaign will begin by soliciting businesses and other commercial houses.

ON SUNDAY afternoon, March 8, the last part of the campaign will be put into effect. From 4 to 7 p.m., "Operation Bus Drive" will take place. "A fleet of 30 buses, manned by 20 or so volunteers each will take to the streets of Fort Wayne," explained Mr. Gibeau. "Each bus will have approximately a three-hour route through the residential districts of the city. A bus will work its way from block to block, parking at the corner with a squadron of people taking to the sidewalks. Going from house to house, they will collect contributions, return to the bus and turn the money over to a treasurer."

Station-wagons will be used to perform this service in the suburban areas of the city.

Members of the various radio and television studios have agreed to man 10 buses. Students from colleges and universities in this area will also take over buses.

BY THE END OF the campaign it is estimated that over 2,000 people will have given their time and talent for the success of this drive.

The 30 corporations forming Junior Achievement have given the initial donation of the campaign. "When they heard of the coming drive, a meeting of the various companies was called," stated Reed Chapman, J.A. public relations head. "The companies voted unanimously to donate $20 to the fund."

Abraham Lincoln Stands Out As Example To All Mankind

By Iva Dell Anspach

Every teenager probably has a different desire or goal set before him which he hopes some day to accomplish. I, too, have a strong desire—this is to go to high school. I am a Navajo girl and I will probably never accomplish this desire, because we are very poor. I spent my days caring for my father's herd of sheep; nevertheless, I cannot help wishing that I was one of the fortunate American teenagers who had the privilege of attending high school.

I remember the two short years that I attended a small mission school here on our reservation in New Mexico, and the multitude of interesting things that I learned. I liked best the study of our vast land and its history. We studied the many Presidents who contributed to the making of our land and its universal standing. My favorite President was Abraham Lincoln because his life was so much like mine.

I read that Mr. Lincoln walked as much as four and one-half miles a day to school in Knob Creek, Ky. I rode my pony three miles a day to school and then the journey seemed almost endless. On one such day, I thought about Mr. Lincoln trudging along as a boy to school. I imagined him smiling because he was able to attend school and learn more. If a great President and man like Mr. Lincoln could walk to school and not complain of the distance, I thought, why should a lowly Indian girl like me be fazed at all? I felt proud from then on that I could do things just like Mr. Lincoln.

Our small, dirt hogans are very different from your houses. We do not have electricity or any modern conveniences as most American families have. I always studied before the light of our firepile and sometimes wondered what electric lights were actually like. Mr. Lincoln also read by firelight, often many hours after midnight—if it was good enough for Mr. Lincoln then, it is good enough for me now! Mr. Lincoln strived daily to learn all that he could, that is why I find it hard to believe some of the stories I've heard concerning American teenagers.

I HAVE HEARD that some American teenagers abuse their privilege to learn by acting up in the school classrooms. We are taught to be very attentive and to make use of the short schooling opportunity that we do have. We are taught that some day we might aid our Indian people in obtaining some social rights and justices that are long deserved.

I realize that in order to accomplish anything, no matter how large or small a task, that one must be learned. Mr. Lincoln rose to the very head of our country only by his own desire and with the help of our God, too, I believe. Many obstacles stood in his way, but by conquering them he improved himself and became an even greater man. Many things stand in my way of obtaining the education that I want and that I think within rights of deserving.

As I mentioned previously, my people are very poor. We do not have the required money to assure educations for the young Indian children. Tuition is almost $60 a year to even be admitted to a high school.

This amount may not sound expensive to you—but rarely have any of my people even seen that much. Also another problem is my Indian heritage. We are not accepted by the white people in general; although, the missionaries have proved to be our friends by helping us in many ways. Many of my people would die today if it weren't for the devoted missionaries, who have come to live among us and care for our injured and sick. Many times I am mocked because of the color of my skin and the fact that I am an Indian.

I FIND COMFORT in knowing that all white people aren't like this. Mr. Lincoln cared enough for the Negroes, despite the dissimilation in skin color, to try to free them from slavery. Although Mr. Lincoln was criticized for his interest in the Negroes' welfare then, we count this as one of the primary factors leading to his immortal face. Although my people were the first inhabitants of the United States, they are now cast aside as a part of the past and almost forgotten in the bustling city life and new modern inventions. Life has not changed much on our reservation land, there are some advantages to this, too, I think.

The reservation, largely consisting of scorched desert land, mesas, and some mountains, is our home; and was the home of our brave ancestors. Our highways, as we call them, might be compared with your dirt country roads. We have no telephones and few are rich enough to own a vehicle. Despite the disadvantages as you might call them, we have some advantages that those in the busy cities lack.

Abraham Lincoln lived close to nature—as we always have. Youngsters instead of riding bicycles as you do, find joy in observing the small desert animals, birds, and plant life. I remember a story of Mr. Lincoln, where he was riding to a banquet (where he was honored guest-speaker) dressed in his Sunday-best. While riding along the muddy Illinois road, he spotted a small pig stuck in the mud squealing wildly. Without a thought about his good clothes, Mr. Lincoln hopped off of his horse and rescued the pig, soiling his suit.

What a great man he was! I find myself repeating it numerously. I have much time to think about Mr. Lincoln and the many lessons that he taught mankind, while watching my father's herd. In my solitude, my mind wanders frequently and I imagine many things.

I pretend that I am a school teacher in a Navajo school. I teach them all that I know, and tell them of my deep admiration for Mr. Lincoln. I even imagine sometimes that Mr. Lincoln is my teacher, and that in his slow-speaking manner, tells of his many experiences as President of the United States.

I know that these things are impossible, but I believe that Mr. Lincoln is willing to be a teacher to all that desire to learn. Virtue, honesty, good citizenship, kindness, and faith are only a few of the lessons that Mr. Lincoln can teach us. We must be willing to comprehend and practice what he teaches us though, or all of his efforts are in vain.

I will probably never be able to attend high school, but I hope that you fortunate ones who do, will make the utmost use of it. I do not want sympathy because I am happy here with my people, but I hope that whoever reads this will remember some of the crudely-written examples within and apply them.

Abraham Lincoln, through his endless efforts and desires to learn all that he could, served his country; although, merely a poor farm boy he proved to mankind what could be accomplished. Success does not depend upon race, religion, or nationality; where there is a will there is a way!

Archers Top Angola 82-58; Win Regionals

Decatur Team Nearly Upsets State Champs

Archers Take Regional For 4th Straight Year, Join Sweet Sixteen

By Bob Schmitz

Whoever shied away from the Coliseum last Saturday during the Regional basketball tourney because of "dull tourney" speculation missed one of the greatest small school challenges thrown at South Side in three years of tourney action and missed seeing three of the most prolific scorers in our area battle each other for high point honors as South Side's fast moving Archers rolled on to their ninth Regional title, fourth in succession, with a routine 82-58 romp past Angola.

They missed Decatur's tremendous and almost successful attempted upset of the defending state champs and the fantabulous shooting exhibitions presented by Larry Daniels, Gordon Van Marter, and Tom Bolyard.

When the dust had settled, South was again in the state's elite 16 for the fourth time in a row as Hoosier fans around the state were expecting, but wishing against. South thus passed the second hurdle in defense of their State title and extended their winning skein in tourney action to 16 straight.

ANGOLA WAS figured to be the toughest of the competition facing the Archers in Regional play because of the regular season win over the Archers' first foe, Decatur.

But Paul Bevelheimer's ignited Yellow Jackets strode along with Reichert's charges until the late stages of the game when Bolyard and Simmons paced a belated Kelly scoring splurge that netted a 59-51 triumph.

Decatur, the most under-rated team that the Archers have faced this season, took advantage of one of the Green's colder shooting sprees and sent quick Larry Daniels to work. Daniels, with 29 points, was high for the afternoon. He and Bolyard dueled throughout the game for scoring honors, but Daniels finally won by stripping the meshes for 29 tallies, bettering Bolyard's production by one.

THEN AT NIGHT South had an easier task in disposing of Angola's hot-shooting Hornets; but Bolyard had to come up with a devastating second half before grabbing scoring honors from Angola's fabulous Gordie Van Marter by 34-30.

The fielder that set Terrific Tom's total of 34 came on a converted missed free throw by Ken Howe, enabling Bolyard to set the Regional two-game scoring mark at 62, when it appeared as if Bolyard's record-smashing had hit a drought week. He eclipsed the record previously held by Monmouth's ex-star, Norm Witte, a product of South Side's frosh coach, Porky Holt. Bolyard's total was just five short of topping the single game mark of 39, also set by Witte in the 1956 Regionals.

Brighton, the "people's choice" from near LaGrange, had their troubles in trying to stop Angola's more experienced Hornets. Height advantage played a key role in Angola's routine victory. Brighton was one of the Hoosier Sectional victors suffering from the flu plague. The Wildcats didn't possess that drive and luster that helped net them their first Sectional championship.

But by their performance at night, Angola's Hornets proved that their afternoon showing was not exemplary of their typical play.

The officiating for the tourney was far above the caliber of refereeing witnessed during the Sectional meet. But as the officials improved the crowds disappeared. Only a meager throng was on hand in the afternoon and still fewer showed at night.

Next week "loyal fans" are hoped to fill the Coliseum to capacity when the long-awaited battle between Rayl and Company and Bolyard and Company materializes. Both teams were headed to a showdown battle last year in the Semi-State Tourney, but the Wildcats were bumped out by Elkhart in a spine-tingler. This year they face each other in the first afternoon tilt with the winner favored to appear in the final game of the State Tourney.

Two other familiar faces, South Bend Central and Marion, will round the four-team field. Archer supporters would cherish seeing Bolyard outplay Rayl and South whipping South Bend Central, revenging the Bears' win in the 1957 tourney.

South To Face Kokomo; Bears, Marion Will Play

By Jim Carter

Featuring two teams ranked in the top ten in the state, the Fort Wayne Semi-State meet should be one of the top contests in Hoosierland this Saturday. Kokomo's Wildcats, ranked fourth by the final Associated Press poll, will clash with South Side, seventh, in the opening attraction. The second game will send South Bend Central's Bears against the Giants of Marion.

Tickets for the big games will be very scarce, as each school has a large enrollment and is expected to sell all of its allotment. The four competing schools split 7,151 tickets, with the remaining 2,000 going to area schools who have already met defeat in the tourney. Kokomo, the largest competitor, received 1,990; South, 1,797; South Bend Central, 1,716; and Marion, 1,648.

IN THE OPENING game, the defending champion Archers will face a touted Kokomo quintet, only conqueror of Muncie Central during the regular season. The Wildcats, featuring much-publicized Jimmy Rayl and Roger Thurston, also defeated Indianapolis Shortridge, who beat the Kellys. The Wildcats own a 20-5 record, against extremely stiff competition in the regular season, while South, seeking its second consecutive Semi crown, sports a 22-4 mark. Kokomo advanced to the Semi-State by virtue of its lopsided wins ober Wabash and Noblesville in the Kokomo Regional. Both teams have been pointing for this one, and it should be a real classic.

The Bears of South Bend Central are surprise contestants to some fans, who did not expect them to get this far along the tournament trail. The star of the team, Sylvester Coalmon, is a holdover starter from the 1957 state championship squad which defeated South in that year's Semi-State. This, incidentally, was the last tournament game which the Archers have lost to date. South Bend, playing in a rather tough Regional at Elkhart, won quite handily, defeating Plymouth and Columbia City by an average of 15.8 points per game. The Bears were only 11-9 for the regular season campaign. Two of their defeats came at the hands of Summit City teams, Central and North.

THE FOURTH entrant, Marion, must also be seriously reckoned with as possible champions. The Giants, 8-12 on the season, are a good tournament team. During the season they split two games evenly with Kokomo's Wildcats, and they won by an average of 24.2 points per game in their own Regional last Saturday. Their victims were Huntington Catholic and Dunkirk.

Rayl, Thurston Lead Wildcats In Scoring

Kokomo Enters Tourney By Beating Noblesville In Regional Final Game

By Chuck Weinraub

"Semi-State showdown" will be the big phrase next Saturday when the Kokomo Wildcats invade Fort Wayne to play the Archers in the first game of the important Fort Wayne Semi-State Tourney.

The Red and Blue Wildcats earned their way to the semi-final round by winning their eighteenth and second straight Regional title. The Kokomo squad is a hot-shooting bunch, as shown in sizzling .455 and .472 shooting percentages in their past Regional contests.

Joe Platt's Kokomo team smashed Wabash, 89-52, in the first Regional win behind the 33 points scored by their ace rebounder, Roger Thurston. Thurston sprained his ankle during that test, but came through with an added 20 points in the final game.

In bringing about this showdown battle, Kokomo chopped Noblesville, 81-62, in the evening contest. Jim Rayl, the 6-1 guard who hit a season's high of 49 points in the final game of the season, topped his team in this final game with 25 points. Rayl scored 24 in the afternoon game.

In one of Kokomo's best games this year, the team knocked off top-ranked Muncie Central. They also topped Anderson and Indianapolis Shortridge by four points. The team split two contests with Marion, another Semi-State entrant, and lost to Indianapolis Tech.

Backing up Rayl and Thurston on the starting squad are three other seniors, center John Gillem, a strong rebounder, Mike Castell, and Chuck Fawcett, a key cog in Kokomo's strong club last year. Fawcett, a fine shooter and fast back court ace, teams up with Rayl in the back court to give the Wildcats one of the most feared guard combinations. Kent Bouslog, Ed Darden, Bob Ferguson, Ron Hughs, Dave Miner, Rickey Scott, and Bill Thomison fill the Kokomo bench.

The school itself has a total enrollment of 2,539, one of the largest in the state. Principal O. I. Farmer, a brother-in-law of South's Mr. Gilbert, feels that "chances for all the teams are good, but the breaks can count as much as the good teams." At any rate, the Kokomo fans will not be coming to Fort Wayne to see a poor show by either squad.

South Places Three Boys On City Squad

Tom Bolyard, Barrett, And Demetre Named To Head All-City Team

If anyone wanted to consolidate the Fort Wayne high schools so that our city had the best basketball team around, they would get the recently chosen 1958-59 All-City squad. The squad, composed of three seniors and seven juniors, make up the best in Fort Wayne basketball. South Side and Central placed three players each, while North and Central Catholic managed two a piece for the team. Concordia couldn't hit in the top 10 boys.

Of the four unanimous choices, Tom Bolyard, the only repeat man from last year's All-City, was able to shatter every prep scoring record in the city. The other three unanimous choices were C.C.'s junior pivotman, Bob Pelkington, who broke his school's single-season scoring record, and two Central flashes, T. C. Williams and Bil Boyd. Although the latter was ineligible for the final two contests, his preceding play made him an outstanding selection. The other senior was Johnny Sorg of C.C.

Honorable mention was given to 16 other boys, including Mike Simmons and Bill Meyer of South; Percy Moore and Willie Rozier of Central; Tim Walsh, Mike Gatton, Mike Creight, and Jay Bail of C.C.; Mike Dafforn, Pat Riley, and Jack Hallenbeck of North Side; Paul Heine, Bob Stockamp, Gary Novak, Jerry Widenhofer, and Steve Hartman of Concordia.

Gold charms will be given to the boys at a dinner held in their honor by the Fort Wayne Newspapers, Inc.

154 Girls In Dance Classes To Help Present Spring Show

"The Gay Nineties," the theme for this year's annual Spring Show, will be carried out in part by Mrs. Alice Keegan's and Miss Helen Pohlmeyer's dance classes. The classes will each do three individual numbers and one finale.

Dressed in white bermuda shorts, sweatshirts and green caps, Mrs. Keegan's classes will portray the spectators in "Take Me Out to the Ball Game." Modern movements combined with the traditional reel make up the "Virginia Reel." The girl costume for this dance will be full-skirted dresses. The boy costume will be blue jeans and brightly colored shirts.

"Strolling Through the Park" will display dating couples. The girl costumes will consist of dresses with an apron-like flounce and large hair bows. For the boy costumes, the girls will wear slacks, blazer jackets and straw hats.

Miss Pohlmeyer's dance classes will also do three numbers. "The Man on the Flying Trapeze" will require a gym suit of the 1890's: white sailor blouse, colored tie, black bloomers with hose, and a large hair ribbon. Another dance of the 1890's is "The Band Played On." The girls will wear dresses of that era. Dark slacks, bow tie, colored shirt, arm gaiters, and a straw hat will make up a boy's costume.

Dues of 25 cents must be paid at the 36 Workshop meeting tonight by all those who have not yet done so. The officers have stated that it is very important for all members to be present at this meeting, as the chairmen for both the Easter assembly and talent show will be announced. Plans for the Easter assembly will be discussed.

Archers Place In Speech Meet

"I was certainly pleased with our efforts in the district speech meet March 5 at North Side. I think everybody did very well. I am confident that some will advance to the state finals," stated Mr. Robert Storey, speech teacher, following the North Side meet.

Seven Archers placed among the top five in their respective divisions to be eligible for the zone meet, which will be held April 4. They included Geri Geller, who received first place in radio; Judy Rumple, second in radio; Kay Krenchbaum, fourth in girls' extemp; Janet Terry, fourth in original oratory; Dick McGaw, fifth in boys' extemp; Janice Leist, fifth in dramatic; and Phil Spray, fifth in oratory.

Any of the above people who place in the zone meet will advance to the state finals, which will be held April 25 at Indianapolis Technical High School.

Six others competing at North Side were in the finals or semi-finals. These were Joyce Brittenham, finals in humorous; Margo Dixon, semi-finals in humorous; JoAnn High, semi-finals in humorous; Judy Thompson, semi-finals in dramatic; Joan Littlejohn, semi-finals in original oratory; and Dick Rothberg, semi-finals in boys' extemp.

Others attending the meet were Patti Arnold, Mary Lou Koehler, and Joanna Goble in the poetry division; Sharon Ebersole in radio; Mahmoud Abouzeid in original oratory; and Steve Tracey in boys' extemp.

Judges from South Side included Mr. Storey; Mr. William Applegate, English teacher; Mr. Lowell Coats, English teacher; and Mrs. Charles Arnold, mother of Patti Arnold, a South Side senior.

Weather Observers See Mr. Weaver

"There is a possibility that the weather bureau at South Side will be reactivated if enough students are interested in it," stated Mr. Don Weaver, sponsor of the Junior Academy of Science.

Mr. Weaver wants some students who are interested in being weather observers. A weather instrument shelter will be put outside equipped with all the needed instruments.

The observers will record on mimeographed sheets, the temperature, cloud formations, humidity, barometer reading, direction and velocity of the wind, and the precipitation.

Charts, maps, and other manuals will be available to help in observing the weather.

Mr. Weaver also needs students to help him make and repair different instruments that have been lost or broken.

Any students interested in observing the weather and having first, fourth, or seventh period study hall, should permanently sign out of study and go to Room 96. Any students interested in helping make different instruments may come in other periods.

Students interested should see Mr. Weaver in Room 96 any school day at 3:30 p.m.

First Painting Of Collection To Hang In Cafeteria Has Been Selected

PICTURE PRESENTED—Mr. Leon Smith presents Principal R. Nelson Snider with a picture which will adorn South's cafeteria. Mr. Smith headed the committee chosen by Mr. Snider to select appropriate paintings for the cafeteria. This is the first of a series of art work which will be used in the cafeteria.

The first painting of collection to hang in the cafeteria has been selected. This painting will be a naturalistic painting, "Spring Tree," by Mr. Ottel. The painting depicts a tree, not yet leafed out but with the warmth and newness of color that is common to spring. It uses a monochromatic color scheme and is done in oil paint. The painting was purchased through Mr. John Ross, curator of the Fort Wayne Art Museum.

Mr. Leon Smith, art teacher, was appointed by Mr. R. Nelson Snider, principal, to make the choice. Mr. Smith has not made all the selections yet; but each painting will be of a different school of contemporary art, ranging from naturalistic through non-objective abstract.

Sharon Ruhl Wins Again

Sharon Ruhl, senior, was chosen the grand winner of the DAR good citizenship award in Allen county and will be entered in the state contest. This contest is sponsored by the Mary Penrose Wayne Chapter of the DAR.

Sharon is one of twenty-one girls in this district who took an exam and were honored at a luncheon at the Fort Wayne Women's Club. Here Sharon was presented a good citizenship pin and a certificate.

The state winners will be announced March 25.

Two Kellys To Appear On TV Elektra Club

Two Archers, Nancy Bailey and Diane Decker, will appear on the I&M Elektra Club Sunday at 6 p.m. on WANE-TV.

Nancy will represent South as a reporter and Diane will serve as a panelist.

Three Archer Girls Serve In State House

Three more Archers, Diane Beams, Barbara Dennis, and Jeff Borne have served in the Indiana State House of Representatives.

Diane, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Ralph Beams, and Barb, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Dennis, are both South Side juniors, and Jeff, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chalmer R. Borne is a freshman.

Rep. Eugene E. Smith, Allen County, appointed all of these pages.

Robert Hosack Buys Times For 20 Years During Tourneys

Can anyone account for the fact that for 20 years Robert Hosack, 537 East Masterson, subscribed for The Times only during tournament time? The only answer to this is his own, "I am interested only in the Times during the period in which the South Side Archers are engaged in 'Hoosied Hysteria'." But doesn't it seem sort of prenomenal that he hasn't missed once in 20 years?

After finding out that he graduated from South about 20 years ago, one can deduct that he might have been a booster for the 1938 State Champs! It makes the school proud to see such a loyal booster!

400 Pupils Absent Daily

South Side has been heavily hit by the flu bug.

The normal number of students absent from school at this time of year runs from 68 to 82. Last week there were almost five times that number absent. Monday 307 pupils were out of school. Tuesday 370 pupils were sick. By Wednesday 443 pupils were absent. The number was expected to go up Thursday and Friday.

Poor Breeding Shown By Display Of Affection

Along with the fad of going steady, another fad has hit South Side. Couples petting in the halls is now a common sight around our school.

Of all the things one could say about these few couples, bad manners and lack of breeding stand out as two important factors. The terms "manners" and "breeding" probably sound sissified to some, but they play an important part in what others think of teenagers.

As teens, we owe it to each other not to cast us all in bad light. If these couples could see how they look to the faculty and other students, they would stop displaying their affection to the entire school. When parents visiting our school see students "mooning" into each others eyes, one can't blame them for classing us all as a hopeless generation. For not only does the habit show lack of breeding, it is also slightly comical to see teens acting like passionate Romeos and Juliets.

A lack of moral character is apparent in these pupils. An inability to control emotion also shows up, and can cause serious consequences.

One generally finds that the couples who are more conservative about showing affection are the ones who are really fond of each other. These couples concentrate on having fun and doing things together. By developing things in common, they also develop a more lasting fondness for each other than those who concentrate on the physical part of the relationship.

We are not saying that the act of steadies walking each other to class is wrong. On the contrary, it is the natural thing to do. But those who carry it too far by showing off their affection are simply giving themselves and the school a bad name.

We feel that perhaps showing affection in this manner is not so much a demonstration of real fondness, but merely a desire to break the rules and shock the public.

Archers Claim 22 Of 100 Winners In Regional Art Scholastic Contest

Custodians Play Important Part In Every-Day School Life Here

Many people don't realize what a tremendous job the custodians do. What would we do without our custodians? Try to imagine the chaos that would exist if they were nonexistent.

If we would take a walk through this custodian-less school, the frigid temperature would be the first noticeable difference. Next would be the paper-carpeted floor; it's not hard to visualize the amount of paper 2,200 students drop in one day. Gum wrappers and pencils add to the mess.

The locker rooms are the chief offenders; crumpled lunch sacks, apple cores, banana peels, bread crusts and assorted books, boots and other wearing apparel are liberally distributed on the floors and lockers.

The custodians clean up not only our litter, but they also sweep the schoolrooms, wash the blackboards, clean the lavatories, fix broken desks, exchange new light bulbs for the burnt-out ones and perform many other duties.

# # #

RUSSELL SELTENRIGHT, head custodian, has worked here for 12 years and has held his present position for two years. Before coming to South he worked as a maintenance man at James Smart School.

Because of his position Mr. Seltenright carries 68 keys with him at all times. During the interview he said that there are over 2,600 fluorescent light bulbs in the school. He also mentioned that the custodians become very deft with a wet mop which is saturated with a cleansing agent and picks up the dust and small bits of paper around stationary seats. The major tool that the custodians use however is a swivel mop which can get into corners with ease. Mr. Seltenright works from 6:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Kenneth Buckmaster, a fireman, makes sure that the heaters are always working properly. He has worked at South Side for two and one-half years. As a comment on the student body he said that as a whole the students are very nice.

Earl Downey has worked at South Side for eight years and has worked in the City School System for eleven years. He works from 3 p.m. to 11 p.m. He said that many boys leave their gym bags and a lot of litter in the boys' locker room. In one instance he found a watch lying on a locker.

# # #

MRS. CARLO, a matron, has many duties. She takes care of the beds in Miss Van Gorder's office and in the gym office. Mrs. Carlo works from 7 a.m. to 4 p.m. She said that more purses are lost than any other article. She mentioned that she would like to thank all the girls for their cooperation and for the good care that they take of the restrooms.

John Kowal has worked at South for three years. He has just changed to the 3 p.m. to 11 p.m. shift from the night shift. He said that he finds a great many gloves.

Mr. Adolph Frankenstein works from 3 p.m. to 11 p.m. He has been at South Side for one year. He cleans the shops and says that he finds a lot of pencils. He likes the school very much and thinks that the students are nice.

Dessie Spears works in the girls' locker room. The locker room alone uses over 1,500 paper towels and 24 cakes of soap in one month. She has worked at South for 13 years. When asked about the amount of lost articles she replied, "The girls lose a lot of lipstick tubes, but when they lose things they are just in a hurry."

Martin Reilly has worked at South Side for three years. He works from 3 p.m. to 11 p.m. He also said that 99 per cent of the students are very nice and thinks that South Side is the nicest school in the school system.

Too many times we take the custodians for granted and don't thank them for the extra time and help they give us. They are a vital part of the school and we should appreciate them more.

Vesta To Hear Talk On Fabrics, Their Uses

A demonstration of fabrics and their uses will be given by a person from the yard goods department of Sears and Roebuck Company to the Vesta Club on March 18 at 3:30 p.m. in the Greeley Room.

Wranglers To Stage Speaking Contest; Drama Casts Set

Wranglers will stage an extemporaneous speaking contest March 16 instead of the regularly scheduled one-act play festival because the flu epidemic has hindered play rehearsals. The plays will be presented at the April 6 meeting.

All three plays have been cast by the directors and assistant directors. The cast of "Are Men Superior," which is directed by Janet Terry and JoAnn High, includes Sue Sappenfield as Susan; Margo Dixon as Mrs. Bell; Judy Thompson as Mrs. Livingston; Kate Rastetter as Katrina; Barb Eggeman as Nelly; Beth Golden as Jane; Marilyn Cole as Marcia; and Karen Curley as Edwina.

Geri Geller, director of "Murder! Murder! Murder!", and her assistant director, Sue Springer, announced that their cast will include Julie Carr as Pamela; Mahmoud Abouzeid as Richard; Steve Tracey as the policeman; and Janet Christensen as the waitress.

Patti Arnold will play Rachel; Diane Fredrick, Brenda; Judy English, Madam Dunn; and Pat Bailey, Sadie, in "The Closet," which is being directed by Joyce Brittenham and her assistant, Diane Mertens.

Sharon Hubbell won Wranglers' humorous declamation contest March 2. She received a trophy for herself and another trophy, which will have her name engraved on it but will remain in school. Ribbons were given to others placing in the contest. These were JoAnn High, second place; Ruth Dill, third place; and Joyce Brittenham, fourth place. Judges for the contest were Mr. William Applegate, English teacher; Mr. Lowell Coats, English teacher; and Mr. LaVerne Harader, English teacher.

Original plans to attend a speech meet at Peru, Ind., have been cancelled because of the Semi-State basketball tournament. However, South Side will participate in a speech meet at Howe Military on April 18.

So-Si-Y Name Card Sellers To Be Guests

So-Si-Y members who received orders for senior name cards will be honored guests at a So-Si-Y party Tuesday at 3:30 p.m. in the Greeley Room. A speaker will be featured. The program will feature ideas on St. Patrick's Day. Refreshments will be served.

Talented Kellys Enter Exhibit

The fourth annual Drawing and Shop Exhibit will be held March 14-15 at the Purdue University Center. The event, co-sponsored by Purdue Center and District Five of the Indiana Industrial Education Association, will be open from 1-9 p.m. March 14, and from 1-4 p.m. March 15.

Entries from South Side will be from the classes of Mr. Jack Bobay, Mr. C. T. Murray, Mr. Raymond Quance, and Mr. Thomas Polite.

In Mr. Quance's classes, Ronald Hyman will enter his drawings. Cutting boards with a place in the side for knives will be entered by Ron Moring, Mike Dunn, Dave Lane, and Al David.

In Mr. Thomas Polite's classes, Drawing 1 students entering will be Nick Miller, Den Davis, Ken Howe, John Irmscher, Dan Walter, and Dennis Verbert. His Drawing 2 students entering will be Jeffrey Clark, William Scott, Keith Carrell, John Hellman, Ted Lebrecht, Ronald Bawer, and Jim Thomson. Drawing 3 and 4 students entering will be Tom Bolyard, Rex Armey, Dan Uetrecht, and Jon Heavin.

In addition, Mr. Polite said "Any student in either Industrial Arts or vocational classes may enter if they wish. However, it depends on who gets their projects in on time."

Mr. Bobay said that the exhibition would be a good place to go between the semi-final basketball games.

The purpose of this exhibit is to encourage and develop good workmanship in high school boys and to bring to the public the things that are done in high school Industrial Arts and Vocational classes.

Prof. Allen G. Cleaver, Purdue Center instructor who is general chairman for the program, picked five Purdue Center students to aid in the programming and conducting of the exhibition. The committee includes Tom Stahl, a former South Side student graduating in '57, Ross Gresley, David Kern, John Brane, and Willy Schmidt.

The exhibition will show the best drafting room work of the shop drafting classes of high schools in the district, which covers five counties in northwestern Indiana. This, of course, includes South Side.

Metal work will cover a range from fine precision tools to heavy metal tools, commonly used as attachments to power tools such as tractors.

Students Desire Information; Library Answers All Queries

Do you have a book called "The History and Theories on Medieval Medicine"? Is the book on the "Theory of Geologists" in this week? Miss Willodeen Price, the school librarian, answers questions such as these many times every day.

She is confronted with requests for books from "How to Determine Metals" to "Hunting for Mushrooms Successfully." Some of the requests students make are unbelievable. "Map of Boone's Wilderness," "Salaries of the Presidents of the United States," "Boswell's Papers Presented to Yale" are a few more of such requests. Some curious students even ask for a book on the Hay-Pauncefote Treaty and a book on the Battle of Britain. It must be very interesting to work in a library and hear all the odd and varied requests for books some people come up with.

Every year South Side buys new books and magazines. These are not given to the library, but are provided for by the school budget. A certain amount of money is set aside for the purchasing of new and better books. As the times change, there is a greater demand for new books.

# # #

AS MORE AND more emphasis was placed on space and interplanetary travel, the demand for more books on space grew. Thus, to meet this increasing demand, the library bought books dealing with such problems. This sort of thing is true in all cases. As the times and conditions change or improve, so do people's tastes; therefore, the library is responsible for keeping its users satisfied and must buy books in order to do this successfully.

Besides buying books the library also subscribes for 68 magazines. These magazines can be checked out and are handled in the same way as the books. They date back as far as 1954. They are also bought out of the school budget.

The library is a very orderly and systematic place. It has regular hours from 7:50 a.m. to 4 p.m. and is closed fifth period. If a pupil enters at the beginning of a period, he is given a small slip of paper which tells him which table and chair to go to. There is supposed to be no talking in the library, and eighth periods are given to students who break this rule.

# # #

A STUDENT IS allowed to leave his seat during the period only to get reading material, to ask the librarian a question, to sharpen a pencil, or throw paper away.

Books are usually checked out by the librarian or a service worker. If books are not returned after a certain length of time, a fine of five cents a day is required for each overdue book. If after a prolonged period of time the books are not returned, the user must pay the full price of the book. All fines must be paid before grades are issued.

# # #

THE LIBRARY COULD not operate if it were not for the service workers helping in the library every period. They take attendance, charge books, file cards, shelve books, clip newspapers, check in mail, type, run errands, and do any other miscellaneous jobs. An average of three service workers assist each period.

In conclusion, the library is a very valuable addition to our school, and any school. South Siders should really be proud of it and use it.

Kellys Cop Regionals By Dumping Yellow Jackets, Hornets

Angola Beaten In Night Game By 82-58 Score

Bolyard Breaks Record Set By Norb Witte With Help Of Ken Howe

By Bob Shine

"I Got Stung" might well be the thought of the depressed Angola Hornets after the South Side Archers trounced them by an 82-58 score for the Regional championship at the Coliseum last Saturday evening.

The Archers thereby won their ninth Regional title and their fourth in a row under the watchful eye of Coach Don Reichert, who had the Archers working together beautifully as a team.

Tom "the Bat" Bolyard, who might have been a bit too eager to break the total Regional scoring record set by Norm Witte of Monmouth, settled down in the final half and did manage to break it by compiling a total of 62 points in both games to surpass the old record by two points. However, Ken Howe was almost as responsible for Tom's record as Tom himself; for it was Ken who intentionally missed a free throw with only a few seconds remaining and aimed it so that Tom would be able to tip it through the hoop for his record-breaking field goal.

z z z

ALTHOUGH BOLYARD led the Archers with 34 points, the victory was most certainly a team effort. Dave Barrett played perhaps his best game of the campaign and collected 16 points. He handled the ball well and surprised many a fan with his ball-handling ability and improved quality of play. Barrett was also a "demon" on defense and managed to block quite a few Angola shots before the game was over.

"Menacing" Mike Simmons also played an outstanding game, and his especially fine defensive work in the Archers' man-to-man and zone defenses could be noticed throughout the game. Mike also had 14 points during the evening, and he combined these with some beautiful assists to play a fine all-around game.

Even though the game appeared to be an early run-away, Bolyard and Gordie Van Marter of Angola amazed the fans with their fine shooting exhibitions. Van Marter hit on 14 out of 27 field goal attempts and two out of two free throws for a total of 30 points, while Bolyard cashed in 15 of 29 field goal attempts and four out of five at the charity stripe for his 34-point total.

Because of the exceptionally good officiating, both sides were able to play a fast-moving game. South had only 12 fouls during the entire game, while the Hornets had 19 against them.

z z z

IN THE FIRST quarter, Nick Demetre and Mike Simmons got the Kellys off to a 6-4 lead. This was quickly enlarged by Tom Bolyard and Ken Howe, who replaced Bill Meyer while he had his glasses repaired, and the Hornets were on the short end of a 20-10 score at the start of the second quarter.

During the second standza the Kellys remained "hot," and they increased their lead to 39-20 at the half.

The most exciting and beautiful play of the game came at a time when the play had begun to quicken in the final quarter. Dave Roderick had just driven in for a lay-up attempt which was bounding off the rim when Bolyard leaped from out of nowhere to drive the ball back through the hoop in a perfect display of grace and timing. It almost appeared that Tom would sail over the backboard as he completed his leap.

It was obvious that perhaps the member of the team who had the worst touch of flu during the week was Coach Reichert himself, and it was evident that he wasn't feeling up to par, for he didn't get up from the bench once during the time that the game was in progress! We certainly hope that he will be back in top shape for the Semi-State this Saturday.

Art Wilson, Senior, Enjoys Managing Basketball Team

Although they don't receive all the glory the players get, the basketball managers play a very important part in winning basketball games. They take care of the players by issuing equipment and cleaning it. Besides that, they also keep score for the records.

One of the managers is Art Wilson, a senior, who has the job of keeping score at the games. His special job is to take down the amount of time each player is in the game. A certain amount of time gives the player a certain amount of varsity points toward his letterjacket; in basketball, it is one point for two minutes of play. It takes 200 points to earn a letter.

Art, who is in his fourth year as a basketball scorekeeper, likes this kind of work very much. "I like helping and working for the players," said Art. "This way I can at least contribute my part to the team's victory."

GET HIM—Bill Meyer leads charge to get ball as the Archers' top rebounders are eluded by Jerry Hoffman of Angola under the boards. Tom Bolyard and Dave Barrett behind Meyer charge in to get ball. Two other Hornets fight to get positions. (Picture compliments of "Ollie" Strong and WKJG-TV)

Schmitz On Sports

We're back again!

From the size of the crowd, from the calmness hovering over the Coliseum when the final buzzer sounded, and from the speed and lack of zest with which the squad members stripped the meshes, it was easily deducted that South Side had just annexed the Regional Tourney.

z z z

Yes, it was another typical Regional with the big city team, South Side for the last four years, waltzing past unevenly matched foes.

z z z

Angola was saved from utter disgrace by the great shooting of Gordie Van Marter; and Decatur, a weak team all season, but recharged by a chance to dethrone South Side, could not squander enough "go" to topple the Archers.

z z z

South's win was like the three past Regional campaigns. The Archers won without being pressed, and the aftermath was just mere acceptance of being champions. Enthusiasm always hits a lull at this stage in the IHSAA tourney.

z z z

Less than 1,000 two-session tickets were sold at South Side when sales closed Friday. So, when State tickets are issued this year, that is if South should go to State again, there should be little reason for complaints about failing to secure a State Final ducat. After all, those 1,500 Archers on hand were not all students. If the student body doesn't support the squad during the entire tourney, they certainly are not doing a credible job of backing the team.

z z z

Victory was not the highlight of the Regional Tourney, but another record credited to fabulous Tom Bolyard gave Archer fans something to talk about after Saturday's contest. His 34 points, climaxed by a tip-in of a missed free throw, led gangling Tom to the Regional total points record at 62, bettering Norm Witte's record of 61. With a mere 14 at the half-way marker, Tom poured on the steam in the third period, hitting nine straight points for the big Green.

z z z

If not for the unselfish motives of his mates, Tom Bolyard probably would not be holder of the Regional record for the most points scored in two games.

z z z

Kenny Howe missed the first of a one-and-one free throw toss as Bolyard soared through the air and tapped the ball through the hoop.

z z z

It took only 62 points to set that Regional mark last Saturday, but 13 more points in two games are required to crack the existing mark held by South Bend Central's ex-center, John Coalmon, in the 1957 Semi-State Tourney.

z z z

Coalmon also holds the single game Semi-State record with a 43 production against Noblesville. Coalmon and his mates went the rest of the way in annexing the title that year as John set the strate tournament record for the final four games.

z z z

Although South did not play top notch ball, several individuals came up with sparkling showings. Tom Bolyard, Gordon Van Marter, and Larry Daniels shone above the rest. This trio, along with Mike Simmons and Brighton's George Griffith, makes my choice for a Regional All-Star quintet.

z z z

Daniels swished the nets for 29 points against South and was responsible for the Yellow Jackets' stellar game. Van Marter's uncanny long jump shots thrilled the Coliseum fans and earned him a spot on everybody's dream team.

z z z

Simmons, Bolyard, and Barrett all looked great in both the afternoon and evening struggles. The third "South Sider" to win recognition was Brighton's George Griffith. Griffith played varsity ball for South last season before moving back to his home town of Brighton.

z z z

He played number six man throughout the season but blossomed into the Purple and Gold's big gun in tourney action. His 14-point production merited his appearance on the All-Regional squad, and also save Brighton from total mortification.

z z z

Tickets for the grudge battle are sure to be scarce Saturday when South Side, with Tom Bolyard, collides with Kokomo, normally paced by Jimmy Rayl. The game will highlight all -afternoon action throughout the state as Hoosierdom's fourth and seventh rated teams slug it out for the right to play the survivor of the Marion vs. South Bend Central tussle. Kokomo reigns as slight favorite, but the Green is given a good chance of pulling the upset.

z z z

Kokomo will make its second straight trip to Fort Wayne for Semi-State action. The Wildcats survived their own Regional by bettering Converse, 58-49, and Noblesville, 81-62. Jim Rayl led his mates past Noblesville's Millers with 25 points but his running mate, Rober Thurton, tallied more total points in Regional action.

z z z

South Bend fought its way back to the Summit City after a two-year absence by topping surprising Columbia City, 63-46. In the afternoon the Bears tromped Plymouth, 62-50. Columbia City stunned the entire state when the flu-ridden Eagles upset Elkhart, 72-58.

z z z

East Chicago and Muncie won as expected, but the ease the Senators had in disposing of two foes from the tough East Chicago Regional, and the trouble Muncie Central had in tumbling unknown Parker, had the prognostictors wondering if the Bearcats could go all the way as was earlier expected.

z z z

Bainbridge, the undefeated "People's Choice," kept rolling along as they upset '58 State Finalist Crawfordsville, 62-50, Saturday night. Huntingburg, a big disappointment this year, was finally eliminated from the tourney chase by a long push shot that stripped the nets as the final buzzer sounded. They lost out to a game but unheard of Odon quintet, 60-58.

z z z

Attucks kept up their winning ways Saturday by smashing a well-regarded Southport team, 75-47, annexing their seventh Regional title in nine years.

Archers Defeat Yellow Jackets By 59-51 Score

Archer Team Gives Below Par Showing, Tom Bolyard Outscored

By Jim Carter

In the first game of the Regionals, South Side's Archers received the scare of their lives before pulling out a 59-51 win over an upset-minded Decatur five.

The Yellow Jackets were fired up to effect a tremendous upset, and the Archers, probably pointing for the evening final, definitely did not play up to capacity. The Decatur attack was led by a 5-11 senior guard named Larry Daniels, who reminded some fans of Kokomo's Jimmy Rayl, both in appearance and style, and even outscored South Side's one-man gang, Tom Bolyard, 29-28.

The game was actually won by the Green at the charity stripe. Decatur, who featured several tall individuals, outrebounded, outshot, and outscored the Archers from the field, 19 field goals to 17. However, South canned 25 of 30 free throws to the Yellow Jackets 13 of 18 for the margin of victory.

z z z

MIKE SIMMONS, who turned in a good performance, drew first blood for the Kellys at 7:00. The teams traded baskets early, and the score was deadlocked at six apiece. Then Bolyard sent South ahead with a three-point play at 4:16. Largely behind Simmons and Dave Barrett, who played his best ball in this quarter, the Green surged to a comfortable 17-8 lead. Nevertheless, Decatur came back with five points in the final 60 seconds to make it 17-13 at the quarter.

In the second stanza, Decatur, behind a tremendous performance by Daniels, who hit five of eight in the quarter, stuck close to the Archers. The Green defense proved sticky, as usual, but it could not contain the shooting of Daniels. South's shooting was cold, as the Archers hit only three fielders. They also made too many ball-handling errors, but a perfect 11 for 11 at the foul line for the half kept them alive. The Kellys' largest margin was six, at 25-19, but the Yellow Jackets fought back to knot the count at 27-all, with 47 seconds remaining in the half. Bolyard then calmly iced two gift tosses at 0:18 to make it 29-27, South, as the teams left the floor.

Tom Bolyard opened the half for the Green with two quick drives which resulted in a six-point lead. Daniels hit a cold spell in this period, as he missed eight in a row. South began to find the range again, and also hit on some nice drives. This quarter was largely Bolyard's, as he accounted for 10 of the 13 South Side tallies. South once again appeared to be pulling away at the close of the quarter, as the Kellys led by eight, 42-34.

z z z

IN THE FINAL period Daniels began to hit again, and before they knew it, the Archers held only a 44-41 edge. Bolyard again rose to the challenge, but at 3:28, Daniels went under and put one in to cut South's lead to two, 49-47. Ken Howe, who turned in another fine job in relief of Bill Meyer, cashed a free throw, Bolyard hit, and Simmons hit one of two free tosses for a 53-47 Archer lead. Daniels and Decatur fought back, however, and narrowed the score to 55-51. Yellow Jacket fans saw an upset in their grasp, but the Green played cautiously through the final minute. Twice Mike Simmons was fouled as he drove for the basket, and he hit all four free throws to ice the cake and make the final count 59-51.

The Archers got their 17 baskets in 46 shots for a .370 percentage, while Decatur took 52 shots, most of them over the Kelly defense, for .365.

South Side scoring:

	G	F	P	T
Bolyard	9	10	0	28

Barrett	2	3	4	7

Only Seven Teams Return To Semi-State Tourney

Kokomo's Wildcats crushed Noblesville, 81-62, at Kokomo and will meet South in the first game of the Fort Wayne Semi-State. Kokomo hit for a .445 percentage in the afternoon contest while beating Wabash 89-52. In the Noblesville game they hit .472 percentage. Jimmy Rayl had 24 and 25 points in the games for Kokomo while Roger Thurston had 33 and 20.

At Marion, Marion defeated Huntington Catholic 70-36 and Dunkirk 73-52. They will play South Bend Central in the second afternoon contest here. South Bend Central won at Elkhart downing Plymouth 62-50 and Columbia City 63-46.

Tell City edged out Fort Branch 55-53 and Evansville Bosse 61-55 at Evansville. They will play New Albany, who won 65-57 over Seymour and 65-59 over Shawswick at Jeffersonville, at Evansville.

Odon downed Vincennes 63-61 and Huntingburg 60-58 at Huntingburg. They will play Brazil in the 2:15 Evansville contest. Brazil triumphed over Terre Haute Gerstmeyer 68-58 and Bloomington 67-58 at Bloomington.

z z z

THE LAFAYETTE Semi-State will match East Chicago Washington and Lafayette in the first game with Logansport and Bainbridge in the second. East Chicago Washington beat Gary Roosevelt 67-52 and Michigan City 92-76 at East Chicago. Lafayette dropped Fowler 59-53 and Rossville 47-45 at Lafayette.

Logansport defeated North Judson 53-47 and trounced Wolcott 81-46 at Logansport. Bainbridge, the winner at Covington, took Rockville 62-49 and Crawfordsville 62-50.

z z z

AT INDIANAPOLIS, Crispus Attucks downed a game Alexandria team 60-53 and eased over Southport 75-47. Madison won at Columbus, defeating Edinburg 60-44 and Nashville 93-62. They'll meet Attucks in the first game at Indianapolis next week.

Muncie Central beat New Castle 80-61 and Parker 57-46 at Muncie. They meet Rushville in the second game at Indianapolis.

Muncie Central beat New Castle 80-61 and Parker 57-46, at Muncie. They meet Rushville in the second game at Indianapolis. Rushville won at Connersville, defeating Aurora 84-66 and Versailles 76-68.

Angola Thumps Brighton 56-33

Gordon Van Marter Paces Hornets With 15

Angola's Hornets, marked by a well-balanced scoring effort from team members, plastered Brighton's ("peoples' choice") Wildcats 56-33 in the first game of the Fort Wayne Regional tournament. The Maroon had nine of their ten members in the scoring column as the Wildcats saw their chances of a first Brighton Regional victory slip from their clutches.

Angola led at all stops and were in trouble only once when Brighton snuck within two points during the second quarter. But the Hornets pulled away again and led 24-16 at the half after South transfer George Griffith had led tthe Wildcats to a one-bucket margin.

John Hammel, coach of the Hornets, was able to substitute freely in anticipation of the evening final. Gordie Van Marter andd Jerry Hoffman led the winners with 15 and 12 points respectively; while Griffith paced the losers with 14 tallies.

Coach Bob Halford was naturally disappointed in his Wildcat loss, falling back on injuries which definitely plagued the Gold. Larry Lehmer, star center for the Wildcats, was hobbled throughout the game by a severe ankle injury which he sustained in the Kendallville Sectional. Three other starters had been absent from practice most of the week by the flu attack across the state.

Marion, South Bend Central To Battle In 2nd Game Saturday

Bears Boast 16-9 Record

Sylvester Coalman Returns From '57 Squad That Beat Archers

South Bend Central's Bears return to the Fort Wayne Semi-State Tourney after a rebuilding season in "bear country." The 1957 state champs, who were undefeated throughout the season two years ago, have one member intact from thir championship five that defeated South Side's Archers in the local Semi en route to the crown.

Sylvester Coalmon is the sole returnee from the '57 squad which was coached by Elmr McCall, now at DePauw University. Coalmon, at 6-5, runs alongside 6-3 Joe Wesley, who operates at the other forward post. Central has two slick guards in Rudy Anderson, 6-1, and Bill Molnar, 5-11. Gil Walker, a 6-3 senior, plays the Blue's center spot. Coalmon is the team's leading scorer with 465 points; his trick knee, which was operated on last summer, seems to be in top shape, as he no longer favors it.

Coach Jim Powers, now in his first year as head coach of the Bears, led the Orange to a favorable 11-9 regular season record. Central has won nine of the last 13 South Bend Sectionals and two state titles (1953 and 1957). Probably their outstanding performance this year was their overtime game against Muncie Central, the top-rated team in the state, in the Bearcats' Fieldhouse. It took Muncie an extra three minutes to defeat the Bears in a come-from-behind victory.

The Blues' tourney record includes victories over city rivals John Adams (54-45) and Washington (63-56). The Bears defeated Plymouth and Columbia City en route to the Elkhart Regional championship.

Local fans may be unimpressed with the Bears' season, since city foe Fort Wayne North defeated them recently. But Central was hit heavily with the flu that week and could not give the Redskins a good battle.

Principal R. T. Ferrel believes that this should be a "good tourney" and asserts that "all the teams are capable of winning the berth to Indianapolis." Coach Powers hopes "for the best" as his Bears play Marion's Giants in the second game of the afternoon.

The Bears have had an up-and-down season, but seem to be rolling along easily now. They definitely have the easiest of the foes in Marion and are set up for a possible victory in the evening game. Kokomo and South Side look like the favorites though, but Central definitely holds the "dark horse" title.

Times Selects TourneyPlayers As Outstanding

Archer Forward Sets 2-Game Regional Mark Scoring 62 Points

Tom Bolyard, Gordie Van Marter, Larry Daniels, Bob Shraluka, Dave Barrett, Mike Simmons, and Nick Demetre are The Times' choices as the outstanding Regional players.

Bolyard was the standout among standouts as he hit over 59 per cent of his shots from the field to break the three-year-old Regional total-games scoring record set by Norb Witte of Monmouth. The old record was 60 points, and Bolyard scored 62 in his play against Decatur and Angola. Tom also did his usual fine job on defense and pulled down many a rebound.

Gordie Van Marter, Angola's eagle-eyed guard who is playing his first year of varsity competition, scored 15 against Brighton and then returned to score 30 points against the Archers in the championship game. Gordie also shot at a fraction over 51 per cent, and he gave the Archers plenty of trouble in the evening contest. He stunned the crowd by "swishing" a shot from practically mid-court at the end of the third quarter against South.

# # #

LARRY DANIELS practically beat the Archers single-handed in the afternoon. Daniels, who plays for Decatur, took scoring honors from everyone, including Bolyard, in the game with 29 points. He was a constant thorn in the Archers' side and kept the game close until the very end.

Bob Shraluka, also of Decatur, helped Daniels in giving the Kellys a real scare when Decatur closed the gap to 49-47 in the fourth quarter. The big center was one of the reasons why Decatur out-rebounded South on the offensive boards.

Tall Dave Barrett never performed better than he did in the Regionals. South's starting center had 16 points against Angola and 7 against Decatur, but his main attribute was his excellent defensive play. Dave managed to block many an opponent's shot, and he pulled down his share of rebounds.

# # #

HARD-WORKING Mike Simmons played consistently and well in both Regional contests. He scored 12 points against Decatur and 14 against the Angola Hornets. His hustle and alertness were two of the main factors which made the Archer defense so effective, and he made many fine assists for fellow players during both games.

Last but certainly not least is South's fine guard Nick Demetre. Nick was instrumental in the Archers' victory against Decatur. His ten points came at just the right moments, when it seemed that Decatur might overcome the slim Archer lead. Nick also did a fine job in breaking up the Decatur press, and was a big help in enforcing the rugged Archer defense.

Giants Defeat Dunkirk Last Saturday To Win Position In Semi-State

Marion's Giants, a fast coming crew will match with South Bend Central in the second game of the Fort Wayne Semi-State next Saturday.

After playing to an eight-won, 12-lost season record, the Giants have come on strong, winning five straight, to gain a position in the sweet 16. Their Regional competition was marked by a decisive 73-52 shellacking of Dunkirk last week.

The Giants boast balanced scoring. Their top man, Artie Pence, tallied 226 points in seasonal play and 65 so far in tournament competition. Larry Velosquez is second with 197 and 51, while a junior, Richard Barley, is third, getting 172 and 52.

The vast improvement the Giants have made is exemplified by their 58-point offensive average in regular season play and 69-point average in tournament games. This, coupled with a 45-point defensive average, looks very impressive, yet they will still be the underdog.

As far as height goes, Head Coach Paul Weaver won't be overpowered. Armstrong and Green are 6-3, Velosquez is 6-0, and Pence and Barley stand 5-10, bringing the starting five's average to around six feet.

The teams Marion has conquered on their victory trail were Bennett, Mississinewa, Fairmount, Huntington Catholic, and Dunkirk.

Although all but one of their victories have been over 10 points, the odds will be against them, and because the caliber of competition hasn't been the highest, it will be quite a trick for them to get the crown.

Advanced Tumblers Prepare For "Gay Nineties," Spring Show

SPRING SHOW PREPARATIONS—Advanced tumblers continue practicing for their parts in the Spring Show which will be presented this year Friday, March 20. Left to right, Karen Alllmandinger, Bonnie Lane, Rita Hessert, Karen Randall, Val Callahan, and Juanita Wonderly. Susie Rothert and Pat Watson were absent when the picture was taken.

With a "Ta-Ra-Ra-Boom-Dere!" the eight members of the Advanced Tumbling Group bounce into another stunt. Since November, they have been working diligently to learn their routines for the coming Spring Show. Under the leadership of Mrs. Alice Keegan, the girls meet on Monday, Wednesday, and Thursday nights to practice various stunts.

Handicapped because of lack of practice space at the beginning of the first semester, the tumblers did their best on the handball court. Consequently, no new members were admitted to the group. Since the Spring Show theme is "The Gay Nineties," the tumblers will appear with black leotards with a pink flower at the waistline. Sandy Crouch will accompany them on the drums.

On the mats, the girls will lead off with a forward roll and one leg extended. They will then return with back and front rolls with legs spread. With a beat of the drums, Valerie Callahan, Rita Hessert, Karen Randall, Susan Rothert, and Juanita Wonderly will appear with fish flops. Karen Allmandinger, Bonnie Lane, and Pat Watson will alternate the fish flops with back roll and extension. Pat Watson will then present her back roll into a headstand.

Next on the list comes the cartwheels with leg click. Pat Watson, Bonnie Lane, and Karen Allmandinger will attempt the one-handed cartwheels. Pat Watson ends the cartwheels with an elbow turn. All the members will then rush out into inside-outs. Rita Hessert, Pat Watson, and Juanita Wonderly work on the inside-outs around the head. Following are the bear turns and monkey walks by the whole group.

The members then proceed to the no-handed backbend from kneeling position. Susan Rothert, Pat Watson, and Juanita Wonderly try it from their feet. Valerie Callahan, Karen Allmandinger, Karen Randall, and Juanita Wonderly come out in a monkey gallop.

Next the entire group will present headstands. First is the plain headstand with one foot on the thigh. Second comes the folded-arm stand, followed by the hands around head and ear-shoulder stands. Pat Watson and Valerie Callahan will then perform their head pushes and turns. Juanita Wonderly does a solo with walkovers. Coming next, Susie Rothert, Karen Randall, and Pat Watson present a forearm stand.

The front and back chest rolls appear next on the list. Bonnie Lane, Juanita Wonderly, Susan Rothert, Karen Randall, and Karen Allmandinger attempt them. Following are the headstands. First, headstand on seat, ceded by the shoulder stand and back and seat balance. Karen Allmandinger, Pat Watson, Valerie Callahan, Rita Hessert, and Juanita Wonderly perfor min them.

The entire group comes bouncing out in round-offs. They are followed by the cartwheel flips, regular flips, and head flips. A pyramid by all will complete the act.

Rita Hessert will start the act off with a rocking chair, back-drop forward to a front-drop, back-drop half-twist to feet. Juanita Wonderly follows with a knee drop, twist in a swing, handstand to a forward seat drop, and a straddle-jump. Karen Allmandinger will present her back-drop to back twist on the feet, forward somersault to front-drop, back-ever, half-twist to feet in a swing.

A knee-drop to handstand over into a seat drop, a pendulum, and front-drop twist to seat-drop will be presented by Valerie Callahan. Karen Randall will attempt a stag jump, jack-knife in front-drops, half-twist to front-drop, back-drop over to front-drop, and the half-twist to front drop.

Pat Watson comes next with her rocking chair, crossed-ankle bounce, back-drop to front-drop, seat drop over to front-drop, and bent dive. The mule kick, back-drop over to front-drop, straddle jump to seat-drop to front-drop will be presented by Bonnie Lane.

Susan Rothert will display the swan, jack-knife in turntable, forward somersault to seat-drop, backward somersault to seat-drop, and the forward somersault to a front layout. The group will complete the act with double tricks and rope jumping.

154 Girls In Dance

"Deep Purple" make up the music for the Studies in Modern Dance. The girls will wear black shorts and white blouses. Mrs. Keegan's and Miss Pohlmeyer's dance classes will do the Finale to end their part in the show. It is a slow waltz number to "After the Ball." The costumes are the same as in a previous number.

Seventy-five girls from Mrs. Keegan's dance classes will participate in the show. From Period 1 they are Connie Arnold, Alice Ashton, Louise Brown, Valerie Callahan, Marsha Chaney, Mary Collins, Molly Dixon, Jan Doelling, Janelle Erwin, Virginia Flagg, Peggy Floyd, Sheryl Hall, Sue Hiller, Mimi Hinman, Sue Lewis, Carole Maners, Jan Martindale, Gretchen Meister, Marilyn Pease, Sue Pfeiffer, Joanne Reiff, Carolyn Ripple, Sandra Starke, Billie Swartz, Yvonne Swartz, Marilyn Taylor, and Cordelia Williams.

Sandra Bodkin, Betsy Bowman, Linda Brubaker, Phyllis Cozmas, Marjorie Havens, Heidy Hess, Sharon ongenberger, Susan Merchant, Pat Mertens, Laura Rhodes, Nancy Rose, Joan Rothchild, Jean Ann Schott, Carolyn Sievers, Elaine Snow, Sharon Stout, Debbie Tourkow, Nancy Vanderford, Juanita Wonderly, Marcia Zelonis, and Lucille Palevich are from period 4.

John Richardson Gains Times Position Of General Manager

Ellen McCarron Chosen Managing Editor; Bev Stanton, Student Adviser

John Richardson

"Because of his excellent background and experience in various departments of The South Side Times, John Richardson, senior, has been named general manager of the South Side Times," said Miss Rowena Harvey, adviser.

"I am very glad to have been appointed to the position of Times general manager," stated John. "I consider it a great honor to be in charge of the Times and will try to fulfill my duties to the best of my ability."

John is replacing Beverly Stanton, who will become student adviser of The Times. Beverly served as general manager for two weeks only, so as not to interfere with her Totem work.

Ellen McCarron, junior, has been chosen to fill the position of managing editor.

Since his freshman year, John has been an active member of the Times staff. He has been a room agent for four years, calendar chairman, advertising manager, and managing editor. He has also worked on the copy staff and in the make-up part of the paper. Recently John was chosen a member of the honorary journalistic society, Quill and Scroll.

In addition to his Times activities, John is a member of the band and orchestra, National Honor Society, and the Service Club. He has earned his second gold jeweled pin for Times work.

"Easter Is Way Of Life" To Be Assembly Theme

By Katie Rastetter

The annual Easter Assembly will be presented by 36 Workshop in the gymnasium on Friday, March 27. Miss Lucy Osborne and Mr. William Applegate are the sponsors who have helped in planning the assembly.

"Easter Is a Way of Life" is the theme of the assembly. It will be partially based on a sermon given by the Reverend Dr. Edward L. R. Elson, pastor of the church which President Eisenhower attends in Washington, D.C.

DR. ELSON sums up the Resurrection for today's fact-finding world in these words: "On Easter we celebrate God's mightiest act. Jesus of history emerged from an open tomb to become the Christ of the ages. Easter is the great dividend of the centuries. We feel it, we sense it, we thrill to it. Easter is more than a day. Easter is a way of life."

"Easter has four facts," states Dr. Elson. He names these facts as: Jesus lived, Jesus died, Jesus rose, and Jesus left His great power in the world.

THESE FACTS WILL be portrayed in the assembly by the actual experiences of the disciples and people who lived with Jesus and by a conversation between a curious youth living in a world of scientific realities and another youth who possesses a steadfast faith in God.

Martha Milnor is general chairman of the assembly. Carol Miller and Phil Spray are co-chairmen of the planning committee, and Barbara Dicker and Tom Felger are co-chairmen of stagecraft.

Students on the planning committee are Penny Hunt, Beth Golden, Ann Golden, Sally Dill, Susan Horth, Janet Lawry, Pegeen Horth, Bessie Ferguson, Merle Baldwin, and Katie Rastetter.

Easter To Be Theme Of USA Meeting Tonight

Easter will be the theme for the USA meeting tonight at 3:30 p.m. in the Greeley Room. Club president Carol Lewis announced a talent show will be presented with members participating. Singing, pantomimes, a piano solo, and greetings will be among the talent numbers.

Pupils Investigate Job Opportunities

The education committee of the Chamber of Commerce of Fort Wayne, in co-operation with the Fort Wayne Community Schools, is planning an In-Plant Vocational Guidance Day on Wednesday, April 1.

This is a voluntary program conducted for a limited number of upperclassmen interested in learning more about various employment opportunities in Fort Wayne. Upperclassmen now have a chance to actually visit Fort Wayne business, find out more about employment in fields which may be of interest to them, and see the actual working conditions under which various occupations are performed.

Pupils will be assigned to groups of not more than 10 and will receive detailed instructions about where and when to report from the management of the company serving as their host.

There are many varieties of job opportunities in different fields. A few examples are accounting and control, air transportation, auto sales, banking, nursing, realtor, and social work.

Times Gets Scholastic Press Honor

The South Side Times has added another Medalist Rating, the highest to be awarded by the Columbia Scholastic Press Association, to its many other awards and citations.

"The Medalist Ratings are awarded to the papers that have a distinguishing quality, which makes them outstanding," stated Miss Rowena Harvey, adviser. "Only 14 Medalist Ratings were awarded in the Times classification of 1,501 to 2,500 enrollment, which was the largest class," she continued.

The ratings were awarded at the annual Columbia Scholastic Press Association Convention at Columbia University in New York last Thursday.

Miss Harvey stated that many of the faculty advisers attending the convention were amazed at the size of the Times and the amount of information contained in it. The Times is one of the biggest papers in the country, with six, eight, or 10 pages in each issue.

In 1925, the Times was picked as the outstanding paper of all publications that were entered in this contest. Since the paper received the Columbian Award and a silver cup 37 years ago, it has never been rated lower than the highest rating.

This year, over 1,600 publications from all over the country were entered. To be eligible, the paper had to be entered between Easter of '58 and last Christmas. Two copies of each edition that were published were sent to Columbia University in New York.

The papers were distributed among 30 judges, who judge according to a scorebook. The papers were graded on such qualities as objectives, scope, humor, news story, sports story, feature story and interview, editorials, headlines, copy reading and editing, front and editorial page make-up, and advertising.

The scoring was based on a possible 1,000 points. The papers were separated into four classes. The first class consisted of the papers having 850 to 1,000 points. In some classes, no awards or only fourth or third places were awarded. From this class, a few papers were picked because of some special quality, to receive a Medalist Rating. This quality may be outstanding pictures, headlines, or anything which separates it from the normal run of papers.

The ratings were awarded at the annual convention of the Columbia University Press Association at Columbia University last Tuesday through Saturday.

Archers Receive Day Of Unexpected Vacation

Last Tuesday, while the students experienced an unexpected holiday, the school experienced an unexpected problem. The sewage in some of the restrooms needed repair.

The repairs have consisted of replacing the 20-inch tile which broke deep in the hole. Most of the main repairs have been completed but some are still in progress. These repairs should well be completed within the next few days.

The city took care of the problem in the street and the school took care of the internal problems.

To avoid future confusion, manholes have been dug so the sewage system may be reached easier if the problem should arise again.

'The Gay Nineties' Will Be Theme Of Girls' Physical Ed Program

Miss Helen Pohlmeyer, Mrs. Alice Keegan Are Directors Of Program

By Sandra Grodrian

"The Gay Nineties," the theme of this year's Spring Show, will be presented tomorrow night at 8 p.m., under the direction of Mrs. Alice Keegan and Miss Helen Pohlmeyer. The Advanced Tumblers, Modern Dance Group, and gym and dance classes will carry out the theme in various costumes, dances, games, and stunts.

Starting the program off, the dance classes will go back to the 1890's with "Man on the Flying Trapeze." Portraying the spectators in a ball game, the dance classes will then do, "Take Me Out to the Ball Game." The gym classes will bring a change of mood with various scooter relays.

Next on the program will be Studies in Modern Dance, this time with the dance classes. With a rumble of the drums, the Advanced Tumblers will appear on the mats. The dance classes will display the next two numbers. First, "By the Beautiful Sea," and second, "Turkey in the Straw." Showing skill with the giant volleyball, the gym classes appear next on the show.

"AN AMERICAN IN PARIS" heads the next act, with the Modern Dance Group. The tumblers will then come bouncing out on the trampoline with "Rock-a-bye, Baby." Going back to the 1890's once again, the dance classes will present "The Band Played On." Following that, they will portray dating couples in "While Strolling Through the Park."

The gym classes will complete the program. First they will do a polka to "Little Brown Jug." Finally, the finale will be presented. For this, they have chosen "After the Ball."

As in any show, behind-the-scene work is important. Pianists for the show are Carolyn DeVore and Sharon Possell. Sandy Crouch will play the drums for the tumblers. Helping with lights and sound system will be Jim Mayle, Eric Culp, and Philip Schultz. Mrs. Charlene Young is making the programs and Mrs. Earl Sterner will work in the box office.

Modern Dancers Will Perform

Mrs. Keegan

Miss Pohlmeyer

The Modern Dance Group will display hard work and talent at this year's annual spring show, "The Gay Nineties," to be presented Friday. The group has selected "An American in Paris" arrangment by Maurice Whitney, which is made up of many facets of music, namely: definite bent, percussive, swing, blues, and melodie rhythm. The girls create movement to interpret the phase of music as expressed in the composition.

The colorful costumes for this presentation will be composed of a brightly-colored leotard, black danskins, and a black silk scarf worn as a sash.

Membership in this group is based on dance ability. In September, 25 girls were members in Modern Dance Group. A number of the girls dropped out; the group is now composed of 15 girls. They meet every Tuesday and Thursday from 3:30 p.m. until 5 p.m. Technicians and skills of modern dance are practiced. The girls work on forms of locomotion, such as walks, runs, leaps, jumps, and skips. Swings and falls were learned, along with rhythm and percussive movements. Bounces, leg swings, and arm swings are also practiced.

IN OCTOBER, the dance group performed on a workshop for the Women's Physical Education Section of the Northeastern Indiana Teachers Association. At this workshop, the girls worked on group patterns to show spatral relationships and levels.

At the Thanksgiving Assembly, some of the group aided in presenting the program by doing a dance presentation, depicting Renaissance in various symbols. In November, the dance group began working on a special number. Gradually, patterns were created from the techniques and skills. From patterns, a routine gradually was created.

For their number in the spring show, the girls have spent endless hours learning and performing the number.

South Makes $1,416 Profit

South Side, as host school, received an additional $350 along with the $1,066 earnings from the Regional Tourney, to make a total of $1,416 profit from the tourney.

Because South was host school, 13 Archer teachers worked at the Coliseum. These same teachers also gave time out to work during the Sectional Tourney. Mr. Robert Davis, Mr. Robert Gernand, Mr. Frances Stovall, Mr. Wayne Scott, Mr. Walker, Mr. Earl Sterner, Mr. Glen Stebing, Mr. George Collyer, Mr. Warren Hoover, Mr. Marion Feasel, Mr. David Cramer, Mr. Jack Bobay, and Mr. Raymond Quance make up the group.

South sold 1,615 tickets, more than any of the three other participating schools. Angola sold 1,214; Brighton, 485; and Decatur, 578. A total of 3,892 season tickets were sold, while 1,309 session tickets were sold. Last year, a total of 4,754 season tickets were sold, 862 more than this year. However, 184 more session tickets were sold compared to last year's figure of 1,125.

Expenditures consisted of $2,276.82. Meals, referees, scorers, timers, help, printing, incidentals, basketballs, policemen, tickets, and Coliseum rental entered under this amount. Deducted separately from the above items, were $80.64 for transportation, and $3,296.27 to the Indiana High School Athletic Association.

The amount of money received by each school is tabulated in this manner. All expenses are deducted from the total amount made from the sale of tickets. One-half this amount is divided among the schools on a pro rata basis (even distribution among the schools), and one-half is divided according to the ticket sales. These two sums are then added, and the total figure for each school is reached.

Original Poetry Contest To Be Meterite Program

"We will have an original poetry contest at the Meterite meeting next Tuesday," announced Beth Curley, program chairman.

Because the school was closed last Tuesday when the meeting featuring the poetry contest was to take place, the program will be carried over until this Tuesday.

The meeting will take place in the Greeley Room at 3:30 p.m.

Times Makes Correction

Basketball fever and flu have overcome some Times' writers, and consequently we goofed! The state music contest story stated that Bill Mueller placed first in voice. Bill did receive a first place award at Indianapolis, but it was in piano. He has studied the piano for seven years.

"Shamrock Shenannigans" Is Theme For Philo's St. Patrick's Day Banquet

"'Shamrock Shenannigans' is well on the way to being the most different banquet any South Side club has ever sponsored," said Mary Sue Robertson, Philo president.

The new cafeteria will be the scene of the annual St. Patrick's Day banquet March 23 at 5:45 p.m. A chicken dinner will be served buffet style by Mrs. Alice Mangle, caterer. Although the banquet will be held at school and in an informal style, sponsor Mrs. Evlyn Spray has requested that all girls wear the usual banquet attire. All reservations and $1.65 should be taken to Room 154 by March 20.

Due to the absence of Barb Frederick, theme chairman, the themes were presented to the club by Kathy Schwalm and chosen by club vote. Sara Lou Miller and Nancy Bailey are in charge of making the green shamrock programs for the banquet. Decorations consisting of shamrocks, leprechauns, and Irish dancers are being made by co-chairmen Marge Bauer and Judy Franklin. Peggy McCoy, Mary Kay Haller, Beth Golden, Judy Ridlen, Susie Smethers, Marcia Swathwood, and Sue Sappenfield make up the decoration committee. Dinner music is being selected by Mary Kay Hall. South Civic Playhouse Presents Western Starring Kelly Couples

The South Side Civic Playhouse will now present the first in a series of thrilling westerns called "Sourfoot," starring Tom Rooster. As the scene opens, we see Tom Rooster, played by our daring young sourfoot, Dick McGaw, riding into the sunset, and a beautiful young lady, Beth Curley, waving good-bye to him as he disappears behind a hill. Oops! Please excuse me. It seems that the script is all mixed up. This is supposed to be the closing scene. If you'll bear with me, we'll start over again.

As the sun slowly sinks behind the hill, a faint light is seen through the window of the Dry Gulch Soda Fountain. Suddenly a squirt squeaks out. "Oh, they got me!" exclaims Dick Johnson as he falls to the ground. Bob Bolyard walks over to him, kicks him with his foot, and shakes the water from his squirt gun.

It seems that Sally Dill and Sheri DeYoung have been placed as bets on a poker game, and Dick lost. Jack Winder, the sofa jerk, tells Diane Irmscher, the pretzel girl, to take the body outside before it contaminates the air. As things quiet down, we hear music from across the room. Looking in that direction, we see Fred Van Fossen at the piano and Gretchen Meister singing her famous "One Less Man in This World."

z z z

SUDDENLY A CRY of "Indians! Indians!" is heard from outside. Neil Mieras and Sharon Longenberger had been on a picnic outside of town that afternoon. They were watching the sunset when Indians appeared on a nearby hillside. They ran into town to report the news.

Now, out of breath, they run to the sheriff's office. By this time, two Indians are entering the town. Chief Running Water is played by Tom Bolyard, and his squaw, Little Drip, is played by Kay Augspurger. They ride up to the sheriff and . . . Oh, just a second, Chief Running Water, your feathers are on crooked. O.K. Now go ahead.

They say to the sheriff, "We'um come'um to'um make'um peace'um." The sheriff, thinking that they are trying to trick him, tells them to go back where they came from. Insulted, they turn around and, riding out of town, tell the people that they will return.

z z z

EVERYONE STARTS running in all directions trying to find shelter. Chuck Putt and Judy Wilburn decide on the water troughs but find them rather wet. Nancy Gift and Doug Deal (Central) try to pass themselves off as horses. The Indians may not know the difference, but the horses will.

Gary Gardner and Susie Vesey are walking past the general store when an arrow pierces Gary's hat. He quickly turns around, trying to see who shot it. He finally spies Jim Sommers and Pam Olson on the roof of a nearby building. They are the practical jokers of the town and have decided to stage a make-believe attack.

But wait! Maybe it isn't so make-believe. As Jim rises, laughing at Gary, an arrow pierces his hat. This time it is an Indian attack. The Indians start entering the town from all sides. When they finally reach the middle of town, there is no one in sight. So that the trip isn't a total loss, they decide to set fire to all the buildings.

z z z

JUST AS THEY start lighting their torches, who should appear but Tom Rooster. He rides up to them, looks them straight in the eye, and tells them, "Go back to the reservation." Terrified, the Indians turn around and ride out of town.

The people, coming out of hiding, start cheering Tom. Sue Sappenfield and Bob King gather the crowd and . . . Oh, just a minute. There has been a slight change. Sue broke her toe while coming to the studio this morning and Bob has an infected ear lobe, so they have been replaced by Nick Demetre and Marty Clark.

Nick and Marty gather the crowd and propose that the people set aside a special holiday in honor of Tom. It is to be called "Tom Rooster Day." The crowd agrees; but Tom bashfully steps forward and says, "But, folks, it's all in a day's work."

z z z

SEEING THAT IT IS going to take a lot of persuading to get Tom to agree, Steve Burton steps forward to give a speech. Oh, dear, he has forgotten his lines. Oh, well, Mary Jane Tobey to the rescue. Finally Tom agrees and a date is set for this holiday. The town then returns to its normal routine. Most of the folks go back to Dry Gulch to finish off the day.

Things are just quieting down when a cry of "Robbers! Robbers!" is heard. Again the people in the soda fountain come rushing out to see what has happened. Al Eitman is standing outside the bank yelling to the people while Marilyn Pease bandages his arm.

Gene Menze runs across the street to get the details on the robbery and Linda Amos yells after him, "Now, don't you go gettin' yerself hurt!" Sizing up the situation, Larry Miller and Geoff George run to their horses and start chasing the robbers (they don't know which way they went, but one way is as good as another). Val Callahan and Diana Meyer plead with them not to go, but the boys don't pay attention to them.

z z z

MEANWHILE, VAL is relating the gory details of the whole experience; and when he comes to the part where he is shot, Karen Curley faints. Murray Munger picks her up and takes her home.

The sheriff and his posse are riding out of town to the east when who should appear from the west but Tom Rooster. He is leading the robbers to the jail. Oh, Tom, don't you think it would be better to have the men ride the horses rather than the horses riding the men? Yes, that's better.

Gus Wade and Sharon Probst jump on their horses to go after the sheriff, and Dave Bosselman and Judy Robinson run out to meet Tom. To everyone's surprise, the robbers turn out to be Wendell Eicher and Steve Meyers. Kay Blondin and Diane Frederick go into hysterics and ask them why they did it. They just look at them, also go into hysterics, and walk on.

z z z

JOHN HENDRICKSEN and Sylvia Ehrman come riding into town bursting with excitement. They have been visiting a neighboring town and relate the news that a man named Tom Rooster has just escaped from jail. Mike Simmons and Margo Martindale plead with the crowd to be lenient with Tom and let him have the town free.

Everyone agrees. They all return to the soda fountain and things start quieting down again. Bob Mann and Mary Sue Robertson wait outside to bid farewell to Tom. They invite him to return again some day if he is able to. He thanks them for all they have done, walks over to his horse, kisses it, and rides off into the sunset.

This concludes our little play. We hope you have enjoyed it. We leave you now with this sad massage. Since our hero has turned out to be on the wrong side of the law, this series will have to be discontinued. Not only that, but the South Side Civic Playhouse will collapse, and you won't be able to see anymore stories like this one today.

We realize this is very tender, but so sorry, that's tough!

T.V. Commercials Cause Controversy Among Kelly Pupils

The television commercials of today are many and terribly controversial. The best-loved are generally humorous and in cartoon form. If you don't already have them memorized, you can always see someone hamming them up in center hall around fifth period.

Here, the chosen few who are endowed with such blessings as having enough time to watch TV express their opinions on the subject of commercials. Listen now, as some fellow Archers answer this question: "What is your favorite commercial, and which do you dislike the most?"

Jim Dumas: I like the commercials when the network looses the picture. The commercials for Anacin give me a headache.

Sally Dill: I like the shortest, and hate the longest.

Diana Meyer: As I've frequently stated in other polls, I don't have time to watch TV.

Rick Busche: Puff, puff, Cocoa Puffs!! Chocolate-flavored Cocoa Puffs, new kind of cereal, new . . . new . . . new!!!

Bob Ramage: I like the background music for the Chesterfield commercials. I dislike most commercials though, because they interrupt the show.

Bobbi Ross: Maypo of course!!! That commercial about C.V. Beer is a mess.

Ron Johnson: Praise Soap!! What other commercial has the whole family in the tub all at the same time?

Jim Griffin: I like the one where the little old lady yells "Wow!" and then whispers . . . "Would you believe it? I have a cold!!"

April Hapner: I like those C.V. commercials . . . Wow!! My very favorite is the JELL-O ad, with the little Chinese baby.

Mimi Hinman: I like the Minute-Rice commercials (Busy, busy, busy day). I also like the ads on the '59 cars (I like to dream). I can't stand those commercials that interrupt the midnight movie.

Pam Olson: I like the Lestoil commercials an awful lot. I can't stand anything louder than the show I'm listening to.

Al Steere: I dislike a long commercial. If they're cartoons and real short, then I like them the best.

Jan Martindale: I like the Fresh-Up Freddie about the best. I'm prejudiced against the others, and don't watch them. (And that's not easy.)

Sue Hiller: I used to like those Bucky Beaver commercials, but, well . . .

Herb Shriner Comes To Coesse To Film Television Spectacular

The small town of Coesse had one of the greatest thrills in its history last week. Coesse was privileged to have as its visitor, Indiana's own Herb Shriner. The reason for this appearance was for the filming of a television show.

The whole thing started when Mrs. Jeanie Brown Bosselman told Shriner that Coesse had a perfect old-fashioned store that could be used as the setting for a television show if it were ever needed. And as time passed, it was learned that this small store could and would be used for a film.

Therefore on Tuesday, March 3, Hollywood arrived in Coesse. A company of writers, cameramen, director, producers, sponsors, and Herb Shriner and his wife anxiously awnited the start of the filming in the small country store.

The scene of all the action to take place was a small grocery which is a true relic of what old-fashioned groceries really were like. Within the store we found such things as: unwrapped bread in a glass case, Dr. Daniel's Veterinary Mediecures, lanterns and coal oil table lamps, lamp chimneys, an old coffee grinder, a wall telephone, and a pot-belly stove.

z z z

HOWEVER, WITHIN a few short hours, the store was buzzing with men setting up television cameras and various sized lamps.

Since time was scarce, filming began immediately on Tuesday. The first pictures were taken outside the store, showing Herb Shriner crossing an old-fashioned wooden bridge which leads up to the store. Next the group moved into the store where Shriner carried on conversations with the people of Coesse.

The whole filming lasted from Tuesday through Thursday. Thursday evening, the group packed up all their belongings and returned to Hollywood to process the films they had taken.

The reason for all this filming is a television spectacular to be seen on March 30. The name of the show is "A Pause for Springtime," sponsored by the Coca-Cola Company. The show is made up of scenes from various parts of the United States. This is just one of the scenes, depicting life in the Middle West.

This portion of the show will be approximately 10 minutes long. The filming of the show took many hours of interviewing and carrying on conversations with the town's people. Approximately 35 different scenes were filmed, each lasting about one-half hour. From these scenes, the best parts will be cut out and edited for the final production. Maybe only one minute of filming time will be taken out of a half-hour shooting.

z z z

IT TAKES MANY people to put together a film such as this. One of the most important of these men is the camera man. The head camera man is a young man who comes from Hollywood. Besides doing the filming for this show, he does all the filming for Dave Garroway's "Wide, Wide World." Also a director is needed to tell the people what they should do. The director for the show was a Mr. Gadette, who is also from Hollywood. Since Herb Shriner is a comedian, he needs writers to help him think of different humorous things to say. One of the writers was Ellory Schwartz, who does all the writing for the "Red Skelton Show." He is also a producer from Hollywood.

The only professional actor in the whole film is Herb Shriner, who was born in Indiana, just a short way from Fort Wayne. His own home town is very similar to Coesse. He attended Central High School in Fort Wayne, where his music career started.

During his high school days he played in a harmonica group. Later he worked at WOWO where he continued playing over the air. Then, as every young, ambitious musician dreams, he went to Hollywood to seek his fortune. He found his fortune in many ways. First of all he was successful. Then he married Pixie, a ballet dancer who came from Chicago, Ill. As time passed they had three children; twin boys, who are five and one-half, and a daughter, eight years old, whose name is Indy, after Indiana.

z z z

HERB SHRINER IS indeed a very likeable and friendly person. He not only treated all the town's people as equals, but he learned the names of each one he came in contact with during his stay in Coesse. Although his time was limited, he talked to as many people as possible.

It can also be said that Herb Shriner is a hard worker. Although all the questions he asked the people were prepared ahead of time, he memorized each one so that he was actually talking to each person, rather than reading lines from a piece of paper.

However, a few cue cards were needed when the time grew short. On one of these cut cards used was written the lines for the advertisement of the show to be seen in advance. It goes like this:

"Hello! I'm Herb Shriner, back home again in Indiana. We're visiting the folks in one of America's oldest country stores next Monday night on "America Pauses for Springtime." Come on along . . .

When you hear these words over your television set, you will know that they came from Coesse.

Do come along . . . I think you will enjoy the show as much as Herb Shriner enjoyed filming it, and certainly as much as the people in Coesse enjoyed having Herb Shriner and the group in their town.

Bill Blass, '39 Graduate, Designs Fashions For Famous People

Recently a top fashion designer of New York was honored for his work by having his design published, with reference to his name, on the cover of the late issue of "Bazaare." This designer was Bill Blass, a 1939 graduate of South Side High School.

Bill is currently the head designer for Maurice Rentner, which is one of America's largest expensive houses. Traveling, he finds, is a constant inspiration in helping him create new designs. In Paris, he maintains an apartment and has made no less than 23 trips to Europe. Spain is also another country in which he has spent much time. In Spain he is attracted to the bull fights, for he is a bull fight enthusiast.

As Mr. Blass states it, "I am an afecionado," which translated means that he is a fan (just wild about) of bull fighting.

z z z

SINCE HIS WORK is so outstanding he has designed for many famous personalities, such as Marilyn Monroe and Arlene Frances. He designed spring fashions for them last year. Irene Dunne, Lauren Bacall and Elizabeth Taylor are also frequent visitors of his.

Ever since Mr. Blass was a child he has been interested in creating ladies' fashions. Miss Mary Zent, who taught him art in the Fort Wayne Art School, said that unlike the other children she taught who would draw houses, trees, etc., Bill always would draw pictures of ladies at tea parties.

A close friend of Bill, Miss Mary Waller said that practically any time he was seen with a pad and pencil in hand, he would be sketching ladies' clothes.

Bill has some technical background for designing, because his mother made a living as a seamstress. This background helped him in the sewing aspect of clothes designing.

z z z

HOWEVER, BILL really got his start in fashion designing following the year 1940. He came to New York with the idea of designing in mind and sold fashion sketches while in school.

His schooling consisted of six months training at Parsons and then an apprentice's job on 7th Ave., the wholesale district of fashion in New York. With the exception of three and a half years in the Army, Bill has always resided on 7th Avenue, which is the heart of American clothes.

Bill is single and maintains for his living quarters a bachelor apartment in the winter and a country house in the summer.

During his years at South Side, Bill was an active member of the Art Club and the Times.

For his art work, he has been awarded the General Chicago Tribune Award of 1950 and 1951.

With his job as head designer for Maurice Rentner, Bill Blass is constantly kept busy and active.

The Old Man And The C

Once upon a time in a little fairy-tale kingdom on the border of Bavaria, there was a man who had three sons. The two older kids were real cool cats, but the youngest was a square. He studied.

The king of this kingdom decided that he would find out who was really on the ball by giving competitive exams. The highest scorer in the exams would get the princess and half the kingdom. The two older brothers were not too keen on all this, but the youngest saw his chance. He hopped to it and burrowed through musty old books for hours.

His brothers would come in from jousting and laugh at him, "You dumb cluck! Whatcha trying to do, be a professor? You don't even know who Sir Elvis of Pretzel is!"

Then their father would come in and give them a lecture on the importance of studying and on how hard he had worked to get them an education. They wished that their old man would lay off of them and quit nagging. The hipsters kept right on jousting and going to Royal Balls. The dumb cluck kept right on digging into his books.

The night before the exams, the two cool cats came carousing into the castle and one cool cat said to the other, "Say, man, I guess we'd better ask our brainy brother what the test is gonna be about tomorrow!"

The other cool cat cried, "Like crazy, man!"

When they asked him, he rolled his eyes, but he said he would try to give them a start. The two hep-heroes crammed until about 2:30 a.m. and could barely wobble out of bed. The tests seemed to swim before their eyes; the answers were long gone. Each of the two just passed with a C and they were afraid they had earned jobs as Royal Dishwashers.

"Oh, Daddy-cat, are you mad at us little goslings?" the oldest brother asked their father.

Their old man shook his head, "I tried to warn you. The reason I kept after you was because I wanted you to be successful. The C's don't matter so much to me—it's that you were not able to do the job well and that you missed a chance to get ahead that hurts. I still like you, so try again."

This was sad.

The dumb cluck won the highest score on the exams, and he got half the kingdom and the princess. They lived happily ever after the mortgage on the Royal Palace was paid.

Determination, Honor, Faith, Three Fitting Words For Lincoln

By Penny Hunt

When I think of Abraham Lincoln, I consider him as a President and a politician, but foremost as a man. A man whom I admire, an ideal man whom the entire world should strive to follow.

How many people in this hurried, trouble-tossed world of ours possess Lincoln's determination, his honor, or his faith? Certainly not enough.

Yes, I hold Abraham Lincoln in high esteem. I would very much like to be like him. Who would have thought that a lanky, homey backwoodsman from Illinois would someday lead our nation through a time of great peril?

Only through sheer determination did Lincoln achieve this. He encountered obstacles every day; he was assailed by political and private opponents, but he weathered the storm steadily. Such determination is my desire.

z z z

UPON REACHING his peak, Lincoln's battle was not finished. He had ideas, principles, which angered many, and offended some. It would have been much easier for Abraham to desert his honor and do as these men requested. Abandon his honor, not Abraham Lincoln. He maintained his honor at all times, unyielding to pressure and false pride.

In his important Gettysburg Address Lincoln honored the victims of that battle by saying that they gave "the last full measure of devotion," but it was Lincoln who truly gave his "last full measure." And how did we repay him? By a flashing bullet in the dark. Honor like Lincoln's never ending, always firm, is my goal.

z z z

FAITH IN THE good of man and the ultimate triumph of that good, Lincoln possessed such faith. He wanted to preserve the Union, and did everything in his power to achieve this, but he never lost faith with man. It was once said of Lincoln, "His heart was as great as the world, but there was no room in it to hold the memory of a wrong." He knew that some day the bright light of man's good would come shining to a world of darkness. Faith, even a part of Lincoln's, is my wish.

Determination, honor, and faith; three words so much a part of Lincoln. We have inherited the legacy of this great American, and by following his example, then, and only then, will Lincoln live again with us.

Many Kelly Families Take 2 Subscriptions To South's Times

The loyalty and interest of South Side pupils in their weekly school publication cannot be questioned. Each year the circulation managers congratulate themselves on a job well done. However, a special salute has yet to be given—a salute to those two or more subscriptions originating in the same family.

Apparently Johnny feels that news is news and can't wait for sister Mary to share the paper with him. Perhaps news from the papers is being clipped for scrapbooks. The staff of the South Side Times points with pride to these loyal subscribers.

Families where two students have subscribed are the Adams, both Allen families, both Bailey families, the Bauer, Baughman, Bonsinger, Baxter, both Bechtold families, Berry, Bloom, Bly, Bond, Bonnell, Bricker, Brown, Brenn, Brooke, Busche, Byers, Camp, Campbell, Capps, Carr, Chaney, Correll, Cox, Crowell, Crist, Curley, Cupp, Demetre, Denis, Dill, Disler, Doelling, Druart, Decker, Dilbert, and the David families.

Also subscribing for two papers are the Edwards, Eisenacher, Eitman, Englemann, Evans, Fast, Favorite, Ferber ,Ferguson, Feustel, Frump, Gebhard, Geller, George, Gilles, Golden, Hall, Harader, Hartman, Heidbrink, Heilman, Hendricksen, Heymann, Hickman, Hilsmier, Hostetler, and the Holmes family.

The Isch, Keegan, Keck, Kimbler, Koch, Krouse, Lebrecht, Lipp, Lockwood, Longenberger, McCoy, Magerum, Martin, Martindale, Marvin, Marshall, Meese, Markison, Mayle, Martens, Nahrwold, Norman, Olinske, Putt, Potts, Plothe, and the Parker families have two subscriptions.

Also taking two subscriptions are the Rastetters, Rays, Rieffs, Rices, Richardsons, Ross's, Schroeders, Schwalms, Seibels, Shannahans, Sheldons, Showalters, Simmons, Slicks, Spindlers, Somers, Stevens, Stirns, and the Schwartz's.

The Timma, Tobey, Todd, Tomson, Tsuleff, Uhl, Vaughan, VonGunten, Wallace, Wightman, Wilson, and the Woodrum families take two subscriptions.

Barbara, Dick, and Verne Andrews; Harold, Lucretia, and Reb Burgess; Carol, Dale, and Tom Everle; Darlene, Larry, and Sue Schrader; and Richard, Nancy, and Sigfried Tagtmeyer have all subscribed.

Joan Littlejohn, Senior, Places First In District Rotary Speech Contest

DISTRICT SPEECH WINNER—Joan Littlejohn captured first place in the district Rotary speech contest. The topic of this year's ten-minute oratory is "Education Is the Answer." Joan will be one of three contestants at the South Bend meet, to be held April 13. Mr. Robert N. Storey, speech adviser, helps prepare Joan for the South Bend contest. (Picture by DeHaven)

Industrious Archer Joan Littlejohn has placed first in the district Rotary speech contest. Preceding this, Joan won the school, city, and sectional contests. The district meet was held at the Grace Lutheran Church in Columbia City. Joan, Mr. Robert Storey, and Mr. Arnold represented South Side.

Each year the Rotary Club sends the topic of the speech and rules to each school. This year the topic is "Education Is the Answer." Students are expected to take this and develop it into an eight to 10-minute memorized oratory.

The idea is that education is the means of freedom and the way of preserving it. The speeches are given only once at every meet.

Joan believes that the hardest competition was here in the city of Fort Wayne. There will be only three contestants at the South Bend meet, to be held April 13.

Archers Rate Low On Accident Report

Whether many Kellys realize this or not, South Side could be more proud of its accident report according to the Safety Council Investigations.

A four-month summary, starting with the beginning of the school term last fall, was recently completed. This summary is based on 24 hours per day and seven days a week.

Exactly 129 total violations were charged to all city high schools. Concordia rated first with 13 violations, Central Catholic rated second with 22, with Central having 26, South Side 34, and North Side 34 in respective order. It is the sincere hope that South Side will improve this record in 1959, thus proving that South Siders are not as reckless as they seem to be!

Other investigations found out these facts were true. The number of collisions of motor vehicles was 102. The day of the week that most accidents occurred was Saturday. The accidents not occurring at an intersection totaled 53, and the ones that did occur at an intersection totaled 57.

The hour of day that most accidents occurred was between 2 p.m. and 4 p.m. Most of the accidents happened at locations where there were no traffic control signs. Also, most of the accidents happened during daylight hours, during clear weather, and on dry pavement.

Seventeen-year-old drivers were involved in most accidents and violations. The total property damage for this period was $22,725. The total number of persons injured was 36.

This report was conducted by Officer Robert Waldrop, High School Liaison Officer, Fort Wayne Police Department.

Hi-Y Boys Conduct Formal Induction

The South Side Hi-Y Club held its annual formal induction of new members at the St. John's Evangelical and Reformed Church Monday, March 2.

The ceremony consisted of several hymns, an invocation, a ritual, which was performed by the officers and guides, a speech by Reverend Robert Beck, who spoke on the members' obligations and responsibilities to meet the challenge of our present hard times, and a benediction.

The Active Candidate, who represents all candidates in the full ritual, is chosen by virtue of the highest test score over Hi-Y information. The Active Candidate this year is Robert Gifford.

Robert Gifford was awarded the Hi-Y pin and year guard for acquiring the highest test score and special stunt performance points.

Mr. Robert Weber, the club's adviser, stated, "I want to express from all the members and myself a welcome to the families and friends of the new candidates to the Induction Ceremony. We are happy to bring into membership these boys who have set for themselves high standards of Christian character. Please join me in congratulating them and following their progress."

The new members of the spring semester, 1959, are as follows: Nicky Arnold, Dave Barrett, Charles Clifton, Daniel Decker, Ronald Flickinger, John Gear, Robert Gifford, William Hawk, Larry Levy, Roger McNett, John Markiton, William Platka, Stephen Weiss, and Dan Wirick.

After the Induction Ceremony, the mothers of the members and officers, served refreshments.

At the meeting Monday night, March 9, the members received their first bulletin concerning information and instructions on the Hi-Y Smokey Mountains trip.

The members are planning to leave early on the morning of March 30 and return to Fort Wayne early Sunday morning, April 5.

The purpose of the trip is to combine camping, hiking, and climbing in the Great Smokey Mountains National Park.

The trip will be supervised by Mr. Richard Sage and Mr. Robert Weber.

The members will travel on an ABC Coach Lines bus.

Their main camp site will be established near the center of the park at the Chimneys Camp Ground, about six miles from Gatlinburg, Tenn.

Parents are cordially invited to attend any future meetings where questions, which may arise, will be discussed.

A definite itinerary will be forthcoming soon, with further and more complete plans concerning the trip.

College Tour Offers By YMCA April 3, 4

To help in making the decision of going to college, the Fort Wayne YWCA Teenage Department offers to high school sophomore and junior girls the opportunity to get a first-hand view at what their own state has to offer in colleges through a college tour during Friday and Saturday, April 3 and 4.

Juniors are to have first choice with a limit of 15, then sophomores will be chosen. Y-Teens will be given first reservations.

A fee of $7.50, which accounts for part of the entire cost, is to be in by Friday, March 20, and Y-Teen reservations by March 13 if the bus has not been filled.

The approximate total cost of the tour is $14 which includes food and extra expenses.

The tour schedule is as follows: the bus will leave the YWCA at 8 p.m., CDT, on Friday, April 3, and arrive at Greencastle about 11:30 a.m., CST. After an hour lunch, a tour of DePauw University will be conducted from 1 to 2:30. At 2:30 the bus will leave for Bloomington and arrive at 6 p.m. After dinner at 6:30 p.m., there will be activities from 7:30 to 10 p.m. The girls will then be housed at the University Residence Hall.

On Saturday, April 4, breakfast and packing will be from 8:30 to 9:30 a.m., CST. At 9:30 a.m., the bus will leave for Muncie. Lunch will be served in Muncie and a tour of Ball State Teachers College campus will be from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. The girls will then go to the Muncie YWCA to get acquainted and for an evening snack. At 5:30 p.m., the bus will leave for Fort Wayne, arriving at approximately 8:30 p.m., CST.

The $7.50 fee can be sent to Mrs. Joan Collins, Teenage Director at the YWCA, by March 20.

Hi-Y Plans Trip To Great Smoky Park

"Completion of the final plans for our annual spring vacation trip composed the main portion of the Hi-Y meeting, Monday night in the Assembly Room of the YMCA," stated John Meyerholtz, club adviser.

The members have decided to go to the Great Smokey Mountains State Park this year.

The remainder of the meeting consisted of a free gym period in which the members had access to all of the YMCA's facilities.

If any member or parent has any further questions concerning the trip, they may contact Mr. Robert Weber, the club's sponsor, or any of the officers. These officers are Bob Mann, president; John Shannahan, vice-president; Eddie Hartman, secretary; Byron White, treasurer; and Tom Graham, sergeant-at-arms.

Archer Tracksters Shaping Up For State Championship Quest; Several Kelly Finalists Returning

Gernand Takes Over For Collyer; Three '58 Relay Men Return

Although the "Hoosier Hysteria" has not yet reached its climax, a few Archers are braving wind and weather to get in shape for the quest of a state championship in track and field. Last year, Veteran Track Coach George Collyer climaxed his coaching career at South Side when the Archers took third place in the state meet, one-half point away from second.

Now that Mr. Collyer has decided to quit coaching, Football Coach Bob Gernand has taken over the mentorship of the Archer thinlies and will strive to lead the Kellys to many victories.

With three men from last year's terrific mile relay team returning, the Archers seem to be a sure bet to cinch the relay gold medal in May at Indianapolis. Returning men are Mel Smith, Joe Roth, and Tom Bolyard. The spot left vacant by Larry Miller, who graduated last year, has not been filled as yet; although junior Bill Lentz, who looked very good last year, is the probable candidate.

The top favorite to take the half-mile title this year is South's Tom Bolyard. Tom, who won the Regionals last year with a snappy 1:59.4 and placed third in the state meet, seems to be the best half-miler Fort Wayne has had since Frank Geist graduated two years ago from North Side.

ALTHOUGH HAVING no one comparable to Dave Redding of two years ago, Coach Gernand has some good material in the mile. Senior Eddie Hartman, who ran a good 4:41.2 last year, should lead the milers, followed closely by Sam Green, junior, and Al Rainbolt, sophomore.

Seniors Joe Roth and Mel Smith should lead the pack across the line in the quarter-mile this year. Joe placed fourth in the Sectional last year and he should do even better now.

South's Archers should be strong in the hurdles, too. Although losing ace hurdler Dan Howe from last year's team, the Archers, with juniors Win Moses and Ken Howe, seem pretty tough.

The weakest part of the Archers in the running events seem to be the sprints. Returning men Harry Collins, Chuck Clifton, and Charlie Lampell should be the top men, but they are certain to get very tough competition from sophomores Tom Duff and former "freshman flash" Bob Shine. Shine, who had a terrific year as a freshman last year, also seems a good bet to clinch a varsity berth in the quarter-mile.

THE HALF-MILE relay, which will probably consist of Bob Shine, Ted and Fred VonGunten, and Bill Meyer (if he decides to come out for track), could be very strong this year.

In the field events, the Archers were heavily hit by graduation. If Tom Bolyard decides to broad-jump besides running the half-mile, South will be strong in this event, too. In the pole vault, Ted Lebrecht will have the hard job of trying to replace Rich Miller, lost by graduation. Dave Roderick should be the top high jumper in the school. Chances look dim in the shot-put where only Jim Dawson will be able to reach about 45 feet.

Because of the flue and basketball, only a few boys are working out regularly. Most of those are members of last year's Cross Country team. In the daily workouts, the boys usually do about eight to 10 laps in the gym to warm up. Then they do a number of exercises together with plenty of rope-skipping and medicine-ball throwing. Then the boys divide into separate groups. The milers and half-milers run quarters and half-miles, while the sprinters work on starts in the "tunnel."

"If everybody gets in shape and we do not have too many bad breaks during the season, we could be very strong this year," stated Coach Bob Gernand.

If the Archer fans give some support to the thinlies and come to some of the meets, the 1959 track season should be a winning one for South Side.

READY FOR TRACK SEASON — Jim Moring, Larry Fruechy, Ron Bogen, and Dan Tritch practice in preparation for the 1959 Archer track season which will begin soon after the conclusion of "Hoosier Hysteria." The tracksters hope to better their third place showing in last year's state meet.

Individuals Hit High Peaks In Heart-Breaking Loss

The clock showed 13 seconds remaining. Kokomo came out of their huddle around Coach Joe Platt. Chuck Fawcett passed the ball to a skinny 145-pound guard on the left side of the court.

This guard dribbled over to the right sideline, leaped into the air, and hurled the sphere; it ripped through the net cleanly. That was it. All that the great South team had worked for was gone. The tournament was suddenly and abruptly ended for the defending State Champions.

The incomparable Tom Bolyard, Bill Meyer, Nick Demetre, Ted Lebrecht, and an ill Dave Barrett stood confused and shocked. Don Reichert tried to summon the dazed group.

THE ARCHERS HAD given all they had; it wasn't enough. Bill Meyer, Mike Simmons, and Ken Howe had played their best games of the year. Tom Bolyard ended his brilliant career at South.

They had lost before to Southport, Shortridge, and Terre Haute Gerstmeyer. But no loss was so devastating. There was nothing, no next time, no second chance; this was the end.

They had shown well. They beat Central three times, and continued their complete domination of Fort Wayne teams. They had beaten high-ranked Michigan City and Gary Froebel.

Mike Simmons improved steadily as the season progressed. His fine defensive and playmaking work was a main cause of Archer success. His offensive punch against Central, Muncie Burris, and Kokomo were invaluable. Unfortunately he fouled out late in the fourth quarter and did not finish the game.

BILL MEYER, AFTER missing the first part of the season, provided rebounding and defensive strength. He chipped in 10 points against Kokomo.

Nick Demetre's sharpshooting became a trade mark. Opposing teams had to keep a close eye on him. He hit one-handers from all over the floor.

Dave Barrett filled a big gap in the South lineup. He filled it admirably. His rebounding, scoring, and defense improved steadily as he gained experience. He played the Kokomo game after awakening that morning with a 102-degree fever. This was typical of the Archer spirit.

KENNY HOWE WAS a mainstay all season. He headed a fine Archer bench. He took up some of the offensive slack Barrett was unable to provide against the Wildcats. Teddy Lebrecht, Roy McConnell, and Dave Roderick caused much suffering among rival fans.

Finally there was Bolyard. Perhaps the greatest player in the state. He kept South going with his teamwork, rebounding, and 30 points a game average. Many consider him a goat for missing timely free throws. But if he had missed them earlier and made those, who would remember?

They followed an invincible Archer team and did a great job upholding the tradition previously set. They reached Semi-State before being "de-Rayled." Many doubted they would get by the Sectional. You can be well proud of your Archers this year, and wouldn't it be nice to have another crack at Kokomo?

Tourney Games Produce Thrills For Spectators

Kokomo Edges Archers; Marion Upsets Bears; Wildcats Take Last Game

By Bob Shine

The Fort Wayne Semi-State Tournament produced three of the most exciting contests in IHSAA history last Saturday.

In the first game, Kokomo edged out the South Side Archers by a 92-90 score. The Archers had come from 13 points behind to take a 90-86 lead with a minute left to go; but the Wildcats, who won their first Semi-State title at Fort Wayne in the evening game against Marion, cashed in on free throws by Roger Thurston and Jim Rayl to tie the game at 90-90.

The loss to Kokomo was probably the most heartbreaking defeat that the Archers have had to accept in many years. They shot at a fantastic .522 percentage and outscored the Wildcats from the field by one field goal. However, the Wildcats cashed in on 24 of 28 free throws while the Archers hit only 20 for 28.

COACH REICHERT had done a marvelous job of preparing the Archers for the big game, and he knew exactly what to do at every moment of the contest.

For all the fans, the game presented one of the greatest high school games ever played in Indiana. Perhaps the only sad or unenjoyable part was our defeat.

It was a mighty blow to the Archers when Dave Barrett became ill before the game. His rebounding and height might well have spelled the difference between victory and defeat if he had been able to play more than he did. But even though the game did spell defeat for the fighting Archers, there is certainly no reason to be ashamed of their performance.

TOM BOLYARD was a wonderful credit to South as he has always been. Tom amassed 33 points and proved to the sell-out crowd that he is one of Indiana's finest players, if not the best.

Mike Simmons and Nick Demetre played perhaps their best all-around game of the year by getting 17 and 19 points, respectively, and playing a fine defensive game.

Ken Howe also did a fine "pinch-hitting" job for Dave Barrett, and he had collected seven points before he committed his fifth foul.

Bill Meyer was certainly another contributing factor to the Green's late rally as he drove for one basket and picked up a loose ball for another fielder.

All in all, the Archers played their best game of the season against Kokomo; and despite the sting of defeat, South Side was certainly well represented in the tournament.

IN THE SECOND afternoon game, Marion nipped South Bend Central by the score of 61-60.

It was a close game, right down to the wire, and it certainly acted as part of a double feature for the already well-pleased fans.

Marion took the lead at 59-58 and was helped when Sylvester Coalmon of Central fouled out. Marion then jumped to a 61-58 lead and came home victorious after a last-second shot by Central's John Wesley went in, to represent the final 61-60 score.

The championship game in the evening started to look as if an upset might come about. Marion played rather deliberately, and the score was Marion 26 and Kokomo 24 at the end of the first half.

The second half quickly resumed with Kokomo jumping into a 10-point lead which they soon lengthened to a 56-42 advantage to coast to their title.

Surprisingly enough, Jim Rayl was outscored by Marion's Art Pence, who had 28 points, compared to Rayl's 24 points.

It certainly appears that the Fort Wayne fans will be seeing more of the Wildcats as they have, among others, 6-7 sophomore Bob Ferguson and Roger Thurston returning as regulars next season.

S. O. S.

Schmitz On Sports

Exactly 145 pounds, a split second, and a sick center—that added up to defeat and the end of a reign as South Side's defending State Champions lost a 92-90 heartbreaker as the result of the most fantastic shot witnessed by Fort Wayne and area basketball fans in the history of tourney play.

Jim Rayl lived up to all pre-game expectations to the dismay of loyal Archer supporters as he led the victorious Wildcats with 38 points, topped off by a heave from 40 feet out that did little more than wrinkle the net.

* * *

It was no disgrace to lose to a fine but outplayed Kokomo team last Saturday; but Archer fans could not depict the realization that South's crown had been swiped after the Green had rallied from a 13-point deficit to take a four-point lead in the closing minute.

* * *

There was no hunting for excuses in this one because the Archer attack was ailing with center Dave Barrett riding the bench as cause of inflamed glands, a slight temperature and a headache. It was most heartbreaking for the Kellys for the squad looked forward to the Kokomo tilt with anxiety all season long. With Barrett operating at his normal position the Green and White were able to stage a full scale attack in the final period that brought them rallying back.

* * *

In the final period with Barrett beating the Wildcats off the boards, South thoroughly outplayed Kokomo and looked like a much more polished squad.

Tom Bolyard drew the heckles from South Side fans when he missed the possible game-winning free throw with 11 seconds remaining. This was entirely out of place. It was Bolyard's fantabulous play that kept South going like a blaze of fire during the entire campaign.

* * *

Despite the fact that Rayl and Thurston hit the scoring column harder than Tom, if this corner were given a chance to choose between the three for a member on his team, Bolyard would be the choice without question.

* * *

Tom displayed a greater reservoir of all-around playing. He was only guarded by three Kokomo lads, the tallest three at that; but he still managed to score his share of points, 33.

* * *

Rayl had to shoot against the outstretched arms of only one defender, sometimes two; but never three. Rayl scored close to half his points from the foul line and, of the total that came from the field, most were with the protection of a block from a teammate.

* * *

Not to take anything away from Rayl, what was seen at the Coliseum, Bolyard, and even Thurston, appeared as greater all-around players; but not in five years of watching high school ball have I seen such a fabulous shooter as Rayl.

* * *

Losing that game was most exasperating after the way the Kellys' determination and confidence with Barrett in there netted them one of the most spectacular shooting exhibitions seen since South Bend Central's Bears walloped South on the way to the State Crown.

With Demetre and Simmons playing their most fabulous games the Green and White were able to hit 11 of 13 shots in that fatal last period. Nick and Mike hit with unbelievable consistency.

* * *

Improvement over the last-period performance would be hard to ask for, because improving on an .846 clip from the field is quite a task; but their performance at the charity stripe was the deciding difference. South hit one more fielder than Kokomo, but missed too many free ones winding up four behind the Wildcats in this department.

Although he was able to appear for only half the game, Dave Barrett must be given high credit for having the gumption to give it all he had despite his weak physical condition.

* * *

Ken Howe and Bill Meyer did fine jobs at their positions. Ken ran into foul trouble but performed well in his appearance as did Bill Meyer.

* * *

Looking for a turning point in the game is hard. Several bad breaks against the Kellys in the final minute proved disastrous. But the one play that now looks like the one that made the big difference came with slight more than a minute to go.

* * *

With a four-point cushion to work on, Tom Bolyard became a little over-anxious and drove under to raise the Archer lead. He let the ball fly from about five feet out. The ball hit the rim as the whistles sounded. It rolled around and finally dropped off; but the worst came when Tom was called for a charging foul.

* * *

Roger Thurston sank two foul shots and the Wildcats were on their way to a comback. Of course, missing the two free throws in the fleeting seconds killed South's chance for sweet triumphs, but the second miss was only Tom's third missed foul shot of the day.

* * *

Critical fans would have thought nothing of three missed free throws in a game if they came at any other time during the contest. The entire Archer team was off at the charity stripe and that hurt.

* * *

Rebounding was another factor of defeat and for this reason Archer fans moaned while ace rebounder Dave Barrett, rode the bench.

South fans must be proud of their team for the fine show that they put on. Veteran observers rated the tussle as the greatest ever staged in Fort Wayne. It is seldom that a squad hits at a .522 mark, misses a school all-time single game scoring record by just two points, and still loses the ball game.

After the Sectionals, picking an all-tourney squad was quite a task; after the Regionals, it was obvious; but last week the War Memorial Coliseum was flooded with a deluge of top talent. Picking that dream team was quite the task but here it is: Tom Bolyard, Roger Thurston, Jimmy Rayl, Artie Pence, and Mike Simmons.

To back them up this corner would like to see Sylvester Coalmon, Nick Demetre, Richey Valasquez (his rebounding was fabulous), Bill Molnar, and Bill Meyer.

* * *

SCOUTING AROUND — The big question now is who is going to take the vacated State title now that South is out of action. After Saturday's action, anyone could come out as titlist. Several of the top-seeded teams in the state felt the bitter sting of defeat.

* * *

East Chicago surprised the entire state when they blew their title hopes in a 56-52 loss at the hands of Lafayette Jefferson. Every Hoosier fan, including the dean of Hoosier prep coaches, Marion Crawley, was stunned by his squad's dramatic upset of the second rated team in the state; but their moments of glory soon faded as Logansport posted a 61-56 win over the bucking Broncos.

* * *

Attucks' high-flying Tigers fought their way to the finals for the fourth time in the last five seasons by upsetting a favored Muncie combine, 64-62. So Attucks and Kokomo seem destined to meet in Saturday's finale with Kokomo most likely to be listed as a slight favorite; but this corner has much respect for that Attuck height and flashy back court. It looks like the Attucks' balance has too much for any contender.

Archers Lose To Kokomo Wildcats 90-92

Kellys Beaten On Rayl's Shot In Last Second

Tom Bolyard Scores 33 As South Side's Record Of 16 Tourney Wins Ends

By Jim Carter

It required one of the greatest high school basketball contests witnessed anywhere, but South Side's State Champs were finally "de-Rayled" in the Semi-State, 92-90. This sensational game saw the Archers, hampered by the illness of starting center Dave Barrett, turn in one of the finest games on record by any Green five and still lose a heartbreaker to the tremendous Wildcats.

A thriller all the way, the Semi-State classic featured almost everything a spectator could ask for. Tremendous shooting by both squads, great single performances, an unforgettable last-ditch rally, and a winning basket in the last second highlighted the play. Thought of as a toss-up by most cage authorities beforehand, the action disappointed no one in the capacity crowd which filled the Coliseum.

ALTHOUGH Jimmy Rayl's 35-foot shot in the final second supplied the margin of victory, the Wildcats actually emerged victorious because of their unbelievable showing at the foul line. The Kellys outscored Kokomo, 70-68, from the field, but the North Central Conference boys topped the home forces, 24-20, at the charity stripe.

Both teams connected with uncanny accuracy, the Archers taking 67 shots and the Wildcats 69, for percentages of .522 and .493, respectively, tremendous shooting in anyone's estimation. However, Joe Platt's 'Cats were really deadly on free throws, where they missed only four of 28 shots, an .857 percentage. South turned in what would normally be considered a fine job, missing eight of 28 for .714. Rayl's performance in this department was particularly noteworthy, as he sank 18 gift tosses while missing only one.

JUNIOR CENTER Dave Barrett, hampered by a sore throat and temperature, nevertheless, courageously started at his usual post. However, he did not play his usual game, as was obvious in his first moments of play. The Archers were cold, and Kokomo ran up a 6-0 lead before Tom Bolyard, ending his high school career with one of his finest performances, hit for a three-point play at 5:55.

The Green missed several other shots, and almost before anyone knew it, the Wildcats led, 10-3. The early pace set by Kokomo forced the Green to play their type of running offensive game, contrary to their own usual style of play.

Led by Mike Simmons and Bolyard, South fought back, and Bolyard tied it, 13-13, at 3:00. Each team continued to snipe away, trading baskets, and the Cats led, 22-20, at the quarter stop. Bolyard and Simmons, who also closed out his career in grand style, accounted for the bulk of the Archer scoring with 11 and seven, respectively. Rayl was Kokomo's big gun with 10.

IN THE SECOND stanza the game of run and shoot continued at a torrid pace. Seriously hampered by woefully weak rebounding while Barrett sat on the bench, the Green gradually began to give ground. Without Barrett's assistance undrneath the basket, Bolyard was bottled up by the Wildcats, and he scored only two points, coming on the final shot of the quarter. Most of the slack was taken up by Nick Demetre, who poured in 12 points, and Bill Meyer, who contributed six timely counters, five of them in a row.

Ken Howe also played well while Barrett was out, and he added four points. Rayl added another nine points for the Wildcats, but Roger Thurston and Ed Darden, with 10 and eight points coming at opportune times when they seemed to be completely covered by Kelly defenders, hurt the Green just as much. The count at the half was 51-46, Kokomo.

South was still missing Barrett very much under the boards, as centers Mike Astell, 6-5, and Bob Ferguson, 6-7 sophomore, controlled the rebounding almost at will. The Kellys ran into one of their occasional third-period slumps, and Kokomo, not breaking stride, outscored them, 26-18.

The Archers kept plugging away, but they were unable to get as many shots because they could not control the boards. The closest that they managed to draw the score was three points, three times at the beginning of the quarter. Bolyard came alive again with seven and each of the other four boys seeing action in the period pitched in with a few, led by Meyer's four.

Rayl continued to dominate Kokomo scoring with 10, but Thurston hit four more of his deadly fall-away jumpers to remain close behind with eight. Nevertheless, things looked dark for the Archer cause, as the 'Cats led by 13, 77-64.

IN A GAME WITH a team such as Kokomo, being down by 13 seemed almost as good as dead. Coach Don Reichert and his players did not look at it in this way, however. Bolyard and Simmons each hit two, and South trailed, 79-72. Ken Howe picked up his fifth foul, and Reichert sent Barrett back into the lineup. His presence sparked one of the most sensational rallies ever seen by local fans.

Bolyard hit at 4:25 to draw the margin to five, and Barrett followed. Thurston scored for Kokomo, but Simmons hit and "Tremendous Tom" dropped in two. The second, coming at 3:12, finally put South ahead, for the first time in the game, 83-82. Rayl hit four free throws, but Demetre again drew the Kellys close. Bolyard netted a three-point play at 1:41, and Simmons followed with two free throws. This gave South a 90-86 lead with 1:05 remaining.

Thurston scored two charity tosses to make it 90-88, and with 55 seconds to go, Bolyard was fouled. He missed on the first shot of a one-and-one, and Rayl came back with two free throws at 0:46. This knotted the score at 90-all. South played cautiously and drew a foul by Darden on Bolyard. Tom, who had missed only two all afternoon, stepped to the line at 0:17. However, pressure took its toll, and he missed. The Wildcats rebounded and called time. This set up the perfect situation for Rayl, and every person in the huge building expected the pass to go to him.

They were not disappointed, and with 10 seconds left, he seemed to be wasting time in the back court. Suddenly, with about four seconds to go, he started in. As the clock hit the final seconds he took a long 35-foot shot. The high, arching shot swished cleanly through the net as the gun sounded, sinking Archer hopes for any further play.

IN THE FINAL quarter, the Kellys outscored their foes, 26-15. Bolyard tossed in 13, and Simmons was his main aid, scoring eight. Two boys, Rayl and Thurston, accounted for all of Kokomo's points between them, with 11 and four. Rayl topped all scoring with 40, but Bolyard was close behind with 33. Thurston hit 26 for the Wildcats, and Nick Demetre, with 19, and Mike Simmons, with 17, played sterling games for South. Bill Meyer also scored in double figures with 10.

Thought by most experts to be out of the running at the start of the season, the Archers compiled a fine 22-4 overall record before being retired by the Wildcats, this ending a string of 16 consecutive tourney wins. It can truly be said that the South Side Archers bowed out of the 49th state basketball tournament like champions.

THURSTON GETS IT—Roger Thurston, Kokomo forward, pulls down another one of those rebounds in in Saturday's tilt. Furston and teammate Jim Rayl combined to down South Side 92-90 in a thriller. Ken Howe (54) tries to keep from fouling Furston while Tom Bolyard with arm outstretched comes down after trying to grab rebound. Ed Dardeen (44) of Kokomo and Bob Ferguson (55) of the Wildcats join Furston as Bill Meyer (42) dashes under the boards. (Picture courtesy of Journal-Gazette)

Archer Fan Sends Letter To Coach And School

South's courageous band of hardwood aces didn't come home with the Semi-State title but their daring play, sportsmanship, and spirit is most commendable.

One Archer fan was so moved by South's display of raw courage that he took time to send a letter to Coach Don Reichert and the school. It is most appropriate to send his message to you, the fans, for whom it is intended. Its message is most inspirational. Earl Stauffer, an ex-Archer and local resident, sends his message to the school.

Don Reichert, Coach
South Side Archers

Dear Don,

Fort Wayne and this area is very proud of its Archers. Very seldom is a community represented by such a fine group of boys.

Being the State Champion was not an easy thing, but the team and school wore the crown with dignity and honor. This afternoon the team and school lost with the same dignity and honor. No one in this area can be ashamed or make excuses about the outcome. Kokomo, if they win this evening, will represent this Semi-State very capably.

It is very seldom that anyone will see the team poise displayed by the 1958-1959 Archers. This team furnished not only South Side and this community with the greatest team spirit and effort and personal sacrifice, but ■ comeback spirit. This spirit will carry throughout their lives and will be traced back to your fine effort as coach.

Every one of the lads on the squad deserves the plaudits from everyone. The team was built quite understandably around the peerless Tom Bolyard, but the rest of the squad contributed the long hours of practice to make Tom the standout which he was. The inspiration of Nick Demetre, Mike Simmons, Bill Meyer, Dave Barrett, and Kenny Howe, along with Tom, will not soon be forgotten. The hard-working subs deserve praise also.

This team more than any other that I have seen perform for the Green and White and Fort Wayne measures up to the proverb: "When that One Great Scorer comes He does not ask who won or lost, but how the game was played."

Thank you, Don and the South Side Archers, for measuring up to greatness, even in defeat. You are a credit not only to your school and basketball, but to the very essence of the word sportsmanship.

Yours Truly,
Earl D. Stauffer

Tom Bolyard Ends Fabulous Career As Star Forward

Tom "the Bomb" and "Tom Terrific" are two of the many names that floated around Fort Wayne during this past basketball season concerning the city's most outstanding basketball player in history, Tom Bolyard.

Tom's name will be long remembered in Fort Wayne not only because he left marks in the most remembered places, the records, but also because he has shown what a real athlete exemplifies: fair play and the hardest of hard work. Tom has also enhanced his athletic quality by being an all-around athlete, for he is one of the better 880-yard runners in state competition.

His standards extend to every facet of local hardwood competition. His boundful reservoir of marks are as listed below.

He scored 1,420 points during his three-year career as a varsity campaigner to set city and Allen County scoring marks passing such past greats as John Kelso, Sammy Kreigh, and Dwight Newhouser. His 48 points against Gary Froebel set a city single game record which added up to 583 points during the regular season for a record.

Then he tossed in 220 more in tourney play to establish a season record of 803 points. With 125 points in Sectionals, he set a new mark which was topped off by a 39-point single game mark. Then 62 tallies came in the Regional for another record.

Tom is likewise credited with marks for the most points scored in a career excluding tourney action as well as marks for the most field goals scored in one game in city history. His marks are most deserved and it is ■ certainty that his play at South Side will be long remembered.

Upsets Mark Tournaments

Lafayette, Crispus Attuck Knock Out Favorites

Gigantic upsets marked the Semi-State Tournaments throughout Indiana's 49th Annual State Tourny. Two major and two minor turn-abouts riddled the experts' choices for the "final four" at Butler Fieldhouse this Saturday.

The Indianapolis tourney was the scene of the state's most surprising reverse as Indianapolis Attucks upended the top-ranked Muncie Bearcats, 64-62. Attucks had snuck by favored Madison in the first afternoon game in the Capitol City by an 82-80 overtime victory, thereby scoring their first of two upsets for the day.

IN THE LAFAYETTE Semi, Marion Crawley's perenially rugged Lafayette Broncos bumped off East Chicago Washington's second-rated Senators in an afternoon affair, only to lose to Logansport's Berries, 61-56, in the evening final. The Berries had defeated the "people's choice" Bainbridge club by a 76-62 count in the other afternoon match.

The Evansville games turned out as expected as New Albany emerged from the field, beating little Odon, 70-68, in ■ double-overtime thriller. The Southern Conference champs, New Albany's Bulldogs, had defeated Tell City, 57-55, in an afternoon squeaker before Odon's Bulldogs beat Brazil, 78-65 in the second game.

The Fort Wayne tourney, perhaps the most exciting of the six-year history at the Coliseum, had two very exciting matches. Kokomo's North Central Conference Wildcats dethroned Defending State Champ South Side, 92-90, on skinny Jimmy Rayl's 35-foot jump shot with two seconds remaining in the game.

IN THE SECOND affair, Marion's underdog Giants surpassed favored South Bend Central, 61-60, upsetting the Bears to earn a shot at Kokomo. But the 'Cats overpowered the smaller Giants, 66-55, after the latter had led by two points at the half.

So it's Logansport vs. Indianapolis Attucks and New Albany vs. Kokomo in the "Fieldhouse Final" Saturday! These four teams represent the 710 teams who started the tourney three weeks ago.

Designers' Associated To Tour Harvester

A tour through the International Harvester plant is being planned for next Wednesday's meeting of the Designers' Associated Club.

"We hope to gain a more thorough understanding of the manufacture of trucks and how they are designed," said Tom Cooper, program chairman. "The tour is expected to last about an hour, covering the assembly line, machine shop, and designing area of the plant."

The tour was planned by Jim Roth, president, and Marshall Smith. All members are to meet in the Drawing Room at 3:30 p.m. Permit slips will be required.

Don Reichert's Accomplishments Prove He Is Tops As A Coach

By Bob Schmitz

Now that it is all over, South Side fans should look to their coach and pay him a deserving tribute. A search for a greater coach and a grander friend all wrapped together would carry one many miles.

After experiencing several rugged years when he underwent severe criticism in the opening years of his thus far splendid career at South Side, Don Reichert was blessed with some of the most outstanding talent in the school's history. He took a clumsy, seven-foot lad and molded a fine basketball team around him that captured the coveted State Crown.

Then this season Don took a group of inexperienced young boys, surprised everyone, including himself, by producing one of the finest teams in South Side history.

NO OPPOSITION can be produced when it is said that this team was not the greatest but the most gallant hardwood crew in South's 37 years.

But his outstanding accomplishments as a winning coach is far from the limit of this humble coach.

South fans have time after time second-guessed Don and belittled him for his decisions in losing causes.

It happened again after the Archer loss to Kokomo last Saturday afternoon; but Don's decisions in this contest proved what a considerate, responsible person our coach is.

WINNING THE crown meant more to Don this year than winning the State Crown last year. This corner has never known Mr. Reichert to be as exhilerated as he was during the last two weeks; but his exhileration transformed to exasperation in the short time of one minute as his dream team blew the dream of the year in losing a game that would have opened the gate to a second straight State Title.

But concern for his players and true sportsmanship predominated over his desire for vicotry. By not playing Dave Barrett the entire game for fear that his valuable center would be weakened more seriously if allowed to strain his weak physical condition, Reichert thus undoubtedly sacrificed that victory he wanted so bad because he thought first of his boys and second of winning.

It takes not a good coach to do this, but a true man. Last Saturday's action on Reichert's part was not the first time he demonstrated consideration for others.

REMEMBER the pep session last Friday! When Don was hailed by a rousing ovation that lasted almost five minutes, he was so humble that he wished his team would join in that moment of tribute. He is that unselfish that he never takes the credit.

When Don was draped with the net following the win over Central in the Sectionals this year, not a moment was wasted before Don removed the meshes from his shoulders and draped thm on Nick Demetre. Similar unselfish, unegotistic practices featured the Kellys' march to the State Title last year.

Most fans fail to notice those little things that Don does; and hence fail to recognize him as the great guy he is. Knowing him well, this writer can't help but be thrilled about the associations with such a fine man. In winning or losing. Don is still that swell fellow.

The grand guy that should give every Archer fan a lasting high school memory and a great inspiration, will go on through the years putting out good and sensational teams; but no matter how Don's teams perform in the future as far as winning goes, remember that a Reichert team is always a loyal, hard-working bunch of boys, who have great respect and admiration for their coach, which is so important.

Even though Don has done such a splendid coaching job, the first year that Reichert doesn't have the talent to floor a winning combine, the "fans" will be back on his neck. It's a shame.

Sheri DeYoung, Pam Holtzberg, Ruby Martin, Ward Miller, and Joan Novitsky made the best grades in Mr. Weber's Biology 2 period 2 class on a Photo quiz.

A summary test was given by Mr. Weber, and high grades were made in his Biology 2 period 6 class by Dale Smith, Sue Korte, Ron Heathman, and Joan Erck.

The Concert Choir, headed by Mr. Lester Hostetler, will perform at the Plymouth Church on April 12; at the First Church of God, April 19; and the Simpson Methodist Church on April 21.

Ann Kerns and Mary Koehler made 95 per cent or above on a final grammar test given by Miss Peck in her English 8 period 7 class.

come to church Easter sunday

Easter-the Prince of Peace is risen

By John Richardson

An Easter Carol

Spring bursts today,
For Christ is risen and all the earth's at play.
Flash forth, thou sun,
The rain is over and gone, its work is done.
Winter is past,
Sweet spring is come at last, is come at last.
Sing, creatures, sing,
Angels and men and birds, and everything.
by Christina G. Rossetti

As Easter comes once again, much beautiful music floats through the air, which signifies the resurrection of Jesus. It is a joyous time,—a time when flowers and sun and grass push away the snow and cold of winter. Easter is a celebration of eternal peace over suffering and of freedom from sin.

During lenten services the hymn, "Forty Days and Forty Nights," is often used. On Palm Sunday you hear "The Psalms," "Glory, Honor, and Laud," and "Jerusalem" to tell of Christ's triumphant entry into the city of Jerusalem. At Maundy Thursday services, you may hear "The Old Rugged Cross;" and on Good Friday, you hear "When I Survey the Wondrous Cross."

THEN COMES EASTER morn with the many sunrise services and churches overflowing and all resounding with beautiful anthems and cantatas. No other single occasion in the life of Christ has inspired more joyous and beautiful music than Easter. For the most part this music is joyous and triumphant in character because of the new hope of victory by Christ's resurrection that has been brought into the hearts and lives of people everywhere.

In the song, "Lift Your Glad Voices," are found notes of joy and gladness. The words were composed by Henry Ware, Jr. and sung to the tune, "Resurrection", composed by John Edgar Gould. Each verse sings forth the glad note of triumphant joy which all people find in their hearts at this time of year.

Lift your voices in triumph on high,
For Jesus hath risen, and man shall not die;
Vain were the terrors that gathered around Him,
And short the dominion of death and the grave.

One of the oldest hymns is "The Day of Resurrection" whose authorship is given to John of Damascus of the eighth century. It may be sung to either of the two old tunes, "Lancashire" composed in 1836 by Henry Smart or "Rotterdam" by Berthold Tours in 1875. In this great hymn the author describes the resurrection of Jesus from the dead as the passover of gladness. People who only attend church at Easter-time seem to be moved and reaffirm their faith in God and in His triumphant Son. The words of this hymn help us to grow in fellowship with the saints of all ages.

The day of resurrection,
Earth, tell it out abroad;
The passover of gladness,
The passover of God.
From death to life eternal,
From this world to the sky,
Our Christ hath brought us over
With hymns of victory.

* * *

"CHRIST THE LORD IS RISEN TODAY" is another grand old Easter hymn composed by Charles Wesley in 1739. It is a great hymn whose verses move to a triumphant climax and should always be sung in its entirety. The first stanza rejoices in a risen Christ; the second, in a living King; the third, in the fact that the redeeming love of God has in Christ's resurrection accomplished its work; and the last verse stresses the joy and fellowship everywhere of those who exalt Christ in their daily lives. This hymn is generally sung to a tune composed by J. Worgan in 1708 using the "Alleluia" as a recurring refrain.

Christ the Lord is risen today, Alleluia!
Sons of men and angels say Alleluia!
Raise your joys and triumphs high; Alleluia!
Sing, ye heavens, and earth reply, Alleluia!
Soar we now where Christ has led; Alleluia!
Following our exalted Head; Alleluia!
Made like Him, like Him we rise; Alleluia!
Ours the cross, the grave, the skies. Alleluia!

A more recent Easter hymn, "Christ Arose," written by Robert Lowry in 1916 is distinctly challenging because of the contrast between the factual statements in the brief verses and the note of victory in the refrain. This hymn of affirmation has a great challenge for youth. The rapid tempo of the refrain following the slower movements of the verses gives one a feeling of joy in his heart.

Low in the grave he lay—
Jesus, my Savior!
Waiting the coming day—
Jesus my Lord!
Up from the grave He arose,
With a mighty triumph o'er His foes;
He arose a Victor from the dark domain,
And He lives forever with His saints to reign.
He arose! He arose! Hallelujah! Christ arose! Amen.

The joyous songs of Easter are never old, and in each you can find a deep meaning. Their singing will give you a refreshed spirit and strengthen your faith and hope in all things that are right. And as we come to this joyous Easter season, may all our hearts be thankful and glad with this everlasting faith and hope.

Along with all these joyous Easter songs, there is much in true Easter poetry. It is an expression of the writer's faith in the supremacy of the eternal. The poet writes beautiful lines about the lilies of the field and the birds of the air, but he kindles our imagination and moves our hearts by telling of the things in which he believes. Richard Le Galliene expresses his affirmations in his appealing "Easter Hymn."

No dream of faith, no seed of love,
No lonely action nobly done,
But is as stable as the sun,
And fed and watered from above;
From neither base to starry cope
Nature's two laws are Faith and Hope.

* * *

CLOSELY ALLIED WITH POEMS of faith are Easter poems of healing. Poets have written of healing to be found in the melody of bells, the glory of velvet skies studded with silver, and the powerful drive of ships at sea. You must appreciate harmony, beauty, and movement. Your ears are quickened to catch overtones, your eyes are enlightened to the gold in pictures, and your imagination is sharpened to perceive the rhythm and progress of the soul. Here an unknown author hears the rising of the Lord told by happy bells.

Ye happy bells of Easter Day!
Ring! ring! your joy
Through earth and sky,
Ye ring a glorious word—
The notes that swell in gladness tell,
The rising of the Lord.

Nature supplies many Easter themes to poets who draw parallels between lovely flowers and spiritual truths. Jonquils, lilies, snowdrops, butterflies, holly, and grain are recognized as symbols of beaury and have a deep meaning for the Easter poet. He looks beyond the superficial appearance of these things of nature and finds hints of the eternal purpose of God. The trumpet-shaped flower of the jonquil suggests the Easter victory to Margaret Deland.

Blow, golden trumpets, sweet and clear,
Blow soft upon the perfumed air;
Bid the sad earth to join your song,
To Christ does victory belong!

All through the ages the Risen Christ has been celebrated in song and story. The poets all over the world find their hearts burning within them, and they have expressed aspirations that never die. Isaac Watts wrote this typical eighteenth-century Easter verse.

Christ the Lord is risen!
Rejoice, ye heavens! let every star
Shine with new glories round the sky!

THE HIGH-SELLING homeroom, on the basis of the number of tickets sold per student, will receive 10-cent candy bars for each person in the room. The second highest will be given five-cent candy bars for each member. The two top individual salesmen will receive two reserved tickets and two general admission tickets, respectively.

The senior play cast and class officers will compete in one contest for individual prizes, and the rest of the seniors will compete for homeroom and individual prizes.

Easter Bunny Gets Assist From J.R.C.

Easter baskets for the West Side Neighborhood Center were completed at the March 25 meeting of Junior Red Cross. Candy, cookies, chocolate rabbits, and eggs were placed in the baskets. They will be taken over to West Side in time for the "Easter Bunny" to deliver them Eastern morn.

Beth Golden, president, wishes to remind all members that they should bring a reliable written excuse for the meetings which they miss, or they will be counted as unexcused. Three unexcused absences will result in his or her withdrawal from Junior Red Cross. Beth wishes also to remind all members to record their points and place them in the point box so they can be tabulated by the sergeant-at-arms.

Serving as this semester's officers are Beth Golden, president; Carol Jekel, vice-president; Susie Getty, secretary; Marilyn Budd, treasurer; Brenda Harper, sergeant-at-arms; Susie Hoard, publicity chairman; and Judy Cramer, food chairman.

36 To Hear Talk, Work On Projects

A chalk-talk will be given by Pam Olson and Nancy Vanderford at the 36 Workshop meeting tonight. While a story satirizing the brains and brawn commonly seen around South Side is being read, the girls will draw cartoon pictures to illustrate the characters.

After the meeting, club members will divide into several groups in order to work on different projects. Those who are working on the Easter Assembly will go to the gym, those working on the talent show to the meeting of the committee they are on. Locations of these smaller meetings will be announced at the meeting.

Lincoln, A Pillar Of Strength, Should Be Remembered Always

By Susie Hoard

From humble home and hearth, one man rose to his call. From one man came one of the nation's greatest documents. From one proclamation came the thought of freedom for thousands of some of God's children. From Thomas Lincoln and Nancy Hanks came—"honest Abe". . . .

From Abe's face one cannot help but see the great love shining from his eyes. From his firm-set mouth, one can easily disregard the lines, and see the warmth of understanding there. From his angular and crude features, one would never guess what lay inside; unless one was looking for something other than physical beauty.

'Tis true, Abe was not handsome in a romantic sort of way, but to me he was more than good-looking. He was more than honest, and more than the sixteenth President of the United States. My conception of Abraham Lincoln is more than all of this for Abe is my ideal.

No other mortal stands out so vividly in my mind as having lived totally and so entirely for our country. To me no other President has sacrificed his unselfish life for his fellowmen in the humble way Abe did. Humility and love were Abe's by-words. Strength and honor were his stepingstones to victory.

Abe is a pillar never to be knocked down. Part of his remains are buried in Springfield, Ill. The other part can never be . . . for they cannot be grasped by the hand. But they can be felt by the heart and sensed by the mind. Abraham Lincoln died on April 15, leaving behind him a life to be proud of, a life full of love, ingenuity, fortitude, and endeavor. Abe's standards were nothing but the very best, the very highest. The reason for this was because Abe worked with someone who was nothing but the best, the highest, the unsurpassed.

Abraham Lincoln walked with God through every trial, temptation, and tribulation which he encountered. And because of this Abe left behind him a trail never to be erased, never to be forgotten, always to be treasured and remembered. This is a trail that you and I can follow. We needn't be Presidents, or produce Emancipation Proclamations, but we can live up to Abraham Lincoln in other ways. We can think of others before ourselves. We can replace selfishness with sacrifice, hate with humility, folly with faith and forgiveness.

This is what Abe's life was . . . in a few short words. A life of dedication to us. Are you going to follow his footsteps, and return something to him?

P.S. from PENNY

By Penny Hunt

South Side High School
March 26, 1959

Hi!

Good morning, all you happy, happy people! All ready for another really big day? Let's see a great big smile! Now for the announcement you've all been waiting for: Due to circumstances beyond our control, Spring Vacation for the school year 1959 will be eliminated—Hey, where are those bright smiles? I'll bet you'd really laugh if that were true.

Sue Perry has changed the familiar nursery rhyme, "Mary had a little lamb," to "Susan had a little dog," and it certainly did follow her to school one day. Sue was quite surprised to see her friendly pup running the ramps like a professional. After a little persuasion, the dog retreated to its natural habitat, but only after causing a small commotion by its appearance.

Poor Pam Holtzberg and Kathy Sosinski, they don't have any friends! Left completely alone out at the Coliseum following the Semi-State game, they decided to take matters into their own hands, or rather feet. Yes, that's just what they did, they walked home. According to the girls, it was a mere one and a half hour trek. They were offered plenty of rides, but once they started they caught the hiking fever. When they finally dragged home, they were cold and tired, but still said they'd do it again.

ISN'T THERE AN old proverb something like "He who laughs last, laughs best?" Well, anyway, I go along with the idea. When South unfortunately experienced a little sewer trouble causing the dismissal of school, some of my friends and I decided to play a very funny joke. We rushed over to Katie Rastetter's and Merle Baldwin's, who had been absent, and gave them some wild story about us all being expelled.

We were such terribly fine actresses that we thoroughly convinced them that they also were expelled. We left feeling very smug and clever. I guess they believed us until they called up some other kids. Anyway, the next day we asked them how they ever got back into school without their parents.

Much to our surprise they said they had brought their parents, and had given our names as reference for the story. About that time we didn't think the joke was so funny, but they finally confessed that they just wanted to pay us back. I guess that's what we get, but I mean, did they have to scare us so much?

AT THE CLOSE of the Kokomo-South Side game I'll bet a few radio listeners were quite surprised to hear Bob Schmitz mutter his feelings on the subject when a radio broadcaster accidentally stuck his microphone in Bob's face.

Can you believe that the United States now has 49 states and another one on the way? I'll bet lots of people would miss it on a test. Nothing but 48 seems right.

Barb Wallace has found one way to ease the traffic situation—get off the road. On her way to the Sectionals, Barb noticed a very long line of traffic, but just thought that somebody was turning left at the next stoplight. So she pulled in behind the last car and waited, and waited, and waited, but wasn't able to move at all.

She couldn't figure it out; the other lane of cars was moving along smoothly, only her lane was at a halt. Then she happened to glance at the cars ahead of her. No wonder she wasn't getting anywhere—she was in the parking lane.

Well, in memory of that newest newcomer to statehood, Hawaii, I have but one thing to say—Aloha! (If you know what I mean.)

P.S.—Have a riotous vacation!

Posy's Pointers

By Posy Weilemann

Dear Posy,
I have a big problem. I like a boy from North Side. One of his friends found out that I do, and he told everyone! They have been teasing both of us for weeks. I would still like a date with him. Please tell me what to do.
D. P.

Dear Dale,
Wait a few days (or weeks). By that time his friend will probably have forgotten about teasing you. Maybe he will ask you out then.

Dear Posy,
I'm worried about my best friend. She is a terrific flirt, and is making a fool of herself. Should I tell her about it before it's too late?
Mae

Dear Mae,
I think it depends on what kind of a person your freind is. Some people can't stand to be told about their faults. If this is so, you might lose a friend. If you do decide to tell her, do it in a friendly manner.

Dear Posy,
In one of my classes a very popular girl sits beside me. She always copies off of me during tests. Often she doesn't get her homework done and wants to see my paper. I hate to say anything to the teacher because the girl is well liked, and the teacher probably wouldn't believe me. Is there anything I could do?
Joe

Dear Joe,
Cover your paper! If this goes on much longer, ask the teacher to move you.

Miss Burr's Classes Write Own Epitaphs

Miss Burr's English 4 classes tried an unusual writing project. They wrote their own epitaphs, which are commemorative inscriptions on tombstones. They got their idea from Thomas Jefferson, who wrote his stating the three accomplishments for which he was most glad to be remembered, writing the Declaration of Independent, securing religious freedom for the state of Virginia, and founding the University of Virginia. The South Side youthful aspirants revealed what they considered a worthy life. The variety and range of aims from light to serious are shown in these few given here anonymously.

"A missionary in India, founder of the Sisters of the Poor."

"Sewer of the public, church member, and believer in good."

"Sum quod eris."

"Builder of unity and founder of world wide peace."

"Made people forget their worries for a little while and laugh."

"To strive, to seek, to find, and not to yield."

"A loving wife and mother and a friend to all in need."

"In life uniquely different but in death, lost all individuality to eternity."

"Gave forever from the earth but forever in our hearts."

"Young idealist, with great ambitions and expectations yet to fulfill."

"A person devoted entirely to her students and the teaching of the Latin language."

"Star third baseman for the Milwaukee Braves and holder of the major league homerun record with 75 in 1965."

"He believed in what he tried to be."

Teeny Times

The little girl in the picture
Seems to be weathering a very cold day.
Her homeroom is number four,
And her classification is Senior A.

Her first period English class
Is with Miss Peck, in Room 60.
While third, Sociology 1,
Is with Mr. Peirce, you see.

To go back to even periods,
Fourth she works in 91;
While her second period
Is spent in Art, Room 61.

Speech is during sixth period,
Before that choir is on her slate.
Speech 1 is in Room 190,
Concert choir, of course, is in 38.

Service is the last thing
For the girl who now is not so wee,
The room she works in, 91,
Her service teacher, Mr. Heine.

If you want to know her name,
And I'm sure you may,
Look in this paper's ads
And see what they do say.

Lincoln Represents Freedom To People All Over The World

By Ellen McCarron

To find out why people in foreign countries know about Abraham Lincoln, I asked my father, a naturalized citizen. He said Lincoln is known for his stand on slavery. His stand, that everyone is born equal, means that slavery, not only the ownership of one man by another, but being chained to a station of life by being born into it, is wrong.

To the people of the world who could not and still cannot rise above the standards of their respective social classes, Lincoln's belief as expressed in the immortal words of his Gettysburg Address—"this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom; and . . . government of the people, by the people, and for the people shall not perish from the earth"—is like a beam of hope.

No matter whether a person may be affected by the caste system of India, the racial discrimination against Caucasians in Australia, our own racial problem, or is from the "wrong side of the tracks," Lincoln is a symbol of dedication to the cause of equality. As he expressed it in his address—"It is for us, the living, rather to be dedicated here to the unfinished work which they who fought here have thus far so nobly advanced."

Kelly Pupils Divulge Desired Characters

"If I could only be . . . " How many times we probably made this statement when we were younger. Then our wishes were filled with thoughts of the Lone Ranger, Davy Crockett, or the first person to reach the moon. Now it's more apt to be Brigette Bardot, the captain of the football team (or his steady), or someone else's child. This writer delved into the subconscious desires of our classmates and this is the result.

Pam Thomas: Zorro, so I could ride through the night on a big white horse.

Pat Parks: Dina Merrill, so I could give money away and eat free cereal.

Craig Bradley: I wish I was Stan Hoover so I could have an Alfred E. Neuman T-shirt.

Linda LeVay: A rocket, so I could go places.

Phil Norman: R. Nelson Snider, so I could have the pleasure of dismissing school.

Linda Tomson: A basketball referee, so I could wear a black and white striped shirt, run up and down the floor madly, and blow my little whistle anytime I wanted to. Oh yes, I like those cute little shoes they wear too.

Marcia Mosel: Any member of the second string, so I could get a front row seat without having to wait in line for six hours.

Sandy Landree: A team that participated in Sectionals, so I could have a good seat at state.

Linda Wightman: A bird, so I could go south for the winter.

Carol Bass: Bart Maverick, so I could be near Bret (James Garner) Maverick.

Vallory Eckrote: Secretary of the Treasury, so I could have access to all that green stuff.

Beth Golden: I'd like to be one of those people who can get by on one or two hours sleep a night and still keep looking fresh as a daisy. Sleeping wastes so much time and I could get much more done if I didn't have to (sleep, that is).

Linda Benton: I'm happy being me for some strange reason.

Linda Hard: A champion marble player so I could have a letter jacket too.

Carole Fischer: Alfred E. Neuman so everybody would know me.

Archer Students Take An Interest In Pertinent News

Do teenagers of today take an interest in the news that is happening every day? Are they interested in the vital happenings that may affect their lives or do they pay little attention to this news. Many adults may think that teenagers listen only to disc jockey shows on the radio or watch western and mystery programs on television.

Below, some Archers prove that this assumption is untrue. When asked, "Do you read the editorial pages?," "Do you read views of leading columnists?," and "Do you listen to radio and TV programs connected with the news of today?" they responded:

Marian McCallister: I read the editorials and listen to news programs often because it helps me to understand our nation.

Marcia Easton: I read the editorial pages and views of leading columnists to get different ideas on national and international affairs.

Dick Erb: I read the editorials whenever time permits, but rely mainly on mediums such as TV and radio. After reading editorials by several leading columnists, I try to form an unbiased, fair opinion.

Steve Adair: I try to read the paper and listen to news as often as possible in order to gain a better understanding of our nation and world.

Beth Golden: I don't get to read the editorial pages too often, but I do listen to news programs on the radio so I at least know what's going on in the world. I know that my knowledge of national and local affairs is very limited and I hope to correct this in the future.

Barb Wallace: I try to read as many current events and watch as many newscasts as time permits. It's amazing how much information you can pick up by just glancing at the headlines.

Janet Lawry: I try to read the papers (for current events tests) and just to be informed, but I seldom have time for more than Abby Van Buren. I listen to news on radio and TV a lot because I can do other things at the same time.

Julie Carr: Yes, I do, whenever I can find the time. I was really surprised at how much I could learn about things which I hadn't paid too much attention to before.

Margie Mercer: I try to read as many editorials as I can. I read a lot of magazine articles, etc., to keep well informed on what is going on in our world.

Patty Brooke: I try to read as many as I possibly can. I have a little trouble understanding this subject and reading and listening to them helps me to understand it much better.

Fran Hoffman: Yes, I read them whenever I get a chance which isn't too often, but I find it's interesting and helps me to understand problems of the day.

Bob Schmitz: A majority of the time I fail to read the editorial page unless it has a subject that is of interest to me such as the Berlin crisis, etc., but most of the time the editorial cartoon is first to get my attention on that page. I enjoy listening to the national press panels and watch them regularly on Sunday afternoon.

Sunny Kaade: Whenever I have time I enjoy reading the editorial pages. Also I like to listen to some of the TV programs. I think it is a marvelous opportunity to be able to do these things. It helps me to understand the world of today.

Geri Geller: The editorial page of the paper has presented more interest to me now than it has in the past. This is due, perhaps, to emphasis put on editorials in history classes. However, TV seems to be the greatest influence as far as current events are concerned. Columnists in newspapers are sometimes interesting, but they tend to be too one-sided, whereas I want an all-over view of world affairs.

Words, As Well As Actions, Display Various Personalities

You've often heard the familiar saying, "Actions speak louder than words," and in many cases they DO. However, there are many times when what you say and how you say it makes you as a person just as much as your actions do. Your speech is basic to your personality; without a cultivated tongue you are definitely lacking something, and it doesn't take others long to find out what it is.

One of the most controversial forms of speech is slang. Many people object to it because they think it is crude, but etiquette tells us that it is proper if it is used moderately. When it is used in small doses, slang is often more forceful than conventional speech, but otherwise completely defeats the purpose. The extent to which you use slang should depend upon to whom you are talking. For instance, you would be more conventional when talking to your Great-Aunt Tillie than if you were conversing with a friend of your own age.

There are many things you can do to improve your speech. If you aren't sure of the pronunciation of a word, the dictionary is the most reliable source in existence. Try to cultivate your speech. Some forms such as excuse me, rather than pardon me, are more desirable.

Strive for simple statements because they are always preferable to more elaborate, drawn-out statements. Above all, remember that the best speaker is one who knows how to listen and does listen.

Kelly Couples Assist In Firing Of Experimental Bunny Rocket

Good evening, everyone, or is it afternoon? Oh, I'm so mixed up. A horrible thing is going on right now. It seems that the U.S. Air Force has decided to send the Easter Bunny up in one of those new-fangled rockets of theirs. It is simply horrible.

You should see all the young'uns standing around crying and a goin' like they're crazy. I don't blame them much. I kind of like the ole chap myself. Here come a couple of intelligent-looking people. Oh, I see that it is Margo Martindale and Mike Simmons. I'll ask them if they know anything about this horrible experiment. Hi there, folks. Folks! Folks! Well, I guess they're too upset to say much. Let's try to find someone else. Yes, I see Tom Hertel and Carol Haag over near the rocket. Would you like to say a few words to our listening audience?

"He was such a (sob) good bunny!" Yes, I know, but could you tell us anything about the experiment? "He was (sob) such a (sob) good bunny!" Well, I see we aren't going to get much out of them either. I'm awfully sorry, folks, but it seems impossible to find any information. Oh, here come Dave Hickman and his secretary, Judy Cramer. Lieutenant, could you fill us in on the details?

"Well, we have decided to kill two birds with one stone. We want to see if a human bunny will be able to withstand the atmospheric changes, and also to deliver Easter eggs to all the moon children."

THANK YOU, Lieutenant. Well, folks, now you know why the Air Force is doing this cruel thing. There must be some way to stop them before they break the heart of every child in the United States. There seems to be some commotion over near the rocket. Let's go see.

Well, for Pete's sake, it seems that Stan Hoover and John Slick have gotten into a fight over who will get to hand the Easter Bunny a basket of eggs just before he climbs aboard the rocket. Sarah Hindman and Posy Weilemann are trying to stop them, but don't seem to be getting any place. Now, come on fellas, let's be a little more reasonable about the whole thing. That's better. Let's talk to a few others around here. Bill Moore, would you and Ruth Dill come over here for just a moment? What do you think the solution to the problem is?

"Well, I believe in letting everyone think for themselves." That sounds vaguely familiar. But anyway, let's talk to someone who knows a little more about the rocket. Here comes Professor Tom White and his secretary, Janice Dedman. Professor, could you give us a detailed report on the structure of the rocket?

"THE EXTERNAL structure of the rocket is made of the finest quality of woven spider webs. These webs are woven by our own home-grown spiders, Dave Roderick and Merle Baldwin, and Judy Koontz and George Earl (N.S.). Our only problem is that we are not sure that these webs will be able to hold back the cosmic rays."

That is a real problem, Professor . . . oh, my goodness, the children are starting a rebellion since they now know that there is some danger in this experiment. They have begun to throw eggs at the rocket. Everybody duck. Let it never be said that QVSZ-TV does not give you on the scene reports. We have just received the names of the leaders of this rebellion. They are Lawson White and Judy Chapman, Sharon Ruhl and Bob Oeschle, Neil Mieras and Sharon Longenberger, and Dave Crapo and Cindy Miller. Things are beginning to quiet down now. But wait! Professor, why do you look so happy?

"You wouldn't believe it, but the rioters have solved our problem. Since they covered the ship with egg shells, the cosmic rays won't be able to penetrate them. So the difference egg shells make?"

Yes, Professor, we see what you mean. Well, folks, (I know I use this phrase frequently, but you see, I have a limited vocabulary) I guess there is no way to stop them now. Here comes Mr. Robbit approaching the rocket. The crowd has gone wild. Everyone has a going-away present for him. Nick Arnold and Edee White give him a huge basket of eggs. Towels, wash claths, food, assortments of carrots, clothes, toothbrushes, candles, rabbit feet, and many other articles soon fill the rocket.

THE DOOR IS sealed shut. Dick Johnson and Sally Dill prepare the instruments for firing. 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 Fire! Something seems to have happened. The rocket won't leave the ground. It seems that there are too many things in the ship, and it is too weighed down. Well, I guess the experiment will be called off.

The door has been unsealed. The noise is terrific. Everyone is so happy that they are sobbing violently. It is so (sob) touching. These poor children thought that they (sob) were going to (sob) lose their beloved rabbit. I (sob) don't think (sob) that (sob) I can (sob) take much (sob) more. And (sob) n-n-now (sob) b-b-back t-to (sob) our (sob) s-s-station. (sob, sob).

Meaning Of Easter Overcomes Obstacles

Each year at this time, the clothing departments in the United States are teeming with people who are buying new "get ups" to wear Easter Sunday. To most people the Easter season seems to be a time when the old, worn out, winter wardrobe is put away and a fresh, new spring wardrobe is brought out. This is all well and good, but Easter means much more than this.

We don't celebrate Easter just to show off our new clothes, but we celebrate it because we want to show God that we remember the wonderful sacrifice he made by sending his son to die on the cross; Jesus then showing His power by rising from the tomb.

When Jesus rose from the tomb, he was overcoming His gravest enemy, Death. By doing this He demonstrated to mankind His power and he He gave the world new hope for a better tomorrow.

We, today, can overcome obstacles if we only remember that Christ defeated Death. To strive for perfection is to overcome obstacles that would mar our path such as greed, jealousy, and pride. When we master our personal self which is highly comprised of petty things, then we are exercising the same power which enabled Christ to rise above all limitations.

Easter is also symbolic of Spring when the earth is refurnished and is transformed into beauty. We, too, can blossom and be transformed, if we take the meaning of Easter seriously. By looking back on the way we have lived and looking at our hearts to clean out the dirt and pestilence that has gathered there, each one of us can become a new person.

Hope arises from Easter, too. Today the world is filled with many depressing events. Internationally as well as locally. Such things as The Berlin crisis, the cold war, and missile race all seem to be barriers in the way of world wide peace. Murders, robberies, gang wars, and kidnappings all seem to point to the downfall of mankind. But, since we are like Christ, we possess the same power to rise from the grave of hate and insolence that entombs the world today.

If we only open our hearts and minds this season to the inspiration of Easter and its true meaning, each one of us will truly blossom into a wonderful person.

So this Easter season will we say, "Nobody can celebrate Easter without a new hat" or "I open my mind and heart to new inspiration from the Easter story?"

Hi-Y To Visit Smokeys On Annual Vacation Trip

SMOKY ADVENTURERS—Planning to spend their Spring Vacation at the Smoky Mountains are members of Hi-Y with their sponsor, Mr. Robert Weber. Left to right, Steve Bash, Byron White, Mr. Weber, Dick Rothberg, Terry Berk, and John Shannahan. (Picture by Thompson)

The Hi-Y Club of South Side is planning its annual Spring Vacation trip to the Great Smoky Mountains State Park this year. The purpose of this trip is to give the members of Hi-Y a more fully developed outlook on our nation's natural scenes and wilderness.

The members will leave on midnight, March 29, and arrive home Friday, April 3.

Those helping to plan and organize the outfitting of the group include Steve Bash and George Pifer. The group has been divided into two main groupings; Mr. Robert Weber is in charge of one and Mr. Richard Sage the other.

The main activities of the trip will center around hiking, climbing to various peaks, and other points of interest.

The first day, Monday, March 30, the group plans to be in and near Cades Cove. The second day they plan to hike to the Chimney Tops, two twin peaks, with a short but rugged climb. The third day the group plans to climb to Mt. LeConte, which is the second biggest peak in the mountains. A hike to Cades Cove and then on to Gregory's Bald, a heath covered mountain with a 360 degree view of the Smoky Mountain range, will be the plans for the fourth day. The last day, Friday, April 3, the campers may have their choice as to what they choose to do.

Good Friday Service Sponsored By UCYM

The United Christian Youth Movement is sponsoring a Good Friday service for all young people of Fort Wayne. The service will be held at St. John's Evangelical and Reformed Church at 2 p.m.

Tom Popp, Larry Leonard, and Ann Beers are participating in the service, along with the Rhythmical Choir from Plymouth Congregational Church.

Hi-Y Members Meet For Easter Service

The members of Hi-Y met Monday night in the Assembly Room of the YMCA for an Easter worship service.

Jack Lehman was in charge of the service. The Rev. Elmer E. Voelkel, D.D., of the Plymouth Congregational Church, was the speaker for the service, with his speech entitled, "Lincoln and His Religion."

The regular business meeting was relatively short, mainly consisting of the appointment of committee heads for Hi-Y's annual Best Girls Banquet. These committee heads will be announced at the next meeting which will be on April 6, after Spring Vacation.

After the regularly scheduled meeting, there was an extended meeting for all the committees and committee heads concerned with the club's trip to the Great Smokey Mountains State Park during Spring Vacation.

South Students Can Receive Education Loan

Act Of Congress Allots Six Million Dollars To Over 1200 Colleges

South Side pupils are able to receive a share of the six million dollars allotted to more than 1,200 colleges and universities by the United States Office of Education for student loans. The student loan program is a part of the National Defense Education Act, passed by Congress in 1958, which allotted $182 million for various educational programs.

A student may borrow a minimum of $1,000 in one fiscal year, and up to a maximum of $5,000 in a five-year period. Loans bear interest at three per cent, beginning one year from the date the student ceases to be a full-time student. No interest is charged during the time not exceeding three years that the borrower is serving as a member of the United States Armed Forces. Principal and interest are to be repaid in 10 equal and annual installments. Full or partial repayment at any time is permitted.

Any student wishing additional information on the student loan program may see Mr. Snider.

The following provisions of the student loan program should be known: loans are arranged by the college or university; student borrowers must be United States Nationals; special consideration is given to students with superior academic backgrounds who want to teach, or students whose background indicates superior capacity or preparation in science, mathematics, engineering, or a modern foreign language; the student must be a full time student on an either graduate or undergraduate basis, or have been accepted; the student must be in good standing, and capable of maintaining that standing.

Other important factors are: The student must show a need to complete his career; financial circumstances of both the applicant and his family must be evaluated; the borrower must sign a promissory note payable to the institution, a co-signer being required if the student is under 21; each borrower must subscribe in writing to an oath or affirmation of his allegiance to the United States of America, and of his readiness to defend its laws and Constitution from all enemies; each borrower must sign an affidavit stating that he does not believe in and is not a member of any organization that believes in and teaches the overthrow of the United States Government by force.

Cancellation of the loan repayment is provided in the event of the death or permanent disability of the borrower, or if the borrower is a full time teacher in a public school. In this case, the loan and interest of the borrower shall be cancelled up to a maximum of 50 per cent, at the rate of 10 per cent of both principal and interest for each academic year of service.

Sophomore Party To Be 'Different'

The Sophomore Party, captioned "Tin Pan Alley" to be April 24 from 8 p.m. to 11:15 p.m. in the boys' gym, is promising to be something "completely different" than any previous Sophomore Party, as have stated Tom Duff, program chairman, and decorating chairman, Evilou North.

"We are trying to steer away from the talent show idea in the program," explained Tom. "We hope that the program will be completely different from any other." The program committee is now engaged in hunting for talent for the program, but it will not be in the form of a talent show.

"Because Tin Pan Alley was originally the birthplace of new songs in New York, the decorations will hinge around a mural of a New York skyline, to be hung at the south end of the gym," Evilou announced. Ann Plogsterth and Ann Erickson are in charge of drawing the mural.

Also working on the backdrop will be Evilou, Sylvia Ehrman, Dennis McBroom, Sally Gelow, Cid Pfeiffer, and Pat Schuler.

Lattice work, covered with pictures of musical instruments, will decorate the walls of the gym. Jan Martindale is in charge of decorating the walls. Working with her are Dave Welch, Cindy Miller, Joan Muller, Susie Slick, Carol Cullen, Leslie Malone, Rick Busch, Gary Gibson, and Sally Capps.

The new cafeteria will be used for refreshments. On the cafe committee are Marie Rohn, chairman; Susie Knight, Mary Meily, Nancy Whipple, and Becky Davis.

In charge of decorating the ceiling in the gym is Sally Mieras. On her committee are Linda Silverman, Brian Ronan, Steve Pohl, Dianne Kimball, Ron Johnson, Dennis Graham, Sally Dill, and Ann Eversman.

Kellys Participate In Music, Art Show

Members of the outgoing choir, art students, Joyce Brittenham, Tom McMahan, and John Richardson are among the South Siders who will make contributions to the fifth "Fine Arts in Miniature" program April 12, at 8 p.m., at Plymouth Congregational Church.

Igor Buketoff, musical director of the Fort Wayne Philharmonic Orchestra, will be featured speaker for the program, which will also include participants from New Haven, Columbia City, North Side, and Plymouth Church.

Come To Church Easter

Saints, while ye sing the heavenly war,
Raise your Redeemer's name on high!
Alleluya, Alleluya.

* * *

MANY SYMBOLS AND CUSTOMS of Easter are around us at this time, and many of them have deep meaning. The pure white lily is a symbol of reverence for Christ and Easter. All over the world white lilies are symbols of purity, light, truth, and honor; and they will be used to decorate every church altar. The lilies will be worn by ladies everywhere on Easter Sunday and will grace many a dinner table. The poem, "The Lily", is very expressive for Easter.

No other flower grows quite as tall
As does the lily Easter Day.
It feels it has a sacred word
That only a tall flower can say.
So tall and fair and set apart
The lily holds her white head high.
She blooms for Christ alone, who rose
To prove that man need never die.

The Easter Egg is another symbol quite prevalent at Easter and is regarded as the emblem of life, of a beginning, and a symbol of creation. It is emblematic of the Resurrection and thought of as a prison from which future life escaped. In 1783 a writer said that the egg at Easter was an emblem of the rising up out of the grave in the same manner as the chick, entombed, as it were in the egg, in due time is brought to life. The custom of coloring the eggs originally was to imitate the new colors of the earth brought on by the coming of spring and the blossoming of the flowers. Some made the eggs as colorful as they could because they would be more holy. Later the eggs were decorated mainly in red to denote the blood of Christ and as a token of rejoicing. Rimsky-Koraskov's Russian Easter Song written in 1877 pictures happy villagers going from door to door.

Easter eggs! Easter eggs! Give to him that begs!
For Christ the Lord is arisen.
Those who love freely give—long and well may they live!
Eastertide comes, and won't be denied.

LIVING FLOWERS were given a place in the church in the fourth century. They gave beauty and fragrance to the service and symbolized the lovely life that emerges from the dead earth. Hope is renewed by the reawakening of the sleeping seeds of earth. By the fifth century the custom of bringing flowers to the church service for festal occasions was well established. And today on Easter in many churches the small children bring flowers and put on a cross of green. Paulinus urges cheerfully the youth to bring flowers.

Sing praises to your God, ye youths, and pay your holy vows,
The floor with many flowers strew, the threshold
bind with boughs;
Let Winter breathe a fragrance forth, like as the purple Spring;
Let the young year, before the time, its floral treasures bring,
And Nature yield, to this Great Day, herself an offering.

Another symbol of Easter is the cross which is used in so many churches. The Cross Triumphant is the only form accepted as symbolic of the resurrection. It is recognized by the balls which are attached to the sharp ends of the crucifix or tree of suffering. It is a beautiful sight as you hear these lovely words resounding.

On a hill far away stood an old rugged cross,
The emblem of suffering and shame;
And I love that old cross where the dearest and best
For a world of lost sinners was slain.

But whatever the songs, poems, or symbols of Easter, it is a day of joy with an appeal to everyone around the world. It comes at the right time to awaken a feeling of gladness in all of us. Winter is over, and the new life of Spring is here. So if Nature can conquer death, how easy it is for us to believe the great story back of Easter Day.

Let us all pause a moment and pray at this Easter Season. As we go forth at this glad Easter time, may we all have a renewal of personal hope and an inner spirit to carry us on to eternal victory and world peace. Amen.

South Finishes Season With 22-5 Overall Mark

Bolyard Breaks Season, All Year Scoring Tallies; Demetre Scores Second

By Jim Carter

Written off the books at the start of the season by most of the authorities as non-contenders, the South Side Archers surprised almost everyone with their amazing success. Following in the tradition of the great squads of the last few years, the Kellys, with many new faces, posted a 16-4 regular season record, and a 22-5 overall mark. South also won their fourth consecutive city crown, the eighth overall, and added a fourth Sectional and Regional title before bowing out of the tournament to Kokomo.

The Green got started in the proper manner by defeating Bluffton, 67-55, at Bluffton. The following week, however, they met a reverse at the hands of well-regarded Southport, 47-42.

The Archers then fought back to sweep the next five games. In the first four they met with little difficulty, as they rolled over city foe Concordia, New Haven, Huntington, and Auburn. The fifth contest was with Michigan City, a ranking power in the wire service polls. On their home floor the South Siders, working well together as a team, came up with a surprising 64-56 win. This victory opened many eyes around the state to the fact that the Archers would not play dead for anyone this year.

IN THEIR NEXT game, nevertheless, the Archers ran up against a determined Terre Haute Gerstmeyer quintet at Terre Haute. Hampered by the temporary loss of center Dave Barrett, South dropped a close 49-48 decision.

The holiday tourney, held at Elkhart this year, provided a further disappointment for Kelly fans. After defeating the well-regarded host team, 66-59, the Green found themselves in a rematch with Gerstmeyer. South got off to a slow start and was never able to catch up, as the Black Cats beat them again, 54-50.

After these setbacks, the Green roared back to win its next six games. Included were wins over Mishawaka, Muncie Burris, Elmhurst, two over North, and an overtime thriller against Central.

The fourth defeat of the season was inflicted by Indianapolis Shortridge. The Naptown boys, rated third in the state at the time, proved to be too classy for the Archers, as they won 62-51.

In their next contest, the South Siders trounced favored Gary Froebel, the conqueror of East Chicago Washington, 90-62. In accumulating this total, a school record, tremendous Tom Bolyard contributed 48 points, a city record.

FINAL VICTORIES over Central, another overtime effort, and Central Catholic, a 60-52 city championship clincher, brought the regular season to a successful close. South compiled a perfect 6-0 record in city play, adding these to their string of victories over city quintets, which, including the Sectional victories over Concordia and Central, now stands at an unequalled 30. They were ranked seventh in the state as they anticipated the opening of the tournament.

In Sectional play the Archers rolled to the championship with four rather easy wins, and they were seriously threatened only by Central in the final. The other victims were Monroeville, Concordia, and Leo. Tom Bolyard poured in 125 points, including a record 39 in the final game as the Kellys won by an average margin of 25 points.

The Regional provided few other thrills, as the Green downed Decatur and Angola by an average of 16 points. Record-busting Bolyard did it again with a new high of 62 for the two games.

Their great showing in the Semi-State against Kokomo rang down the curtain on another highly successful season. The Archers played one of their best games, but the Wildcats were a little better, winning a 92-90 thriller.

THE MAIN FACTOR behind this fine season was a unanimous all-city performer named Bolyard. Big Tom compiled a total of 583 points in the regular season, plus 220 more in the tournament to give him an average of 30 points per game. In three years of varsity competition, he has netted 1,420, for new season and total records. Tom, as everyone knows, is one of the greatest prep cagers ever turned out by South, Fort Wayne, or the whole state.

The second Archer scorer was Nick Demetre, with 208 points in 20 games for a 10.4 average. He added 65 in tourney play for a 273 total. Center Dave Barrett, who has been a very pleasant surprise to everyone, scored 130, fo ra 6.8 average. His 46 tournament counters give him a 176 total. The other starters, Bill Meyer and Mike Simmons, scored 104 and 70 points, for 5.2 and 4.7 averages, respectively. Meyer scored 32 in the tourney for 136. However, Simmons really caught fire, scoring 75 tournament points, for a 145 total.

THE TEAM SCORED a total of 1,251, an average of 62.6 points, to 1,033, an average of 51.7, for the opposition. This was an average difference of 10.9 points. The Kellys did even better offensively in the tournaments, scoring 525 for a 75-point per game average. Meanwhile, they held their opponents to 395, 56.4 points per game, an 18.6 margin.

Filling in for the starters, three boys were particularly outstanding. Ken Howe, Dave Roderick, and Ted Lebrecht scored 54, 48, and 36 points, respectively, to average around three points each. However, Howe played extremely well in the numerous instances when he was called on as number six man. He tossed in 48 tourney tallies for a 102 total. Roderick and Lebrecht finished with 56 and 50 point totals. Hoy McConnell also turned in some fine performances in relief roles. Other boys who saw varsity action were Jim Saylors, Steve Burton, Acie Eldridge, Dave Hickman, Gary Gardner, Dave Anderson, and Bob Bolyard.

Schmitz On Sports

It's been several years since a South Side team has been missing from the large field of teams at the annual season opening Hoosier Relays but Head Coach Bob Gernand has decided to pass up the "Little State" championship meet this year.

* * *

Several of his key boys have been tied up with basketball which had another one of those long runs and the remainder have been hampered by the lack of training facilities since the increased classes has caused the removal of old exercise rooms.

* * *

But track fans shouldn't fret too long for South's annual spring vacation meeting with Elkhart will inaugurate the '59 track campaign on Wednesday. Let's keep that South Side winning spirit that pushed the thinlies through their most successful cinder season in modern times last year.

* * *

Many of those same hands are back and a fine season is on hand for Kelly fans and rookie Track Coach Bob Gernand. Of course the core of that fabulous team of '58 are now ripping cinders at several different universities.

* * *

Danny Howe, hurdler; Richie Miller, pole vaulter; Jim VaChon and Dick Miller, shot-putters; and Carl Stavreti and Larry Miller, a couple of all-around handy-men, have shed their Green and White uniforms; but two of last year's front runners, Tom Bolyard and Joe Roth, 880 and 440 artists, respectively are back for another spring of successes.

* * *

These two, along with Mel Smith and Bill Lentz, are back from the fastest mile relay team in the state last season. So it leaves little imagination for the Archer fans when looking ahead to the State Finals in May.

* * *

About this time in any season this corner goes out on the limb to name the team that will lead the city charges. The column has had fortunate luck so far with prognosticating accuracy (by the way I was wrong about East Chicago Washington, but they got upset to say the least).

* * *

At this stage in the season, North Side would be the logical choice to capture city track domination; but I expect to see South and Central come rolling along near the season's end. It's usually the pattern, because North Side's training period starts prior to its adversaries.

* * *

North had a fine underclassman-studded squad last year, so it's natural that they'll be tough. In addition they picked up one of the area's fine half mile contenders in Tom Stanski, formerly of New Haven; but on paper the Redskins look like they'll have to rely on balance, because Central and South have some of the top individuals.

* * *

Fort Wayne's high jump champ, 880 champ, mile champ, mile relay champs, and 100-yard dash champs are back in the "running."

* * *

Only the latter is a "Redskin." Dale Zumbaugh, North Side's Red streak, will be tearing cinders again and is tagged as the man to beat. Also returning: Tharnell Hollins, Central's high jump champ; Tom Bolyard, South's 880 champ; Steve Hibler Concordia's mile titlist; and South's relay team.

* * *

Only Steve Hibler seems in serious peril of losing his title as Central's freshman flash, Henry King, and North's Pete Poorman might have what it takes to dethrone Steve. Joe Roth of South would be the likely successor to Johnny Kelso in the quarter mile, while the shot-put, pole vault, hurdles, broad jump, and half-mile relay is wide open for new cinder track leaders.

* * *

Not too evade picking the Sectional champs at this early date, my crystal ball sees South Side's strength in the first places, a few points too many for North's balanced Redskin team.

* * *

Kokomo, the squad that has been plaguing the Archer squads during the last year, will be second to invade the South Side Stadium with an attack featuring state broad jump champ, Chuck Fawcett. It was the Wildcats who spoiled South's bid for a Regional track title by tying the Green last year.

* * *

One last comment on the basketball season. The '58-'59 Hoosier prep activity closed out last Saturday in rip-roaring fashion. Never before have Indiana basketball supporters witnessed such a display of offensive might as witnessed by the Attucks, the new State Champs.

* * *

The Attucks' bombardment of the hoops was phenominal. Before the game, this corner was expecting the Attucks to grind down Kokomo and post an easy victory; but they did such a fantastic job that everyone gazed in awe.

* * *

I kept close attention to the rebounding power in expectation of the Attucks' strength off the boards. Expecting the offensive rebounds to make the difference, this corner was waiting for the first offensive rebound for over half the period.

* * *

Then with the score knotted at 5-5 the Attucks grabbed the first one under their own board and pulled away. After that one, there was no stopping the rampage.

* * *

The Tigers kept pulling away as Kokomo hauled down only one offensive rebound in the first half and that was lost out of bounds by Mike Astell. When a team gets only one shot every time they come down court, there is little hope.

* * *

Even Kokomo couldn't hit every shot. In total, the Wildcats reeled in a scant four offensive rebounds and only once in the game were able to get that second shot. The Attucks on the other hand, had numerous opportunities to tap the ball through on the fifth try.

* * *

Central should dominate city action next season with one of the finest shooting teams ever assembled; only a good big man will be missing. C.C., with their tall front line carrying the Irish colors again next season, should be rugged.

Don Reichert is bound to turn out another stellar team centered around Dave Barrett, with Nick Demetre, Ken Howe, and Steve Burton top candidates for their positions.

* * *

All in all it should be another hectic year in Fort Wayne, and one that will produce many thrills. But first through good seasons in track and football. Back the team.

Frosh Crew Starts Track

Coach Don Reichert Has Many Prospects

Well, it's track time again at Archerland, and the freshman crew is readying itself for a successful year. This year's team, under Coach Don Reichert, promises to live up to the fine freshman tradition at South Side.

A whopping number of boys have indicated a strong interest for donning the Green and White spikes. At the second meeting directed by Mr. Reichert, 80 boys were present. From this huge total it is certain that the very capable coach will be able to derive some excellent material.

Last Thursday the freshman hopefuls met to discuss plans for the coming season. The few remaining equipment and medical cards came in and Mr. Reichert outlined the practice schedule. Formal training started Monday and will continue outside, weather permitting. If bad weather comes, practice will be held in the gym.

Workouts will be comparatively short at first while the thinlies are overcoming the soreness in their legs. Practice will continue every day through Spring Vacation. Then Coach Reichert can start "weeding" and making plans for the future.

Because of the large amount of boys' school supplies, equipment is not available. After Spring Vacation, when several "cuts" have been made, the squad may cease using their own equipment.

A general outline of the track events compared to the individual adaptness was given. The freshman events are the same as the varsity events. Mr. Reichert also explained how track will help basketball. However, he stressed that "if a boy doesn't work hard in track, he'll never work hard enough to make the basketball team next fall."

The first-year men's initial meet is against North Side's freshmen on April 8, the Wednesday after Spring Vacation. The Redskins have practiced since last month and will undoubtedly prove very tough for the Reichertmen.

At least one meet a week is scheduled, including the annual Frosh North Side Relays.

On March 12, 60 freshman boys met under Varsity Coach Bob Gernand. Mr. Gernand issued physical and equipment cards, and he announced the probable 1959 schedule. Mr. Reichert was unable to preside because of his basketball duties.

These two meetings have been mainly for organization. Less than two weeks for official training remains until the freshmen meet North. However, Mr. Reichert is definitely a very fine coach and he will be set to guide his team through a perfect season. The question is: Will the team do their part?

27 Hopefuls Begin Tennis

"A total of 27 boys, the largest group ever assembled, have indicated a desire to play tennis for South Side for the 1959 season," reports Mr. Everett Havens, coach.

Formal training has begun this week with uniforms being checked out and a few late physical exam cards coming in. It was hoped to start practice last week, but the flu "bug" kept plans off schedule.

Heading the list of Archer racquet prospects are John Meyerholz and Steve Meyers, returners from last year's varsity squad. Pushing for the other positions on the five-man team will be Bob Haag, Steve Frady, Dave Bosselman, Dave Briggs, and Larry Chen.

* * *

THESE BOYS are, of course, not the only ones contending for varsity roles. Junior hopefuls are Bob Thompson, Jim Jackson, and Larry Levy. Sophomores Jim Griffin and Steve Huffman will also be fighting for a high berth.

Steve Cook with Dick Hirschberg, Tom McMahan, Rich Dobson, and Ron Heathman lead the prospects for the class of "62."

The "racket squad" will undoubtedly suffer at the loss of Dick McGaw, South's number one man since his freshman year, who will be unable to play because of doctor's orders.

COACH HAVENS, in his twelfth season as an Archer mentor, plans to keep all freshman turnouts and about 15 men in all. Five to seven boys will make the varsity squad. Reverse matches against other city schools are often arranged so that the other men receive some match experience.

South will probably be playing the toughest schedule in this area. The schools to be played are known, but the dates are not definite. Probably opening the match will be at C.C. on April 7.

The team will also play North Side's and Central's varsity and reserve squads. Home matches will be played at either Lafayette or McMillen courts.

Mr. Everett Havens

Out of town foes are Peru, Marion, Muncie, Howe Military, Muncie Burris, and Bluffton and Goshen, twice. Goshen and Burris will be tough.

COACH HAVENS is undecided about entering several invitational tourneys.

In past years South has had some excellent squads. Last year's record was 9-3 and in 1957 a 11-1 mark was posted. During the 1954 and 1955 seasons the Archers behind Bill Gerig and Jerry O'Brien won 23 straight matches, topping it off with a victory at the tough Muncie Burris Invitational.

This year's team, however, will not make its mark quite as high as several of the teams of past years. In Coach Havens' mind the squad remains a big question mark. He feels, "We can win over half our matches if the boys improve satisfactorily." Up against a tough schedule, only time will tell.

Field Competition Draws Prospects

When people hear the word "track", they immediately and naturally enough think of running. They, however, do not realize that they are considering only half of the sport and to many, the most exciting half. This much excluded half is the field events.

Included in these events are high jumping, the shot put, pole vaulting, and the broad jump.

The 1959 South Side track team will be represented in these events by a group of capable underclassmen.

Leading the pack in the running broad jump will probably be Tom Bolyard. Behind him Bob Schriefer and Gary Gardner hold good marks from last year. A sophomore, Bob Shine, also is a likely prospect.

In the pole vaulting department Teddy Lebrecht will carry much of the Archers' hopes. He is well backed up by Chris Parrott and Don Eisenacher, sophomores. All of these boys will have to put forth quite an effort to help fill the top spot vacated by Rich Miller at the close of last year.

Jim Dawson, Dan Tritch, and Emmett Bowen, all underclassmen, will in all probability take care of shot putting. Dawson, a sophomore, cleared 42 feet last year to give a lot of promise to Coach Bob Gernand. Bowen and Tritch also should throw about 49 feet.

Last but by no means least, comes the all important high jump. Dave Roderick, a junior, and sophomores Steve Stults and Steve Hargan should all bring home glory for the Archer cause.

The Green appear to be a year away from their peak, but stand a very god chance of upsetting the apple cart for many a foe this season.

Thinly-clads To Meet With Blue Blazers, Wildcats

Kellys To Face Elkhart April 1, Kokomo April 8

In the opening meet of the new track season the South Side cindermen will face the Blue Blazers of Elkhart. The meet will be held at South Side Stadium on Wednesday, April 1.

Elkhart, a state power in track last year, will return with a large, veteran squad to try South's well-regarded Archers.

The Blue Blazers have several good quarter-milers, and they also feature several standout hurdlers who proved their worth last spring. In the mile Elkhart is particularly potent. Two boys, one a lad named Charley Umbarger, State Cross Country Champ, and the other a sophomore standout, give them strength and depth in this department. Umbarger finished second in the mile in his conference last year, and he also placed high in the state cross country finals last fall.

# # #

IN THE FIELD events the Blue Blazers have good potential. Their chief threat is a broad jumper by the name of Ted Jackson. He was one of the best in the state in 1958, setting a conference record of 24 feet. Furthermore, he starred in the dashes for Elkhart, turning in times around 10.1 in the 100.

South's Kellys, second in the state last season, should have their hands full from the start. Returning stars Tom Bolyard in the half mile and Joe Roth in the quarter, as well as others, will be out to continue their previous successes.

Another strong asset for the Elkhart squad is their mile relay team. Talented and experienced, this unit will undoubtedly present top-notch opposition for the crack Archer team, composed of Bolyard, Roth, Bill Lentz, and Mel Smith.

Elkhart is a very worthy foe, and the Archer's opening meet should be an attraction well worth seeing. South, opening defense of its Co-Regional Title, should have their hands full when the Blue Blazers invade. Elkhart will be out to avenge a loss in basketball, and with Jackson and Umbarger are certain to put on a thrilling show slightly forecasting the State Finals.

Archers To Face Kokomo Wildcats

Kokomo's Wildcats will make the return trip to Fort Wayne to battle South Side's new track aggregation in the South Side Stadium on April 8 in hopes of smashing South for the two sport sweep.

The meet is a special grudge battle since the two ties last year for the Regional track championship. In the regular season meet last campaign Kokomo smashed the Kellys; but this year South has the one week advantage, thanks to Kokomo's long basketball stand.

Both teams were hurt by graduation, but salvaged enough material to warrant watching this year.

Kokomo's punch is headed by Chuck Fawcett, defending Indiana broad jump champ. South will be counting on the services of Tom Bolyard, Joe Roth, and its mile relay team to pull them past the Central Conference track titlists.

The 'Cats have more strength in the sprints but South should take up the slack with good showings in the half mile, quarter mile, broad jump, hurdles, and mile relay. Kokomo's cross country team has several lads capable of topping South's top milers and on paper have the overall advantage, even though slight.

A good home-town crowd would help boost the Kellys to avenge last year's defeat and tie. It will be interesting to see the new Archers battle for prominence. In the hurdles, Ken Howe and Win Moses should offer the 'Cats opposition, while Jim Dawson looks like a comer in the shot-put.

Fans would be wise to see this one for two of the top individuals and one of the leading relay teams will be in action when the two grudge foes engage on South's cinders.

Upperclass GAA Meets For Softball

Upperclass GAA softball met for the first time this season last Monday at 3:30 p.m., in the girls' gymnasium. Since a small number of girls attended, temporary teams were made. Team 2 defeated Team 1 with a 14-0 score.

Cami Spaw, former GAA member, and now a visitor from Dayton, O., was made honorary captain of Team 1. The members on her team were Connie Denis, Sandy Dolson, Carol Hofer, Pat Igney, Barbara Markiton, Diana Meyer, and Sue Rousseau.

Shelba Cox was chosen captain of Team 2. Her team members were Valerie Callahan, Michele Flaig, Judy Garrison, Betty Harter, Rita Hessert, Peggy Markin, and Shirley Stahlhut.

Michele Flaig and Judy Garrison were high scorers. Bella Dyson was the umpire, and Mrs. Keegan, sponsor, kept score.

All girls are urged to attend GAA. Freshman GAA, under the direction of Miss Helen Pohlmeyer, meets on Friday. Upperclass meets Monday.

Today is the last day to buy your bowling tickets. You must buy them at the gym office to be able to bowl. The tournament will be Monday, March 30, at 9:30 a.m. at Scott's Recreation Alleys. Last year, Steve Loos won the Lightweight Division by rolling a fine total of 459. Jim Campbell took Middleweight honors with a score of 516, and Steve Gaskill captured Heavyweight honors with a total of 486.

In the annual Night League Champs-Heavyweight Champs game, the Night League Champs emerged victorious. This is the second time in the last five years that the Night League Champs have won. But this year the Night League had many well balanced teams, and many of the games were very close, with many one-point victories, and quite a few overtime games. Steve Gaskill spearheaded the Night Champs to victory by scoring 17 points. Willie Raines was high for the losers with 16.

Spring Show Attracts 1,200

Approximately 1,200 persons attended this year's annual Spring Show, "The Gay Nineties," held last Friday in the gymnasium. The program was under the direction of Mrs. Alice Keegan and Miss Helen Pohlmeyer, and presented by members of the physical education department and special groups.

"Man on the Flying Trapeze" was the first number, put on by the dance classes. They also did the next number, "Take Me Out to the Ball Game." The gym classes came on next with relays. The tumblers then took the spotlight with stunts on the mats.

The dance classes put on the next two numbers, "By the Beautiful Sea" and "Turkey in the Straw." Giant volleyball was played by the gym classes, and then the Modern Dance Group did "An American in Paris."

# # #

A TRAMPOLINE act was presented by the tumblers. "The Band Played On" and "While Strolling Through the Park" were the next two numbers by the dance classes. The gym classes followed with a dance titled, "Little Brown Jug." The finale was presented by all the dance classes to "After the Ball."

Jim Mayle, Eric Culp, and Philip Schulz helped with the lights and sound system. Fred Richardson played the drums for the tumblers, and Mrs. Charlene Young took care of the program-making. Mr. Earl Sterner helped in the box office, and the pianists were Carolyn DeVore and Sharon Possell.

Team Sprinters Begin Practice

Possible Dark Horse In City Track Contest

Although unnoticed because of the "Hoosier Hysteria," some boys have been working hard to continue the great tradition of sprinters at South Side and to add their part to the victory of the team. With four returning men from last year's varsity team, and with some good new prospects, the Kelly sprinters could be the darkhorse in the city in the sprints.

In the "classical" dash, the 100 yards, junior Harry Collins seems to be the man who might lead the Archers across the line. Harry originally ran the quater-mile last year and switched to the dashes at the end of the season. Although he did not place, Collins made a good showing in the Sectionals, and should he improve his start, he could become very good.

Another good prospect is Chuck Clifton, also a junior. Chuck ran both reserve and varsity last year; this year he seems to be able to win his points in any meet.

These boys will receive some very stiff competition from two fast upcoming sophomores for the varsity berths, Tom Duff and Bob Shine. Both had outstandings seasons as freshmen last year, and if they both improve as they have been, they will be real threats to the opponents in the meets.

In the 220 yards Ted and Fred Von-Gunten should take the varsity places this year besides Collins. Both ran on last year's half-mile relay team that won Sectional laurels last year.

The half-mile relay team, which will probably consist of Shine, Ted and Fred Von Gunten, and Collins came up with many a surprise during the season.

"I don't know how good the sprinters are," stated Coach Bob Gernand, "but I'm sure the boys will do their best."

Attucks Seize Championship

The Indianapolis Crispus Attucks annexed their third state championship in five years by giving a 92-54 drubbing to the Kokomo Wildcats last Saturday at the Butler Fieldhouse.

The Tigers, a huge team, overpowered their foes off the boards in both the afternoon and night games. This, coupled with the fact that Kokomo played in the second game and was forced to use all its regulars throughout the contest, gave the Attucks, who incidentally should hit their peak next year, the game and the crown.

In the afternoon contest, the Tigers had a comparatively easy time of it as they rolled to a 76-50 win over a game, but outclassed, Logansport crew. Senior guard Jerry Hazelwood and junior Bobby Edmonds led the scoring barrage by getting 17 and 15 points, respectively.

On the other hand, however, Kokomo ran into all sorts of trouble in the second game against a never-say-die New Albany five. It took a last second "luck" shot by Chuck Fawcett to pull out a 58-56 victory. Sound familiar?

It was all Attucks in the big one as their gargantuan front line permitted the Kokomo players only to watch the proceedings as they put the ball away.

Bobby Edmonds once again led in scoring for Bill Garrett's boys, netting 19 points. The rest of the scoring was quite balanced with four other players getting over 10 points.

To illustrate the Attucks' size, they have two 6-5 starting forwards and a 6-6 center, all underclassmen. As a matter of fact they will lose only two players from the tourney 12 via graduation, those being the two guards, Hazelwood and McIntyre, their leading scorer.

But Kokomo was not completely ground under by the Attucks as their most consistent claim to fame came through once more. Jimmy Rayl established a final four-game scoring mark of 114, erasing the old record shared by two former Indiana greats, Oscar Robertson and John Coalmon.

"Slim Jim" also gained another honor, this one being the Arthur L. Trester Award for mental attitude and scholarship. The IHSAA Board of Control unanimously voted him the honor, a truly great tribute to a truly great player.

GAA Girls Receive Tumbling Points

Mrs. Alice Keegan and Miss Helen Pohlmeyer have announced the girls receiving tumbling points for this season. Each girl earns 25 points each time she attends GAA.

The freshman girls receiving 100 points are Pam Buzzard, Sharon DeBaillie, Ginny Kachiamenis, Janice Nahrwold, and Jenny Slater. Fifteen girls earned 75 points. They are Gretchen Brumm, Susan Burlage, Joy Cossairt, Elaine Edwards, Marcia Evilsizer, Ann Hechler, Sandra Heidbrink, Marjorie Lehman, Marcia Marschand, Sondra McKee, Jane Prill, Florence Stevenson, Sandra Stouder, Sharon Todd, and Sandy Walton.

Other freshman girls who earned 50 points are Bella Dyson, Dayna Harader, Jean Hatfield, Susan Lotz, Joyce Moore, Sandy Petrie, Flora Reynolds, Cynthia Russell, Diana Simmers, Sydney Shimbeckler, Sharon Shuler, Toni Sorenson, and Mary Zimmerman.

Barbara Driver, Sherry Hall, Kay Heemsoth, Louise Jackson, Sue Merchant, Nancy Nichols, and Marvina Van Skyock.

Five sophomore girls each received 50 points. They are Marilyn Dauscher, Connie Dennis, Mickey Flaig, Barbara Markiton, and Shirley Stahlhut.

Jane Glass and Judy Garrison are the only two junior girls making 100 points. Other junior girls and their points are Barbara Burdick, Barbara Nahrwold, 75; Sandy Grodrian, 50; and Peggy Markin, 25 points.

Shelba Cox and Judy Thompson earned 75 points each. Twenty-five points were earned by Pat Igney. All three girls are seniors. Five Advanced Tumblers each earned 100 points. They are Karen Allmandinger, Valerie Callahan, Rita Hessert, Bonnie Lane, and Pat Watson.

Bolyard, Hartman Top Distance Men In First Track Clash

Although the South Side track team's first meet is next Wednesday against Elkhart's Blue Blazers in the South Side Stadium, many of the events are not set with varsity and reserve runners. In the distance events, the half-mile and mile races, there is an array of excellent runners.

Leading the half-mile contenders will be one of the state's top 880 men, Tom Bolyard. Tom was able to break the 2:00 barrier during Sections of last year, but he will be pushed by three other impressive runners in the half mile: sophomore Bob Bolyard, and juniors Gus Wade and Ron Bogan.

The South Side squad will have an able set of veteran milers, led by senior Ed Hartman. Ed, the leading miler on last year's squad, should lead a pack of seasoned four-lappers into the sub 5:40's in hopes of bolstering South's attack in defense of their Sectional title. Backing Ed will be Sam Green, a junior, and Al Rainbolt, a sophomore, two leaders on this year's cross country team. Also, good prospects are Terry Fruchey and Ed Kridler.

Charles "Porky" Holt, assistant coach to Bob Gernand, will lead the distance men through what looks like one of the best seasons in South Side history.

Mile Relay Team Sparks Harriers

South Side appears to have one of its strongest events in the quarter mile this year. The entire mile relay team which won a berth at the state track meet last season is back again this year. This team includes Joe Roth, Mel Smith, Bill Lentz, and Tom Bolyard. Many reserves also show promise as good 440 men.

This combo of three seniors and one junior who together recorded the best mile relay time in the state should be back in Indianapolis by the season's end to battle for the gold medal. By winning second to Johnny Kelso last year, Joe Roth is expected to be the city's leading quarter-miler.

South Side's Tourney Profit Totals $2717.81

South Side's share of the profits of the Sectional Tourney was $2,717.81, as was Central's and North Side's. This money goes into the school's athletic treasury.

"If each of the above schools had received what it actually earned, the amount South received would have been more. For years the total amount of the three schools has been averaged among them," stated Mr. R. Nelson Snider, manager of the tourney.

Together, the 14 schools participating in the tourney made $22,535.53. The following are the totals received by each school: Arcola, $922.40; Elmhurst, $1,658.42; Harlan, $1,011.57; Hoagland, $1,103.23; Huntertown, $1,187.98; Leo, $1,080.18; Monroeville, $1,058.40; New Haven, $1,622.16; Woodburn, $1,096.52; Concordia, $1,391.07; Central Catholic, $2,432.17; North Side, $2,875.90; Central, $2,203.16; and South, $3,074.34. (The above are amounts that South, Central and North would have received if the money hadn't been split equally.)

Several items go into the amount that each school receives. Each school has meal expenses, which totaled $1,008 for all schools. Each school received a pro rata share, or the amount resultings from dividing one half the amount left when all the expenditures have been deducted, by the number of school's participating. This totaled $10,584.83. An enrollment basis share, which also amounted to $10,584.83, was alloted each school.

From the sale of tickets, $28,461.74 was made. $18,825 of this was from selling 6,276 season tickets at $3 apiece. The number of session tickets sold was 12,849. Sold at 75 cents, they pulled in $9,636.75. By sessions, the sale of tickets is as follows: session one, 2,233 tickets—$1,674.75; session two, 2,288 tickets—$1,716; session three, 1,933 tickets—$1,449.75; session four, 2,193 tickets—$1,644.75; session five, 1,530—$1,147.50; and session six, 2,672 tickets—$2,004.

As host school, South received an extra $250. Meals, referees, scorers, timers, help, printing, incidentals, basketballs, policemen, tickets, and Coliseum rental constituted $6,468.39 of the expenditures. Transportation of the teams, costing $360, and a small percentage to the Indiana High School Athletic Association, costing $213.83, made up the rest of the expenitures.

The grand total attendance for all six sessions of the tourney was 50,499. Of these, 37,650 were season ticket holders, and 12,849 bought session tickets.

Adequate Training In General, Vocational Business Is Purpose Of South Side's Business Department

By Janet Terry

Individuality—the ability of a person to realize his own talents and set goals for his life accordingly—is very important to a person in our world today. The departments of South Side realizing this, offer a variety of subjects on each course to help a student develop his talents. For example, the business department at South Side offers many programs from which students may choose.

When asked to tell of the business courses, Mr. E. H. Murch, head of the business department, stated, "No business subjects are offered in the ninth grade. Beginning in the sophomore year all business students are divided into vocational and non-vocational groups. Those in the vocational division will take Bookkeeping 1 and 2; non-vocational students will take Junior Business Training 1 and 2.

"Near the end of the sophomore year, the vocational students are given an opportunity to choose one of four lanes, or branches, which they wish to follow during the junior and senior years. These four lanes are called the General Business, the Merchandising, the Clerical, and the Stenographic branches.

# # #

"STUDENTS' GRADES received while they have been in high school are then checked against these selections, and those having inferior grades are advised not to attempt the more difficult Clerical and Stenographic work.

"I'll explain and briefly outline each of the business branches.

"The General Branch is non-vocational It is designed to provide a background in general business principles which will be valuable to the owner or operator of an individual business enterprise, and it offers information and training for everyday personal business dealings. It also provides for the pupil who does not have special aptitude for, nor interest in, business occupational skills. It should not be assumed, however, that this branch is designed primarily for pupils of low levels of ability.

# # #

"THE MERCHANDISING Branch is vocational. It is designed to prepare students for the activities of merchandising and selling in retail and department stores. This study also prepares students to become intelligent buyers for their own personal needs.

"The Clerical Branch is vocational. It provides preparation for general office occupations requiring such frequently used office skills as machine calculation, bookkeeping, typewriting, filing, and work with figures. High standards of achievement are maintained at all times.

"The Stenographic Branch is strictly vocational and is, of course, designed to prepare students for stenographic positions. Here the subject matter is the most difficult and only pupils who have had better than average grades during the freshman and sophomore years should elect it. On-the-job-requirements set the standard of attainment.

# # #

"SHORTHAND, typewriting, transcription, business English, and secretarial practice are some of the skill subjects in this course.

"Students who graduate on either the Clerical or the Stenographic Branch are well qualified to take positions immediately, as classes are conducted as nearly as possible to conform with actual practice in a business office. Many of the graduates of our business courses are holding excellent positions in the various firms of this and other cities.

"College Preparatory Curriculum students may elect the Stenographic Branch if they can arrange to take all the business subjects outlined for this work during the junior and senior years.

"Typing for personal use may be elected by non-business seniors who wish to learn the fundamentals of touch typing for personal use at home or at college. This is a non-credit class which is offered only in the spring semester."

Mr. Russell Furst, business teacher, when asked what type of person can best benefit from business training, remarked, "Mental ability and interest in business are essential to be successful in business work if one is to perform more than routine tasks. Others may benefit by being better able to manage their own personal business affairs."

# # #

A QUESTION FOREMOST in the minds of people planning a business career is, "What are the present requirements and opportunities for careers in the business field?"

Miss Virginia Ayers, business teacher, stated, "The requirements vary according to the career sought and the beginning is a high school diploma. The opportunities will vary according to the economic climate in which the job-seeker finds himself. At the present, I don't think there is the choice that we had perhaps a year ago."

On the same question, Mr. Furst said, "Offices need workers with shorthand and those without. In general, those wishing stenographic positions should be proficient chiefly in shorthand, typing, and filing. Those without shorthand should be proficient in typing, filing, figures, and simple machine operations. Then others may wish to become salespeople and buyers. Accounting provides a good field for those who like to work with figures."

# # #

MR. MURCH STATED that the main objectives in the Business Department were, "First of all to provide students with a sound general education; second, to provide adequate business training for personal use; and third, to provide specific preparation for stenographic and general office work."

In the end a person is ready to assume his place in the business world. He has found where his talents lie and can follow life's path, striving to attain the goals he has set for himself.

Home Ec. Classes Give Faculty Tea

The Home Economics 4 period 3 class of Miss Barbara Leif gave a faculty tea on St. Patrick's Day in the Home Economics Room, 77. It was their party project for the semester.

The tea started immediately after school and lasted until a little after 4 p.m. The faculty received refreshments of cookies, punch, shamrock vanilla wafers, Mexican wedding cakes, and brownies.

Cheerleaders Begin Tryouts

Cheerleading practices and tryouts for next year's varsity and reserve squad cheerleaders will be held during spring vacation.

Anyone who is presently a freshman, sophomore, or Junior B is invited to the square dance court at Foster Park at 10 p.m. on Tuesday, March 31, and Thursday, April 2, for practice sessions. During these days, the present cheerleaders will be teaching cheers to those perspective cheerleaders. Cheers to be used are "Two Bits," "Little Pep," "Go You Archers," and the song "Go Archers."

On April 7, the first Tuesday after spring vacation, a meeting will be conducted at 3:30 p.m. in Room 114 for all those interested in cheerleading. This meeting must be attended by all who plan to try out for cheerleading. The business will be to give out applications for cheerleading which must be filled out and returned to Mr. Raymond Quance, the sponsor, in Room 46 by Friday, April 10. These applications will explain the methods of electing cheerleaders. Later, those trying out will be divided into several groups with one cheerleader teaching and advising each group.

"Cheerleading is definitely not only for girls," stated present varsity cheerleader Janet Hicks. "We strongly urge more of South Side's male population to try out for cheerleading."

The first elimination will be held around April 21, and the final elimination around May 5. During these eliminations, a panel of as many students as teachers will be judging. The votes will be cast individually for those trying out.

Judge Bloom To Talk Here

Judge Alton Bloom

Judge Alton Bloom will speak on juvenile delinquency and how it is reflected in teenage driving at the March 26 meeting of Safety Council.

The meeting will be held in a first floor room rather than the regular room for the convenience of Judge Bloom.

The safety booklets are being revised by the members of Safety Council. The 12A booklet is currently being worked on. The freshman booklets have been finished and all four sets will be ready for use next fall.

Joan Littlejohn, president, would like to remind all Kellys of their poor driving ratings. With a little diligent effort this record can easily be erased.

Examine Your New Pennies; Lopsided, But Here To Stay

Have you received any new pennies lately? If you have look at them and you will probably find them to be lopsided. The new Lincoln penny is lopsided but it will stay in circulation. It seems that the old penny which has been knocking around for 50 years is just as cockeyed.

Rumors about the new coin have been spreading ever since January, when distribution of the new pennies began. There is talk that it will be withdrawn from distribution because of one or more blunders on the penny, but this is not true. Some people have gathered in coins in quantity believing that they will soon become a collector's item.

# # #

WHEN LELAND HOWARD, director of the mint, was interviewed by a group of teenage reporters, this remark was made by Mr. Howard, "Every such rumor is without foundation and no mistakes were made in design or manufacture."

One side of the new coin, with the profile of Abraham Lincoln, is unchanged from the model introduced in 1909. The "tail" side is brand new and features a reproduction of the Lincoln Memorial.

"Every time we bring out a new coin there are some rumors, and we get a big batch of mail and phone calls," Howard said. "People pay more attention to the new coin and see things that they have never noticed before."

Take the latest rumor — that the coin is lopsided and must be scrapped because it won't stack properly.

Howard fished into his pocket and brought out a new penny. Upon inspection he pointed to the rim saying, "Here the rim is thinner than at any other point. You can see it with the naked eye." The spot he indicated was right below Lincoln's shoulder.

Howard then took an old penny and pointed out the very same thin area in the old penny. It is caused by the heavy press that stamps the coin design onto a flat disc of metal," Howard explained.

# # #

"THE METAL NEEDED to form the head and the shoulder has to come from somewhere," Howard said. "It normally has to come from the closest point—the rim right below the shoulder. Hence, the rim is thinner and more narrow at this point."

Howard said almost every U.S. coin, regardless of denomination, has such a thin spot. He picked up a quarter and examined it. The rim was thinner above the head of Washington.

Does this lopsidedness affect the odds on a heads-or-tails flip? This question was put to Mr. Howard. "I doubt it," he said, "but you can find out by flipping one 1,000 times and keeping track."

The roving reporters tried this and gave up after 200 throws. The count: heads 102, tails 98. Taking an old penny in good condition, they tried again. The count: heads 100; tails 100.

First Addition To South Side Completed In September, 1938

September, 1938, was a big year for South Side, just as 1959 is for us. This was the year in which the first building addition was completed.

The second floor then extended no farther than Mr. Davis' office on one side of the building and Miss Fortney's room on the other.

The Works Progress Administration worked that summer cleaning lockers, washing walls and floors, and cleaning desks. They also removed the latter so that plasterers could remodel the whole building.

The two-way, two-channel radio, which we now call the P.A. system, was installed. It was operated "from a radio room in the new fleet of offices which occupy about half of the new second floor rooms on the west side of the building." This became the General Office.

Included among the improvements were firebricks in the boilers, sidewalks on the east side of the school, new press quarters, trophy cases, and new study halls.

The stairs were constructed at the south end of the building to eliminate ramps. Room 85, which was the home economics quarters, headed by Miss Lucy Mellen, was destroyed to make room for the stairs.

The Greeley Room, which was new then, was moved farther north, to its present position, to make way for the new offices. In this new club room, a stage was added, as well as a kitchenette plus another small room off both ends of the stage.

At that time there were several rumors making the rounds. One was that the new addition would not be completed on time and that the school would either not open or else run on split shifts. This was dispelled when Merle J. Abbett, then superintendent of City Schools, announced that classes would be on a full time schedule. Another rumor was that the building was unsafe.

To this, R. Nelson Snider, responded: "There is absolutely no foundation for the beliefs that the new structure is unsafe, the entire structure having been passed upon by the building commission." If anyone has their doubts about the truth of our chief's words, everyone may feel secure now, for after 20 years, our knowledge factory has not yet collapsed!

The next big construction project was scheduled for December, 1953. The number one item on the agenda was the 31-year-old roof, which has long been the cause of a leakage problem. Many students at the time wondered why the roof was being repaired during the winter months.

Dick McKay, contractor of the job, stated at the time that the asphalt becomes gummy and soft in the summer temperatures and makes removal very difficult. In winter the asphalt becomes hard and brittle and it chips off easily.

Because of the project, the ivy, which has been tradition since 1922, was scheduled to be torn down. Mr. Robert Weber then stated that it would again be covering the walls by 1960.

To help check the leakage, over 200 windows were replaced. All broken and cracked window glass was replaced.

The coping stones, which are located on the uppermost course of the walls of the building and are slanted to facilitate better water drainage, were removed and flashed with copper sheeting.

In 1953, in order to make room for Abbett Junior High School, what used to be Room 170 and its surroundings were partitioned off to make classrooms.

Work To Start On Junior Prom

Junior class president Dick Rothberg has announced the committee heads for the Junior Prom which is to be May 1, here at South Side.

Heading the decorntion committee is Bill Spindler. Serving as co-chairmen are Tom Cooper, Nancy Jones, Sue Sappenfield, and Nick Roembke. Beth Golden is in charge of the programs, Susie Hoard heads the publicity committee and the ticket chairman is Janet Terry. Serving as ticket co-chairmen are Judy Garrison and Terry Berk. The chairman for the poster committee is Karen Brumm.

When asked about the coming prom, Dick Rothberg said, "I would like everyone to know that we will do our best placing everyone on the various committees. Due to the fact that a large number always signs up for the decoration committee, the final committee shall consist of those who attend all the meetings and work the hardest at their assigned tasks. We feel that this is the true test of those who are sincerely interested and those who are not."

ALL JUNIORS ARE reminded that if they did not get their first choice of committee for the Junior Banquet which was held last fall, and this situation is repeated for the committees working on our prom, they can come and see Dick Rothberg, who will do everything he can to see they get first choice.

Announcements of the committees will be made next week. A meeting for decorations will be held in the early part of next week, and all who are interested in working should follow the bulletins carefully for announcements.

A theme and place for the prom has not yet been chosen. At the last general meeting an agreement was made that these two vital decisions should be left up to the various committees because of the advantage of working with a smaller group.

Phila Hurter Wins Stewardess Wings

terites, U.S.A., Archery, and 1500 Club. She has earned her library silver pin, service third pin, and many typing awards. Phila was also Totem co-editor, Times girls sports editor, feature and news writer; and she earned her gold jeweled pin. She was a member of National Honor Society and Quill and Scroll.

Phila was graduated from America's new million dollar stewardess college at Fort Worth, Tex., after a course of training which included such subjects as flight operations, principles of meteorology, navigation, radio techniques, airline schedules, customer relations, as well as beauty culture, posture, and poise.

Before entering stewardess training, Miss Hurter had attended John Robert Powers School and was employed as a secretary.

She is one of the several hundred stewardesses to be employed by American during 1958 and 1959. New routes have made necessary the expansion of American Stewardess Corps.

AFL-CIO Sponsors Friday Night Hops

Free dances for high school students, sponsored by the Central Labor Council of Allen County, the American Federation of Musicians, Local 58, and 903 Realty Corporation, are being conducted every other Friday night at 2329 Winter Street from 8 p.m. to 11 p.m.

Live music is provided courtesy of the Central Labor Council and the Musicians Performance Fund made available by the recording industry. Dance dates are March 20, April 3 and 17, May 1, 15, and 29.

The "Continentals" will be featured on March 20.

Two Kellys Attend Convention; Call JAMCO 'Great Experience'

JAMCO, or Junior Achievement Management Conference, is made up of a select group of 500 Junior Achievers from the midwestern section of the United States. The conference, which was held in Kansas City, has an adequate program for discussing the problems of both large and small scale businesses. Other features include achievement awards and an active social program.

Fort Wayne was represented by 25 achievers. Sunny Kaade, treasurer of the J.A. Bank, and Fran Hoffman, president of Acme-Jac, were Archer members in the delegation.

The thrilling experience of attending JAMCO began for Fran and Sunny early Saturday morning, December 27. After taking a train from Fort Wayne to Chicago, the girls then boarded the special Junior Achiever train for Kansas City. Once in Kansas City, they went immediately to the Hotel Muleback where they stayed. There, both girls had a different roommate. Sunny shared a room with a very nice girl from Chicago while Fran's roommate was from Minnesota. Both girls had high praise for the hotel which they termed "fabulous." "We even had TV in our rooms," said Sunny.

One of the highlights of the conference was an excursion dinner the group took. The dinner, which was to be held at the Country Club Plaza, caused a slight misunderstanding. Assuming from the name it was some sort of a country club, the girls dressed in their best clothes and high heels. They were surprised to find the County Club Plaza is "America's original shopping center" and not the exclusive club they had expected. The shopping center is really a "city within a city" and since the Christmas decorations were still up, seeing it was even more exciting. Both Sunny and Fran commented on the beauty of the center. Later on that evening, dinner was served at the cafeteria of the University of Kansas City.

The many activities of the conference made time fly all too quickly for Fran and Sunny who regretted leaving Kansas City. However, all good things must end, so, on the following Tuesday, they boarded the Rocket Jet, the special train for JAMCO delegates. A slight mixup in train schedules nearly caused the Archer lasses to miss a train. Luckily, they did make proper connections though and arrived safely in Fort Wayne about 9:30 p.m.

When asked about being a delegate to the JAMCO conference, Sunny stated: "Attending it was a great experience for me. I made many new acquaintances and I wish that more achievers could have had the same opportunity that I had. I feel that being in Junior Achievement and having attended JAMCO will help me to further myself in the business world." Fran Hoffman agreed with Sunny by saying, "I'll never forget JAMCO for many reasons. It was a wonderful thing and I'm so grateful I was able to attend. Meeting such wonderful people and having such fun is something I wish every other achievers could experience."

Day At Purdue To Be April 18

All college-bound South Side juniors, their parents, and interested teachers are invited to attend the annual High School Junior Day, Saturday, April 18, at Purdue University.

The students may attend two sessions and learn about career opportunities in two schools of their choice. Such factors as admission fees, requirements, subject matter, and personal qualities needed to be successful in a particular career will be discussed by university counselors in each session.

After registration in the lower lobby of Edward C. Elliott Hall of Music from 8:30-9:30 a.m., the first general session will be held in the hall's auditorium.

The parents and students will then be divided into groups for the first session of career opportunities. They will be given a list of all the opportunities and the places to meet the counselors. Lunch will be served in the residence halls to all visitors.

At 1:45 p.m., the second general session will meet in the music hall and will again divide into groups for the second choice opportunities session.

The background behind the development of this program was under the direction and guidance of high school principals, deans of girls and boys, Purdue staff members, and previous attendants of the program. The objectives of the Junior Day Program are to emphasize the importance of scholastic achievement in high school, the importance of choosing senior subjects to prepare for college, to inform, and to help the students choose careers.

Further information can be obtained by contacting Mr. R. Nelson Snider.

Dave Auman To Show Flower Arrangements

Dave Auman of the Sandpoint Greenhouse will give a demonstration on floral arrangements at the April 8 meeting of the Art Club at 3:45 p.m. in the new cafeteria.

Historians

In Mr. Feasel's General History 2 periods 3, 4, and 6, a grade of A+ was given to Jane Badders, Steve Marshall, Ed Sarver, Bob Shine, Linda Silverman, Dave Welch, Ron Davies, Bob Wenger, and Judy Eisenhut.

Science Will Control Weather

Tornadoes and blizzards may be as much a part of folklore as the Indian rain dance in the world of tomorrow.

Robert Zeleny, science editor of The World Book Encyclopedia, says man may take the weather into his own hands some day, and perhaps even determine the climate he will live in.

Here are some of the ideas that may take the guesswork, and the hazards, out of the weather.

The weatherman of the future will bring rain clouds to drought areas, when nature abandons the farmer. Man-made rain will put out forest fires and replenish water supplies.

Dangerous clouds will be choked off, putting an end to such terrors as tornadoes and hurricanes. Controlled rainfall will prevent floods and soil erosion. And chemical mists will be used to dispel fog over airfields.

Snow may be pink or green, for farmers will sprinkle dye over the ground to absorb sunlight and speed the melting of snow to advance the planting season.

Rain-makers have been in business since 1946, when a scientist breathed into a freezer, added dry ice to chill the water vapor, and created a miniature snowstorm.

Scientists now can produce rain and snow, and even change a drizzle into a downpour, by this process of "seeding" clouds with dry ice.

But changing the climate—or the pattern of temperature, wind, rainfall and sunshine—is a more tricky problem, especially since the changes in one part of the world might affect the weather in another area.

Man has no power over the amount of energy from the sun that falls on the earth, which ultimately controls weather and climate. But he might be able to control the amount of solar energy that the earth retains.

An ambitious weatherman might spread microscopic layers of colored matter over Antarctica to capture the sun's rays and transform the frozen continent into rich farmland.

While man tinkers with nature, traveling forecasters in the form of unmanned satellites will circle the globe. They will pick up information with a television camera and relay it to earth.

You won't be able to put the blame on the weatherman if you get caught with your umbrella down. The human forecaster will just set a dial and let an electronic computer worry about what kind of a day it will be.

Tourney Ticket Sales Reported

South Side was the host school for the previous basketball tournaments. Our principal, Mr. R. Nelson Snider, was manager for the Sectional, Regional, and Semi-State tourneys conducted in Fort Wayne. Mr. Snider's job consisted of arranging the tourneys, and making out the financial reports afterwards.

Because South was host school, nine teachers helped during the Semi-State Tourney. Mr. Hoover and Mr. Drummond made special statistical studies for the Indiana High School Athletic Association; Mr. Scott, Mr. Sterner, Mr. Stebing, Mr. Collyer, Mr. Walker, Mr. Robert Davis, and Mr. Feasel also helped. These teachers also worked during the Sectional and Regional tourneys.

South Side pupils purchased 1,791 tickets for the tourney. In the rest of South Side's district, which includes all the schools that participated in the Fort Wayne Sectional Tourney, 583 tickets were bought, making a total of 2,380 for the entire district.

The South Bend Central district purchased 2,402 tickets; Marion, 2,132; and Kokomo, 2,523. A grand total of 9,437 tickets were purchased to amount to $21,233.25. No session tickets were sold during the tournament because the Coliseum was sold out.

Newspapers represented at the tournament numbered 53. Each paper received one ticket unless it was a daily in the town of one of the participating teams. In that case, three tickets were received. Fourteen radio stations were represented at the games; they each received three tickets. Board members of the Indiana High School Athletic Association received a total of 50 tickets.

Sandra Yaggy To Play At "Sign-Up" Piano Recital

Sandra Yaggy, 9A, will participate in a "sign-up" piano recital on April 4 at the Loren Yaggy Piano Studio. The recital is to take place from 3:30 p.m. to 5:30 p.m., and will consist mostly of master works and some novelty pieces.

The recitals have been appropriately named "sign-up" recitals because teenagers may call the studio to make a reservation with no charge.

Sandra has done a considerable amount of playing with the South Side choir. She has also accompanied several gym class activities. On the college prep course, Sandra has received many art honors.

Talent Show To Be April 21

The annual talent show will be presented by 36 Workshop in the gymnasium on Tuesday, April 21, at 8:20 a.m.

Janis Mitchell, general chairman of the event, has announced that the show will center around a drugstore theme. Mr. Marvin Knigge, one of the sponsors of the club, has been working with Janis in planning the assembly.

Julie Carr is chairman of the planning committee, and Pam Holtzberg is chairman of presentation for the show.

The planning committee consists of Susie Horth, Barbara Dicker, Debbie Tourow, Kathy Sosinski, Barb Wallace, Beth Golden, Ann Golden, Sharon Probst, Margo Dixon, Penny Hunt, Karen Simmons, Peggy Floyd, Althea Straight, Sally Franklin, Michele Coleman, and Kaylene Gebert.

Miss Lucy Osborne, Mr. William Applegate, and Mr. Jack Morey, the remaining three sponsors, will assist Mr. Knigge in presenting the show.

Hi-Y Hears Talk, Plans Best Girl Fete

A regular meeting of the Hi-Y Club was held Monday night at 7:30 in the Assembly Room of the YMCA. The meeting was highlighted by a talk given by Mr. Everett Havens on the subject of insurance.

His talk included the different types of insurance, their values and purposes.

The remainder of the business meeting consisted of the appointment of committee heads for Hi-Y's annual Best Girl Banquet to be held this spring. Plans are now underway for its success.

Each year the members of the club chose a Best Girl to reign at their banquet. This honor is bestowed upon a teacher at South Side. The members are now considering whom they will choose.

"Our trip to the Great Smokey Mountains National Park was a very great success. All who went benefited greatly from the experience," stated Mr. Robert Weber, the club's sponsor.

So-Si-Y Club Will Hear Mrs. Rogers April 14

Mrs. Jack Rogers will be the honored speaker for the So-Si-Y meeting, Tuesday, April 14, at 3:30 p.m. in the Greeley Room. Mrs. Rogers was formerly youth director with the First Presbyterian Church.

Plans will be made at the meeting for the Mother-Daughter Tea, to be held Tuesday, April 28.

Decorations To Give Dream Effect For Juniors' "Aisle Of Dreams"

Plans for the junior prom are well underway with the decorations committee working diligently. This committee, headed by Bill Spindler, has divided itself into several groups with each working on one of the following: tables, entrance way, aisle, pool, windows and walls. The co-chairmen, Nick Roembke, Nancy Jones, Sue Sappenfield, and Tom Cooper, are heading these various committees.

"Aisle of Dreams," the title, will be carried out in a color scheme of blue and white. The effect of a dream will be produced by the use of artificial mist and puffy clouds. The main attraction will be a square pool and fountain with a spray of light blue water. Light blue net, stryo foam, cheese cloth, and paper are also being used to carry out the color scheme. White trees, colored lights, artificial stars, and music will lend itself to the atmosphere.

Beth Golden, program chairman, has announced that she and her committee are well underway also. Terry Berk and Judy Garrison, heading the ticket committee, announced that tickets will go on sale in several weeks. Susie Hoard, publicity chairman, stated that an article will appear on the teen page of the Sunday edition of the Journal several weeks before the prom. Susie is also arranging for a P.A. skit to be given. Kate Rastetter and Janet Lawry are assisting her on this skit. Janet Terry, invitation chairman, is also working with her committee.

The prom will be the first dance to be held in the new cafeteria, and it promises to be an excellent place for a formal dance. Those attending the dance will enter through the new building and stay in this section until the dance is over. The cloak room will be in Room 118.

The topic of discussion was whether or not to have the prom in the cafeteria or in the old gym. There was much controversy on this matter. Because of the title, "Aisle of Dreams," the cafeteria seemed a likely place with the natural aisle in that room. It was also pointed out that the cafeteria was much larger and a more pleasant room.

It was agreed upon by the committee heads and sponsors that it was an honor to be able to hold the first prom in the expensive room recently added. In conclusion, Dick Rothberg, president, hopes that all who so expressed a desire to hold the prom in the gym will enter into the spirit of things now, even though the prom will be held in the new cafeteria. It is also hoped that everyone who is anxious to participate, will work hard, make many decorations, and come to the meetings.

Decorations Of "Tin Pan Alley" To Include Skyline Nightclub

"Tin Pan Alley," the Sophomore Party, open to 11B's and 10A's, April 24, from 8 p.m. to 11 p.m. in the boys' gym, hinges about New York and the birth of music.

The program will feature several acts, which will explain a narrative, telling the history of Tin Pan Alley music from its beginning in New Orleans until now, with a small peek at the future. The program is expected to last about half an hour and will come about midway through the dance.

During the rest of the party, Bob Sievers, from WOWO, will spin records for dancing.

The south end of the gym will be decorated with a mural of a New York skyline, which is being drawn by Ann Plogsterth and Ann Erikson.

The walls will have lattice work with pictures of musical instruments and musical notes tacked on. The ceiling will be sprinkled with stars and a big crescent moon will shine above Bob Sievers.

For the first time, the new cafeteria is being used for refreshments. The east end will be set up as a New York night club.

Tickets for the party, priced at 60 cents apiece, will be sold by the homeroom agents, who were chosen last month. Agents will receive the tickets about a week before the party, and sell them to their homerooms. No tickets will be sold at the door.

Homeroom agents are Joan Rothschild, Steve Pohl, Bob Bechert, Tom Felger, Linda Vollmer, Nancy Vanderford, Katherine Misegades, Susan Getty, Barb Keller, Pat Schuler, Linda McNeal, Val Callahan, Jody Reiff, Sandra Tracy, Karen Curley, and Bonnie Bender.

Junior James Stewart Has Unique Hobby Of Cutting Agates

It has recently been discovered that there is an ambitious person in our midst. James Stewart, Junior A, has a most unique and unusual hobby of cutting and polishing agates.

Jim stated that it all started when he and a friend were vacationing in northern Michigan and came across a small shop in Copper Harbor that specialized in that field. Having heard about it from several sources, and seeing actual samples of the finished product, they became enthused about the idea.

* * *

EMPLOYING THE use of such specialized tools as a diamond saw, and grinding, polishing, and sanding wheels, Jim works diligently at his job, mounting the finished product on cuff links, carrings, and bola ties.

Keeping his hobby as non-profit as possible, Jim presents these as gifts to friends and relatives.

Jim's present supply of agates comes from stone dealers who find the rocks in the southeastern sections of the country, and sell them to people in the north.

When asked if he intends to further himself in this field, and develop it into a trade, Jim simply stated, "No, it will probably remain as a hobby."

Spring Style Show To Be Featured At Vesta

A spring style show will be the main feature of the Vesta Club meeting, Wednesday, April 15 at 3:30 p.m. in the Greeley Room. The style show will be presented by Sears and Roebuck Company. The latest spring fashions and colors will be modeled.

On March 18, the buyer of materials at Sears and Roebuck was the guest. He gave a talk on the kinds of material and colors used in the sewing of spring and summer apparel.

Times Meeting Friday

A short general Times staff meeting will be held tomorrow at 3:30 p.m. in Room 16.

Latin Week Will Show Roman Life

Latin week, which extends between April 13 and 17, is a national affair set aside to remind the public of what effect the ancient Roman civilization has on the modern world.

Each of the Latin classes will do something special every day of Latin week. They will study some phase of Roman life: Food, meals, dress, family, marriage and burial habits, and other things.

THE HIGH POINT of Latin week will be the Roman circus, which will take place in the gymnasium on Thursday, April 16, at 7 p.m. It will be presented for the pupils of the Latin department and their parents.

All Latin pupils are to come dressed in Roman costumes. It is expected that many famous characters of history will be present, including Julius Caesar, Calpurnia, Cleopatra, Cicero, Nero, Venus, and Appollo.

A bulletin board for that week will be posted to demonstrate to the students some of the interesting things that come from the study of Latin.

EACH LATIN PUPIL will wear a special badge during Latin week. The five Latin teachers, Mrs. Grace Welty, Mrs. Anne Redmond, Miss Mary Reiff, Mr. Fred Hellman, and Mr. Earl Sterner, have selected a badge committee.

Members of the badge committee include Jim Somers, Ann Plogsterth, Pam Olson, Marie Rohn, Linda Meyers, Beth Golden, Tod Tompson, Ann Erickson, John Shopoff, Kathy Schwalm, Tom Duff, Rozann Hancher, and Marilyn Cole.

Trophies will be awarded the best director, best actress, and best actor in Wranglers' One-Act Play Festival on April 13 at 3:30 p.m. in the Greeley Room. Faculty members will judge the plays.

Joyce Brittenham is the director of "The Closet," and Diane Mertens is assisting her. Their cast includes Patti Arnold as Machel, Judy English as Madam Dunn, Diane Fredrick as Brenda, and Pat Bailey as Sadie.

"Murder! Murder! Murder!" is being directed by Geri Geller and her assistant, Sue Springer. Julie Carr portrays Pamela; Mahmoud Abouzeid, Richard; Richard Dailey, the policeman; and Janet Christensen, the waitress.

Janet Terry and JoAnn High are directing "Are Men Superior?" with Sue Sappenfield as Susan, Margo Dixon as Mrs. Bell, Judy Thompson as Mrs. Livingston, Karen Curley as Edwina, Marilyn Cole as Marcia, Katie Rastetter as Katrina, Barb Eggeman as Nelly, and Beth Golden as Jane.

Committee heads have been chosen for Wranglers' Banquet on April 27 by the president, Janice Leist. Kay Kreachbaum is general chairman of the affair, and Patti Arnold is her assistant. Joyce Brittenham is in charge of supplying entertainment for the banquet.

Programs for the banquet are being designed by Geri Geller. Nancy Bailey heads the decoration committee, and Marilyn Cole is assisting. The place for the affair and the menu are being planned by Steve Tracey.

Mr. Robert Storey, adviser, announced that the deadline to sign up for the Howe Experienced Speech Meet, which will be held April 18, is today.

Wranglers' staged an extemporaneous speaking contest on March 16. Carolyn Dinius placed first and received a trophy for herself. Another trophy, with her name engraved on it, will remain at South Side. Carolyn has won this contest two years in a row. Placing second was Dick Rothberg; third, Steve Tracey; fourth, Kay Kreachbaum; and fifth, Dick McGaw. All these people received ribbons for placing.

Judges for the extemp contest were Mr. John Arnold, history teacher; Mr. Charles Billiard, head of the English Department; and Mr. LaVerne Harader, English teacher.

Senior Play Cutting To Be Given At 36

A brief cutting from this year's Senior Play will follow the 36 Workshop business meeting tonight. The play is entitled "The Man Who Came to Dinner" and is directed by Mr. Jack Morey.

Plans for the talent show will be discussed at the meeting. The committee working on recording points will report to the club as to the progress it has been making.

Mr. Weicker Is Co-Author Of Indiana History Text

Jack E. Weicker, social studies teacher at South Side, is co-author of a new history textbook entitled "Indiana, the Hoosier State," which has been adopted by the state for five years.

"There was a need for a new textbook in the field of Indiana history for a long time," stated Mr. Weicker. In 1954, Professor John D. Barnhart, president of the Indiana Historical Society and former Indiana University history department head, and Professor Donald F. Carmony, editor of the Indiana Magazine of History and former associate dean of the Indiana University Division of University Extension, published a four-volume history of Indiana aimed at adult readers and specialists in history.

In 1958, Barnhart and Carmony, continuing the university's long-time promotion of the study of Indiana history, started a textbook for junior high school students. In the spring of 1958, the professors approached Mr. Weicker for his aid in preparing the new book. Opal M. Nichols, Washington Junior High School teacher, also entered into the project that summer.

MR. WEICKER'S specific work on the book included going over the entire manuscript, adding parts on which he had done particular research and changing much of the phraseology to better suit the capabilities of seventh and eighth grade students.

He also was responsible for several biographies, various introductions to units and chapters, and many of the study questions which conclude each chapter. He then sent the manuscript to Miss Nichols, who made suggestions and sent it on for the final approval of the two professors. Miss Nichols also wrote the teacher's manual which accompanies the text.

Mr. Weicker asserted, "Many helped on the book besides the authors. Of course, the errors, if any, are ours; but many of the excellent ideas and criticisms came, as is always the case, from other people." He named Charles Billiard, English department head at South Side, as an asset in criticizing for reading level difficulty, and W. C. Wilson, social studies department head at South, as a contributor of valuable ideas for portions of the manuscript. Mr. Weicker also pointed out that Mary Sue Robertson, Sara Lou Miller, and Kathy Schwalm aided him somewhat in connection with the student's viewpoint.

"INDIANA, THE Hoosier State" was published by the Wheeler Publishing Company of Chicago; the copyright date is 1959. The book contains 310 pages which cover Indiana's history from prehistoric times to the present. The first copy of the book was appropriately dedicated by Mr. Weicker to a junior high school student—his 12-year-old son Johnny.

Mr. Weicker spent seven and one-half years at Indiana University. Thus, Barnhart and Carmony are two of his former professors. In 1947, Mr. Weicker received his A.B. magna cum laude with a double major: one in history and the other in English. He then taught for one year at Harrison Hill Junior High School until he went back to Indiana University in 1948 to work on his master's in history. His master's thesis, "The Industrial Growth of Fort Wayne, Indiana: 1815-1860," was written under the direction of Professor Barnhart.

The doctor's thesis, which is also directed by Dr. Barnhart, will be entitled "The Industrial Growth of Northern Indiana: 1860-1900." "The latter will be finished," Mr. Weicker

Seven Archer Lasses Thrilled By J. A. Kansas City Conference

JAMCO may look like Greek to most of us, but to seven Archer lasses it meant four exciting days and a thrilling experience. For JAMCO stands for Junior Achievers from all over the midwest. Of these, 25 were from Fort Wayne and seven of them were from South Side.

Archers Verene Andrews, Bev Engelmann, Susan Kuroski, Linda Tomson, Betty Phérson, Sunny Kaade, and Fran Hoffman attended the annual conference, which was held in Kansas City last Christmas vacation.

To be allowed to attend the girls filled out applications and sent them to the executive director, who chose those who were to attend.

"The purpose of JAMCO is to provide a chance for Junior Achievers all over the midwest to compare Achievements—the products, production, and ideas behind the companies," stated Verene Andrews, president of ALINCO, a Junior Achievement Company here.

In the morning and afternoon, the members were divided into several groups alphabetically with 20 members in each group. They took tests to find out how much knowledge they had about JA, and had discussion groups to talk over new ideas and problems. Groups were led by Junior Achievers from the Kansas City companies.

But all was not work. The fun started on the train going to Chicago, with card playing. After reaching Chicago, the Junior Achievers transferred to a special train for Kansas City which arrived about 6 p.m.

The girls were registered in the Mutlbach Hotel, while the boys stayed at the Hotel President. Junior Achievers took meals at their respective hotels and discussion groups were held there.

Among the exciting things that happened was a bus tour around the city. Especially impressive to the girls was the famous Country Club Plaza Shopping Center. It is one of the largest in existence and all the buildings, from gas stations to huge department stores, are of Spanish architecture. The groups also visited Kansas City University.

The Conference was also a broadening experience socially. The girls roomed with Junior Achievers from all over, and made many friends during the four days.

The fun was slightly marred when Verene and Betty came down with the flu, but it didn't lessen the wonderful experience for them.

A train mix-up almost got the Fort Wayne delegation home at 3 a.m., but they were able to make the proper connections. The girls returned home with such items as earrings, a coaster, a tube of lipstick, a two-pound sack of tangerines, and a sack of napkins to remind them of their visit.

What do the Junior Achievers think of JAMCO? They all termed it a "great experience." Bev Engelmann, secretary of Ski-Hi-Limited and vice-president of the J.A. Association stated, "I believe that by going to JAMCO, I was able to see J.A. Companies through the country, where teenagers like ourselves are going through the same circumstances and situations that we are.

The fun was topped off by a Pizza Party sponsored by the two advisers from Fort Wayne. The hungry Junior Achievers from Fort Wayne, Huntington, Chicago, and other towns consumed 17 big pizzas and 32 bottles of pop.

"Kansas City is a wonderful city, which really welcomed us," stated Linda Tomson, treasurer of Spun-Al-Co., and the J.A. Association treasurer. "It was a wonderful experience, going so far away from home to the convention," she continued. This seems to sum up what all the girls felt about Kansas City.

Three Girls Eligible For State Finals Of Speech Contest

Judy Rumple, Geri Geller, and Janet Terry won ribbons in the zone speech tournament at Hammond, Indiana, last Saturday to become eligible to participate in the state finals April 25 at Indianapolis Technical High School.

Judy Rumple placed second in radio; Geri Geller, third in radio; and Janet Terry, fourth in original oratory. These girls earned the right to attend the zone meet by placing in the district speech meet at North Side on March 5.

Four zone meets were held throughout the state, and the top four people in each division will compete in Indianapolis.

Also attending the Hammond contest from South Side were Dick McGaw, who made the finals in boys' extemp, and Janice Leist, who advanced to the semi-finals in dramatic interpretation.

Mr. Robert Storey, speech teacher, stated that he was very pleased with the efforts of those who attended the meet. Mr. Storey accompanied these people to Hammond and will do the same to Indianapolis.

Bev Stanton Writes Article for Magazine

Senior Beverly Stanton, an experienced high school journalist, recently wrote an article which appeared in "Student Life," a magazine in which articles written by high school students from all over the United States are published.

The magazine is published eight months during a year by The National Association of Secondary School Principals. The purpose of the magazine is "to encourage better secondary schools and to provide an outlet for student creative writing, art, and photography."

"Student Life," as the title indicates, tells of the various activities in the life of secondary school students in various sections of the country. Bev's article is concerned with informing others of the South Side speech club, Wranglers.

Bev's story includes such things as activities, purpose, and goals of Wranglers.

Three Redheaded Juniors Tell Disadvantages Of Flaming Hair

WHO HAS PROBLEMS?—The trials and tribulations of being a "redhead!" These are the everyday problems faced by Geri Geller, Cindy Hart, and Penny Hunt. These three typical examples disprove the belief that red-heads have fiery tempers. (Picture by Musser)

There can be no doubt about it—the idea of a redhead being fiery-tempered is as old as the hills. No doubt whoever started this story was quite convinced that it was true, but since this person is unknown today, the Times decided to try to clarify the validity of the statement in view of South's redheads. In doing this a great number of the pros and cons of having red hair arose.

Considering juniors to be about as average as anyone at South Side, three of them were chosen to represent all those who consider themselves cursed or blessed with flame-colored hair.

Cindy Hart, one guinea pig, said that she could think of one definite disadvantage. That was that nearly everyone either loved, or violently detested, red hair. Of course, she does not object to those who like it—it is the others that bother her.

* * *

IN SPITE OF THE fact that it may seem too far-fetched to be accidental, Penny Hunt insists that she did not receive her name because of the color of her hair, but would have been called the same, even if her hair had been black, brown, or blond.

Penny does not think that she is a true R.H. (redhead) but prefers to describe her hair as "brown with reddish highlights."

However, Penny's hair doesn't give her any special difficult in her studies for she still takes French, physics, English, and history, although she has the same difficulties that everyone else does.

Teasing is something that no R.H. can get away from. Geri Geller stressed how tiring it is to constantly be called "Red," asked what color your hair is, etc., and while we will all readily sympathize with her, just guess who will call her that again at the first opportunity?

BOTH GERI AND Cindy agreed that one definite disadvantage was the freckles and sun burn that accompany red hair in the summer; but, as everyone knows, quite a few people have that trouble, although not so exclusively.

Penny thinks that clothes' colors are limited enormously and Geri is in agreement with her 100 per cent. Colors have to be kept to greens, blues, blacks, and yellows, and maybe a few pale pinks, but anything else is completely "taboo."

Make-up presents its problems, too. It is a case of exactly the right red or else orange lipstick. Eye lashes and brows are automatically light-colored, so there is trouble there also, as Geri pointed out.

* * *

WHEN ASKED THE question, do boys REALLY prefer redheads? Cindy replied that she knows of one boy who does, and that is her boy friend. He claims that is what attracted him at the beginning. However, Cindy found out after several dates that he had been dating another R.H. for several months. Now maybe that is just proof that there is something in this hair color stuff after all!

Cindy is well occupied with school work also, taking U.S. history, journalism, physics, and English as well as being a service worker in the library and for Miss Harvey.

Geri, who likes her hair because it's different has a schedule no less hectic than the others. She has French, speech, U.S. history, and English, as well as being in study and playing in the orchestra.

After these views on the difficulties of being a R.H., the original question was put to the three girls. Do they think that they are fiery-tempered?

Geri: No, I think it's a myth. I blow up all at once, but not very often.

Penny: I think I am, but isn't everyone?

Cindy: Yes, I do.

Since there is a difference of opinion, no definite conclusions can be drawn. There is only one final note to add, and that is the fact that when one of our guinea pigs was pointed out to us, we were warned: "Yes, that is she but you had better not ask her now. She's in a bad temper!"

What If?

...Everyone turned green?
...Flowers smelled like skunks?
...We had to wear beanies to school?
...Ants invaded school?
...The Times had enough copy?
...All dogs drove cars?
...Everyone went to the Senior Play?

Location Of Prom Discussed; Juniors State Pros, Cons

"Old or new? Which will come true?" This year the members of the junior class have the opportunity to choose where they wish to have their Junior Prom. The prom may be held in either the old gym or the new cafeteria. Many class members feel that it should be held in the gym while others want it in the new cafeteria. Which will come true? Let's take a look at some of the opinions of the juniors and see how they feel about it.

Marcia Mosel: I would like to have the prom in the gym because we can use more decorations, we wouldn't have to worry about the colors of the cafeteria, and we can get out of school to decorate!

Anna Mae Chen: I would like to have the prom in the gym also. I feel that the decorations wouldn't be so limited, whereas in the cafeteria they would be to a great extent.

Sharol Booth: I think it would be neat to have the prom in the cafeteria if we could decorate it, because it is so new and pretty and something which we could really be proud of. But since we can't decorate it very much, I think that the gym would be better. (Maybe we could have the food in the new cafeteria.)

Bev Liggett: I think that I prefer the gym because you can decorate it very effectively and it takes longer.

Jim Jackson: I would like the prom in the gym because effective and attractive decorations can be used. Facilities and effects would be limited in the new cafeteria.

Geri Geller: I would like the prom in the gym because more can be done there as far as decorations are concerned. The cafeteria would be a hindrance because of the columns.

Judy Cramer: I think we should have the prom in the new cafeteria. I think that the juniors would really appreciate the new, clean atmosphere and surroundings. I think also that some of the boys and girls would cooperate to help build things if we had it there.

Margo Dixon: I don't care. The best place I think would be to have it where the decoration committee wants it.

Susan Mayer: I think the location really depends on what the theme of the dance will be. It would be nice to have the first dance in the cafeteria, but perhaps we could decorate better in the gym. At first I wanted it in the cafeteria but after hearing it discussed, I now think that the gym sounds like the better place. If the Grecian theme is carried out, then I think the cafeteria would be better.

Dianne Beams: I go along with what Judy Cramer said. I think we'd have more space to dance in the cafeteria. The columns make it look a little more Grecian.

Dave Bosselmann: I think we should have it in the gym because the cafeteria is too big. Also, I think that the gym is easier to decorate.

Julie Carr: I don't really think it makes too much difference because both places could be made very effective. I think that each particular place has its own good and bad points.

Dan Tritch: In my opinion the cafeteria is a gastorical zombie resurrected in a culinery graveyard of ill repute.

Barb Wallace: I think that the location of the prom depends on the theme. Although decorations would be limited if everyone worked together, we could make a very effective Grecian court out of the cafeteria.

Detective Ellery King Solves Mystery Of Wild Kelly Couples

I knew that something was wrong the moment I walked in the door. A nice, round, rotten tomato hit me square in the face. My name is Ellery King. I'm a private detective. My boss called me in this morning and told me that the teachers were having a terrible time over at South Side High School. It seemed that some mysterious being was driving the students to such a state that they were almost uncontrollable.

After wiping the tomato from my face, I sized up the situation, prepared to take any necessary action. And what a situation! Bob Keegan and Ann Cupp were having a water fight over at the drinking fountain. Both were soaking wet, but that didn't seem to bother them. Bob Duncan and Sue Phillips were roller skating up and down the ramps, having the time of their lives.

People were running all over the place, and none of the teachers seemed to be doing much about it. I decided that my first move would be to talk to a few of the students and find out exactly what happened. The first ones I met were Chris Parrott and Sue Horth. They were swinging from ropes tied to the ceiling of the gym. From what I could catch of their conversation, it seemed that no one knew exactly what the cause of this unusual behavior of the student body was. All they knew was that suddenly nothing seemed more important than to see how much devilment they could get into.

I WAS EXTREMELY puzzled. I had never seen anything like his in my life. I arrived at center hall just in time to see Jim Sommers and Bob Bolyard dangling snakes in front of Pam Olsen and Sheri DeYoung. The girls just stood there petrified. I pinched myself to see if I was dreaming or something. Would school kids ever act this way?

The bell rang, but no one seemed to pay any attention to it. They just continued on with their merriment. Something had to be done before they started tearing down the school.

Oh, maybe I spoke too soon. Tom White and Diane Decker, and Neil Mieras and Sharon Longenberger were digging a hole in the floor down in front of the Times office. When I asked them why they were doing this, they said that they were looking for a buried treasure. A buried treasure in a school?

WELL, I KNEW THAT I should have visited my psychiatrist sooner. Hearing a loud shriek from up above, I looked up to see Tom Hertel and Carol Haag walking upside-down on the ceiling with suction cups tied to their feet. They were dropping handfuls of confetti on everyone as they went by.

Finally I was able to corner one of the teachers and ask him what the trouble was. He replied that earlier that morning a loud crash like thunder had been heard. It wouldn't have seemed strange except that the sun was shining outside and there wasn't a cloud in the sky. After the crash, there had been a long period of silence. It was not just a stillness, but it seemed as if a shadow was passing over the whole school.

Just as soon as the mystic air lifted, the student body went wild and the result was what I had just witnessed. I was beginning to feel crazier and crazier every minute, but as I always say, a job is a job. I had sat down on a trash container trying to decide what my next move would be when Nick Arnold tapped me on the shoulder. I turned around, and he squirted me with his miniature squirt gun. He and Edee White ran down the hall laughing as hard as they could.

THIS WAS JUST too, too much. I couldn't take much more. I got out my little magnifying glass and began to search around. Suddenly I spotted a strange object. It turned out to be Dave Roderick's eyeball. He and Merle Baldwin were also searching for something, but they weren't clues. They were looking for all the little red worms which by now were crawling all over the floor.

It seems that someone had left the lid off of the jar of worms in the biology room. I was about to turn in my magnifying glass and resign as a detective, when I saw some finger smudges on the wall.

Now, you may think that this was a rather odd thing to notice in a school where there are millions of fingerprints all over, but these were different. They were about four times as big as the average hand. They were also made by something which was hard and cold.

I could tell this, you see, because I have been looking at fingerprints for many years now. I asked Mike Simmons and Margo Martindale, and Dave Crapo and Cindy Miller if they would help me look around for some hard, cold object.

We searched for hours and didn't find anything. We were about to give up hope, when Mike Collins and Carolyn DeVore ran up to us and showed us a lock which they had found outside the school. This lock was like the kind that they used to put on coffins long ago. This was our first clue. We now knew that we were looking for something superhuman.

DICK JOHNSON and Sally Dill joined our little party, and magnifying glass in hand, we all went out in search of this . . . this . . . thing. Suddenly we heard a scream, and we ran into study hall to find Bob Mann and Mary Sue Robertson standing there screaming and pointing to something. We looked across the room and spotted a strange creature in chains.

Terry Berk and Marcia Grant (N.S.) ran over and grabbed him. We took him up to the office to have a talk with him. Tom Graham and Susie Starr, and Carl Johnson and Mimi Hinman questioned him for almost an hour, and finally he confessed. He said that when he had lived on this earth, he had also attended South Side. That was about 20 years ago.

Today he had decided to pay back all the teachers for what they did to him. Now he was sorry for all the trouble he had caused, and he wished to be taken back to the graveyard. Karen Curley and Murry Munger led the procession, and we all took him back to his place of rest.

He gave us his promise that he would never do anything like this again. We bid him farewell and proceeded back to the school. When we arrived, things looked a little better. The janitors had most of the mess cleaned up.

YOU WOULD NEVER believe this, but all the students were also helping on the clean-up. Steve Burton and Mary Jane Tobey were filling in the hole dug by the treasure hunters. Larry Miller ('58) and Val Callahan were scrubbing the walls which by this time were covered with tomatoes. Marijo Edwards and Don Leitz ('57) were sweeping the floors which were covered with a little bit of everything.

The teachers came over and thanked me for all my help. I thanked them for their assistance. We said goodby, and I left the school never to return again (I hope). I arrived at my office just in time to receive a call from North Side saying that they were having the same trouble. Well, I guess that's just the way life is!

Kelly Students Give Opinions On Spring

Since spring has come, many of our Archers' faces have brightened up considerably; however, others still have the same sad look. When asked why they liked spring or why they didn't like spring, the following replies were gained.

Ellen Crowder: I like spring because it's such a change from winter.

Sally Capps: I like spring because summer is that much closer.

Jan Martindale: I like spring when it's spring-like, but when it's not spring-like, I don't like spring at all.

Sally Mieras: Weddings . . .

Nancy Gift: Convertibles!

Bonnie Brenn: Bonnie likes spring 'cause we come out and play with her. Signed, Marijane Tobey.

Carole Fischer: I don't like spring because mothers never believe it's as warm as it is. I'm gonna like next spring, though.

Assignment Causes Reporter Difficulty

What if you were an aspiring Times reporter and you got an assignment for a poll? The question was "What is your favorite flower and why?" Even a seasoned reporter has his moments when he runs up against something like this. Your first reaction would be one of "What could ever be funny about flowers?" It isn't that it has to be funny, but, well . . . That's the obstable this writer ran into. Well, everyone proved the writer wrong (?) as this poll shows.

Karen Good: Carnations, because I can't thing of a funny flower.

Beth Golden: Orchid, 'cause they're so expensive and exotic.

Patty Brown: Red roses, 'cause that's what I keep hoping my steady will bring me.

Linda LeVay: The flower of economics—MONEY.

Jack Flaugh: Carnations 'cause Pam Douglas lets them wilt so beautifully after I buy them.

Linda Benton: The kind that makes cookies and pies because I'm always hungry.

Marijo Edwards: The Gold Medal kind for the same reason as Linda.

Marcia Mosel: I don't like flowers. I hate flowers. I wanna go home.

Carole Fischer: I like marigolds 'cause they smell so purty.

Nelson Kimball: The Mayflower 'cause that's what my ancestors stowed away on to come to America.

Pat Forehand: I like dandelions 'cause they're so rare and expensive.

Dorothy Major: Thnap dwagons an' thiger lillies cuz I wove animals.

John Slick: Posy (Weilemann).

Nancy Hickman: I like Mr. Davis' geraniums when they're in the flower box and not on the floor. I also like those that the Lettermen plant around the building every spring.

Marilyn Bugg: I like carnations because they stay and smell so fresh.

Susan Getty: I like dogwoods, but I don't have a dog.

Marilyn Budd: I don't like flowers, I like buds.

Linda Vollmer: I don't like flowers, I like "Waiters."

The Kelly-Green Dragon

Before beginning, one point should be made clear. This is a story for freshmen.

Once upon a time there was a dragon. He was a very large Kelly-green dragon, and he had purple eyes and long pink eyelashes. Being a dragon of greatest intelligence, he decided to further his education. He enrolled in a high school in the kingdom Indiana. There was some question about his enrollment, so he went to the principal's office.

"Well," said the principal, "what course do you plan to take?"

"Oh, college, of course. I do want to go to college," the dragon answered.

"I imagine it will be all right. We had some trouble with another dragon on the business course," replied the principal.

When fall came, the dragon started in his new school. (He was in homeroom section D-F, D for dragon.) He had some problems, however. It was very hard to keep his tail under the desk, everyone kept initiating him, and the ice cream at Miller's always put out the pilot light on his flame-thrower. He began to worry because he just didn't seem to fit in with any crowd of kids.

Then one day he met a boy named Wilbur. Wilbur was daring and dashing; he wore a black leather jacket and long sideburns.

"Kid," said Wilbur, "you've just been runnin' around with the wrong bunch. They're just lunkheads who don't 'know nuthin' from nuthin.'' I know a good guy when I see one!"

The dragon was very happy and spent hours with his new friend. His mother did not like it when he began to come back to the cave at all hours, but she didn't say anything. The dragon's grades were worrying her a little, too. He was finally called up to the office one day.

"Your friend Wilbur is in trouble," they said, "do you know anything about it?"

The dragon said he certainly did not and stalked out. He knew his friend was not a trouble-maker. He was a bit disturbed at all this, however, so he asked Wilbur about it.

"Aw, it was nuthin'," said Wilbur, "don't mind them."

One night Wilbur and the dragon were walking home from the movies together when Wilbur stopped in front of a little red sports car. Wilbur suggested that they borrow the seatcovers, hubcaps, and so on to sell to a man he knew. The dragon had his doubts.

"Whatsa matter? You chicken? This guy won't care if we hock his stuff; he's rich enough to buy more," Wilbur laughed.

Suddenly the dragon realized it was time to go home. Wilbur wanted to stay, but when the dragon flipped on his flame-thrower, Wilbur agreed. After this the dragon picked some new friends.

The dragon is a sophomore now. Nobody initiates him anymore, the teachers let him leave his tail in the aisles, and he eats french fries at Miller's. They're thinking of putting him on the football team, and the world looks pretty rosy. All he needs now is a steady date; know any dragons?

LEVYty

By Larry Levy

Quite a Shock

On a nice spring day, like the kind we never have during Spring Vacation, Mr. Paul Sidell was demonstrating an experiment in electricity. Most of the students were sleepily (it was first period) contemplating how static electricity is formed and were very relaxed.

Suddenly there was a loud "ZAP" and a spark about three inches long jumped across the table. Those students in the front row will readily agree it's an effective eye-opener!

Study Hall Project

I shot a missile in the air,
It fell to earth, I know not where,
Until the next day, with rage profound,
The boy it fell on came around.
In less time than it takes to tell,
He showed me where that missile fell;
And now I do not greatly care
To shoot more missiles in the air.

Twice As Smart

A prehistoric animal called the Diplodocus, which was the largest of the dinosaurs, grew to a length of 80 feet. It was the biggest land animal that ever lived. It had more brains in its spinal cord than it had in its head—the "rear brain" regulating the movements of the tail and hind legs!

Future Safe-Cracker?

Have you ever tried to get the wrong lock off your locker with the right combination? It's pretty hard, even if you do have professional safe-cracking abilities. One South Side student recently proved this quite untrue.

It seems that after trying her combination several times, Karen Fine decided something was fishy. Karen therefore got down in the typical safe-cracking position with her ear next to the lock and began to listen for clicks. In no less than the time it takes to say "antidisestablishmentarianism" she cracked the lock and gained access to her locker.

This was Fine, except her lock was still missing and somebody else's was in her hand. Right now she is confidently trying one of the hundreds of locks in the school (it may be the next one?). To find out how she comes out, tune in next week.

Talented Musicians

That odd twanging sound you heard recently was not an off-key cello player in the band room! Actually the delightful musical tone was produced by some crude amateurs—telephone linemen. I guess some of the virtuosos got carried away, because they began putting on a show for some of the history students in the south end of the building, complete with acrobatics, too.

jokingly stated, "in about 1998 at present speed." He then added, "But at least the course work is out of the way."

AS AN UNDERGRADUATE, Mr. Weicker was elected to Phi Beta Kappa, national scholastic honorary, and Phi Alpha Theta, national history honorary. As a graduate student, he was assistant to Professor Townsend in ancient history, and he was the recipient of two fellowships: James Albert Woodburn Fellow in American history, and an All-University Fellow. In 1951, Mr. Weicker came to South Side, where he has been teaching American history and general history ever since.

Mr. Weicker stated that he feels that his real accomplishment in working on this book is the satisfaction of knowing that students can be familiar with their legacy from the past. Mr. Weicker wholeheartedly believes that one must know the story of the past in order to appreciate the present. When asked which phase of history holds particular interest for him, Mr. Weicker quickly asserted, "I like it all."

Dave Barrett, Susie Bumgerdner Tell Advantages, Drawbacks Of Being Tallest, Shortest In School

By Sandy Thorn

Webster defines the word short as "not tall" and the word tall as "high in stature." South Side has its own definition of short and tall. Susie Bumgerdner is the definition of short and Dave Barrett is the definition of tall.

Susie Bumgerdner, Freshman A, is four feet, eight inches. She has advantages in being short. Susie listed as her advantages: "I can wiggle my way through lines. People notice you, which leads to making many friends." Her third advantage would solve problems for many girls. "There is never the problem of a boy being smaller than you," said Susie.

But stop, don't try to shrink until you hear the disadvantages. Susie said, "There is the problem of people thinking you are younger than you really are." Susie is 15 years old. Her second problem is buying her clothes. For those of you who were ready to shrink when you read the advantage of the boys being taller, you will come back to earth when you hear Susie say, "It is difficult to date and dance with very tall boys."

SUSIE ENTERED South following Thanksgiving when she came from Chattanooga, Tenn. Susie had very encouraging words about the South students, when she stated, "South's students are very nice. Everyone was so nice to me when I first came. They accepted me right away and were very friendly. The only thing I think South students lack is school spirit."

Algebra is her favorite subject. She said, "It has always been my favorite and easiest subject. Susie defines algebra as "A puzzle with a great challenge." Being on the College Preparatory Course, her hardest subject is English.

When asked what she likes best about South, she answered, "South has many advantages in the educational world. It sets a very good background for college. South has a very qualified faculty. The teachers are friendly and very helpful. South also has many fine students."

Susie's three favorite foods are French fries, hamburgers, and shrimp. "American Bandstand" and "Peter Gunn" are her favorite television programs. "My Heart Sings" and "May You Always" are her favorite records. Marv Hunter is Susie's favorite disc jockey and "The Top Fifty" is her favorite radio program. Royal blue is her favorite color.

Short people have pet peeves just like all other sizes do. Susie's pet peeves are people who are constantly late and people who get mad easily. Susie said, "After all, everyone has their faults."

Although Susie doesn't have definite plans for college and her career, she is planning to be a retail merchandiser. Her plans include attending Febber College in Florida.

Her hobbies include listening to good records, cooking unusual meals, and being around the lake. Sue is a member of the Meterite Club.

JUNIOR A DAVE BARRETT is one of the tallest boys at South. He is six feet, four inches. Dave is on the College Preparatory Course. His subjects include Metal 2, U.S. History 2, Botany 2, and English 6. He is 16 years old.

Dave likes any radio program with good music, especially Al Russell. His favorite disc jockey is Al Russell, Concerning the "Al Russell Show" he said, "I like the informality and those gassy commercials!"

His favorite records are "Venus," "Come Softly to Me," and "Nola." He especially enjoys popular jazz records. The Hi-Lo's are Dave's favorite singing group.

When asked his favorite subject, Dave replied, "My favorite subject is history. I like the gassy sense of humor the teacher has. It contributes to the informality of class. This is an easy and interesting way to learn."

In answer to the hardest subject he was presently taking, he answered, "This semester none of them are particularly bard. I don't particularly care for that period of literature we are now studying in English!"

Dave's career and the college he plans to attend are undecided although he plans to attend college.

THERE ARE ALSO advantages to being tall. He said, "It come in handy while sitting on the bench during the game. I can see who is coming down the hall so I can dodge up a stairway. People have to look up to me (play on words) and I think everyone else should wear "elevators." I can reach the top shelf in the library and the top shelf of cupboards. I can see what's on top of my locker."

But, of course, there are some disadvantages. He says the disadvantages are, "The small seats in study hall are hard on the knees. There are too many good-looking short girls. It's a long way to the floor when I'm knocked down playing ball."

When asked what he likes best about South, he answered, "Its athletic program, what else? I've heard that the athletic department spends between $12,000 and $14,000 a year on equipment, transportation, and other necessities for the teams."

* * *

MY HOBBY IS reading and dreaming about those gassy sport cars. My two brothers helped me answer this one," replied Dave.

Blue and pink are his favorite colors. "Alfred Hitchcock" and "Maverick" are Dave's favorite television programs. His favorite foods include almost any casserole, chop suey, and apple pie.

Tall people seem to have more pet peeves than short people. Anyway, Dave seems to have more than Susie. He says his pet peeves are, "Girls who smoke; little freshmen running through the halls and seniors, too; Times' agents who don't get our papers to us on time (Homeroom 58); teachers who give eighth periods in homeroom; girls that walk four abreast down the halls; Monday mornings; Sunday nights when I don't have my homework done; people who don't clog up sewers; and danskins.

Dave's favorite athlete is Bob Richards. Dave said, "An athlete should be proficient in as many sports and activities as possible. Bob has a very well-rounded education which also includes religious ideas."

Archers To Face North, Central In 3-Way Meet Tomorrow

Kellys To Buck Tough Redskins At North's Field

Redskins Are Strong In Running, Hurdles; Weak In Field Events

Archer thinlies will face a rugged, well-seasoned North Side track team in a triangular meet with Central at Northrop Field tomorrow at 4 p.m.

For the Archers this will be their third meet while the Redskins have been in competition since mid-March.

In previous meets, the Redskins have shown well in the dash and hurdle events. Their half-mile relay team came home victorious in the Hoosier Relays, and Jack Hallenbeck has been winning the hurdle events for the Red and White.

The Redskins appear to be weaker in the field events. This seems extremely apparent in the shot-put and the pole vault. However, their power in the running events has tended to balance their lack of strength in the field events.

Dale Zumbaugh is the best Redskin sprinter, while Jack Arney, Tom Harford, and Jack Hallenbeck team up with him to form a strong half-mile relay team.

The Redskins are quite strong in the quarter-mile with Larry Fair and Mike Poorman showing good times early in the season.

Although the Red and White are somewhat weaker in the 880 dash, Pete Poorman has displayed fine talent in the mile; and he might be one of the area's top milers this season.

In the field events North has Dave Roeback in the high jump, Tom Kniss and Bob Morley in the shot-put.

The Redskins also have a capable mile relay team, which is anchored by Larry Fair.

Team 1 Victorious In GAA Softball

Team 1 defeated Team 2 in upperclass GAA softball Monday night in the gym. The score was 13-0.

Temporary teams were made with Connie Dennis serving as captain of Team 1 and Jan Kessler as captain of Team 2. Team members of Team 1 are Barbara Markiton, Sandy Dolson, Michele Flaig, Connie Dennis, Alberta Bonnell, Shirley Stahlhut, Dixie Piercy, Jeannette Lynn, and Melodie Potts.

Peggy Markin, Judy Garrison, Jan Kessler, Pat Igney, Jane Glass, Judy Thompson, Barbara Burdick, Barbara Nahrwold, and Joan Motley were the members of Team 2. Bella Dyson and Martha Bonnell were the umpires and Mrs. Keegan kept score.

Tigers Tough In Running

Central Weakened By Loss Of Key Men

By Dieter Hillerbrand

Seeking to lay claim to the "little City Track Crown" the South Side Archers will meet both Central and North Side on the latter's field, Northrop Field, Friday, April 10 at 4 p.m.

Central, hampered by the loss of several expected standouts, will furnish half the opposition when South's Archers invade Northrop Field to run against Central and North in the annual triangular meet tomorrow at 4 p.m.

Although severely weakened through the loss of key men Onofre Gutierrez and Henry King, Central should be strong in the running events this year. King and Gutierrez were the top men on Central's cross country team, and, therefore, the Tigers should be somewhat weak in the mile. Doug Bateman and Ray West will lead the Tigers in the mile, while senior Terry Henline should be the top half-miler for Central, followed closely by Ed Conn.

PETE WILLIAMS' men should be very strong in the sprints. Tharnell Hollins, T. C. Williams, Cal Thomas, and Stewart will make up the 880-yard relay team, which should be one of the best in the city. Calvin Thomas is the only fair hurdler the Tigers have.

In the field events, Central will be definitely weaker than the Archers. Only in the high jump, with co-Sectional champ Tharnell Hollins returning, the Tigers might beat the Archers. Percy Moore, who will lead Central in the shot-put, put 42 feet last year, and even if he should improve, he is unlikely to beat South's Jim Dawson, who has put around 48 feet already.

If Tom Bolyard decides to broad jump for the Kellys, South will have an advantage over the Tigers in this event. With Ted Lebrecht's decision not to go out for track this year, the Archers will not be too strong in the pole-vault, but still stronger than the Tigers' Larry Reynolds.

In the relays, the Tigers seem to have a slight advantage in the half-mile relay, while the Kellys should beat the Tigers easily in the mile relay.

If the fans turn out to give the thinlies some support in this meet the Archers should score another victory for the Green and White.

Schmitz On Sports

With the basketball season now history and the track season not yet started for Tom Bolyard (the lanky 880 man missed a washed out meet with Elkhart and a close loss to Kokomo), the Bomb is still grabbing the high school sports headlines with that All-Star squabble.

* * *

With all that pressure from the competing All-Star promoters, Bolyard tried to relax during a vacation which turned into a nightmare in wake of Bolyard's announced decision to play for the local FWAAC (Fort Wayne Amateur Athletic Committee).

* * *

The group selected Bolyard to be the number one player which was followed by the Indianapolis Star's declaration that Jimmy Rayl of Kokomo has been selected as Mr. Basketball.

* * *

Unconfirmed reports said that Ray Pavy of New Castle is to wear number two in the Indiana-Kentucky series. According to the reports Bolyard will be awarded number three for the benefit games that finance equipment for the blind.

* * *

But the big news was that Bolyard was placed on the second Parade All-American team. A survey of national high school coaches as conducted by the Sunday newspaper supplement placed Jim Rayl of Kokomo on the fourth team, thus upholding this column's and local fans' argument that Bolyard is the better of the two Hoosier standouts.

* * *

His positioning on the squad marks the third straight year that the high school coaches throughout the nation chose a Fort Wayne boy to appear on the survey. This is indeed a distinctive honor.

* * *

With highly potential Bob Pelkington back next year, maybe the Summit City can place a boy on the squad for an unprecedented fourth consecutive time.

* * *

It is rumored that Bolyard was selected to the first team but was placed on the second team as a precautionary move against having another Hoosier boy on the team unable to accept the public appearance on a national television network program because of an IHSAA ruling, as did John Kelso upon his selection last year.

* * *

It was also interesting to see Jim Rayl on the fourth team, thus supporting this column's selection of Bolyard over Rayl.

* * *

Track received an opening blow last Wednesday for the Kelly thinlies as torrential downpours halted action midway through the meet, but certainly not to the dismay of South Side coaches and fans.

* * *

The Archer combo had yet to win an event from the powerful Blue Blazers of Elkhart. The Elkhart squad showed signs of being State Championship caliber in sweeping all events.

* * *

But while Bolyard grabbed off his share of headlines, Jim Dawson, South Side's sophomore sensation let local track enthusiasts know that he'll be reckoning for some of those headlines with shot-put records in future seasons. The big guy flirted with the 48-foot mark in a washed out meet with Elkhart and then astounded South Side fans with a toss of 48 feet and four inches.

* * *

Against Elkhart, another sophomore by the name of Al Rainbolt showed high promise in the mile run, being nosed out by two Elkhart long distance trollers in the final stretch. Then he pulled a muscle and was unable to aid the Archer cause against Kokomo.

* * *

Bob Schriefer, senior handy man, put on a good show with a second place in the broad jump, won by the State's top leaper, Chuck Fawcett.

Despite these and several other individual performances, Kokomo produced a daring comeback victory by capturing both relays, the 880 by a scant "measure."

* * *

Harry Collins was nipped at the wire in what proved to be almost a photo-finish. The loss marked the second time (first time in the basketball semi-finals) that the Wildcats managed to edge South in the last second in a storm-back triumph.

1959 Track Schedule Announced For Kellys, Under Coach Gernand

In their quest for a state crown in track and field, the Archer thinlies, under the mentorship of Bob Gernand, opened the 1959 track season when they took on Elkhart's Blue Blazers April 1 at the South Stadium. The Blazers beat the Archers in their dual meet last year.

The Green faced Kokomo Monday and will be gunning against city competition starting tomorrow when they meet North's Redskins and the Central Tigers in a triangular meet at Northrop Field.

The Redskins have several men returning from last year's team. Their sprinters, Dale Zumbaugh and Jack Arney, should be tops in the city. The Redskins also should be tough in the relays.

Central's strength seems to be in the running events this year. With Onofre Gutierrez and Nate Harrison in the mile, Terry Henline in the half, Henry "Da Da" King in the quarter, and Tom Hawkins in the sprints, the Tigers should be tough and it will take a combined team effort to win this one for South.

CENTRAL CATHOLIC'S Irish will invade the South Side Stadium April 14. The Irish were a pushover for the Archers last year and things do not seem to be much different this season.

April 18 will be the date for the annual North Side Relays. The Archers, who placed third last year, will be trying to repeat their feat of 1955, when they upset all calculations to win the relays by nosing out North Side.

South's thinlies will hit the road for the first time in the season when they travel to Muncie for an engagement with the Bearcats from Muncie Central.

The 'Cats, who won the cross country team title in the state meet last season, will be trying to avenge their loss to the Archers last year. Muncie's strength seems to be in the distances this year and it will take a good Archer team to win.

* * *

ON APRIL 25, the Archers will take part in the Kokomo Relays. The competition usually is very tough, but the Archers have a good chance to take one of the top places.

Central's Tigers will have their return engagement with the Kellys April 30 at South Side.

In the last meet of the season the Archers will compete in the Lima Relays. South has won the Relays for the last two years, and the odds say that they can do it again.

If the fans give some support to the track team, the 1959 season should be a winning one.

Sharp Increase In Lung Cancer Proportionate To Rising Tobacco Sales; Control Means Ineffective

By Cheryl Summers

Cancer! That word strikes terror into the hearts of most people. Lung cancer is the worst one of all. "Those two words, 'lung cancer,' are the ugliest in all medicine," says one physician. It is fatal to 95 per cent of those who contract it.

Of 100 people who get lung cancer today, 45 will be inoperable by the time they consult a doctor, their cancer so widespread that surgery would be futile. Chest surgery will be performed on the remaining 55. As many as 11 of the 55 patients will not survive this drastic surgery. Examination of the chest cavity of some of the others will show that the cancer has spread, even to the heart itself. In such a case the surgeon usually closes the wound, leaving the lung untouched. These patients—perhaps 12—will die in a few months.

Now only 32 of the operable patients are left out of the former 100. The surgeon removes part or all of the lung and hopes that no cancer seeds are left. But in a large percentage of cases, groups of these cells lurk in the chest cavity to continue growing. According to present statistics, only five of the 32 operable patients will survive and be living at the end of five years. This leaves a score of five survivors out of 100 victims.

A FEW YEARS ago lung cancer was a medical problem of no consequence. A survey of world medical literature in 1912 showed a total of only 347 cases reported. Today annual deaths are measured by the tens of thousands. Why this rapid increase?

"It is signifiacnt that the sharp increase in lung cancer is almost exactly proportionate to the increase in cigarette sales," says Dr. Alton Ochsner, internationally known chest surgeon. "I am convinced that every heavy smoker will develop lung cancer—unless heart disease or some other sickness claims him earlier."

Richard G. Berger, B.S., president of Cancer Prevention, Inc., is the author of a very interesting pamphlet titled "What to Do About Smoking," which tells us much about lung cancer. His article states that the disturbing fact is that cancer is still increasing year after year, and that present attempts to control it are ineffective. From 1900 to 1946, the cancer death rate had more than doubled.

It is a horrible way to die, with the excruciating pain frequently becoming so unbearable that the victim often begs for the administration of mercy killing—a form of relief which must be denied.

A very important word that we should learn is "carcinogen." This is a specific substance which causes cancer. Tobacco tars and coal tars are carcinogens which are abundant in our daily lives. Most cancer is caused by contact with various carcinogens. The carcinogens are either breathed into our bodies or deposited on exposed skin surfaces.

DR. BERGER'S article goes on to say that in these recent years, during which cancer has made an ever-increasing growth, we have been exposed to much greater volumes of tobacco smoke. In 1900 the average consumption of cigarettes in the United States was 26 per capita per year, whereas in 1946 it had increased to the astonishing total of 2,300 per capita per year. The greatest percentage of increase in cigarette smoking has been among women and teenagers.

Dr. W. C. Hueper, in his book, "Occupational Tumors and Allied Diseases," calls attention to the fact that smokers expose non-smokers to carcinogenic tobacco tar. "Over a period of time, non-smokers who live with smokers, or who contact smokers socially," says Dr. Hueper, "will inhale a considerable amount of tobacco smoke containing a certain percentage of carcinogenic tars, and show a liability to lung cancer." The injurious effects of tobacco smoke on young people are just as great as the effects on older people.

Quoting Mr. Berger, "Very few people realize the great quantity of carcinogenic substances which enter their daily lives. Cancer cannot be conquered without the co-operation of the public, and the public cannot cooperate when left in ignorance."

There are many carcinogens which we can't avoid. Since tobacco tars in cigarettes and cigarette smoke is one which we can, we certainly should avoid it.

Kokomo Wildcats Defeat Archer Trackmen, 58-51

Fate Of Meet Decided By Relays; Reserves Win By 54½-49½ Score

By Jim Carter

After leading most of the way, South Side's Archers went down to defeat before the Kokomo Wildcats by a close 58-51 count in their second scheduled track meet of the season, last Monday at South Stadium. However, some prestige was salvaged by the reserves, who defeated their adversaries, 54½-49½.

The Kellys, handicapped by the absence of half-miler and broad-jumper Tom Bolyard and high-jumper Dave Roderick, nevertheless came within literally inches of emerging victorious.

The Wildcats, always tough track competitors, were too strong for the Green in most of the field events, but several excellent showings by some Archer juniors and sophomores, particularly in the hurdles and dashes, gave them an early lead in the varsity statistics.

Then the Wildcat field strength began to make itself known in the totals, and the margins narrowed in both varsity and reserve figures. At last only the mile and 880-yard relays remained. South needed to win either one of the varsity relays to preserve its victory, and the prospects looked good for both of these squads. However, the reserves, who had lagged behind Kokomo earlier, needed both firsts to win.

THE MILE RELAY combination lacked Bolyard and Mel Smith, who had pulled a muscle earlier. In their places ran underclassmen Bob Shine and Fred VonGunten. The prospects still looked good, and the Archers held their own until VonGunten dropped the baton for a mere second on the second lap. This gave the fleet Wildcat the opportunity he needed, and he opened up a wide lead.

Bill Lentz and Joe Roth fought gamely to make up the large deficit, but the distance was too great. Nevertheless, Roth ran a tremendous last leg and gained on his man considerably. The one mishap had been costly, however, for Kokomo turned in a time of 3:36.6, finishing a good 10 yards ahead of the Kellys.

THEREFORE, THEY still needed a victory in the half-mile. The 880 team was composed of sophomore Tom Duff, who had a tremendous day in the sprints, Ted VonGunten, Win Moses, and Harry Collins. Duff started against Chuck Fawcett, Kokomo's varsity basketballer and state broad-jump champ. The first three men managed to build up a very slight lead over their opponents, but it was a very close race.

On the anchor leg, Harry Collins ran all out, turning in a fine performance; and he seemed to have the meet won. However, the Wildcat had more sprint left in the final straightaway than anyone had suspected, and he caught Harry at the tape, nosing him by half a step. The finish was rather reminiscent of a basketball game a few weeks ago, and thus Kokomo won, 58-51. The time was 1:36.5.

THE RESERVE RUNNERS had better luck, however, and they swept both of their relays. Bob Schriefer, Dan Tritch, Gus Wade, and Bob Bolyard won an easy victory in the mile, turning in a 3:51.6 time and finishing at least 80 yards ahead of the final Kokomo man.

The 880 runners had an equally easy time of it, as Bob Bradfield, Chuck Clifton, Bob King, and Pat Goyer won the meet for the reserves with a fine 1:40 time.

THE ARCHERS WERE consistent point winners in the hurdles. Ken Howe and Win Moses took first and second in the highs, and Moses won the lows with Howe third. Reserve hurdlers Carl Johnson and Bob Bradfield took second and third in the high sticks, and Bradfield won with Johnson third in the lows.

In the dashes Tom Duff had a fine afternoon. He swept blue ribbons in both the 100 and the 220, with times of 10.65 and 23.7 Bill Lentz also took a second for the Green in the 220. South Side dominated the reserve dashes also, as Ted VonGunten, Bob King, and Chuck Clifton swept all three places. VonGunten and Pat Goyer also ran off with the first two places in the reserve 220.

IN THE 440 JOE ROTH brought home another Kelly victory in 53.4. Sophomore Bob Shine ran second most of the way, but he lost out to two Wildcats at the tape, to finish out of the money. Bob Bolyard captured second in the half-mile, and Ed Hartman grabbed off third. The reserves turned in a pair of seconds, Ron Bogan in the 440 and Ken Rice in the 880.

A sophomore, Paul Ramey, paced the mile for the first two laps, and it was largely through this strategy that Ed Hartman was able to win. His time was 4:52.5. Al David finished second.

In the field events, the chief standout was sophomore Jim Dawson, who put the shot a phenomenal 48 feet, four inches, forecasting record distances in the future if he continues to improve. However, the Archers had no depth here, as Kokomo took all the remaining places, varsity and reserve. The Wildcats also swept the varsity high jump, but Gus Wade tied for first and Ted VonGunten tied for third in the reserve.

Kokomo's state broad-jump champion, Chuck Fawcett, won his specialty with a leap of 21 feet, 2½ inches, but South's Bob Schriefer took a second. In the pole vault the Wildcats also reigned as the Archers could do no better than Gary Gardner's tie for second and Don Eisenacher's reserve third.

Football Coach Robert Gernand Becomes Head Track Mentor

TERRIFIC TRACKSTERS—With two track meets of the season already having taken place, Coach Bob Gernand prepares his squad to face North Side and Central in a triangular meet at Northrop Field tomorrow afternoon. The Archers' next home track meet is against Central Catholic on April 14. (Picture by Seaman)

Head Football Coach Robert Gernand will take over as head track mentor this year at South Side. He replaces George Collyer, who retired at the close of last year's session, one of the best in South Side's history.

Mr. Gernand, a native of Fort Wayne, has been head football coach at South Side for three years. He was assistant coach here in 1953 and head coach at Escabana, Mich., in 1954.

He attended Emmaus Lutheran School in Fort Wayne and played football for South Side from 1940-1944. Mr. Gernand also played football and wrestled at Michigan State and Penn State.

After serving in the Navy in World War II he coached football at Pidgeon, Mich., for one year, and Stephenson, Mich., for two years. He also served in the Marines during the Korean conflict.

Gernand has not officially held a track position in past seasons, but his knowledge of the sport made him eligible for the mentor's post. Partisan pressure from fans will plague Gernand as he steps into the post in the footsteps of a fine coach who closed out his coaching career in a fiery blaze. Gernand is looking forward to an excellent season, but foresees hard work for the group of lads that he things has top-caliber potential.

Showers Cancel Thinlies' Meet

By Steve Rothberg

The debut of the South Side Archers' 1959 track squad was "dampened" quite severely last Wednesday to the point of being called off by meet officials on account of the torrential downpours.

Three varsity running events had been held in the contest with the Elkhart thinlies when the rains forced the cancellation.

Elkhart opened, taking the high hurdles with two Archers, Win Moses and Ken Howe, placing second and third, respectively.

Ted Jackson grabbed the 100-yard dash in a neat 10.3 while a fellow Elkhart runner placed second. Bob Shine, Archer sophomore, came off with third place honors.

The mile run had barely seen its first quarter completed when the "flood gates" opened, hampering the runners. Another promising sophomore, Al Rainbolt, was the only Archer to place in this event. He was the third man across the finish line, two Elkhart runners taking first and second.

Big Jim Dawson uncorked a 47-foot heave in the shot-put to give Archer Coach Bob Gernand a great potential putter in future years, Dawson being only a sophomore.

The meet was temporarily halted but when the water became too deep on the track it was decided that the contest would be postponed.

C.C. Meet Here Next Tuesday

With thoughts of revenge in their heads, the Central Catholic Irish will invade the South Side Stadium April 14 for their annual track meet with the Archers. The Kellys gave the Irish a sound beating last year, and it seems it will be very difficult for the Irish to come out victorious in this one.

In the sprints, South seems to have a slight advantage over C.C. Although the Irish have a good spring man in Chuck Holmes, the Kelly's depth with Tom Duff, Harry Collins, and Ted Von Gunten should be too much.

Joe Roth and Bob Shine are good bets to take the ribbons in the quarter-mile, for the Irish do not have any good 440-men.

DISTANCEMEN BOB BOLYARD in the half-mile and Eddie Hartman and Al Rainbolt in the mile should get no real tough competition from the C.C. distance runners, and besides Tom Bolyard will be back by then.

Hurdlers Ken Howe and Win Moses are solid favorites to take top places in their events against the Irish.

In the field events, the Kellys also have a solid edge over C.C. Shotputter Jim Dawson has put around 48 feet already and should beat any competition without much trouble.

HIGH JUMPERS Dave Roderick and Gus Wade, although they might get some tough competition, should come out on top against C.C.

If Tom Bolyard is in shape by that time, he should beat all opponents fairly easily in the broad jump.

The pole-vault seems to be a toss-up, with no team having any definite advantage.

In the relays, the Irish might put up a fight in the half-mile relay, while South's mile play should win without any trouble.

GAA Will Start Badminton Tourney

"All regular members of GAA are asked to sign up for the GAA Badminton Tournament," announced Miss Helen Pohlmeyer and Mrs. Alice Keegan, sponsors. As only doubles will be played, the girls are to sign with a partner.

Points are earned for participation in the tournament. Girls who win their first match or play the first match and have two practices earn 25 points. Fifty points are given to the second place winners, while tournament winners will receive 100 points.

The girls are asked to sign up immediately in the girls' gym office because play will start Monday. Arrangements can be made to play at 7:30 a.m., during fifth period, or after school on Monday or Friday.

Archer Talent Excels In 440 Dash, Mile Relay

Perhaps the brightest points on this season's South Side track squad are the 440-yard dash and the mile relay.

An almost unbelievable amount of talent is amassed in the quarter-mile group composed of Joe Roth, Bob Schriefer, Bill Lentz, Bob Shine, and Mel Smith. Three of this quintet will probably team up with fabulous Tom Bolyard, star half-miler, to form perhaps the best mile relay team in Indiana.

Senior Joe Roth appears to be the Archers' No. 1 quarter-miler. Muscular Joe expects to hit around the 50-second mark this season and has an excellent chance of grabbing a relay berth.

Fellow-classman Bob Schriefer offers ample competition for Roth. Last season was Bob's first and he did remarkably well. He managed a 23.9-second 220-yard dash, and a 19-9 leap in the broad jump.

Bob hopes to run a 50-second quarter this year. Outside of formal practice he does plenty of leg exercises to give him both speed and endurance for track's most grueling race.

Junior Bill Lentz, on the strength of a 52.5-second quarter last year, is a strong threat in that event this year. As a freshman, Bill ran the half-mile, switched to the 440-yard dash last year, and did so well he ran on the varsity mile relay for a limited time.

This season Lentz hopes to bring his 440-yard time down to 51 seconds and also would like to land a permanent place on the mile relay.

A BRIGHT LIGHT now and for the next two years at Archerland is hard-working Bob Shine. Last year as the "Freshman Flash," Bob dashed to a 55-second quarter and numerous first places for Coach Don Reichert's freshman crew.

This year Coach Bob Gernand may switch Shine to the half-mile, but Shine still could run in the mile relay. Bob runs a lot on his own to keep in extra fine shape.

Mel Smith, senior, rounds out the lists of prospects for the quarter-mile. Last year Mel chalked up a great 50.9-second time, but he will have to really work this year to make a top spot in that event and in the mile relay.

Mel has started rather slow thus far and missed the Archers' first meet against Elkhart.

Senior Tom Bolyard, who placed third at State in the half-mile last year, is a sure bet to lead the mile relay team. Big Tom's basketball abilities have overshadowed his track talents, but the all-round athlete is equally great on the cinders as on the hardwood.

Thus, the quarter-mile is extremely strong with five boys hovering around the 52-second mark early in the season. None can afford to slip because there will always be someone to replace him.

The mile relay picture is cloudy as far as who will run, but it undoubtedly will be packed with speed. It appears that Coach Gernand has a difficult but enjoyable choice to make as for its members.

NHS Banquet Theme To Be Based On Lincoln's Inaugural Address

"Plans for the annual National Honor Society Banquet to be held April 17, at 6:30 p.m. in the Chamber of Commerce Building, are completed," stated Mr. Jack Weicker, chairman.

With the help of his committee, Mrs. Mildred Luse, Mrs. Robert Gernand, Mr. Jack Morey, and Mr. Ernest Walker, Mr. Weicker has announced that the theme of the banquet will be centered around the celebration of the sesquicentennial anniversary of Abraham Lincoln's birth.

From Lincoln's second inaugural address, the famous quotation, "With malice toward, with charity for all, with firmness in the right as God gives us to see the right, let us strive on . . .", will be the basis for the banquet. Decorations will also be based on the Lincoln theme.

# # #

MR. R. NELSON SNIDER, principal, will be the toastmaster for the banquet, and James Drummond will present the invocation.

Mrs. Ann Abbett Gargett, former graduate of South Side, will present a welcoming speech. Following this the faculty will participate in the presentation of pins to the National Honor Society members.

Beverly Stanton will be the first to speak on "With Malice Toward None." John Shannahan will follow with a speech entitled "With Charity for All." "With Firmness in the Right" will be the topic of Kathy Schwalm's speech. Concluding the student speeches will be Stanley Hoover speaking on "Let Us Strive On . . ."

Music will be furnished by the National Honor Society Choir. Mr. Snider will conclude the banquet with a speech entitled "The Future."

The menu will consist of fruit cocktail, relishes, swiss style round steak with bordelaise sauce, baked potato with sour cream, corn, chef's salad with assorted dressings, rolls, butter, coffee, tea, milk, and peach pie.

Miss Young On Salary Committee

Miss Lutie Young, mathematics teacher, is to be a member of the Indiana Classroom Teachers Association salary committee. This committee sets up a Salary Workshop each year.

The committee is responsible for assembling facts concerning tax issues, living costs throughout the state, and providing speakers, panelists, discussion leaders, and consultants for the workshop.

The workshop is a meeting at which about 300 classroom teachers exchange ideas and discuss problems faced in various localities about adjusting teachers' salaries.

Seniors Offered Scholarships

Attention, seniors! Graduation is fast approaching and so are the coveted scholarships.

This year, for the first time, scholarships for students who want to become nurses, physical therapists, or occupational therapists are being offered to South Side students. Those who are sincerely interested in such a scholarship and are in the top five per cent of their class should see Mr. Ora Davis, guidance director, for further information at once.

These scholarships pay $500 a year, or a total of $2,000 for four years of college training. This program offers a minimum of 505 scholarships each year with no state receiving fewer than five, one for each of the health professions included in this program. The program is sponsored by the March of Dimes.

The opportunities in these professions are great. The fields of nursing, physical therapy and occupational therapy are understaffed; so there is a good job awaiting every graduate. These jobs are open in all parts of the nation and a trained specialist can pick his own area.

At least 70,000 nurses are needed now, and it is estimated that the need will steadily increase. Most people think that a nurse is merely a "doctor's helper," but there are many other roles open to nurses. Nursing may lead to public health work, teaching, administration, and research.

Applications for this scholarship must be in by May 1, 1959. Winners will be announced this June or July. Graduates of this scholarship program are not restricted to work in the health fields of special interest to the National Foundation, which are polio, birth defects, and arthritis. They are, however, expected to serve the health fields, working as members of the profession for which they are prepared.

"Pop's Soda Shoppe" Is Theme Of Talent Show

This year the theme of the Talent Show, to be Tuesday, is centered around a drug store and the title is "Pop's Soda Shoppe." The stage setting will center around a counter, juke box, and records.

Special meetings were held Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday of last week for those wishing to try out for the talent show.

Those who tried out for the show were Lucille Palevich, who sang "I'm in Love with a Wonderful Guy"; Aletha Staight, who recited "Tomboy"; Connie Franz, who danced to "Pink Shoe Laces"; Margo Dixon, Molly Dixon, Carol Lockwood, and Janet Lawry, who did a dance to "Slaughter on 10th Avenue."

Marilyn Bugg, Marcia Mosel, and Lynne Gall sang "It Had to Be You"; Betty Ensley sang "Over the Rainbow"; Jan Martindale, Linda Meyers, Mary Jane Spindler, Sally Mierass, and Susie Scott did a Charleston to the song "Ma."

Sharon Probst played the organ; Sue Hiller sang "A Very Precious Love"; Camille Luther and Marty Morell danced to a bop record; Brenda Dull danced to "You're An Old Smoothie."

Jim Saylors, Jack Winder, Nick Roemke, and Grant Osborne sang "Blue Moon"; Sandy Hearn sang "Pink Shoe Laces."

Sue Vesey, Penny Hunt, Merle Baldwin, Bessie Ferguson, Sue Sappenfield, and Marion McCallister danced a Charleston; Harv Trees and Ricky Bush played several numbers on the electric guitar; Mimi Hindman danced to "Peter Gunn"; and Barb Wallace and Pam Holtzberg did a dance to modern jazz. Many others tried out. Those who will be in the Talent Show were announced last Tuesday.

Tin Pan Alley Atmosphere Highlights Soph's Party

The atmosphere of New York's famed Tin Pan Alley will strike the party-goers of the Sophomore Party, April 24, from 8 p.m. to 11 p.m., immediately. A clothes line, complete with old clothes and white letters proclaiming Tin Pan Alley, will hang across the entrance. The line will be supported by a clothes pole in the middle, forming an arch for them to go under. A few garbage cans will complete the scene.

The Tin Pan Alley effect of the party, open to 10A's and 11B's, will be heightened by shadows of a New York skyline, stretching across the south end of the gym. A few windows of the silhouetted buildings, which will hang in front of the gray curtain used for assemblies, will be lighted by spotlights from behind the curtain for contrast.

A lamp post, a black cat sitting on a fence, and a few more garbage cans decorate the stage, also at the south end of the gym, in front of the buildings.

# # #

KOOL KATS WILL adorn the walls. The four feet high cardboard cats are dressed in jackets and blow "Kool Horns." Supplementing the eight "Kats" will be record albums, musical instruments, and musical notes, mounted on lattice work.

Gold and silver stars will shine in the "sky" above the dance floor, and a big moon will hang over the DJ spinning the records.

The new cafeterin, used for refreshments, will have the aura of a New York night club. Red and white checked table cloths and wine bottles with candles dripping tallow will decorate the tables. Life size silhouettes of men playing instruments will complete the scene. On the outside, a sign above the door will give the nightclub a name, while the stairs coming down to the cafeteria may be decorated with a few more garbage cans.

A narration describing the history of Tin Pan Alley music from its beginning in New Orleans until now constitutes the program. Five acts will dramatize the stage music has gone through throughout the talk. One act may be a surprising package, giving a hint of the future music of Tin Pan Alley.

Molly Dixon and Sheri DeYoung will do a modern dance to "Slaughter on Tenth Avenue." Gonda Rider will dance to "Night Train." A group of sophomore boys and a group of girls will each do a pantomime. A combo will play softly during the narration and will also do a special number.

# # #

GIRLS ARE ASKED to wear pretty cottons, and boys, sports jackets, to the party. The party is limited to 10A's and 11B's. Tickets, priced at 60 cents, may be bought from homeroom agents, but no tickets will be sold at the door.

The homeroom representatives are Joan Rothchild, 45—Mr. Murray; Steve Pohl, 94—Mrs. Luse; Bob Bechert, cafe—Mr. Berg; Tom Felger, 188—Mr. Geyer; Linda Vollmer, 66—Mr. Gersmehl; Sue Getty, 12—Mr. Arnold; Barb Keller, 38—Mr. Hostetler; Pat Shuler, 64—Mr. Gernand; Linda McNeal, 79—Mrs. Leif; Val Callahan, 150—Mr. Coats; Jody Reiff, 138—Miss Rehorst; Nancy Vanderford, 14—Mr. Whelan; Katherine Misegades, 50—Mr. Drummond; Sandra Tracy, 34—Mrs. Welty; Karen Curley, 184—Miss Covalt; Bonnie Bender, 61—Miss Pohlmeyer; and Bob Shine, 114—Mr. Stebing.

Nine Students Withdraw

Those students withdrawing from South Side are Jerry Figg who has moved to Texas, Charles Miller who has quit, Sylvia Hanson who has quit, Ruth Ashton who has quit, and Ed Gross who has quit. Sandra Tracy has moved to Illinois, Larry Wright has joined the Navy, and Dan Mahan and Nancy Lanson quit to work.

Work On Banquet Continues In Hi-Y

A regular meeting of the Hi-Y Club was held at 7:30 p.m. in the Assembly Room of the YMCA Monday night.

The members worked on the plans for the annual Best Girl Banquet. The general chairman for the banquet this year is Stan Hoover, and Terry Berk is in charge of presenting the awards.

Nominations for the Best Girl were made last night. These nominations will be voted on by write-in ballots at a later date.

The entertainment for the members consisted of a swim in the pool at the YMCA.

Six Kellys To Hear Mathematics Talk

A lecture on mathematics will be conducted by Dr. Phil Jones at North Side High School, Thursday. Dr. Jones was brought here by the counselor of mathematics at the University of Michigan.

These students will be excused for this lecture.

Business Teachers Attend Management Meeting

Five South Side business teachers attended the Annual Educational Seminar, sponsored by the Fort Wayne Chapter of Office Management at the Chamber of Commerce, Monday afternoon and evening.

Those who were present are Mr. Earl Murch, Miss Virginia Ayers, Miss Nell Covalt, Mr. Ernest Walker, and Mr. Russell Furst.

South To Offer Reading Classes

The Developmental Reading Department at South Side is offering students a five-week, two-hour per day reading course this summer. Two daily classes will begin Monday, June 8, and extend through Friday, July 10. A maximum of twenty-four students can be accommodated in each class. The fee is $20 with an enrollment deposit of $2; the balance to be paid when the course begins.

The emphasis of the course will be the development of speed and comprehension in a wide variety of reading situations. The course will offer reading practice with the trachistoscope, the controlled reader, and the reading pacers. Students will have an opportunity to do extensive reading in books of their own choosing as well as selected materials.

The average student enrolled in the course should be able to double his beginning rate as well as maintain a good comprehension.

Further information can be obtained from Mr. Coats in Room 150, who will be the teacher for the summer course. Registration blanks may be secured in the office. The best procedure to follow for those interested is to consult parents and then enroll immediately.

Times, Totem Set Meeting For Friday

A meeting will be conducted in Room 16 at 3:30 p.m. tomorrow night for all those desiring to work on the Times or Totem next year. An opportunity will be given to sign up for positions on both. However, all positions on the Totem, except photographers, are open only to seniors.

Joan Littlejohn Rotary Winner

The long hard struggle to the top is now over for Joan Littlejohn because last Monday she won the final state contest in the Rotary Club speech contest. Her competitors in the contest were two boys.

The contest was held at the forty-sixth annual conference of District 654 Rotary International at the Pick-Oliver Hotel in South Bend. This district is comprised of 40 clubs of the northern half of the state. Joan is winner of this district.

Each year the Rotary Club selects a topic and sends it to each school in the district. This year's topic was "Education Is the Answer." The speech was an eight-to-ten minute original memorized oratory.

Joan won the right to go to the state contest by first winning the school, then city, then the regional, and finally the sectional.

Three Skits To Be Given At Philo On April 20

Three skits, planned by Karen Brumm, will be presented to Philo on April 20. The skits will be judged by English teachers and the participants in the best skit will receive a number of points. Plans for the Mother-Daughter Tea will also be discussed.

At the last meeting, Mary Sue Robertson read an original mock epic, entitled "The Wad of Clod." The talent number, "The Cat Angel," was presented by Linda Hard.

South Side's Accident Record Is No Longer Lowest In City

South Side no longer has the worst safety record in the city, announced Officier Robert Waldrop, High School Liaison Officer, in his report on the accident records of the five city schools. For the past several months this has not been the case, for South has placed among the lowest according to the total number of violations made within the period of a month each time.

The March violations show that Concordia tops them all with only two violations, Central being placed second with six violations, South Side third with 10 violations, and Central Catholic and North Side both having 15.

Lt. Ted W. Butz, School Safety Director, has announced the total violations from September, 1958, to March, 1959. Concordia leads this also having only 23 violations within this period of time, Central having 43, Central Catholic 55, South Side 65, and North Side 70.

In connection with the safety program of the Fort Wayne city schools, a Vocational Guidance Day was held Wednesday, April 1, 1959, at the Police Department Academy. Lt. Ted W. Butz acted as host for the several local high school students who were in attendance.

The purpose of this Guidance Day was to give the students an opportunity to obtain "first hand" information and to view "on the job" operations of the police profession. Many questions were answered by Lt. Ted W. Butz, and he hopes that this guidance session will have helped many of the students who are interested in this profession as a career. Following is the list of the students in attendance: Milo Osbun and Jim Hensel, Central Catholic; Nelson Baney and Sharon Kidwell, South Side; Carl Hever and Gene Baker, North Side; John E. Rey, Central; Richard Reinking, Concordia; and Dyana Mosier, Elmhurst.

Because safety is everybody's business, it is the sincere hope of the Safety Council, Lt. Ted W. Butz, and Officer Robert Waldrop that all students of South Side take notice of the improved record, and then set out to reach the top.

As a reminder, remember that only a few cautious seconds are needed to save a car, a truck, or a life.

Kelly Visits King Arthur's Court Meets Knights, Ladies, Dragons

Who says the age of chivalry is dead! Well, they're wrong, because I was there and I should know! So there!! I may sound a little excited, and I am. You would be too, if what happened to me had happened to you. However, I wish to state that I am not crazy and that there is not a history of insanity in our family.

I was calmly strolling down the hall, when I tripped over my own feet and landed smack on my pointed head. When I woke up, I was gazing into the eyes of a lovely damsel. The effect was slightly marred by the fact that I was dripping wet and that a handsome gent in shining armor was standing beside her with an empty bucket.

The gentleman introduced himself as Bob King, and his lovely lady as Sue Sappenfield. He casually informed me that this was Camelot and that King Arthur's Knights of the Round Table were in session if I cared to sit in on it.

Well, there I was; a South Side Archer in King Arthur's Court. Since I had nothing better to do, I decided to go listen to those cool knights spout off about the price of eggs.

Several knights were discussing whether the table should be round or square. Arguing the point, or rather circumference, were Chuck Jellison, Dan Bill, and Bob Mann.

Their fair ladies are pleading with them to stop discussing and go down town to shop with them. They seem to have a lot of influence with the knights, as the table is tabled and Marcia Mosel, Camile Luther, and Mary Sue Robertson head for town and a King Arthur Doozer, which corresponds to our hot dogs.

I decided to take my problem to Merlin the Magician, since Posy Weilemann wasn't around. When I arrived, he was giving lessons to Chris Parrott and Sue Horth on how to make jelly beans out of pebbles. Jim Somers and Pam Olsen are eating them as fast as they are made.

Edee White and Nick Arnold are next in line. Merlin gives them a lesson on how to fly, but Sally Dill and Dick Johnson, who have had this lesson, plus a few broken bones, try to dissuade them.

Diane Reiff, Bob Bryan (Central), Dave Hickman, and Judy Cramer have gone into the magic business for themselves. It seems that Merlin has given one too many lessons, and charged two too many cents. I gave up on Merlin and went there because they said that Merlin was a big fake anyway.

When I told them my problem, they referred me to Diane Irmscher and Jack Winder, who specialize in water wings. Evidently they figured I was all wet.

This hurt my delicate feelings, so I went back to Merlin. Even if he was a fake, he had more tact. But when I got there, I saw him take off his beard and start getting ready for a date with Marijane Tobey. It was none other than Steve Burton, the old faker. He sent me over to Dave Crapo and Cindy Miller. Somehow, I felt that I was getting a run-a-round.

As I was going over to see Cindy and Dave, I saw another fair damsel, Sharon Ruhl, running away from a fire-breathing dragon. This was my chance to be a hero. Maybe then somebody would listen to me. Just as I was about to go to the rescue, Bob Ochsle dashed up on a white charger and rescued her instead. Dave Roderick and Merle Baldwin explained that this kind of chance-to-be-a-hero-stealing went on all the time. Sharon Longenberger and Neil Mieras further explained that this was getting to be somewhat of a problem because they were running out of dragons.

Bill Moore and Ruth Dill came up, asking what had happened. When they found out, I heard them asking if in 1959 there would be any fire-breathing dragons and all that kind of thing.

When I told them what it would be like in 1959, Tom White and John Slick started to get very angry. Much against the wishes of Diane Decker and Posy Weilemann . . . Whamoo!

When I woke up for the second time, I saw Linda Amos and Judy Koontz about to toss a bucket of ice on me. Gene Menze and George Earl, NSHS, stopped that maneuver, bless their little heads. That was all I needed.

I told my story to Tom Graham and Susie Starr, but they didn't believe me. I guess they're not thinking men.

Leading Citizens Say Latin Helpful

A number of our Latin 2 students contacted some of Fort Wayne's leading citizens asking them how Latin had proved to be valuable to them in pursuing their careers.

Mr. A. T. Lindley, superintendent of Fort Wayne Community Schools, stated, "Latin has helped me to understand words and their meanings better, and has definitely deepened my appreciation of the English language."

Mr. Eugene E. Smith, member of the Indiana State House of Representatives from Allen County, wrote, "Both in my academic and my practical endeavors, I have found the study of Latin to be most helpful, primarily in making it possible to grasp quickly related meanings of words or phrases that I had never seen before."

In an interview, Mr. E. Ross Adair, representative to Congress from this area, stated that he had benefitted greatly from his four years' study of Latin and had found it especially helpful in his practice of law since many legal terms come directly from Latin.

Also, when Representative Adair saw military service in France during World War II, Latin was a key factor in his mastery of the native tongue since it is the basis for French as well as several other European languages.

Igor Buketoff, conductor of the Fort Wayne Philharmonic Orchestra, replied thus to this question: "Latin has helped me tremendously in my trips to Europe, because it enabled me to pick up the other languages more easily. So many of the words were similar to American words, and it was very handy to be able to understand the different tongues."

Boy's Trip To Rome Year Too Early

By Bob Keegan

In the summer of 1957 I was fortunate enough to go to Europe. On this trip I spent five days in Rome. Being the typical tourist as I was, I sought the guided tour as the method by which I could see the sights. These tours are somewhat general but they offer a good way to see most of the famous landmarks in a relatively short amount of time.

At this time I hadn't studied Rome in a thorough manner, so I thought this general approach would be the best way. I saw Rome in the aspect of both ancient and modern times. I saw the Pantheon, St. Peter's Basilica, the Vatican, the memorial to Victor Emmanuel, the ancient Appian Way, and I even got a glimpse of the catacombs.

But perhaps the most impressive thing I saw was the Roman Forum. The Forum was the ancient business, religious, governmental, and political center of Rome. Here were many temples to the various divinities, arches, and public buildings. The Tabularium still is used to house the records of modern-day Rome.

At the time, though, the Forum seemed to offer little interest to me. As I looked over the remains I was able to recognize only a few landmarks. I knew only the Rostra and the arch of Septimus Severius.

The next year in Latin 6 we had a concentrated study of Rome and the Forum in particular. We familiarized ourselves with the layout of the Forum and had to be able to draw a map, locating the main buildings and temples. As we looked at pictures of the Forum in class, I found it very interesting to name the buildings that I saw but couldn't name at the time.

For this I can thank my background in Latin for it has taught me a greater appreciation of the plan of ancient Rome which remains today. I only wish that at the time I had had this background for it would have added much to my visit. Someday if I am ever so fortunate to return, I plan to take advantage of what I have learned for I know that it will prove invaluable to me as well as interesting.

Romans Gave Us Idea Of Personal Liberty, Respect

By Dave Redmond

Did you know that you are living in a borrowed society? The words you use, the land you live on, the laws which govern the behavior you practice: all these are borrowed from somewhere or someone.

Let us consider, for example, our system of government as set down by our Constitution. You are certainly aware that the framers of this great document did not snatch its sublime truths from mid-air, but do you know where those men did get them?

The fact is that they delved back some 2,000 years to the spirit of the law of ancient Rome. Our triple-branched governmental system has close parallels in the ancient Roman republic. Our executive branch with its President corresponds to the dual consuls which presided in the Roman assembly centuries ago; our Senate and House of Representatives are similar to the venerable senate of Cicero and Julius Caesar; the Supreme Court roughly resembles the high tribunals of Rome.

Important as the government of Rome is to us, however, you may be surprised to learn that this is of secondary importance. Our most important "borrowing" from the Roman way of life is the conception of individual integrity.

In the age of republican Rome, the most common method of government was despotism, despotism in its most extreme form. In such systems, a ruler or king literally "owned" everything and everyone who happened to fall within his particular domain. Neither human life nor private property were sacred, only the word of the ruler who generally exercised his power to its furthest extent.

In Rome, however, this was not the case; the individual was worthy of respect; each citizen had a hand in his government. This precept is fundamental and absolutely essential in any society where men are to be free.

In a very real sense then, your chance for "life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness" stem from that which lies between the covers of your Latin text. Don't toss it off lightly.

Atlas

Atlas bears tall
Like a bulwark or wall.
Like a mountain he stands
With the world in his hands.
His head's in a cloud
The snows are his shroud.
Pines gird his head
Green grass forms his bed.
From his beard ice hangs
Like long shiny fangs.
A mighty man he appears to all
For where would we be if he should fall?

P.S. from PENNY

Amici, Romani, Patria homines! His dies Circi Latini est! Utinam! (If you know what I mean.) For a translation see a Latin student and please pardon any mistakes. Well, enough Latin, at least I think it's Latin.

Isn't the human brain a marvelous thing? It begins working as soon as we wake up and stops as soon as first period begins.

Have you seen all the people with bronze Florida and/or Texas and/or sunlamp tans? Doesn't it make you feel as though you'd been shut in a house for about four years and look as white as a lily? Well, I'll show them, just wait until I bask in the hot Indiana sun; I know I'll have gained one thing—a cold.

Anyway, speaking of Florida, Susie Holmes spun quite a fish story while soaking up the sun. Actually it was a seal story. Susie told all the natives that she is a student at the University of Alaska, majoring in seal-skinning no less. She must have been quite convincing or knows an awful lot about the subject, for everyone believed her.

WHY DO HURRICANES have women's names? Girls, don't you agree that boys are much stormier? Since no one disagrees, maybe we ought to write a letter to someone and suggest that they be called something like Abe, Bob, and Carl, right, girls? If you boys disagree, you must give proof.

A few days before Easter my sister came to a brilliant conclusion and decided to tell the world about it: "You know, I don't believe all that Santa Claus and Easter Bunny stuff," she announced. Quite surprised, my mother answered, "Well, that's sure going to make things an awfully lot easier around here."

Now it was my sister's turn to be surprised; so after thinking of Christmas with no presents and Easter with no eggs, she quickly changed her mind, and said, "I'm beginning to believe again." I'm sorry if I spoiled some of your Christmases and Easters, but I guess you had to know sometime.

Archers Comment On Population

Many and varied were the answers when a few Archers were asked how they thought the growing world population endangers human survival. Anyway they weren't exactly what had been expected.

Dave Wallace: There would not be enough "Superman" comics to supply the needs of the high school students.

Jan Davies: There would be even less room in Miller's after school.

Tom Bear: There would be a shortage of "Mads."

Larry Lee: What . . . me worry?

Sue Harrod: To eliminate this problem make Russian roulette the national sport.

Susie Hines and Susie Bumgerdner: There would be more Lee's and Mike's.

Marc Speelmon: I don't think the growing world population has anything to do with human survival; you see kiddies, we are not carniverous cannibals.

Sarah Finch: If there were any more Judy Evanses, I would be out of jellybeans.

Carl Weaver: If you call Mrs. Bailey (the one that hit me) growing population . . . she sure endangered my survival.

Lawrence Harris Brown: With a box lunch now and then, I can survive anywhere.

Fama

Now through the teeming towns of Tripoli
Cruel Gossip speeds—and what more swift than she?
Mobility lends strength; this monster grows.
First small in fear, she forthwith festers, goes
A-soaring in the skies, soon recondite
And hidden by the clouds from mortals' sight.
The Mother Earth brought Gossip forth in hate
Toward gods, who fain would quickly abrogate
The curse of Fama, known to all of us
As Coeus' sister, and Enceladus.
So swift of foot is she, and wicked wing;
A vile and vulgar, lurking, loathesome thing.
How huge she looms; her plumage intertwined
With watchful eyes brings horor to the mind.
A thousand mouths, a thousand tongues are heard;
A thousand ears bedeck this woman-bird.
Black night her sleepless course does supervise;
She skims through shadows 'twixt the earth and skies.
By day this sentinel, on roof or tow'r,
Holds fast the cities in her ruthless pow'r;
For this cruel harbinger, this serpent's-tooth,
Exults far more in falsehood than in truth.

Book Reviews

By John Wilks

It is required that every Latin pupil read at least one library book chosen from a list compiled by teachers. All these books give the student a background of life in early Roman times.

One such book is "The Roman Moon Mystery" by Jay Williams. This story is much like a modern detective story that one would view on television. Woven into this mystery is the conflict between the Christians and the Jews.

Even though this book is on the Latin reading list, it would make interesting reading for any high school student.

By Bill Brackney

In "Athletics of the Ancient World" by E. Norman Gordiner, a short and simple account of the history and practice of athletics in the ancient world is given.

The illustrations are a special feature of this book, and they should prove helpful to anyone who reads the book.

Full notes are provided giving dates, references, and other details. An Index of Museum References is also included.

Over half of the book is devoted to sports of the Romans. The different sports activities mentioned in the book are boxing, running, wrestling, jumping, and throwing the javelin.

Anyone interested in athletics will find this an interesting book.

By Judy Garrison

If anyone would like to read a very inspiring and wonderful book, I suggest "The Robe" by Lloyd C. Douglas. The story concerns the Robe of Jesus Christ and the conversion of a Roman soldier to Christianity.

The action begins immediately; and, although the story is long, one will find it very interesting.

I suggest that every person read this book at some time in his life. He will have a new insight into the power of Jesus.

Effects Of Spring Fever Prevalent Everywhere

Spring has sprung at long last and with it come not only April showers and May flowers, but the inevitable spring fever. This malady makes itself known in various ways, but it affects everyone. No one is immune. The older generation is overwhelmed with filling out their income tax forms. There is a sudden exodus to the bright outdoors after a long winter. The younger set brings out their roller skates, rusty from disuse, and their jumping ropes and hula hoops. These and other symptoms herald the approach of spring.

The high school track teams are out running and jumping hurdles with boundless energy. The annual cheerleading tryouts art starting, students are racking their brains for ideas for prom decorations, and convertible tops go down. The tennis courts and golf links have opened, and faces tanned by the sun begin to appear, leaving the sunlamps until winter comes again. It becomes increasingly more difficult to concentrate on school, and more and more you find yourself gazing out the window, thinking about something which is completely out of the realm of geometry or history.

Along with all the fun of spring, a more serious note appears. There is a little more studying so that the finals can be passed, and complete freedom had for three glorious months instead of summer school. The seniors, who are busy with all the things that must be done in the final weeks before graduation, are a little saddened because this is their farewell, and everyone is a little sad to see them go. Yes, spring has sprung, and so has its accomplice, spring fever.

Every Latin student! Remember the Circus tonight! Come and show off your fancy dress.

Our thanks go to the photographers who brave the early morning hours to take pictures for struggling editors.

Anywhere you go, remember that you make a better window than a door. Ha! Fooled you!

Try to remember to remember to not procrastinate. Only if you feel you are well qualified, of course.

Hoover Takes Over Reins Of Archer Golf Squad

Mr. Warren Hoover, assistant football coach, has taken over the management of the South Side golf squad. The appointment may be a short one, as Mr. Hoover is taking over during the temporary absence of long time golf coach, Mr. Robert Drummond.

Mr. Hoover has shown his worth at South Side during the past two football seasons. Previously, Coach Hoover headed football and track at Winchester, Indiana. He also was the Reserve Basketball coach. Prior to his Winchester stay "Hoov," coached in Millford, Ill., where he assisted in football and basketball, while being head tennis coach.

Coach Hoover hopes that his team will be a good one and expects that it will, in view of the present playing abilities shown by all members of the squad.

The golf season was held up as result of Mr. Drummond's many commitments, so Mr. Hoover will have his work cut out for him in order to develop the slicers into a top flight golf power during the spring session.

25 Archers Try For Golf Team

Six Return To Squad; First Meet On April 17

Although followed by a small percentage of fans, golf at South Side is one of the most popular spring sports. A total of 25 boys will test their clubs in an attempt to qualify for this year's squad.

Try-outs will be complete after each candidate enters his scores from nine holes at Fairview, 18 holes at Municipal, and 18 holes at Brookwood golf courses.

Mr. Warren Hoover, the assistant football coach, will lead the squad for the year during the temporary absence of the regular golf coach, Mr. Robert Drummond.

Returning from last year's squad are aces Bink Gilardi, John Biteman, Tom Graham, Bill Berning, Bill Platka, and Bob LeFever.

The first meet of the year will be a match with the Garrett team on April 17. In city competition, Coach Hoover thinks that the Central Catholic and Elmhurst golf teams will prove the toughest opponents.

Scoring in a golf meet can consist of a low-medal score for nine holes, the low-medal for 18 holes, the lowest total points compiled by the four members of each team, match play on each team, or match play on each hole.

Coach Hoover states, "The team should be a good one with the large number of returning players, and the large number of candidates for the team."

The full schedule for the year has not yet been completed.

Lions Club Honors South's Team, Coach

The Central Lions Club of Fort Wayne honored South Side's basketball team, coaches, and Mr. Snider in an annual banquet for the City Basketball Champions, April 8, at the Chamber of Commerce.

The president of the club, Mr. Robert W. Durham, presented the school a plaque in recognition for having the outstanding city basketball team. The plaque, bearing the name of each team member and coach, was accepted by the five senior players.

The highlight of the noon luncheon was a speech by Mr. Jim Gibbons.

Frosh Thinlies Subdue Cadets

Opening the 1959 season on a happy note, South Side's freshman track aggregation walked off with a close 60-48 decision over the Concordia Cadets Friday, April 10, at the South Side Stadium.

The meet was close all the way, with Don Reichert's crew holding a slim one-point advantage over the Maroon with all individual events completed. South needed to win one of the two relays to chalk up a victory. Rising to the occasion, the Archers grabbed the blue ribbon to pad their victory margin.

No outstanding times were achieved due to cold, rainy weather. However, Archer Ken Robinson did consistently well, grabbing three firsts and anchoring the victorious mile relay team.

The all-round athlete took the high hurdles in :18.5, the 440-yard dash in a :60.2 time, and leaped five feet, 11 inches in the high jump, easily outbounding his closest pursuers.

# # #

IN THE MOST exciting race of the meet, the mile relay, South never led except at the finish line. Concordia jumped out to an early lead and kept it for the first three-quarters of the race. On the last leg Archer Robinson received the baton trailing the Cadets' anchorman by 12 yards. Gaining with every stride, "Robby" trailed by only two steps going into the home stretch.

In the last 10 yards the Archer "stalwart" pulled out all stops to catch the Cadet runner, winning by scant inches in a near photo finish.

# # #

SOUTH SIDE showed its strength in the dashes with Bandemer winning the century; Meek, the 220; and Robinson, the 440-yard dash. The Archers easily won the half-mile relay where each man sprints 220 yards.

Concordia's lack of depth and versatility led to their downfall. Hartman was the only "hero" in the Cadet camp after winning both the mile and the half-mile. Vaulter Adair, broad jumper West, and low sticks man Markey picked up the other blue ribbons for the Cadets.

# # #

Schmitz On Sports

Chambers has those boys from North Side rolling along in fine style and has local track fans talking about North's return to track supremacy; but everyone counted South and Central down last year before the latter two showed their class to the dismay of the North Side partisans.

# # #

South's defending Sectional track champs find their title in peril as North walked all over South and downtown foe Central by 72 2/3 to 45 1/3 for the Kellys and 39 for Central.

# # #

It makes Archer fans shudder; but, although the Green were snowed under by the 'Skins in the triangular, the results were most encouraging towards the Green and White's cause. When the Archers get in prime shape the Kellys will present North with all the trouble it can possibly handle in the way of local competition.

# # #

Before passing up the track season for a lost cause, Archer fans must recall that the Redskin thinlies opened their season two weeks before their other local foes and began training extensively much sooner.

# # #

When Tom Bolyard is back in shape and the rookie sophomores season with time, the Archers will be a rugged outfit.

# # #

Central is worthy of recognition since its mainstays, Cal Thomas and Henry King, were missing from action. Thomas is certain of running up front in the high and low hurdles which should add a little zest to the Tiger attack and a few needed points to the Tiger tally. King also is counted on heavily by Central Coach Pete Williams in the long distances.

# # #

As for the Archers the prospects look good. Only in the dashes do the Archers show signs of failing to place; that was the gap that "stopped" South last campaign. Joe Roth and Fred VonGunten were edged by North's Mike Poorman. These two, and other Kelly 440 prospects, can count on good weather and more conditioning to eradicate that little difference.

# # #

With Tom Bolyard making his reappearance in the half, the Kellys might count on disposing of another blue ribbon winner for North in Tom Stanski. Incidentally, Tom's brother, Bob Bolyard, has been striding well in the 880 with times under 2:10.

# # #

South's milers also showed promise in the annual event at Northrop Field with fine times good for second and fourth places. Al Rainbolt captured second and Ed Hartman captured a fourth.

# # #

But overshadowing these individual potentialities are the continued feats of fabulous shot-putter Jim Dawson. The big guy gave competing upperclassmen woes with a mighty toss of 46 feet, six inches.

# # #

As Dawson grabs most of the limelight the past few weeks, Tom Bolyard stepped back into his spikes, spurring the turf and conversation about his quarter-mile stint in the third leg of the mile relay. Bolyard's return led the Green foursome over the 1,760-yard course in 3:37.3, the best time thus recorded in the area.

# # #

Looking forward to Saturday's North Side Relays which should prove most interesting, look for the Archers to shed the green in this one and give competitors a rugged going. Coach Gernand and his charges would love taking the measure of the big meet to avenge a loss to Lima last year, the one foreigner on the Ohio squad, who had assistance from graduated Bob Eickoff, who spoiled local hopes for a win when he nipped South's favorite combo, Dan Howe in the hurdles, and Rich Miller in the pole vault.

# # #

South's netters stepped out with the wrong company in their opening match to get stunned by C.C., 6-1, as Mr. Havens, head coach, frets over the loss of last season's sophomore sensation, Dick McGaw. McGaw has been refraining from competing on doctor's orders.

# # #

Another Archer coach is doubling his duties. With several two-sport coaches and a few three-sport instructors operating, Mr. Warren Hoover joins the ranks as temporary golf mentor. He is substituting for Coach Drummond, whose extra activities have diminished his effectivenss as full time coach.

Upperclass GAA Turns In Results

Team 1 defeated Team 2 in Upperclass GAA Monday in the gym. The score was 5-2. High scorers in the game were Jan Kessler, Pat Igney, Peggy Markin, Carol Hofer, Barb Markiton, and Alberta Bonnell.

Marilyn Dauscher was chosen captain of Team 1 and Rita Hessert, captain of Team 2. Members of Team 1 were Pat Igney, Susan Kuroski, Joan Motley, Sandy Grodrian, Peggy Markiton, Shelba Cox, Judi Thompson, Dixie Piercy, Melodie Potts, Shirley Stahlhut, and Betty Harter.

Carol Hofer, Jan Kessler, Joan Mueller, Barb Markiton, Valerie Callahan, Connie Denis, Donna Barnes, Jeannette Lynn, Alberta Bonnell, Jane Glass, Michele Flaig, and Barb Nahrwold were the Team 2 members.

Bella Dyson and Martha Bonnell were the umpires and Mrs. Keegan, sponsor, kept score.

Kellys To Face Muncie Tuesday

Bearcats Are Strong In Hurdles, Dashes

South Sides' thinlies will journey to Muncie next Tuesday to meet the Muncie Central track team in what promises to be a closely contested battle.

The Bearcats have sufficient strength in the hurdles, mile, and the dashes to give the Archers plenty of competition. Ray Jimerson of Muncie is their best hurdler. He has posted times of 17.2 seconds and 22.4 seconds in the high and low respectively.

Ron Williams is the Bearcats' best sprinter, and has posted times of 10.8 seconds in the century and 24.1 seconds in the 220-yard dash.

In the mile, the Centralites are led by senior Bob Patterson, who posted a 4:46.7 mile in an early outdoor meet of the season with Anderson.

Central also appears strong in the shotput, where their leading man, DeVault, has bettered 50 feet. The pole vault is also another Muncie Central strong point; vaulter Bill Alfont has already cleared 12 feet this season.

The claim of victory may be decided in the relays where each team appears to have plenty of talent. In the Anderson meet, the Cats ran the mile relay in 3:41.3 while they clipped off the half-mile relay in 1:39.1.

Roman Customs In Contrast To Today's

Vestal Virgins

The Vestal Virgins of old Rome were some of the most honored women who have ever lived and were completely devoted to their duty. Vestals were priestesses of Vesta, goddess of the hearth.

The six girls who were taken as Vestals had to be about 10 years old and could not have any scars or deformities. They served a term of 30 years; the first 10 learning, the second 10 performing their duties, and the last 10 years teaching. During the 10-year period of learning, they were taught to read, write, and play musical instruments. However, the most important job was to keep the sacred fire of Rome burning. It was thought that if this fire went out, Rome would be destroyed.

Although the priestesses did not have the privileges of going to the public baths or marrying as other women did, they could travel anywhere in Rome at any time of the day, which was done by no one but the Vestals.

At the end of their 30-year term, they could stay as a Vestal or withdraw to lead the usual life of a Roman woman.

Roman Travel

By Stan Redding

The Roman cared little for travel. He traveled just when he needed to, and even then he kept in touch with friends through very long letters.

One mode of transportation was by water. Although sailing vessels were used, there were very few lines of boats on a fixed schedule between certain places. Some people bought boats or chartered one, but some could not afford to. These people had to wait until a boat went to his destination. Water travel was, therefore, avoided as much as possible.

Another mode, land travel, was better than that in America at the time of the Revolution. The Roman horses were equal to those in the Revolution and the roads, except for very modern roads, were the best that have been built. Vehicles came in all types, sizes, shapes, and the like. Some were covered, others uncovered; some had two wheels, others had four; and some could be pulled by one horse, others by two or more. The Romans had many of these for hire just outside the gates of important towns.

Carriages of different kinds showed luxury while others were very common. The carpentum is one which was considered luxurious but it was not much of a traveling carriage. The carruca is another such van. The raeda and cisium were the most common. The raeda was used with large groups and baggage while the cisium was used for one, sometimes, two persons.

The roads were lavish and showed very great engineering skill on the part of the Romans. The proverb, "all roads lead to Rome," was certainly true. They also built many roads in Britain, some of which are still in use today.

In the Roman Empire, with the excellent roads and carriages for that time, travel by land was certainly better and used more than travel by water.

Roman Roads

By Don Nelson

Roads were an integral part of the Roman Empire. They were built primarily for military purpose, linking Rome to the newly conquered provinces. Since the roads were a necessity to the State, they were paid for from the State treasury except in the case of provincial roads. In the latter case, they were financed by taxes levied on the inhabitants.

Roman roads were quite expensive, $5,625 a mile. But their construction substantiated the cost, for the Romans disregarded all natural impediments. They built their roads as straight as possible; and if they came to rather small mountains, they simply tunneled through them, and over rivers they constructed a bridge and continued their road.

Also the Romans meant for their roads to endure through the ages, so they built them accordingly. First, a foundation of rubble was laid. Upon that, a layer of stones eight inches thick was placed. Then a second layer of stones set in lime again eight inches thick was laid down. A second layer of rubble was placed over that layer. And lastly, upon the layer of rubble, was the pavement proper which consisted of either hard stone or basaltic lava. The middle of the road was slightly higher than the edges so that there would be proper drainage. The width of the major roads was considerable, for two wagons could easily pass.

There were many Roman roads, but I am only going to discuss four of the well known ones.

The first great Roman road ever built is the Via Appia, built by the censor Appius Claudius in 312 B.C. The Via Appia or "Regina Viarum" is often called the Great South Bend. It commences in Rome at the Porta Capena and ends at Brundisium.

The Via Zatina was another important road. It too begins in Rome but ends at Beneventum. The Via Zatina was further inland than the Via Appia.

In addition, another artery of the Roman Empire was the Via Flaminia, afterward known as the Great North Road. The Via Flaminia, built by C. Flaminius, runs from the Porta Flaminia in Rome to Ariminum.

And lastly, is the Via Aurelia or the Great Coast Road. It commences in Rome and reaches Alsium on the coast. From there, it follows the shore of the lower sea along Etruria to Liguria, by Genoa, as far as Sulii in Gaul.

Consequently, Rome had extensive and well-built roads which reached into every territory of her great empire.

Roman Religion

By Carolyn DeVore

Roman religion was not as imaginative as the ancient Greek religion. Dieties of the Romans were somewhat vague in outline and very often the outgrowth of life of the farmers or needs of daily life. However, Roman gods and goddesses gradually became more definite and more stately under Greek influence. The Romans even kept the same dieties and legends as the Greeks, but of course with Latin names.

Although the Romans seem to have been "imitators," they did have some original gods such as Janus, the god with two faces who opened the year. He was also porter of heaven and guardian of the gates. Another god was Saturn, who the Romans thought had introduced agriculture, civilization, and government. He was honored by one of the chief festivals each year, the Saturnalia, which was held in the latter part of December. Also, since the home was an interest to every Roman, a goddess, Vesta, symbolized family life and had in her service, priestesses, the Vestal Virgins, who kept the fire on the hearth in the House of Vestal Virgins burning continually.

The dieties possessed human qualities and were distinguished from humans only by their greater power and immortality. However, humans such as Hercules and Orpheus could become gods, and some mortals assumed the name and some functions of gods and goddesses. A couple of these were Caesar and Cleopatra.

Festivals played an important part of Roman religion, and they were usually in honor of the dieties. They were accompanied with plays, sports, races, and gladitorial exhibitions. On these festive days, there were no legal business transactions, and all work was stopped.

The Romans thought that the gods lived on Mt. Olympus, and the Olympic Council consisted of Jupiter, king of the gods; Neptune, god of the sea, horses, and earthquakes; Apollo, god of the sun, music, poetry, and medicine; Mercury, messenger of the gods, god of commerce and theft; Mars, god of war; Vulcan, god of fire and workers in metal; Juno, queen of gods, wife of Jupiter; Ceres, goddess of agriculture; Diana, goddess of moon and hunting; Minerva, goddess of wisdom, war, and weaving; Venus, goddess of love and beauty; and Vesta, goddess of the hearth and home.

Burial Customs

The Roman view of the future life explains the importance they attached to the ceremony of the burial of the dead. The soul, they thought, could find rest only when the body had been duly laid in the grave. Until this was done, it haunted the home, unhappy itself and bringing unhappiness to others.

Performing funeral offices was a solemn religious duty, devolving upon the surviving members of the family. The Latin expression for such rites, "iusta facere," shows that these marks of respect were looked upon as the right of the dead.

In the case of a body lost at sea, or for any other reason unrecovered, the ceremonies were just as piously performed. An empty tomb was sometimes erected in the honor of the dead.

If a Roman came anywhere upon the unburied corpse of a citizen, he was bound to perform burial rites carefully, because all men were believed to be members of the greater family of the commonwealth. The scattering of three handfuls of dust over the body was sufficient for ceremonial burial and the happiness of the troubled spirit, if the body could not actually be interred.

Burial was the ancient Roman method of disposing of the dead. After cremation came into general use, it was still necessary to bury some small part of the remains, usually the bone of a finger. In Rome the practice of burial was never entirely discontinued, for cremation was too costly for the poorest class. Also, some of the wealthy and aristocratic families held fast to the more ancient custom.

The Twelve Tables forbade the burial or even the burning of the dead within the walls of the city. The well-to-do made their burial places as conspicuous as their means would permit, with the hope that the inscriptions upon the monuments would keep alive the virtues of the dead. They may have also felt that the dead still had some part in the busy life around them.

The great roads on either side of the city were lined for many miles with rows of tombs of the most elaborate and costly architecture. Other burial places near the city were less conspicuous and less expensive. On the farms and country estates similar provisions were made for persons of humbler station.

Value Of Latin For All Told

By David Flanigan

Latin is one of the most important and useful languages ever developed by man. It was important in earlier history, and, although it is a dead language, because no nation speaks it, it is still important now. Many of the world's languages, such as Italian, French, Portuguese, and Spanish, are derived from Latin. These tongues are known as the Romance languages. As a matter of fact, even English is greatly influenced by Latin in that 50 per cent of our words are derived from that language.

Because so many English words are derived from the Latin, knowledge of Latin words increases and augments English vocabulary. Also, Latin is helpful in English grammatical structure, and it gives training in accuracy, reasoning, and memory.

A good Latin background will help one to avoid embarrassing mistakes as to the usage and spelling of such English words as accept and except, assent and ascent, session and cession.

Also, a good knowledge of Latin helps one in several fields of work, and in terms used in such areas as business, agriculture, biology, and mathematics. In these cases, when coming upon a new word, one would be able to understand the meaning of the word, through previous experience with derivitives from that word in Latin.

Latin gives a good cultural background. One who understands abbreviations of Latin words used in literature, and can translate well-known Latin quotations, is more highly regarded culturally. In general, Latin gives a good, wholesome background to a life which is rich in intelligence, understanding, and culture.

Schoolboy's Day In Rome

By Bonnie Brenn

It is a warm spring morning in Rome, the center and ruler of the world. The year is 134 A.D. I am a 15-year-old Roman boy, Decimus. My father is Calvus, a senator of the high class.

I am assisted by my two private slaves as I wrap my dull wool toga on and secure it with pins. I slip my sandals on. They are mere leather soles fastened to my feet with thongs. My slaves pour perfume over my hands. Just as my dressing is finished, another slave announces by the water clock that it is time for breakfast.

My family sits down to breakfast. We eat only twice a day. The flat loaves of bread, which have been sprinkled with salt and dipped in wine, are hungrily devoured by all. Raisins, olives, cheese, and eggs are also served. While still seated at the table, father gives me my allowance. Father says it teaches me financial responsibility. Last week I spent my money too freely and was severely scolded for it.

MARCIPOR, THE slave or pedagogue who takes me to school and instructs me, announces it is time to go to school. So bidding my family good-bye, we depart from the table.

As we are leaving our house I notice my younger sister, Junia Prima, or Junia No. 1, is playing with her wax and ivory dolls, made by skillful Greek craftsmen. As soon as she reaches the proper age she will receive the favorite gift of all children. This is a carefully carved set of wooden letters, a sly device for teaching the alphabet. My youngest sister is named Junia Secunda, or Junia No. 2. Junia Prima is only 10 years old, but within two or three years she will be married.

Marcipor and I set out on foot for the school. The streets are very narrow and crowded. There are a countless number of shops which extend out into the streets. I trip over boards and placards set in front of a shop advertising foods. Now we are passing a barber shop. I enjoy watching the men inside as they get haircuts, manicures, facial massages, and strong-smelling pomatum smeared on their beards.

AT LAST WE enter the narrow room that is our school. Our teacher is Platorius. There are about 30 children in this school. There are a few chipped busts of Homer, Virgil, and Horace set around the room so that we may remember our heroes.

Platorius tells us we will begin our lessons by writing. I sit down on my bench, holding my smudgy, wax-covered tablets uncomfortably on my knee. Then I begin to write with my bone stylus. One end of the stylus is sharp for writing on the soft wax, while the other end is blunt for erasing. Marcipor, my pedogogue, watches over me to see if I write correctly.

Our school begins on March 24, when we pay Platorius our 16-cent entrance fee. This fee is paid once a month and is split wtih the pedagogues. All summer is a holiday, for it is too hot to study. We have a week's vacation for Saturnalia and New Year's Day. Then we have another one just before the school year begins again.

SINCE WE ARE in elementary school, we study literature, reading, writing, and arithmetic, with little use of books. Platorius lets us see a few musty rolls of papyrus sometimes. In a couple of years I must go to the Grammarians high school and then later to the Rhetoric school.

Outside my window I can hear one of the mock trials being carried on by a rhetoric school. The pupils are acting out on imaginary trial. They are supposing a father ordered his son to kill the youth's brother. The boy pretends to have obeyed the order, but the second lad really escaped. The father, at length, discovers the facts and prosecutes his first son for disobedience. One pupil argues that parents must be obeyed at any cost. But the trial ends with the ruling that no one can be compelled to kill his brother.

Now the school is buzzing noisily with confusion, while we recite. I believe our school is noisier than the amphitheater applauding a favorite gladiator. My friend, Cyrus, is getting flogged again. The gods surely forsake him when he is trying to learn his spelling.

Platorius calls on me to recite one of the long passages of Virgil I have had to memorize. I do a fairly good job, forgetting only a few phrases. But Platorius says I must recite it again later until it is perfect.

Now it is dusk, and school is dismissed. Marcipor and I set out for home.

After our evening meal I go to our library to ponder over some of my father's papyrus rolls. Then, the slave announces, by the water clock, that it is time to retire to bed. I do so and fall asleep with dreams about the wonders of Rome.

Girls' Softball Regulations Told By Gym Instructors

Girls' softball rules have recently been announced by Mrs. Alice Keegan and Miss Helen Pohlmeyer for the last event in the gym classes. 1. Pitching

   - B. The ball shall be thrown with an underarm swing.
   - C. The pitcher shall make no motion to pitch without immediately completing the delivery to the batter. Failure to observe these rules shall constitute an illegal pitch, causing a ball to be called in favor of the batter and allowing the base runners to advance one base without liability of being put out.
2. Batting
   - A. A regular order of batting shall be maintained at all times.
   - B. A batter shall be out if
     1. Three strikes are made or called.
     2. Any batted fair or foul fly ball is caught.
     3. A foul tip occurs on the third strike.
     4. She bunts foul after the second strike.
     5. She is hit by her own batted ball in fair territory before it is played by a fielder.
3. Running
   - A. A batter shall became a baserunner when
     1. She makes a fair hit.
     2. Four balls have been called on her.
     3. She is struck by a pitched ball unless she makes no effort to get out of the way, in which case the umpire shall call a ball or strike.
   - B. A base-runner shall touch each base as she advances around the diamond. Failure to do so shall constitute an out.
   - C. A runner shall not lead off the base until the ball leaves the pitcher's hand. Failure to observe this shall put the runner out.
   - D. A runner who is off the base shall return and re-touch it when a fly ball is caught. No advance shall be taken on a fly-ball caught.
   - E. Instantly after three strikes have been called, unless first base is occupied with less than two outs.
   - F. A base-runner shall be out
     1. When she is tagged by the ball before she reaches the base. Exception: In going to first base or when she is forced to run she shall be put out by the ball preceding her to base and by being held securely by the baseman.
     2. When she runs more than three feet wide of the base line.
     3. If, at any time while the ball is in play she is touched by the ball in the hands of a fielder, unless some part of her person is touching the base which she is entitled to occupy.
     4. When she runs past a preceding runner who has not been put out.
     5. If she leaves her base while the pitcher holds the ball in pitching position and before the ball leaves the pitcher's hand.
     6. When she does not touch each of the bases as she advances around the diamond.
     7. When the fielder playing a fair fly ball returns the ball to the base which the runner has just left and to which she has not yet returned.
   - G. A run may be scored from third base on anything except a foul ball. A run coming in to score on the third out shall not count.
4. Terminology
   - A. Strike—A strike shall be a legally pitched ball that passes over the home plate not lower than the batter's knees nor higher than her shoulders. Such a pitch shall be a strike regardless of whether or not the batter attempts to hit it.
   - B. Walk—A walk shall be given to the batter if the pitcher delivers four pitches which are called balls by the umpire.
   - C. Foul Ball—A batted ball that settles on foul territory in the infield or that lands on foul territory in the outfield shall be called a foul ball.
   - D. Fair Hit—A batted ball that settles in fair territory in the infield or first touches fair territory in the outfield shall be considered a fair hit.
   - E. Force Out—Whenever a player is forced to advance by reason of a batter becoming a base-runner and is put out by ball being held on the base to which the runner is advancing before she, the base-runner, reaches that base; this play is called a force out.
   - F. Overthrow—Any ball thrown from one fielder to another which goes into foul territory on a play at first, third, or home shall be called an overthrow.

By Jane Hunter

"Woe, woe for Adonis, he hath perished, the lovely Adonis!" Bion

Adonis was a young man of exceptional attractiveness with whom Venus, goddess of love, fell in love. One day on a hunt he was killed by a wild boar.

"That same pair
Which through the sky draw Venus' silver team." Spenser

This refers to the chariot of Venus which was drawn by doves.

"Set at naught
The frivolous bolt of Cupid." Milton

Cupid was the god of love, who shot arrows or frivolous bolts, which caused two people to fall in love.

"And let fair Venus, that is queen of love,
With her heart-quelling son upon you smile." Spenser

Cupid was the son of Venus.

"From his hand now dropt a golden apple." Lander

Hippomenes was required to beat Atlanta in a race, which was believed to be an impossible feat, if he wished to marry her. During the race he dropped three golden apples, given him by Venus, goddess of love, which she stooped to pick up. Thus she was defeated and allowed to marry Hippomenes.

"Sinking bewildered mid the dreary sea:
'Tis young Leander toiling to his death." Keats

Hero and Leander fell in love, but were not permitted by Hero's parents to see one another. However, Leander would often swim the Hellespont to see her, and one night he was drowned during a storm.

"The silver flow
Of Hero's tears." Keats

This refers to the tears which Hero shed when she knew that Leander had drowned. She was so overcome with grief that she threw herself into the ocean and drowned.

"O Aphrodite, kind and fair,
That what thou wilt canst give,
O listen to a sculptor's prayer,
And bid mine image live." Long

Pygmalion, an excellent sculptor, once fell in love with one of his statues. He asked Aphrodite or Venus to allow this statue to live, and when this was granted he called the figure Galatea.

"But far above in spangled sheen
Celestial Cupid, her fam'd son, advanc'd;
Holds her dear Psyche, smeet entranc'd
After her wandering labors long." Milton

Psyche was a beautiful maiden with whom Cupid fell in love.

"A hoarse voice spoke through the letter-box. 'Has he gone, laddie?'
I put my mouth to the slit, and we talked together like Pyramus and Thisbe." P. S. Wodehouse

Pyramus and Thusbe were two lovers, who, because their parents objected to their marriage, were forced to talk through the crack in the wall that separated their houses.

"Dawn rose from her couch by high Tithonus, to bring light to immortals and to mankind." Homer Dawn—Aurora, goddess of dawn. Tithonus was Aurora's husband—a mortal. He was granted eternal life but not eternal youth. When he became decrepit, wrinkled and shrunken, he was changed into an insect—the grasshopper.

"Till civil-suited Morn appear,
Not tricked and frounced, as she was wont
With the Attic boy (Cephalus) to hunt." Milton

Cephalus was a native of Attica beloved by Aurora. Procris, his wife, was jealous of Aurora's affection to Cephalus and one day secretly followed him as he left to hunt. On his hunt his spear accidentally struck and killed her and in remorse he killed himself.

"No sane man would demand from the gods the gift of Midas." Blackwood's Magazine

Midas, the king of Phrygia, begged that all he touched be changed to gold. This boon was granted, but it brought only trouble.

"And I will sing how sad Proserpina Unto a grave and glowering lord was wed." Wilde

Proserpina, the goddess of springtime, and daughter of Ceres, goddess of agriculture, was abducted by Pluto, god of the Underworld. He forced her to become his wife—the Queen of Hades.

"Sweet Echo, sweetest nymph, that liv'st unseen Within thy airy sheel." Milton

Echo was a nymph who angered Juno by delaying her with conversation while Jupiter was being entertained by other nymphs. She was punished by having her power to start a conversation taken from her—she could only repeat the words another person spoke. When she fell in love with Narcissus, a handsome youth, he repelled her, thinking she wished to make fun of him by repeating his words. In despair, Echo faded away until she was no more than a voice.

"Even when he had been received into the infernal abodes, he kept on gazing on his image in the Stygian pool." Ovid

Narcissus repelled many nymphs—he believed nobody was quite good enough to be his wife. To have him experience what it was to love and not be loved in return, the gods made him fall in love with his own image which was reflected in a pool. He thought it was a coy water nymph hiding from his advances and sought to embrace it—but in vain. He pined away and die; and from his body sprang the flower that bears his name. (The passage implies that even in the Underworld he gazes longingly at his image, which is reflected in the Styx, a river of Hades.)

"Let the vile mob valueless things admire.
May golden-locked Opollo grant to me
Full cups from his Castalian mountain-spring." Ovid

Apollo, the god of the sun, of music, of poetry, and of health, chased Castalia, a nymph who resisted his attentions. To escape him, she plunged into a spring on Mount Parnassus near Delphi. Thereafter the spring was called Castalia and those who drank of it were supposed to be immediately inspired.

"Arion when He forth was thrown into the greedy seas." Spenser

Arion won a poetry contest and carried considerable money with him when he boarded a ship to sail home to Lesbos. The sailors knew of his wealth and planned to murder and rob him. They ordered him to jump overboard but granted his request that he play one song more before he died. As he played, dolphins gathered about the vessel; and as he finished the song, he leapt overboard, landed on the back of one of the dolphins, and was borne safely to shore. When the sailors reached land, they were executed.

"Amidst our arms as quiet you shall be
As Halcyons brooding on a winter sea." Dryden

Halcyone was the wife of Ceyx, a king who was drowned when his ship was wrecked in a tempest during the season of storms. When his body was carried to his native land, Halcyon saw it and threw herself into the sea. However, Jupiter changed her into a kingfisher. Ceyx was likewise transformed and joined his wife again. Halcyon's father, Aeolus, king of the winds, was so moved by their devotion that he decreed that no winds should blow seven days before and seven days after the winter solstice. During this period of peace and calm the kingfishers are born.

How Did Europe Get Its Name?

By Dave Schwalm

The Icarian Sea is named for Icarus, son of Daedalus. Daedalus had fashioned a labyrinth for King Minos of Crete in which to confine the minotaur, a half man, half bull affair. However, by some manner, he and his son became out of favor with Minos and were imprisoned by him. Therefore, Daedalus fashioned some wings by which they could fly to freedom. In a haughty mood, however, Icarus flew too near the sun and the wings, which were held on with wax fell off, and Icarus plunged into the sea and drowned. That sea bears his name.

There are two constellations, Callisto, the Big Dipper or the Great Bear, and Arcas, the Little Dipper or the Little Bear. Callisto was happily in love with Jove, and Juno, in a fit of jealousy, changed Callisto into a bear. Years later as she wandered the fields fleeing the hunters, she came upon her son, Arcas, grown into manhood. She reached out to embrace him, but Arcas, not realizing this bear to be his mother, prepared to ram a spear through her; but at the last moment, Jupiter, seeing their plight, snatched the both of them from the earth and placed them in the heavens as the Great and Little Bears.

The city of Athens derives its name from an Olympian contest. Neptune and Athena were contesting to see who would name a newly founded city in Attica. They agreed that the one to create the most beneficial gift to mankind should have the honor of naming the city. Therefore, striking the ground with his trident, Neptune created a fine, muscular white horse. However, Athena came up with an olive tree! The council of gods deliberated, but seeing the many uses of the olive tree, they declared Athena the winner, and the town was named Athens.

The continent of Europe derived its name from the lovely Europa with whom Jupiter fell in love. He transformed himself into a bull, and, luring Europa to sit on his broad shoulders, he swam across the sea to Crete, his birthplace. In her honor the whole continent retained the name of Europe. The satellite Europa of the planet Jupiter, is also named for her as she was loved by him.

Other girls used to call me Square — — Ima Square — that was my name. Nobody loved me—I had crooked toenails, lumpy elbows, and I'd never heard of rock 'n roll. I cried a lot too. Then my dear friend, Gerta Groovy, told me about EMERY'S RECORD SHOP. "They've got oodles of new records there," she said, "with holes in them! They're all round and black and like . . . WOW!" Well, I went over to see for myself and, you know, she was right — they have the newest, blackest, roundest records you ever saw. I tell you true, I'm a different person. Of course, I still have crooked toenails and lumpy elbows but I've heard of rock 'n roll and I don't cry anymore. In fact, I'm not even known as Ima Square anymore. — now they call me Ima Swingin'. P.S. I wouldn't want this to get around but they like teen agers at Emery's!

Acts, Narration To Dramatize History Of Tin Pan Alley Music In Sophomore Party Tomorrow

Bob Sievers Will Be D.J., New York Skyscrapers To Provide Atmosphere

"Today and tomorrow are the last days to buy tickets for 'Tin Pan Alley,' the Sophomore Party tomorrow," announced Dennis McBroom, chairman of ticket sales. The tickets cost 60 cents and can be purchased from homeroom agents. They will not be sold at the door.

Bob Sievers, from WOWO, will spin records for the annual affair, from 8 p.m. to 11 p.m. in the boys' gym. This is the only other entertainment besides the program.

"The program committee has completely gotten away from the talent show idea," stated Nancy Gift, co-chairman of the program committee. The program will be a narrative, telling the history of music of Tin Pan Alley. A few acts will help to dramatize the story, by illustrating the various stages the music has gone through.

# # #

THE NARRATION was written by Chris Parrott, Dave Schwalm, Jim Carter, and Dave Dill, and will be narrated by Dave Welch.

Molly Dixon and Sheri DeYoung will do a modern dance to "Slaughter on Tenth Avenue." Gonda Rider will dance to "Night Train." A group of sophomore girls, consisting of Jeanie Carroll, Kathy Moore, Mary Meily, Carolyn Hickman, Bonnie Brenn, Sally Capps, Mary Collins, Beth Curley, Diane Irmscher, and Sharon Longenberger will do a pantomime. A boys' group will also pantomime a number. A combo will play softly during the narration, accompany the dancers, and do a special number.

# # #

"SEVERAL POSTERS have been put up around school to publicize the party," announced Sheri DeYoung and Nancy Vanderford, chairman of the publicity committee.

Working on the posters with Sheri and Nancy are Val Caliahan, Sally Gelow, Linda McNeal, Tom Ogles, Pam Olsen, Linda Silverman, and Jim Somers.

Evilou North and Sylvia Ehrman are chairmen of the decorating committee. Sally Mieras was placed in charge of decorating the ceiling. Helping are Ann Eversman, Sally Dill, Dennis Graham, Ron Johnson, Dianne Kimball, Steve Pohl, Brian Ronan, and Linda Silverman.

In charge of the cafeteria is Marie Rohn, with Susan Knight, Mary Meily, Sally Gelow Wins Third In Contest

Sally Gelow

What would the world be like if there were no advertising? This question was answered in Sally Gelow's essay on the subject, "How Advertising Affects Our Lives." Sally is a junior at South Side and was named third-place winner in the Fort Wayne Advertising Club's annual editorial contest.

When asked how long it took her to write her essay, Sally replied that she wrote it in only an hour and a half. "What the world would be like if there were no advertising," said Sally, "was the main idea of my essay."

For her third-place title Sally received a certificate and prize of $15.

"To make a standing impression on the students that advertising is important," stated Sally, "was the purpose of the contest."

Linda Benton, a South Side senior, was also victorious in the contest in that she ranked among the top five winners of honorable mention.

The contest was climaxed last Thursday evening by a dinner held at Hall's Guest House.

Submitted to the contest were over 300 entries. Earl G. Schwalm, Harold W. McMillen, Edward G. Griesedick, Jr., L. R. Musselman, and Leslie Popp, Jr., acted as judges for the contest.

Kelly Team Pictures To Decorate New Offices And Coaches' Room

Any person having a glossy print team picture of a South Side athletic team is asked to see either Mr. Don Reichert or Mr. Wayne Scott. Mr. Reichert is presently engaged in collecting all of these pictures to decorate his new office, formerly the boys' gym office. He hopes that this room, when properly finished and supplied with furniture, can serve as a coaches' room. "It would also be interesting to former Archer athletes, who could return and see their team pictures," states Mr. Reichert.

Present plans call for enlargements of the team pictures of the nine Kelly squads to reach Indiana basketball's "sweet sixteen" to adorn one wall. Archer athletic star Tom Bolyard is making the frames. This set is now complete, with the exception of a picture of the 1923 team.

# # #

FURTHER PLANS call for the adornment of the other walls with similar tributes to Green athletic prowess. The pictures of each of the other basketball teams, as well as the grid squads, will eventually be hung in their proper places. However, many of these pictures have not been found, and Archer patrons and alumni who have any such pictures, glossy prints only, are asked to contact the Athletic Department. Their copy of the picture will be returned.

Mr. Reichert also anticipates including the pictures of individual winners in the state track finals.

He desires individual pictures of all the coaches, too, and any person who has ever served as head coach of a sport at South Side is asked to notify the proper authorities.

At present the new office appears rather bare, but with the help of Kellys owning athletic pictures, Mr. Reichert will be able to transform it into a real showplace, which can be enjoyed by visitors and South Siders alike.

Bill Mueller, Freshman Pianist, Receives Recognition In Contest

Ah—a celebrity in our midst? Well, not quite, but Bill Mueller, Freshman A, has an extremely impressive background in musical training.

Bill's first contact with this vocation occurred at the age of seven, when he started taking piano lessons under the adept instruction of Mrs. Monica Marshall Agnew.

In his past years in competition in certain local contests known as National Audition, Bill has placed in the District Division once, the State Division once, and the National Division twice. In order to qualify for the latter, 10 selections, both classical and romantic, must be memorized for the judges. In these contests, judging is based on tone quality, tone accuracy, and technique.

Bill has attended two sessions of the Indiana Division of the National Federation of Music Festivals held in Muncie or North Manchester. At one performance he achieved national recognition for his participation in this program.

This year at the final competition at Indianapolis, Bill won a superior rating.

Bill also has participated in yearly National Recording Festivals held in Texas. In order to take part in these, selections must be recorded on a tape recording, and sent to wherever the contest is being held.

In 1956, Bill was second in his class, and received a cash award.

Bill also participates in local recitals every year.

At present, Bill is taking lessons from Dr. Rene Frank, who also teaches at the Fort Wayne Bible College.

Miss Van Gorder Attends Convention

Miss Pauline Van Gorder, dean of girls, attended the spring meeting of the Indiana Association of Women's Deans and Counselors last Saturday at Indiana Central College.

Miss Van Gorder heard a report on "National Defense" by Mr. Rolla Pruett, State Director of Pupil Personnel and Guidance Services, and a talk on "Education Around the World" by Dr. I. Lynd Esch, president of the college.

A panel discussion concerning "Student Values" moderated by Professor Marvin Hendricks, head of the Sociology Department at the college, was also included in the program of the day.

96 Archers Take Scholarship Tests

A total of 96 freshmen and sophomores participated in the English Honorary Scholarship Tests given by the English Department on April 18, in the new cafeteria. In order to be eligible to take this test the student must have had an A— or better average in English.

The winner in each class will be honored on Recognition Day by being shown a cup with his or her name engraved on it.

Concordia Awarded Sportsmanship Cup

Tuesday, April 14, Mr. Carl Wilcoxson, president of the Fraternal Order of Police Organization, presented the annual Sportsmanship Trophy to the student body of Concordia Lutheran High School.

A possession of South Side all last year, the trophy has now been transferred to the possession of Concordia High School, who will keep the trophy until next year.

"This trophy is presented on the basis of sportsmanship attitude of the student body of a school during the high school football and basketball seasons," stated Mr. Carl Wilcoxson.

Referees of games, on-duty policemen, Fort Wayne Transit drivers, and news reporters are asked by the Fraternal Order of Police to fill out criticism slips concerning the conduct of students at games.

From these opinions and observations, a compiled list is made from which the trophy winner is selected.

A permanent trophy is awarded to the school who has obtained possession of the trophy for three years. Concordia High School received a permanent trophy in 1957.

Three Archer Boys Chosen Candidates For Academies

Three boys from South Side have been selected by Congressman E. Ross Adair as candidates for appointments to the Air Force and Naval Academies.

Larry Skow and Keith Waldrop have been selected to take part in the competition conducted by the Air Force Academy to determine the best qualified candidate for the one appointment allotted to the Fourth District by the academy. For the one appointment to the Naval Academy, Congressman Adair has selected Carl Schafer as the first principal.

Selection of the candidates was based to a considerable extent on the results of a recently conducted Civil Service competitive examination held at Fort Wayne in which more than 40 young men from the Fourth District participated. Other qualifications were also considered in making the selections.

Before their entrance to the academies July 1, 1959, the appointees still have to pass the physical and scholastic entrance examinations.

Plans For Junior Prom Shaping-Up; Cafeteria To Be "Aisle Of Dreams"

"The junior prom, May 1, promises to be the best ever," stated Mrs. Ruth Berkes, sponsor of the junior class. She also added, "It is an honor and privilege to conduct the prom in the new cafeteria."

The cafeteria will be transformed into an "Aisle of Dreams" as the Silhouettes' a 10-piece orchestra composed of North Side and South Side students, will provide the dancing music from 9 to 11:30 p.m.

President Dick Rothberg agrees with Mr. William Applegate, sponsor, that the atmosphere of the cafeteria will add much to the evening. Dick expressed, "From what I've seen, I think I can conservatively predict that this prom will be the best in recent years."

Susie Sappenfield, co-decoration chairman, stated, "It has taken much work, but I think it will be a tremendous success. The kids have been marvelous in helping."

Tom Cooper and Susie Hoard, committee heads, stated, "Half the fun of the junior prom is the preparation, and the kids have done a wonderful job of this! The complete co-operation we have received, makes it possible to predict a wonderful night, May 1."

The decoration chairmen have announced that the decorum of the cafeteria will give the effect of a dream. To carry out the theme, "Aisle of Dreams," an aisle will be centered in the room. A Grecian pond also will be placed in the room, while an artificial mist creates a "dreamy" effect. The entrance-way will be decorated with white and lavender roses.

The tables in 118 will be decorated with hazy blue stars and artificial candles. Refreshments will be served in this room.

South's String Quartet Contains Senior, Sophomore Musicians

REHEARSING DILIGENTLY—Practicing for one of their many concerts are the members of the String Quartet, Marlyn Sexton, Allen Steere, Ann Sherbondy, and Cindy Miller. (Picture by DeHaven)

South Side's music department, under the direction of Mr. Robert Drummond, boasts of an unusual, talented, and proficient ensemble which is called the String Quartet. This music ensemble is composed of senior Anne Sherbondy, cellist; senior Marylyn Sexton, first violinist; sophomore Allen Steere, violinist; and sophomore Cynthia Miller, violist.

The quartet is comparatively new, having been formed approximately a year and a half ago. Nevertheless, in this period, the String Quartet has chalked up numerous honors. The four members feel that appearing as guest performers at the Teenage Philharmonic Concert in January is their most notable accomplishment. In order to prepare for the concert, the group took lessons from Raymond Marsh, first violist in the Fort Wayne Philharmonic Orchestra.

In addition, for two years the ensemble has walked away with superior ratings in both the state and district contests. They have also appeared on "Make Mine Music" and "Elektra Club"; the quartet also provides entertainment for several school functions, such as the senior play and Quarter Century Banquet.

WHEN THE FOUR members were asked if any unnerving incidents had ever occurred, Cynthia replied, "One night at our most important performance, I simply couldn't get the pages of my music to turn. It was quite nerve-racking." Allen Steere added that the bow of his violin almost fell apart at a performance. The other members agreed that other than little such incidents, nothing really serious has happened.

Anne, Marylyn, Cindy, and Allen each feel that they are fortunate to have the opportunity to participate in such an ensemble. Not only are they gaining valuable experience in a field that interests them, but pleasure and enjoyment is also derived from practicing and performing together.

In regard to his feeling concerning the String Quartet, Mr. Drummond stated, "If everyone of the groups with which I shall work in the future would have the interest, ability, and integrity which this group displays, I should be very happy, indeed."

THE FOUR MEMBERS of the ensemble are accomplished musicians. Anne Sherbondy, first cellist in the school orchestra, is also a talented pianist, having studied this instrument since the fifth grade. Besides being a member of the orchestra at South, Anne also claims membership, as a cellist, in the Philharmonic Orchestra.

Sophomore Allen Steere, who is proficient at playing the French horn and piano, as well as the violin, practices his various instruments three hours a day. In order to further his studies, Allen travels to Indiana University once a week to study violin. As proof of his outstanding musical ability, Allen was named a recipient of a scholarship to the national music camp at Interlochen, Mich.

Sophomore Cynthia Miller plays five musical instruments which include viola, piano, clarinet, bell lyre, and the bass clarinet. Cindy has won many awards in both the district and state competitions. In her spare time, Cynthia teaches piano lessons at Castles' Music Studio. Upon graduation, she contemplates attending Oberlin, where she will major in music education.

The last member of the ensemble is Marylyn Sexton. This senior has been playing the violin for eight years and has become quite advanced on this instrument. Not only has she participated in numerous district and state contests, but also is the holder of the first chair in the first section of orchestra. Marylyn has been accepted at DePauw University, where she will also major in music education.

Kelly Students Tell Reaction To Longer Vacation; Sleep, Rest

Well, Spring Vacation has passed and we've settled back into the rut of up at seven o'clock and the task of trying to keep awake and look intelligent for the rest of the day. The first day back the halls were filled with mutterings and threats of what would be done if they had been alotted an extra week. The Times decided to call their bluff and asked them to put their wishes in writing. The aftermath of silence was deafening. After much pondering, these results were submitted for the question, "What would you have done if Spring Vacation had been two weeks' long?"

Marijo Edwards: Dropped dead from shock!

Linda LeVay: Go back to Coldwater to see someone and lay in the sun!

Pat Parks: Take a trip to New York to see a certain someone.

Judie Riping: Spent more time with a certain boy with big blue eyes.

Karen Good: Done the homework I should have done the week before.

Carole Fischer: Spent the time thinking up nasty words describing a certain someone and thinking up new ideas for polls—what else?

Bill Spindler: Died from lack of sleep (boredom).

Dorothy Major: Enjoyed another week of freedom from polls!

Posy Weilemann: Slept and studied.

Linda Tomson: The occasion has been arisen so as to plan for two weeks' vacation . . . and I believe that, do you, Marcia?

Marcia Mosel: I believe that. Let me illustrate!

Linda Hard: Nothing.

Marilyn Bugg: Gone to Cincy, O., or caught up on my homework.

Nelson Kimball: The same as the week before. Eat, drink, and be merry for the next week school starts.

Pam Brown: Faint.

Susie Phillips: Jumped for joy.

Diane Fredrick: Slept longer.

Karen Simmons: Gone to Florida.

Janet Terry: I'd have finished my research theme.

Teeny Times

The little girl who's with us today
Isn't classified as B or A,
Because she is too old for that anymore,
She is a post graduate in Room 74.

First period she has Merchandising 1,
With Mr. Post the course is done.
Second period in Room 16 our girl we see,
Listening to the teacher, Miss Harvey.
Third period she has Art 2,
No doubt she takes it with some of you.
Now to find her name, play a game that's fun;
First person to know her name in your group has won.

Archers Tell Uses Of Additional Hour

Everyone has, at one time or another, wished for an extra hour in the day. As this is practically impossible, Archer students are content to dream of things they would do if this wish were true.

Al Steere: I'd sleep an extra hour in the morning. (Except there would be an extra hour of homework.)

Sharon Bricker: I would do what I didn't get done in the other 24 hours and wish for a 26th.

Nancy Swaim: Somebody would just find more for me to do.

Stan Redding: Answer more silly Times polls.

Mr. Hoover: Hope for 26.

Judy Snelling: I'd take more time to think up clever answers for not so clever polls. (This reporter appreciates that remark!)

Suzy Stauffer: Sleep, sleep, eat, eat, sleep, eat, sleep, sleep, and snore.

Carolyn Sievers: What a ques . . . z z z z !

Judy Koontz: Homework, of course—is there anything else?

Judy Dunlap: Dream of having 26, while sleeping, of course.

Martha Lanning: How should I know—I'd be sleeping!

Dave Schwalm: Sleep z z z z !

Jack Winder: Reset my clock.

Mary Spindler: Sl-e-e-e-e-e-p.

Judy Eisenhut: I'd faint!

Marilynn Masters: z z z z Sleep, of course z z z z

Ellen McCarron: Read an extra book, do an extra deed, think an extra thought.

Merle Baldwin: I'd spend it thinking of all the things I should be getting done and won't anyway!

Mike Pearson: I'd think of all the girls I'd met the other 24 hours.

Janet Terry: Sleep, sleep, sleep. (But that's what I always say at 2 a.m.)

Witty Archers Reply On World Situation

In the tense world situation of today there are a few people who still have a funny streak left in them. To support this statement, here are the witty replies to the question: "What do you think of the world situation?"

Lesley Malone: The world situation would be better if there weren't so many polls!

Bob Shine: Best it's ever been!

John Mader: I'm terribly concerned with the Mau-Mau revolution.

John Biteman: It's really out of this world.

Jack Winder: Who cares?

Dennis McBroom: It's crazy, man, crazy.

Ed Sarver: The Giants are winning.

Dave Schwalm: As an outsider, I'd say that the world is pear-shaped.

Jim Carter: I only read the comics and the sports page.

Dave Dill: It looks as if there will be a boom in the legal profession and the medical industry.

Jan Martindale: The whole world is festering with unhappy soles and I don't like anybody very much!

Gretchen Meister: Seems O.K. to me . . .

Beth Curley: What world situation?

Carolyn Sievers: I'll just build a sweet, little nest somewhere in the West and let the rest of the world go by.

Judy Dunlap: Yipe! Let's go back to the Middle Ages!

Ann Erickson: Who thinks?

Barb Steiner: A lousier mess I've never seen!

Sharon Ruhl: It's indescribable!

Ellen Crowder: Eat, drink, and be merry—tomorrow we'll probably be blown up!

Joyce Brittenham: Don't know what to say because I'm not very clever, but I like to have my name in the paper.

Ann Keirns: Ask Mr. Wilson.

Molly Dixon: Under the circumstances, I have come to the conclusion that the perilous situation we are presently enduring is beyond my comprehension.

Jewish Passover Celebrated To Commerate Freeing Of Jews From Egypt; Keeps Freedom Ideals Alive

Yesterday the Jewish people all over the world celebrated Passover, or Pasach, the festival commemorating the freeing of the Jews from slavery in Egypt, almost 3,000 years ago. Many of us already know the legend telling how the Children of Israel, with Moses leading them, fled from Pharoah's soldier, crossed the Red Sea, and reached the promised land of Palestine.

Another legend tells that the night before Moses led them out of bondage, the Jews waited in their houses while the angel of death passed over, killing all the first-born of the Egyptians, but sparing the Jewish children. For this reason, the holiday is called Passover.

The most important part of the holiday is the Seder on Passover Eve. This is a family supper, traditional in most Jewish homes. During the meal, which is usually a gay one, a special service is read from a book called the Haggadah. Since the word seder means "order of the service," the Haggadah contains the order the service is to follow. Besides blessings, songs, and stories, the Haggadah tells the history of the bondage, deliverance of the Jews from Egypt, and their establishment in Palestine.

The main meaning that Passover has now is to make the Jewish people realize the importance of personal freedom. In the retelling of the story from the Haggadah year after year, from father to son, the idea of liberty is made alive to the people.

The ideas of liberty and freedom become a precious tradition to be preserved, just as the Seder service, for the children and their children's children.

As can be easily seen, the roots of American ideals of democracy are the same as the roots of the celebration of Passover. This is a parallel that can be drawn many times between different religions and different countries.

The festival, which falls during the time of the first full moon of spring, actually lasts eight days. During this time, the Jewish people are not supposed to eat any bread other than unleavened bread, or matzo. The matzo resembles an unsalted cracker and symbolizes the unbaked bread the fleeing Jews had to take with them because they didn't have time to let the bread bake completely.

Several other symbols besides matzo are used during the Seder service. The Cup of Elijah is a cup brimming with wine for the prophet Elijah, who is the herald of the age of goodness in which most Jews believe. During the service, the door is opened so that Elijah's spirit may enter and partake of the wine as a welcome guest in the home.

Watercress or parsley is used as a token of gratitude to God for the products of the earth. Moror, the bitter herb, symbolizes the embittered lives of the Israelites in Egypt. Haroses, a mixture of apples and raisins flavored with cinnamon, have come to represent the bricks the enslaved Jews used to build with in Egypt.

The shankbone is an emblem of the Paschal Lamb, which was sacrificed and eaten the night the destroying angel passed over the houses of the Jews. A roasted egg is the symbol of the free will burnt offering brought every day of the feast during the existence of the Temple in Jerusalem.

Three matzos, separately wrapped, are also used during the service. Sometime during the Seder, the middle matzo is broken in half and one-half is hidden. The children must find the other half in order for the dinner to be completed. There is usually a reward in the form of some money or an extra helping of dessert.

A traditional part of the service is the asking of the Four Questions. The youngest child at the table asks questions pertaining to the "difference of this night from all other nights." The leader, usually the head of the family, answers the questions, first in English, then in Hebrew.

Another high spot of the Seder is the singing of "An Only Kid." So many things happen to this animal that by the time the last stanza is reached, there is a contest to see who can sing it without taking a breath. Many such fun songs and stories are contained in the Haggadah, adding a liveliness to the meal.

The Seder is a combination of fun, and of seriousness. Its purpose is to relate the story of the bondage in Egypt, and keep alive in the hearts of the Jewish people, the high ideals of freedom.

Kelly Pupils View TV As Teacher

Some students complain about coming to school every day and sometimes even stay home to watch TV. But when they were asked what they thought of television as a teacher, the method that's been put into use recently of having classes on TV with the viewers as students, they gave the following replies.

Carolyn Sievers: It would be all right if there were a lot of commercials.

Dave Dill and Lesley Malone: Personally we can't tell the difference between television and real teachers. They are both inhuman and square.

John Mader: Television would be fine with me if it didn't give eighth periods!

Sally Capps: I think it's a neat idea, but think of the fun you'd miss getting in the teacher's hair.

John Biteman: I'm not a teacher, so I can't think of television. No, really television teaches me to be bored stiff.

Ellen Crowder: Well, nobody would know if you went to sleep in class.

Jan Martindale: I think it would be boring and no fun. You would not be able to get extra help if you were lost in the middle of a math problem, you could hardly raise your hand to have it explained, and you would never get any of the extra sidelights a teacher can bring out. Besides, I'm going to be a teacher, and I don't want to lose a job because of TV.

Gretchen Meister: It would be awful. There wouldn't be any reason to get new clothes, because you couldn't wear them to school. Life would be terribly boring.

Dieter Hillerbrand: That depends entirely on what classes are to be taught. I don't think that math (any kind) would be too good a class to be taught, while history would be excellent, for while watching alone you can concentrate more completely than in class. There are many things to distract you (like girls).

Carolyn Hickman: I think it would simply be terrible. I'd really miss the fun of school and miss the kids, too. Boy, would we ever get bored sitting in front of a TV all day.

Bob Shine: Although I don't believe it would work, at least you would be able to eat plenty of TV dinners.

Susie Horth: I always fall asleep when I watch TV—So?—I don't think I would learn much.

Countdown . . .

They found him in a black two-door jalopy off a curve just outside of town. He was dead; his pals came off a little better, but they won't forget.

(Ten) The car had been doing eighty, maybe a little better. Some old guy in a Chevy just missed them. The telephone poles went by in a wink; he rammed the gas pedal to the floor. (Nine) They could feel the push of the speed and the crate took off like a bird. (Eight).

(Seven) Going around the curves—he wasn't chicken, and they were burning up the road. They showed up a couple of creeps in a two-tone job. (Six) The farms and fences spun by. Everybody was yelling and on the radio they were playing "Three Cool Cats." (Five)

(Four) Faster and faster. (Three) The record was almost over. (Two) They swung around a hairpin curve. (One) Headlights—screaming brakes. The car slammed into something and twisted around sickeningly. The road was spinning all around them.

Silence. He was all hunched up, bleeding. The radio had stopped playing.

"How did it happen?", his mother kept screaming. They had to put her in a hospital.

A lot of big shots wondered how it had happened, too. People from the Safety Department, high schools, and everyplace else were interested. There were some questions: "Who?", "How?", and "Why?". They were hard to answer. No one wanted someone else to end up in a crumpled car.

There were different ideas passed around. "He was too young to know any better. The age limit ought to be raised."

"How do you know when a boy is mature enough to drive? Sometimes a person is a better driver at sixteen than another person at eighteen. Besides, there are plenty of responsible sixteen-year-olds. Are you going to punish all of them because of a few offenders?"

"He should have learned more at driver's training. He should have had more driver's training."

"But some of the people who do very well on routine aspects—you know, turn signals and parking—are bad speeders."

"That boy should have had his license revoked long ago."

"It only takes one joy ride to kill someone."

"His parents should not have allowed him to drive."

"What are you going to tell a boy when he says all of his friends drive, and when he says he can't get a date without a car?"

These people are still talking and worrying about their kids. Maybe this particular accident hasn't happened yet. Maybe it's going to happen tonight or tomorrow night. Maybe that crate looks just like your car. Who do you think that boy is?

Who is going to stop the accident?

Salmon, D.A.'s Man, Solves 'Violin Case' Concerning Kellys

It was 3:20 p.m., Thursday, April 16. Dan Bill was walking down a dark, lonely ramp to meet Camille Luther. Somebody with a violin case jumped him. The hoodlum opened the case and whipped out a violin. They found Bill out cold in the morning. The Voracious Violinist had struck again.

I'm Salmon, D.A.'s man. I can't smoke. It's a hard, thankless job. The assistant D.A., Nick Demetre, met me at the warehouse at 8 p.m. Friday. He gave me the name of my contact, Marty Clark. She didn't have any leads, but said that maybe Jack Winder and Diane Irmscher or Kay Augspurger and Tom Bolyard did. I checked out in the band room and saw Mike Simmons locking Margo Martindale in a cello case. No dice.

At 9:15 I bumped into Dean Rice leaning on a lampost. He and Lynn Neiman told me to case the "Green Dragon." I got there at 10 a.m. and found Bob Duncan reading Sanskrit to Sue Phillips. He had word that Edee White and Nick Arnold were trying to buy cats and rosin on the black market.

I looked up Merle Baldwin and Dave Roderick on the waterfront. They were sure White and Arnold were going to use the rosin in their pekoe tea. I had a hunch about Carolyn Sievers and Nick Roembke. I had been suspicious ever since they were caught sticking bubble gum in a clarinet. They had an alibi, though. Chris Parrott and Sue Horth had been playing pinochle with them Thursday afternoon.

I was at a loss, so I checked with the D.A.'s sidekick again. He said it was beginning to look like the work of Drummond's Gang or the Gruesome Twosome. I felt that maybe Sheri DeYoung and Bob Bolyard had pulled this caper. I had my doubts about Janice Dedman and Tom White and their sneaky sidelines. He told me to look into it.

It was 6:15 Friday night. I spotted Carol Haag and Tom Hertel uptown. They knew something. I had to win their confidence, so I tried to join them for a lemonade.

"Two's company; three's a crowd," Hertel said as he tossed me out on my ear.

I called the D.A.'s office. I told them I was sick of the whole mess. I also told him I was going into some crooked racket like selling elevator tickets. He laughed at me.

I went over to the "Filthy Flamingo" and had a lemonade. I had another. Janice Leist and Mahmoud Abouzeid were two tables away. I tried to pick up their conversation. Sharon Longenberger and Neil Mieras were talking too much. Then I saw Karen Curley leaving with a pretzel in Murray Munger's back. This looked fishy. It looked even fishier when Jeanie Carrol and Tom Duff pushed him into the East River.

Something was wrong. I had to make a contact. I knew there had been a witness, but the Voracious Violinist had silenced him. I went back to the "Green Dragon." I suddenly had a brainstorm when Ken Howe's corpse fell out of a closet. There stood Sue Seibel with a smoking violin in her hands.

"Get wise and give up," I said just like Mickey Spillane.

"You don't have nuthin' on me, copper," she said, "I'm just holding this cigar box for Gretchen Meister until she finds Fred Van Fossen."

I pulled out my bean-shooter and stuck out my lower lip. I looked tough and hard-boiled.

"Awright, I'm takin' ya all in," I snarled. "Line up against that wall and raise your hands."

John Shannahan raised his hand to pull a light switch as Sharon Collins dived under a table. The whole gang began shooting it out with me. They were sick of my editorials. Then, just at the right moment, Mr. Drummond and the cops broke in. We were all excluded for disorderly conduct.

Bicycle Industry Offers Inspection

More than two and a half million student bike riders will benefit from American Bicycle Month in May, when the nation's wheelmen will have an opportunity to have their bikes checked at no cost.

Those here at South Side will be among those benefitted. The American Bicycle Industry is offering free inspection to all owners of two-wheeled bikes. This is being done to help the nation's riders enjoy themselves as never before during the summer months. Inspections will be made at co-operating bicycle repair establishments throughout the country.

At the same time the industry is also making 12 rules for safe riding. These rules will help in the safe operation of the bicycles. These rules may be obtained at participating bicycle stores.

Marine Recruiters Announce Program

The "delay departure" program has been announced by the Marine Corps Recruiting headquarters in Indianapolis. This program will enable seniors to enlist now and go on active duty with the next 120 days. Persons who enlist under this program will receive credit for pay purposes and military obligations for the time spent at home.

"We are looking for good men," said Captain R. J. O'Leary, officer in charge, "but good men with high school diplomas. We urge all others to stay in school and get their diplomas."

The Marines advertise their training program as one that builds men; however, specialists and technicians are needed in over 400 occupational fields. The captain emphasized that the Marine Corps training is physically rugged, under the expert guidance of veteran Marine instructors.

Archer Y-Teen Lasses View Four Indiana Colleges On Tour

While most Archers rested during spring vacation from the past weeks of school and for the weeks ahead, a few ambitious Archers, namely, Marcia Melching, Jane Ladig, Brenda Harper, and Sharon Krakower, toured college campuses. The tour, sponsored by the Fort Wayne YWCA Teenage Department, was designed to give high school students an opportunity to see what Indiana offers in the area of higher education opportunities.

The group, 19 girls and two chaperones, Miss Margaret Albersmeyer and Mrs. Joan Collins, the YWCA Teenage director, left on a rainy Friday morning, April 3, at 8 a.m. on a chartered bus. They ate lunch in Greencastle and toured DePauw University, then moved on to Bloomington to tour Indiana University.

After touring the campus, the dean of the Junior Division, to which all freshman and sophomore girls belong, spoke on "Getting Settled," and attending the school where the best training is offered for the career each girl chooses. She also explained how to register and arrange for living quarters at Indiana University.

THE GIRLS HAD dinner, toured a sorority house (a special treat), and stayed overnight in Forest Hall. Brenda Harper commented, "I enjoyed staying in the dorm—it was really sharp."

She also mentioned (confidentially) that they had a pretty embarrassing moment, for they got lost on the campus and had quite a time getting back to where they belonged.

On Saturday the troupe moved on to Ball State Teachers College. That night at 8:30 p.m., they returned to Fort Wayne, weary but very happy.

While reminiscing about the trip Marcia Melching stated, "Ball State was much larger than I had imagined, and I also noticed how friendly the students were everywhere. I was impressed at I.U. because of its size, the number of students, and the beautiful new buildings—especially Smithwood Hall." However, she mentioned that the DePauw students were on vacation when they arrived and she was disappointed.

Some spice was added to the relating of events when Sharon Krakower mentioned the "ball" they had at Smithwood Hall. Her sister attends I.U., and so they went to her room. After a while they became hungry and ordered some pizza and coke to be sent up. Then her sister had to leave and they had to sneak across the campus with the food to the dorm where they were to stay. They munched away at the snacks in bed.

SHARON KRAKOWER added, "I got some surprising shots of the girls that are really riots!"

Jane Ladig said, "College life seems so entirely different from high school—it's really like a teen community." She said that she was struck by the fact that there are no sorority houses at Ball State. She also mentioned that DePauw appeared to have the best college for liberal arts, which interested her since she hopes to become an artist.

The girls all agreed they had not only a very delightful trip but also an enlightening one.

South Side Tennis Squad Defeats Marion, Cadets, Bluffton, Muncie

Kellys Sparked By Final Return Of Dick McGaw

Archers Sweep Field In Meet With Bluffton; McGaw Defeated Once

South Side's high-flying tennis squad racked up four wins in a row last week, defeating Marion, Concordia, Bluffton, and Muncie Central. Coach Everett Havens' boys are undefeated since the return of Dick McGaw, number one player who was forced by his physician to sit out the beginning of the season.

With the return of John Meyerholz, who has been out of action for the past week, the Green should be even tougher this week as they challenge Goshen, seek a return match with Central Catholic, and enter the newly-formed Lafayette Doubles Tourney.

The Archers downed Marion, 5-2, as the Yellow took a singles and a doubles match from the Kellys. Tuesday the Green defeated Concordia, 6-1, with Gary Novak scoring a 6-2, 4-6, 7-5 upset in the number one singles match against South's McGaw. Bluffton's Tigers were shut out by the Archers on Wednesday, and Thursday saw the Green take a contest from Muncie Central's Bearcats by a 5-2 margin.

Sophomore Jim Dawson Excels As Archers' Star Shotputter

This week's track spotlight shines on sophomore Jim Dawson, varsity shot-putter for the Kelly cindermen. In his second year of high school, Jim stands 6-3 and tips the scales at 235 pounds.

In three meets this season, Jim has already established himself as the man to beat in this area. His 48-foot, 8½-inch heave is the best in the city so far this year. Jim easily took all comers in last week's triangular meet with Central and North, grabbing the blue ribbon with a modest 46½-foot put.

Jim Dawson

Jim has ably filled the big shoes vacated by graduate Jim VaChon and Dick Miller, last year's stars with the 12-pound shot. He was almost totally unrecognized last spring as a freshman when he threw consistently at the 43-foot mark, but now his work is being rewarded.

FORMER NORTH SIDE star Tom Seifert's records remain Jim's goals as the big boy looks ahead to his eligibility for two seasons to come. Seifert's marks of 58 feet in all the larger meets are certainly a challenge as Jim aims at the distance. Jim feels he can do it by hard work and perseverence.

Jim's athletic prowess does not end with his track feets. He lettered on the Archer football team last fall when he was a started at the left tackle slot. He received honorable mention on the all-city football squad as the reward of his hard play. He has the makings to be one of South's greatest football players.

Jim is looking forward to next year's football squad, which he believes has all the possibilities of taking the City Series.

The "sophomore sensation" has high praise for the other members of this year's track squad. Jim believes that it's a toss-up for the Sectional championships between city rivals South and North for the Green will improve as the season progresses. Of one thing Jim is sure: he will try to break Tom Seifert's records in the future!

Freshmen Look Forward To Fine Track Season

South Side's freshman cindermen, under the capable direction of Coach Don Reichert, are looking forward to a successful season.

On the whole the Archers have fine depth and versatility but lack experience. South has ample strength in the dashes but a powerman for the 880-yard run and depth in the mile are needed.

Leading the 100-yard dash men is Karl Bandemer, who has hit 11:2 seconds against Concordia on a wet track. Backing Karl is Bob Ramage and big Nate Norment.

Coach Reichert is set at the 220 with Dave Meet ahead of the pack. Bandemer, Norment, and possibly Carl Schladerman will add excellent depth.

At the 440-yard dash, Ken Robinson, South's outstanding cinderman, looks like a good bet to win a few blue ribbons. Bob Bryant, Evert Mol, and Schladerman, the other candidates, will have to hustle to keep up with big "Robby."

* * *

THE HALF-MILE picture appears cloudy, but Dick Taylor and Tom Frazell, on the strength of their only meet performances, have the inside track for the positions. Lanky Jack Byrd and Curtis Holley are by no means out of the money.

Odds-on favorite to lead the Archer milers is tireless Mike Dunn. Don't count out South's "Mutt and Jeff" pair, Jim Stirn and Larry Lee, however.

With form lacking, Archer hurdlers need only experience to go along with their speed. Ken Robinson and Dave Meek are close together on the high hurdles, but both must work hard in order to win any future meets.

The low hurdles are one of the freshmen's weakest events. Only Bob Ramage and Tom McMahon have had experience. Perhaps Coach Reichert will use Robinson, Meek, or both in the lows as well as in the highs.

With fine depth in the short distances, the relay teams are fairly strong. Bryant, Schladerman, Mol, and Robinson will probably compose the mile relay. Half-milers Taylor and Frazell may be replacements.

REICHERT'S CHOICE of Ramage, Bandemer, Norment, and Meek for the 880-yard relay is pretty well set. Schladerman will also be available if he doesn't compete in the mile relay.

As a whole the field events are rather weak. Versatile Robinson high jumped 5 feet, 1 inch against Concordia, while Tom McMahon is nearing the 5-foot mark. Broad jumpers Ramage and Meek should hit at least 17 feet this season.

Stan Alfeld is at present the only pole vaulter. Tom Wright will undoubtedly aid the Archers as soon as a medical technicality is straightened out.

Big Jack Harter and agile Tom McMahon lead the 12-pound shot hurlers. Don Seivert and Roger Acton are right behind this pair. Jerry Sherrer and Chuck Parker must greatly improve to be of much value to the team.

THIS YEAR'S freshman squad does not figure to do as well as last year's outstanding team. City foes are expected to be tough, especially North Side and Central; so the Archers must really go all out to preserve their clean slate.

Central inherited most of Smart's 1958 eighth grade cinder champs and will be strong in all the field events and dashes. The Tigers are led by big Howard Craig.

Cross-town rival North Side appears to have the best freshman aggregation this early in the season. The Redskins received plenty of talent from Forest Park last fall and, since they started practice a month earlier than everyone, they will be undoubtedly hard to catch, especially early in the season.

Frosh Thinlies Defeat Central By 65-43 Score

Kellys Grab All Places In Shot Put And 880; Harter, Frazell Star

By Larry Lee

Meeting success in their second straight meet, South Side's freshman track team easily tamed the Central Tigers, 65-43, on April 15 at the South Side Stadium. The Archers won only four individual events but had too much balance for the downtown lads.

South captured all three places in the shot put and the 880-yard run as well as taking both short dashes and the relays.

Coach Don Reichert received blue ribbon performances from Bandemer in the century, Meek in the furlong, Frazell in the half-mile, and Harter in the shot put.

THE MILE RELAY quartet of Mol, Johnson, Frazell, and Robinson posted a 4:03.8 winning mark. Norment led the half-mile baton men, Ramage, Bandemer, and Meek, to a fine 1:43.4 time.

Dave Meek amassed 11 individual points to pace the Archer scoring. Due to a badly bruised knee, Ken Robinson, hero of the Kellys' initial start against Concordia, could not operate at his best. Ken still performed admirable, getting seven personal points.

A strong wind prevented any outstanding times in the 100-yard dash, the 220-yard dash, and both hurdles. The wind apparently did not affect Central's Davis, however; he won both hurdle runs and the 440-yard dash. The speedy Tiger was the only thinliclad to win more than one event.

An outstanding factor in the Archer victory was that only nine men composed the Central team. With this meager number, the Tigers did not possess the balance needed to win.

* * *

CENTRAL ENTERED only one man in the mile and half-mile events. Several Tigers ran in four events, the majority in three. The Tiger coach did a fine job using his boys to the best advantage.

As in the Concordia meet, South appeared weak in the low hurdles, the broad jump, and the pole vault. The half-milers looked very promising.

Also like the Cadet invasion, the Bowmen had the meet victory wrapped up before the two relays were run. In both meets the Kellys gave their all to be undefeated in four separate relays.

Following is a summary of the South-Central dual meet:

100-yard dash—1. Bandemer (SS), 2. Wright (C), 3. Norment (SS). Time—11.4.

220-yard dash—1. Meek (SS), 2. Norment (SS), 3. Wright (C). Time—25.6.

Half-mile relay—1. South (Ramage, Bandemer, Norment, Meek), 2. Central. Time—1:43.4.

Reserves Beat Central Catholic

Taking first place in all but about four or five events, South Side's reserve track team romped to a 74½-34½ victory over Central Catholic April 14. The Archers failed to score only in the shot put.

Carl Johnson did the low hurdles in 22.9 while Bob Bolyard had a 2:11.5 half-mile. Bob Schrieffer won the 100-yard dash with a 10.9. Then he, Chuck Clifton, Harry Collins, and Bob King racked up a first with a 1:39.1 in the half-mile relay.

South Side finishes follow:

High hurdles—Johnson, Roderick, time 16.5.

100-yard dash—Schrieffer, Clifton, Bradfield, time 10.9.

Mile run—Romey, Rice, Kindler, time 5:14.7.

440-yard run—Burton first, Cormany third, time 57.2.

880-yard run—B. Bolyard, Wade, Zigler, time 2:11.5.

Shot put—No South Side ranking.

220-yard dash—Smith, Collins, King, time 24.4.

Low hurdles—Johnson, Jacobs, time 22.9.

Broad jump—Shine second, distance 18 feet, 7 inches.

Pole vault—Hay second, height 9 feet.

High jump—David third (tie), height 5 feet, 3 inches.

Mile relay — Somers-Wade-Burton-B. Bolyard, time 3:45.5.

Half-mile relay—Schrieffer-Clifton-Collins-King, time 1:39.1.

Sports In Shorts

By Sandra Grodrian

By Sandra Grodrian

"I enjoy being with the girls and I enjoy the activity." This is a statement made by Jeannette Lynn, GAA president, as to why she liked the Girls' Athletic Association. Jeannette has been a member of GAA since her freshman year and has earned her numeral, letter, and pin. On the college course, she is a Senior A.

Vice-president Susan Kuroski has been in GAA since her freshman year also. She is now a Senior A and has earned her numeral and letter. When asked to comment on GAA, she said, "The activity is wonderful and you get needed exercise. Also you get to know other girls."

"I like GAA because it is a good way to take part in sports that you wouldn't otherwise have the opportunity for. This was Judy Garrison's comment. Judy has been in GAA since her freshman year and is serving as secretary. A Senior B, she is on the college course and has earned her numeral, letter, and pin.

Diane Meyer, sports manager, has been a member of GAA since her freshman year also. Now a Sophomore A, she has earned her numeral. Her comment on GAA was, "Even though I'm taking dance, I can also take part in sports activities." Diana is on the college course.

"I like GAA because I like sports." This was Sandra McGee's comment on GAA. Sandra is the freshman representative and is working for her numeral. On the college course she is a Sophomore B.

Even though the girls' gym has been in use all of this semester, I guess we can say it is now officially "broken in." In Upperclass GAA softball on Monday, Jeannette Lynn didn't realize the extent of her power. The result was a broken door window. Miss Pohlmeyer's period 1 gym class can claim one shattered window also.

The badminton tourney is well under way. The following girls signed for doubles: Pat Igney, Joan Motley; Jeannette Lynn, Donna Zelt; Connie Denis, Carol Haxer, Jane Glass, Jan Kessler; Alberta Bonnell, Shirley Stahlhut; Mary Nahrwold, Janice Nahrwold; Sandy Grodrian, Judy Garrison; Jane Ladig, Sherri Hall; Virginia Kachiamenis, Jenny Slater; Jean Hatfield, Cynthia Russell; Gretchen Brumm, Sharon DeBaillie; and Ann Hechler, Sandy Heidbrink.

Good luck!

Bing Gilardi Leads Archer Golf Team

After the 45-hole totals, South Side's golf team stands with Bing Gilardi as the team's number one player. Also on the team are Bill Berning, Tom Graham, John Biteman, Bill Platka, Steve Pohl, Dick Rothberg, and Joe Weinraub.

Golf Coach Warren Hoover feels that he has good boys, and with their experience they should represent South Side very capably.

The second match of the season is this afternoon at Decatur. The schedule for the season follows:

Host North Wins Relays As South Side Takes Fourth Place

Archers Win Two Firsts In Relay Runs

Sophomore Jim Dawson Wins First In Shotput With 50 Foot Heave

By Steve Rothberg

Consistent placing told the story last Saturday at the North Side Relays as the host Redskins took the meet for the fifth time in seven years with 61 points. Runner-up and defending champ was Lima, O., Senior High accounting for 54 1/3 tallies. Central was third with 48½, and South was fourth with 41-2/3.

North placed in 13 out of 14, winning just two; those being the high hurdles with Jack Hallenbeck, and the two-mile relay, which established a new record of 8:19.5, erasing the old mark of 8:21, set by South Side in 1955.

The Archers, meanwhile, managed to win three events, two of them relays, to greatly bolster their point total. Sophomore sensation Jim Dawson hit a personal high in the shot put with a prodigious heave of 50 feet, 3¼ inches. The Green's crack mile relay team won comfortably in a fine 3:31. Bob Shine, Joe Roth, Bill Lentz, and Tom Bolyard composed the team, and each did a creditable job.

A surprise to some was the victory of the Bowmen in the shuttle-hurdles relay in which Ken Howe, Dave Roderick, Bill Lentz, and Win Moses beat out all contenders in 56 seconds, a mere two-tenths of a second off the lowest time held by the Archers, 55.8. The interesting thing about this, however, is that all four are underclassmen and will be back next year to make an all-out assault on the record.

Lima dominated the 100-yard dash as Albert McDonald and Bill Brown took a first and second, respectively, the former tying the record of 10 flat held by Slater of North and Kelso of Central.

The Archer freshman relay teams left much to be desired as they placed fourth and fifth in the mile and the half-half-mile relays.

Perhaps the high point of the afternoon came in the final leg of the medley relay in which Steve Hibler and Henry King staged a long-to-be-remembered race for the tape.

Hibler had previous to that run, a 4:30.2 mile, and started off a good 70 yards behind Central's 17-year-old freshman ace as the 880, 220, and 440 men had put King right up behind Pete Poorman of North Side. Henry bided his time for three laps and was running along easily about 65 yards out when Hibler started his bid. Hibler hit the final 220 mark sprinting and caught King in the far turn. The Concordia star had come up so quickly King had not noticed it. Then King went into high gear and they both came around the turn looking like a couple of 220 men.

Hibler did not fade a bit but King, not having to sprint all along, had a little more and took Hibler at the tape.

Many people are now probably looking forward to Sectionals when the two will meet on even terms.

If South Side can get into peak condition by Sectional time they will not be counted out of the running if Tom Bolyard and Mel Smith round into top shape.

Kellys To Face Powerful Schools In Annual Kokomo Relays Saturday

Facing the last great test before the Sectionals, the Archer thinlies will travel to Kokomo to take part in the annual Kokomo Relays, Saturday. This will be quite a challenge to the Kellys, for all great powers like Muncie, Richmond, Gary, and some of the Indianapolis schools will take part.

In the relays, the winning schools as well as the relay teams receive trophies, while the individual winners will receive golden and silver belt buckles.

A number of events, not on the program at a usual track meet, will be features of the relays. Although composed chiefly of baton races, there are a number of events for the individual. These are the high and low hurdles, the 100-yard dash, and the 1,000-yard run. In addition to that are also the four field events.

# # #

RELAY RACES TO be contested are the half-mile relay, the medley (consisting of runners running 440, 880, 440, 880 yards in that sequence), the distance medley (440-220-880-mile) and the 1,500-yard relay.

In the "century," Tom Duff and Harry Collins will star for the Archers while Ken Howe and Bill Lentz will try to cop a blue ribbon for the Archers in the hurdles.

Tom Bolyard, along with Joe Roth and Eddie Hartman, will be trying to repeat last year's victory in the 1,000-yard run.

In the field events, Bob Shine and Bob Schrieffer (maybe Tom Bolyard) will try their luck in the broad jump, while Coach Gernand's hopes in the high jump are on Steve Banet, Dave Roderick, and Gus Wade. Gary Gardner will be trying for a first in the pole vault.

A very interesting duel should develop in the shot put where South's Jim Dawson (who has put around 48 feet already) will clash with Muncie's Mike DeVault, who has the best performance in the state this year with 51 feet, 8 inches.

# # #

IN THE RELAYS, Duff, Collins, Schriefer, and one of the Von Guntens should make up the half-mile relay team, while Joe Roth, Tom Bolyard, and Bill Lentz are the ones most likely to run in the distance medley. The medley will consist of Fred Von Gunten, Tom Duff, Bob Bolyard, and Al Rainbolt.

Roth, Shine, Lentz, and possibly Ted Von Gunten will run in the 1,500-yard relay.

It is very likely that some changes will be made about who runs in the different relays. It depends upon how tired the runners become after a race or two. If a runner becomes too tired Coach Gernand will probably have another boy run in his place.

"I don't know how good the teams are that will be down there," said Coach Bob Gernand, "but I think that our relays, especially the distance medley, should be quite strong."

Schmitz On Sports

South Side keeps rolling along taking the back seat in the big track meets; but the squad's miraculous shot puter, Jim Dawson, ignores his mates sub-par performances by continuing to rush towards the top as one of the leading contingents for the state shot put crown.

# # #

Rapidly-improving Dawson eclipsed the coveted 50-foot mark last Saturday in the seventh annual North Side Relays thus joining his predecessors, Jim Vachon and Dick Miller in the Archers' elite group. With two and a half seasons still facing the tall husky heaver, hopes for cracking all the iron ball records seems most feasable.

# # #

With Dawson's fine throw and the coveted mile relay squad (Bob Shine, Joe Roth, Bill Lentz, and Tom Bolyard) stepping in 3:31, two of the Green's prolific point snarlers hoisted them into the state's upper crust.

# # #

The four-quarter milers had little trouble in posting the win after Joe Roth had his finest moment of the present season as he opened a wide margin for Bill Lentz and Tom Bolyard to protect.

# # #

After the incomparable Al McDonald equalled the existing Relay's record for the century at 10 seconds and North Side's slick half-mile speedsters teamed up to reset the two-mile relay standard with a fast 8:19, eradicating the mark set by a South Side foursome in 1955, the Archers' surprising shuttle hurdles relay team missed the criterion set by their Archer teammates last season by .2 of a second as Win Moses, favoring a cinder-scraped shoulder, resulting from a spill in the high hurdles qualifications earlier in the afternoon, outsprinted Jack Hallenbeck to "pay dirt" for the big Green.

# # #

Moses took a spill after hitting the second hurdle in his preliminary round while running second to North's fleet Jack Hallenbeck but came back in fine style to aid his mates to the hurdles championship.

# # #

Ken Howe, regular hurdler, started for the Archers, and Dave Roderick displayed his talent in the hurdles for the first time of the season as he and Bill Lentz toured the middle of the four-man relay race.

# # #

John Sawyer, a member of that surprising relay team that set the two-mile record in '55, was out for the show with his stop watch again Saturday. Since graduation, John has made a point of going out to North to sweat out the anxiety of watching his record and the records of his mates be pursued by top 880 men in the Relays.

# # #

But now that's all over, for after four years of attempts, the record finally fell to the wayside. Bill Lentz's brother, Dick, along with Dave Redding, ex-Archer miler, and South's half-mile record holder, Bob Wright, were the lads who set the mark in the second North Side extravaganza.

# # #

North Side's victory was the school's fifth in seven tries, but their safe margin of victory was lightly misleading. Central, being eliminated from the half-mile relay on a foul, lost 10 points that would have placed them a point behind North in the final point tally. So at the present time all indications are that Central is now ready to challenge North for the right to city track leadership.

# # #

The Tigers' attack was bolstered considerably with the return to action of their fine miler, Henry "Clown" King, and hurdler Cal Thomas. King shows definite signs of being ripe to upset the local favorite, Steve Hibler, in the 1,760-yard track feature if the clowning Tiger will get serious.

# # #

King paced himself behind a respected miler, Pete Poorman of North Side, for three laps of the medley relay nodding to the stands as he passed before the grandstand, showing that evidently he was wasting no efforts while Poorman displayed assiduous pains to stay in front.

# # #

On the final lap, King waltzed ahead but was forced to put on a burst of speed at the end to stave off a rally by Concordia's fast Steve Hibler, holder of the fastest time in the state prior to Saturday's run. It was Hibler's second run of the day.

# # #

Other Tigers who showed signs of bringing the laurels to Central and Coach Pete Williams were Terry Henline, running the half, and Howard Craig who outsprinted North's red flash, Dale Zumbaugh, in the 220 of the medley relay.

# # #

In the majority of cases, our boys turned in season's bests last Saturday. Bob Shine did well in the broad jump, but not as well as he did against C.C.

# # #

The Archers still displayed weakness in the high jump and the pole vault. Tom Bolyard showed signs of weariness and apparently was not in top physical condition. The Green better start ironing out the weaknesses as the season grinds on towards its culmination.

# # #

Battling for top stars for the three All-Star teams continues while the fans anxiously await for the promoters to announce who will appear on their teams. The Indianapolis Star now has four boys publicly announced and despite the continued efforts of the rival FWAAC, the Naptown promoters have in fold some of the top performers in the state.

# # #

The four are Jim Rayl of Kokomo, Ray Pavy of New Castle, Pete Auksel of East Chicago Washington, and Sylvester Coalmon of South Bend Central.

# # #

The North All-Stars thus have in fold Tom Bolyard, Roger Thurston of Kokomo, and Dave Holfheinz of Muncie Central. Larry Bemis of Martinsville was picked to appear on the South All-Star team.

# # #

Dick McGaw returned and the Archer tennis team returned to form, but McGaw, the number one man who was recently given the okay by his doctor to compete, has failed to win a match. His addition, however, has spurred the Kelly netters to four straight match wins last week.

Archers Beat Irish In Meet

Kellys Sweep All Events Except Broad Jump

By Jim Carter

Posting their first win of the season, the Kelly cindermen trounced Central Catholic, 93-16, April 14, at South Side Stadium. After some hard luck, including a rained-out opener, a close defeat by Kokomo, and a second in the city triangular meet, the Archers finally came through in grand style. In its rout of the Irish, the Green swept all but one of the blue ribbons, taking them all in the track events.

Central Catholic's lone first place came in the broad jump in which the Irish took first and third. Gary Gardner took a second for South. One Irish pole vaulter also tied for first with Gardner and Don Eisenacher of South at 9 feet, 6 inches.

Sophomore Tom Duff won the century in a respectable 10.8, and Harry Collins took third. The other dash, the 220, was won by Win Moses in 24 seconds, with Bob Schriefer second.

Archers made a clean sweep of the 440, taking all three places. Bill Lentz won, with Fren Von Gunten second, and Ted Von Gunten third. The winning time was 54.5 seconds.

The Kellys also swept the half-mile, as Joe Roth, Tom Bolyard, and Bob Shine were the first three men home. Roth's time was a good 2:05.8. Ed Hartman won the mile in 4:45.2, and improving Al Rainbolt finished second.

Win Moses doubled by winning the high hurdles, and Ken Howe took second. Dave Roderick took the low sticks in 22.5, and Bob Bradfield added three more points with his second.

Sophomore Jim Dawson came through with another prodigious shotput, 48 feet, 8½ inches, his best this season in a meet. John Somers and Bob Sheray added to the South Side total by sweeping the other two places in this event.

The Green also dominated the high jump, a new situation for it. Dave Roderick cleared 5 feet, 8 inches to win, and Gus Wade and Steve Banet tied for second.

This time the outcome of the meet was certain long before the running of the relays, so the suspence concerned the winning times. The Kellys easily took both these baton events. The mile relay team, composed of Duff, Mel Smith, and the Von Guntens, turned in a 3:44.4 time. The half-mile relay was run by several regular members of the Checker mile quartet, Bob Shine, Joe Roth, Bill Lentz, and Tom Bolyard, in a good 1:37.9.

Hi-Y Club Explorers Climb In Smokey Mountains

Mr. Robert Weber, sponsor of the Hi-Y Club, made several observations concerning the club's trip to the Great Smokey Mountains National Park during spring vacation. Did you know that several members of the club have extraordinary skills when it comes to hiking and camping?

Take for example, Dave Barrett, a junior this year. Dave has now acquired the title of Human Garbage Can since he likes to eat all the time. He climbed the mountains like a mountain goat and seemed to possess a great immunity to cold air at night.

Steve Bash and Byron White were the expert tent electricians, providing flashlights for everyone. Byron was also a first class cook's assistant.

Terry Berk acquired the title of an All-Around Industrious Camper. Terry is an expert trunk packer, tent folder, and dish washer (take note, girls).

Dan Bill may now be known as the one who dreamed of home and genteel city living. He was also the chief charcoal attendant.

* * *

THE MOST AVID poker player and dishwashing-avoider (take note, girls) was Bill Hauk. Roger McNett was titled The Big Story Teller, Bear Photographer, and Trail Lunch Chief.

George Pifer is now known as the Chief Trail Griper. George was the one most easily stranded on rock islands.

Trail Philosopher, Esthetist, and Gnashing-Nash Nurse Maid are the proud titles that Dick Rothberg earned for himself.

Chief Stinker in charge of squirt guns and fire crackers was John Shannahan. Steve (Gopher) Weiss was known as The Sneaky Chow Hound. He was most frequent inquirer about events to come and most likely to buy plenty of film next time.

Mr. Richard Sage was titled Chief Cook, Frustrated Monty Wooley, Fearless (ha, ha) Climber, Trail Gripers' President, Chief Joke Teller, Good, Fair, and mostly otherwise.

Mr. Robert Weber was titled Trail Leader (except when passed by Barrett's Band), Information Man, and Poor Judge of Shoes.

While the members were on their trip they met a reporter from the Chicago Tribune who wrote their trip up in the Chicago Tribune.

Now you may be asking yourself, "Where did they go? What did they do? How did they obtain those crazy names?"

Hi-Y Views Movie On Power Plants

"Twins on the Ohio," a movie concerning the two atomic power plants on the Obio River, highlighted the Hi-Y meeting Monday night in the Assembly Room of the YMCA. The movie, made by the Atomic Energy Commission, proved to be educational as well as entertaining.

Stan Hoover, who is in charge of the plans for the Best Girl Banquet, stated that the members are considering the Gaucho as a probable location for their banquet which is to be May 11.

Directory sales were announced as very satisfactory by Terry Berk, chairman of the Hi-Y directory sales.

USA To Have Discussion

A group discussion on teenage problems will highlight the USA meeting this afternoon at 3:30 p.m. in the Greeley Room. President Carol Lewis announced that Betty Ensley will sing a solo. Refreshments will be served after the meeting.

Talent Show Given April 21

A drug store with a soda fountain, billboard ads, tables and chairs, a juke box, a big record, and actual sodas provided the theme, "Pop's Soda Shoppe," for the annual 36 Workshop Talent Show Tuesday, April 21, at 8:20 a.m. in the boy's gymnasium.

The record "Midnight Oil" opened the show. Harv Trees, Wayne Larlan, and Fred Richardson followed with a rock and roll number. Dave Dunstone and John Hendricksen offered some advice concerning love to Dave Wallace and H. H. Persons with "Brush Up Your Shakespeare."

Dan O'Laughlin, Mac Wirick, and John Slick had an argument as to what song they should play on the juke box. They finally decided upon "You're An Old Smoothie" to which Brenda Dull tap-danced.

Susie Horth, Debbie Tourkow, and Barb Dicker, having just come from school, entered the drug store. They watched their friends Linda Meyers, Sally MacDonald, Mary Spindler, Gretchen Meister, Jan Martindale, Susie Scott, and Sally Mieras charleston to "Ma."

A boys' quarter consisting of Nick Roembke, Grant Osborne, Jim Saylors, and Jack Winder sang "Puppy Love." Betty Ensley exhibited her talent by singing "Somewhere Over the Rainbow."

A bop record accompanied Barb Wallace and Pam Holtzberg in their dance number.

Following Sandy Hearn singing "Pink Shoelaces" was the boys' quartet with another number entitled "Blue Moon."

The Peter Gunn theme provided the background for Mimi Hinman's modern jazz number.

Merle Baldwin, Penny Hunt, Susie Vesey, Marian McCallister, Bessie Ferguson, and Sue Sappenfield cut a pretty snappy rug to "Charleston."

Organ music broke out and Sharon Probst played "Sheik of Araby."

The show was concluded with Judy

Latin Week, Circus Get Congratulations

Latin Week and the Roman Circus attracted attention from other than the students and parents of South Side.

Mr. Martin W. Rothert, former Language Department head at South Side, expressed his congratulations in a letter to all Latin teachers. In it he stated that the program was a "great success," and the students should be commended for their "100 per cent co-operation." Mr. Rothert, who is 92 years old, was the head of the Foreign Language Department from 1922 until his retirement in 1937.

Mrs. D. L. Allen of West Lafayette, Ind., wrote requesting copies of the Latin edition of the Times for both the Latin classes and the school library of West Side High School. In her letters she stated that she read th release of Latin Week in the News-Sentinel while here on a visit. Mrs. Allen was a Latin student herself in 1926-27 under the guidance of Miss Millicent Work and the late Miss Gertrude Oppelt.

Mr. Earl Sterner, Latin teacher, wishes to express his appreciation to the News-Sentinel, Journal-Gazette, and The South Side Times "for the splendid publicity given South Side Latn Week."

The new officers of Art Club include Nancy Vanderford as president and Pat Nettour as vice-president. Rita Smith was elected secretary; while Carol Abramson will be the new treasurer. The office of sergeant-at-arms will be held by Jack Byrd as first and Bruce Chaney as second.

A speaker from the John Worthman Incorporated will feature the May meeting. He will speak on Interior Decorating. The members of the club will take a tour through many of the new John Worthman homes. Members are asked to bring written permits from home before the May 6 meeting.

Honor Exams May 15 And 18

The honor exams in the Social Studies, with the exception of those in Government 2 and economics, will be held in Room 108, 110, and 32 from 3:30 to 4:30 p.m. on Monday, May 18. The honor exams in economics and Government 2 will be on the preceding Friday, May 15, in Room 108. The exams will be conducted by the Social Studies faculty.

Any student now enrolled in a social studies course is eligible to take the exam in the subject in which he is trying for honors. Students planning to take the exams should notify their own teachers at least three days before the examination. If a student has a job after school, he should notify his employer ahead of time to make arrangements to be off work.

Honors are awarded on the basis of scholarships, a rating by the faculty of the department on qualities of character and leadership.

"The names of previous winners inscribed on the shields in the trophy cases are proof that the winners this year will be joining a distinguished list of past and present South Side students," says Mr. Wilburn Wilson, department head.

"The Social Studies Department would like to see a large turnout for these exams and a lot of competition for the honors," he added.

Grades To Be Issued

Tomorrow marks the end of the third grading period this semester. M and U cards will be issued next Tuesday.

Four Student Teachers Come To South Side

Miss Ellen Anderson

Mr. Robert Kelly

Miss Barb Strubbe

Miss Beth Kent

By Joyce Brittenham

Studying and student teaching at South Side are four student teachers.

Miss Beth Kent is studying in the home economics department under the guidance of Miss Barbara Leif. Under the assistance of Mr. Ernest Walker, Bob Kelly is teaching in the business department. Also studying is Miss Ellen Anderson who is being helped by Mr. E. H. Murch. Mrs. Evlyn Spray is assisting Miss Barb Strubbe in the English department.

Miss Kent, a senior at Purdue University, is teaching Home Economics 2 and Home Economics 4. At present she is teaching just Home Economics 4 but before her stay is out she will teach Home Economics 2. Her teaching day will then amount to five classes.

In conducting her classes, Beth tries to lead them in as democratic a manner as possible. "The particular activity of the day will depend on the topic of the day," stated Beth in explaining how she conducts her classes. For example she added, "Meat cookery would be a laboratory lesson."

Beth's hometown is Munster, Ind., and she attended Noll High in Hammond, Ind.

Water-skiing and swimming are favorite pastimes of Miss Kent, although she enjoys all sports. Reading and art work are also hobbies that she finds very enjoyable.

AFTER MAY 15, Miss Kent will return to college for graduation. The courses she has taken include primarily home economics and teaching methods with an elective in art.

At Purdue, Beth is very active on the campus. She is a member of a social sorority and also works on the yearbook staff.

The Home Economics Club is an organization that keeps her well supplied with work. She also helped in the planning of the Greek Week banquet.

Even with all of these extra-curricular activities, she still finds time to engage in intramural sports and church activities.

Last spring Beth was voted a member of the Junior Prom Queen Court.

Miss Kent said that she is enjoying her stay in Fort Wayne and stated, "I find the students South Side very enthusiastic, and interesting to work with."

Archer Ant Tells Of Trouble In Huge Kelly Couple World

Have you ever wondered what it would be like to be something besides a human being? If you have, please forget all about it. I speak from experience. You see, one day a few weeks ago, I was suffering from an ailment known as the blues. Everyone and everything seemed to be against me. Even the walls looked like they were sneering at me.

In despair, I ran into Study Hall, threw my books on a desk and said to myself, "If only I were an ant or something. Then I wouldn't have any problems." This was my first mistake. No sooner had I said this than I turned into an ant. Suddenly the whole world seemed enormous. The desk I was on looked more like a football field.

Screaming as loud as I could, I crawled up the sleeve of the boy in front of me. It turned out to be Bob Duncan, who was helping Sue Phillips with her homework. When he saw me, he just knocked me off his sleeve. I kept falling and falling until I thought I would never reach the ground. Suddenly, plop! I landed right on top of Bob King's shoe as he and Sue Sappenfield walked out of Study Hall. I decided to stay there and get a free ride into the hall. This was my second mistake. When we reached center hall, I lost my balance and fell off. Bill Moore ('58) and Ruth Dill almost stepped on me as they went by, laughing at a joke Mrs. Stuart had just told.

SUDDENLY I FELT as if someone were trying to drown me. Looking up I saw Gene Stout (Bluffton) getting a drink while Sue Pfeifer held his books. I had to get out of here so I jumped on the janitor's broom as he passed by. When he stopped to pick up some trash, I jumped off.

An odd smell met my ant nostrils. There was a door in front of me, so I crawled under. I found myself in the chemistry lab. Jack Winder and Diane Irmscher, and Neil Mieras and Sharon Longenberger were in there working on experiments. Nick Arnold came over and saw me on the floor. He picked me up and tried to put me in a test tube which Edee White was holding. "Oh, no!" I exclaimed.

Finally working myself loose, I fell to the floor and crawled out of these as fast as I could. I finally found my way outside. I crawled across a street and found a nice pile of sand. I was just relaxing, when Chris Parrott landed right on top of me. It seemed that he was pole-vaulting while Sue Horth watched him. Scurrying out of there as quickly as possible, I decided that my best bet would be to find a nice little crack in the school walls and stay there.

AFTER SEARCHING franitcally, I found a very nice hole. Suddenly everything got dark. Oh, no, it couldn't be! It just so happened that Mike Simmons and Margo Martindale had decided to earn their brownie points that day by filling in all the cracks in the school. Well, this time I was, literally speaking, really in a mess.

After freeing myself from the plaster, I stopped to rest for a little while. In the meantime, the plaster dried and I became stiffer than a board. This was a hopeless situation. Wait! Maybe luck was still with me. At that very moment, it started to rain. I hopped onto the nearest raindrop and landed right on the window sill of the Times room.

I crawled inside and found Jeanie Carrol and Tom Duff setting up the paper for the next week. Suddenly I slipped and fell right onto a clean sheet of paper which was ready to be printed. Janet Leist picked up the piece of paper and handed it to Mahmoud Abouzeid, who started to put it onto the printing machine. "Wait one minute you guys, I've always wanted to be in print, but never this way," I exclaimed.

Well, after escaping my fate this time, I decided that there must be some drastic change made. All at once I remembered the saying, "United we stand, divided we fall." So I decided to join an ant colony. Luck was with me again for I just happened to run across a colony in the school. They were practicing their military formations under Mr. Sterner's desk in the Latin room. Their leader was appropriately named Julius Caesar.

WHEN I JOINED them, they were just discussing the plan of a raid which was to take place that noon. As the lunch bell rang, we all got in line and marched off to the cafeteria. When we got there, we found that Nick Demetre and Marty Clark had left a whole sack of food just for us. The first platton took care of this while the rest of us went out in search for more.

We didn't have an easy time of it. First we tried to get a bite of the sandwich that Dan Bill was eating, but he wasn't too willing to part with it. Camille Luther had the nerve enough to knock us off her pudding. I spotted Merle Baldwin and Dave Roderick over in a corner talking about other things and not paying any attention to their food.

Seizing the opportunity, I jumped onto Carolyn Sievers tray and took a hunk of potato. All went along smoothly until she spotted me carrying it off her plate. She started screaming so loud that I dropped it and ran. This time I tried Nick Roembke's sandwich.

THE THING I didn't know was that he was just ready to bite off the piece which I had just landed on. As he bit down prepared to enjoy the tasty meal, Carolyn Sievers told him the delightful news that he had just swallowed an ant. I guess he decided that he didn't want the sandwich, because he laid it down without even tasting it.

By this time, I was getting bored with trying to find food. I hopped on Fred Van Fossen's shoe, but Gretchen Meister happened to be so careless as to step on his toes at that moment. Well, folks, I guess I don't need to tell you what happened. I died, of course. I'm in ant heaven right now. I would much rather have stayed a human being and lived a healthy, happy life. I hope you all have learned a lesson from this story. Never wish to be anything but yourself. You are much better off that way.

Observant Archers Give Opinions On Kelly Track Team

Looking at track from a feminine point of view, these were comments of a few observant Archers when they were asked about our team. Boys, you would never guess that girls know so much about sports.

Sandy Hadley: It's really terriffic!

Diana Frederick: My word, it's really quite good.

Sue Martin: We have the best team from Broadway to Anthony, Pontiac to Rudisill and in the middle of the fifth district.

Ellen Lowe: It's just too neat.

Sue Harrod: Who wears short shorts?

The Junior Girls: Just about as good as the Elmhurst football team.

Marilyn Cole: Oh! I wish I had long legs.

Susie Bumgardner: Girls you better run (not too fast).

Sandy Bates: Va-Va—Voom!

Linda McMurtry: Indecent exposure.

Peggy Lee: Why didn't you ask me what I thought about Central's track team?

Judy Hutchens: It's the most!

Babs Jones: Fine, if they stay on the right track.

Joyce Lockwood: It's the best!

Nancy Gift: They don't get enough glory for all the hard work they do, so run—run—go!

M. J. Spindler: They try, I guess.

Susie Scott: They are fast!

Pam Olson: Perkie?

For Miss VanGorder and Miss Harvey
And the last period of the day
She's in Room 8 for history.

She also takes the last of her gym
Sixth period every 'other day.

Refrigerator Raids Common To Kellys

Archers gave many varied answers when asked what they thought of the chain reaction of kids when they came home from school and immediately went to the refrigerator.

Elaine Edwards: They're hungry!

Lee Crowell: They want their mouth full so they can't tell their parents what happened at school that day.

Sally Dill: They eat what they want before dinner so when they sit down to eat dinner they don't have to eat the horrible vegetables on their plate! (Funniest thing, they don't seem to be hungry).

Dave Welch: They don't like cafeteria food or they get tired of eating hamburgers at Miller's.

Lucille Palevich: Food Mmmmmm!

Linda Silverman: This makes the girls think they have lots of will power when they don't eat anything for dinner 'cause they're on a "strict diet."

Pat Brown: I think it means that the school rushes you so much that you don't have time to eat until then. In other words you get up in the morning, rush to school, rush for noon lunch, and then die waiting until school lets out for that raid!

Ken Buchan: They must have not nourished their minds with the fruitful flow of education which was prepared for them by the chef of learning in the giant kitchen of South Side! huh . . . . ?

Sandy Fast: I think eating after school is strictly for rushing minds that want nothing but food and no study. It makes their minds nourished for only a night of records and T.V.

Nancy DeBrular: We don't have a refrigerator, we keep all our food down in a root cellar.

Sheri Koch: As the song goes, "It's not for me to say!"

P.S. from PENNY

By Penny Hunt

South Side High School
April 30, 1959

Good Morning!

I'll bet you're glad to see my cheery greeting in English again rather than in another language, aren't you? Actually I've run out of languages. If anyone knows Russian or Yugoslavian or something else, please tell me how they say, "Good Morning," if they say it.

Oh, I know you're probably sick of hearing it, but I've just got to tell you how many days, hours, etc. there are left in school. If you don't want to know, don't read the figures, but maybe they'll cheer up those who don't see that the end's in sight. Well, here they are as of 8:10 a.m., Thursday, April 10, 1959: there are approximately five weeks, four hours, and fifty minutes to go. Isn't that terrific.

Don't take this statement literally, but Mrs. Stuart, study-hall director, was heard commenting on the seventh period study-hall skippers, "I don't understand why they don't skip all day and make it worthwhile." This sounds pretty good, but I wouldn't try it.

I'm starting a gigantic scientific contest which any mathematical scientifical genius can easily calculate with only a few hours of prodigious labor. The problem is how many doors lead from South Side. I imagine the figure is very astonishing.

Talk about embarrassing! This could only happen to Pamm Holtzberg and Julie Carr. When they saw Jerry George's car parked outside of Miller's, they decided that it was the perfect place to eat their lunches. Just because the car door was locked was no obstacle. Pushing their hands through a small opening in the window they skillfully opened the door.

Later a strange man and woman peered at them and began to knock on the car window. The girls just couldn't understand it, what did these people think they were doing? Julie and Pamm finally got the message: the strangers wondered what they were doing in their car? With red faces, the girls attempted to explain and cleared out of there fast.

Speaking of car mixups, Barb Frederick was quite confused. Just as was planned, Barb went to Dick Erb's car during fifth period to get a ride home. She waited and waited, growing more and more furious as the seconds ticked by. He didn't come, and he didn't come, all during the period. Then Barb decided to take stock of her surroundings. No wonder Dick hadn't come, she was waiting in the wrong car!

Studentnapping, that's what you call it. The student—Hoy McConnell; the nappers—unknown friends (?). After the school Talent Show, Hoy was abducted, amid screams and kicks, bodily from the building. His captors refused to release him until after second period government, then Hoy was returned unharmed after his adventure.

Anyone for apple pie? That's Lois Levine's specialty. Lois made a delicious, at least she thought it was delicious, pie; but a friend informed her just as she was putting the pie in the oven that you DO peal the apples. Lois still insists the pie was good.

* * *

POSY WEILEMANN not only heals the broken-hearted in "Posy's Pointer," but she heals tomatoes, sick tomatoes. When she was little, after cutting a tomato in half, Posy decided to repair the damage with a little doctoring. She carefully covered the vegetable in merthialate, which alone should have killed it, and wrapped it in gauze. Then by some miracle, it healed, it actually grew back.

Fate just seems to pick on boys named Bob. What do you say, Bob Haag and Bob Duncan? Bob Haag must have awfully big feet, for another Bob named Keegan tried hard to shorten them with the aid of a car. The result—Bob's feet no shorter, but slightly runover.

The other Bob mentioned, Bob Duncan, spent spring vacation in a place far less exciting than Florida, the hospital. After a knee operation, Bob "recuperated" for a few days, but according to all reports he enjoyed his stay. How were the nurses, Bob?

When Mr. Sidell told Nick Demetre that nothing happens when a piece of glass is placed in a Wimshurst machine (consult a physics book, I can't explain it), Nick bravely put the glass there and watched the sparks go under the glass. Things were going according to plan until one lone spark jumped up the glass to Nick's hand. With a slight yell, and a loud crash, the experiment ended when he dropped the glass. The moral of this story is that when someone tells you nothing happens, don't listen.

Well, I must run. Please write me the news.

Anderson Girls To Tour Europe With 'Belles Of Indiana' Singers

You don't have to "join the Navy to see the world" as sisters Julia and Ellen Anderson well know. Julia, a '58 graduate of South, and Ellen, a student teacher at South, are among a vocal group of twelve girls touring Europe to entertain U. S. troops for six weeks this summer.

They are going as members of the "Belles of Indiana," a group of female singers from Indiana University under the direction of Eugene Bayless. The tour is a United Service Organization project, handled through the university. The group will leave August 3 and travel such countries as Germany, France, Netherlands, Turkey, Greece, Italy, Austria, and Morocco while singing for the soldiers.

After a week of concentrated rehearsing beginning July 25, the group, plus a drummer, violinist, string bass, flute, and pianist will leave McGuire Air Force Base in New Jersey in a big Army plane.

After they arrive in Europe, they will do approximately two shows a day, with time out for sightseeing. The group will go pretty much where they are needed, instead of having a rigid schedule to follow. Transportation is supplied by the USO, and money for hotels and meals is provided.

THE "BELLES OF INDIANA" have previously toured Japan, Korea, Panama, Cuba and Puerto Rico, in connection with the same type of trip.

The "Belles" actually consists of 60 girls, 36 of whom travel. Since only twelve could go on the tour, the girls had to audition. Julie, who is now a freshman at I.U., and Ellen, who will graduate this June, are quite excited and are looking forward to the trip.

During the trip, each girl has to do a solo. Ellen is hoping to sing "100 Ways To Lose a Man," while Julia will probably sing a blues number. The girls are also planning to do a duet called "Sisters."

* * *

"THE GROUP is very versatile," stated Ellen. "We do classical, popular and show tunes," she continued.

Approximately 500 girls try out for the "Belles" each year. Ellen and Julia were encouraged by their father to try out, and say that they feel very lucky in being in the group.

Last summer, the girls' group auditioned with Bob Hope, and United Artists, a movie company. Bob Hope wanted the group on the show he did at the State Fair, but red tape prohibited this.

* * *

THE SISTERS come from a musical family, as their father has been a singer for many years While Julia was still in grade school, the two used to sing on High School Highlights, a radio program for teens. Both girls play the piano.

As a student of South, Julia sang in many assemblies and 36 Workshop productions. She was also general manager of The Times her senior year.

Julie is at Indiana on a music scholarship, and hopes to have music as her career. Ellen, on the other hand, is majoring in business education and minoring in music.

Ellen graduated from Elmhurst, where she was on the four year honor roll. She displayed her musical talent as pianist for the Elmhurst Glee Club.

Marsha Chaney, Dick Byers Gifted Dancers, Teach, Perform

By Kaylene Gebert

Have you ever been in a dance review? Marsha Chaney and Dick Byers have and will. Marsha will participate in the Cabana Studio's 24th Annual Spring Revue and Dick will participate in the Charles Allen Studio Revue on June 7.

Marsha, a 15-year-old Sophomore A, attends and teaches at the Cabana Studio. When querried about her students, she replied, "Some of them pick up dancing right away and others just take time." Marsha's students range in age from 6 or 7 to 15 or 16. She teaches classes of ballroom, acrobatic, and tap dancing on Tuesdays, Wednesdays, Thursdays, after school, and on Saturday mornings and afternoons. She also helps put on shows for group meetings.

When asked how she got started in dancing she replied, "About eight years ago I took a three-month course for tap dancing at the YWCA, after which I went to the studio, and was later offered a teaching job." Marsha is currently concentrating on Hawaiian and modern jazz routines.

Marsha is one the business course, taking art, English, bookkeeping, physical geography, and Dance 4. Her favorite foods are pizza pie and chicken. "Maverick" is Marsha's favorite TV program, while Bob Chase is her favorite radio personality.

In addition to her dancing Marsha finds time to indulge in her hobbies, copper enameling and tropical fish. Lavender is her favorite color and her favorite records are "Three Stars" and "Tiajuana Jail."

Marsha's pet peeve is stuck-up people.

Dick Byers, who is 17, is a member of an elite group because there are only about four other boy dancers in Fort Wayne in his age group. Dick is now taking tap and modern jazz from the Charles Allen Dance Studio. When asked how he became interested in dancing, Dick replied, "I wasn't very interested at first and I quit for a while. Later I decided to try it again and I have continued taking courses; that was about six years ago."

This summer Dick is planning to attend the St. Mary's dance camp for a week. While at this camp Dick will learn new routines.

When asked what wns his most embarrassing situation, Dick said that once when he was out on the dance floor he tripped and fell, much to the amusement of his fellow students.

Dick hopes to either become a toolmaker by attending the G.E. Apprentice School, go to Purdue, or continue with his dancing.

As a 12B Dick is currently taking English, physics, government, and trigonometry. He is on the business course and trigonometry is his hardest subject. Dick's favorite TV program is "Peter Gunn" and pizza pie is his favorite food.

Dying Tweedle-Oomph

Once-upon-a-time-of-a Saturday night, folks for miles around delighted in coming into Fort Wayne to the Emboyd. After the movie, the white, gilt-splashed organ console would glide, spotlighted, before the screen like an avenging spectre. The voice that thundered from its pipes filled the domed roof. People often went to a show to hear the organ more than to see the movie.

Nowadays, we have not the Emboyd, but the Embassy; we have Cinerama, stereo, atomic bombs, fin-tail Fords, and Hammond organs. Yet there linger among us a few die-hards who grumble that a thunder-throated monster complete with marimba, Chinese block, cello, clarabella, clarinets, glockenspeil, castanets, Doppelflutes, oboe, and the entire "toy table" of drums is by far better than a silky smooth electric organ. They glare at us with drawn brow and say that an electronic tweedler will never give that feeling, that sound, of wind in its pipes. Could it possible be that anything is lacking in our modern innovations?

If a person goes about asking about theater organs, there is a strong chance he will be provided with an escort of little men in white coats. On the other hand, he may be lucky enough to happen upon Calvin and may have the privilege of seeing the organ in his basement. Actually, his organ swallows up his house; the console is upstairs, and the switchboard, flutes, diapason, bells, toy table, "strings," tremulant, regulator, and so on fill up his cellar.

When a fortunate visitor is shown the cellar, he is squeezed into a room crammed with endless sizes of square, wooden flutes and the round, metal tubes of the diaposin and strings. He is bound to trip over a wooden box which lies, gasping, on the floor. After he has crashed against the accordion-like box, he will find that it is called a tremulant and that it produces the tear-jerking vibrato which helps make the theater organ sound differently than the church organ. Then, deafened by the orchestra-bells, he strains to hear an explanation of the monster.

No one but a theater organ understands quite how a theater organ works, but a visitor gathers this general idea: when the organist presses a key, pedal, or set of keys, he shoots off an electrical impulse which, through an electromagnet, opens a pipe through which the flow of air may pass—so there! The air is kept running all the time the organ is played. The complicated systems are grouped under headings of "accompaniment," "swell," great," "solo," "pedal," and so on into the night.

The die-hard has now just begun to tell the visitor about his pet. He will swear on a copy of the "Cuban Love Song" that the king of theater organs was the Wurlitzer. He will also either declare that the Chicago Stadium organ or the Atlantic City monster is the largest of all. The first theater Wurlitzer was played at the Picture Palace in Seattle. That was way back in 1914. They were later found in all movie palaces and heard in every radio station—largely in this country and in England. They died out at the advent of the double feature and the electric organ.

The ghost of the monster still walks. It lingers, whispering on the dusty keys of those organs hidden away in the Embassy and in the Paramount. It struggled for survival when organ-lovers from California tried to start a club here. You can hear it on disks such as Johnny Duffy's "Ecursion in Hi-Fi" or Leon Berry's "Glockenspeils, Traps, and Plenty of Pipes." It rumbles in Mr. Prott's basement. Have you heard the sweep of 16-foot pipes or the woomph of a flat tibia?

Brahms Requiem To Be Presented On Final "Fine Arts In Miniature"

Forty-four members of the South Side orchestra, with the Chancel Choir of Plymouth Congregational Church, will present "A German Requiem" by Johannes Brahms Sunday at 7:45 p.m. at Plymouth Congregational Church.

The program, last in the series "Fine Arts in Miniature," will also feature an address by Dr. Elmer E. Voelkel, pastor of Plymouth Congregational Church, and an art exhibit from North Side High School.

A radio broadcast of the concert will begin at 8:05 p.m. on Station WOWO. This broadcast, sponsored by the Fort Wayne Fine Arts Foundation, will be presented as a special feature on the Foundation's "Adventures in the Arts" radio series. Marshall Turkin, business manager of the Fort Wayne Philharmonic Orchestra, will be the radio host for the evening.

AFTER DR. VOELKEL'S talk, the musical program will begin the presentation of Brahm's "Requiem," which will be divided into seven parts. The opening part will be "Blessed Are They That Mourn," sung by the entire choir.

Philip Steigerwald will sing a baritone solo in the second portion, "Behold, All Flesh." "Lord, Make Me to Know" and "How Lovely Is Thy Dwelling Place" will next be sung by the choir.

James Seidel will sing a soprano solo in "Ye Now Are Sorrowful," the fifth part of the "Requiem." Mr. Steigerwald will again solo in the sixth number, "Here on Earth Have We No Continuing Place."

The final selection will be "Blessed Are the Dead Which Die in the Lord," presented by the entire ensemble.

# #

THOSE HELPING IN the management of the program are Marjory Bell and Don McClead, sponsors for the North Side art exhibit; Vincent E. Slater, director of the choir and organist at Plymouth Congregational Church; and Robert T. Drummond, director of the South Side orchestra.

Sharon Possel and Carolyn DeVore will speak as student announcers. There will be no charge for admission, and refreshments will be served following the concert.

business law, commercial geography, and typing.

When asked how he conducts his classes, Mr. Kelly replied, "As informally as possible while still maintaining the proper classroom atmosphere." He believes that students respond easily to such a situation, and he also stated that this system has worked out quite well for him.

Mr. Kelly has an unusual hobby of training dogs and horses. He also finds much enjoyment in working with all animals.

Bob is from Fort Wayne and graduated from North Side, but he would like to add, "With a name like Kelly, I can't help being a loyal South Sider."

Mr. Kelly's stay at South Side will be until May 29. Then he will go back to the campus in order to graduate.

On campus Bob belongs to the Mummers and enjoys much swimming. Being a member of Student Government and an active member on the school newspaper keeps his spare time quite occupied.

# #

AT COLLEGE Mr. Kelly has majored in Business Education and minored in social science and literature. In business, his main concentration has been the marketing field with particular emphasis on advertising.

Bob said he is enjoying his student teaching at South Side and also feels that Mr. Walker, his critic, has helped him immensely and has made his teaching assignment a valuable experience.

Bob has found "the students to be very well disciplined and on the whole very likable."

MISS ELLEN ANDERSON, a senior at Indiana University, is teaching typing, shorthand, bookkeeping, salesmanship, and marketing.

At the present Ellen is teaching three classes a day. This includes two typing classes and one shorthand class. However, she will begin teaching marketing on May 18 and will also alternate between bookkeeping and salesmanship.

After May 26, the end of her stay at South Side, Miss Anderson will return to college to graduate.

Through her four years Ellen has taken marketing, business law, management, corporation finance, statistics, economics, accounting, typing, shorthand, and office management.

# #

MISS ANDERSON is a member of the YWCA and the Indiana Union. She is also an officer of a Church Club. Most of her spare time is taken up as a member of Belles of Indiana, which is a top singing group on campus.

Ellen has been honored to be one of the 16 members of Belles of Indiana of which there are 60 that are going to Europe this summer for six weeks to sing for the armed services.

Of course, one of Miss Anderson's hobbies is music. She also enjoys reading and swimming.

Ellen is also from Fort Wayne and graduated from Elmhurst, but her sister, Judy Anderson, graduated from South Side last year.

Miss Anderson is a member of Beta Gamma Sigma, the highest honor in Business School and Omicron Delta, Business Honorary organization for women.

Alpha Gamma Delta is another sorority to which Ellen belongs but this is a social sorority. Of this she has been rush leader, song leader, and scribe.

Ellen has been on the dean's list every semester and also has a state scholarship and Merit scholarship.

MISS BARB STRUBBE, also a senior at Indiana University, is teaching English and Developmental Reading, but she can also teach speech.

In teaching her classes Barb tries to conduct them in a friendly and helpful manner. She believes that "teaching and learning should be a pleasant learning experience." So far she teaches first and fourth periods each day.

After the end of our semester she will return to college to graduate.

Fort Wayne is also Barb's hometown and she graduated from Elmhurst.

Miss Strubbe has been kept very busy on campus as she belongs to Y-Radio and Y-Dramatics. Angle Flight, an Air Force honorary at Indiana University, is another organization that she belongs to. As song leader and social chairman, she adds a lot as a member of her sorority.

Playing the piano and singing are hobbies which Barb enjoys very much. She also enjoys entertaining in a humorous manner.

GAA Track Rules Announced For Student Leaders, Referees

Softball activities have been stopped in all the gym classes to begin practice for the GAA track meet. Girls desiring to enter the meet must sign up and participate in three to five events.

Senior and junior girls not taking gym who would like to practice for the events may do so during their study periods by signing in the gym office.

Student leaders and office girls must know the rules of the different events. Mrs. Alice Keegan and Miss Helen Pohlmeyer asked that they be consulted if there is any question.

50-Yard Dash

1. Before event is to be run, take a short, easy jog to limber up, and one or two, short, easy starts.
2. After digging starting holes and carefully testing them, come out of them before assuming your position for the actual start.
3. If false starts are made by competitors, get out of the holes and relax before the others are called back for the second start.
4. Cultivate an even temperament to avoid nervous tension.
5. Keep warmly clad before and after your event.
6. Breathe through both nose and mouth. Inhale deeply before the start, but do not attempt to run while holding your breath.
7. Do not sit around watching other competitors unless you are well clad with sweater or blanket if the day is cold.
8. Trial heats will be run first, then as many as necessary to find the winner. Listen carefully for your named to be called.
9. Make the event of interest to your opponents by giving your best to the race.
10. Finish fast. Do not slow down until you have passed the tape.

Running Broad Jump

1. When the event is called, run through the approach several times to warm up and to make certain the marks are correct. Take but one easy jump for practice.
2. Keep legs covered with sweater between jumps.
3. Limber up the leg muscles before each jump by knee-high running in place.
4. Attempt to make your best jump on your first and second jump before your legs get too tired.
5. Each jumper will have three trials. The best jump of the three will be your record.

The Potato Race

1. Blocks are placed in the circle to start with. At the signal to go, the contestant runs from the starting line, picks up the nearest block, places it in the square, runs and secures the further block, touches the square with it and replaces it in the farthest circle and returns to the starting line. Blocks may be dropped or thrown, but must be placed in every case. One try only is allowed, but the event must be run over if one of the blocks is placed outside the circle or square if it is more in than out.

Running High Jump

1. Make each jump good, regardless of height.
2. Concentration is one of the fundamentals of high jumping.
3. Keep muscles relaxed. After each jump sit down, not on the bare ground, but on a sweater. Wear a sweater for this event, especially if the day is cool or damp.
4. The jumper should warm up before attempting to jump by taking a short jog. Also limber up leg muscles before each jump.
5. If you knock the bar from the standards on the upward swing, take off a little farther away or slow up your approach.
6. If you knock off the bar on the first two trials, concentrate particularly on the third jump.
7. If the bar sags in the middle, attempt to clear it at its lowest point.
8. Take a few preliminary jumps to establish your marks for the approach, and check your mark for the take-off.
9. Each jumper will have three trials; the best jump of the three is recorded.

Baseball Distance Throw

1. Practice throwing from a standing position before adding the run and the hop.
2. Warm up the arm gradually before attempting any long throws.
3. Be sure to allow sufficient distance so that you will not go over the foul line on your throw.
4. Avoid a straight arm hurl by bending the arm and carrying the hand close to the shoulder before the extension is started.
5. Greater distance is possible if the following through and the turn are completed.
6. Use the entire right portion of the body behind the throw.
7. Get the feeling of the final wrist snap.
8. Maintain a continuous movement throughout the run, hop, and the throw.
9. Deliver the ball at about a 45-degree angle. Too great a height will reduce the distance.
10. Three throws will be allowed each entrant. The best throw is the one recorded.

Basketball Distance Throw

1. Practice throwing from a standing position before adding the run and hop.
2. Keep the body weight well back over the bent right knee, so that the entire body may be used and not only the arms.
3. Warm up gradually by throwing easily before attempting to throw your best distance.
4. Be sure to allow distance on your throw so that you do not step over the foul line.
5. Greater distance is possible if the follow-through and the turn are completed.
6. Keep warm before and after the event.
7. Three throws are allowed each entrant. The best throw is the record.

Basket for Time

Each girl is given one minute in which to shoot as many baskets as she can. She is timed by a stopwatch.

Baseball Target Pitching

Ten trials are given each girl entered. Her score will be the number of pitches which she pitches onto the target. A 12-inch ball is used, and the contestant must be 20 feet from the target.

Volleyball Serve

Serve the volleyball over the net from the serving line into the prescribed area. The handball court will be used. Each girl will have 10 tries.

Basketball Foul Shooting

1. Follow the regular rules for the throw in basketball. Stand back of the free-throw line until the ball has left the hands.
2. Each entrant has 10 tries. The successful number is recorded.

Base Running

Run the four bases for time keeping the three-foot limit. The indoor diamond will be used.

Balance Beam

Walk full length of balance beam, turning about at each end. Object: See ho wmany times you can walk without stepping off.

Hi-Y Club Climb

THE MEMBERS OF Hi-Y left Fort Wayne at 12 midnight on March 29. Before leaving in their respective groups, they met at Mr. Robert Weber's house, where they were served hot chocolate prepared by Mrs. Janet Weber. Then, feeling bold, they departed on their venture in Mr. Weber's Pontiac, Mrs. Weber's convertible, which was driven by Mr. Sage, and a repossessed Nash car, driven by Dick Rothberg.

Monday, March 30, at 5 p.m., the group was met by a bear, set up tents at Chimneys Camp Grounds, and ate beef stew for supper.

Tuesday, March 31, they got up at 6 a.m., went to a ranger station, and then to Cade's Cove, climbed Gregory's Bald Mountain (Steve "Gopher" Weiss didn't quite make it)—about a 14-mile round trip. They ate that night at the Chimney House Restaurant in Gatlenberg, Tenn.

Wednesday, April 1, the ambitious group climbed to Chimney Top Mountain, about half the boys and Mr. Weber ventured to the second Chimney Top. They then went to Gatlenburg to go shopping and eat dinner (oh, that good home cooking!).

ON THURSDAY, April 2, it rained all night. The next day the group went to famous Laurel Falls and took pictures. They then went to Wear's Cove to buy supplies (the members remarked that they found the store very interesting, but upon further inquiry, I found the interest to be a girl rather than a store). When they returned to their camp, a bear had gotten into their food and the boys chased it across the river. After eating a dinner cooked in the camp, they went to Gatlenburg to hear a talk on bears by chief naturalist Arthur Stupka.

On Friday, April 3, they saw bear tracks again, hiked to Cade's Cove to ride horses, and ate lunch at an old mill.

The adventure for Saturday, April 4 was an eight-mile hike to Charles Bunson's home. They ate lunch nearby at Ice Water Spring Station, after which they returned to camp, cleaned up, went to town for a steak dinner, and started for home.

They drove all night and morning, rotating drivers, and arrived at Mr. Weber's house about noon. The members then retired to their respective homes to recuperate.

All members and sponsors enjoyed the trip very much and hope to go again next year.

Times, Totem Photographers Take, Develop, Enlarge Pictures

Taking pictures for the South Side Times and Totem is the job of five ace photographers.

Bob Thompson, Sam DeHaven, John Hendricksen, John Musser, and Mike Seaman are these five boys.

Bob Thompson, junior, is on the college preparatory course taking English 6, Algebra 3, Physics 2, and U.S. History 2. Bob became interested in photography about five years ago. His interest in photography is simply a hobby.

Sam DeHaven, also a junior, is taking English 6, U.S. History 2, Algebra 3, and Physics 2 on the college prep course. Christmas of 1957 was when Sam was introduced to photography. He received a camera and enlargement material. He has become more interested in photography since he has worked on the Totem and Times staff for one and one-half years, but it is for recreation only.

Another junior, John Musser, is more interested in the professionnl side of photography. Last year John and his father joined the Fort Wayne Camera Club and have beon winning prizes for their pictures since. John is now in a small business for himself. He makes portraits in his home. He is also taking a course in how to oil color portraits.

John intends to further this work and become a commercial photographer. John is taking English 6, Journalism 1, Physics 2, and U. S. History 2.

Mike Seaman, a sophomore, is becoming a talented photographer. Mike's interest sprang from his older brother Dave, who was head photographer of the Times and Totem last year. Mike is only interested in it as a side hobby.

The only senior on this staff is John Hendricksen. John is a post-graduate and is taking Physics 2 and journalism. Again, like the other photographers, he is only doing photography as a hobby.

Among the many talents of these five is the fact that they do all of their developing and enlarging. Now that they have prepared all the pictures for the 1959 Totem, all their time will be devoted to the Times and to the 1960 Totem.

Talent Show Given

Kellys Place Sixth At Kokomo; Are Defeated By Muncie Central

Archers Show Greater Power In Runs, Relays

Roth Runs 880 Yards In Fastest Season Time For Summit City Area

By Jim Carter

Although they finished sixth in last Saturday's Kokomo Relays with 23 points, the South Side Archers' place was not indicative of the strength which they exhibited.

The outstanding Kelly performer of the afternoon was Joe Roth. He grabbed a second place in one of the 1,000-yard runs, losing out by a stride to Bob Patterson of Muncie Central. Patterson's time was 2:26.5.

Joe turned in his finest performance immediately after running in the middle-distance relay, where he was clocked in a 1:57 half-mile. This is the fastest time of the season for the 880 by a Summit City area runner.

The middle-distance relay consists of 440-880-440-880 yard races, run by Fred Von Gunten, Roth, Bill Lentz, and Tom Bolyard. This combine, which lead briefly, finished second to the Huntington quintet which posted a 5:45.5 time. Roth's was the outstanding performance, but Fred Von Gunten's quarter was also done in good time.

THE ARCHERS TOOK another second in the medley relay behind Muncie. This relay, involving a 220, 440, 880, and mile, was run by Ted Von Gunten, Bob Shine, Bob Bolyard, and Ed Hartman. The outstanding showing here was Bob Bolyard's eye-opening two-minute half mile. The other three also turned in fine times.

Some of the times for the relays were not as good as hoped for, but the Kokomo cinders were slow and the oval was only 375 yards, adding more turns in these races.

South Side's half-mile relay men took a fourth behind Gary Roosevelt. Kelly participants in this event were Tom Duff, Shine, Pat Goyer, and Mel Smith.

In other individual performances, Win Moses won a third in the high sticks and fourth in the lows. Further Green counters were Jim Dawson, fourth in the shot-put; and Tom Bolyard, fourth in the broad jump.

THE BEARCATS of Muncie Central, who were recently defeated soundly by North Side, were victorious in Class A with 38 1/6 points. Indianapolis Shortridge was close behind with 36, and Richmond had 33½. South's old nemesis, Kokomo, and Gary Roosevelt also finished above the Archers. The Class B winner was Tipton, with 46¼ points.

Although their performances were not as good as some had hoped for, the Archers showed signs of definite improvement, as they now look forward to the coming Lima Relays and the Sectional.

Schmitz On Sports

Maybe the Archers can turn the trick at Lima as they did last year; but from all present indications, this year's track squad is not having the success expected after the '58 Green captured the Sectional and a share of the Regional.

Returning to Kokomo after a year's absence, South fared poorly as they did the year that they left the big state-wide meet. Last year South went to Delphi for the relays and returned to Kokomo to capture only sixth place in the big relays.

Two teams who have made South victims in previous matches this spring finished above South in the final point count at Kokomo. The host school and Muncie Central, narrow victors over the Archers earlier in the season, substantiated their prowess over the Green by placing fourth and first, respectively.

* * *

When the final tabulation was in, little was left for the defeated Archers to ravage in the way of success. Their usual stand-bys, Jim Dawson and the mile relay team, could bring home no glory.

* * *

Against some of the state's top competition, Jim Dawson had to settle for fourth; and the mile relay team was deprived of competing in their specialty as a result of the events lined up by the meet sponsors. However, Joe Roth did continue to sparkle. Joe at this time shows serious threats of being in contention for competition in the State finals in his specialty, which is the 440, on the strength of his brilliant run in the 1,000-yard race.

* * *

City foes continued to stiffen their strength in week-end meets. Central, who the Green and White will have to face next Tuesday, continued their rapid improvement and will afford the Kellys plenty of competition.

* * *

For the second straight year, the Green tracksters attempt to boost the morale at the expense of out-of-state competition. Last year the Kellys surprisingly came back with top honors. The situation is much the same as last year. Two weeks before the Ohio event, the Lima squad captured the North Side Relays and therefore loomed as the favorites for their own meet.

* * *

South who placed close behind Lima this year, as well as last in the North Side affair, could pull the grand surprise again in Ohio.

* * *

When checking the records, this corner found an interesting note about this year's mile relay team that has been raising much interest around this par tof the state. Their time at North Side was ahead of the time set by the team that went to state last year. In fact, in the school's history, the 3:31.0 was second only to the time set by last season's relay boys.

Golf Record Stands At 1-1

South Side's golf team did a better than average job as it competed in two golf meets and came out with a 1-1 record during the past two weeks.

Although the team lost in match play to Garrett, 3-5, they trounced Decatur, 6-2. Both meets were away, and the first game jitters might well have been the reason for the Garrett victory over South.

John Biteman, who is "deadly around and on the greens, was the tournament medalist for both meets. John shot a 40 at Garrett, and he came in with a 42 at Decatur. John would have had a much better score at Decatur, but he met his nemisis on the last hole and carded a 7.

South's three other starters, "Bing" Gilardi, Tom Graham, and Bill Berning, also did commendable jobs.

Coach "Skeets" Hoover, who is the Green's new golf coach, was pleased with the overall results of the team's first two efforts. He did, however, expect to see more improvement in "Bing" Gilardi, who turned in some fine try-out rounds.

Muncie Beats Kelly Trackmen By 68-41 Score

Chilly Day, Bad Track Prevent Record Times; Archers Win 2 Events

Muncie Central's Bearcats clawed South Side by a 68-41 margin as the Purple won nine first places and the half-mile relay. Ray Jimmerson of Muncie was the only double winner, taking both hurdle races. A chilly day and a loose track in Muncie played havoc with the athletes' times, and neither team posted impressive marks.

The Green posted only two individual winners along with a blue ribbon from their steadily improving mile relay quartet. Junior Bill Lentz whipped Jim Williams of the Cats at the tape in the 440, taking the one-lapper in 53.7 seconds. Joe Roth, ace quarter-miler for the Kellys, switched onto the 880 to win in 2:04.7. The mile relay, composed of Fred Von Gunten, Bob Shine, Lentz, and Roth, stepped off a 3:35.6 with no trouble from Muncie.

SOPHOMORE Jim Dawson could do no better than second as Muncie's Mike DeVault tossed the 12-pound ball 50 feet, 1½ inches.

Jimmerson copped both the hurdles with slow times of 16.1 seconds in the highs, and 21.3 seconds in the lows. Ken Howe and Dave Roderick placed second and third, respectively, in the highs, and Roderick also took third in the lows.

SOUTH'S SPRINTERS took the back seat in the 100 and 220. Tom Duff could do no better than a third in the 100 and a second in the 220, the latter followed closely by Bob Shine.

The Archers were without the services of two mainstays. Hurdler Win Moses did not make the trip because of injuries sustained in the North Side Relays; and Tom Bolyard came up with a strong head cold, holding the big boy out of the 880 and mile relay. Bolyard did broad jump, but only took second place, looking far from his form of last season.

Reserves Beat Muncie 64-44

South Side Captures Eight Blue Ribbons

South Side's reserve track squad remained undefeated as they defeated Muncie Central's seconds by a 64-44 count at the latter's field. The Green captured eight blue ribbons, Harry Collins being the only double winner in the sprints. The meet was held on a sunny, but chilly, day as the wet track held down best performances.

The hurdle races saw Carl Johnson and Bob Bradfield trading first and second places as Carl won the highs in 17.7 seconds and Bob clipped the lows in 22.6 seconds.

THE GREEN ALSO captured the blue and red ribbon in the 100, 220, and 440 yard dashes. Chuck Clifton placed second to Collins in the 100, and Pat Goyer followed Collins in the 220. Mel Smith took the 440 in 55.7 seconds, nipping Ted Von Gunten at the tape.

South's other individual winner was junior Gus Wade, who came from behind for a thrilling finish to win the 880 in 2:13.7.

MUNCIE WAS shut out in both relays as the mile combination of Ted Von Gunten, Dan Tritch, Gus Wade, and Mel Smith romped home in 3:47.7. The half-mile combo did equally as well, breaking the tape in 1:40.3.

Tennis Doubles Teams Grab Fourth-Place Ribbon

Facing some of the toughest competition in Indiana, South Side's two tennis doubles teams combined for two points and a four-place ribbon in the second annual Lafayette Doubles Tourney last Saturday. Seven schools plus host Lafayette Jefferson entered the rugged tournament.

Coach Everett Havens' No. 1 team of Dick McGaw and Steve Meyers began well by stroking down Howe of Indianapolis, 6-2, 6-0. Thus the Kellys picked up one point. Their hopes of tallying two more were crushed by Peru, 6-4, 6-2, in the second match.

In a second division Steve Tracey and Bob Haag initially opposed Columbus. After starting slowly these two recovered well to win, 1-6, 6-1, 7-5. Host Jefferson then halted the Archer advance in a rugged semi-final battle, 6-1, 6-4.

BOTH PERU TEAMS advanced to the finals; so they were assured of a tourney victory by capturing either final. Even if Muncie Burris defeated the Peru duet in the first division, and Lafayette also reversed them in the number two division, the Tigers still owned a share of the blue ribbon.

Because they were ousted in the first matches in both divisions, Howe and Shortridge of Indianapolis and Crawfordsville failed to score. All three tied for sixth behind Columbus, which mustered a lone tally.

Coach Havens appeared fairly satisfied with his four boys' performances. He feels, "We were greatly handicapped by the lack of a school tennis court and sufficient doubles practice. Still, the boys played well."

This year's total of two points are that many more than South's 158 total in the first Lafayette meeting. Indianapolis Howe won it then, with Peru second.

South Side Will Defend Lima Relay Championship Saturday

Archers Only Track Team From Indiana Competing

By Chuck Weinraub

Seven days before the running of the Fort Wayne Sectional Track meet, the South Side squad will travel into Buckeye territory to face some of the better Ohio track aggregations as defending champion in the Lima Relays.

Teams competing in the meet are Columbus East, a strong team this year; Toledo DeVilbiss, a strong Ohio team of last season; a smaller Lima Senior High School, second place winner in the recent North Side Relays; and South Side, the only Indiana school.

In the running events, Win Moses and Ken Howe will have plenty of competition with Lima's Atis Williams and Columbus East's J. Angel in the 120-yard high hurdles. Albert McDonald, of Lima Senior, who ran the 100-yard dash in 10 seconds to tie the North Side Relay record, will probably be the victor in his specialty. In the special mile, the Archer distance runners, Al Rainbolt or Ed Hartman, may pull through to take that race.

IN THE SHOT-PUT Jim Dawson will try to continue in his improving manner as he matches strength with Jack Neuenschwander of Lima and Jim Kujawa of Toledo DeVilbiss. Bob Wise of Lima will give Gary Gardner of South Side a duel in the pole vault, and Bob Schriefer, Bob Shine, or Tom Bolyard will have to match broad jumps with 21-foot, 10½-inch jumper Jim Whittaker of Lima.

In the main part of the meet, the relay races, South Side's mile relay combination (Shine, Roth, Lentz, and Bolyard) could run away with that race. The two-mile relay and medley relay are undecided races and the winners will prove to be the best combination of runners. South Side's shuttle hurdle relay looks like the strongest bidder in this race (Howe, Roderick, Lentz, and Moses). Also Lima's 880-relay team was able to take the North Side Relay's race, but only through the disqualification of Fort Wayne Central.

GOOD LOOKING individuals are Bob Russom, fourth in the state who can run the 440 in 51.2, of DeVilbiss; Tom Bolyard in either a 440 or 880 race; Jim Dawson in the shot-put; W. Barnes of Columbus East in the 440 (52.2); and Albert McDonald of Lima in the 100 or 220-yard dashes.

With South Side traveling to Lima as defending champion, the Green and White hopes to bring back many ribbons and even the meet.

Mural Men

By Stan Rupnow

Attention all track boys! The Intramural track meet will be Thursday, May 14. It will be at 3:30 p.m. in the stadium. This is one of the biggest events on the Intramural calendar. There are two weight divisions, lightweight, up to 140 pounds; and heavyweight, over 140 pounds. You are allowed to have 13 men on your team, and you must have at least six men. If you don't want to compete on a team, you may enter the meet as an individual, and score points for yourself.

Here are the starting times for all events:

3:40 p.m.—100-yard low hurdles. (Also report for all field events.)
3:50 p.m.—880-yard relay.
4.00 p.m.—440-yard run.
4:15 p.m.—100-yard dash.
4:25 p.m.—880-yard run.
4:30 p.m.—220-yard dash.
4:40 p.m.—Mile relay.

All heavyweights will run first. Team points are scored 5-3-1, and relay points, 10-5-2.

In softball, the Kegs defeated Bardot's Boys, 13-3. The winners collected a total of 10 hits to score their runs, while the losers collected six hits. Steve Gaskill, of the Kegs, was hero of the day as he knocked one out of the stadium. Nice poke, Steve.

The Diamond Demons shut out the Diamond Burners, 3-0. The winners collected 16 hits, while the losers only had three. Gary Butz was the winning pitcher. Nice work, you guys.

Remember
Track Meet, May 14, 3:30 p.m.
Golf Tournament at Muncipial Course, May 8-9.
Tennis and Horseshoe Tournament at Packard Park, May 16.

Joe Roth Racks Up Many Track Points In 440, 880, Relays

One of the brightest spots in this year's track season has been the consistent excellent running of Senior A Joe Roth. Joe has racked up many South Side points in the 440, 880, and mile relay.

Strangely enough, Joe did not go out for track as a freshman. But his uncle, Ed Roth, interested him in building up his speed for football. His uncle, incidentally, holds South Side's shotput record and received a scholarship to Indiana University for athletics.

Joe has put forth some of the best times in the city in the 440 and the 880. He runs anchorman in the Archer mile relay team, which has the best time in the city. Joe's speed has made him an excellent end on the football squad.

Joe says, "South always starts slowly, but with the hard work being put forth, the Archers should improve steadily." Though the triangular meet at North Side was the toughest contest, he thinks South should have a good chance for the Sectional title.

Next time you watch a track meet, keep your eye on Joe Roth. He won't be hard to find, because he will be right out front.

Teams 1, 4 Win In GAA Softball

Team 1 and 4 beat Team 2 and 3 Friday night in Freshman GAA softball by a score of 6-5.

Members of Team 1 and 4 who made runs are Dayna Harader, Sandy Heidbrink, Ginny Kachiamenis, and Jenny Slater. Sharon DeBaillie, Shirley Davis, Susan Lotz, Jane Prill, Sharon Todd, and Martha Bonnell made runs for Team 2 and 3.

New members are Martha Jacobs, Alice Bailey, and Shirley Davis. Pat Igney and Alberta Bonnell were umpires, and Jeannette Lynn kept score. Freshman GAA is sponsored by Miss Helen Pohlmeyer.

Frosh Thinlies Trounce Irish

Behind some fine distance running and admirable personal performance, the South Side freshman thinlies downed Central Catholic's outclassed and out-manned Irish squad, 71 2/ to 37 1/3. The Archers rolled to their third win in an many starts on April 24 at the South Side Stadium.

The Kellys captured all three places in the 440-yard run, the half-mile, and the first two spots in the mile run. Musclemen Harter, McMahan, and Acton swept the shot-put.

Coach Reichert completely shuffled his relay teams, but both were strong enough to garner blue ribbons.

INJURIES TO key dashmen Meek and Bandemer greatly hindered the Archer cause in the shorter distances. Big Nate Norment, however, trussed the load in fine fashion, tallying four points in the century and the 220. He also took third in the broad jump, and was a fast anchorman in the half-mile relay.

However, it was the quarter-mile and the two distance runs that earned the spotlight. Mol and Johnson finished in a thrilling dead-heat for first in the 440. In the 880-yard run, Robinson ran a fine 2:20.8 winning time.

IN THE ALWAYS exciting mile run, the first four boys finished within 50 yards of one another. South's Stirn passed the pack for the first two laps. When he faltered, Archers Dunn and Lee, with the Irish's Yerrick, took the lead.

This trio stayed close up to the three and one-half lap mark. Then Dunn moved ahead, and Lee passed Yerrick on the stretch. As they sprinted across the finish line, it was Dunn first, Lee second, and Yerrick third.

Outstanding performances prevailed throughout the meet. Robinson of South was a double winner, taking both the high hurdles and the half-mile.

Quandt of C.C. won both dashes in a fine time of 25.1. Versatile Tom McMahon captured three undisputed second places, plus a three-way tie for second in the high jump for South.

Harter and Alfeld won their specialties. Harter heaved the shot-put 35 feet, one and one-half inches, his best shot of the season. In the pole vault, Alfeld jumped six feet, nine inches, to add five points to the Archer total.

* * *

SOUTH'S TWO RELAY teams remained undefeated in dual meets. The mile relay of Holly, Johnson, Taylor, and Frazell far outdistanced C.C. in posting a 4:09.5 time.

A second Kelly mile relay team comprised of Platz, Hilsmier, Erb, and Lohman, also finished ahead of the Irish. Coach Reichert appears to have ample talent to work with in these four boys for next season.

Schlademan, Bryant, Robinson, and Norment raced to a 1:44 time and victory in the 880-yard baton race.

South To Meet Tigers For Try At 2nd Dual Win

"Da Da" King's Return Boosts Central Power, Kelly Mile Relay Strong

Clashing with the Archers for the third time this season, Central's scrappy Tigers will meet the Kellys in a return engagement Friday at the South Side Stadium. The Tigers placed behind the Archers in the North-South-Central triangular meet, but nosed out the Archers in the North Side Relays.

Central has received a boost in strength by the return of Henry "Da Da" King. King was not eligible in the first part of the season, but now he is able to help the Tigers win meets. Although he did not look as good as expected in the North Side Relays, he might prove too tough for the Archer milers to handle, especially since the Archers are weakened by the loss of Al Rainbolt. But Eddie Hartman has been steadily improving and he might come up with a surprise for the Tigers.

RUNNING EVENTS seem to be the strong point of the Tiger team this year. In the sprints, they seem to have a definite advantage over the Archers, for they have several men that have run around 10.5 seconds already. Their half-mile relay team, composed of Hollins, Stewart, T. C. Williams, and Thomas, seems to be fairly strong, too.

In the quarter-mile, Archers Bill Lentz and Joe Roth should be able to take home the ribbons for the Green and White. Central seems to be fairly strong in the half-mile with Terry Henline and Ed Conn leading the Tigers. But if Tom Bolyard is in good shape by that time, he should have the victory wrapped up.

Hurdlers Win Moses and Ken Howe should get some tough competition from Calvin Thomas, in a race which promises to be a tough one for the Archer thinlie to win.

It seems to be a toss-up in the field events, with both teams fairly evenly balanced. In the high-jump, Tharnell Hollins and Larry Crosby seem to be good enough to beat the Archers, although Dave Roderick might surprise the Tigers.

PERCY MOORE, who leads the Tigers in the shot-put, has almost no chance to beat South's outstanding sophomore, Jim Dawson, who has reached the 50-foot mark already. In the pole vault ,Archers Gary Gardner and Don Eisenacher will have a rough time beating Tiger Larry Reynolds.

An interesting duel should develop in the broad jump where South's Tom Bolyard will clash with Tiger T. C. Williams. Both have jumped past 20 feet already, although Bolyard has not reached this mark yet this year.

In the relays, Central is favored in the half-mile race, while the scrappy Archer mile relay team should not have any trouble in turning back the Tigers.

This promises to be one of the most interesting meets of the season, and if the fans tur nout to support the team, the Archers might score another victory for the Green and White.

Pat Igney, Judy Garrison, Val Callahan, Shirley Stahlhut, Joan Motley, Alberta Bonnell, Michele Flaig, Barb Nahrwold, and Melodie Potts were the members of Team 2.

Martha Bonnell was the umpire and Mrs. Alice Keegan, sponsor, kept score.

Dave Dunstone To Act As Toastmaster; Tonight At 6:30 P.M. Fete Starts

"Through the Looking Glass" will be the theme of the annual 36 Workshop Banquet scheduled for tonight at 6 p.m. in the new cafeteria.

"The members of the club will spend an enjoyable evening reflecting on what 36 has been in the past, what it is now, and what it looks forward to being in the future," stated Marge Bauer, general chairman of the banquet.

Chairmen of the various committees have been working for several weeks in order to make the banquet a success.

Entertainment for the evening is under the direction of Sharon Possell. The invocation will be given by Stan Redding. Following the meal will be a short business meeting, at which time the club will hear the annual reports and the officers for next year's cabinet will be installed.

These include Bessie Ferguson, president; Beth Golden, first vice-president; Marge Bauer, second vice-president; Sally Capps, secretary; Lynne Goldman, treasurer; Kathie Sosinski and Beth Curley, house chairmen; Karen Simmons, prop chairman; and Katie Rastetter and Penny Hunt, attendance keepers.

IN ADDITION TO the installation ceremony the members will hear speeches centered around a "Through the Looking Glass" theme. Dave Dunstone will act as toastmaster for the evening. Susie Nables, the president of 36 Workshop several years ago, will look at 36 Workshop from the viewpoint of an alumna president.

Hoy McConnell will look at the club from the viewpoint of a student and will comment on what the club means to the school as a whole. Carol Lockwood will talk on the reflections she sees of 36 Workshop from the past year. Looking ahead to the future plans of the club will be Bessie Ferguson, incoming president. The entertainment will also include incidental music by Sharon Possell and a song by Judy Rumple.

Nancy Swain and her decoration committee have decided to make spring the theme for decorating. Flowers, both real and artificial, will adorn the tables and one wall of the cafeteria.

CHECK THIS CAREFULLY—Helping to plan the 36 Workshop Banquet are left to right, Carol Lockwood, Dave Dunstone, and Bessie Ferguson. Dave will be the toastmaster at the annual event, and these two girls are a few of the many persons working hard to make this banquet, "Through the Looking Glass," a success.

Assisting Nancy in decorating are the members of her committee, Barb Dicker, Debbie Turkow, Sue Hiller, Sharon Longenberger, Beth Curley, Carolyn Hickman, Marilynn Masters, and Sally Capps.

Karen Simmons, chairman of the food committee, has announced that Miss Lucy Mellen, cafeteria head, will serve the meal, consisting of fried chicken, mashed potatoes, green beans, salad, and apple pie.

Arthur, Harry, and Michael are students of Miss Mary Graham; Richard is a student of Miss Lucy Osborne, and Carol and Kenneth are students of Mr. Marvey Knigge.

The fall winners are Jack Lehman, Susan Kuroski, Mary Lou Koehler, Judy Pfeiffer, Mickey McClead, Ann Cupp, Kathy Dunigan, and Kay MacDanel.

The poems are:

"God's Omnipotency"

God is Omnipotent in His works and in His deeds,
He can make the sun shine brightly o'er the pastures and the meads.
He can crystalize the ground with diamond-sparkling drops of dew
And can create lovely plants to be admired by only you.

He holds command o'er all the winds: they blow at His desire.
He's also master of the seas, the land, and the sun of fire.
Yes, God can do some wonderous things to fulfill humans' needs,
For He is Omnipotent in His works and in His deeds.

"Voices"

I hear strange voices calling,
Calling out my name;
I know my brothers hear it,
For are we not the same?

They call us to our nation,
They call us up in arms,
They call us up from the cities,
The village and farms.

They are the voices of the past
That for this country fought,
Calling us to seek the same
That they so nobly sought.

I do not know and cannot say
What God's Will has for me;
I only know that I must try
To fill my destiny.

Kenneth Howe

# # #

"Winter"

The aching, biting cold is stirred
Softly by the winter-laden wind
And screams in pain to the haughty moon,
Riding above the frozen sea of men.

The lonely, blank-faced men of winters,
With greyish, frozen hearts and faces,
Surge along their blackened streets
And pinched alley, along the walks,
Of their city built of clay, searching
For nothing and finding nothing to find
With their tiny, frozen, staring eyes.

Arthur Green

# # #

"A Cry"

Are you angry? Seek the skies,
Raise your chin, lift your eyes,
Gaze into that round where all the wise
Seek solace when troubles arise!

When skybent, lofty dream and thought
Can scarce in dreariness be caught;
Trivialities soon fall to naught,
When beside heaven the fight is fought.

The duty-bound and tedious day
Is lost in time's infinite sway,
And on life's stage but a moment play,
Against the joy of a sky-lit way.

The multitudes of moods portrayed
From the grey mist morn till the dew is laid,
From the rising sun till the stars parade,
Is a magical sequent heaven made.

Michael Lehman

"Wind Borne"

O when the wind blows strong upon the sea,
Building towers higher than the mast
Of any of the greatest ships that he
Who toward the sea his watchful eyes must cast
Had ever dreamed of sailing, in the past,
Destruction seems to splinter any craft
That dares to spread a sail upon its mast
Whenever there's a flapping of the waft.
The orders of the captain standing aft
And all useless efforts of the men
Can not begin to move the humble craft
Without the mighty thrusting of the wind.
So when the ship is in its potent grip,
Forget thee not the wind controls the trip.

Linda Hard, Mahmoud Abouzeid Tell Of Teens In England, Egypt; Relate Many Similarities

By Cheryl Summers

What are teenagers like in foreign countries, and what are their family relationships? What about schooling, sports, and social activities? Are they very much like American teenagers? Linda Hard and Mahmoud Abouzeid were asked these questions and many more. Both have lived abroad and so their answers are backed up by actual experience.

Linda Hard, a brown-haired, blue-eyed senior, was born in Springfield, O., and she and her family moved to England in 1951. They lived in Doncaster, a city in northern England, for three years before moving to London. As a student, she had many chances to study and observe the English teenager.

"The teenagers are a great deal like American teenagers," says Linda. "They have the same interests; music, movies, sports, and such things. It is harder, though, for the boys and girls to date because the girls go to one school and the boys to another. Often, too, the boys and girls go away to boarding schools.

"I went to a boarding school, and we had to wear special uniforms. Our uniforms weren't as severe as those of other schools, but they did get depressing. We weren't allowed to wear make-up of any kind, and I thought this was being just a little too strict. All emphasis was placed on scholastics and very little on social activities. About 90 per cent of the emphasis was placed on scholastic achievement and only 10 per cent on social activities; therefore, we had a lot of hard, time-consuming homework.

"The families in America and England are a good deal alike, too. The parents are close to their teenagers, although not so much so in school activities. The girls don't have as much responsibility in the home as we do because of their demanding school work. The children often go to boarding school at a very early age, and this draws the family together and makes for more harmony and unity when they are all home. Usually the families have servants, if only part-time.

"For recreation the teens in England participate a great deal in sports. They just love sports of any kind, and, in school, we had three hours of compulsory sports. I loved this, and I think more of it should be done here. We played field hockey, spending an hour a day on the field, rain or shine. In the summer we played tennis and rounders, which is only slightly related to baseball. During winter, the sport was net ball, similar to our basketball. The boys played rugger, a form of football, and cricket.

"The teens also like rock 'n roll. At first it wasn't accepted and was only heard in disreputable places, but now it is quite normal to hear it anywhere. Of course, like some people here, there are a few who don't like it.

The teens in England are rarely seen in cars for three reasons. In the first place, there are very few cars in England anyway. Second, the teens aren't able to get their beginner's license until they're 17, and they have to keep it for six months before they can obtain their operator's license. Finally, the prices of cars, even used ones, are very high.

"What did I like best about England? Well, we could travel easily (you're never more than 50 miles from the sea), and England is easily accessible to the rest of Europe. This adds up to understanding people and knowing places.

"I also enjoyed tea time very much. I always had something at 4 p.m., even if it was only a glass of milk. It helped fill the gap between lunch and dinner."

Linda likes pizza and "Big Boys," but when asked what English dish she liked best, she replied, "None. You don't go to England for the food. You just don't talk about it.

"Yes, I think there are a couple of things we could copy from our English friends. I heartily approve of the compulsory sports in England. I think our schools could improve on the time spent in sports. We should give more time to sporting activities. As I said, in my school in England, we had three hours of compulsory sports, and we were out on that hockey field every day, even in the heaviest fogs.

"The idea behind the uniform is good, even though it is pressed a little too far. It eliminates competition in dress. Some of their ideas are a little too much the other way. Maybe a compromise would be better.

Modern Dance Group Marks 17th Anniversary; Goal Of Group Is To Acquire Rhythm In Dance

Among the many extra activities and clubs at South is the modern dance group. This year marks the 17th anniversary of the group, which, sponsored by Miss Helen Pohlmeyer, consists of 14 girls.

"The purpose of the club is to have the girls acquire, physically and mentally, a feeling and emotion of rhythm in dance," stated Miss Pohlmeyer. "Other purposes are to create and plan dance movements to music, and to present programs to different groups," she continued.

This year, the group has performed in a workshop for the physical education department for the Northeastern Indiana Teachers Association at North Side, and danced to "An American in Paris" for the Spring Show here last March.

The girls have danced individually in school assemblies, and have danced as a group for the Women's Club and the American Association of University Women. Because no more programs are scheduled for this year, the group is no longer meeting for practice. However, if a program should come up, the group will once again become active.

ALTHOUGH ANY student of South may be a member in the club, the group is gradually whittled down until only the most capable are left to finish the year. To remain in the club, the girls must meet requirements on techniques, form of locomotion, and patterns.

Members of the group are Linda Amos, Kay Augspurger, Bethany Bond, Barb Collier, Ann Cupp, Susie Ehrman, Macy Galbreath, Cindy Miller, Marianne Pinkham, Karen Roehm, Carolyn Sievers, Shelby Smith, Susie Stauffer, and Terry Twitchell. Carolyn DeVore, Sharon Possell, and Sandra Yaggy are the group's pianists.

Body conditioning is one very important factor to the dance group. It consists of exercising to music, using all the muscles of the body. The girls also learn modern dance techniques, which are leaps, runs, falls, and jumps. Gradually, they learn to create a complete movement for a dance routine, which may be done to music, words, or just a beat.

SUSIE STAUFFER, who is a sophomore, felt that the hardest routine was the dance to "An American in Paris," which contained everything from blues to slow rhythm. "The dance required long hours of practice and drill," Susie stated.

Carolyn Sievers, also a sophomore, felt that the complicated side falls were the most difficult technique that the girls learned. After a long involved explanation of the fall, it was brought out that the reason it was hard, was because it is hard to look graceful while falling.

"Aside from starting before or after the beat of the music, nothing really drastic has happened during a performance," stated Ann Cupp, who has been a member of the group for three years. Ann considered an interpretation of Good and Evil, which was done two years ago, as the most difficult.

All the girls fell that the group helps to keep them in shape, makes them more conscious of posture, and affords wonderful exercise. Most of all, they feel that the club is fun.

Susie Snoope Takes Case Concerning Kellys And Slaves

Susie Snooper's my name, and snooping is my business. Early this morning I received a call from a teacher at South Side who was worried about the students. When I was about to inquire why, there was no answer, only an audible click on the other end of the line, and I knew that he had been cut off. This aroused my curiosity, so I decided to take the case, and hurried right over.

Entering the main door, the sight that met my eyes caused me to gape in wonder. It was Janice Leist, herding a group of Mahmoud Abouzeid's camels down center hall. This was obviously no job for a woman, and I asked myself, "Where's Mahmoud?"

Soon my question was answered, as I saw what was on the other end of the rope she held. It was the man himself, riding one of his prize camels, and wielding a whip over the head of the poor frail female. "This is fantastic." I cried, "slavery hasn't been in vogue for ages!" My remarks didn't seem to have the desired effect I wanted though, for everybody just ignored me.

DECIDING TO GET to the bottom of the matter, I buzzed Miller's in search of information on the situation. What I saw when I entered the place left me wishing I had never gone in, however. You think camels running down center hall is fantastic? As the old saying goes, "You ain't seen nothin' yet." When I walked in the first thing I saw was Diane Irmscher and Barb Frederick serving Jack Winder and Dave Stapleton (Culver) ice cream cones and fluffing their pillows for them, then throwing themselves at the boys' feet, murmuring, "Allah, allah."

This may be some people's idea of fun, but as far as I'm concerned, getting ice cream in my hair is about as desirable as getting lice in a grab bag. The girls were too busy waiting on the boys to notice me, so I thought I'd ask a boy what was coming off.

I was just about to speak to Fred Van Fossen ('58), when Gretchen Meister approached and told me to kneel to my superior. "Where?" I asked, looking around for him or her. "Here, stupid," said Gretch, and she kicked my feet out from under me. I wouldn't have minded it so much had the floor been dry, but it so happens I landed right on top of the remains of a chocolate-banana malt that proved to be rather sticky.

After duly acknowledging my "superior," I proceeded to interrogate him on the matter at hand. When he found out what my intentions were, however, I was promptly extricated from the premises. In other words, kicked out by Janice Dedman and Diane Kimble, who promptly returned to waiting on Tom White and Ron Johnson.

By this time, I was not just curious; I was just plain mad. "This ridiculous thing has got to stop!" I shouted, and set off on my way to the Times Room, the hangout for the most notorious characters in school. If there was any information to be had, it could be found discussed there. Ah, what did I tell you? Hearing Dick Johnson and Steve Meyers talking over the matter. I mosied right over, and proceeded to join the conversation.

When they noticed me they frowned, and called to Sally Dill and Marilyn Cole to come over. When the girls got there, the guys just pointed to me, and said, "One hundred fifty points deduction." "Now wait just a minute!" I screamed. "Those aren't grounds for deductions." Seeing the glares on their faces, though, I didn't say what I intended.

This was obviously getting me nowhere in a big fat hurry, so I decided to return to center hall and try to find some evidence pertaining to the case I had taken. It was just then that I saw them. It was Sue Pfeiffer and April Hapner who were racing down the ramps while carrying Gene Stout (Bluffton) and Dan Logan piggy back.

By this time my nerves were about shot, and my composure had long since departed; so I decided to call it a day. I was hoping that it was all just a mad, crazy dream, and that I'd wake up the next day happy and carefree. No such luck, however. When I returned the next day, I went into Study Hall only to find Barb Andrews working out Gordy Meyer's history assignment for him. I was beginning to see the light. I was on my way out when Bob Romanowski (Central) accidentally tripped over my toe, and Verene Andrews looked at me as if I did it on purpose, so I got out of there in a big hurry.

I HAD HAD ALL I was going to take of this crazy world. In exasperation I shouted, "I give up, I just plain give up!" and sat down right in the middle of center hall, unnoticed by Pam Olson who was running errands for Jim Somers.

Finally I came to my senses, and got up to look for the one person I knew would give it to me straight and clear. The person I sought was none other than Stanley Redding. Sticking out my chin and squaring my shoulders, I entered the Times Room and looked around with a stern expression on my face. When I spotted who I came to see, I broke into peals of laughter. There was Stan, his feet propped up on the sport desk, a raspberry popsicle in his hand. His face was smiling, and he wore dark glasses. Every other moment Joan Bixby (Elmhurst) would stick her head in the door, and inquire if everything was quite to his satisfaction.

Spotting me, Stan motioned me to come over and have a sent. I gave him the whole story, including the things that happened to me, and he roared with laughter. I was somewhat offended until he explained that the reason for the girls waiting on the boys like that was that the boys threatened to take their lollypops away from them for two months. That's life in the big city.

Archers' Opinions Concerning Perfect World Differ Greatly

In our present day and age, life is rushed and hurried, seldom stopping long enough to get its bearings, constantly and endlessly pushing on. Although most of us seldom stop to consider the present status quo of our world, when finally we do, our opinions generally come out varied and controversial. Such is the case with these Kellys who have taken the pains to answer this question: "In your opinion, what would the perfect world be like?"

Sue Pfeiffer: First of all, there would be school without homework, and summer all year 'round. Longer lunch periods and swimming instead of gym sounds sharp, too. Best of all would be to get a car of my own in which to get to Bluffton and back.

Cindy Miller: A world full of boys and me the only girl.

Joan LeChot: A perfect world? World-wide peace and no more Times polls.

Jan Martindale: One without Times polls.

April Hapner: One with summer all year 'round and no school in the afternoon.

Bob Ramage: Craaaaaaazy.

Carolyn Sievers: A world with lifetime charge accounts at every store for everyone.

Mary Meily: Peace for all.

John Wilks: Saturday every day.

Jeff Baker: 36 hours in a day.

Ann Erickson: NOT like school.

Jim Carter: No more deadlines on sport stories.

Jim Griffin: A world where there wouldn't be any people like me.

Ron Johnson: The beat generation with more neat guys like Jim Griffin. (Hah.)

Sue Horth: No competition in anything! Enough time for homework, activities, eating . . . SLEEP!!

John Mader: A world without people except Jeff Baker.

Barb Steiner: —Eh?

Terry Thomas: What? . . . More giggles?

Susie Scott: I hate maps.

Susie Hiller: Despite any cracks about my giggling, I think it would really be cool if somebody else laughed in our history class . . . Seriously, though, I wish someone would invent a little portable refrigerator that I could strap on my back and carry to my classes with me.

Crissie Ferguson: Nothing can be done for this poor world . . . it's a mess.

Two Girls Construct Kelly Lion Recently Used In Roman Circus

Who said "Lions aren't tame?" Leo was probably the tamest lion in history. Roman citizens saw Leo at his best in the Circus Maximus on Thursday, April 16, 1959.

The was a great difference between Leo the Lion of Rome's past and the Kelly lion. Kelly was the paper-mache lion made by Jenny Manth and Sandy Thorn.

It all started one day when Mr. Hellman told of the Roman circus to be given by Latin students. The process of making a lion began. It was decided that the Manth household was to be the menagerie. Mr. Manth's workshop and workbench became the cage.

In one corner of the room was a stack of newspapers. In the other corner there was wire. The papers had been carried from Jenny's garage. Mr. Manth got the wire for the lion.

A WIRE SKELETON of the lion was first made with the help of an encyclopedia. Next the skeleton was lined with paper and paper was stuffed inside. This was started over spring vacation.

While Kelly was being stuffed, there would be short delays. Every once in a while, Jenny would have to look for hockey and basketball pictures in the sports' section from the newspapers going into the lion.

About this time, Kelly was moved to the ceiling of the workshop. He was supported by two strings from the ceiling. After the paper mechaing began, Mrs. Manth's flour canaster was emptied. One day Mrs. Thorn sent flour. Jenny and Sandy started plastering.

KELLY HARDENED and everyone was happy until Mr. Manth said, "It looks like a camel to me!" A tale could be written about the tail. Last of all came the claws, eyes, and mouth.

Kelly was finished with three large jars of yellow paint, one small jar of orange; two skeins of multi-colored yarn, two rolls of adhesive tape, and much masking tape. The entire cost, $3.63. Bob Chase of WOWO furnished the entertainment each day.

Ambitious Archers Give Opinions On Very Trying Subject

About this time of the year, the end of school comes near, and grades become more important than they may have been during the rest of the year. Geometry is especially trying as the following comments prove when students were asked their opinion of this subject.

Evie North: I can hardly wait 'til I'm done with it!

Sharon Carrel: It's square!

Ann Golden: It's cubish!

Susie Horth: Censored.

Margie Mercer: No comment . . .

Jeannie Carroll: Summer school, here I come!

Larry Chen: It's the maximum utmost!

John Biteman: Too many Jim Carters!

Lesley Malone and David Dill: If you don't know, we ain't gonna tell ya!

Marie Rohn: Geometry and I just don't get along.

Jan Martindale: I refuse to answer on the grounds that it might incriminate me.

Gretchen Meister: Don't think I'll offer my opinion.

Beth Curley: OH!! It's my favorite subject!

Carolyn Sievers: I wish I knew what Mr. Petty is saying when I do something wrong and starts talking to himself in Spanish.

Ellen Crowder: You might say geometry is—well, it's—

Barb Steiner: I'd better not say. Sometimes it's O.K. Other times—ugh!

Ann Erickson: Ask me after grades come out.

Jane Badders: I'm flunking. Does that answer your question?

Jim Carter: It would be almost possible if I had 12 hours every evening for homework.

Steve Marshall: Ugh!

Ed Sarver: It would be O.K. if it didn't keep me up all night.

Cindy Miller: My advice to prospective frosh—stick to general math!

Tom Halley: Real solid, man.

John Mader: It's not that I like geometry, but it's my geometry teacher's favorite subject and I want to pass.

Bob Shine: It's my most difficult course and most time-consuming, too.

Jack Winder: Real Solid.

Steve Rothberg: George Eliot's Old Mother Entered The Room Yesterday.

Mike Callahan: Spherical, man, spherical.

Sue Hiller: I'd jump at the opportunity to express myself, but I want to pass, and Miss Young reads the Times polls!

Disillusioned Girl Tells About Prom Experience With Athlete

Athletes are wonderful, as every girl knows. Their actions on the track field are beautiful to behold; every motion is beautifully controlled. But wait until this hunk of co-ordination froves from the track field to the dance floor. Then it's really something to see!

But let's start back at the source of all this fuss. Muscles Biceps, the biggest and cutest athlete in school, invited insignificant me to the Junior Prom. Was I excited . . . you bet I was!

I did my hair, my fingernails, my toenails, and re-did my hair. I looked a million times to make sure that my dress and shoes were still there. Finally everything was ready . . . including me. The doorbell peeled.

MY ATHLETE looked gorgeous . . . until he fell over the doorstep and ripped his pants. While my mother was sewing them up, he presented me with a beautiful purple orchid. Unfortunately, my formal was of flaming shrimp color. I was beginning to get disillusioned.

The gym was artistically decorated, with kind of a fountain in the center. Or at least it was a fountain until dear Muscles fell into it. (But then it really could have happened to anyone.) The thing that made me just a little mad, was that he steered me gracefully in first, and then fell on top of me. (At least it demolished the orchid for the night.)

After the next dance, during which he danced on top of my feet and I discovered that he was wearing his spiked track shoes, we sat down. At least I did, but Muscles broke the chair when he plopped into it and ended up on the floor. Then we had to go and get the splinter of wood from the wrecked chair removed from his foot. I was trying to put iodine on the wound, when the big thug jerked and made me spill it on my dress. It clashed.

FINALLY, HE TOOK me home. I've never been so relieved. I batted my eyes at him and said, "This really has been an unusual evening." He grinned and gently shut the door and I let out a sight of deep relief. Then I heard the sound of ripping formals and Muscles hitting the cement steps.

You won't believe this, but his foot got caught in the hem of my floor-length dress and when he was going down the steps . . . oh well. Maybe the jagged hem will come into style.

That night taught me something. I don't know what it was, but it was something!

It's spring again—tra, la—Oops, 'scuse me—. As we make a tour of Homeroom 62 this beautiful spring morning a chuckle emerges from the back of the room. After a search we find Bob Haag recalling some experiences he and a friend had on a trip in Michigan last winter. His friend, it seems, became lodged in a tree (upside down, yet) after turning a sharp corner. Not content with one tree mix-up, he later knocked down two baby trees. "Trees a crowd," I guess. Oh, oh, spring fever has me in its clutches . . . Leaving Bob to his ski dreams we proceed on over to Dick Dailey who is mumbling something about the ancient Greeks. As we look a little closer it seems that Dick is pouring over an antiquated history book. He stopped long enough to tell us about his trip to Lancaster and Ossian over spring vacation . . . We now come upon Marilyn Daniels, who is planning the next meeting of the "Leotards." Sounds mysterious, doesn't it? She is also planning for a trip to Buffalo in July sponsored by the Music Center. She had time to catch up on her accordion practice during spring vacation. Marilyn and her family also moved during vacation . . . What's the groan in that other corner of the room? Why, it's Judy Cramer having trouble with her shorthand. Don't get me wrong—she really hasn't a short hand. It's just those little curlee-ques that have made her shorthanded. White Skirts, Shorts, Middy Blouse Figure In Vacation Fashion

As those lazy summer months draw near, a young girl's fancy turns toward thoughts of new fashions. Good news, boys; this year the girls will really look like girls. The chemise has almost completely left the fashion scene. The most revolutionary change for the coming season is in the shoe styles. For school wear, the girls seem to find the white canvas shoes the most comfortable and economical.

For more casual wear, the multi-colored fabrics of polka dots and plaids are beginning to catch everyone's eye. This year the toes are pointed, and I do mean pointed. Another very popular style to take its place in the shoe fashion line is the two-toned, pastel-colored, iridescent heel.

As far as the flat is concerned, the T-strap still seems to be popular. The plain flat with a clip-on bow or flower still is worn a lot. The greatest noticeable change in flats is the cut-away heel. To accent those new shoe styles, hose of various pastel colors are being worn. This may or may not shock you, but there are now on the market, hose with a striped effect. These haven't had much of a chance to gain popularity as of yet, but I'm sure that you will be seeing a lot of them in future months.

The slim-lined design has hit the scene replacing the not-too-figure-flattering chemise and sack. The free-floating skirt along with the circular skirt is still a much-preferred style. The gayly-colored cotton and the larger design remain as the best-liked fabrics for these summer skirts.

The eye-lash cotton seems to be capturing the public's attention. You are beginning to see this fabric used for every style of skirt, blouse, and also dress. The shirt-waist dress is another stunning style.

As you have probably noticed by now, the hem line has been raised about two inches. A flattering outfit to gain popularity recently is the wide-pleated, sharkskin skirt with the ever-popular middy blouse. To accent these pretty, summer cottons, sashes and cummerbunds of various colors seem to do the trick. For that very special party, formals of pastel chiffon and silk organza are chosen more frequently.

With all the extra activities which accompany those cool summer breezes, our young lady doesn't have too many extra hours to spend over a hot iron. The perfect solution to this problem is a wash-and-wear fabric.

Speaking of cool summer breezes, all work and no play makes our young miss a dull girl. For those fun-filled days at the lake or having fun with her friends at home, the American girl seems to have chosen bermudas rather than short shorts. Matching outfits of knit shirts and bermudas are most popular. Peddle pushers are beginning to come back into style. Skilts and skorts are holding their popularity for another season.

To top everything off, the hair styles this spring seem to be more on the soft, wavy side, rather than real short. With this fashion wardrobe of soft, pastel colors, the American girls can look nothing but beautiful.

Posy's Pointers

By Posy Weilemann

Dear Posy,

What can I do? The girl I'm dating is always nagging at me to stand up straight, but I don't want to. Now a friend of hers is picking on me, too. She makes fun of the way I walk, stand, and everything. I'm beginning to get a complex!

Flustered

Dear Flustered,

Hide!

Take Advantage!

Many students at South, have, in past years, taken advantage of the fact that one can take extra courses during the summer, thus working off credit. For those who wish to take courses this summer, the program for the 1959 Summer School to be held at Central High School has recently been announced by the director of Summer Schools, Mr. Ralph Virts.

This summer session is to begin the Monday after school lets out, June 8, and is to last until July 31. The classes are two hours a day, with a maximum of two subjects per student. The cost per subject is $25, two subjects for $45. Those wishing to register should notify their homeroom teachers so that they may have due time to turn in their registration. The credit earned for a student's work will be added to the amount of points that the student has previously accumulated toward that student's graduation.

The courses to be offered are as follows: U.S. History, World History, Economics, Sociology, and Government; a full English program in X and Y classes; a full College Preparatory Math program consisting of: Algebra (1, 2, and 3), Solid and Plane Geometry, and Trigonometry; Typing and Bookkeeping; Health and Safety; and Biology.

For those wishing to take the Developmental Reading program to be offered this summer, it has been announced that the classes held at South Side will be the only ones of this type offered in the city, and are to be conducted in Room 154 by Mr. Lowell Coats. These classes will last for two hours, and cost $20. This class is not offered on the regular curriculum as being a required subject, therefore no points toward graduation credits are to be given.

When reading a difficult subject, first survey the material and make up some questions, then read it entirely, recall important facts, and review what you learned.

Do your work before you watch television and then you can get to bed at 12:00 instead of 11:00. Some of those late shows are kind of good!

When you're feeling horrible, wear something very bright. You'll be surprised at how much it helps.

Be sure your watch works; the person next to you may want to know the time.

Understanding, Interest In More Than One Subject Are Among Assets Of Good High School Teacher

By Cheryl Summers

What should the requirements of good secondary teachers be? What qualities do parents think teachers should have? What does our principal think the requirements should be, and does our faculty meet these requirements? These are questions which are important not only to parents and administrators, but to us, as students, also. What are the answers?

Recently the magazine, "The Indiana Teacher," conducted a survey among school officials and parents on what they thought the requirements of secondary teachers should be.

School hiring officials, administrators, and parents aren't very far apart in their judgment of what constitutes a good teacher. In fact, they are in complete agreement on many of the characteristics and skills which go to make a competent, understanding teacher.

Employing officials and parents of secondary school children differed only slightly in their agreement that the number one goal of junior and senior high school teachers should be to provide situations which require pupils to think for themselves.

# #

ON THE FOLLOWING nine major points parents and employing officials were in complete agreement about which teacher competencies they would give top priority. On the two additional points they differed to some extent.

A good teacher should:

1. Have a broad knowledge of learning materials suitable for use in his classes.
2. Recognize behavior which indicates that a pupil should be referred for special help or attention.
3. Make clear, definite assignments that seem worthwhile to pupils.
4. Understand the problems pupils tend to have as they grow toward adulthood.
5. Know what steps to take in helping pupils whose learning has been unsatisfactory.
6. Provide for the slow, the average, and the fast learner.
7. Know how to organize the subject he teaches so that it is understandable to pupils.
8. Understand what is known about how pupils learn.
9. Study the behavior of his pupils in order to understand better the things that affect their attitudes and achievements.
10. Be able to pick out gifted pupils and give them more advanced work.
11. Continue his efforts to improve his teaching through study, travel, reading, attending professional meetings, and similar activities.

Employing officials and parents shared almost the same degree of skepticism about the relative importance of English literature, art, and music appreciation in a secondary teacher's education—unless the teacher is to teach these subjects.

The ability to know how to teach still ranks of primary importance among both parents and school people who work with teachers. While everyone concerned with the quality of education in Indiana public schools wants teachers who have a broad cultural background and a thorough knowledge of the subjects they teach, the greatest emphasis is placed on understandings and techniques of teaching which come—not from courses on the classics, the fundamentals of calculus, or organic chemistry—but from principles of classroom management, educational tests and measurements, and teaching methods courses.

FURTHERMORE, hiring officials want and expect their teachers to keep up to date with new materials and methods of instruction and to continue their efforts at self-improvement through study, travel, reading, attending professional meetings, and similar activities.

Parents also agreed that they want their children's teachers to keep up with the times and continually retool their thinking about methods of teaching, rather than teach 20 times the same way they taught the first or second year out of college.

What does our principal think of all this? When questioned on the subject, Mr. Snider countered with four requirements of his own. "I think," said Mr. Snider, "that the teacher should (1) have a thorough knowledge of his subject, with a lively interest in other fields, (2) have a definite philosophy concerning the place which his subject occupies in the education of a pupil, (3) be able to make assignments which can be understood and which seem reasonable to students, and, finally, a requirement without which no teacher should be hired, (4) be interested in young people and their problems."

MR. SNIDER WAS then asked how our teachers compared with his requirements and those of "The Indiana Teacher." Mr. Snider expressed himself in one sentence. "I think our faculty, as a unit, is one of the strongest faculties I've ever seen," he declared.

We students don't usually think about this phase of education, but it is fortunate for us, that our principal, parents, and school administrators do; for, as a result, we have a better educational system and better educational opportunities which prepare us to take our places as adults in our society.

Lee Rice Wins Carrier Award

At 3 a.m. every morning a hard-working boy drags himself out of bed in order to get the Journal-Gazette to his customers on time. This boy is Lee Rice, a South Side senior who was named Journal-Gazette Carrier-of-the-Month.

For this award Lee received a jacket and a shirt with an insignia stating that he is an honor Fort Wayne carrier.

Lee's route, which he has had for four and a half years, consists of 154 daily customers and 235 customers on Sundays. Since his route is so large, much of his time is spent working on it. He spends six or seven hours weekly collecting payments. The fact that he has had a gain of 92 per cent increase in his daily subscriptions and a 94 per cent increase in Sunday subscriptions shows that Lee has worked extra hard on his route. He has also won several prizes in connection with carrier-salesmen contests and has worked hard on circulation contests.

"Lee has done a very good job of working his route," commented Edward Taylor, Lee's district manager. Mr. Taylor also added that many customers have called in to tell of Lee's good service.

However Lee does have a few bad days when people might not think him such a good carrier. For example last Sunday morning, when he threw the paper on one porch, it hit a step and bounced through a window.

At South Lee is on the business course, and majoring in woodworking. After he graduates this spring, he plans on studying to be an accountant.

Skating, swimming, and boating are a few sports that Lee enjoys. He particularly likes swimming and has won several ribbons in swimming competitions at the YMCA. Also, stated Lee, he likes skin diving at the Y.

Poetry Of Six

"Lightning and Thunder"

He streaks through the sky on a crooked path,
Knowing not the destructive power he hath.
He destroys. She makes noise.
She pierces the sky with a crack and curse,
Then shaking the heavens and trembling the earth;
She probes his passiveness to hysteria wild.
He slithers from black clouds, now very viled.
His spiny fingers crush trees with but one touch.
He takes no booty, for he cannot clutch;
But only destroys puny earthen toys.

Little ones fear her most
When they hear her boast
Though her fat sides only tremble
When she gives out a scream and a rumble.

"All in all, I enjoyed England very much. It broadened my knowledge of people and places, and I learned to understand people better."

Brown-eyed, black-haired Mahmoud Abouzeid is a senior and was born in Cairo, Egypt, where he lived for 15 years before coming to America last April. His mother is American, and his father is an Egyptian petroleum engineer. Mahmoud plans to follow in his father's footsteps and is in America for that purpose. He plans to go to Maryland for his first two years of college and then to the University of California to get his Doctor's Degree as did his father.

"The teenagers of Egypt are conservative," Mahmoud said. "The boys run around in one pack and the girls in another, and they both go to separate schools; therefore, there is no such thing as dating. If a boy is serious over a girl, the two fathers get together and decide whether or not the boy may call on the girl and talk with her in a room filled with relatives. Of course, there are exceptions to every example, but this is the usual pattern.

"The teens in Egypt enjoy music, especially rock ' roll. For recreation they participate in sports as do the English, and go to movies. There are sporting clubs by the dozens, and this is where the teens spend what little leisure time they have. The boys usually play soccer, football, and ping pong. Girls don't have much leisure time at all because they must help with the household duties. Adults also have sports clubs where they play croquet and bridge.

"The common people wear gowns called "galabiyahs." These garments are long and hot and always remind me of sack dresses. The wealthier people wear American clothes."

Mahmoud's favorite native food is "foul sedemas," more commonly known in this country as black beans, which is a main dish in Egypt. Although he was born and raised in Egypt, and Linda lived in England, both have one thing in common. Each named pizza, an Italian dish, as his favorite food.

"The family relationship is much more formal in Egypt than in America. The father takes care of bringing up the children, and the mother and daughters take care of the duties of the home. I think the relationship is a little too close in this formal sort of way.

"The religion of Egypt is 90 per cent Moslem, the rest being Christians with only a few Jews.

"The privileged children of wealthier families have cars, but most of the teens either walk or ride in busses, taxis, or horse and buggies. I noticed that there are a great deal fewer taxis in America than in Egypt.

"Schooling is very important in Egypt. The students are required to take English, French, two years of physics, two years of chemistry, two years of biology, geography, seven years of math, including calculus, mechanical drawing, trigonometry, coordinate and solid geometry, algebra, and geometrical drawing. They have to take four years of physical education also. The periods are 45 minutes each, and the teens take eight subjects a day. The schedule works out so that they manage to get all these subjects by the end of their four years. Their summer vacation lasts from about May 25 to October 6, but they deserve this long vacation. College is almost compulsory in Egypt, if one is to have any kind of a job at all.

"I think that perhaps the teens in Egypt should mix more, but I think the teens in America are too free. I myself have too much freedom, although this does give a person more responsibility for his own behavior and its consequences."

As for what Mahmoud likes about America, he said, "The free way of life the people have is what impresses me most. They seem to have less tensions, or else they have more ways to relieve them.

"My impressions of American teenagers are mostly favorable. I approve of their get togethers because they helps the teens to understand each other. I've had my best year of school this year. I've met many people and learned to understand them better."

This is what two teenagers who have been abroad, and who have come in contact with foreign teenagers have to say about them. Actually foreign teens aren't so foreign as one expects. for many of their interests are the same as ours. It's a pretty small world after all!

South Side Seeks To Retain Sectional Track Crown Friday

Field Of 300 Will Compete; Trials At 7 p.m.

Archers Appear Able To Put Up Battle At Northrop Field

By Jim Carter

Seeking to retain their crown, the South Side cindermen will participate in the forty-third Sectional Track and Field Meet at Northrop Field tomorrow. Time trials will start at 7 p.m. and the finals begin at 8 p.m.

A field of close to 300 boys, from teams from Allen, Adams, and DeKalb Counties, will try to qualify for next week's Regional, which will be held on the same cinders.

Four boys will qualify for the Regional in the two sprints and the two hurdle races. The three fastest in the 440-yard dash will advance. There will be two 880-yard and mile runs, and the four boys who are clocked in the fastest times overall will survive. Also, the top four in each field event will be eligible. There will also be multiple races in the half-mile and mile relays because of the bulky field, and only the two fastest teams at each distance will qualify.

DEFENDING SECTIONAL champions are South's Tom Bolyard in the 880, Steve Hibler of Concordia in the mile, and Tiger high-jumper Tharnell Hollins.

It seems unlikely that any records will be broken, for area thinlies' marks have not, for the most part, approached these records. The only marks even in slight peril are the 19.7 low hurdles record, set by Archer Dan Howe last year, and the 11-11½ pole vault established in 1932 by Harlan Trovinger of Auburn. Under excellent conditions either Jack Hallenbeck of North or Calvin Thomas of Central might approach Howe's mark. Leader among the vault contenders is Bill Croy, also of Auburn, who has been close to that height. It was this same vault mark which Richie Miller of South failed to match last year, after going 6½ inches over it the previous week.

Hibler's best time this season is 4:30.2, compared to his winning time last year of 4:35.0, but he still seems out of the running for a new record.

There are no returning placers from the 100-yard dash of 1958, won by John Kelso in 10.0, but another Tiger, Dave Stewart, has this season's best, a 10.2. No other city lads have approached this time, but Amstutz of Berne has a 10.3, and Neal Elliott of Monroeville has posted a 10.4.

ELLIOTT ALSO HOLDS the area best in the 220, 22.4 seconds. Tharnell Hollins has turned in a 22.8, and Dale Zumbaugh, North's Red flash who placed second in this event last year, has done a 22.9. Amstutz is close behind with a 23.0, and Stewart has a 23.2.

Kelly Joe Roth took a fourth in the 1958 quarter at 53.4 seconds. So far this season he has exactly equalled that time. However, there is one city performer, Mike Poorman of North, who has posted a better time of 53.0. Steve Hatch of Central is right on Joe's heels with a 53.5, and two other South Siders, Bill Lentz and Ted Von Gunten, have turned in 53.7's.

Bolyard won one section of the 880 in a time of 2:02.7 last year, and Hibler was third at 2:03.8. This year Bolyard will really have his work cut out for him. Hibler has posted the best half mile in the state, 2:00.3, while Tom has run a 2:04.5 best. Roth has been clocked in 2:04.7, to rank as one of Hibler's closest challengers. Other top reformers in this race are Stanski of North Side, 2:05.4, and Henline of Central, 2:05.8.

HIBLER SEEMS far in front in his specialty, the mile, with a 4:30.2. Second is Redskin Pete Poorman with 4:39.5. Archer Ed Hartman's 4:46.2 is third in the area. Lagging fourth is Central's Silky Sullivan, Henry "Da Da" King, a freshman. King's best time is 4:46.6, but no one knows what he can do if pushed. Thus far he has beaten Hartman, and he has not run against Hibler or Poorman.

The field-leaders in the hurdle races are Hallenbeck and Thomas. Win Moses of South won second in the highs last year to Hallenbeck's fourth, and Thomas took second in the low sticks. Both, however, have shown marked improvement this season. Hallenbeck's 15.0 high and 20.2 low times are by far the best in this region. Thomas ranks second with 15.3 and 20.8. Klopfenstein of Berne is also a man to watch, since he has times of 15.4 and 20.8. Archers Moses and Ken Howe have posted 15.7 times in the high sticks, and Ron Guthier of New Haven has hit 15.9. Miller of Leo ranks fourth with a 21.0 in the lows.

IN THE BROAD JUMP Duane Gordon of North took second at 19-9¾ and T. C. Williams was fourth at 19-6½ last year. The tables are now turned, for Williams holds a 21-1 area best to Gordon's third place 20-2. Monroeville's Neal Elliott has the second, a jump of 20-11. Davidson of Auburn and Don McLean of Elmhurst have jumped 20-2 and 20-1, respectively.

Larry Hanefield of New Haven leads the pack in the high jump at 6-0. Tiger Larry Crosby is second at 5-10, and Hollins, last year's winner, has jumped 5-10. Alexander of Concordia has also cleared 5-10. Crosby, Hanefield, and Kelly Dave Roderick all tied for third in 1958 at 5-6½.

Croy, second last year, is the pole vault favorite with a previous vault of 11-11, and another non-local product, Getts of Garrett, has cleared 11-3¼. Fort Wayne's best is Central's Steve Hanic with a 10-8.

SOUTH SIDE'S Jim Dawson is the third leading shot put candidate, with a heave of 50-3¼. He should be pressed hard, however, by Garrett's Maurer, New Haven's Jacquay, and Ron Worley of North Side. Maurer and Jacquay are around 48 feet, and Worley is closer to 47. Two other area boys have put the shot over 51 feet and are expected to have too much for South's sophomore.

South's mile relay team, composed of Mel Smith, Bill Lentz, Roth, and Bolyard, won their event last year in 3:34.4. This year, with sophomore Bob Shine running in Smith's place, they have turned in a fine 3:31.0 performance. The Redskin baton men have a 3:33.3 time, Central a 3:37.2, and Garrett a 3:41.1.

The 880-yard relay is Central's specialty, and Stewart, Hollins, Williams, and Thomas have best clocking of 1:34.0. On one occasion they were even under 1:33, at the North Side Relays, but they were disqualified. North has a 1:35.3 time, and South is 1:37.9.

It will be very difficult for the Archers to retain their Sectional crown tomorrow night, but with backing from the fans and top performances on the part of everyone, it is still quite possible.

Tom Bolyard, Eddie Hartman Win Events At Lima Relays

S. O. S.

Schmitz On Sports

Ohio schools turned on their Hoosier guests last Saturday and forced South Side's tracksters to relinquish their Lima Relays laurels.

* * *

The defeat, not entirely disheartening, extended the Green's mediocre showings in relay affairs; but now the relays (North Side, Kokomo, and Lima) are completed, leaving only the Sectionals to close out the '59 season.

* * *

Looking ahead to next week, Head Coach Bob Gernand can have some comfort for the big meet since his juniors will be back and Tom Bolyard snapped a season-long slump at Lima and began hitting the low times in the 880 (2:04.5 at Lima). By Saturday Tom, who now holds the second fastest half-mile time in the area, should be in fair enough shape to successfully defend his 880 Sectional crown.

* * *

Leading contenders at this time are Tom Stanski of North Side and possibly Steve Hibler of Concordia, or Bolyard's running mate, Joe Roth.

* * *

Roth, listed as one of the top five in the area, turned in a superb half-mile in medlay race at Kokomo which hit near the 2:00 mark, although unofficial since it was run in a relay. Hibler has the best time with a 3:00.3; but, if he runs the mile race, chances in the half will be slightened. Rhoades of Silver Lake is also considered a threat.

* * *

Roth, who was expected to and who will most likely lead the pack of Archer 440 men, has the fifth best mark in the entered contestants. Once again one of the top times is held by Concordia's one-man team, Steve Hibler. He ran a 53.3 last week, the second fastest in the Fort Wayne area. From all present indications, the man to beat is Ron Divelbiss of Huntington or his mate, Wasmuth. Both names should be familiar to Archer football supporters.

* * *

Bill Lentz is also among the top performers in this event. He teams up with the two Archers, Bolyard and Roth, along with Bob Shine to form the speediest mile relay squad that will appear Saturday at Northrop Field. Their 3:31.0 is better than three seconds superior to the North Side relay squad.

* * *

Another strong point is the shot put. In this event, sophomore Jim Dawson is entered with the third best toss. His best toss is a good two-feet shorter than that of Larry Leonard of Wabash. Leonard is one of the top three putters in the state.

* * *

South can expect to pick points up in the mile with Ed Hartman entered as one of the top five. He and Al Rainbolt, victim of a leg injury earlier this year, could do some fancy running and net the Green a few big points. But Steve Hibler and possibly undefeated Henry King of Central are expected to run their own race.

* * *

King, whose time is nothing to marvel at, has an uncanny habit of staying ahead of all his opponents. Another to watch is Pete Poorman of North Side, possessor of the second best time in the area but equal holder of a weak stretch drive that could be the deciding factor in a field of good long distance runners. Several other area boys have likewise posted excellent times.

* * *

In every running event, excluding the two dashes and the low hurdles, an Archer is listed as one of the top five. In the field, South has threats listed only in the shot put. One relay team tops the other in fifth. All in all, it doesn't look like a bad aggregation that's going into Saturday's meet as defending champs; but it sure doesn't look like a team that can take the big event.

* * *

Fans should not be expecting the Archers' second straight win, but loyal support in the do or die meet can net the Green and White some key entrants for the Regional Meet to be held at the same site one week from Saturday.

* * *

Starting time this Saturday will be 7 p.m. for the time trials and 8 p.m. for the all-important finals. Be there and root the Green and White to triumphs.

* * *

Not to take away from sighting the Archers' strong and weak points, this corner expects to see Central emerge as tourney victor. The Tigers have a man or a relay team listed in all events except two, the shot put and the pole vault. Their chief foes should be North Side, a team that has men listed in all but three events; however, not listed as high as the Tigers' big guns.

* * *

EVENTS TO KEEP AN EYE ON —Jack Hallenbeck of North Side and Cal Thomas of Central are expected to display a sensational race when two of the state's leading hurdlers battle across the barriers for blue ribbons. Hallenbeck looms as favorite but Thomas is definitely a threat.

* * *

Tom Bolyard, Tom Stanski, and possibly Joe Roth or Steve Hibler, could put on a whale of a show in the run for the 880 title.

* * *

Short races like the 100-yard dash always produce thrills, but this year's field in the century is extraordinarily balanced.

* * *

Most enlightening was the performance by a well built blonde lad, Carl Bandemer. The Hoagland Junior High School graduate nipped Central's fleety freshman, Harold Craig, in the 100-yard dash with an excellent time of 11.2. With three years of competition ahead of him, a 10-second 100-yard dash seems feasible.

* * *

He joined several other promising freshmen, Nate Norment, Acker, and Dave Meek to bring home a blue ribbon in the 440-yard relay.

* * *

South's tennis team seemed to be on the up trend at Muncie when Dick McGaw and John Meyerholz posted wins in the Muncie Invitational Singles Tennis Tourney, but the rest of the squad continues to run into stiff balance from opposing schools. With the season drawing to a close, the Archers could finish out strong and record a fine season record.

South Side Team Places Fourth In Invitationals With Total 30 5/6 Points

By Dieter Hillerbrand

Although severely weakened by the loss of several key men, the South Side Archer thinlies managed to place fourth in the Third Annual Lima Spartan Invitational Relays held last Saturday in Lima. The final score was Columbus East 70, Lima Senior 66½, Toledo Devilbiss 44, South Side 30 5/6, Lima Shawnee 7 1/3, and Defiance 5 1/3.

Tom Bolyard managed to repeat last year's victory in the half-mile, as he won in the fast time of 2:04.5, while brother Bob came in third. Jim Cartin of Lima Senior set the pace for the first lap, but then Bolyard moved up front and, coming into the home stretch, he staged a tremendous drive which took him past Cartin and first to the finish.

SOUTH'S ONLY other victory was in the mile run, when Archers Eddie Hartman and Al Rainbolt placed first and second, respectively. John Burlock of Toledo Devilbiss led for the first two laps, but then he weakened and dropped back as Kellys Hartman and Rainbolt took over the lead. In the battle for first place, Hartman outsprinted Rainbolt to win by about six yards in the time of 4:45.6.

Good showings were made by South's quarter milers. Joe Roth placed third in his specialty in the fine time of 52.6 seconds, trailing Barnes of Columbus East and Bob Russom of Toledo Devilbiss. Although he did not place in the first five, Archer Mel Smith showed improvement by coming in second in his heat of the 440 yards.

Sprinter Tom Duff, although running into some extremely tough competition, still managed to place fifth, while Pat Goyer failed to qualify for the finals.

In the hurdles, Bob Bradfield, while leading in his heat, had the bad luck to trip over a hurdle and fall and therefore place last. South's other runner, Carl Johnson won a fifth-place ribbon in the highs.

Although they did not place in the top five, South broad jumpers showed promise by both reaching the 19-foot mark. Bob had 19-2, while Tom hit 19-8.

NOBODY OF South Side participated in the discus throw, an event not practiced in Indiana.

As usual, the Kelly relay teams made excellent showings. The freshman half-mile relay team placed third, trailing Lima South and Lima Central. The varsity 880-yard relay, consisting of Tom Duff, Bob Shine, Bob Schriefer, and Bill Lentz, tied for third place in a race which was close all the way.

Probably the most interesting race of the meet was the mile relay. Mel Smith led off for the Green and White, and handed the baton in second place to Bill Lentz. Bill, trailing Columbus East by about 12 yards, ran a good race and made up about a yard or two. Then Joe Roth, running the third leg for the Archers, ran a terrific race and about caught up with the Tigers. Tom Bolyard, the anchorman for the Kellys, quickly jumped into the lead, and although he gave it a very valiant try he was nosed out in the last yards by the Columbus runner, who broke the tape in 3:35.0.

Archers Lose To Centralites

Score 64-45; Kellys Weak In Dashes And Field Events; Win Four

By Steve Rothberg

Lacking strength in the dashes and field events, the South Side track squad dropped a dual meet with Central's Tigers, 64-46, on the South Side cinders last Thursday.

In the 100 and 220, the Green was able to place only one man, Harry Collins, third, in the 220. In the field events, Jim Dawson was the only Archer victor as he copped the shot put with a hefty heave of 48 feet, eight inches.

In the other running events the Archers fared admirably as they had excellent grouping in all the races. Fred VonGunton won the 440 in a neat 53.3 with sophomore Bob Shine running a close second.

THE ARCHERS' 880 DUO, Tom Bolyard and Joe Roth, once more led the pack with Bolyard running first this time and Roth second.

Central's Henry King won the mile, but looked like he was having a rough go of it, as he didn't talk to the spectators once in the course of the race. Ed Hartman and Al Rainbolt ran a close second and third to help the Archers' point total considerably.

Cal Thomas, Central's other "personality kid," won the high and low hurdles with Archer Win Moses placing second. Two sophomores showed well in the hurdles as Carl Johnson ran third in the highs and Bob Bradfield also third in the lows.

South's mile relay team was victorious and Central's half-mile team won to split the relay events.

ALTHOUGH THE Tigers won this meet, it cannot be used as a basis for a prediction of things to come as, in the Sectional Meet.

Dick McGaw, Top Tennis Man, Deserves Recognition For Play

Being the head man on any team is a great honor and Dick McGaw deserves this rank, as he is the number one player on the South Side tennis squad.

Although Dick was absent for early season drill and the first two meets on doctor's orders, he has come on to be the mainstay of the team, as he has been since his 10-B year.

Dick McGaw

Dick stands five feet, 10 inches, and weighs 155. He is a Senior B, taking English, speech, Latin, and government, and can lead the team once again next season.

Dick has had an impressive personal record in tennis. In tournament play, he has competed from the time he took the City Midget title to his competition in four national tournaments. Dick has won the Boys' City title twice and the Under 18 City title twice.

Also, he was the Northern Indiana Juniors titlist, runner-up in the State Boys' Meet in 1956, and the winner of the State Under 18 title in 1957. In his fourth national tourney last year, Dick was able to place in the top 32 in doubles competition.

Dick has "great respect for my tennis coach, Mr. Havens, who has withstood the trying conditions due to poor tennis facilities." He also feels "that Central Catholic has the toughest team at the present time, but the squad can take that city title."

Dick has no specific college in mind, having a year left in South Side, but plans to continue his tennis career in college.

Thinlies Capture Second In Frosh Relays Friday

Archers Close Second With 32 Points; Blue First; North Is Fourth

By Larry Lee

Central's well-balanced Tigers captured 38 points to cop the thirteenth edition of the Freshman Relays contested at Northrop Field last Friday. South Side's vastly improved Archers gave the Bengals a bad scare before settling for a lofty second place with 32 points.

North Side, defending champ and host for the nine-team field, could do no better than a fourth place behind surprising Elkhart.

Other teams included, in order of finish, Muncie Wilson, New Haven, Central Catholic, Concordia, and Huntington.

For individual events a 5-3-2-1 basis prevailed. Relays were doubled in value, thus a 10-5-3-1 scale.

# # #

CENTRAL WON ONLY the high hurdles, the high jump, and the 880-yard relay, but they grabbed second place in the century, the broad jump, the 440-yard relay, and the medley relay to record enough points for a victory.

Beachem skimmed the high sticks in a good 16.5 time. Goodson high-jumped 5-4 for five more points. Beachem, Craig, Haywood, and Littlejohn combined for 1:41.3 victory in the meet-deciding 880-yard relay.

South Side held a slim one-point lead over the Tigers with only that one relay remaining on the 11-event card. The Bowmen did well to capture third place for three points, but Central was awarded 10 points for its winning efforts to finish six points ahead of the Archers.

# # #

COACH DON REICHERT'S boys surprised everyone with their fine showing. The Green-clad 440 relay quartet, comprised of Bandemer, Acker, Norment, and Meek, initiated the relays with a well-timed victory.

Bandemer came back to beat Central's Craig by six inches in the 100, thus averaging an equally close loss to the Tiger in the 1958 Junior High track meet. In the future these two promise to give each other a real battle.

# # #

SOUTH SEIZED second place in the mile relay and a third in the medley relay. In the latter, Ken Robinson stepped to a 2:16 half-mile to anchor the Archers. Only Bob and Tom Bolyard have posted better times as freshmen for the 880-yard distance.

Bowman Jack Harter orbited a heave of 38 feet, five inches in the shot put for third place. South Side suffered a jolt when it learned the big boy may be forced to sit out the remaining two meets.

Elkhart's Swoape won the shot put with a prodigious 41-11 measure. Teammate Watkins leaped 18 feet, six inches to win the broad jump while Ross raced to a fast 5:04.6 mile victory. The Blue Blazer medley relay team nosed Central en route an excellent 4:00.7 time.

Thus, Elkhart tallied 25 points on Blue ribbon performances alone. But unlike Central, the Blazers lacked the balance for victory, picking up only five additional tallies.

A modest nine feet by Muncie Wilson's Kegg and Tomlin won the pole vault to round out the events.

# # #

IF THIS MEET is a premonition, South appears to have a fine chance of making North Side's 1959 varsity track "domination" a short time affair. Also Fort Wayne is not taking a back seat to any other area in track; South, Central, North, plus New Haven, showed much promise of being rugged outfits.

Coach Reichert was pleased with the Archers' progress .McMahan looked fine in the high hurdle and shot put, Frazell ran a 55-second quarter leg in the mile relay, and Alfeld cleared 7-6 in the pole vault. Dashmen Meek, Norment, and Bandemer have established themselves as area freshman standouts.

Table of Points

Central	38 points

Basketball Star Tom Bolyard Major Cog In Track Wheel

A major cog in the South Side track wheel is fabulous Tom Bolyard. Already considered by many as the best Hoosier basketball player of 1959. Tom will go on to greater laurels on the cinders this spring.

The half-mile is the post graduate's specialty; he placed third in the state as a junior in that event. Tom hopes to lower his time below the two-minute mark, and he shows indications of achieving his goal before the season's end. Tom also will run in South's fine mile relay team and may try his hand in the broad jump.

# # #

BOLYARD first became interested in track at Smart Junior High. Coach Jackson discovered Tom's cinder talents when he was a seventh-grader. However, Mr. Jackson received only one-year service from Tom, as he did not try out for the track squad in the eighth grade.

After a fine freshman year at South, the 6-4, 195-pounder came through with two plentiful seasons for the varsity squad.

"I came out for track mainly to keep in shape for basketball," Tom recalls. But his ability on the turf warranted him a regular position for the Archer thinly squad.

This year the muscular lad started off slowly, missing the initial two weeks of track practice because of a Florida vacation. Since his return, Tom has groomed into shape quickly, but not well enough to start hitting the fast times recorded last year.

# # #

TOM FEELS THAT the Archer track team will fare well during the campaign. "We have a couple of good individuals plus great team balance." North Side is Bolyard's choice as the toughest team South has met so far on the cinders; however, he thinks the Green can whip the Redskins by Sectional time.

Bolyard definitely plans to continue his sports career in college.

Which college? "I wish I knew," reports Tom. Basketball, however, will be his main concern. Dozens of college coaches have sought Tom because of his basketball success.

Bing Gilardi Believes Golf Team Possesses Great Potentialities

Shining brightly in the South Side golf picture is junior Bing Gilardi, the number one linksman. Bing has much experience behind his capable play, as he was number one man last year and fourth as a freshman. His low score thus far is a good 39 for 9 holes.

Bing feels that the Archers' young team has good potential, and with proper improvement and some breaks along the way it should turn in a fine season. He also looks forward to a good Kelly showing in the Sectional.

In his opinion, Central Catholic and Elmhurst are two of the top local powers with which to contend. Both squads are deep in returning veterans, and they should be very rough in the coming Sectional. The Irish in particular, holding a victory over the Green, are rated possible state contenders by Bing.

He is on the college course, studying physics, history, English, and algebra. He also does service work for Mr. Davis during second period.

As far as the future is concerned, Bing plans to attend the University of Michigan to study actuarial science. While there he hopes to participate in his specialty, golf.

12A Bob Schriefer Aids Track Squad In Numerous Events

Senior Bob Schriefer has given the Archer track team added strength in its running events as well as a good showing in the broad jump this season.

Bob, who has been participating in varsity track for two years, began running track when he was eleven years of age. He continued his interest in track in junior high school before joining South's thinlies.

Bob, who is called "Schrief" by many of his teammates, has always been interested in all types of athletics. He feels that the Archers can do well this season because of their desire to win and their sufficient talent to carry South's honors through the remainder of the season.

Although Bob suffered a bruised heel early in the season, he still has plenty of time to develop the ability he had previously. At the start of the season, Bob was able to get off a jump which well exceeded 20 feet.

In the running events, Bob concentrated on the 440; but because of his speed, he has been moved up to the 220 and half-mile relay.

It appears that Bob has a fine chance to finish the season strongly; and barring further mishaps, he will certainly continue to be a good example of South's track team.

Tennis Team Shows Up Well

South Side's first four players advanced to the semi-finals of the annual Muncie Burris-Ball State Invitational tennis singles tournament, only to be defeated in the second round of play.

The Archers scored four team points in the "state tennis tourney," so called for the excellent personnel entered, as host Burris captured team honors. Only Steve Tracey of the Kellys was defeated in the first round of action.

Number one Archer Dick McGaw ran into a touch of bad luck after defeating Kokomo's Dave Reiney, 6-3, 6-1, in his opening draw. Dick broke his racquet on a serve in his first set against Allen Marsh of Burris as he lost, 6-1, 6-4.

Steve Meyers had a tough time defeating Frank Meeker of Anderson, who carried the match into three long sets, 7-9, 8-6, 8-6, before Meyers beat him. Tom Laxton of Lafayette Jefferson then easily defeated Steve, 6-3, 6-1.

Anderson placed a close second to host Burris. Both teams had two fine individuals. Other teams competing in the annual affair were Kokomo, Marion, Muncie Central, Richmond, and Lafayette Jefferson.

South Side results:

Dick McGaw, South Side, defeated Dave Reiney, Kokomo, 6-3, 6-1.

Allen Marsh, Muncie Burris, defeated McGaw, 6-1, 6-4.

John Meyerholz, South Side, defeated Charles Pilkington, Muncie Central, 2-6, 6-4, 6-1.

Steve Reeder, Lafayette Jefferson, defeated Meyerholz, 6-4, 6-0.

Steve Meyers, South Side, defeated Frank Meeker, Anderson, 7-9, 8-6, 8-6.

Tom Laxton, Lafayette Jefferson, defeated Meyers, 6-3, 6-1.

Bob Haag, South Side, defeated Norman Talbert, Muncie Burris, 3-6, 10-8, 6-3.

Al Purkey, Anderson, defeated Haag, 7-5, 6-1.

Bo Billings, Richmond, defeated Steve Tracey, South Side, 6-1, 6-2.

Frosh Thinlies Eke Out Win

By Larry Lee

Running the closest meet of the nearly-completed 1959 track season, South Side's freshman thinlies just nipped New Haven, 55-54, Monday. The Archers overcame the absence of two key men, a slight "mental black," and the disadvantage of running on a poor foreign track to win their fifth meet on May 4.

South had their hands full with the tough Bulldogs. Young Norm Ellenberger's boys won both relay races, the low hurdles, a share of the high jump, as well as all places in the pole vault and mile run.

Dashman Acker and middle distance runner Robinson were absent, thus greatly hindering the Archer cause. The Archers were "riding high" after grabbing 32 points and second place at the Freshman Relays. New Haven, which tallied only 12 markers there, was taken rather lightly.

# # #

KUMMER OF New Haven was the meet's only double winner. The sturdy lad won the mile in 5:15.2 and tied with three teammates at 8-6 in the pole vault.

Bowman Bandemer remained unbeaten in the 100 by winning with an 11-second flat time. Reichertman Frazell evidently enjoyed the 88-degree temperature too, for he raced to a 57.2 victory in the 440.

# # #

HOWEVER, IT WAS big Nathaniel "Nate" Norment that starred for the Green. Nate clipped the high hurdles in a 17.2 winning time, then settled for second in the lows and broad jump.

All three events were new to "Old Dependable." Then he came back to run a 24.1 leg in the half-mile relay.

Gerig of South, running his initial meet, ran a remarkable 2:27 half-mile, good for third place. Teammate Schlademan came through with the victory in a 2:23.2 time.

Other Archer blue ribbon recipients were Meek in the 220, Harter in the shot put, McMahan and Acton in the high jump, and Johnson in the broad jump.

Don O'Bryant's Hairy Weaklings defaeted Bill Joy's Furfurters to take the Night Division championship.

Many of you boys don't realize the scope of the Intramural System here at South Side. Intramural has grown and grown since its birth in 1931. As the number of awards grew. Up to date there have been a total of more than 400 letter-winners in Intramural. As you boys can see it pays to record your points. Many of the boys won letters more than once. Some boys have won as many as six letters! But on the whole, most boys only win one letter. The first letter awarded in Intramural went to Paul Rutdorf in 1931. The last letter awarded this year went to Richard Moser, who won his first letter.

Youth For Christ Club Donates Religious Quiz Trophy To South

Bible Quiz Winners Beat Leo, Central, New Haven, Butler

The Youth for Christ Club of South Side recently received a trophy for winning a quiz. The club has donated the cup to South Side.

The members of the team who won the cup are coach Wendell Eicher, captain Grant Osborne, Sue Harrold, Gene Kleeberg, Sharon Brenizer, Sharon Ebersole, and Judy Dunlap.

A quiz is made up of 20 questions about the Bible. Galations and St. Luke, however, were the Books quizzed on at this contest.

When asked what some of the questions were, Wendell Eicher, president of the club, replied, "One of the questions was, 'In Galations 5 the fruits of the spirit are mentioned. Name them in order.' Another typical question was that one of the judges would give the first part of a verse and the contestant would have to finish it correctly." Wendell also stated that quizzes have time outs and fouls and are based on a complicated point system.

In winning the trophy, the team beat Leo, Central, New Haven, and Butler.

Mr. Snider, in commenting on the club, said, "I think that an acquaintance with the Bible is a good idea and it is commendable that they do so. I also think that a study of the Bible not only gives you religious teaching but an understanding of literature."

Last October, 11 members of the club came out for the team. Those who tried out for the team and did not make it this year are Sue Penland, Barb Steiner, Roger Bordozer, and Delores Shadowins.

The club, which is interdenominational, meets every Friday in the Greeley Room at 3:30 p.m. The meeting consists of songs, devotions, and varied programs with speakers and films. The other officers are Judy Dunlap, vice-president; Judy Hutchinson, secretary; Roger Diffendarfer, treasurer; and Grant Osborne, publicity chairman.

YOUTH FOR CHRIST TROPHY—Featured here with the Youth for Christ Trophy that this religious quiz team presented to South Side are Sharon Brenizer, Wendell Eicher, captain, Mr. R. Nelson Snider, principal, accepting the trophy for the school, Judy Dunlap, Grant Osborne, Gene Kleeberg, and Sue Harrold. Sharon Ebersole was absent when the picture was taken.

Homerooms Plant 153 Shrubs In Drive To Improve Addition

Last Thursday over a thousand student jammed the entrance to South's new addition to plant bushes around the new cafeteria in a drive to beautify the section. Over 153 shrubs, Hemlock, Viburnum Cork, Firethorn, Taxis Brown, Oregon Holly, Alpine Current, Hydrangia P. G., Green Barberry, Floribunda, and Taxis Cuspidate, were planted around the building.

The bush planting was an event at South Side. Some homerooms held ceremonies before the planting. Other rooms named their trees: Herman the Hemlock, Florance, Archie, Alcur, Fleabit, Lots of Luck, and Dolly Holly. Cameras flashed as holes were dug for the plants.

Steve Carr, a freshman, upon returning to his homeroom after planting the shrub, realized that he had lost a ring. In the process of shoveling his rink had slipped off. Steve and his companions dug up the shrub to try and recover the ring. Steve spent most of the morning digging and sifting dirt by hand. The ring was found at the bottom of the hole.

STUDENTS IN Room 96 contributed the largest amount of bushes. Their contribution was eight Alpine Current. Next in line were the students of Homeroom 188, who planted six Hydrangia A.G. Homeroom 45 planted four Viburnum Cork, Room 68 planted four Green Barberry, Room 10 planted four Green Barberry, and Room 4 planted four Green Barberry. S-1 planted two Floribunda, S-2 planted two Viburnum Cork, and S-3, S-4, and S-5 planted two Floribundas.

The following rooms planted Firethorn: Room 76, one; Room 26, one; Room 66, one; Room 38, one; Room 8, one; and Room 34, one.

Library Club Elects Cindy Hart Head

The Library Club has elected its officers for the coming year. They are Cindy Hart, president; Susan Seibel, vice-president; Sandy Parrott, secretary; and Marsha Rolf, point recorder. The officers were nominated by a committee of Senior A's, and voted on by members of the club.

3 Juniors Excell In English

"Janet Lawry, Dick Rothberg, and Tom Cooper, juniors, have been nominated for the annual Achievement Awards program, sponsored by the National Council of Teachers of English," stated Mr. Charles Billiard, head of the English Department.

They will also receive recognition of excellence in English on Recognition Day.

These three juniors have submitted evidence of their writing abilities and literary awareness to the local state committees for judges.

In 1960, the NCTE will send a list of winners to every United States college and university with the recommendation that these students be considered for scholarship assistance.

Mr. J. N. Hook, NCTE executive secretary, stated his opinion by remarking, "It (the writings) constitutes a positive answer to statements that American youth cannot write effectively."

Principal Lists Rules About Fire Drills

Mr. R. Nelson Snider, principal, has issued this list of rules concerning fire drills. They should be followed to the letter.

1. When there is a fire drill, EVERYONE is to leave the building.
2. Each teacher is to lead the students out of the building.
3. Each teacher should know exactly the regulations for the drill, and should know the route of exit for each room in which he or she teaches.
4. The students are to remain quiet during the drill.
5. When students go out on the sidewalks, they are not to go into the street, nor across the street. There is no exception to this rule and any student violating it will be disciplined immediately.

At present South Side is being rewired for a new fire alarm system. When the new building was completed, it was learned that the old system could not be hooked up to a new one. Instead a whole new system has to be installed.

Electricians from the Central Electric Company are working on the project here now. The School City is providing the funds.

Safety Council Club Chooses Officers

Election of officers highlighted the May 7 meeting of Safety Council. President Joan Littlejohn announced that next year's president is Susie Hoard, while the vice-president is Sharon Gebhart. Beverly Liggett was elected secretary.

Volunteers were chosen for the Safety Car Check to be held May 14. Sponsor Glen Stebing said that the Safety Car Check of May 7 resulted in inspection of over 70 cars.

A reply was received from Lt. Robert Waldrop concerning the painting of the cross-walks around South Side. Action will soon be taken on this.

It was decided that a safety declamation would be given to complete the safety program of the year. Joan Littlejohn offered to read the declamation, "Teenacide."

Installation of officers will highlight the May 21 meeting.

Mr. Gilbert Returns

To relieve the tedium of life at the lake, Mr. Ward Gilbert, who recently retired at the end of the second semester, has come back on the South Side teaching staff. He is teaching third period in the chemistry room. He will teach until the end of the semester.

Mr. Snider Talks To Junior Parents

Mr. R. Nelson Snider officiated at a meeting for the junior parents to inform them of the various methods of receiving a college education.

A question and answer period was held, and various problems were discussed. Mr. Snider related to the parents how a student went about applying for a scholarship, the importance and significance of college boards, the basic requirements for most colleges, and various other problems.

Mr. Snider stated at the meeting that most colleges do not wish to receive an application from anyone not already in the first semester of their senior year. He also said that he had never run against a college whose requirements were not offered at South Side.

Mr. Snider also stressed the importance of good grades through the four years of high school, and reminded the parents how indicative they were of the child's character, although that was not the only factor involved in college acceptance.

Students Withdraw

Those students withdrawing from South Side are Dan Mahn, Nancy Lawson, Don Jaureiqui, Jerry Hodges and Joe Kraick, who all plan to work. Mary Hemmelgarn, Edgar Ridenour, and Jerry Mumma have also quit.

These committee members suggested various themes for the prom and discussed them with many seniors before making the final decision. Also, this committee will select other helpers for the various sections of the gymnasium to be decorated.

Students Offered New Scholarships

The scholarships available to all interested seniors have recently been announced by R. Nelson Snider, principal.

The Thomas J. Foley Educational Scholarship is available to only those students whose parents are employees of the Pennsylvania Railroad. This scholarship fund was created in memory of Thomas J. Foley by his late sister, Miss Celia Foley, who was a school principal of Miner School, Fort Wayne. Additional scholarships besides the original 14 are now being offered.

Each scholarship provides for a payment not to exceed $800 per year for each individual. A committee will decide if this amount is to be allotted to one person, or if it is to be shared by more than one, according to the ability of the student or students.

The Scholarship Fund provides that the recipient of the scholarship may attend the college or university of his choice.

Anyone who is eligible for this scholarship, and who is not otherwise capable of paying the tuition for college, should apply at the fourth floor of the Peoples Trust and Saving Company.

Other scholarships available are those offered by the Indiana State Schools—Ball State, Purdue, and Indiana University. These are strictly academic with the exception of music scholarships. For further information about these, and how to apply, inquire at the Guidance Office.

Dating, Allowance Top Teenage Problems; Draw Strong Parents' Views, Can Be Solved

By Debby Brooke

"Can I have the car tonight, Dad?" Does this question sound familiar to you? This question and many others similar in sound and idea are asked by practically every teenager.

Teenagers have been around for a long time, and never cease to create new problems. It is a known fact that parents and teenage sons or daughters have differences in opinions on several topics. It is vitally essential that in every home there be some compromises and agreement on several topics. Mutual consent has to be present, if there is to be harmony in the home.

In an interview with Mrs. John D. Martindale, the question arose concerning the most common problem. Mrs. Martindale said that she thought the problem of dating is about the most common. Being the mother of five daughters, she feels she knows a lot about the subject. When asked what she and her daughters disagreed the most on, she replied, "Curfew." She commented the time to be home depends mainly on the occasion.

She felt that 1 a.m. was a sufficient, if not a quite lenient, curfew. Jan and Margo, two of her teenage daughters, could not find much argument on this point. Mrs. Martindale also said the girl's parents should set the time to be home after a date and that the girl should insist on meeting this curfew.

Judging from the ages of her daughters, she also felt that seniors should have more leeway than freshmen or sophomores. Jan did not fully agree with her mother, but Margo readily agreed on this topic.

In a later interview with Mrs. Alfred Brooke, the same topic of dating was discussed. Mrs. Brooke, the mother of four daughters, felt the curfew should depend on the occasion and the age of her daughters. She strongly believes a senior should be allowed to stay out later than a freshman sister. There was some disagreement presented by her freshman daughter, but it was quickly extinguished.

Mrs. Brooke does not approve of going steady, unless the daughter, or son, has had a considerable amount of dating previously, and has established ideas concerning a suitable steady. She feels couples generally should mix and date around before going steady. In this way teenagers can get a better idea of what to look for or what he wants.

Another problem typical of teenagers is money. This is a highly controversial topic and there are many sides to it. The general idea is that teenagers should be given allowances, but definitely work for them. Both the Martindale and the Brooke families agreed that money should be given to teenagers if it is to be used for such things as lunch or transportation. Five dollars a week was considered an appropriate sum each week.

Mrs. Martindale commented that extra money could be earned by doing extra chores. Jan and Margo felt this was a fairly profitable agreement and agreed with their mother.

Mr. Brooke stated when his son was a little bigger he could earn his extra money by offering to mow the lawn or wash the car. He also hinted his daughters could pick up some extra money by washing the car the next Saturday!

In an interview with Ronnie Carlo many more viewpoints were expressed. He feels that the parents should give the teenage daughter or son his spending money, unless there are other ways he or she can earn it. He also mentioned that it should be up to the girl to set the curfew and insist on keeping it when out on a date. He feels the boy is obligated only in getting her home on time.

These are only a few of the many problems that confront today's teenagers. There seems to be no solution to some of them, but there are ways to go about solving them. Mr. Martindale suggested a family council. He mentioned the fact that it is a peaceable way of getting to the bottom of problems and usually can produce a worthwhile solution.

However, it is necessary that both the teenager and his parents be willing to listen and try to understand each other.

One last thought: your parents know what they're talking about. They were teenagers once, and had just about the same problems. Try to listen to them the next time. They may be right.

Hello there!

And how are you happy little Archers? Well, what's the latest and greatest news around the "hallowed halls?" Everything seems awfully quiet. Nobody's studying, is he?

Say, whatever happened to the word "nuh" or how ever you spell it? I really miss that happy sound. That word (?) came in rapidly and left the same way. Is there a new word to take its illustrious place? It certainly would be difficult to top.

When Susie Vesey's dad said he wanted her to get her ponytail cut, he wasn't kidding. Taking the matter and the scissors in his own hands, Mr. Vesey did the cutting himself. Rather than bother with taking the pony-tail down, he cut it straight across while up. The result? Susie's pony-tail is slightly, about four inches slightly, shorter; and Mr. Vesey has been barred from the Barbers' Union.

You know the expression "You take the cake?", well, Sharon Probst took the cake, but not for long. After Sharon and Gus Wade had surprised Gary Gardner on his birthday with a rather large cake, Sharon was carrying this gift upstairs when she lost it. The bottom fell out of her carrying tray, and because of gravity and a few other things, the cake fell, literally. Talk about surprised!! Sharon was much more surprised than Gary ever was.

I just figured out why everyone is so snowed under. Actually, I didn't figure it out, someone else did. This sage advises, "Do a little more each day than is expected of you, and pretty soon more will be expected." This leads me to conclude that if you didn't do more, you wouldn't be expected to do more, thus you would do less or the same, which means that you would be expected to do less or the same, not more, meaning that . . . oh, anyway, why don't you give up while you're ahead.

Martha Lanning is either an awfully good story-teller or her friends are terribly gullible, for Martha fed them a yarn that would be hard to swallow. She claims she was knocked unconscious for two hours and never would have come to if a little girl hadn't told her two German shepherds to lick the unconscious lass. Now of course you and I don't believe this, but Martha's friends did. Martha was trying to give some explanation as to why she was seen crawling into her house through a window. Maybe she was out of her head.

Isn't there a rule about no chewing gum in school? Well, I wonder, because when the Junior Class was decorating for the Prom, it was discovered that the tables in the teachers' lounge were laden with gum. How could that be?

Now that I've taken up your precious time, I really must run. So long!

P.S. Have a happy weekend!

Ambassador Of Pharoah Tells About Experiences With Statue

This being written in the time of Pharoah, Seti I, His Majesty Horus, the Strong Bull, Lord of the Diadem of the Vulture and the Snake, King of Upper Egypt, Son of Re, Beloved of Ptah, Offspring of Amon, and Emperor of the World from the Fourth Cataract to the Euphrates; may he always live in health, may his feet tread the necks of many conquered, may the peoples of the world bow at his rising and setting and coming and going as at the sun's.

In this time I was sent by His Majesty unto the city Thebes to ask if the new limestone figure of the Strong Bull was completed. When I inquired of the commissioner of building, Mike Simmons, and his foreman, Margo Martindale, they said that they were waiting for orders from Bob Duncan and Sue Phillips. Driving away down the road in my golden chariot, I dented the left horse on a convertible sports model. I ordered the charioteer to draw rein and discovered I had bumped into Edee White and Nick Arnold; they sued me for ten slaves in damages.

Retiring at once to the royal barge to steady my nerves I betook of a feast with Jack Winder and Diane Irmscher. After I talked with them for several hours about the preservation of sacred cats, they suggested I go on a duck-hunt with Diane Meyers and Geoff George. I would have done so, had I not discovered Dave Schwalm trying to make a mummy out of Carol Druart. When I pointed out to him that she was not yet dead, he said he was sure that the plans for the limestone statue were at the army encampment, a day's journey distant.

There I asked a general of the Egyptian Archers, Tom Bolyard, about the statue. He was about to say something when his fanbearer, Kay Augspurger, interrupted. She was sure she had seen the architects, Lynn Nieman and Dean Rice, chanting "Come Softly to Me" to a sacred crocodile. But the noble officer thought that the secret plans for the statue had been stolen by a foreign spy, George Earl (N.S.), and his treacherous ally, Judy Koontz.

The secret plans stolen? I was horrified! Anyone who watches "Shock" knows that ancient Egyptian plans are always secret. I sought help from a famous officer, Nick Demetre, but he was busy dictating letters to his scribe, Marty Clark. Driving back to Thebes, we gave Jon McCreery (Albion) a lift. He was hitch-hiking in from Cheop's tomb and had to get his formal mummy-wrappings pressed for a date with Sandy Landree. I was sorely discouraged and left Thebes to return to His Majesty.

I found the court musician Gretchen Meister playing an accompaniment for Fred Van Fossen's dancing. They warned me that the Strong Bull was in a terrible mood; he had just ordered Karen Curley and Murray Munger to be given forty lashes.

I decided to go to the Cheop's tomb to gather my thoughts. There is no place like a nice quiet tomb for collecting one's thoughts. Then I heard Mahmoud Abouzeid say to Janice Leist, "Who left the door open?" and the 10-ton stone door was slid into place over my head. So here we are.

Dreams Symbol Of Deep Desire; Protect Sleep, Provide Release

When our solid geometry is almost done, and we have to jack up our eyelids to see straight, we are bound to slam shut our books and stagger to bed. Our humming, brilliant minds have settled in sleep . . . as it seems. In the morning a sleeper will awaken to remember certain weird, nocturnal wanderings.

That same student who, only an hour before, was conquering solid geometry, is now chasing purple butterflies around the Lincoln Tower. Is this symbolic of his deep-rooted, Freudian desires? Is it perhaps, as Prof. Nathaniel Kleitman says, low-geared cortical activity? The dreamer pauses in his pursuit of purple butterflies to ask what "low-geared cortical activity" is.

The cortex is the gray matter covering the brain like an orange rind; it is slow in developing and is the first part of the brain to suffer the ravages of time. It is said that the dream process has too much in common with the thought process of the very young, the very old, and the very drunk.

Nosy scientists have been charting dreams by observing dreamers; checking their rapid eye movements, brain waves, breathing, heartbeat, and taking recordings of newly-awakened dreamers' reactions. (Let me alone!) The scientists found they could even tell when a scene in a dream was changing through REM or rapid eye movement.

Since long days past, men have sought the purpose of their dreams. In old times, it was a warning, an omen, a portent of what lay ahead. Remember the stories about Pharoah's dream of the seven fat kine and the seven lean; about Constantine's vision "In hoc signo vinces"? When an Indian boy grew to manhood, the sign of his future life was his fasting-vision. And yet other later men tell us that dreams speak of things past; that they safeguard our valuable sleep by providing a release.

Perhaps, they say, the dreams are a safety valve to destructive impulses. Some have even wondered whether dreams might not cause illnesses, such as asthma cardiac failure, crisis in ulcers, and certain coronary ailments.

To test the safety valve theory and see if people flip their lids without dreams, soldier volunteers stayed awake four to eight days. They developed dream-like hallucinations, and still others came down with psychiatric symptoms (which is getitng pretty bad). A new York disc jockey, Peter Tripp, had a 200-hour wakeathon. He, too, had hallucinations . . !

There are those who hold that mental workings go on in dreams despite Prof. Kleitman's theory that dreams are low cortical activity. They point out cases where great and wonderful accomplishments were produced through snoring. Some examples of creative snoring are Robert Louis Stevenson, famous writer, and Prof. Herman Hilprecht, famous Assyriologist. There are other types, too, who find the key to life sitting bolt upright in their dreams.

The notable example of those who receive these stupendous revelations is Mrs. Amos Pinchot. Inspired, she wrote down what was going to be the greatest of poems, but, when it was bared to the cold dawn it read:

"Hogamus Higamus
Men are Polygamous,
Higamus Hogamus,
Women Monogamous."

And now, no doubt, the faithful reader of this article is affected by a certain drowsiness, which will cause him to dream, and, in dreaming, to create far finer things than could be imagined.

Modest Proposal For Settling Berlin Crisis

Obviously, the only thing that is wrong with West Berlin is that it is in the wrong place. After all, it does inconvenience the Russians to have Allied troops smack-dab in the middle of East Germany. It seems logical, since West Berlin is in the wrong place, that the best solution to our problems would be to move West Berlin.

It has been suggested that West Berlin be carefully severed from the eastern sector of the city with air drills. After this has been done, it would be expedient to jack up the city with levers placed around the edges. Thus separated and jacked, the city would be easily fastened onto the heaviest planes in NATO's standing air force and moved to a more suitable location. Surely the Rhineland around Wiesbaden would be a good place for West Berlin.

The great inconveniences which the Soviet Union has suffered because of the location of Berlin were made clear in the West by Premier Krushchev's proposals of November 27, 1958. He so cleverly suggested that Berlin be made a free and demilitarized city and added that, after a six-month interval, Russia would give its powers to the East Germans, leaving them in charge of communications.

We flatly refused his reasonable and magnanimous idea about the freedom and demilitarization of Berlin. Wasn't it strange how we were put in a position where we either recognized the East German state or were unable to communicate with Berlin?

We then said we would be willing to discuss Berlin on a basis of German reunification. Apparently in a warm-hearted answer to this, Russia sent a draft of a German peace treaty to 27 nations (among them Red China) presenting these ideas: that Berlin be free and demilitarized, that East and West Germany, each keeping its social and economical and political (?) organization, should confederate, and that this Germany be unable to join any alliance not including the 28 signed states.

This last announcement left the West still stewing with three pickles: whether to deal with the East Germans when (and if) the Soviet Union gave them the reins, whether to parley with the Russians before May 27, and whether to think of free elections as a base for reunification.

After some pleasantly varied opinions, Nikita S. Krushchev generously declared that May 27 might not be a final deadline; reasonable negotiations could lead to an extension. Russia consented to a meeting at Geneva with the spirit of brotherhood.

At any rate, the removal of Berlin would solve all these problems and probably eliminate all differences between the friendly Soviet state and the West. There would be no need to recognize East Berlin; communications would not be hampered.

As for free elections and reunification, Berlin is really our only immediate crisis. Those other affairs will be settled some day, why bother now? Besides, after we move Berlin, the Russians will be bound to blow up the whole mess anyway . . .

Al And Peppe Russell Present Interesting Show For Teenagers

By Carole Fischer

So it's Friday or Saturday night and you've nothing to do. Then one of the gang suggests going down to "Al's Place." An outsider overhearing this conversation might easily be convinced that the younger generation has gone to the dogs, as he is certain they refer to some dive or hangout.

As any teen knows, this isn't the case. The crowd mentioned before is simply refering to the "Al Russell Show" on WGL. Al and his secretary, Peppe, provide a show which started out as a novelty and has ended up as tradition and a habit in Fort Wayne.

The success of Al's show might be summed up by "giving the kids what they want." This doesn't mean that they get away with murder, though. There are strict rules that the members have to adhere to. When Al's show started last fall, it consisted entirely of requests and dedications by phone and mail. As time passed, Peppe found herself with requests "up to her neck" and instigated her secretary's secretaries—teens who gave their time to help take care of the phone requests.

Thus began the studio visits by the kids. As the weeks flew by, the visitors increased so much that it was finally necessary to move the show into a larger studio in the station. After that, teens were invited to see the show and "Russell's Russell-ers" was created. Those who request membership receive a numbered card. A whole new and different show revolves around this card.

The first and primary point is that it restricts troublemakers. Disreputable characters and "hoods" who have proven themselves to be such are quickly dropped. Any foul play or serious horseplay means immediate forfeiture of membership.

Different kinds of contests are conducted during the show. These are open to "Russell-ers" only, the members identifying themselves by number when they call in. They consist of either dance contests, mystery songs or artists, or a certain number on your card. The prizes range all the way from Roller Derby tickets to "taking Len Davis out to dinner."

When the show started, the biggest drawing factor was, in all possibility, the crazy commercials. These commercials, such as "Instant Garbage," "Puffed Grass," and "Vile Soap," are made at the studio by Al and Peppe, with the help of numerous friends and fans. Ideas and scripts are often contributions from listeners.

Coming in contact with so many teens day after day, Al and Peppe have become great judges of character. They see teenagers in an entirely different light than teachers or parents do. "Up here," states Peppe, "the kids don't try to put on a pose as they do with others. They're surrounded by their own people, so they just let themselves go and just plain have fun."

Judging teens in general is an easy task for them, because they are so closely associated with them. Peppe says, "I would rather give my opinion of Fort Wayne teenagers only, and the only thing I care to say is, I like them!" States Al, "I agree with Peppe wholeheartedly. Here in Fort Wayne, we have the finest bunch of teenagers in the nation. I actually think that we (Fort Wayne) are setting an example for the rest of the country."

Al has only recently been converted to rock and roll. Before the show began, he had never played a rock and roll record. "In fact," laughs Al, "I used to break them!"

The show's initiation was comical, but few people know about it. Al had been playing, in Peppe's opinion, "square music." One night, exasperated Peppe asked him why he didn't play some decent music. Calling her bluff, Al disposed of the remaining records by heaving them against the studio wall and told her to find some good records.

Peppe returned with a stack of popular records and Al spun them. Half fearful of the result, they invited the listeners to call in for requests and dedications. Their fears were short-lived, for the response was terrific. Thus, Al and Peppe were established in the hearts of the teenagers and also on their radio dials.

Al and Peppe are really tops in most teenagers' book; the thousand plus "Russell's Russell-ers" prove that!

Student Regards Abe Lincoln As Great Representative To World

By Ellen Beatty

Abraham Lincoln, our symbol of the American individual, of his opportunities, of his stamina, is America's Great Representative to the world.

During the years before I was 11, Abraham Lincoln was to me what he is to most school children: Honest Abe, born in a log cabin, the sixteenth President, the martyred President who "freed the slaves." He had been placed by me in a niche along with many other vague, unreal historical figures to be approached only in reference to special facts and dates for history class.

Then I had an occasion to visit Greenfield Village, Dearborn, Mich., where the Henry Ford Foundation has preserved the court house in which Lincoln practiced law in Illinois, and the theater chair in which he was assassinated. As I walked where he had walked, closed the door he had closed innumerable times, stood before the chair stained with his blood, Abraham Lincoln came alive to me. The impression of his actuality filled me with awe, and a little of the presence he had left there I took away with me.

In recent years through reading novels, plays, and articles, all studies of Lincoln's personality, I came to know Abraham Lincoln as a real human being. Never since Jesus Christ has anyone's personality and life stirred the emotions and interest of people as has Lincoln's. Lincoln himself, his contemporaries, and what seem to be the fatalistic events that traversed the path of his life provided writers with an unending source of human interest.

Most authors treat the Lincoln saga with conjecture. There is little agreement among them as to what made him what he was.

With the history books giving us only a record of his achievements, I had the childish impression of Abraham Lincoln as the saintly example of one who never wavered in facing responsibilities to his fellow man. Another side of Mr. Lincoln was revealed to me in the words of Robert Sherwood, author of the play "Abe Lincoln in Illinois"—"He held the timid policy of 'live and let live' and 'mind your own business' until he slowly awakened to the dreadful problems of reality."

From his pictures I had always thought of Mr. Lincoln as a "man of sorrows." Some authors even parallel his life with that of Jesus Christ, having been a martyr for his convictions, having died on Good Friday, having "layed down his life for his friends." But all biographers do agree that Mr. Lincoln possessed a superlative wit and sense of humor especially in regard to himself. To learn this completed my admiration and liking for him as a human being.

One of the major subjects of controversy in the Lincoln saga is his wife, Mary Todd Lincoln. Didn't she understand his greatness? Did she only see in him the realization of her own ambitions? Was she the guiding force and inspiration to the revelation of his greatness? After reading the pro and con on her influence on Abraham Lincoln, I allowed my sympathies to lie with the much-maligned Mrs. Lincoln.

Although the common people of his time thought of Lincoln as one of them, they were unaware that his singular characteristics of face and figure, his biblical name, his great humility, his ability to put into simple yet beautiful words those nebulous thoughts we all have, psychologically produced in them a feeling of awe and of confidence.

At the age of 12, I, with my family, took a trip to Washington, D.C. On the way we visited the Gettysburg National Monument; and there the horror, as I visualized the two hostile American armies causing the "streams to run with blood," shattered my idealism of an America that could do no wrong. How could America be an inspiration to other countries? How could I be proud to be one of her representatives?

I carried my burden to the Lincoln Memorial in Washington. This awesome figure, calm, reflective, invincible, gave to me the assurance that the American ideal is safe. For although we cannot erase the blotted pages of 1861-1865, America, in compensation, can produce an Abraham Lincoln.

Ed Hartman Awarded National Scholarship

Ed Hartman

Edwin Hartman, salutatorian of this year's graduating class, was one of the 850 from the original 478,991 high school juniors who participated in the National Merit Scholarship tests to receive a scholarship.

Those who took the test last April and who placed in the ninety-ninth percentile took a semi-final test in December. Out of these, the 850 recipients were chosen.

Merit Scholarships are four-year scholarships available to seniors in high schools. The award is on a competitive basis; the recipients are selected on their ability to benefit from a college education, an important index of which is their relative scores on nation-wide tests.

The awards are made separately for each state proportionately to the senior high school population. The stipends payable to the scholar are based on need and have varied from $100 up to a maximum $1,500 a year.

The scholar may elect to attend any accredited institution and pursue any course of studies leading to one of the usual baccalaureate degrees.

The National Merit Scholarship Corporation is an independent nonprofit organization, established and supported by philanthropic foundations and by corporations. The major purposes of their program are (1) to discover, throughout the nation, our ablest youth and to provide for them the opportunity for a college education; (2) to make it easier for business enterprises and other organizations to contribute effectively to the support of higher education through scholarship grants; (3) to provide, through a single, nationwide talent search, one efficient scholarship program, thereby reducing wasteful duplication.

This year Ed has already received the Rector Scholarship to DePauw University, but since he plans to attend Haverford College, at Haverford, Pa., near Philadelphia, he could not accept it.

Maria Hilsmier, Barb Miller Work To Become Beauticians

South Side students have varied interests. Two Senior A girls attend the Fort Wayne Beauty College in their spare time. The girls are Maria Hilsmier and Barb Miller.

Barb has been attending the college since last July and Maria since last December. Maria said that the reason she started attending was, "I believe the experience can be an asset in many ways, even if I'm doing something in another field." Barb said that she was interested mainly in learning a trade.

The hours for attending the colleeg are as follows: Part-time hours are Monday, Wednesday, and Friday evenings from 4:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. and all day Saturdays. Barb attends eight hours a day when school is out and only on Saturday when there is school. Maria attends when she is free as far as homework is concerned.

There are no definite requirements for attending the Fort Wayne Beauty College. The only ones are that you must be at least 17 years of age, you must be in good health, you must give 1,000 hours to the course, and you must pass the state board test. The state board test is at Indianapolis and is taken to receive a license to practice beauty culture. "There is no one standing over a student to tell him what to do and to study. A student receives just what he puts into it," answered Maria.

A student must attend classes one day a week. He may begin attending at any time in the year and starts wherever the class is at that time. The classes are divided into a primary class and an advanced class for part-time students. When graduated from the Fort Wayne college the student may attend the advanced courses offered in such places as Chicago and New York. The expenses of the course include $250 and the purchase of your own tools.

# # #

WHILE ATTENDING the college, the student learns styling, tinting, how to give permanents, cutting hair, facials, manicuring, diseases of the head, pedicuring, chemistry, leg massage, anatomy, and physiology.

Neither Maria nor Barb has any idea about the number of students attending the college. Maria doesn't think that there are over 10 men now attending. The ages of the students range from 17 to about 45.

Barb is especially interested in styling hair and giving permanents. Maria said, "Right now I am concerned with the practical side of the college. I plan to concentrate more on the theory after I graduate from high school. I really don't give much time to the college now." Both girls recommend the college to others and they both intend to go on in this field.

When asked the advantages of the college, Barb replied, "This knowledge leaves you with a lifetime job no matter where you go. It makes it possible to have a small shop in your home." Maria answered, "One may find the experience gained at the college useful in many ways. For instance, many students obtain a license to work their way through college."

Besides attending the college, both girls are interested in other things. Maria is on the College Preparatory Course and Barb is on the Merchandising Course.

During her four years at South, Maria has been in Meterites, Philo, where she was a sergeant-at-arms, 36 Workshop, Times 1500 Club, Times writer, and Wranglers. At the present time she is co-circulation manager of the Totem, a Times agent, and belongs to the Service Club. Barb has been a majorette.

"Top Fifty" is Barb's favorite radio program and Bob Chase is her favorite disc jockey. Barb's favorite singer is Pat Boone. Her favorite songs include "Three Stars," "For a Penny," and "Someone." She also enjoys "American Bandstand."

Maria's choice of a disc jockey is Al Russell. She said, "I think he is a novelty!" Her favorite songs are "My Happiness" and "Enchanted."

Fried chicken, French fried onion rings, and hamburgers are some of Barb's favorite foods. Maria likes strawberries and olives, but not together.

# # #

BARB ENJOYS dancing and roller skating and ice skating. Her favorite sports are hockey and basketball. Maria enjoys reading. Her favorite singer is Tommy Edwards. Maria enjoys his easy style.

When asked who her favorite athlete is, Barb replied, "My favorite is Gus Braumberger who plays on the Fort Wayne Komets." The reason she likes him is that she is going steady with him.

Maria believes that her diploma will be her favorite memory of South. "It can serve to remind me of the countless other memories received from high school." Barb's favorite memory is of the Archers going to State and winning.

Plans for the future include going on in the study of cosmetology for Maria. She stated, "I don't want to be just mediocre, but a high-fashion hair stylist." She may attend some other college at some time in the future.

Barb's plans, as she said, are "After school I'm going to finish my Beauty Course and like every girl hope to marry some day."

Maria said, "I believe South has top-notch teachers to provide students with the opportunity to get the very best high school education. I think South offers a wide range of extra-curricular activities which are organized to give students the full benefit."

Both of these senior girls have made good use of their time. They have a future ahead of them. The Fort Wayne Beauty College has had a great deal to do with their lives now and with their future plans. Both girls stated that it has been a worthwhile experience.

Homeroom 156 High Bankers

As summer draws nearer, the swimming suit bug starts twitching and bathing suits are bought by the carloads. Proving this theory were the students who banked the total of $219.80.

The homeroom that bought the most red striped suits was Room 156 under Miss Lutie Young. They contributed $43.35. Blue plaid suits were the objective of Miss Barbara Leif's Room 79 and their $33. Third choice for $22.25 was a green print which was chosen by Miss Mary Crowe and Homeroom 142.

Bill Geyer Will Leave South Side To Be Elmhurst Basketball Coach

Returns To Trojans; Now Part Of FWCS After Lapse Of Four Years

By Bob King

Assistant Coach Bill Geyer will leave Archerland to take up again the duties as head basketball coach of Elmhurst's Trojans next semester. He will also be the athletic director there. Geyer replaces John Petrick, who turned in his resignation to Superintendent of Schools Aaron T. Lindley, May 6.

The switch is quite unique in that Geyer returns to Elmhurst after having been replaced by Petrick four years earlier at the Trojan post. Geyer left the school, then county, in the fall of 1955 to accept a position in the city school system at South. Petrick has been at the Trojan helm since the 1955-56 season.

Bill Geyer

Petrick compiled a 37-51 won-lost record during his four years as head boss. His resignation came after a losing season with a team that was predicted to go places.

* * *

GEYER IS A South Side and Butler University graduate. Before moving to Elmhurst in 1951, he coached at Pike Township near Indianapolis. Coach Geyer has served as an assistant in all three major sports at South, having been reserve basketball coach for all four years. He has coached frosh and reserve football squads and South's reserve track teams. He also served as a basketball and football scout.

Geyer's reserve basketball squads have never had a losing season; his 1956-57 team, which included Chris Stavreti and Dave Matthias, was beaten only once.

A Times reporter interviewed Coach Geyer, and he had several comments concerning his stay at South. He has taught at two other schools and feels that he can "really appreciate South."

The coach commended South's athletic staff and faculty and stated that "the students probably will never fully appreciate the two until they enter college."

He also said, "I have certainly enjoyed my stay at South. The kids here are tops, and the parents have been swell."

* * *

HIS COACHING at South also drew comment from Geyer. "The athletes have had real good attitudes and desire; most of all, they have been good kids," he said. He also added, "We have had a lot of fun. I think that we would have had fun even if we didn't have success because we have been in contact with fine parents and good kids."

Certainly all the student body and the faculty wish Coach Geyer good luck in his new job. Elmhurst will be in City Series basketball competition next winter and Geyer naturally enters a tough assignment.

Ed Hartman, Win Moses, Tom Bolyard, Joe Roth, Jim Dawson, Tom Duff (he qualified in two events) and Bob Shine, along with the mile relay, made the grade for the second week of competition on the way to the State Finals in Indianapolis, Saturday, May 23.

The only sad note in the 10-event qualification for the Archers was the narrow mark in several events. Coming closest to not clearing the first "hurdle" was South's talked-about mile relay squad. The four-man team boasting a 3:31.0 time earlier in the year, had to rely on a tremendous finish by Joe Roth for a one-tenth of a second victory over Dave Vanderbosch and Garrett. North Side went on to rip off the distance in 3:31.0 to take first place in the event the Archers were favored to capture.

* * *

Tom Duff earned a Regional berth in the 100 and 220-yard dashes, but again was the fourth man, last to qualify. For Duff, who is only a sophomore, fourth place is most encouraging; however, his fourth in both events didn't add a lot of pep to the scoring column.

* * *

Even usually consistent Jim Dawson lost out to Jerry Jacquay of New Haven in the shot put. Jacquay tossed the metal sphere 48 feet, 8 inches, to better Dawson's heave of 48 feet, 4½ inches.

* * *

Only Joe Roth presented Archer fans with much to cheer about. Joe put on a beautiful exhibition in the 880 to nip Terry Henline of Central and Tom Stanski of North Side in the second heat. His 2:02.7 was good enough to capture the event from first heat winner Steve Hibler, who passed South's Tom Bolyard at the end of the first lap and went home to record an excellent half-mile in 2:03.3.

* * *

By beating Bolyard, who failed to qualify for Regionals in his specialty, Hibler dethroned the defending Sectional champ.

* * *

From all indications in Friday evening's affair, it appears that only Joe Roth has enough to carry to the State Finals. Should Bill Lentz be able to run in the mile relay from which he was scratched because of a back ailmen, perhaps that quartet could carry home the ribbons from the Regional meet.

* * *

One consolation Archer fans and coaches have is thinking about the track team of '61. With the fine group of sophomores performing for the Green this year, a good season seems in store when these lads are in their senior year.

* * *

Attracting the most pre-meet attention was the duel between Concordia's Steve Hibler and Central's Henry King. Hibler, the slight favorite, won the event in a fine time of 4:31.2, a good four seconds ahead of King.

* * *

The outcome is not entirely descriptive of the race. First of all, due to the big field, all the front runners at one time or another had difficulties in keeping in stride because of the congested track. Hibler's time could have been anywhere to two seconds better had he not been boxed for the first 330 yards and for a few yards early in the fourth lap.

* * *

On the other hand, had Hibler not been gifted with a box that caught Henry King on the last lap, Hibler may have had a race on his hands. Going into the final lap Ed Hartman and Pete Poorman were running neck and neck in the lead with King a stride behind attempting to bust through. Several more steps back was Hibler.

* * *

By the time King cut into the open Hibler had built up a substantial lead. King almost lost to Poorman at the finish. Ed Hartman, who ran a beautiful race for three laps, couldn't contend with the fast pace set by the leaders in the last trip around and consequently finished a strong fourth.

* * *

The most unusual feature of the night was the "draw" for heats. This corner noticed some interesting matches in time trials and the two heat long distance runs.

* * *

The four qualifiers in the mile all drew into the same heat. The fans thus were given their expected King vs. Hibler match, and the Bolyard vs. Hibler duel.

* * *

Three of the four half-mile victors were in the same heat. The three top hurdlers in the meet all drew into the same trial heat of the high hurdles and South's Win Moses was deprived of a chance in the final run because he drew into the tough heat.

* * *

Coach Bob Gernand, who took his Kelly squad into the meet minus a couple of lads who would undoubtedly have added a few points to the Archer point total, received another hard blow before the meet when he learned that Bill Lentz would be unable to run in the Archers' specialty—the mile relay.

* * *

Another disappointment was the failure of Don Eisenacher and Gary Gardner to draw a Regional berth. The two were part of an 11-way tie for fourth in the pole vault which was awarded to Kinnard Kniss of North Side.

* * *

North Side by qualifying a large outfit looms as a strong threat to take the crown held jointly by Kokomo and South Side. However, Elkhart on the strength of a tremendously balanced squad, should capture the Regional meet and will be favored to do so before meet time Saturday.

Frosh Thinlies Lose To North

Rounding out the 1959 season on a sad note, the South Side freshman thinlies dropped a 67-42 decision to North Side last Tuesday at Northrop Field. It was the Archers' first loss in dual competition after rolling up five straight triumphs.

Coach Don Reichert's boys need not feel ashamed with their final showing. The Redskins looked entirely changed from the aggregation that placed a poor fourth as host of the Freshman Relays.

Chief factor was 17-year-old Don Cromwell, who eked out wins in both dashes to be the meet's only double winner.

Bowman Bandemer's 100-yard dash string was snapped at five straight by Cromwell's 11.1 performance. By posting a 24.6 furlong time, the North Sider broke Meek's four-race streak.

THESE DASHES, the broad jump, and the shot put were decided by inches. In each case South was nosed out. Shot-putter Harter missed victory by four inches in his event; Norment broad jumped two inches behind the Redskin victor as again Lady Luck frowned on the Archer cause.

North gained tremendously on their cross-town rivals in the field events. They captured all three places in the high jump, and first and second spots in both the shot put and broad jump.

The only bright spot for South was John Weaver's fine nine-foot victory in the pole vault. However, two Redskins tied for second to dampen the Archer enthusiasm.

Tom Frazell continued his fine running by winning the 440 in 56.8 seconds. Teammate Robinson returned to action and won a fast 2:18.1 half-mile.

South's fourth individual blue ribbon came from Nate Norment, who skimmed the high hurdles in 17.6 seconds. Acker, Bandemer, Meek, and he beat the Redskin half-mile relay quartet by a step with a good 1:42.2 clocking.

Eyes opened when North's mile baton men dashed to a fine 3:58.1 victory. Little Ted Summers snapped off a 5:10.7 mile victory to add five more points to the Redskin total.

Tennis Squad Trounces North, Falls To Irish

Kellys Win Every Match From Redskins; Nipped By C,C. By One Point

South Side's tennis squad broke even last week, losing to Central Catholic, 4-3, and easily defeating North Side, 7-0.

The Archers, without the services of senior John Meyerholz, were nipped Monday by the Irish at Lafayette Park. South's first two players, Dick McGaw and Steve Meyers, combined to give the Green their three victories. Both won their respective singles matches easily and then returned to capture their doubles match.

Thursday was a different story for the Kellys as they trounced North's Redskins by a 7-0 count. The 'Skins made a very poor showing, although their regular tennis season is during the fall, mostly in conference play.

Tomorrow's Regional Contest To Feature Top Track Talent

Eight Thinlies, Ace Mile Relay To Enter Meet

South, Kokomo Wildcats Are Defending Champs; Meet At Northrop Field

Those who think they saw a good track meet last Friday have a treat in store for them, that being the Regionals at Northrop Field tomorrow at 3 p.m.

Track talent will be present in droves as some of the best prep stars in the state will make an appearance. Northrop Field will draw winners from Fort Wayne, Elkhart, Kokomo, and Huntington Sectionals.

Defending champs, South Side and Kokomo, have the odds against them in retaining their titles, as both lost their respective Sectionals.

Some of the principals are Chuck Fawcett of Kokomo, defending broad jump champion; Ted Jackson of Elkhart, holder of the all-time Indiana broad jump mark (24 feet, ½ inch); Bob Held of Elkhart, who holds the best 220-yard time in the state (22.1 seconds); and Jack Hallenbeck of North Side, with the best high hurdle time (14.8 seconds).

Many eyes will probably be turned to the pole vaulting area as two very fine vaulters will be staging quite a battle. Steve Overton, Kokomo star, won his Sectional in fine fashion with a 12-foot, 6-inch vault; however, there is a boy from Warsaw, Larry Ruch, who has soared 12 feet, 9 inches this year for the state high.

One of the high points of the meet will be the mile run or dash to those who saw the Fort Wayne Sectional. Steve Hibler leads the pack, but will have to contend with Henry King, 17-year-old freshman from Central, Chuck Umbarger of Elkhart, Mike Munson of Warsaw, Pete Poorman of North Side, and Ed Hartman of South Side. All have broken 4:40 this year.

South Side will be well represented in the meet with Bob Shine, fine sophomore, in the 440-yard dash; Joe Roth, who won the Fort Wayne Sectional, in the 880-yard run; Tom Bolyard in the broad jump, Jim Dawson in the shot put, and the crack mile relay team.

All in all, the meet should be a great one with all the excitement and thrills that go with the sport of track.

South Side Cindermen Take Third Place In Sectional Track Meet

By Jim Carter

Forced to relinquish their sectional crown to North Side last Friday, the South Side cindermen nevertheless succeeded in placing third with 28 2/11 points. Central took second place to give Fort Wayne city schools a monopoly on high finishes.

Rolla Chambers' Redskins piled up 51 2/11 points to the Tigers' 38 38/55 largely on the strength of their victories in both relays. The Kelly mile relay team had the best pre-Sectional time, as did Central in the 880-yard baton event. The Redskins, however, running in different heats than the favorite in both events, bettered both their times.

The only double winner of the meet was North's hurdler extraordinary, Jack Hallenbeck, who won both of his specialties. His 14.8 time in the high sticks was a state best this season, but that was the closest anyone came to touching a meet record.

THE KELLY'S BEST hurdler, Win Moses drew into the same trial heat as did Hallenbeck and Central's Cal Thomas. He was defeated by both of these stars, and consequently, South Side did not have an entrant in the finals, won by Hallenbeck.

The next event was the mile, and this was one of the feature attractions of the meet. Competing were Concordia's undefeated Steve Hibler, Central's unpredictable freshman, Henry King, North's Pete Poorman, and South's Ed Hartman. King was trapped in a box during the early laps of the race, and this was probably the cause of his loss. He lagged far behind Hibler in the third lap, and when the Cadet started his fabled sprint 300 yards from the tape, the Tiger was left well behind. Hibler's time was a fine 4:31.2. King was in at 4:35.2, with Poorman close on his heels with 4:35.3. The fourth qualifier was Hartman, at 4:41.4.

South's lone entrant in the 100-yard dash was sophomore Tom Duff. The century was swept by two Redskins, Dale Zumbaugh and Jack Arney. Zumbaugh's winning time was 10.5. Third place went to Tiger Dave Stewart, and Duff snared a fourth.

In the 440-yard dash only three runners could qualify for next week's Regional. The Archer entrant in this event was sophomore Bob Shine. He won the third heat in 53.1 seconds, the best time of the season for a South Sider. However, Mike Poorman with a 51.7, and Dave Vanderbosch of Garrett, bettered his time, and he only qualified third.

THE RACE TO watch in the 880-yard run was presented to be between defending champion Tom Bolyard of South and Concordia's one-man track team, Steve Hibler. Hibler beat Bolyard decisively this time, 2:03.2 to Tom's 2:07.4. However, the real crowd-pleaser was the next heat, involving a close heat between Joe Roth of South, Terry Henline of Central, and Tom Stanski of North. Roth won the thriller in 2:02.7, and the others were close behind with 2:03.5 and 2:08.6, respectively. These times were all better than Bolyard's and since only the four top times qualify, the 1958 Regional 880 champion will not be running in that event tomorrow.

In the 220-yard dash Central carried off most of the points, with Tharnell Hollins taking first and Stewart third. North's flash, Zumbaugh, won second, and Tom Duff placed fourth to qualify.

In the 180-yard low hurdles, Moses, who did not qualify for the highs, opened many eyes by beating out Thomas to take second place behind Hallenbeck. The winner's time was 20.2 seconds.

JERRY JACQUAY of New Haven was the victor in the shot put, edging South's sophomore star, Jim Dawson. The winning put was 48-8, only 3½ inches better than Dawson's heave, and less than his season's best.

The odd collection of fractional points was caused by the high jump and the pole vault. The former was won by Tiger Larry Crosby at a comparatively low 5-9, and Jim Getts of Garrett took second at 5-8. There was a five-way tie for third, but no Kellys were involved.

The pole vault was even more crowded. The eventual winner was Bill Croy of Auburn at 11-2½, with Getts second. Eleven vaulters tied for fourth at 10-6, among them Archers Gary Gardner and Don Eisenacher. However, these boys lost the draw for the one Regional slot.

THE BROAD JUMP was won by favorite T. C. Williams of Central at 20-3¼. Tom Bolyard qualified here, taking third with a jump of 19-9½.

In the mile relay Archer anchorman Joe Roth fought off a tremendous challenge by Garrett's Vanderbosch to win the heat in 3:34.2, one-tenth ahead of the Railroader. This one-tenth of a second proved to be the margin that determined qualification, as North's baton quartet, unpushed by opponents, turned in a sensational 3:31.0 to win the event.

Much the same thing happened in the half-mile relay. Central's favored Tigers won the first heat in 1:33.6 over the Archers' 1:34.8. The Redskins then came back to breeze off with the next heat, the event title, and the Sectional team championship with 1:32.8.

North led the qualifications with 11 individuals and both relay teams. Central qualified nine men and South eight, and each placed one relay team.

Senior Half-Miler, Joe Roth, Cops Sectional Championship

In his third try, Archer Joe Roth finally copped a Sectional championship in track as he took home the blue ribbon in the half-mile, winning in the good time of 2:02.7. Joe also was the key man for South, second place in the mile as he beat Garrett's runner in the last few yards.

The year 1957 was the first time Joe (he was a sophomore then) ran in the Sectionals, competing in the 440-yard dash. But this was the year when North's Lundell and Central's Kelso dominated this event, and therefore Roth could do no better than try.

Last year he tried again, this time with much more success. He placed fourth in the quarter-mile, and although he did not qualify for the Regionals, it was a great success for the Archers.

The 1959 track season was a season of triumph for Joe after running the quarter-mile in early meets. Archer mentor Bob Gernand switched him to the half-mile. He soon showed that this was a good decision as Joe ran a 2:02.1 half-mile on the 2-mile relay in the North Side Relays.

But this was not all. His day came in the Kokomo Relays. He not only placed second in the 1,000-yard run, but he ran an unprecedented, although unofficial, 1:57.3 half-mile in the Medley Relay.

In the meanwhile, Joe showed that he had not yet lost his speed as a quarter-miler as he placed third in the Lima Spartan Relays in the fine time of 52.6 seconds.

On May 8 at Northrop Field the muscular Archer climaxed his career by beating Henline of Central and Stanski of North in the half-mile.

"I was very happy that I won that race," commented Joe. Asked what he thought about the coming Regionals, he said, "Well, I don't know if the competition will be very tough there, but I sure will try."

About the chances of South's mile relay he said, "We placed fourth in the state last year, and competition is a lot tougher this year, but if everybody does his best and stays in shape we might come up with a surprise."

He may have reached the climax of his high school career last Friday, but all fans hope that Joe will lead the Archers and especially the relay team to new victories in the weeks to come.

Elkhart Takes First In Meet

15 Sectionals In State Qualify Regional Men

Fifteen Sectional meets were brought to a close last Friday and Saturday in preparation for the coming Regional contests.

The biggest winner of last week end was the Elkhart Blue Blazer team in its own Sectional, scoring 90 points and qualifying 19 individuals and both relay teams. Muncie Central and South Bend Central, the defending champion, were second and third biggest winners, respectively.

J. D. Smith of Gary Froebel and Steve Shackle of Indianapolis Howe grabbed top honors in the 100-yard dash with times of 10 seconds.

Joe Phillips of Gary Roosevelt took the 440-yard dash in 50.4 seconds, equaling the season's best posted by Richard Green of South Bend Central. Joe Davis of Attica became the first half-miler to break two minutes this season, taking the Terre Haute meet in 1:59.9 seconds.

THE TOP MILE of the week end was run by Don House of Concannon in 4:29.8. The Fort Wayne Regional will provide the most action in the mile with Chuck Umbarger of Elkhart (4:35.9), Henry King (4:32.2), Mike Munson of Warsaw (4:38), and Steve Hibler, the defending Regional champion.

Jack Hallenbeck of North, in taking the high hurdles in 14.8 seconds, posted the best time of the season in that event. Larry Manlove of Richmond won the low hurdles in 19.9 seconds.

Charles Peterson of Indianapolis Tech won the broad jump with a 22-foot, 4-inch jump, although Chuck Fawcett, defending State champion, and Ted Jackson, 23 feet, ½ inch this year and all time Indiana record holder with a 24-foot, ½-inch jump, will provide much competition.

TOM HUTCHINSON and Larry Kraft of New Albany and Bob Welch of Jeffersonville tied for top spot in the high jump with leaps of 6 feet, 2¼ inches. In the shot put, Elliott Uzelac of Gary Tolleston threw 53 feet, 11½ inches for top spot. Steve Overton of Kokomo jumped 12 feet, 6 inches in the pole vault, but Larry Rush of Warsaw, the top season jumper with a 12-foot, 9-inch jump, won the Huntington Sectional with an even 12-foot jump.

Gary Roosevelt's mile relay team won top spot with a 3:28.9 clocking in that race, while South Bend Central's group broke the Mishawaka record with a 3:30.2 time. Gary Froebel's half-mile relay team took their race in 1:31 while North Side's foursome took that event in 1:32.8.

Frosh GAA Finish Softball Tourney

Friday night in Freshman GAA softball, Team 3 and 4 beat Team 1 and 3. The score was 9-8. Team 2 won the tournament for softball.

Those who made runs for Team 2 and 4 were Ginny Kachiamenis, Jennifer Slater, Pam Buzzards, Sondra McKee, Jane Ladig, Nancy Nichols, Susan Merchant, Cheryl Hall, and Alice Bailey.

Florence Stevenson, Jane Prill, Marvina VanSkyock, Ann Hechler, Sandy Heidbrink, Janice Nahrwold, and Marilyn Marschand made runs for Team 1 and 3.

Carol Hofer was the umpire and Alberta Bonnell kept score. Freshman GAA is sponsored by Miss Helen Pohlmeyer.

12B Steve Meyers Scores Timely Wins For Tennis Squad

Steve Meyers, the number two man on the South Side tennis team, has shown his worth to the squad by his timely wins in singles matches and his excellent play in doubles competition with Dick McGaw.

Steve is a Senior ■ and has been on the team since his Sophomore ■ year. He has been a member of the varsity squad for two years and will be an important factor for a good tennis season next year.

Steve feels that Peru and Muncie Burris are the toughest out-of-town opponents and that the Central Catholic squad is the toughest city foe.

Steve takes government, trigonometry, English, Latin, and chemistry, and is making plans to go to Purdue University. There Steve would like to continue in his tennis career.

Steve feels that tennis coach, Mr. Havens, has done a great job in view of poor tennis facilities. He said, "The team has fared well throughout the season, but I would like to see more fans at the meets."

Archer Seniors Look Ahead To Baccalaureate, Graduation

Baccalaureate Speech To Be By Rev. Petznik

Public School Seniors To Attend; Joint Choir To Provide Music

Rev. Erwin Petznik, pastor of the Evangelical and First Brethren Church, will give a sermon entitled "Using What You Have" at the Baccalaureate services to be held May 31 at the Coliseum. In regard to his presentation, Rev. Petznik stated, "I will stress the importance of taking what is given us and dedicating it to the high purpose for which life is made."

Senior class officers of the three schools participating in the Joint Baccalaureate exercises, Central, South Side, and North Side, met recently With Mr. O. Dale Robertson, principal of North Side, who is in charge of this year's services, and chose Rev. Petznik as the speaker for the occasion.

Between 1,000 and 1,100 South Side, Central, and North Side seniors will take part in the third annual Joint Baccalaureate assembly at the Coliseum.

Mr. Aaron T. Lindley, superintendent of Public Schools, stated, "Since Baccalaureate is a religious assembly whose purpose is realizing the growth and necessities in the development of an individual as a part of education, I think it appropriate for Baccalaureate to be held in a joint session, because it brings the various schools together for a common purpose."

South Side seniors will be seated at the west end of the Coliseum floor; Central will be in the center; and North Side will occupy seats on the eastern section of the floor. Although the parents are assigned no particular seats, in previous years they have seated themselves in the section nearest their child's section.

A choir composed of singers from the three high schools, under the direction of the North Side choir director, Miss Jeanette Rich, will provide the music for the Baccalaureate service.

New Classrooms, Repairs Planned

The library will be moved from its present location to Room 114 during the summer months. Due to this move, several new classrooms will be added to South Side. Miss Rehorst's present room will be converted into a regular classroom.

The old cafeteria will be divided into a normal classroom and a special section for teachers. This section will include a teachers' lounge and a series of small conference rooms to be used by the floating teachers during their off periods.

Another section to undergo changes will be the south section of school. This section will have roof repairs.

1959 Totems Come Out Today

"The color of the 1959 Totem is unusual," commented Alice Weddle, Totem editor. "I think that this is the first time this particular color has been used in the history of the Totem," continued Alice.

As usual the actual color of the Totem was not revealed until the day when the Totems are being distributed.

Totems will be given out during study periods. Students not having study periods may get their Totems in the old cafeteria kitchen after school.

Barb Miser and Maria Hilsmier, co-circulation editors, reported that 1,824 Totems were sold and that 1,768 of the Totems purchased have the student's name embossed in gold on the cover.

The 128-page Totem features a special section on the new addition. The section follows the growth of the building from the ground-breaking ceremonies to the dedication.

The editor of the Totem makes the layout or pattern of the pictures. The layouts are then sent to the Lincoln Engravers. The books then come back to South Side where Mr. Harkenrider makes up the book. Then Didier Printers print the book. The covers are made in Chicago, the names are also embossed there. The books are scheduled to arrive at South Side on Wednesday, May 20, when they will be unpacked.

Due to the illness of Mr. Lowell Coats, Mrs. Evlyn Spray is taking over this class. She also will be teaching summer school at Central, causing the change in time.

"The class will begin June 8 and will continue for five weeks at the total cost of $20, provided there are enough students to justify a class," stated Mrs. Spray.

Anyone already in high school is eligible to enroll; however, juniors and seniors are preferred. If students who have signed for the morning class wish to withdraw, the office should be notified immediately. Other students who wish to enroll in the Developmental Reading class may sign up in the office this week.

Latin Derivatives

Bacchic pertains to Bacchus, god of wine and revelry, or to his festivals, hence, a riotous, noisy merry-making.

Siren is a woman who sings sweetly or a device used to produce a shill sound. In myths a siren was a sea nymph, half bird, and half woman, who had the power of charming all who heard her with songs.

Hypnotic pertains to, or produces artificial sleep. Hypnos was the Greek god of sleep; therefore, the word hypnotic was derived from his name.

Morphine is a drug used to deaden pain or to produce sleep. In myths, Morpheus was the guardian of dreams.

Tantalize is to tease by keeping something desired in view, but just out of reach. The word tantalize is taken from the name of a king who was tortured by food suspended over his head, but just out of reach, and having water which receded when he tried to drink it. Tantalus, the king's name, suffered constant hunger and thirst, but was unable to satisfy his wants.

Lethargy is a lack of interest, listlessness. In tales of ancient people, Lethe was the river of Forgetfulness.

Mercury is a heavy, liquid silver-white metal. In myths Mercury was the messenger of the gods.

Chocolate Malt Causes Sleeper Who Dreams Of Kelly Couples

I dragged myself into the living room and sank wearily onto the couch. Oh, how perfectly divine it would be to sleep for a couple of million centuries. It seemed as though something was always happening to rob me of the precious beauty rest which I so desperately needed.

Suddenly I felt my body relax and a state of oblivion slowly swept over me. That fateful afternoon I had a very strange dream.

I shall never be able to explain the origin of this fantasy. The delicious chocolate malt I had thoroughly enjoyed before I decided to catch some shut-eye must be the fly in the ointment.

# # #

I HAD LOST ALL resemblance of a human being. The only characteristics of a body that remained were one purple eye and a pair of legs, no bigger than pinpoints, on which I stood.

I found myself on a strange avenue. Since I didn't know which street my miniature legs had carried me to, I climbed up the sign pole to make an investigation.

I was trying to distinguish the letters on the poorly-written sign when the sound of chattering voices caught my hearing rays. I turned just in time to see Jon McCreery and Sandy Landree stroll by.

That sign was in no condition to be read. Later I found out that Max Lane and Cindy Hart had painted it during fifth period.

# # #

WARILY I DESCENDED my perch and started walking. I decided to enter a monstrous catacomb that strongly resembled South Side. Opening the door was quite a problem. I managed to squeeze through, however, and let it close behind me. Then I discovered that my eyelash was caught in the door. I was wondering what to do next when Fred VanFossen and Gretchen Meister opened it and released me.

Yes, I had come to South Side, all right. I could tell from the mildewed-look of the chemistry lab. The terrible fumes from this room made my eye water so much that I almost missed seeing Jan Dedman and Tom White go by.

I was going to Room 4 to escape the bad odor when I collided with Sue Siebel and Kenny Howe. They didn't even notice me.

# # #

WELL, I THOUGHT, I might as well meander over to the gym and see what was going on. I had just made my way up the ramp when Marty Clark and Nick Demetre slid past me.

After reaching the gym, I made myself comfortable on Barb Fredericks' books which were being held by Dave Stapleton. As soon as I was situated, the bell rang and they both jumped up and I rolled to the floor.

I was dislodging the dust particles from myself when Peggy Saalfrank and Rex Armey nearly knocked me down again.

This was too much. Maybe I wasn't going to get out of here alive. Taking my courage in hand, I made one final effort to retreat. This time I made it.

# # #

I THOUGHT IT was about time for a water break. I was enjoying a cool drink from one of the fountains that don't give much pressure. Just then Barb Collier and John Brown, Albion, turned on the other spicket full force.

It looked like I was even being deprived of water. Tears of grief began trickling down my lash. Carolyn King and Bill Campbell didn't even lend me a handkerchief as they hurried away.

Where could I seek refuge? I was searching for a quiet nook while Janet Liest and Mahmoud Abouzeid recited Egyptian poetry in an obscure corner.

# # #

I FELT LIKE taking a walk around the premises. Again I managed to wriggle through the door. This time I took my eyelash with me. I happened to mosey over to the Athletic Field. What? Could it be? Linda Hard and Dieter Hillerbrand were taking out time from Dieter's history assignment to learn all about the fascinating sport of baseball.

In order to get over the effects of this shock, I wandered over to see how the new shrubbery was growing. Bev Liggett and Bob Rice were carefully inspecting it. It looked like Bev was trying to pile up brownie points for Mr. Weber.

I had decided to vacate the premises when Fred Smith, Angola, and Sue Springer were the straw that broke the camel's back. They hurled a rock at me.

Fortunately, at this moment, I awoke.

Does this story have a moral? No. The only conclusion that can be drawn is that the next time I go to bed I'll eat a sundae first.

Kellys Tell Reaction To Being Expelled

Since school is coming to a close and this is the last Times issue (sob!), it was decided to take a poll asking Archers what they would say if they were expelled.

Stan Rupnow: Hot dog.

Nick Miller: With mustard and onions.

Joe Roth: So what else is new?

Dick McGaw: Well, there's always college.

Beth Curley: Anyone for tennis?

Dan O'Bryant: Best thing that ever happened to me all day.

Diane DeVincent: Gad! Not again!

Cindy Miller: Sob!! I want my mommy!

Carolyn Hickman: There's always Central!

Ann Erickson: Goodbye.

Pam Olson: West Point, here I come.

Diane Irmscher: Golf, anyone?

Sally Capps: You can't win 'em all.

Gretch Meister: I'd go home and wash the green ink out of my hair like I did the last time.

Lesley Malone and David Dill: We'd go over to Miller's and think up answers for Times polls.

Jeannie Carroll: Sol E. Wood, here I come.

Susie Scott: I'd go home and go to bed.

Barb Steiner: Well . . .

John Mader: Hallelujah!

Posy's Pointers

By Posy Weilemann

Dear Posy,
I'm only 15, but I think I'm in love with the boy I used to go with. The reason we aren't dating anymore is that I wouldn't go steady with him. For a long time he wouldn't speak to me, but now he does, once-in-a-while. He told a friend of mine that he wants to hurt me like I hurt him. I've tried to go with other boys, but it just doesn't work. Should I give in to him?

Loco

Dear Loco,
If you don't believe in going steady, don't let him force you into it. If you do, and you decide to go steady, you might subconsciously hold it against him if things go wrong. Then you'd feel a lot worse than you do now. Maybe before long he'll realize how stubborn he is and ask you out again. Keep your fingers crossed!

Posy

Dear Posy,
Due to circumstances beyond my control in the library, there is a certain junior boy who punches holes in my Times. This is getting to be very frustrating. What should I do?

Wire

Dear Wire,
Why not buy an extra subscription to the Times! It would sure help circulation.

Posy

Dear Posy,
Last summer when I was at the lake, I went with a darling boy. We've written each other quite frequently during the winter and plan to see each other again this summer. The problem is that last summer I had my hair bleached platinum.

During the winter it has grown back to its natural color . . . dishwater blond. This boy didn't know my hair was bleached and often commented on how much he liked the color of my hair. I'm scared to death to have him see it the way it is now. I'm afraid he won't date me (P.S. Having it bleached again is out of the question. My beautician says it will ruin it.) I need help!

Proxy

Dear Proxy,
What did this boy date all summer? You or your hair! If he's half as great as you say, he won't mind a bit. If he's childish enough to let your hair make any difference, he isn't worth dating.

Posy

Dear Posy,
Last summer I met a fabulous guy. Since we shared many of the same interests, we began seeing each other. Although he pays quite a bit of attention to me, he never gets around to asking me out for a real date. I know it isn't another girl. Money is no problem either, because he receives an adequate allowance. To sum it all up, he prefers the company of his hi-fi to a date. I wouldn't mind competing with a dame, but a hi-fi is ridiculous!

Stay At Home

Dear Stay At Home,
Why not buy some hi-fi records and ask him to come over and listen to them with you?

Senior Couples Wind Up Year By Decorating, Planning Prom

They're in a whirl again! Just try and slow them down. The Senior Class of 1959 is drawing their four years to a close with a big bang. Nancy Hickman and Linda Wightman, co-chairmen of the Senior Prom, are scurrying around—calling their committee heads together. In Room 70, Carl Schaeffer and Bill Meyer, class president, are conferring with Mr. Jake McClure about the canopy for the gym. Bill Graft (Purdue), Bob Bryan (C.), Janet McClain, and Diane Reiff argue that the poor canvas won't survive another dance.

What's this? Here comes Nancy Bailey in tears. Looks as though John Meyerholz missed the nail and let the hammer come down on her finger. But, why worry—Carol Lytle and Cheryl Habecker are rushing to assist her. Seems as though they left Adrian Merin (Ind. Tech.) and Dave Meeks (Purdue) stranded in the hall to play the role of "Florence Nightingale."

Phyllis Springer and Vallory Eckrote are all in smiles. Could it be that they received letters from "their guys"—Mel Bookout (Hanover College) and Ron Mosure (Muncie)? I wish they'd calm down a bit and get to work on the decorations for the bandstand.

Well, look who came back in town for the big day—Mike Gilsdorf and Jo Ann Perry. Janis Mitchell and Larry Durnell are certainly overjoyed to see them and look forward to their date to "Serenade in Jade."

Carol Kenner and Lonnie Kimble just brought Dean Traster (N.S. '58) and Carlos Wittmer (Ind. Tech.) into the gym to see how things are progressing. "We're coming right along," says Sharon Ruhl as she and Bob Oechsle, her steady, take a Coke-break.

Kathy Schwalm receives able assistance from Jack Lehman as she puts a few finishing touches on the entrance way. "Ron Marker, get out from under that ladder. Don't you know that's bad luck! And besides, Sharon Hubbel would hate to see anything happen to you now."

Mary Sue Robertson and Bob Mann announce that everyone must hurry; time is running out. Of course, if Mike Simmons and Margo Martindale would get busy, things would go faster.

What are Juniors, Linda Tomson and Sally Dill, doing here? Oh, I see! —They came to help Jeff Clark and Dick Johnson.

Well, at last things are in "ship-shape." Four couples, Cheri Henry and Roger Kerr, Janet Rupp, and Fred Procise, Marijo Edwards and Don Lutz, remain a few minutes after the decorations committee has left to take one last look with Miss Mary Graham, Senior Class Adviser.

At last everyone is off to change from Bermudas to formals. "You've got plenty of time, Joan Littlejohn,—Don Kern doesn't have to take the bobby pins out of your hair for you. It shouldn't take you much over two hours to get ready for the most memorable event of the senior year.

P.S. from PENNY

By Penny Hunt

South Side High School
May 21, 1959

Hi!

Well, sob, I guess that this, sniff, is it. This, boo hoo, is the last, the very last, time, sob, I'll be writing you. This just tears me apart; but it's been a real pleasure wasting your time, and sometimes mine. I don't want to depress you, but do you realize that the school year of 1958-59 is almost completed? Enough sad talk, so now I'll bring you from the depths of depression.

Probably the best way to lift your spirits is to tell you what Margo Dixon did. Desiring to get home right after school, Margo drove the car to school; but she forgot that she had driven. After hiking to her grandmother's, Margo remembered that her mode of transportation was parked clear back at the educational institution.

Hopping on a bike, she peddled back, only to remember that the car keys were now at her grandmother's. Back she went on the bike; then back to school, and finally, much, much later, she arrived home. Some days you just can't win.

Substitution, that's what you call it. A teacher was trying to explain substitution to his Algebra 3 class in vain. Finally he thought of a perfect way to get his point across. Suppose, he said, you were a basketball coach at a crucial game, and you took one player out and put Tom Bolyard in. Then you took Tom out and put the other player back in. What would you have made? "A mistake," pops Bill Harader. Well, so much for that example.

Are you a clock-watcher? Terry Berk has a new way to count the minutes as they fly by during a boring class. He looks at his watch and then turns it over and begins counting "a thousand-one," which is supposed to equal one second. After he has counted about 1800 seconds, a half-hour, he looks at his watch to see how far off his calculations are. There are a few pitfalls to this system. You can't very well listen to a class discussion, and a teacher just may wonder what you're doing. Besides these, it's wonderful.

# # #

After the Quarter-Century Banquet, three Meterites who provided the entertainment decided that they hadn't had enough fun. Marie Rohn, Margie Mercer, and Sharon Carrel, decked in formals, went to Azar's for a little snack. The other customers' eyes slightly popped when the girls entered the room, nor did they cease to pop when the girls ordered pie, cake, etc. I don't suppose they could figure out exactly what the lasses were doing.

# # #

Did everyone notice Edee White's hair at the Junior Prom? She found a new way to fix it. When Nick Arnold arrived, Edee wasn't quite ready, so she ran in and started madly spraying spray-net on her hair. Then, to her surprise, she discovered she was applying foot-spray!

Well, that about wraps it up for this year. Adieu, Adieu, Au revoir, Valete, and all that.

P.S. Have a glorious, stupendous, marvelous, tremendous, etc., etc. summer!!!!!

Watches Have Different Values; Can Be Hindrance Or Helper

Now that most of us have become clock-watchers and are counting the minutes until school lets out, it is wise to take note of one fact: where would we be without watches? We certainly wouldn't be watching clocks.

Aside from clock watching, time and the watch really rule our lives. To some, who can't conform and are constantly getting eighth periods for being late to class, the watch is a menace to society. To others, the watch is the only method of getting places on time and not getting eighth periods. Now that we have asserted the value of the watch, let's find out some more about it.

If you want to find out anything at all about watches, go to an old building on Clinton Street. After going up three flights of rickety stairs and poking your head around the corner, you will see an old man tinkering away on a timepiece with a look of absorbed happiness on his face. This is Pop, and those who know him know that a watch is as safe in his hands as a patient in the hands of a skilled surgeon. To Pop, the watch is an object of art, and every watch that leaves his hands is a masterpiece of beauty and perfection. Pop will welcome you into his workshop and, if he likes you, will explain anything you want to know about watches and their history. If he thinks you're real special, he will show you his collection of rare, old, and beautiful timepieces.

Pop has one watch case that is made of a silver shell. He has another watch which has only one hand and tells quarter hours. He owns exquisitely-carved and painted ladies' watches of the 1600's and diamond-studded watches of the 1800's. Some of the watches are still running and haven't lost a minute in over 50 years.

Although the style now is toward paper thin watches, the original ones were heavy and large. Because of their round shape, and the fact that they were invented by a locksmith who lived in Nurnberg, Germany, the watches were called Nurberg Eggs. The locksmith revolutionized the watches, which had previously been run by weights, by introducing the mainspring. This was in the 1500's. Pop's art is indeed an old one.

Although Switzerland is commonly thought of as the watch center of the world, hand-made watches were first produced in Germany. The craft spread to France, Switzerland, Italy, and England. Now, most watches are produced on the assembly line and very few are made by hand. Pop, being of the old school in making watches, feels that each watch he constructs has an individuality all its own, that can never be put into any other watch.

Thus Pop combines patience, skill, and a sense of beauty in this art.

Roundville Revere

Listen, my children, and you shall hear,
Of the midnight oil of Roundville Revere.
Roundville had brains, the I.Q. tests said,
But coming to grades, his brains could have been dead.

He sat in the classroom, absorbing chalk dust;
But after each class . . . goofing, a must.
He called the English teachers Daddy-O,
And Daddy-O said he'd never seen such a Schmoe.

He used his study hall for engineering,
That's where the paper plane had its beginning.
His planes were magnificent, not one faulty landing,
Every plane, the teacher's nose was fanning.

After school, he needed relaxation,
So he switched on TV to his favorite station,
Popeye, the Sailor, took much of his time.
(The antics of Popeye are simply divine.)

And so the days pass and turn into the night,
Until finals come, and the squeeze gets quite tight;
Now our dear Roundville's beginning to sweat,
But he hasn't flunked . . . at least, not yet.

So we see good old Roundville, in the wee small hours,
Asleep o'er a chapter on old Roman Powers;
Not quite as much fun as Popeye and such,
But to pass those exams, you've gotta know much!

Archer Pupils State Plans For Summer

Have you decided what to do this summer? If not, you're in an obvious minority, because most industrious little Kellys have. If you're the snoopy kind who insist upon knowing everything about everybody, this poll was meant for you, you sneak. Listen now as a few of your fiendish friends answer this question: What are you planning to do this summer?

Ron Marker: Help with crackdown on roaming dogs.

Diane Irmscher: Girgle . . . blub. Swimming pool, here I come!

Annette Plesniak: Excommunicate myself from the fiends I go to school with every day.

Bobbi Jo Ross: Sit around and think of all the fabulous things I could buy with the money I could earn if I wasn't too lazy to go out and get a job.

Sue Pfeiffer: Think up some answers for future Times polls while trying to learn to ski.

Lesley Malone: Work and spend my money.

Terry VanBlaricom: Work and save my money.

Linda Silverman: Hibernate to Siberia and enjoy some more of that wonderful winter weather.

Sharon Ruhl: Work at Indiana Tech.

Sue Hiller: Practice my giggling so I can drive my English teacher out of her head next semester; pester people with polls on ideas for polls I can pester them with next semester; tell the cock-eyed weathermen in this crazy city to go to the South Pole and learn something; and finally go to Washington, D.C., and argue with a few Congressmen about the urgent need for help with the Mau-Mau situation. (I honestly do intend to go to Washington, but for sight-seeing only.)

Marlene Moilanen: I'll never tell.

English Pays!

"But I ain't got no pencil!" Have you ever heard this expression, or worse yet, have you ever spoken it yourself? If you have, you are only one in a million who uses the same kind of language. Although you have been exposed to the correct usage of the English language, you either don't think, or you are too lazy to try to apply it in your everyday life.

Did you ever stop to think that a person gets his first impression of you almost entirely by what you say? There are two extremes in the way a person communicates with his fellow beings. The first is the intellectual who tries to explain the complete theory of evolution to his neighbors while riding the trolley. The second is the meek little soul who has trouble saying the one little word "hello."

Not only is the speaking of the English language important, but also the composition work. If you are trying to enter a college by taking an entrance exam, they judge your I.Q. not only by how correctly you answer the questions, but also by how correctly written the answers are.

The composition work does not only apply to college, it also applies to high school work. As you have probably already noticed, when you start a new semester with a new teacher, the teacher usually has you write out a paper of some sort before the first week is up. This teacher can tell more about your ability and what kind of person you are by reading this one paper than by listening to you recite for a whole year.

If you are the type of person who can give the most beautiful recitation ever heard by human ears, but then if you are asked to write "The boy took the dog for a walk" and you spell dog "dawg" and put a comma after took, brother, you're in trouble.

The best time to bone up on your English is right now. Don't wait until you get into college and then feel sorry for yourself because everyone else seems to be so much smarter than you. Rimambor gode, englsh allwayes paies off in, the longe runn.

Do you know what a chimera is?

Be horrid to everyone and don't be surprised if they're horrid to you.

Read the book for that book report NOW!

12 Teachers To Leave South; 15 New Ones Here In Fall

Miss Rowena Harvey

Mr. A. W. Heine

Mr. E. H. Murch

Mr. Lloyd Whelan

Miss Anita Schaeffer

Mrs. Robert Gernand

Mrs. Ruth Berkes

By Sue Sappenfield

The coming fall will find the South Side teaching staff minus 12 of this year's members. Three of these, Miss Rowena Harvey, Mr. Lloyd Whelan, and Mr. E. H. Murch, were members of the original faculty in 1922.

Others leaving are Miss Susen Peck, Mrs. Ruth Berkes, Mrs. Robert Gernand, Miss Anita Schaeffer, Mr. J. H. McClure, Mr. Bill Geyer, and Mrs. A. W. Heine. Mr. Jack Bobay, industrial arts teacher, who has been working half days here and half days in the vocational education department at the school administration building, probably will work full time there. One of the retiring teachers does not want her name mentioned.

However, next year the faculty will be increased by three, thus making 15 new teachers here.

Miss Harvey, director of publications of South Side and of the city schools, was also adviser of the North Side publications between 1928 and 1942. She received her training at Indiana and Columbia Universities. While at South, she has not only headed The Times, The Totem, and the School Press, but also the 1500 Club, Quill and Scroll, and the Booster Club.

HER MAIN PLANS for the fall are to return to school and train a person to take over her duties. "If it weren't for my arteries, I would like to finish out; but this way I am jumping the gun by four years of being retired by age," said Miss Harvey. She also commented that she enjoyed her work tremendously even though it was a little strenuous at times.

Mr. Whelan, who teaches physical geography, attended Indiana State Teachers College and Purdue and Michigan Universities. For at least 15 years of his 37-year stay at South, he and Miss Hazel Miller were the junior class advisers. The Math-Section also claimed him as sponsor until the Junior Academy of Science came into being; then the club was dropped. Until this year, he was the official timer for all the basketball games and tournaments. He had held this position for over 30 years.

Miss Susen Peck

In leaving, Mr. Whelan says, "I have certainly enjoyed my 37 years of teaching, and I feel fortunate at being at such a fine school for so long." His plans for the future include taking a night course in woodworking and doing some fishing.

* * *

MR. MURCH, a Ball State Teachers College and Columbia University graduate, has taught in the Fort Wayne school system for 41 years. Four of these years were spent at Central High School, and the other 37 here at South. During these years, he has never been absent from school because of illness. Mr. Murch became the first head of the Business Department here in 1930 and was also the school treasurer from 1927 to 1956.

Besides teaching in Archerland, he taught at Indiana University Extension Center for 16 years and may return there and continue as a lecturer in shorthand this fall.

Mr. Murch commented that he has met a fine bunch of people while here, and that he thinks South is by far the best school in the state.

* * *

MISS PECK, who teaches English, came to South in 1928. During her stay here, she has been the sponsor of the Meterite Club, and also has had charge of the gifts for the teachers who are leaving. Before coming here, she taught at James H. Smart Grade School and attended Ball State Teachers College and Indiana, Wisconsin, and Miami Universities.

"I have considered it a great privilege to work with Mr. Null and Mr. Billiard, for both have been excellent heads of the English Department," stated Miss Peck. She went on to say that one of the greatest happenings that she has enjoyed was the two State Championships in basketball.

Her future plans include doing all the things she hasn't had time to do before.

* * *

MRS. BERKES, who came in January of 1958, also teaches English. This last semester she has been an adviser to the junior class. She said that she has thoroughly enjoyed South Side and agrees with Mr. Geyer in that the students will never really appreciate South until they have left.

Mrs. Gernand, who left earlier this spring, taught home economics and was the Vesta Club sponsor. This year she was also a junior class sponsor. She came in the fall of 1958, after attending Purdue University.

This coming fall she will be teaching downtown at the Adult Evening School at Central two evenings a week.

She said that she enjoyed South Side so much and will miss the students, but if everything goes all right she might return later.

* * *

MISS SCHAEFFER, teacher of United States history and citizenship, is leaving South to be married this summer. After her marriage, she will teach in Corning, N.Y. Miss Schaeffer came this last fall after her graduation a year ago from Ball State Teachers College. She has acted as sponsor of the Vesta Club during the absence of Mrs. Gernand this spring.

"I have enjoyed teaching at South Side tremendously and shall take with me many happy memories," she said.

* * *

MR. McCLURE, social studies teacher, is leaving South to go into the insurance business. He has been in it prior to this, but now he will devote all his time to it. While at South, he was head basketball and baseball coach for seven years. During this time, he was also assistant track and football coach. Since 1948, he and Miss Mary Graham have been the senior class advisers.

Assistant Coach Bill Geyer will leave here to again take up the duties as head coach at Elmhurst. While at South, he assisted in all three major sports. He is a South Side and Butler University graduate.

* * *

MR. HEINE, biology teacher, came to South in 1924. He is a Purdue graduate. Since he came to South, he has had charge of the cheerleaders and of the rental book system for about 10 years each.

He has no definite plans after his retirement.

Mr. William Geyer

Mr. J. H. McClure

Meterites Will Picnic At Foster Park Monday

Foster Park will be the scene of the Meterite picnic Monday, June 1, from 5:30 to 7 p.m. Anyone who wishes to come must pay, but the amount is undecided. Kaylene Gebert is in charge of getting the pavilion and Sandy Thorn is arranging the program for the picnic.

Grade Period Ends

End-of-semester grades will be issued on Wednesday, June 3. Graduating seniors will be given their grades on Friday, May 29.

He: "Why do the most important men on the campus always get the prettiest girls?"

She: "Oh, you conceited thing."

Four Students Here Help Rate Films

Every two weeks two out of four students chosen from South Side, Central, North Side, and Elmhurst, go to one of the four downtown theaters to see the feature. They rate the feature as to whether it is for adults or for the family. Once a month they get together with the adult endorsers to give their own personal opinion of the feature.

The South Side juniors chosen by Miss Pauline Van Gorder are Susan Van Fossen, Marilyn Bugg, Jim Jackson, and Steve Bash.

The meetings are held every second Tuesday of the month in the American Room of the YMCA Building. The passes are sent by Mrs. Don Rasley, third vice-president of the Fort Wayne Photoplay Endorsers, to the deans of the schools who have Junior Endorsers. The dean then chooses the four students and issues them the passes.

'Sea Scape' By Peter Katz Adorns Cafeteria Wall

On the west wall of the new cafeteria students will notice a new painting that was selected by Leon Smith of the South Side art department and purchased by the school. This painting is the work of Mr. Peter H. Katz, a famous Austrian painter.

Mr. Katz was inspired to paint this scene, entitled "Sea Scape," while studying the surf on the coasts of Maine and California. Forty hours is the approximate time spent painting this scene two years ago. The painting, pictures surf water gushing through two large rock formations, forming a large spray of fine mist.

Mr. Katz describes his inspiration for his painting by relating. "The ocean is a rhythmic mass of water whose rhythm is accentuated when the movement of the waves meets the steadfastness of land. In my opinion rhythm is the origin and the result of life. It should therefore not be surprising that rhythm rather than structure forms the basic starting point of this painting."

Born in Austria, Mr. Katz is the son of a very famous painter. In order not to have his paintings bought only because of his famous father, Mr. Katz changed his name to Michael Orogo, which is his painting name. He started painting at the age of eight, but became serious in his painting at the age of 22.

Painting is not his only talent and interest, however, his abilities range from the writing of technical manuals to poetry. He concentrates his painting abilities on Cosmic art, landscapes, seascapes, murals, and portraits.

Mr. Katz came to America in 1936; he served in World War II as a bombardier in the air force.

Mary Sue Robertson Wins History Award

Mary Sue Robertson and Mr. Wilburn Wilson, head of the South Side history department, will share in a special merit award on Recognition Day.

The citation comes from WOWO, Fort Wayne radio station, in the form of a special certificate, and eligibility for the final WOWO Heritage Award competition. The project was undertaken by WOWO in an effort to bring about more of an awareness of our historical background and its effect on present day events.

After being chosen as the student who has shown the most interest in history during the past year, Mary Sue was required to write an essay of not more than 150 words on what she personally felt she had gained from the past year's classwork in history. This essay will be entered in the final competition. The winner will receive a large engraved trophy and both student and teacher will be flown to Chicago by TWA for a week-end, to see the historical sights there.

Students from all high schools in Indiana were eligible in this NCA Activities Committee approved contest.

Five Men Play Important Part In Printing Of Times, Totem

By Debby Brooke

This story never would have been printed had it not been for five very important men. Without their help, all the Archer students would never be able to read their Times. However, we do have their help! And we are very grateful for it.

Do you know who these VIP's are? The men in the press room, of course! These men are the ones who work all year round doing such jobs as printing the Times, Intercom, other school papers, and hall passes. Their jobs vary from cutting paper to running presses and setting the type. Due to the great number of school jobs, these men work during the summer as well as during the school months.

ELMER HARKENRIDER, the foreman, has been at South Side for 23 years! He stated that he has been in the printing business for over 40 years. When asked if he enjoyed his work, he enthusiastically said that he didn't regret any of it. He also said he'd do it all over again if presented with the opportunity. Mr. Harkenrider obviously enjoys his work very much, and is very content with his job.

* * *

VERNE IRELAND, linotype operator, has been at South Side since August, 1928, when the School Press began operations. He has been a printer for 39 years. Mr. Ireland is called "Irish" by all his friends. In reply to the question of whether or not he would recommend this vocation to any young boys, he replied that it is entirely up to the boy. If the boy is interested in that type of work, he would probably enjoy his job very much. Irish also said that one needs a good background in English and especially needs to be a good speller. He said that with a knowledge of both these fields, the road to success is less "bumpy." Irish has one daughter and is a proud grandfather.

* * *

JERRY ROMARY has been at South three years. He has been in the printing trade 26 years. Jerry's job is to set type and to operate the linotype. He stated he enjoys his work very much. He feels it is not the best for some people, but for him he is perfectly happy. Jerry has four children. When asked if his job interfered with his family life, he said that fortunately it didn't.

* * *

FRANK REED, the only pressman, has been at South Side one and one-half years. He took a four-year course on his job and has completed his apprenticeship, which is normally six years. He has been a pressman 14 years. Frank is married and has five children. He said that he thoroughly enjoys his work and would recommend it to any young men who are really interested.

* * *

NEXT IS Maurice Forkert. He has been at South Side for two years. His six-year apprenticeship will be completed this July. Maurice is unmarried. However, Maurice is getting married July 11. He said that he enjoys his work very much and that it is a constant challenge.

* * *

DURING THE interview all the men stressed the point that one of the main factors in their jobs was the challenges presented. Mr. Harkenrider said the job was never boring merely because there were always new and different projects to work on. The other men all agreed with this. Mr. Forkert felt that the jobs are educational.

Home Ec Students Give Style Show

"Since the Beginning of Time," the theme of the annual spring style show presented by the Home Economics Department for the PTA, was witnessed by approximately 75 women of the PTA Tuesday, May 12, at 2:30 p.m. in the new cafeteria. Girls taking home economics modeled clothes that they made in class.

The style show was introduced by Ruth Dill, the narrator was Janis Mitchell, pianist was Marcia Evilsizer, the typists for the program were Pat Igney and Kay Krause, and the artist was Marilyn Bugg.

Blouse and skirt combinations were modeled by Nancy Ryan, Bonnie Russel, Susan Harrod, Mary Jane Fawley, April Hapner, Joyce Rothgeb, Jo Ellen Bobay, Sharon Eitman, Judy Evans, Margaret Rogers, Nancy Stauffer, Margaret Dorsett, Diane Gebhart, Diane Simmers, Janet Christenson, Diane Decker, Sarah Finch, Karen Finfrock, Cheryl George, Diana Hess, Susan Johns, Patty McCoy, Erin Rose, Nancy Thayer, and Karen Fine.

Housecoats were modeled by Susan Getty, Linda Vollmer, Betty Ensley, and Sally Gilbert.

Those who modeled dresses were Trudy Baughman, Sharon Brenizer, Sandy Kunkel, Helen Robinson, Margaret Tsuleff, Janice Welborn, Linda Fox, Sheryl Hall, Carolyn Rice, Stephanie Roe, Brenda Lebrecht, Mary Ralston, Phyllis Cozmas, Susan Knox, Sharon Smith, Marge Bauer, Louise Brown, Karen Guy, Becky Hostetler, Sharon Mayer, Susan Parady, Susan Van Fossen, Lucille Wagner, and Judy Weber.

Boy—"Oh, I used to blow the bugle in the Boy Scouts."

There are three kinds of girls: the beautiful, the intelligent, and the majority.

When a boy breaks a date, he usually has to. When a girl breaks a date, she usually has two.

NEW PTA OFFICERS—Planning the PTA program for next year are the newly elected PTA officers. They are left to right: Mrs. Charles Hoffman, president; Mrs. Dean Lockwood, treasurer; Mrs. Jack Terry, first vice-president; Mrs. Charles Springer, secretary; and Mr. Raymond Quance were absent when the picture was taken.

Record-Breaking Crowd Attends Spring Concert

"All soloists and groups performed ably, and I was very proud of them all. I hope every spring concert can be this good," stated Mr. Robert Drummond, instrumental director, concerning the spring concert May 15.

Mr. Lester Hostetler, vocal director, remarked, "The recent spring concert was most highly successful. All sections of the music department performed well, and we had a record crowd." Mr. Hostetler also said that the crowd Friday evening was the largest one attending a spring concert since he starting teaching at South Side. He expressed much appreciation to all the students for making the concert a fine success.

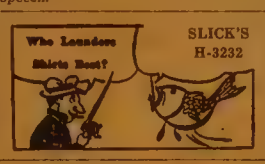
The combined bands began the program with "Serenade to Spring" by Rodgers and Hammerstein. Continuing the program was the advanced chorus singing "Serenade" by Romberg, "Morning" by Speaks, "Song Prayer of Peace" by Seitz, and "Love Look Away," from the "Flower Drum Song" by Rodgers and Hammerstein.

John Richardson presented a French horn solo, "Concerto No. 4 in ■ Flat" by Mozart. A cello solo, "Concerto for Cello in D Minor," was performed by Anne Sherbondy. The third solo was Marylyn Sexton's violin solo, "Concerto for the Violin in D Major, Rondo," by Beethoven.

The occasional chorus next performed "While Strolling Through the Park" by Swift, "You Are Beautiful" from "Flower Drum Song" by Rodgers and Hammerstein, and selections from "Carousel" by Rodgers and Hammerstein.

The orchestra played "Prelude from the Dance of the Apprentices" and the finale from "Die Meistersinger" by Wagner.

The concert choir was next on the program with "Come Thou Holy Spirit" by Tschesnokoff, "Holiday" by Simeone, and songs from "The Music Man" by Meredith Willson. The entire choir sang "Seventy-Six Trombones," "Goodnight My Someone," "Lida Rose" and "Will I Ever Tell You," "Pick-a-Little, Talk-a-Little" and "Goodnight Ladies," and "The Wells Fargo Wagon."



Dave Dunstone, Don Kern, Dave Roderick, Dick Rothberg, and Chuck Jellison composed a boys' quintet which sang "Rock Island" from "The Music Man." Dave Dunstone also sang "Trouble" from the same musical.

Finishing the program was the symphonic band with "Symphonic Suite" by Clifton Williams, "Timpat" by Leist, and "Polka and Fugue" by Weinberger. The second number was a timpani solo by Mickey McClead.

Tennis Team Has Good Year With 5 Wins

McGaw, Meyerholz, Meyer, Haag Top 4; Lead Archer Squad

Under the direction of Mr. Everett Havens, the South Side tennis team for 1959 has weathered the inadequate facilities quite well as they have won five games and lost two so far for a commendable season record.

Led by Dick McGaw, first man for the past three years, the other three of the first four included John Meyerholz, Steve Meyers, and Bob Haag. These first four were ably backed up by Steve Tracey and Dave Bosselmann and Dave Briggs. Larry Chen and Ron Heathman are two promising underclassmen on the squad.

Archers will be looking forward to next season as they are losing only one man of the first four.

In the initial match of the season the Green suffered a 6-1 loss at the hands of the Central Catholic Irish. Meyerholz was the lone Archer winner.

Their second match was more satisfying as they whipped Marion, 5-2. McGaw, Meyers, and Haag were all winners.

Concordia was the next victim of the Archer wrath as the Green crushed them, 6-1, with Dick McGaw being the only loser. Freshman Heathman and Sophomore Chen showed well as they each participated on a winning doubles combination.

In their fourth outing, Havens' boys looked very impressive as they shut out Bluffton.

The Lafayette doubles tournament was next on the list and fared well as the Kellys got two points and brought home a fourth-place ribbon. Dick McGaw and Steve Meyers were the winning duo.

At the Muncie Burris invitational all Archers but Steve Tracey defeated first round opponents, but none advanced beyond the second round.

In two city meets, the Green split by beating North Side and losing to Central Cathlic.

Tennis at South Side still remains a minor sport, and will probably be so for a time to come, partly because of the facilities available and partly because of the low degree of stress placed on the sport in Indiana.

Maybe Mr. Warren Hoover, golf coach, and Mr. Havens should band together and get a grass tennis court with nine holes in it.

GAA Girls Get Class Points

Mrs. Alice Keegan and Miss Helen Pohlmeyer, GAA advisers, have announced the names of girls in their gym and dance classes who will receive 25 GAA points. To get these points, a girl must have no cuts on her physical education record. Service workers also receive these points.

In Mrs. Keegan's Period 1 class, Valerie Callahan will receive points. Sandy Heidbrink and Susan Kuroski earned points in the Period 2 class. Nine girls will receive points in the Period 3 class: Rebecca Collins, Joyce Cossairt, Sharon DeBaillie, Bella Dyson, Michele Flaig, Judy Garrison, Pat Igney, Barbara Markiton, and Barbara Uhl.

Girls who earned 25 points in Period 7 class are Connie Denis, Jane Glass, Ann Hechler, and Cynthia Russell.

Five girls will receive points in Miss Pohlmeyer's Period 1 class. They are Jean Beer, Marcia Marschand, Marjorie Bloom, Shelba Cox, and Melodie Potts.

In the Period 2 class, the girls are Nancy Nichols and Sharon Shuler. Dixie Piercy, Rita Hessert, and Joan Mueller have earned points in the Period 3 class.

Eleven girls will receive 25 points in the Period 4 class: Alberta Bonnell, Jeanette Lynn, Janice Nahrwold, Florence Stevenson, Barbara Driver, Dayna Harader, Marttha Jacobs, Ginny Kachiamenis, Joyce Moore, Karol Wise, and Mary Zimmerman.

Marcia Evilsizer, April Hapner, Pat Igney, Sandra McKee, Joan Mueller, and Sydney Schinbeckler have earned points in the Period 6 class. Also, Alice Bailey, Gretchen Brumm, Jane Ladig, Jane Prill, and Jenny Slater. Tamara Beaty is the only girl from the Period 7 class.

Four Track Managers Served This Season

The obscure but tedious job of being a track manager is seldom, if ever, recognized by anyone. However, without four fellows doing this job, the management of a track team would be a more difficult task.

This year, South's track managers are Ron Taylor, Don Kern, Terry Usher, and Mike Albersmeyer. All four boys have done a commendable job this season in helping to repair the track, carry equipment, and run errands for track coach Bob Gernand.

Senior Ron Taylor said that he has had much enjoyment and pleasure in being able to work with such a fine group of athletes.

Don Kern was on South's cross country team for two years.

Mike Albersmeyer, a senior, has also been on the Archer cross country team for two seasons; and, in addition to his work, he also has added plenty of humor to the track workouts.

Sophomore Terry Usher, when asked about South's chances in the years to come, had this to say: "I think we have a fine track team, and one which will be strong next season because it has so many sophomores and juniors on it. I also believe that the Archer thinlies could do a much better job if more students turned out to watch the meets. These boys are a great bunch of fellows, and they are going all out to bring track prominence to South Side, where it belongs."

Irish Capture First In Meet

Archers Place Ninth In Golf Tournament

City stalwart Central Catholic had a 330 stroke total but managed to capture the 1958 Golf Sectional at the Brookwood par 36-36—72 course last Saturday. The Irish were battled down to the last round by Peru, which fired a 336 for second.

Other schools qualifying for the State Meet this Saturday at Indianapolis were Elkhart with 339 strokes and Anderson Madison Heights with a 341 total.

Central Catholic, which tied with Kokomo for first at the 1959 Sectional at 315, were paced by No. 1 man, Jack Hensler, who fired a 39-41—80 total. He was backed by Eric Vandgrift (41-41—82) and last year's medalist Bill Miller (43-41—84).

It was No. 4 man Terry Kitch's 39 in the last round that assured the Irish of victory. He fired a 45 first round for an 84 card.

Joe Thatcher of Muncie Central was medalist for the day with a 77. Anderson's Martin and Muncie Burris' Huckleberry each carded 78's.

Local squads besides the Irish fared rather poorly. Elmhurst missed a state berth by a stroke, settling for fifth place. South Side tied Anderson for ninth, each taking 351 strokes. Finishing right back was Concordia with a 353 total.

Bing Gilardi led the Archers with a 40-42—82 score. Tom Graham had a 44-44—88 round, while John Biteman tallied 94 on a pair of 47's. Vastly improved Bill Berning had a 45-42—87 total.

Coach Warren Hoover was not at all disappointed with his boys' performanccs. He felt that the Archers were 15 to 20 strokes away from their potential on the whole. "However," he adds, "the bad weather had a hand in the scores."

Sports Schedule Set For 1959-60

South Side athletic fans will have much to look forward to in the coming year. An extra football game and a rugged holiday tournament in basketball will highlight the approaching sports season.

Athletic Director Wayne Scott has announced that the open football date which the Archers had last year has been filled for the coming season by Morton-Hammond. Mr. Scott has also signed to play Goshen next season along with the teams that were on last season's schedule with the exception of Mississinewa.

Mr. Scott has also contracted to play Logansport during the 1959-1960 basketball season in place of New Haven, which has been dropped. The Archers will also journey to what promises to be an exciting tournament at Elkhart, in addition to the eighteen regular season games.

In football, the Archers will host four games, and they will be at home to nine teams in basketball.

New Physical Test Record

The boys' physical education department gives annually a series of physical tests to the boys taking gym. The boys try to do their best because the better the record, the more points received on the test.

Point charts are printed for the lightweight, middleweight, and heavyweight contestants. The most a boy can make on any test is 100 points. Not only do boys try to break one another's record, but also the all-time school record. The tests are quite varied, requiring: skill, strength, speed. Others require a combination of agility, speed, and coordination. Each boy strives to be honored by making the "25" best club.

Included in the top winners this year were three record-breaking performances. Mike Pratt set a new middleweight record in the vertical jump with a big 29-inch effort. Joe Gustin in the lightweight division brought home the record in the squat balance. Tom Wright was the third record breaker in the chin-up with 24 for the second new lightweight record this year.

South's Moses, Roth Qualify For Finals In State Track Meet

Elkhart Wins In Regionals; Archers Ninth

South Side's Entries To Compete In 800-Yard Run, High Hurdles

By Bob King

Three records were shattered in the Fort Wayne Regional last Friday afternoon at Northrop Field as Elkhart's Blue Blazers copped the meet, topping second-place North Side by 7½ points. Defending co-champions South Side and Kokomo had to settle for ninth and tenth places, respectively, qualifying two men each for the State Finals at Indianapolis Arsenal Tech Field this Saturday.

A strong back wind aided record-breakers Dave Osborne of Windfall, Bob Held of Elkhart, and Larry Ruch of Warsaw. Osborne recorded two of the records, a 10-second hundred and a fine 21.6-second 220 in his trial heat. Earlier, Osborne had broken the 100 record of 10.1 in his trial heat after held smashed it in the previous trial. Ruch toppled the 12-4 record established last year by South's Richie Miller. The Warsaw youth soared 12 feet, 11¾ inches, best in the state this season.

SOUTH SDIE'S mile relay couldn't qualify, although three of last year's fourth-place State Finalist team were back for the Green. The relay produced a fine race with Huntington's Vikings nipping North Side at the tape in 3:27.3. South Side had been in second place until North's Mike Poorman overhauled anchor man Tom Bolyard on the back stretch, nearly catching Huntington's Ron Drivelbiss at the finals.

The Kellys did qualify two individuals for the Finals. Joe Roth, who won the 880 in the Sectional, finished in fourth place; and Win Moses, ace hurdler, placed fourth in the high hurdles, recording a very good time of 20.3 seconds.

THE GREEN and White's other four Regional contestants didn't fare quite as well as Roth and Moses. Ed Hartman, senior miler, finished fifth in his specialty, one place back from a state berth. Jim Dawson, sophomore shot-putter, couldn't get past 48½ feet, although he has tossed the 12-pound ball past 50 feet on several previous occasions.

Sophomore Tom Duff, who qualified for both the dashes, lost out in his trial heats of the 100 and 200. Bob Shine, another fine sophomore runner, ran out of steam down the backstretch of the 440 after he had led the pack out of the second curve.

North Side's Jack Hallenbeck was the other double winner of the day, besides Osborne of Windfall. The five-foot, 10-inch Redskin won both hurdle races, skimming over the low sticks in a very respectable 19.8 seconds, one-tenth of a second off the state season best by Larry Manlove of Richmond.

ELKHART NATURALLY qualified the strongest delegation to the finals. The Blue Blazers will take eight individuals and their half-mile relay team to Tech Field. North Side will take six men and their mile relay and Central will carry four performers to Indianapolis Saturday.

Seven Regional bests were recorded in the Fort Wayne Regional, including the four previously mentioned. Dave Hart of Logansport had a fine 2:00.3 half-mile; Steve Hibler kicked in a 4:28.6 mile, followed by Elkhart's Chuck Umbarger in 4:29.8. The other best came in the half-mile relay as Elkhart's foursome nipped Logansport and North Side at the tape in 1:31.2.

CINDER CHATTER—The previous record in the 100 (10.1) was held jointly by four runners including New Haven's Ron Huffer. Osborne's 220 record was only one-tenth of a second off the State Regional record held by Fred McCoy of Indianapolis Tech. Central's Cal Thomas placed second to Hallenzeck in the highs and third in the lows. Another Tiger, Henry "Da Da" King, ran into trouble with a pulled muscle in the mile and had to settle for last place after running the first quarter in 60 seconds.

The big surprise came in the 880 when North's Tom Stanski, a transfer from New Haven, placed second after starting from the outside lane. Two city runners qualified in the 220: Thanell Hollins of Central and North's little Dale Zumbaugh.

An interesting duel prevailed in the broad jump as Elkhart's Ted Jackson, who holds the Indiana all-time broad jump mark of 24 feet, ¼ inch, defeated Kokomo's chunky Chuck Fawcett, who had won the Regional jump in the two previous years.

Both Steve Overton of Kokomo and Bill Croy of Auburn also broke Richie Miller's pole vault record as the two cleared 12-4 for a second-place tie.

The meet was handled very well by North Side officials and the state's best starter and referee was Walter Thurston, father of Kokomo's Roger, of basketball fame.

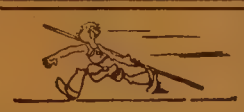
Win Moses

Joe Roth

Joe Roth, Win Moses Will Go To State Meet

Although South Side placed only two boys in the State track meet this Saturday, our school will certainly be well represented by Joe Roth and Win Moses.

Joe Roth qualified fourth in the 880-yard run last Friday in the Regional track meet with a time of 2:02.3. However, he will be able to concentrate fully on the 880 this week, since he had been on South's mile relay team in the Regionals.



Joe actually has been working on the half-mile run only a short time, but he and Coach Bob Gernand felt that Joe was ideally suited for this rugged race; and he should be in peak condition by this Saturday.

WINFIELD MOSES qualified for a state berth in his specialty, the low hurdles. Win captured fourth place with a time of 20.3 in last week's Regional, but he might have placed much better if he had not hit the last hurdle.

Both boys were exceedingly jubilant at winning a "state ticket," and they both appeared determined to go "all out" in their individual races this Saturday at Indianapolis.

S. O. S.

Schmitz On Sports

Late spring is rapidly racing towards early summer and the time for another sports editor to bid farewell has made an abrupt arrival.

Looking back many fond memories of the past season are recalled. One of the South Side varsities most successful seasons in many years will write its last chapter this Saturday when Win Moses and Joe Roth journey to the capital city to compete in the annual State Track Finals.

Roth gained his second trip to the Indianapolis affair by capturing fourth in the 880-yard race. Roth, winner of the event in the Sectionals, fell behind North's Tom Stanski, but still equalled his Sectional winning time.

Win Moses settled for fourth place in the high sticks as he competed against the state's top barrier clipper, Jack Hallenbeck, the winner.

Outside of these two entries there will be little of interest to the Archer fan in the big meet Saturday which appears to be headed back to the Fort Wayne Regional winner. Two years ago North successfully represented the northeastern part of the state and now Elkhart, the team that qualified the largest state team seems on the road to bringing the trophy back this way.

Local fans were convinced of Elkhart's prodigious strength and balance after their appearance last Friday afternoon. To South Side fans who braved the torrents of rain that halted the Archers' initial meet earlier this spring surprise was not dealt after seeing the Blazers capture every event from South and doing so with eminent success.

# #

Following in the wake of, perhaps, the most successful athletic year in the school's history, Kelly athletes were faced with the undesirous task of defending many of the titles captured by South's basketball and track teams of the previous campaign.

# #

Despite the big shoes to fill (in basketball the situation being literal) South's '58-'59 Archers performed well. In both basketball and football the Archers supplied the city with the individual scoring champs. The court cagers did what every local fan said couldn't be done by winning the Sectional and Regional and making a close stab at the Semi-State crown.

South's gridmen hustled through another sub-.500 season, but supplied its fans with some pleasant surprises.

A sensational come-from-behind victory for the grid squad in their second encounter over well-regarded and powerful Indianapolis Shortridge by a 12-6 score opened the varsity's path to many top successes for the school year.

Then with Bill Meyer coming along strong after fully recovering from a hampering knee injury, the Archers, although cellar dwellers in the City Series scramble, came up with the scoring champion in Bill Meyer, who tallied 57 points during the season for a nine point per game average.

# #

By losing the last game of the season the Kellys were thus deprived of recording their first winning season in many. But, although losing four and tying one in eight tries the Archers had a fine season record as far as the statistics are concerned.

# #

Anticipation of the basketball campaign then had Kelly rooters talking about the new team's chances of capturing another city and Sectional title.

Tom Bolyard was the talk of the pre-season discussion and this conversation "item" continued to be the talk throughout the season. "Mr. Basketball" (at least he was to local fans) produced single handedly the highlights of thrills during the team's encounters in '58-'59.

# #

By tallying 40 against New Haven and thus just missing a city single game scoring record early in the season, Bolyard exhibited that he intended to rewrite the record books to the delight of Archer fans.

# #

It's doubtful if any Archer fan can readily forget Bolyard's fabulous play during a most successful season. With 48 points in one game (Bolyard hit over 40 four times, including 48 against Gary Froebel) and 583 points during the regular season, he set new records that should last for several more seasons despite the trend to offensive basketball.

In addition the season helped produce several other memories that will last for years. The hardwood squad reset the school single game scoring mark with 90 against Gary Froebel in the regular campaign and again against Kokomo in a losing cause during the tournament.

Bolyard himself set countless other records on the hardwood while his mates unexpectedly raced through a rugged schedule for a 22-5 final record.

The two running sports didn't have the same consistent achievement as did the cagers or the gridmen; but the Kelly harriers did manage to earn a State berth for the cross country finals last fall with a fourth-place finish in the Sectional.

# #

In the early stages of the season, South's tracksters had plenty to talk about; but by the time Sectionals rolled around for the Archers to defend, South was only talking about Joe Roth and Jim Dawson. All in all it was a fabulous season for the sports editor and staff to keep the South Side fans informed.

# #

Many thrills create an enjoyable year and the staff has truly enjoyed conveying the news to its readers and hopes to continue informing Archer fans next fall with the opening of another season.

State Track Meet Seen As Wide-Open Title Grab

By Jim Carter

The Indiana state track finals, held Saturday at Indianapolis Tech, should prove to be a wide open affair. Defending champion South Bend Central should have its hands full in protecting its title, since the Bears failed to qualify a large contingent in the Regionals.

In 1958, South Side's Archers grabbed third place in the big track show, but they will be hard-pushed to approach that spot this season. Only two Kelly cindermen, Joe Roth and Win Moses, will be present. If each of these boys wins his event, it would still give only 10 points, hardly sufficient for a high finish.

ROTH QUALIFIED by means of his fourth place in the 880 at the Fort Wayne Regional last week, and Moses placed fourth in the 180-yard low hurdles. South's mile relay team will not go to state, since only the two top baton teams make the trip, and the Archers placed third.

Team champions in each of the Regionals were Elkhart, Indianapolis Shortridge, New Albany, and Gary Roosevelt. Elkhart will bring the largest team, eight men and the half-mile relay team. New Albany will have eight, Roosevelt five and both relay teams, and Shortridge five and the 880 relay. Relay teams are very important as point-getters, since their finishes count double points.

OTHER LEADING contenders are defending champion South Bend Central, five men and their mile relay team; Gary Froebel, two and the half-mile relay; Fort Wayne North, six and mile relay; Richmond, three and mile relay; Indianapolis Broad Ripple, seven; Indianapolis Tech, five and the 880 relay; and Mount Vernon, three and the 880-yard relay.

Many of the top performances in the Regionals were posted by individuals from schools with little chance at the team trophy, leaving the field rather open.

TWO OF THE top performers to watch in the 100-yard dash will be Dave Osborne of Windfall, and Bob Held of Elkhart, who both ran 10.0 heats in the Fort Wayne Regional. J. D. Smith of Gary Froebel, who had recorded the fastest time in the state for the century, 9.9 seconds, was not able to qualify because of a pulled leg muscle. Defending state champ Terry White of Hobart should find ample competition on his hands Saturday.

Smith was also favored in the 220, on the strength of his fastest state time in that event. Osborne's 21.6 was the best time in this event, but anything can, and generally does, happen in this event.

Dave Hart of Logansport has run the best half-mile, a fine 2:00.3. One of the best state times in the 880 was held by Concordia's Steve Hibler, but he scratched this event in the Regional to concentrate on his specialty, the mile. He is the leading contender in their department, with a 4:28.6 best time. Chuck Umbarger of Elkhart and several others also bear watching.

JACK HALLENBECK of North Side is favored in both the high and low hurdles, by virtue of his Regional best in the highs, his state regular season bests, and his consistantly fine performances. Ron Snodgrass of Evansville Bosse is also a top high-hurdle prospect, with a 14.9 Regional time.

Leading shot putter in the meet will be George Thomas of South Bend Washington. Fort Wayne area best is Larry Heisler of Etna Green.

The top pole vaulter during the season has consistantly been Larry Ruch of Warsaw with a 12-11¾ best. Other stellar vaulters are Steve Overton of Kokomo and Bill Croy of Auburn.

The broad jump will be hotly contested between Regional champ John Smith of Muncie Central, 22-1; Ted Jackson of Elkhart, 22-¾; and Chuck Fawcett of Kokomo, 21-10¼ last week.

The defending state champ in the high jump, Tom Hutchinson of New Albany, will return; but he has not lived up to expectations this year. The closest contender should be Gerry Williams of Shortridge, with a 6-3¾ best jump.

IN THE RELAYS, which may well decide the champion, it is anybody's guess who will win. The best mile relay clocking in the Regional belongs to Noblesville, 3:26.9. However, the regular season best was held by a fine Gary Roosevelt quartet. Another team to watch is Huntington, 3:27.3 at Fort Wayne, and North Side, 3:27.4.

The half-mile relay best time is held by Elkhart, 1:31.2. Logansport was also close behind in that race. This event too seems wide open.

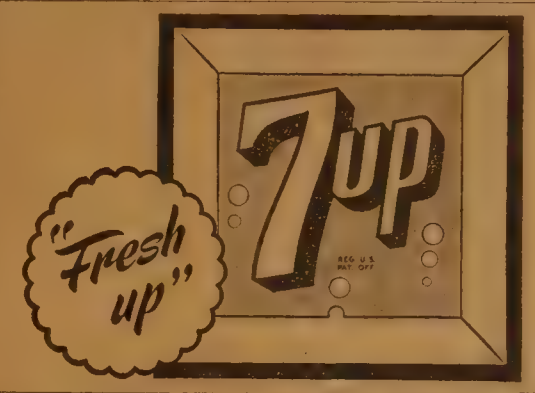
The whole meet is up for grabs this year, and it should be highly interesting to observe who is strong enough to come off with it.

Harriers' Meeting To Be Wednesday

A meeting for all boys interested in competing in varsity cross-country next fall will be conducted next Wednesday, May 27, at 3:30 p.m. at the north end of the gym.

Coach "Porky" Holt will instruct the turnout on what they can do for training during the summer and how to keep in shape. Mr. Holt will plan future events by this organization meeting; so it is important that those expecting to run next semester be there.

Now preparing for his second season as coach, Mr. Holt will lose keyman Ed Hartman, Don Kern, and Mike Albersmeyer through graduation.



Meeting Of Hopefuls In Football Monday

A meeting of all boys who are planning to come out for football will be on Monday, May 25. The meeting will be held in the northeast corner of the gym at 3:30 p.m.

ABC's Of Job Hunting Related For Hopeful Job Applicants

So, the Great Adventure lies before you—finding the right career.

You've left the campus behind you, whether it be permanently or just for a summer job.

You're "in the market now" forearmed with the experience and knowledge gained in school to help you meet the "outside world." Now, no matter how the job begins, you're ready to put your classroom knowledge into actual everyday working practice.

How do you go about finding the right job? Where do you start? What can you offer? Remember, to begin with, finding a job is an experience virtually common to everyone. With proper planning you need not become a "jumping jack" from one job to another. If you know what to expect from prospective employers and how to meet their needs you'll find you can become profitably employed in the field of your true choice and grow in it contributing both to your job and to yourself.

Now, is there an "art" to job-seeking? Most people know more about buying a car or refrigerator than they know about finding a job. Yes, there is a method—it takes systematic and organized effort. And as a newcomer to the ranks of the working folks employers will judge you on certain basic points. According to the Mennen Company, whose men's toiletries help to relate your good grooming to success, they list the following as the Basic ABC steps for the job-seeker to follow:

1. Constructive Attitude: "Sell" yourself. Be confident. Have the right attitude in wanting to make good.
2. Know What You Have to Offer: Analyze what you really like to do best. Study your interests. Be prepared to talk about them during an interview. Knowing, then, that the first product you have to sell is yourself, you must then find the market for yourself.
3. Learn About Field: Based on your interest in a field learn as much about it as possible. Asking family, relatives, older people in business about certain fields, and your vocational guidance counsellor gives you insight into preparing yourself for the needs of the field of your choice.
4. Write Application: It is advisable to write to personnel directors of companies in your area that interest you. State your school record, and previous work record, if any. State your interests and service record in school. Look for relationship between past training or experience and relate to job desired.
5. Getting Started: Sources for job leads can be found in your classified directory, asking family friends about job openings, through your school employment bureau.
6. Arrive Early: First impressions count. Arrive at interview five minutes early. The interviewer will respect your interest. Lateness is a bad strike against you to begin with.
7. Appearance Counts: Be neat, clean, hair combed, fingernails clean, well-pressed clothes, shined shoes, avoid gaudy jewels, makeup, be well-shaved and well-groomed to show a prospective employer that you also have the type of well-groomed mind that makes for success in his company.
8. Advance Planning: Be definite in your answers to interviewer. Sit up straight, feet firmly on the floor. Think before answering a question. Prepare yourself to discuss school, work record, special interests which could contribute to your getting ahead on the job.
9. Prepare Resume: "Sell" interviewer on his need to hire you by showing him past work record. List jobs, dates of jobs, names of employers, kinds of work you did, reason you left. For references, give names and addresses of three reliable people who know you and your work.
10. Be Wise: Be confident, enthusiastic, but don't bluff. Use good English, and speak distinctly. But don't talk too much. Listen carefully. Be polite and tactful. Show interest by asking about the company and its operations. Don't argue with the employer. Don't mention personal problems, home, or money problems. Call interviewer by last, not first name. Don't say, "I'll take anything." Be flexible and willing, but indicate your preferences. Be realistic in discussing wages.
11. Understand Employer's Needs: Be grown,up, businesslike if it seems you won't get the job. Seek employer's advice about other jobs with the firm which may come up.
12. Keep "At It": Having "hurdled" the experience of your first interview you have now learned the ABC's of job hunting. Because you've learned, too, that you may not get the first job you seek keep up your courage, perseverance, and "keep at it." You're bound to connect—and the next interview may very well turn up a better job than the first offered!

Mother Of Three Archer Grads Serves As Prison Superintendent

Mrs. Dorothy Gardner, the mother of three South Side graduates, and a former State Senator, was recently appointed superintendent of the Indiana Women's Prison at Indianapolis by Gov. Harold Handley.

She succeeds Mrs. Georgia Schneider. The appointment became effective immediately.

Mrs. Gardner, who served two terms in the Indiana Senate from Allen County was regarded as "Mrs. Mental Health" among Indiana lawmakers for her work in the state's mental health program. Her interest in mental health began more than 20 years ago when she observed mental patients being jailed in Allen County for lack of other accommodations.

* * *

SINCE THEN, she has fought for better facilities and improved treatment for the mentally ill. She has based her two campaigns for the Indiana Senate on that basis and constantly championed the cause for the mentally ill during her terms as a State Senator.

She became active in Republican politics when she succeeded her late husband, Glenn P. Gardner, who was chief deputy sheriff at the time of his death.

Mrs. Gardner was the second woman in the county to hold the office of Allen County Clerk, to which she was elected in 1938 and re-elected in 1942.

In 1946 Mrs. Gardner ran for the Indiana Senate from Allen County, and was re-elected in 1952. She also sought re-election to the office in 1958, but was defeated. She was the second woman who served in the State Senate.

During her terms of a State Senator, she served on committees on mental health, election, aviation, labor, county and township business, and Soldiers and Sailors Monument. She acted as secretary of all committees and secretary of the Republican caucus.

Mrs. Gardner has been active in the Altrusa Club, Business and Professional Women's Club, American Legion Auxiliary, Daughters of the American Revolution, and the Order of the Eastern Star.
